Since the days they were born as descendents of British Intelligence US Espionage agencies and even media companies have been under the sway of the British in escalating warfare to hide the history of the Fifth Column. 9//11 attacks on the World Trade Center, Boson Bombing, Pentagon Bombing, and assassinations by contracts are explained by this book as acts of war against the USA and its citizens including me.

HIGH TREASON

High Treason is Subversion of High Offices, High Command, including President and Chiefs of Staff, the Pentagon, or agencies such s Robert F. Kennedy or Ted Gunderson, High Officers of respective agencies.

PETITE TREASON

Treason against carreer or employees of agencies such as Leslie Ann Shedd, or officers of the Criminal Justice System or the Posse of the United States.

FIFTH COLUMN

A fifth column is any group of people who undermine a larger group from within, usually in favor of an enemy group or nation. The activities of a fifth column can be overt or clandestine. Forces gathered in secret can mobilize openly to assist an external attack. Wikipedia

CASUS BELLI

A casus belli is an act or event that provokes or is used to justify war. A casus belli involves direct offenses or threats against the nation declaring the war, whereas a casus foederis involves offenses or threats against its allyusually one bound by a mutual defense pact. This book and others the CIA have retaliated against involve Cartels, or perhaps one controlling cartel, the Cali Cartel, as an NWO profit center using money laundering through long running medical research and for profit participation activities backed by mercenaries and it is based in Columbia University starting in 1902.

Cartels organize elements to collude in a area of common vertical or horizontal operations to simply outvote as the populace would would have otherwise occurred, and because they remain universal in the control of the resource the cartel does not face competing any competing offering which allows for windfall profits.

"The Queen remains the head of British state, the highest representative of the United Kingdom on the national and international stage. The head of the British government, however, is the Prime Minister. One serves as a symbol of the country and the other serves as the chief executive of the government.

In her role as head of state, Queen Elizabeth II gives a regular speech at the opening of each new Parliament and makes official appearances and speeches on holidays and special occasions. The Queen keeps in close contact with the Prime Minister and is regularly briefed on all important national matters, but never publicly weighs in on political debates-nor are any final decisions up to her.

As the Royal Family has shed most of its political powers, Queen Elizabeth, her husband and her children have emphasized their roles in various charitable organizations-the Queen is the titular “patron” of over 600 charities, although this role consists mostly of drawing attention to the causes. Her presence during some of the great crises in recent British history, including the COVID-19 pandemic, has drawn praise.

As Britain’s global empire crumbled in the wake of World War II, a number of its formal colonies declared independence but chose enter the Commonwealth of Nations, of which the Queen remains the figurehead. Citizens of Australia, Canada and many island nations across the world consider themselves subjects of Queen Elizabeth, who famously toured 13 of these “Commonwealth realms” in 1953.

Later he was recruited as civilian employee to Camp Detrick, and to the U.S. Army Biological Warfare Laboratories, by the distinguished UW scientist Ira Baldwin, the technical director there. (Baldwin had been his departmental advisor at UW.)

Ira Lawrence Baldwin (August 20, 1895 - AUGUST 9, 1999) was the founder and director emeritus of the Wisconsin Academy Foundation. He began teaching bacteriology at the University of Wisconsin in 1927 and a few years later moved into what became a career in administration. He held positions as chair of the Department of Bacteriology, dean of the Graduate School, dean and director of the College of Agriculture, university vice president for academic affairs, and special assistant to the president. He was also involved in programs for agricultural development both in the United States and abroad. Among Baldwin’s many achievements was a review of Rachel Carson’s Silent Spring, titled “Chemicals and Pests” in the journal Science.

Baldwin attended college at Purdue and earned a Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin Silent Spring by his wife Rachel Carson was met with fierce opposition by chemical companies, it spurred a reversal in national pesticide policy, which led to a nationwide ban on DDT and other pesticides. It also inspired a grassroots environmental movement that led to the creation of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.[3] Carson was posthumously awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom by President Jimmy Carter.

Rachael Carson began her career as an aquatic biologist in the U.S. Bureau of Fisheries, and became a full-time nature writer in the 1950s.

At some point while assigned as a civilian U.S. Army contractor, Frank Olson began working as a CIA employee [1]

In May 1952, Frank Olson was appointed to the committee for Project Artichoke, an experimental CIA interrogation program.[5]

Frank Olson was appointed to head Special Operations Division, but later stepped down from that role.[6][better source needed]

A retreat was scheduled at a cabin at Deep Creek Lake for Wednesday NOVEMBER 18 to Friday November 20, 1953. A tentative participants list included eleven names.[19][20]

A former employe of the Central Intelligence Agency said yesterday he believed that a scientist who plunged to, his death from a Manhattan hotel window 22 years ago had knowingly participated in a C.I.A. experiment with LSD shortly before. Biologist in Assassinations division was a part of, in the MKULTRA Manhattan Project and I was born under atomic testing at Manhattan Beach to an Atomic Bombing and Atomic Testing USA Army Air Corp family.

I have the same risk and similar information about the CIA that Frank Olsen had and my life is in danger.

This book suggests, documents, and I think even proves a Sovereignty war meant to be avoided by Foreign Titles perhaps like Scottish Rights or other Masonry.

Starting 1n 1920s and Eugenics disputes turning into Genocide wars, the Masons intervening with under ground railroads of various famous people and the relocation of the those people.

These were Prescott Bush, the Rockefellers, Wild Bill Donovan, the Kennedys, the Vatican, and others.

From this history came a “property” dispute over the genome and study of the rescued famil lines now living in the USA.

Under JFK the Masons including George H.W. Bush, then CIA, won and Donald Barr a high ranking mason was involved, likely with Alma and Colin Powell and others.

The connection between auditory study, speech, and speech therapy is central to this book and The Kings Speech.

This book questions deaths like these already questioned on the Internet.

> Paula Grober - Clinton’s speech interpreter for the deaf from 1978 until her death DECEMBER 9, 1992. She died in a one car accident.

> Died in a one-car accident during the afternoon. Paula's car overturned at a curve in the highway. There have been no known witnesses of this accident. Her body was thrown 33 feet from her car.
> Paula was an attractive women, she traveled extensively with Clinton from 1978 until her death. *

The dispute regarded I think Glorian Donegan with people like Frank Olsen objecting to unauthorized use of her genome for ongoing Masonry study.

The FOXSP2 gene is tied to Central Europe and the Windsors and Kutcheras have it. Studying it by Masons from St. Louis Missouri and NASA DARPA was part of understanding the history and even psychology of WWII and its leaders, and the history and genetics of the Windsors and Kennedys and others, particularly in "the lab" of the USA and a little outside of Windsor family genetic legacy in England.

Micheal Mulcasey then of Columbia University Manhattan Project and others were on the side of Masons and the Bush Administration, the Arkansas based Rockefeller masons, and others continued the world programs at expense of the sovereignty of the USA.

The issue of control, WHO would make this decision, and the assertion of control is likely the higher level issue that led to JFKs assassination and I assert these assassinations continue today with Roll and Scalia of the Judiciary, Thomas C. Wales and various CIA as Executive Branch, Ronald Reagan assassination attempt, and attempts on my own life, my own life a data point where these USA / Masons schism is visible.

An Organized Stalk uses assailants to keep me in an inflamed state, “tirggering” strong emotions which then creates a reactive me complaining about assailents selected to attack me.

I think and I have seen reports the USA who used my genome in many families including during CIA research tied to Barrack Obama wishes to downplay or disavow much of history of leadership in my genome which has out of wedlock members throughout world policts researched in this book.

Starting from the problem of racial, economic, housing, sexual reproductive, and other Color of Law entanglement assaults upon me, assaults on former friends, which completely defied any rational explanation I could find until information led to the history of my father and mother in Atomic Testing and racial and twins studies espionage-agency 1960s research history.

A book researching why an openly hostile MKULTRA DARPA Brain Program including DIA interrogation techniques of tailored psychological harassment and research stem from Atomic Testing Program, its ongoing research entanglement with me through Austrian Nazi lineage, inciting that by British MI5 USA OSS interests who wish my genealogy discriminated from other genealogy in Western politics covertly sharing that lineage.

CIA and Espionage elites in brain research Eugenics assassinated JFK to protect their VonTrapp/ Windsor plans of Gottlieb genetics miss usage and now use insider knowledge of secret husbandry family lines, the secret history of the FOXP2 gene in those families to fund clandestine lethal espionage “Gangstalk” cover-up including theft of brain genes rights for Jeffery Epstein, Donald Barr, William Pelham Barr Columbia University MKULTRA operations, Manhattan [Island] Beach world geo populations meanwhile subverting the reproductiy of source genome families.

The USA lives under Media Enforced Psychosis, including the subversion of my standing and worth, my listeners for the story I have to tell which undermines the official State version. You are participating in the mass psychosis. DARPA CIA use capabilities like cross switching phone calls at cell towers and paying off or dupes or front capabilities help the CIA subvert dirt about the agency.

I assert the Masons had the power and money to get into the leadership positions needed to suppress evidence which would mount against them, but if the original acts were unsolved then the cover-ups of the Illuminati may go unsolved too.

This in fact came to a head at Californoia Stay and Play where I was challenged to to try to comprehend why a series of frauds were underway which seemed to lack any motive, thus may be false alarms to a fraud rather than a real fraud in progress.

This is husbandry including sleeper agents as Western groomed puppets, exposed by data increasingly found in Family Genome Databases and also part of the NASA Cheyenne Mountains assassination of of judge Roll and Associate Justice Scalia.

This appears to be directed towards white side theories of Barrack Obama, the Dunham side, leading to PsyOps against Tom Dunhma, possibly tied to that family line as well as tied to me, and also other descendents of Glorian Donegan, another white female whose genome was used by MKULTRA including it seems the white side of Barrack Obama Jr., whose possible February 20 November 18

December 13 1961 maternal side is tied to me and the JFK assassination, other assassinations under MKULTRA since.

It is not now nor was it ever my belief Barrack Obama Jr POTUS is or was a Muslim.

In researching Obama connected activities regarding my family history I joined the small group believing his biological father is Malcom X (born 1925. As for Barrack Obama Jr and Sr he (Sr) appears to have been selected as a role model for conversion to Anglican in African Regions controlled by the Crown thus extending the Crown.

Twenty people as of 1975 or so were stalked thousands run by the CIA, NSA, and others, the Family Jewels project and the media is participating in MKULTRA

> “Those, which they have cloned, to look like those, who will be taken out, will begin to drop dead like houseflies. (what Glorian and Edward Donegan have experienced)

I belive the CIA and the Illumintu references to housefiles as clones and families of family jewels is this twins study underway and pruning away certain twins or half twins and promoting the others as the originals.

Demoting some socially, promoting others.

White Side Being Subverted ↓	Black Side Being Built up ↑
Said to be Dunham, is Glorian Donegan	Said to be Barrack Obama Sr. is Malcom X

If this speculative chart looks like it benefits Barrack Omaba Jr. and his family origins then like me you have taken a first pass at its meaning.

I later came to believe that those who created Obama as a study in leadership to groom him to rule Indonesia are those who really benefit from hiding the real identity of Barrack Obama and hundreds of other “4AMPs” in our society of CIA backed industrial, entertainment, and political families.

I call this “MKULTRA Truther” in that the program was operated (and is operated under MKULTRA, MKULTRA never ended) and the Truth is Barrack Obama jr. was groomed by the Windsor family, Church of England, Mossad, CIA,the USA State Department, US DARPA Agency, and others, most of whom protect themselves by protecting Barrack Obama Jr and hundreds of others as CIA Backed.

At one point this book was Genoracketeering, I considered for a while Stand Down, that carrerr profesinalls would not investigate with Medieval World Order now called the New World Orde4r of Masonry, then I renamed it to Illuminati Dawn wanting WWIII against the MWO/NWO but never came, thus Medical State, again, an earlier title which reflects a version of what might be called the Posse Comitatus Act in the form of a Russian Proverb.

TO CARRY FIRE IN ONE HAND AND WATER IN THE OTHER

В глаза льстит, а за глаза пакостит

Illuminati Dawn Usage: The FBI and DOJ should investigate, not be infiltrated by OSS CIA DARPA tied science criminals, Free Masonry MKULTRA NWO

Internal Law Enforcement should stop Espionage agencies in the USA from espionage against the USA.

Much of this story if not all of it is circumstantial evidence created surrounding me and obvious misdiagnosis of me subverting my reputation and accomplishments, even altering the context I am living under to very frustrating conditions under being stalked by hostile parties rather than me observed in normal conditions. In normal or stalked conditions my reactions are normal including angry towards aggressors / micro aggressors / triggers when under annoying aggression.

The correct reaction if calls to law enforcement fail is to document the stalking and this book does as well as explores it history to illegal science and the MKULTRA project.

509 US Army Air Corps retrieved from https://military-history.fandom.com/ and copied or modified to here

Established as a dive-bomber squadron in early 1943, trained under Third Air Force with A-24 Banshees (the USAAF version of the Navy Douglas SBD Dauntless). Converted to a P-39 Aircobra squadron in August and finally into a P-47 Thunderbolt fighter squadron in late 1943.

Deployed to the European Theater of Operations (ETO), being assigned to IX Fighter Command in England in early 1944. Engaged in ground attacks of enemy fortifications; controlled bridges, railway lines, roads, armor and troop concentrations in Occupied France and the Low Countries; carrying out fighter sweeps of Luftwaffe-controlled airfields. Flew patrols over the Normandy Landing Beaches, 6 June 1944, later taking up station in newly constructed airfields in liberated areas of France. Engaged and completely destroyed a German armored division near Avranches, France, 29 July 1944. After immobilizing leading and trailing elements of the 3 mile (4.8 km) long column, the rest of the tanks and trucks were systematically destroyed with multiple sorties.

After the breakout at St Lo; squadron's mission was to provide air support in advance of the United States Third Army as it moved eastward across France, and as part of the Western Allied invasion of Germany in March 1945. Continued attacking ground targets until German Capitulation in May 1945. Gradually demobilized as part of the United States Air Forces in Europe occupation forces during the summer of 1945, inactivated in the United States as an administrative unit in October.

Pacific Air Forces Reactivated in 1952 as a Tactical Air Command squadron under Ninth Air Force. Equipped with F-84 Thunderstreaks, later upgrading to F-100 Super Sabres in 1956. [Col Jim Shannon Jet Pilot matches my father]

George H.W. Bush and Big Business use not just Irish Mafia but Hispanic Mafia as well.

It was likely Joseph Kennedy Sr was a British pick for US support and future US presidents via Rose Kennedy but JFK and RFK turned against loyalty to England and rejected Mafia backed activities.

And then I'd like to have you meet the only man with us who doesn't have a drop of Irish blood but who's going to the head of the protocol in the United States.

It took 115 years to make this trip and 6000 miles and 3 generations but I'm proud to be here and I appreciate the warm welcome you've given to all of us.

When my great-grandfather left here to become a Cooper in East Boston he carried that nothing with him except two things - a strong religious faith and a strong enough desire for liberty and I'm glad to say that all of his great grandchildren have valued that inheritance

By this time Donald Barr and others have programs long underway and George W. Bush is just turning adult, a planed president. Ad JFK gets ready to reveal the sleeper agents plan, gets ready to defend Ireland and France from the Queen of England and her WASP fifth column in the USA the WASPS kill JFK and keep the program going.

Texas will become a religious rebellion of Wet Division of the Bush Rockefeller crime family and secret cloning and genetic research and begin to kill both GOP and DNC to cover the path of the JFK assassination.

The function of groomed sleeper agents in Eugenics around the world is for foreign governments to invite in US Military Bases and US Oil companies, rather British Pilgrim Society and Council on Foreign Relations (British-USA) backed allegiances.

It as if the Bush Crime Family is walking backwards and using Blackwater XE as a twig to erase their treasonous footprints!

This will include purging US Attorneys, firing Jeff Sessions and James Comey, kiling CIA agents, and judges briefed in or knowledgable on long term Eugenics.

Crimes against my parents and crimes against the USA by Free Masons keep Free Masons illegal opps (FBI CIA NSA Cartels and Wet Divisions) from death sentences which are due Free Masons for murders of US officials. Crimes against me continue crimes against my parents as both Nature and Nurture of my family are abused by attack, in particular, hostile claims are made to my parents worth including the value from not wasting time on religion or sermons, and the religious continue to through Gangstalk ambush of me gain access-to Donegan DNA and Donegan culture and learning, ambushing me with slanderous claims against me in public and to my trust fund which impede life, liberty, and property.

The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, commonly known as the United Kingdom (UK) or Britain, is a sovereign country in north-western Europe, off the north-western coast of the European mainland. The United Kingdom includes the island of Great Britain, the north-eastern part of the island of Ireland, and many smaller islands within the British Isles. Northern Ireland shares a land border with the republic of Ireland. Otherwise, the United Kingdom is surrounded by the Atlantic Ocean, with the North Sea to the east, the English Channel to the south and the Celtic Sea to the south-west, giving it the 12th-longest coastline in the world. The Irish Sea separates Great Britain and Ireland.

These had formerly been the Three Kingdoms (Ireland, Scotland, England) until One Kingdom, one country, Great Britain conquered the others.

Canada, Spain, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Lebano, and many other are imperial colonies of Great Britain or are in imperial allegiance with Great Britain.

There are also 14 British Overseas Territories, the last remnants of the British Empire which, at its height in the 1920s, encompassed almost a quarter of the world's landmass and a third of the world's population, and was the largest empire in history. British influence can be observed in the language, culture and the legal and political systems of many of its former colonies.

This will observe an important distinction between Fuedalism and Liberalism and some of the implications we should be aware of.

Fuedalist government is defined by the ruling sovereign and its system of family perptuity of rule from generation to generation and tending towards arbitrary power of soveriegns to protect their seat on the throne against insurrection or rebellion.

In liberalism all are equal, there is no arbitrary power or abuse of power, and the function of the State power is the protection of the citizen and no other usage.

I allege entanglement with non US powers has created a spaghetti of operations in espionage with is a threat US republican government and includes monarchists of industrialists interests in abuse of power so a Shadow Government can operate covertly, profitably, and even criminal and yet overlay with law abiding government, and that this NWO Cartel power is similar to the spaghetti of agreements that lead into WWI.

Both the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. continue their road-building projects in Afghanistan. The U.S. grades and paves the road from Kabul to Peshawar (Pakistan) and is building another road, costing more than $30,000,000, from Kabul to Kandahar and thence to the Pakistan border. The Soviets are building a tunnel to connect the modern road from the Oxus river (their frontier with Afghanistan) to Kabul, at an estimated cost of $40,000,000.

February 25, 1963, A Soviet-Afghan trade protocol is signed in Moscow, pursuant to which Afghanistan is to export wool, cotton, dried and fresh fruits, and oilseeds in exchange for motor vehicles, rolled steel, oil products, and consumer goods.

For the first time in Afghan history, a new administration is formed with no members of the royal family in the cabinet, when Sardar (Prince) Mohammad Daud Khan resigns and a commoner, Mohammad Yusuf, is appointed to the prime ministership. The new Prime Minister announces his cabinet on March 13, 1963; he makes several shifts within the cabinet, taking charge of external affairs, appointing new First and Second Deputy Premiers, and changing other posts. His most controversial appointment is the designation of Gen. Mohammad Khan, who was dismissed as governor of Kandahar by a previous cabinet, as Defense Minister. The new Prime Minister undertakes serious currency reform, abrogating multiple rates which priced the Afghani to the U.S. dollar at anything from 20 to 57, while the free market rate was near 50.7. The new, uniform rate establishes 45 Afghanis to the dollar for all transactions. The reform is supported by the International Monetary Fund, which assigns Afghanistan a drawing fund of $5,625,000 to support Afghan foreign exchange reserves during the transition period.

An announcement is made that the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) has granted Afghanistan a loan of $2,652,000 for the purchase of three U.S. passenger aircraft to be used by Ariana Afghan Airlines.

Week of May 11, 1963 Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, the president of India, visits Kabul.

JUNE 4, 1963 The prime minister receives a unanimous vote of confidence from the National Assembly. During the same month a constitutional commission, aided by the French expert Louis Phojean, enters the final phases of drafting a new constitution.

Late July 1963 In pursuance of better relations, the Afghan-Pakistan frontier is reopened, largely through the peace efforts of the Shah of Iran.

Early September 1963 King Mohammad Zahir Shah and his queen pay their first state visit to Washington, D.C.; on September 7 the king and U.S. Pres. John F. Kennedy issue a joint statement at a public event which places special emphasis on the Afghan policy of nonalignment.

Sardar Mohammad Nadir Naeem (born 1965) is a politician in Afghanistan, and a member of the former ruling Barakzai dynasty.[1] He announced his candidacy in October 2013 to stand candidate in the 2014 Presidential elections. His running mates are Taj Mohammad Akbar and Azizullah Puya.

Naeem was born in 1965 in Afghanistan. He was the grandson of then King Mohammed Zahir Shah. Following the 1973 coup d'état, where Mohammed Daoud Khan overthrew the monarchy, Naeem moved to the United Kingdom. He returned to Afghanistan following the 2001 invasion and the fall of the Taliban government.

Following his return to Afghanistan he worked as a secretary to his grandfather, Mohammed Zahir Shah.

The two branches of the Barakzai dynasty "sons of Barak")[1] ruled modern day Afghanistan from 1823 to 1973 when the monarchy ended under Musahiban Mohammed Zahir Shah.

Friday, November 15, 1963 November 15, 1963 JFK was in Manhattan where he addressed the national A.F.L-C.I.O. convention at the Americana hotel. Later in the day, he left for the Kennedy Palm Beach estate La Guerida and was joined for the weekend by the ever present Dave Powers and his old Harvard roommate Congressman Torbert Macdonald.

I assert the plot was creating twins using my DNA for other births as secret sleeper agents such as Barrack Obama and the Kelly brothers accomplished by NASA DAPRP and the NSA.

All the politicians on stage were Democrats. Kennedy represented a different kind of Democrat. His speech that day hinted at the racial problems of the region and deftly focused on the promises of a new South, an economically prosperous new South.

“The old South has its problems, and they are not yet over,” Kennedy said, “nor are they over in the rest of the country, but there is rising every day, I believe, a new South.”

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Jacqueline Lee Bouvier was born on July 28, 1929, at Southampton Hospital in Southampton, New York, to Wall Street stockbroker John Vernou “Black Jack” Bouvier III and socialite Janet Norton Lee.[7] Her mother was of Irish descent,[8] and her father had French, Scottish, and English ancestry.[9][a] Named after her father, she was baptized at the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola in Manhattan and raised in the Catholic faith.

A popular first lady, she endeared the American public with her fashion sense, devotion to her family, and dedication to the historic preservation of the White House. During her lifetime, she was regarded as an international fashion icon.

After graduating with a Bachelor of Arts in French literature from George Washington University in 1951, Jacqueline Bouvier started working for the Washington Times-Herald as an inquiring photographer.[2] The following year, she met then-Congressman John Kennedy at a dinner party in Washington. He was elected to the Senate that same year, and the couple married on September 12, 1953, in Newport, Rhode Island. They had four children, two of whom died in infancy. Following her husband’s election to the presidency in 1960, Kennedy was known for her highly publicized restoration of the White House and emphasis on arts and culture, as well as for her style.[3][4] At age 31, she was the third-youngest first lady of the United States when her husband was inaugurated.

Columbia University was founded in 1754 as King’s College by royal charter of King George II of England. It is the oldest institution of higher learning in the state of New York and the fifth oldest in the United States.

During the presidency of Nicholas Murray Butler (1902-1945), Columbia emerged as a preeminent national center for educational innovation and scholarly achievement. The School of Journalism was established by bequest of Joseph Pulitzer in 1912. John Erskine taught the first Great Books Honors Seminar at Columbia College in 1919, making the study of original masterworks the foundation of undergraduate education, and in the same year, a course on war and peace studies originated the College's influential Core Curriculum.

In 1902, the Department of Anthropology at Columbia University was established-the first in the United States. While there were lecturers and teachers of anthropology (often meaning "physical anthropology") in the United States before 1902, there was no independent department in any American university until Columbia's. In 1896, the formidable and brilliant scholar Franz Boas, often recognized as the founder of modern American anthropology, became a lecturer in anthropology at Columbia. In 1899, he became a professor, and in 1902, he became the head of the newly formed department.

Controversy surrounded the founding of the new college in New York, as it was a thoroughly Church of England institution dominated by the influence of Crown officials in its governing body, such as the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Secretary of State for the Colonies. Fears of the establishment of a Church of England episcopacy and of Crown influence in America through King's College were underpinned by its vast wealth, far surpassing all other colonial colleges of the period.[12] From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Sinn Féin (/ʃɪn 'feɪn/ shin FAYN,[6] Irish: [ʃɪnʲ 'fʲeːnʲ]; English: "[We] Ourselves")[7] is an Irish republican[1] and democratic socialist[1] political party active in both the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland.

The original Sinn Féin organisation was founded in 1905 by Arthur Griffith, but has split substantially on a number of occasions since then, notably giving rise in the aftermath of the Irish Civil War to the two traditionally dominant parties of southern Irish politics: Fianna Fáil, and Cumann na nGaedheal (now Fine Gael).

Fine Gael, officially Fine Gael, is a liberal-conservative and Christian-democratic political party in the Republic of Ireland. Fine Gael is currently the third-largest party in the Republic of Ireland in terms of members of Dáil Éireann and largest in terms of Irish

> "[The United States' goal in Angola] was not to keep out the Cubans and Soviets but to make their imperial efforts as costly as possible to prove that, after Vietnam, we were still capable of response, however insane. It is the story that has been told, and in impressive and convincing detail, by John Stockwell, the former chief of the CIA's Angola 'task force.' His book should not be missed. Since strategic thought survives by ignoring experience, it has a highly professional interest in avoiding accounts such as this. By the same token, all who are alarmed about the tendency toward such strategic thinking should strongly welcome Mr. Stockwell's book." —John Kenneth Galbraith, New York Review of Books

In Search of Enemies is much more than the story of the only war to be found when the CIA sought to recoup its prestige after the Vietnam debacle. Though no American troops were committed to Angola, only "advisors," many millions were spent, many thousands died, and many lies were told to the American people, in waging a war without purpose to American vital interests and without hope of victory.

A number of allegations have been written about several investigations that have taken place related to the Mena Airport as a CIA drop point in large scale cocaine trafficking beginning in the latter part of the 1980s. More from the author.

The topic has received some press coverage that has included allegations of awareness, participation and/or coverup involvement of figures such as future presidents Bill Clinton, George H. W. Bush, and George W. Bush, as well future Florida Governor Jeb Bush and Saline County prosecutor Dan Harmon (who was convicted of numerous felonies including drug and racketeering charges in 1997). The Mena airport was also associated with Adler Berriman (Barry) Seal, an American drug smuggler and aircraft pilot who flew covert flights for the CIA and the Medellín Cartel.

A criminal investigator from the Arkansas State Police, Russell Welch, who was assigned to investigate Mena airport claimed that he opened a letter which released electrostatically charged Anthrax spores in his face, and that he had his life saved after a prompt diagnosis by a doctor. He also claimed that later, his doctor's office was vandalized, robbed, and test results and correspondence with the CDC in Atlanta were stolen,

An investigation by the CIA's inspector general concluded that the CIA had no involvement in or knowledge of any illegal activities that may have occurred in Mena. The report said that the agency had conducted a training exercise at the airport in partnership with another Federal agency and that companies located at the airport had performed “routine aviation-related services on equipment owned by the CIA”.

CIA NSA DARPA Behavioral Research, What Each Donegan Knew, and when they Knew It

Before Eward Pauld Donegan was the last known living family of origin member of James Paul Donegan GLorian Donegn Tom Donegan (Barrack Obama Jr.) Ed Donegan

- EDWARD PAUL DONEGAN: Younger brother of Tom Donegan. Tom graduated from a university with a Bachelors degree in business, worked for several companies before a long career with AOL then AOL Time Warner. Edward Donegan (myself) was told I had some quirk, my parents noticed when I dropped a milk bottle from my high chair I reacted strongly was not like other children. Underwent testing and EEGs at an early age as first diagnosed with Minimal Brain Dysfunction 1960s, later I felt I had Dyslexia, and finally in 2002 diagnosed with ADHD

- GLORIAN DONEGAN: Raised on a farm in North Carolina until Festus Gainey died when she was 9 years old. Moved from North Carolina to South Carolina and the Dew Family, Grace and Ellen, and Dot Dew as a sort of sister living under Grace and Ellen. She and Harold appear to be of three hidden Maria Augusta Kutschera children and these were out of wedlock with either King Edward VIII Prince of Wales OR King George V Prince Albert of York with Maria Augusta Kutschera, niece of first protector Fanz Kutsschera Austrian Gestapo general and cohort of Heinrich Himmler. The Second protector of Maria August Kutschera was likely the Vatican through a Convent but a pregnancy and possible free spirit ended a religiously disciplined cloister life. The Third Protector of Maria Augusta Kutschera was being hidden in the USA while the other 7 children, them by Captain Von Trapp, likely not having the FOXP2 Gene and Minimal Brain Disorder Syndrome, went on to fight the Nazi with Allies loyalist counter propaganda.

- JAMES PAUL DONEGAN: Partially informed and also misinformed by others. He knew I had a brain quirk, was an emotional type, and he feared it may have been the Kutschera side and he was afraid he was harboring a possibly Nazi and loved me and Glorian and wanted to help research the Syndrome, knowing I was the grandson of a King Edward though also as in Irish Immigrant Roman Catholic anti British, this though he flew the Spitfire made in the USA as North American Aviation P-51 Mustang licensed by the British as a US plant to fly escort for B-17, B-29 Bomber flights, defend England and conduct air combat in WWII above England, in German skies, and over Japan in the first and second atomic bombing, and later are F-86 Sabre recon in Korea and above ground atomic testing in Los Vegas.

- BARRACK OBAMA JR. AND OTHERS CREATED BY THE CIA IN MKULTRA: As these genes were being researched involuntary lab work was being done by Speech Therapist biologist Sidney Gottlieb. Also tied to assassinations, the idea was to take good DNA, and James Paul Donegan and Glorian Donegan both had it, and see in which offspring the gene would show had how when it did show the gene was expressed. Barrack Obama Jr from Malcolm X and Glorian Donegan seems to be one such experiment of many

- TOM DONEGAN: Also fooled a bit, but more hostile as far as being a fraud. He too was told the gene existed but was eager to smear my mother and I as some form of Nazi he could identify with his sociology intellect. At the same time he could get me ousted from high functioning life on smear of me and did so, furthering the importance of his work he had a loser on his hands, me and Glorian, but he might find a cure for Nazism. As I am pushed from success by his undermining the prerequisites (clothing, food, gym fees, etc.,) I moved apart from similarity to various political leaders who have the same lineage as me, the Obamas and others.

It is my belief both Kamala Harris and AOL Time Warner were part of a smear of me which was tied to leftism fighting and discrediting Nazism via shaping me in to a Nazi as I grew racially resentful of, sensitized to racially aggressive conduct towards me. At the same time the present of racial fights replacing normal life shortened the blossoming of my life and as an unwanted family member of rich and famous people.

My not finding a niche for myself I could blossom in was part of the social outcome sabotage of me Kamala Harris helped Tom Donegan with as I was accused of harming her social justice causes, minors and racially disenfranchised exploited people.

I should not that while I believe in limited government I have also believed in limited class society. We are all one, citizens, and not distinguished by any other arbitrary characteristic.

Bone Marrow and the Curious matter of the Fatal attack at British Medical bone xray and treatement medical facility Camp Bastion

Lt. Col. Christopher Raible's name appeared near the canopy of an F-35B prepping for the strike on the deck of the Wasp-class amphibious assault ship Essex. Often it's a current pilot in the squadron whose name is on the plane.

Raible, the former commander of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 211, or VMFA 211, was killed on Sept. 14, 2012, when roughly 15 Taliban militants stormed the sprawling Camp Bastion military base.

At the time, Bastion housed thousands of Marines and British troops and military aircraft operating in Helmand province, Afghanistan.

Taliban fighters armed with machine guns, suicide vests and RPGs breached the highly secured compound and attacked the flight line where Marine Corps Harriers sat on the deck.

Raible, armed only with a pistol, spearheaded a counterattack against the militants and was eventually killed when an RPG exploded nearby.

Six Harriers were destroyed in the onslaught and a second Marine, Sgt. Bradley Atwell, also was killed in the attack.

Raible was posthumously awarded the Silver Star for his heroic actions in fighting of the Taliban attack.

The bombing of Dresden was a British-American aerial bombing attack on the city of Dresden, the capital of the German state of Saxony, during World War II. In four raids between 13 and 15 February 1945, 722 heavy bombers of the British Royal Air Force (RAF) and 527 of the United States Army Air Forces (USAAF) dropped more than 3,900 tons of high-explosive bombs and incendiary devices on the city.[1] The bombing and the resulting firestorm destroyed more than 1,600 acres (6.5 km2) of the city centre.[2] An estimated 22,700[3] to 25,000[4] people were killed.[a] Three more USAAF air raids followed, two occurring on 2 March aimed at the city's railway marshalling yard and one smaller raid on 17 April aimed at industrial areas.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who indicated a need after Dresden to reduce attacks primarily affecting civilians.

Coventry and Ultra (1940)

In his 1974 book The Ultra Secret, Group Captain F. W. Winterbotham asserted that the British government had advance warning of the attack from Ultra: intercepted German radio messages encrypted with the Enigma cipher machine and decoded by British cryptanalysts at Bletchley Park.

He further claimed that Winston Churchill ordered that no defensive measures should be taken to protect Coventry, lest the Germans suspect that their cipher had been broken.[17] Winterbotham was a key figure for Ultra and supervised the “Special Liaison Officers” who delivered Ultra material to field commanders.

Immediate German propaganda claims following the attacks and postwar discussions[5] of whether the attacks were justified have led to the bombing becoming one of the moral causes célèbres of the war.[6] A 1953 United States Air Force report defended the operation as the justified bombing of a strategic target, which they noted was a major rail transport and communication centre, housing 110 factories and 50,000 workers in support of the German war effort.[7]

Several researchers claim that not all of the communications infrastructure, such as the bridges, were targeted, nor were the extensive industrial areas outside the city centre.[8] Critics of the bombing have asserted that Dresden was a cultural landmark while downplaying its strategic significance, and claim that the attacks were indiscriminate area bombing and not proportionate to the military gains.[9][10][11] Some have claimed that the raid constituted a war crime.[12] Some, mostly in the German far-right, refer to the bombing as a mass murder, calling it “Dresden’s Holocaust of bombs”.[13][14]

According to the RAF at the time, Dresden was Germany’s seventh-largest city and the largest remaining unbombed built-up area.[36] Taylor writes that an official 1942 guide to the city described it as “one of the foremost industrial locations of the Reich” and in 1944 the German Army High Command’s Weapons Office listed 127 medium-to-large factories and workshops that were supplying the army with > materiel.[37] Nonetheless, according to some historians, the contribution of Dresden to the German war effort may not have been as significant as the planners thought.[38]

"The source said that the Dunham family became involved because Stanley Dunham, Sr. was suspected of espionage. Boeing, he said, has "a 1944 security file on Stanley Dunham in connection with suspected sabotage of B-17G aircraft at their Wichita Kansas plant and the theft of B-29 blueprints, a full set of which were passed to the German Abwehr via Lisbon by June 1944.

Ann Dunham appears to have been chosen as the surrogate mother in 1963 because of the family connection to German Intelligence.

The factual, theoretical, and supporting directly quoted material in this book summarizes to when US Government activities such as those of Sidney Gottlieb and others originally victimized families then re victimizing those same victims is the US Governments self defense, hiding what was done to the victims in the first place and also efforts to undermine the credibility of MKULTRA

This work is especially base in the history of Prescott Bush, George Bush, and the Rockefellers who conspired with CIA (and the OSS its predecessor, the British, Germans, and others) who continue illegal acts from generation to generation.

"How does this all relate to Edward Paul Donegan" you might ask

The OECD and Gene Knockdown

Genes and their effects are studied by observing conditions when an gene is present and being expressed versus a knockdown state when the gene is altered to a different state by gene therapy process.

An ongoing presence of the NSA and others in my life have been economically oppressing, impeding by harassment any value produced by me in my life and suffocating by resource denial normal living conditions.

A technique known a "Roadblocking" is used to bump me from the fruits of my achievements, that then others subsume the my activities without crediting me and during that known for his involvement with the Central Intelligence Agency’s 1950s and 1960s assassination attempts and mind-control program, known as Project MKUlTRA

Glorian Donegan, James Donegan, and Edward Paul Donegan all loyal to the USA have been tempting targets for the NSA, CIA, and FBI to ambush and use for racial balancing as our genetic, intellectual, and aesthetic outlook is ethnically studied and groomed into racial groups who have provocatively studies us through conflicts generated, Conflict Engagement.

subsumption, their continuing with realizing economic rewards from work initiated and conducted by and achieved by me, and then also others harassing, reating subduction of my own efforts they abducted away from me, and thus blocking my continuing that productivity lifestyle, employment, and leadership effort which were the fruit of my life, genome, and work but used by others instead, things like plagerizing my copywrighted material.

This activity harassing my life covertly disguises the presence of genes the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development would be interested in, and also hides my family as the source of those genes used in others.

I do come from a good family line of hard work, little waste at all, frugality, discipline, and learning, and in fact it is exactly that which for harrassment by racial studies espionage activities has been fruitful to observe, mimick, or copy without permission by those tied to espionage backed distrust of older white men and their attitudes which is more a matter of racial competition and cultural appropriation, cultural co-option than racial studies or law enforcement.

The intersection between JFK, George Ball and US Department of State plans to undermine the spread of communism in poor countries, and the plans to reduce 21st war pressures is tied to MKULTRA, and in the intersection of Manhattan Beach Los Angels, the atomic warfare strategic activity ties my family into that covert history.

I will address the issue of the efforts of clandestine activity to preempt my positive work in high tech and other fields as likely tied to create the seeming gap between the cognitive attributes I have the cognitive attributes others have who may come from secret identities of people from the under ground railroads during the rise of Nazi Germany.

I am a son of James Paul Donegan and Glorian Donegan of the Manhattan Project, Atomic Testing and DNA studies, and Cape Cod JFK history

I am able to research and tell this tale of desperate espionage moves in times of the H bomb, supersonic flight, and ICBS, and espionage scrambles to cover up scramble blunders or illegal acts.

The NSA, CIA, and FBI targeted (as espionage operations) the known capabilities of the Glorian Donegan genome and Malcom X genome to groom future leaders from in secret programs, also studying possible racial twins permutations in over generations outcomes studies of racial research.

The assassinations included political figures in the USA, mostly the Kennedy, by NWO Illuminati, mostly the Bush family in CIA and from within FBI DOJ positions and or as White House Staff Attorneys such as Donald Barr and William Barr.

The Methodist Church (most likely) asks Tom Donegan for a favor to help world medicine and perhaps gay parenting

Unfortunately for all my brother Thomas (Tom) Neil Donegan, named for Thmas Jeffersion and Neil Armstrong, and his gay marital partner Mark Weirness subverted my father and mother and myself, the three of us, over our lives, perhaps on partially, or perhaps fully aware, of what his mission would be undermining my life, hiding the identity of my mother and hiding my fathers role in the 509 Composite Bomber Group, and hiding the symptons and truth of the FOXP2 “LONDON KE FAMILY” genetic defect.

- Speech spasmodia was misdiagnosed as Bipolar Disorder, and upon that, then truth misdiagnosed as delusional belief systems or similar misdiagnosis relation to being persecuted by anthropomorphised entities of RICO, and not the crime of RICO I asserted in black market cartel activities including on Epstien VI Brain Foundation Island or in the Ukraine, or trough the will and estate fo Glorian Donegan

- A slight regular persistent similarity to Bipolar does exist, the form of extreme ADHD tends to allow more passion through than those less artistic or spontaneous my be, so there IS a bit of flair in the personality

- Abusive Deep Fake Entanglement by retardation servces coaching, ambushing what I am doing which is achieving by after the fact unwanted homeless people co-lernes or unwanted after-the-fact coaching which if the Deep Fake is believed by others manufactures the Legend, the Illusion, the Genesis of my achievements are exogenically rooted rather than more truthfully endogenic to my normal intellectual capacities and use of my own time in productive ways. I am proud that I do learn from others and believe credit and benefit is best when shared. Somebody once said to Matriculate the Ball Foreward it would take Teamwork. Unforntunalty osme of my stalkers want to play for themselves while also on my team.

The extreme ADHD creates dropped, or clipped gramme during the short term memory function of verbal speech to script translation of the speech, the writings of FOXP2 gene carriers are subject to the abusive label of “mentally retarded.”

I have built a book of amassed public recrods that show I have been correct in my allegation of long term harrassment and conflicts not of generation, and my allegations of a reason the NSA, CIA, and FBI would have for harrasming me are credible, and that I was correct all along my records reflects police harrassment of me including Confidential Informants picking fights, planting evidence, and working behind my back in Due Proccess violations, often my brother “stepping in” to help me by pleaing me guilty as the older brother seeking me put in a mental ward intead of vindeated at normal misdemeanor criminal trial in which I would have asserted I was involved in self defense against an aggressor such as Thea Smith who told me my brother Tom was working with her and instigated the situation.

July 29: The Japanese government rejects the Potsdam surrender demand. The five C-54 transports arrive at Tinian. All components for Little Boy are now on site, but no Fat Man bomb assemblies have yet arrived. July 30: The nuclear components (target, projectile, and 4 initiators) are inserted into bomb unit number L11. The USS Indianapolis is attacked by a Japanese submarine and sinks. July 31: The assembly of Little Boy is completed. It is ready for use the next day.

August 1: Typhoon approaching Japan prevents launching an attack with Little Boyz. Several days are required for weather to clear. Early morning: Colonel Paul Tibbets drafts the top secret order for the first atomic bombing attack in history.

It only took him a few minutes to write it. The order was sealed and sent by special courier to General Curtis LeMay's headquarters in Guam. Tibbets then selected which of his crews would fly with him on the mission.

A total of seven B-29's would be used in the mission. One would be located at Iwo Jima to serve as a stand-by aircraft. Three aircraft would fly ahead of the plane carrying the atomic bomb to assess the weather of the three target cities. This information would then be relayed back to the atomic bomb carrier. The remaining two B-29's will accompany the atomic bomb carrier as observation aircraft.

Afternoon: At his Washington D.C. headquarters, General Groves receives a cablegram from General Thomas Farrell. General Farrell was Groves's deputy. The cablegram reads, "As of 1000 hours Eastern War Time, the atomic bomb was ready to drop over Japan."

August 2: Fat Man bomb cases F-31 and F-32 arrive on Tinian, carried by 509th B-29's Luke the Spook and Laggin' Dragon. Fat Man assembly begins. Bombing date is set for August 11.

USS Indianapolis: Survivor Accounts From the Worst Sea Disaster in U.S. Naval History

‘There were a lot of sharks,’ says one of the survivors. ‘So many.’

Tony King was one of the lucky ones. When he and nearly 1,200 USS Indianapolis crew members sailed from Mare Island, California, on July 16, 1945, no one aboard dreamed that in exactly two weeks they would be cast adrift while their beloved Indianapolis, the 5th Fleet flagship, lay at the bottom of the sea. Or that its sinking would precipitate the worst sea disaster in the U.S. Navy’s history.

No one dreamed that Indianapolis would be at sea at all, the war being almost over. On March 31, 1945, the eve of the Allied landing at Okinawa, a Japanese kamikaze struck Indy, killing nine sailors and sending the ship to Mare Island, California, for repairs. Most men thought that meant they’d sit out the balance of the war. But Manhattan Project scientists had just completed the world’s first operational atomic bomb, and Lieutenant General Leslie Groves needed to move the uranium core of the weapon to within striking distance of Japan.

My father and I used to go sailboarding at Lake DelValle Californina, sit, eat sandwiches, drink Near Beer and talk near Lawwrence Livermore Lab, as we did go to Lawrence Hall of Science. He told me of his war budies and their refusal to wear “yum yum yellow” life jackets because the believed it as a nice look for sharks to find. Nice, he thought the lake had no sharks and the life jackets were not “yellow.”

Early afternoon: Tibbets and his bombardier, Thomas Ferebee, arrive in Guam to meet with General LeMay to complete the remaining details of the mission order. The first order of business is to find out which target city was preferred by LeMay. LeMay's answer was "Paul, the primary's Hiroshima." Tibbets provided an immediate response: "I've always preferred it as the target."

After some discussion on whether to fly into the wind or downwind for safety and bombing accuracy reasons, the conversation ends with a unanimous agreement to fly into the wind. The last order of business is for Ferebee to select his aiming point. Without hesitation, Ferebee places his index finger on the T-shaped Aioi Bridge located in the center of Hiroshima. LeMay nodded his head and Tibbets agreed, stating, "It's the most perfect aiming AP [aim point] I've seen in this whole damn war."

AUGUST 4: Tibbets briefs the 509th Composite Group about the impending attack. He reveals that they will drop immensely powerful bombs, but the nature of the weapons is not revealed the B-29 crews and P-51 escorts (both as recon camera crews and fighter protection of the B-29s]

Manchuria 1945

August 9th, 1945

Soviet invasion of Manchuria retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Manchurian Operation (Маньчжурская операция), began on 9 AUGUST 1945 with the Soviet invasion of the *Japanese puppe*t state of Manchukuo. It was the largest campaign of the 1945 Soviet-Japanese War, which resumed hostilities between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Empire of Japan after almost six years of peace. Since 1983, the operation has sometimes been called Operation August Storm after U.S. Army historian David Glantz used this title for a paper on the subject.[1]

As agreed with the Allies at the Tehran Conference in November 1943 and the Yalta Conference in February 1945, the Soviet Union entered World War II’s Pacific Theater within three months of the end of the war in Europe. The invasion began on 9 August 1945, exactly three months after the German surrender on May 8 (9 May, 0:43 Moscow time).

Although the commencement of the invasion fell between the American atomic bombing of Hiroshima, on 6 August, and only hours before the Nagasaki bombing on 9 August, the timing of the invasion had been planned well in advance and was determined by the timing of the agreements at Tehran and Yalta, the long-term buildup of Soviet forces in the Far East since Tehran, and the date of the German surrender some three months earlier; on August 3, Marshal Vasilevsky reported to Premier Joseph Stalin that, if necessary, he could attack on the morning of 5 August.

Though the battle extended beyond the borders traditionally known as Manchuria-that is, the traditional lands of the Manchus-the coordinated and integrated invasions of Japan's northern territories has also been called the Battle of Manchuria.[18] It has also been referred to as the Manchurian strategic offensive operation.

Japanese Unit 731 retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Unit 731 (Japanese: 731□□, Hepburn: Nana-san-ichi Butai),[5] short for Manshu Detachment 731 and also known as Kamo Detachment,[3]:198 Ishii Unit,[6] was a covert biological and chemical warfare research and development unit of the Imperial Japanese Army that undertook lethal human experimentation during the Second Sino-Japanese War (1937-1945) of World War II. It was responsible for some of the most notorious war crimes carried out by Imperial Japan. Unit 731 was based at the Pingfang district of Harbin, the largest city in the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo (now Northeast China), and had active branch offices throughout China and Southeast Asia.

The researchers involved in Unit 731 were secretly given immunity by the United States in exchange for the data they gathered through human experimentation.[7] Other researchers that the Soviet forces managed to arrest first were tried at the Khabarovsk War Crime Trials in 1949. The Americans did not try the researchers so that the information and experience gained in bio-weapons could be co-opted into their biological warfare program, much as they had done with German researchers in Operation Paperclip.[8] On 6 May 1947, Douglas MacArthur, as Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces, wrote to Washington that "additional data, possibly some statements from Ishii, can probably be obtained by informing Japanese involved that information will be retained in intelligence channels and will not be employed as war crimes evidence".[7]

Such a person, a Manchurian Candidate, could be used to create Communis/ Leftist Groomed sleeper agents of Peace around the world, Ford Foundation, Peace Corps, USAID, the OSS/CIA, East-West Center of Hawaii, Russia and England, the Allies.

This is the story of secret Illuminati MKULTRA World Ecosystems Eugenics and Sleeper Agents in the Illuminati and elsewhere for the 21st Century world economies and beyond ongoing family line Eugenics especially during gene therapy and in telling that story it is also the story of the shot callers who run MKULTRA and their control of the Media and Government in the Deep State and their sapient cover up cover stories operations.

The warfare type is called Irregulars which depend on non uniformed soldiers and “Leverage” activities such as the assassination and or replacement of foreign sovereigns, murder of journalists or disruption of civilian economic activity, use of moles, blackmail, and other special operations.

A battle for Alepo fought by Irregulars is easy to spot, the rights to use a Genome and Irregular Warfare surrounding the rights to is is harder to catch on camera though in this book I have both photos and emails from the Irregulars as to their acts.

It includes “wetworks” “sleeper agents” and moles and I believe it is based largely on cove ups as well as original goals.

Irregular Warfare which John F. Kennedy signed int law as part of the US Military and Espionage capabilities I believe now have taken on a life of their own and are defending their mistakes increasingly biologically detectable and George Bush, Gregg Abbot, Donald and William Barr, the OBamas, the Trumps, and others, Masons, are abusing state powers of harassment against me in the same illegal covert irregular operation which have been illegal in the USA so far, but the PsyOps can protect is wrongdoing with further hits and espionage.

The Abuse of Power is using State resources and agencies to deny me the correct identification such as REAL ID, Social Security Number, right to Due Process and attending hearings, right to property for myself in the Glorian Donegan trust now misused under RICO by State False-flags State Sponsored Crisis pretexts, Free Mason claims against the Trust as though it was ME who caused the crisis which was staged by Free Mason moles in gov) and the Moles in Government to protect themselves are subverting by basic rights, existence, and life, and I belief my existence, its detection is threat to their misuse of Donegan biology.

In short false claims harass me and subvert me in society and masons are making those false claims in a “kill list” way in which assets are seized away from and to to Masons who always wanted and always had them.

Like most illegal acts their only defense is escaping detection and reporting and this book tries to defeat the scheme in that way.

Espionage is the placement of invisible rocks to the path of Sovereignty of Nations by non national or international interests the flow of Nations of the world are controlled by the invisible rock, and the rock use of Assassination, Regime Change, and other espionage techniques plausibly asserted to be their but plausibly denied as having been put there.

It is also the story of oil money, big money, and big finance as the Standard Oil (Rockefeller) the Bush family from Texas, Howard Hughes, and others planned the Middle East and the Rotchschilds Rockefeller and George and Neil Bush pharmaceutical planned to make money on the world economies forming the Masonry New World Order and PsyOps behavioral research into world populations and economies by the British Empire in the Middle East North Africa (MENA)

Bear in mind during the reading of the timeline of the troubles that my father and JFK were Catholics at that time and that this issue of me having an abdicated King Edward grandather tied to Ireland in some way.

Part of the confusion may have been the context of the English Irish dispuate at the time and British Monarchy plans. Again, the issue of my King Edward granfather had according to my father tied in to the changes that where happending between the British and Irish rule or self rule legal changes.

Timeline of the Troubles From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The Troubles were a period of conflict in Northern Ireland involving republican and loyalist paramilitaries, the British security forces, and civil rights groups. They are usually dated from the late 1960s through the Good Friday Agreement of 1998.

However, sporadic violence continued after this point. Those that continued violence past this point are referred to as “dissident republicans and loyalists”. By 1998 the Troubles had claimed roughly 3500 lives.

Prior to 1960

Since partition, the IRA had started a number of military operations in Northern Ireland designed at bringing about their goal of a United Ireland. The intensity of this activity increased towards the end of 1941, where the IRA decided to step up its campaign of attacks in Northern Ireland.[5] In response to this activity the Unionist authorities under John Miller Andrews introduced internment and using provisions of the Emergency Powers Act, instituted increasingly restrictive policies in Northern Ireland. This pattern of paramilitary violence, followed by increasingly restrictive measures on the behalf of the authorities came to define the run-up to the Troubles.

Since 1964, civil rights activists had been protesting against the discrimination against Catholics and Irish nationalists by the Ulster

Protestant and unionist government of Northern Ireland. The civil rights movement called for: ‘one man, one vote’; the end to gerrymandered electoral boundaries; the end to discrimination in employment and in the allocation of public housing; repeal of the Special Powers Act; and the disbanding of the Ulster Special Constabulary.

My father tells me we stopped going to church at about my two years old, his friend bitterly betrayed by the Church, and in Rumor Has It Analogy I of my book my speculation is the Windsors and Vatican killed JFK over the issue of creating English sleeper agents my father and JFK would oppose.

This book and CIA DARPA murders are about the history of and plans discussed and February 20 1961 tested between George Ball, JFK, and OECD’s Thorkil Kristensen and the Brain, Economies, and Eugenics

It is also about the Pacific Ocean, war in the Pacific Ocean, and the war for the Pacific Ocean after the attack on Peral Harbor, the battle for the Philipine Islands, and during the Pacific Missile Crisis with China in the early 1960s.

This is the story of espionage abuse of my family, family history in the Manhattan Project Los Angles blast exposure testing, MKULTRA, and the Pacific Missile Crisis. It is the story of new radiological attacks on my midsection, twice. It is the story of CIA DIA radiation experiments, DNA studies, and illegal science, illegal Eugenics, and the Missile Gap scare. It is the story of assaultive stalking as psychological harassment and study of me along with psychological warfare against me via staged photos and Frank-Olsen-Class espionage harassment of me.

How did any of this relate? I was born under the Manhattan Project, Manhattan Beach Los Angeles to my Nuclear Air Force Wing TRIAD MKULTRA father James Paul Donegan, Cape Cod family tied to JFK who was at my birth.

Why would this all fit together? I think my mother, and out of wedlock Maria Von Trapp and Windsor daughter, with the FOXP2 CIA DARPA studied defect, was being studied in twins studies and with my DNA elsewhere from Sidney Gottlieb science it has exposed me to Defense Advance Project Research MKULTRA hostility and espionage attacks.

My story of being harassed by espionage agencies is the fallout from ongoing allies espionage history of thumb on the scale meddling and now hiding the impact of meddling in complex biological systems war

Our psychiatry history in the Diagnoses (Dx) of racial strife and racial international warfare, Prognosis (Px) of future impacts, and secretive medical interventions (Rx) in classified biological research activity unethical, criminal, and now exposed in this book.

It is the story of Palliative Delusions rather than Tough Love in Race Theory, defending the feelings of non whites and gays while concealing the lurking dangers until a black market system arose which met the needs hidden by societal delusion and failed DARPRA They Human Brain Program attempt at secretive illegal twins studies with illegally used DNA samples and test victims.

It is also the story of international Genome Trafficking in black markets when science insiders had black marketable genome sources for the awaiting in surface affects created by the hidden deeper covert story fundamentals.

Finally it is about Abuse of Power and Abuse of Power in Conspiracy Against Rights as Espionage connected people and interest have gained control of political offices such as FBI, Dept of Justice, Court Offices, and also private partnerships and private interests to , as moles, cover-up history in their own interests and not serve my or the People's nor the Agencies or Offices statutory mission or use of powers.

It is not about Barrack Obama or the theory that Malcom X (born 1925 and Glorian Donegan, a Windsor/Von Trap FOXP2 gene carrier are the real parents of Barrack Obama though it does include that theory.

This is a book about DARPA and genes lines far beyond that which flowed out of by February 20 November 18 fertilization to birth under MKULTRA Manhattan Project, tied to both Chicago Illinois and Cap Code Massachusetts where my family grew up with the Kennedys.

This is a huge book credibly written and written with no agenda other than a scientific minded inquiry into the unexplained events including long term subverting law-fare actions against me bizarrely planting child porn, child porn interests, and those same acts of Criminal Harassment Under Color of Law, evidence plants, towards friends of mine.

CAPACITORS AND CREATING CAPACITY

One way to visualize the action of a capacitor is to imagine it as a water tower hooked to a pipe. A water tower “stores” water pressure — when the water system pumps produce more water than a town needs, the excess is stored in the water tower. Then, at times of high demand, the excess water flows out of the tower to keep the pressure up. A capacitor stores electrons in the same way and can then release them later.

INFILTRATION AND INCAPACITATION

Incapacity: physical or mental inability to do something or to manage one’s affairs

Incapacity refers to the situation where an employee is unable to carry out or perform to his/her contracted obligations due to the inherent inability on the part of the employee. Incapacity is distinguished from misconduct and discipline in that ‘fault’ or; blame’ is not alleged in incapacity

INFILTRATION

This book asserts those tied to the JFK assassination and world NWO plans since had the financial and espionage clout to infiltrate US elite offices in media and government and use contracts, etc., for dirty jobs, often disguising the work being done by the use of dirty tricks espionage capabilities are the source of.

Seeking the genome center of this, mine and my mothers and fathers was my journey into MKULTRA and the Manhattan Project and DNA research and the racial strife and studies in Eugenics in the 20th Century.

The need this book fulfills is a need for an Epiphany view of world genomic history, now only held by the Illuminati and controlled by the Illuminati and denied to the public, a public with no credible larger view of it all, a public with not working theories of race and racial strife that truly make sense.

This book is the result (much like the case of Citizens United) to widen the scope of the inquiry until the scope of the inquiry includes all the material elements.

The gaps on genes required for Modernity in Sub Sahara in particular and the secret desire to close the gaps before the gaps were another source of war and how this tied into 20th Century including test babies like Barrack Obama and the Mark and Scott Kelly brothers and NASA DARPA is the large scale scope of this book and it seeks an Epiphany of collective acceptance of memes disputed in single such as the CIA role in the JFK assassination, racial cognitive variation, effects of GDP on political systems, and the role of Masonry and Secret Soviets all come in to this epiphany view and story, not defeating politically correct memes one by one or just one or two but rather all of them collectively.

Evolution, race, and Twins Studies

This book is a book about evolution.

My belief is racial evolutionary gaps and differences exist, are larger or were larger than believed, and those who deny those gaps (Like Free Masons or others) are eroding the theories of wrongdoing in racial matters or racial research such as the assassination of JFK who did not agree to more extensive twins studies and racial research as one test twins birth, me being one of the twins studies the Church Committee on illegal conduct could not fully stop.

The evolution of Human Kind and the evolution of scientific ideas as competition for fitness moves theories in and out of scientific understanding.

It is also about the evolution of criminal conspiracies in world politics, how they started, what drives them, and what they have turned into, and the fittest theory to describe the criminal conduct of Espionage agencies and politicians from espionage agencies is what originates in this book.

My theory that the CIA QEII Mafia killed Marilyn and JFK and RFK either knew it and or later learned of it, and why the CIA Mafia murdered her. She, Marilyn, could have been the Narrator (provide the Narrative) of how extensive and murderous the CIA mafia really was. Thus the mafia silenced Marilyn who was born: JUNE 1, 1926, Los Angeles, CA Died: AUGUST 4, 1962, Brentwood, Los Angeles, CA. Happy Birthday Queen Mother!

NORMAN O. FREDERIKSEN, 9 Sherman Terrace, states that he is studying for his doctor's degree in geology at the University of Wisconsin since September, 1963 but that he was formerly employed as a geologist in the Socony Research Laboratory near Dallas, Texas. FREDERIKSEN recalled meeting LEE HARVEY OSWALD on only one occasion under the following circumstances:

EVERETT GLOVER, also a research geologist with the Socony Laboratory at that time during about February, 1963, gave a party attended by persons who were interested in hearing about Russia and which group is comprised mostly of people who could speak Russian. FREDERIKSEN recalled as included in the attendance GEORGE DE MORHENSCHILDT, an independent geologist at Dallas, Texas, and his wife, a RICHARD L. PIERCE, who lived with GLOVER, PIERCE's friend, BETTY JO DONALD, and a RUTH PAINE as well as LEE OSWALD and his Russian born wife.

OSWALD spoke and then answered questions and in doing so FREDERIKSEN recalls that OSWALD intimated that he went to Russia because he thought it was a dynamic society going someplace and that its people were working enthusiastically to move it ahead but he, OSWALD, discovered in the factory where he worked that these people only worked so as to get paid and that the only interest they had in putting in extra working hours was to get some extra pay and that this disillusioned OSWALD. FREDERIKSEN said that OSWALD never to FREDERIKSEN's recollection of the night, said he was a Communist or was a member of the Communist Party and that OSWALD in his talk stayed away from political talk and talked about the people and living conditions in Russia. The President’s Daily Brief: Kennedy, Johnson, and the CIA, 1961-1969

Once called “the most highly sensitized classified document in the government,” the President’s Daily Brief (PDB) is a Top Secret CIA digest of essential intelligence presented every morning to the president and a handful of his closest advisers. Spotlighting the most sensitive world flash points, the PDBs provide insight into what presidents knew and when they knew it about the most critical issues of the day.

The National Security Archive - in partnership with others in the academic community - was instrumental in paving the way for the first substantial release of PDBs through a campaign of public education and pressure finally leading to litigation. In 2007, the Archive joined with Professor Larry Berman, then a professor of political science at the University of California, Davis, in a suit against the CIA. Though the court denied the plaintiffs’ immediate request, it rejected the CIA’s attempt to obtain a blanket exemption for all PDBS, opening the door for the eventual release of the 2,500 documents and nearly 19,000 pages included in this collection.

These highly succinct records provide a day-by-day glimpse into the historic global challenges facing the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. Themes covered include Cold War conflicts over access to West Berlin; the Cuban missile crisis; the Vietnam War; the Six-Day War; conflicts sparked by decolonization in Africa, Indonesia, and the Middle East; political turmoil in Central and South America; NATO and EEC concerns; and reporting on the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, among other topics.

While the extreme secrecy that has shrouded these 40-year-old documents now seems dubious, this collection nonetheless serves as a rich source not only on a pivotal period in modern world history but on the workings of government and the national security system, especially presidential decision-making, CIA intelligence production, and government secrecy.

    - Blackmail: the black money is introduced into black markets as CIA backed people allow themselves to be blackmailed for rights to the genes in massage parlors, caught with Tree House porn, minors in public exploitivley photographed by child porn freaks

- Moles of CIA-Past hidden in Law Enforcement Corruption Today in an Ordered List

1. The CIA operation is both profitable creating secret CIA budget for lewd activities and phony-crimes solving, and real budgets for solving phoney crimes taken from the worth of the DNA being taking by impersonators of me into the adult entertainer industry.

2. Moles not only self enrich in the illegal operation they use the money for a dark budget dark operation which is used for cleanup operations of earlier CIA blunders, a cleanup operation which could not exist " on the grid."

3. Moles running the operation likely wish to normalize that DNA can be used for legal debts IF the DNA is used for erotic misconduct as if to create a reproductive-event-exchange and this is the medical legal ethics dividing James Comey and the Free Masons in which Donald Trump sided with Rod Frankenstein, the US PHS Commissions Core US Marshalls over opinions from Comey, Sessions, Whitaker, and perhaps others

- The summary of this book and Jen Moore videos is that the Rockefellers, Bidens, Bush family, Clintons, Kennedys, Trump family, Obama family, and others have a long term perhpas family jewels CIA twins program underway inside the Illuminati elites and it is tied to assassinations and other black opps coverups including Jeffery Epstein and the VI Brain Foundation, Columbia University and the Manhattan Project, and financing and this is the illegal world of MKULTRA and creation of [Economic] "Super Soldiers" captions of industry world wide.

In this figure caption I caption this photo which I have used from "The Sound of Music: Christopher Plummer's Flap-Pocket Country Suits" DECEMBER 13, 2020"

Max Detweiler in the Sound of Music is the Nazi official Franz Kutschera, rear seat, hoping the Captain and Maria Von Trapp, front seat will remain in Austria have Maria and others sing Nazi propaganda music

"Father Franz" who is represented by the character Max Detweiler in the play is actually Franz Kutschera who will later become a Gestopo general, but was an early father figure to Maria when her own parents died. The future Nazi course of Germany was predicted and the move from Max was made by the Von Trapps

It is my belief then Edward Prince of Wales later King Edward VIII like the Von Trappss were too close to Max, and in fact Maria Von Trappp had out of wedlock children, my mother one of them, in 1926 with Maria Von Trapp.

Okay this is video number 11 and underneath this envelope is three cases and you can zoom in they say US District Court District of Columbia Washington DC the top case is in a pills case closed type II so as I go on on my youtube journey I'm going at some point to expose in some way what is under this yellow or manila envelope and under it are cases that involve the identities of some people who would rather not that that not be done.

I think it's important for the American people to know some of these facts so in the past week or so as I just started out this YouTube channel I've been doing a series of interviews on another YouTube channel with farmer Jones and the interviews have to do with things such as MKULTRA, the Vatican the Vatican's connection to the CIA how MKULTRA was started DETAILS about pre-world War one and what led into the Second World War and things like at the MKULTRA program which many people have heard about.

It talks a lot about Sigmund Freud who was kind of the founder of MKULTRA or one of them he's known as the father of psychology the father of psycho psycho analysis different titles like that but his history has been sanitized and even most psychologists or doctors psychology do not know a lot of this history and I do for a variety of reasons I'll get into and even going further into people like dr. Carl Jung it's Ju and Ji Young in theory is very well known the realms of psychology and psychoanalysis many people don't know is that mr. young was our doctor young was also Karl or allan dulles secret agent agent 488 and Allen Dulles was the founder of the CIA he originally was an OSS which was our initial United States of America their intelligence service and then it moved into the CIA during and following World War two and Allen Dulles was the first director of that of the CIA.

His brother Lewis John Foster Dulles was also in there and Allen Dulles was a CIA agent at the time of JFK's assassination so that is an interesting part that will come out as well so I've been doing a series of interviews with another YouTube channel farmer Jones who's been great on this history and what I know about MKULTRA and the Nazis and the development of the program in historical context to which it was built and why what were the kind of underlying motivations at that time and what was some of the really very disturbing parts that has been sanitized from our history in many ways and so I've been doing a series of interviews.

I did my fourth today I believe on this history and as I've stated before in my videos I was a someone who enforced the law at for a pretty long time in some very dark places and I also had my degree in psychology a clinical psychology so I was involved in that as well so I came into this knowledge by combining a lot of that work also a lot of research but then I had a very interesting transition that led me to connect all these dots and that was I met a person in 2009 who was 79 years old she was the child of Hitler's top commandant (Gestapo General Franz Kutschera uncle and her father Arthur Kutschera owned all the theaters in Munich and Berlin around Germany and back in those days the big screen movie theaters were very rare she was one of the kind of the elite German children on the Nazi side and so these theaters were used to help indoctrinate the German youth and the Hitler Youth and also the German soldiers during the war.

and she was literally at the feet of Hitler during a lot of this history from age you know early on but from age 8 through 17 when World War two really the bombs came raining in on Munich and she attempted to escape and was saved by American GI soldiers which is just a remarkable story of survival and she made it to the United States of America and became a very famous person in her own right Maria Kutshcera married to Austrian Caption VonTrapp).

and I'm not gonna name her at this point but for reasons that I can only guess would be a miracle from God that he would bless me with the chance to know this person and many of you may not believe and and all that and that's fine but it was my honor to truly meet her and hear her story and listen for about a year and a half from 2009 into 2010 as she turned 80 years of age and she passed away at that time but in that process of a year and a half I learned about trauma from of which most if not any that I could think of and I've experienced and what seen a lot of trauma could possibly imagine just horror upon horror and she told me the gritty

DETAILS of what she saw from on the opposite side of the Holocaust victims and then what she saw was she was escaping through Germany into Switzerland as a 17 year old witnessing really the the gravity and depravity of what had occurred that she was not fully aware of her position in life and then the coming to terms with that.

I'm in the year and a half that we spent time together she also new called young as a friend or a associate I guess you could say at some point in her life and I can get into that at some other point but she shared this information with me in an attempt to relieve her soul with what she would describe it of the burden of pain and shame and guilt that she felt even though she was just a little child while all this was happening so we went through that process and I've shared some of that on the interviews with farmer Jones so my goal is to keep sharing these interviews because it's a rich history it's American history and it obviously it's not fold and complete because it's one part of it or many different parts from many different angles that for reasons it's hard for me to understand I came into contact with these various kind of extremes or these different worlds and was able to put some pieces together so for that reason I have wanted to share this stuff for a long time didn't know when the right reason was and also there's a lot of pressure to not talk about these things.

I hope to do that this is video number 11 (Secret Identities which are already in the European version of the Sound of Music which used real names) I'm going to post in video number 12 the first interview and then subsequently after that so you can listen and comment and please give your feedback and we will take it from there all right good night Hidden behind this envelope are the identities of those who wish to keep this secret.

It belongs to the American People and in due time I will reveal them.

okay it is Sunday night and I'm looking out at beautiful Washington DC and as you can tell I have a great view this evening it's a Sunday night tonight before the Monday morning testimony I believe before the Judiciary Committee on the OIG report so that’s gonna be tomorrow morning and I will be there live it in person to see the fireworks if there are any I hope there are a little bit courage mr. Jim Jordan and mr. good luck and mr. gates to it mr. Gowdy to all go full wards get these documents so I’m posting this video just because I’m going to attach the interview number three and four that I had done now

Regarding um you know start the first two interviews were kind of starting in World War one and moving into World War two OSS to the CIA different players that were involved dealt the Dulles brothers Hitler obviously Aleister Crowley in my six in my five how the OSS became the CIA the Vatican’s involvement the indoctrination that occurred the different experiments that were done how MKULTRA was brought together under several different kind of philosophies or mythology’s I guess you could say some of it is really hard to listen to but it’s the truth and it needs to be told because it’s still happening so though as these interviews go long I move it into the United States and Canada in particular I mean it’s a very lot of other places but United States in Canada really was infiltrated through black budgets by the CIA and went from OSS into CIA the Vatican was involved in that and Operation Paperclip in how these Nazi scientists including Hitler and Mengele and Himmler and all these kind of the worst characters of all were secretly moved in to Argentina and South America and then some of them were even brought up into the United States and they were given new identities

it gets into some pretty gnarly DETAILS but there’s truth there and I’ve got court cases and documents to back it up personal eyewitnesses you name it this is the story of a whistleblower our whistleblowers in general yes it is dangerous I accept that at the same time I refuse to be silent anymore and so I’m going to carry on releasing this information OSS to CIA, black budgets, Operation Paperclip, ‘ Hidden Identities

  In the Gangstalk of me Gangs of people walk around near me, use apartments near me, dress like me, and say we together are buying the sight of models with my DNA, them as porn, and during that we are together getting punished for having photographed women to you and paying restitution an protection fees.

  The are doing this, often away from me, sometimes near me, but they not me are doing that and they not me are doing that with the rights to my DNA which pays for it all.

This book

Glorian was alive with the Sound of Music, Jim and her enthusiastic at any cost to prepare me for succeeding in life

The Creat Shcism of 1054 following 700 CE the collapse of Classical Greece with Roman dominance replacing it going into the Dark Ages on the West side of the schism

THe short story Jen Moore tells in full detail is that the Western side of religions are using stolen genome from the Donegans for insertion into the Ukraine and other locations sleepers are being groomed for as a long running deep state is creating church backed MKULTRA. THis is the battle of WWII and Monarchists and Anti-Monarchists as part of that. National Socialist Gernman objected to both Communism and Fuedalism as to international an interference with the German nation. Economically it also opposed fuedual structures of wealth. THis is a very long battle and a strange part of history is Harold Gainey, Glorian Gainey, and possibly Marylin Monroes as Windsor Kutscheras from an underground railroad being genetically raalroaded back into the Western side of the schism..

Though she was born and raised in the Deep South, first North Carolina until Festus Gainey died, likely tied to the Von Trapps, and she and Harold raised in likely the Baptist Church, she married James Donegan and was influence him in every way as I was.

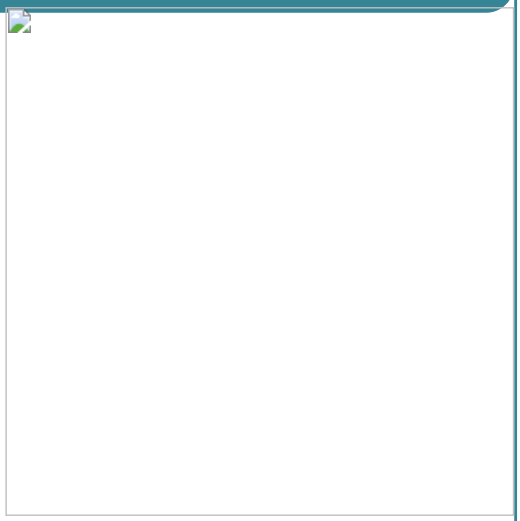
James Paul Donegan my father was raised in oppressive poverty and social conditions in Boston Massachusetts to his Irish immigrant well educated parents who were little more than street people Boston.

Consider his background nd hers, tied to the American Revolution and forced into poverty, and beliefs similar to the origins of Mel Gibson.

Mel Gibson retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Patriot (2000 film)



The Patriot is a 2000 American epic historical war film written by Robert Rodat, directed by Roland Emmerich and starring Mel Gibson, Chris Cooper, Heath Ledger and Jason Isaacs. The story takes place mainly in rural Berkeley County in South Carolina and depicts Benjamin Martin (Gibson), an American colonist opposed to going to war with Great Britain who, along with his adult son, (Ledger) gets swept into the Revolutionary War when his home life is disrupted and one of his sons is murdered by a cruel British officer (Isaacs). Rodat has said Martin is a composite character based on four historical men: Andrew Pickens, Francis Marion, Daniel Morgan and Thomas Sumter.

Incorporated as Sumterville in 1845, the city's name was shortened to Sumter in 1855.[citation needed] It has grown and prospered from its early beginnings as a plantation settlement. The city and county of Sumter bear the name of General Thomas Sumter, the "Fighting Gamecock" of the American Revolutionary War.

Mel Gibson was born in Peekskill, New York of Irish descent, the sixth of 11 children, and the second son of Hutton Gibson, a writer, and Irish-born Anne Patricia (née Reilly, died 1990).[10][11] Gibson's paternal grandmother was opera contralto Eva Mylott (1875-1920), who was born in Australia, to Irish parents,[12] while his paternal grandfather, John Hutton Gibson, was a millionaire tobacco businessman from the American South.[13][14] One of Gibson's younger brothers, Donal, is also an actor. Gibson stated his first name is derived from St Mel's Cathedral, the fifth-century Irish saint, and founder of Gibson's mother's local native diocese, Ardagh.[15] His second name, Colmcille,[16] is also shared by an Irish saint, and is the name of the Aughnacliffe parish in County Longford where Gibson's mother was born and raised. Because of his mother, Gibson retains dual Irish and American citizenship.[18] Gibson is also an Australian permanent resident.

Gibson’s father was awarded US$145,000 in a work-related-injury lawsuit against the New York Central Railroad on February 14, 1968, and soon afterwards relocated his family to West Pymble, Sydney, Australia.[21] Mel was 12 years old at the time. The move to his grandmother’s native Australia was for economic reasons, and his father’s expectation that the Australian Defence Forces would reject his eldest son for the draft during the Vietnam War.

During his high school years, Gibson was educated by members of the Congregation of Christian Brothers at St Leo’s Catholic College in Wahroonga, New South Wales.

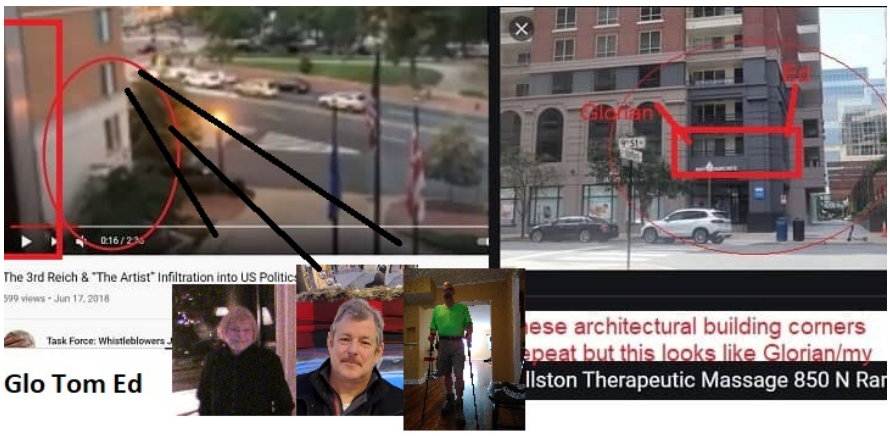
Sumter is 22 miles from Sumter to Bishopcille South Carolina, Bishopville where my mother was moved to after Festus Gainey died when my mother was 9.

Though not born a Roman Catholic she joined with Jim in resentment against being left in poverty and the struggles of the Donegan family.

Most of the Pro British movement in the eminated from Jewish refugees of NAZI Germany and sometimes is a percvieve locus of the Deep State Shadow Government, and suspicioin of Isreal ran in my family and many anti-Deep State beliers holders.

I tend to sympathize with Jews and their rights and really place the focus on the British, and many Roman Catholics fit the Mel Gisbon profile, anti Jewish Publishing empire power base while also anti-colonalism while Engalnds attempts to regain Ireland, India, Russia, and other nations.

Gainey



My brother Tom Donegan is dead as Jim and GLorian are who were Tom and my parents. The life my mother and father tried to build for his family is lost especially as I am here in Texas and COINTELPRO mafia violence stages that I am a sex offender, I an not, and on the public attack on me claims it becomes family members of me.

It is more an attack on Atheism and an attack on military veterans as religious attack than anything else, but that I am subjected to these attacks is a crime against James and Glorian as well as an attack on me.

COINTELPRO against me by Texas (Texas runs the DMV of Texas, Texas courts, Texas DOC, and other operations in Texas) is happening in a climate of the state led by Abbot and Paxton and ministries to needy prisoners, needy illegal immigrants, and others who preachers have no budge to help, but on shakedown claims against me, false they hav a budget for those often illegals.

The hatred I have for the shakedown artists attack on me I compare with Gavrić of the movie Peacemaker. His piano he USED to play with his daughter and wife is my household of 52 Lambeth Sq, and pscyhos MAFIA of Texas COINTELPRO attacking me and that history I compare my rage at that to Garvvic blaming the boundaries violators who brought war into his peaceful home.

This is not quite correct as Tom Donegan and I could have told you. Glorian lived on a farm with Festus Gainey until Festus died when she was about 9 years old. She and Harold Gainer were then adopted as orphans by the Dew and family, Grace, Ellen as older sisters but adoptive ones older though acting as parents. It was in this South Carolina family I am told my father met Aunt Dot (my aunt) and Glorian Gainey to become Glorian Donegan.

> When Ola Hayes was born on 26 November 1896, in North Carolina, United States, her father, William Henry Hayes, was 20 and her mother, Ozella Jackson, was 25. She married Festus Gainey on 3 October 1915, in Meadow Township, Johnston, North Carolina, United States. They were the parents of at least 2 sons. She lived in Goldsboro Township, Wayne, North Carolina, United States for about 5 years and Goldsboro, Wayne, North Carolina, United States in 1975. She died in December 1975, in Wayne, North Carolina, United States, at the age of 79, and was buried in Wayne Memorial Park, Dudley, Wayne, North Carolina, United States.

Festus Gainey of North Carolina DID die when my mother Glorian Gainey born 1926 was about 9. She explained she and Harold were in extreme poverty wearing gunny sacks but if clean were not to be embarrassed about and growing up singing and dancing as a kid, saying later in life spinning around “I should have been a dancer!”

Why send two people with FOXP2 Syndrome on the world stage to argue against Nazi Eugenics?

Adoptive, unlisted: Glorian Gainey born 1926, Harold Gainey. Glorian and Harold had FOXP2 Syndrom, probably left behind when at 9 years old her father Festus died, King Edward VIII resigned, and Austria was getting siezed after the Berlin 1936 Olympics we all learn about in schoo.

Thomas Neil Donegan and relavance to USA History

GROWING UP WITH AUNT DOT, C.E, HAROLD, AND GLORIAN EARLY 1970S IN THE SUMMERS TO 1980

Significance: Glorian grew up on a South Carolina farm with the Dew - Gandy family after her “Uncle Festus” died on his farm long before, orphaning Glorian and Harold. Pictures were passed around of Festus on his farm and included long stories of family history and genealogy of the entire family structure in South Carolina Blunder: As for Tom and me and Glorian I am the only one left. Those stories of Festus continued into 850 N. Randolph with me and Glorian or Glorian Tom Mark Ed going through them, my childhood photos such as at the pool in Los Angeles or other locations. Tom and Mark promised to scan and return the photos, and like every picture of me someone ESLE took or I took, the pictures disappeared completely, gone from desk drawers, etc., no explanations, as Glorian’s hats disspeared to and othe family memorabilia was destroyed and thrown out. This happened at least since the mid 1990s and up until Glorian’s death. But what was the motive? Tom is now deceased. Who asked him and what was done with the missing articles. James Donegan’s beer mug from his German flight group disspeared from the Moraga house as did everyone of his standing in front of plane photos in flight suits and helmets, etc., My father wondered if I took it to use for drinking since Tom was living in D.C. during college.

Significance: I showed FOXP2 behavioraly in South Carolina and it was talked about. Was it the milk making him mean, hard to control, fighting back at things? What was it? Maybe he was allergic to something else. In various years Thyroid or Thalmus was suspected. Dry throat was common and vomiting after meals. I had mine diagnosed in the 1990s, possible leading to increased Stalk of me. My mother and I had swallowing problems most of our lives until we figured out that having water nearby helped and conscious pre-swalling of saliva helped.

Blunder: All those talks are lost from most people, a few others from that household may be alive. James, Ed Tom would lay awake wonder if mother would be O.K., multiple doctor trips had not resolved the throat problem.

Significance: Glorian's biological brother Harold from Festus family made lots of "You like like a king in that blue bathrobe Ed (i always use bathrobes and that was given to me) and made lots of comments about "Say Hello to the Hero and indicated there was something somewhat special about some aspect of the family life they were able to pull off.

Blunder: What did Harold, Tom, Dot, C.E, and others know and talk about as I was analyzed and discussed during all of this?

Significance: Likely homicide of patriot Jen Moore who was outing an Espionage spy ring she called the Anwan Spy Ring which seems tied to a wellness group in Georgia but operated from and through Pakistan

Jen Moore asserted STEM CELLS operation in the Ukraine tied to POTUS Biden's son and the matter of an impeachment against Donald J. Trump and later riot had ties to someone who came to the USA at 9 years old after having had to sing for the NAZIs. The story is not likely of 1936 but rather on 1926 when the true story is the Von Trapps arrive in North Carolina. Jen Moore probably had the trail of Glorian Donegan from after the death of Festus Gainey and later move to South Carolina. She also had personality attributes of Glorian incorrect but seemed upon it sounds like meeting Glorian finding Glorian was a sweet and loving person. In fact Tom Donegan throughout the lives of Glorian and myself created a very false legend of schizophrenia, violence, incompetence in IT, etc., This genealogy history and Jen Moore filming 850 N. Randolph and referencing The 3rd Reich & "The Artist" Infiltration into US Politics * It is probably true Glorian and Harold Donegan are Maria Augusta Kutschera children by a Windsor and that DNA was moved into the Bush, Obama, Kelly, Paul, and many other family lines and now the CIA is covering up the plot which included the assassination of JFK, RFK, and media figures. Before Lee Harvey Oswald was shot he was trying to call John Hurt and the Schwarzenegger Shiver Peace Corp part of this story may have died with Oswald and died with Tom Donegan

TOM DONEGAN REFERS AN OPENING TO ME AT AOL TIME WARNER IN THE 1990S

Significance: The theory of this book which has massive implications about a Shadow Government which assassinated many of the Kennedy's out of self guilt and need for cover-ups goes along these lines.

Glorian Donegan as a racial Human Origins study of brains contributed DNA to Barrack OBama Jr's brain probably along with Malcom X. If Glorian Donegan's DNA entered Sasha and Malia via 3rd party parenting using DNA in input from Glorian then Glorian DNA reaches Sasha and Malia via an alternate path which substitutes in history for the real path. That itself is a story. The need to do that to protect the program of involuntary DNA usage and tests of DNA around the world for Twins Studies is huge and tied to Great Brittian whose Commonwealths include England and Northern Ireland.

Blunder: Losing a witness as to the veracity of my theory is important, who asked Tom Donegan to assist (if this theory is true) is more important and the FBI CIA DARPA NSA USPHS operation tha thad the need to conceal this matter by Tom Donegan's acts and the actrions of others is even more important, it would expose those who run the Shadow Government.

Some question, at least in my mind, exists if the Governator came over from NAZI Germany with FOXP2 in his family, disavowed by his NAZI father or both with his brother or his brother was, and did in 1961-1963 was he part of the USAID Peace Corps LBJ James Angleton J. Edgar Hoover East-West Center DARPA Brain program study of DNA and family lines?

Significance: Sasha and Malia are about to be born, Pete Conrad Jr. dies, I am stalked and doubled during that job at AOL. Does this allow 2001 and on to unfold?

Blunder: Was Tom Donegan working with Kamala Harris "tracking a perv?" I recall at Bondage A GoGo and walking in San Francisco people following me and talk of most of the women I was interested had an average of over 25 years old and that was causing them extensive problems and they talked about that in front of me. Kamala Harris would rise to power on an anti-e sex offender campaign defeding vulnerable newly as San Francisco District Attorney. Will we ever know? Who set up another Edward Donegan at AOL and mixed up our payroll?

MY BEING FIRED FROM WELLS FARGO IN ABOUT 2002

Significance: An obvious major railroad and one that was race baiting such as cheap shots about Irish beign drunks, etc., was underway at Wells Fargo as bizzare stree assualts on me were occuring, staged events I think tied to Kamala Harris where a meth dealer introduced to but not normaly part of my buying small amounts of meth was a creepy child molester. Later I was fired in a strange backroom hanlded way were I was shunned in the whole proccess by a Wells Fargo likely under MIND CONTROL with Street Theater information passed into Wells Fargo. Wells Fargo itself seemed Infiltrated as some Canadian, Mossad friendly, and perhaps bad mannered white marshall who was a bomb with a lit fuse stirred up trouble. Even today Wells Fargo has had a major Shadow Government role. It had 1.75 Trillion in assets and 24 billion dollars revenue at a time I was working extremely sensitive security issues. In California in between William Ruiz and Jim Volcelka Wells Fargo had espionage insiders, in downtown Austin they did, and to this day have dopple accounts of me and had accounts opened without a person's permission lawsuits. That was a big deal as I tried to open a Wells account in Texas while homeless and the ARC of NOVA fought me will they could, only when I became my own Payee could I pay off overdrafts, etc.,

Blunder: This was no accident and Tom Donegan and others were working a campaign and Wells Fargo may be an MKULTRA mafia infiltrated organization with criminal insiders which I have always said was the case. Tom allegdly handled things in the background via Cisco and other matters as I was being fired. One key point. A female heavy set tech writer was incompetent gained control of the group with Greg Rolles assistance I was already leading. She used a widely false accusation I had assaulted at the exit turn styles while Gregg ROlles was out of town. Upon his return when the assertion was presented to me I was told no tapes of the event were available.

There were so many complete sham activities surrounding me in every matter include strange crossing of paths with people I refused to be an inpatient in rehab for lack of trust of anything or anyone while a Stalk was going on, which I pointed out to my father who was visiting, and he noticed people very oddly orbiting and following us around too, out of place.

POST WELLS FARGO 2002 UNTIL 2007

Significance: According to Linda Newkirk who was working with (according to her) the US Military was working around the world throughout the NSA, US Air Force, Nasa Missile Command, and at times Russia on a world genetics medicine plan which would move DNA into regions where economic productivity is low and some lack “salvation” and were not “righteous.” Others were righteous but had cognitive developmental deficits. Tom Dunham of San Francisco let me know he was being stalked and I was being stalked to, but I was concerned he was the cause of it and I cut ties to him later I wished I had not. Ted Gunderson died in about 2009 after claiming he was stalked and I put him in the category of Tom Dunham and myself and tie all this into the Criminal MKULTRA Mafia based system Gunderson, JFK, RFK, and Ted Gunderson fought but lost to.

It could be said I underwent damage during these years. I was repeatedly arrested, asked if I was on my meds and put in mental hospitals, had a broken jaw and jaw damage from a racially charged street fighjt I did not initiate, and lost most of my life to incarceration. During this time I gained definition and the lenses I see through. Racial minorities are needy, addressing their problems incorrectly and generally a threat to those they hope to either illegal or exploitative engage with. In the earlier case out of circumstances and the latter out of predation they can have an agenda which accepts Zero Sum. They are needy enough one dollar gained from you is ok if is one dollar lost to you in an underhanded way.

Blunder: In the arrest again a racially charged situation emerged and I believe with my brother Tom Donegan destroying evidence I was held without trial in conspiracy against rights, evidence tampering, evidence destruction, and I was also dirty bombed in custody, again, him destroying evidence and there was yet another attempt on my life while I was with my mother. His role or complicity in this is important.

In this book I assert several characters with tell-tale dates of events were involved in the Nuclear Materials murder of Karen Silkwood, looking like a Department of Energy controlled plant accident but Karen Silkwood was on the list of people expressing FOXP2, probably won her co-workers vote by understanding them. When they killed her they kept some left-over for other hits. Tom Donegan was complicit on the hit on me. Could that have led to the Silkwood murder being solved? Silkwood Born: FEBRUARY 19, 1946, Longview, TX Died: NOVEMBER 13, 1974, Crescent, OK

Significance:

Blunder:

In this book I will use the story of the proceeds of

for use in a trust fund which claims legitimate right to contract or use assets in my name or reassign assets of mine or the trust fund which was created from house sale proceeds and left in a will of GLorian Donegan.

That money, those assets, are not are what are in dispute.

Jim Donegan fought in WWII and took risks at an Atomic Veteran so I could succeed in life, living in a good neighborhood, sending me to good schools, traveling for education rather than recreation (I never went water skiing in my life, resort travel was not our travel,) and he encouraged me to have good relationships, etc., were his goals.

A non believer based on his intellect, study of European history, philosophy. and and his personal experiences with his Catholic church he became atheist early my youth.

He sacrificed everything he had to raise and educate me in a United States which is now trying to create a defamatory “Legend” about me, humiliating me and humiliating my education level so once trapped in horrific sewers my life will be drowned and destroyed and his and my mothers DNA will go into the very thing our lives lived to oppose and felt were destructive to world history and destructive to wisdom.

After his and my mother’s death his genome and my mothers became the subject of racial violence.

Dehumanizing racial motivated sexual violent attacks on me called a GangStalk created a Legend, a Legend based on the action of others towards and the actions of those as me which created an infantalized person under Salvation Army care.

On the night of 2/9/2022 a black female in tight yoga pants was walking on Ocean Drive. I had no idea who she was or had anything to do with her nor did I photograph her. As she was walking a Fedx or UPS truck of some type noisily passed as if to use an implication of delivery though not making a statement. In the upstairs apartment a person confessing could be heard, this person saying others had the right to complain

That group the Salvation Army buying adult entertainers and use of genome of the Donegan family for themselves, envious of what it was, and gaining access by utilizing the sexual battery of me to suggest I owe others for having been battered.

While the assailants say that I owe “non white children” for a Dopple of mine’s acts I do not believe violent criminal racial syndicate should produce any rape about him, he had asked a Victoria Secret model to help him get comfortable with the idea of bullwhippings because he did not understand himself or how to talk about things, and he acknowledged wrongdoing towards minors and agreed he would hvae to make inter racial babies in compensation.

I call myself the donought whole not touching or touched by the events which surround me though from an outside perspective I appear to be in them and accusations or claims can be made to other people, people on a different side of the donought than me, about me.

babies, that human trafficking syndicates are violently when they take prisoners and hold them at threat of death or arrest, and the evil of violent crime Eugenics crimes is at least an evil as the murder of good people, aka the Jews Nazis killed. Just as much an evil of a dead Jew is a living rape baby, both done in Genocide.

A criminal syndicate realizing I came from good and celebrity DNA line found out by sabotaging me with child porn, race baiting me, and getting me under false arrest I could be “targeted” by these operations and become the victims of that criminal syndicate.

What is at issue is not the Trust Fund my family left me, both my father and mother part of the planning of that, but the effort they put into raising me as a child into adulthood for me to life in the USA with the benefits of being the next generation after him and Glorian in the USA.

It is that effort of his and Glorian’s life that is being attacked by plants of child porn on me, false arrests, subversion of my life, etc.,

I believe the attacks are designed to be so destructive as to dehumanize my ability to enforce rights including rights to trial as I am painted as developmentally retarded and unworthy of trial, rather nursery school treatment in psych wards, the result being a non productive life of mine, a life denied real opportunity.

For the purpose of Moral Hazzard a survivor who killed a Jew may have gotten little out of it and not recognize any real gain, in fact, it was his loss. On the other hand he or she who creates an Ethnic Violence rape baby has gained, and as the survivor and benefitting person may be an example to others.

A Labor Racket is goods or services FORCED on a person who does not want them. Similar to Bribery or Extortion, Labor Rackets manufacture business which is involuntary from customer point of view.

Forcing me into position with “porn” who others not me victimize as peeping tom porn makes me by forgery based and misrepresentation based fraudsters a forced costumer of a Labor Racket.

The Criminal Syndicate which as assaulting me with child porn and asking my trust fund to provide me child porn is not legitimate at all, just needed by Red State Christians to bill my trust fund while also destroying my life and Ahtiest reputaion.

The racially motivated Cartel racket is designed to pay for itself to plant child porn on the son of Glorian and Jim, and even pay themselves to do it.

I lived Jim, Glorian, and Tom at 52 Lambeth Square Moraga CA which she said DURING THE divorce in the 1982 she would leave in her will for Tom and Ed, and also she would not buy again but live on parts of the retirement package from James Paul Donegan which was sufficient to rent with.

She and I lived in that house after Tom and James Paul Donegn moved out. Later visitors to GLorian and Ed were Tom and Mark, Harold Gainey and Dot Dew, and others, Chris Loyd, Honey Binning.

Glorian and I also lived in 850 N. Randolpyp where she worked on version of the will with Elder Law Partners on multiple versions and we discussed my life after her death, going back to work, etc., which we both hoped for and she encoruaged Creative Fathams HTML meetups, etc., and I knew what her will was as she expressed in probably about 300 or so conversations at minimim including being certain I owned a car.

This organized stalk has shut down any normal life for me, but why, and why was the same thing done to my mother and father? I think simple fade-out of our family saves others from acknowledging we are connected via illegal use or our DNA.

THe Star Trek franchise under Desilu Productions, the Sound of Music and other fiction are full names alterted media tell the story of Maria Kutcshera neice and ward of Nazi Gestapo General Franz Kutschera who has three out of wedlock children with the Windsors.

While the Windsors do not marry her they urge to marry Captain Von Trapp and take not only him as a husband but the role of mother for his 7 existign children.

The 10 children will come to the USA North Carolina after have been use in Germany for a while by Franz Kutcshera as child Hitler Youth like propoganda singers. Upon coming to the USA they will sing praise for the Allies.

The CIA and Vatican have much to do with this including Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez, Desi a Cuban exile or immigrant with pro USA feelings. The CIA and Show Business organized by the CIA and OSS propoganda has not only a propoganda role but is also helpign with speech therapy as the British Royals study speech modulation, etc., in the study of FOXP2 Syndrome,written and other various minimal brain dysfunction including ADHD.

THe SHow Business mafia that went from running numbers game in Chicago into Palm Springs and Vegas are full of connections with Peter Lawford, Sinatra, and others, and the Vegas imported mob (From Chicago) will help try and oust Castro.

The larger umbrella is that the plan also included grooming Barrack Obama and others and CLorian DOnegan DNA was used who was tied to the North Carolina Maria Von Trapp refugees.

The schism with the Kennedy family was that he opposed the mafia and opposed India Tea Company meddling in other countries while his CIA and Military were very invoved with those operations and the Oil Barrel Politics of Rockefellers, Standard Oil, moving making, gambling, show business, and even defense contracting by congglomerates like RKO, RCA, DuPonts, many others.

The Kennedy Curse is upon the Donegan family too.

THe various book play, and film versions are part fictionalized but in 1926 or so the Von Trapps left Austria with London help for a final destinaation of North Carolina. In one versiona character in the story who is likely Himmler is said to be a member of the illegal Nazi Party. It became illegal in 1936 and the Austrian SS was not the exact same thing as the German SS then but the activity was not illegal in 1926. The key point in this as that the time-frame of the play is off by about 10 years and contains some dialoghe that does not fit the real time-line and obscures the real timeline.

I consider the timeline issue important because I believe my mother GLorian Donegan and Harold Donegan were from Prince of Wales Edward in the 1920s as was Marylin Monroe and Maria Kutschera wished to hide the three out of wedlock children's identity from the Kennedys, that the mother was the neice of an Auatrian Gestaop General Franz Kutschera who was a death camp ally of Himmler, and that the children in the US were tied to that history not revealed in the movies (It was revealed to select people king Edward VIII was the father during publicity tours.) THe Free Masons the Rotshchilds, Windsors, and DuPonts DID know.

The Upper Austria connection with the Von Traps, Franz Kutschera, Henirch Himmler, and Ribbentrop

Joachim von Ribbentrop retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Ribbentrop in 1938 Reichsminister of Foreign Affairs

Joachim von Ribbentrop (30 April 1893 - 16 October 1946) was a German politician who served as Minister of Foreign Affairs of Nazi Germany from 1938 to 1945.

Ribbentrop first came to Adolf Hitler's notice as a well-traveled businessman with more knowledge of the outside world than most senior Nazis and as a perceived authority on foreign affairs. He offered his house Schloss Fuschl for the secret meetings in January 1933 that resulted in Hitler's appointment as Chancellor of Germany.

Schloss Fuschl is a castle in the gemeinde of Hof bei Salzburg, in the Land Salzburg in western Austria. It stands on a peninsula at the western end of Lake Fuschl, a glacier lake. It was built in about 1450 by the Prince-Archbishops of Salzburg, who used it as a hunting lodge.

In 1816, the prince-bishopric of Salzburg was dissolved and the property passed to the Austrian state. It fell into disrepair.

By the 1930s, it was owned by Gustav Edler von Remiz and his wife Hedwig, who lived there. Remiz was a member of the Thyssen dynasty. He was a supporter of the Fatherland Front, so was imprisoned by the Nazis in Dachau, where he died. His property was confiscated, and Schloss Fuschl became the summer residence of Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister,[2]:41 who used it for diplomatic receptions for Germany's allies.

Louis Mountbatten, 1st Earl Mountbatten of Burma retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Louis Francis Albert Victor Nicholas Mountbatten, 1st Earl Mountbatten of Burma (born Prince Louis of Battenberg; 25 June 1900 - 27 August 1979), was a member of the British royal family, Royal Navy officer and statesman, a maternal uncle of Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, and second cousin once removed of Queen Elizabeth II. During the Second World War, he was Supreme Allied Commander, South East Asia Command. He was the last Viceroy of India of British India, and the first governor-general of the Dominion of India.

He was of the Greek family Prince Philip was from.

He was a long time playboy close fried of King Edward VIII and they are often pictured together. It was while traveling with King Edward VIII Mountattan met his wife who took the name Edwina.

In March 1947, Mountbatten was appointed Viceroy of India and oversaw the Partition of British India into India and Pakistan. He then served as the first Governor-General of India until June 1948. In 1952, Mountbatten was appointed commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean Fleet and NATO Commander Allied Forces Mediterranean. From 1955 to 1959, he was First Sea Lord, a position that had been held by his father, Prince Louis of Battenberg, some forty years earlier. Thereafter he served as chief of the Defence Staff until 1965, making him the longest-serving professional head of the British Armed Forces to date. During this period Mountbatten also served as chairman of the NATO Military Committee for a year.

In August 1979, Mountbatten was assassinated by a bomb planted aboard his fishing boat in Mullaghmore, County Sligo, Ireland, we are told by members of the Provisional Irish Republican Army. He received a ceremonial funeral at Westminster Abbey and was buried in Romsey Abbey in Hampshire.

The movie Leprechaun with Jenifer Aniston came out a few years later.

Wallis Simpson, the Nazi minister, the telltale monk and an FBI plot retrieved from US papers shed light on efforts to spy on fascist sympathisers copied from GaurdianUK. Rob Evans and David Hencke and copied or modified to here

When the Duke and Duchess of Windsor sailed into Palm Beach, Florida, on the SS Berkshire from Nassau on April 18 1941 they were looking forward to enjoying three days of relaxation at the Everglades Club playing golf and drinking and gossiping with American high society.

Little did they know that the previous night instructions had gone out from President Roosevelt to FBI chief J Edgar Hoover to launch what was to be an extraordinary covert intelligence exercise that had to fool both the exiled royals and the US secret service agent who was guarding them.

The exercise was launched after the FBI had been passed intelligence that the duke and duchess were being used by the Nazis to obtain secrets which could wreck the allies' war effort. The US investigation became even more lurid when FBI agents interviewed a benedictine monk in a Franciscan monastery in the United States; Father Odo had once been the Duke of Wurttemberg, a minor German royal with connections to Queen Mary, the duke's mother, and her brother, the Duke of Athlone, then governor general of Canada.

He told them that a prime suspect in the investigation - Joachim von Ribbentrop, then the Nazis' foreign minister - had been the duchess's lover when he was ambassador to Britain in 1936. The minister was already thought to have been supplied with information by the duchess during the German invasion of France in 1940. Now it was suggested that there was far closer arrangement.

Father Odo told the agent: "He knew definitely that von Ribbentrop, while in England, sent the then Wallis Simpson 17 carnations every day. The 17 supposedly represented the number of times they had slept together."

He also revealed that the Duchess of Windsor had told guests at a Paris party that: "The duke is impotent and although he had tried sexual intercourse with numerous women they had been unsuccesful in satisfying his passions."

He went on: "The duchess in her own inimitable and unique manner has been the only woman who had been able to satisfactorily gratify the duke's sexual desires."

Exile

The duke was forced into exile after he abdicated as King Edward VIII in 1936. He first went with his lover, formerly the American divorcee Wallis Simpson, to France and was only later exiled again to Bahamas to keep him out of the way.

By the time the US president authorised the intelligence operation, the couple had been deserted and snubbed by the royal family and the British establishment. They were suspected of favouring the Nazis after they visited Germany in 1937 and were entertained by Hitler and other senior Nazis.

A year after war broke out, the FBI sent a memo to President Roosevelt outlining the agency's worries about the couple. It stated: "It has been ascertained that for some time, the British government has known that the Duchess of Windsor was exceedingly pro-German in her sympathies and connections and there is strong reason to believe that this is the reason why she was considered so obnoxious to the British government that they refused to permit Edward to marry her and maintain the throne.

"Both she and the Duke of Windsor have been repeatedly warned by representatives of the British government that in the interest of the morale of the British people, they should be exceedingly circumspect in their dealings with the representatives of the German government. The duke is in such state of intoxication most of the time that he is virtually non compos mentis. The duchess has repeatedly ignored these warnings.”

Malcom X I think on a son with Glorian DNA

It is the system itself that, that is incapable of producing freedom for the twenty-two million Afro-Americans. Just like a chicken can’t lay a duck egg, a chicken can’t lay a duck egg, because the system of the chicken isn’t constructed in the way to produce a duck egg. And just as that chicken system can’t produce, is not capable to, of producing a duck egg, the political and economic system of this country is absolutely incapable of producing freedom and justice and equality and human dignity for the twenty-two million Afro-Americans.

Duke Carl Alexander of Württemberg retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Carl Alexander Herzog von Württemberg (Father Odo OSB) (12 March 1896 - 27 December 1964) was a member of the House of Württemberg who became a Benedictine monk. During the Nazi and post-Nazi era, he provided aid to refugees, Jews, and prisoners of war and was reported to Nazi authorities for these activities. He acted as informant of Federal Bureau of Investigation and spied on Wallis Simpson, the lover and later wife of the former British king Edward VIII.

Carl Alexander was the third son of Albrecht, Duke of Württemberg and his wife, Archduchess Margarete Sophie of Austria. He also had four younger sisters. He was taught at home and attended high school after 1914.

In World War I, he fought on the Western Front in Italy. He resigned from the army at the rank of captain, following the German Revolution of 1918-1919, and within a few months became a postulant at the Abbey of St. Martin in Beuron. He entered the novitiate in 1920 as “Brother Odo,” taking vows in February 1921. His father succeeded King Wilhelm II, a distant cousin, as head of the House of Württemberg in October of that same year. Brother Odo was ordained a priest in 1926. In the summer of 1930, Father Odo was sent to the Abbey of St. Martin, in Weingarten, not far from Castle Altshausen. He held several offices in the monastery and was active with different Catholic youth organizations. Because of his position and his family’s conservative Catholic values, he was involved in opposition to National Socialism as early as 1933 and was interrogated by the Gestapo several times.

He left the abbey and traveled to Württemberg in 1934. The Nazis expelled Father Odo from Germany in 1936, and he took refuge in monasteries in Switzerland and Italy. In Switzerland, he founded International Catholic Refugees and traveled through Europe.

Emigration to the United States

In 1940, after the Swiss government informed him that they could not guarantee his safety, Father Odo decided to emigrate to the United States. Before leaving, he destroyed his personal papers, so his activities could not be traced in detail. From 1941 Father Odo lived in Washington, D. C., continuing his work with refugees and enabling Jews to emigrate from Germany and its conquered territories. From 1943 onward, he was involved in the pastoral care of Germans in American prisoner of war camps. He told the Federal Bureau of Investigation that the Duchess of Windsor had been sleeping with Joachim von Ribbentrop when he was the German ambassador in London (1936-1938).

The historian and archivist of the House of Württemberg, Eberhard Fritz, believes that Claus von Stauffenberg's opposition to Adolf Hitler may have been partly motivated by his relationship with the House of Württemberg (Stauffenberg's father was the last Oberhofmarschall of the Kingdom of Württemberg). Stauffenberg was personally acquainted with Father Odo and was well aware of pockets of resistance against the Nazis.

The more likely story from the garbled version is that 1920s playboy Prince Edward of Wales had illigitimate children and the issue was left as a cloud over more distancable Wallis Simpson than the prince himself and that done for preservation of the direct line of the English crown.

Swallowing Exercises for Dysphagia From Neurological Causes retrieved from www.verywellhealth.com and copied or modified to here

While swallowing is considered an effortless, reflexive action, it's actually quite a complicated and coordinated maneuver involving many muscles and nerves.

s a result, neurological conditions characterized by damage to the brain, spinal cord or nerves can often result in difficulties swallowing, called dysphagia.

Depending on the specific neurological condition, a person may experience dysphagia for unique reasons. For example, with a stroke, a person may have difficulties swallowing because there may be an absent or delayed swallowing reflex, weakened throat muscles, and difficulty controlling tongue movements.

This is in Edward Paul Donegan and Glorian Donegan. While my brother was a negative for the disease he did develop cancer in this area and I am suspicious if that gave researchers acess to invivo study of him at the cost of him having cancer.

Twins studies and this disease are built around understanding and building a new better Prince Albert of York who can give rallying speeches, the royal role.

Moves are tough, including moving away from Virgina to where I could afford to buy a house (my first questions to locals in Corpus Christi starting with cab ride from airport to hotel) take time, take work, I wanted to buy a house 7 y ears ago but it was sabotaged, undermined by arbitrary and capricious trust fund who wanted me out of safe home, safe, transportation, and easy prey for GangStalk predation upon me, many of the predators needy people who had no trust fund but were NOT right wingers. Law suits against an alt right guy as he rides the bus, etc., helped the trust fund kite money from Glorian Donegann to people the money was not intended for.

Later in this book I will talk about the blatantly illegal sham black marketing of Donegan DNA to fund various shame programs simultaneously defaming the Donegan family and thus hiding the origins and worth of what is being violently co-opted.

Simultaneously with accusing my brother Tom Donegan who I both love and hate of being a patsy for the Obamas who is a mole for Red State republicans, the Queen of England, and religious causes Tom would object to, I also am in deep pain about his death, I am suspicious of his death and whether medical treatements created the diseases which medical treatments then opportunistically intervened into.

Obituary

Tom Donegan of Provincetown, a member of the Select Board for six years in the 2010s - three of those as chair - passed from this life on July 14 in Manhattan, surrounded by love, his husband Mark Weinress and dear friends. Tom was 61 years old.

The cause of death was leptomeningeal disease brought on by esophageal cancer.

Tom moved to Provincetown in 2009 after retiring from AOL. Within quickly rolled up his sleeves and became of service, as was his way his entire life. Tom served on the town Finance Committee, becoming its chairman, from 2012 to 2013.

In 2013, he won election to what was then called the Board of Selectmen and was chairman from 2014 to 2016. He easily won reelection to the board in 2016, His chief goals were improving the use of town resources, with a special focus on finding solutions to the affordable housing crisis. Tom also served on the board of the Provincetown Year-Round Rental Housing Trust and the board of the Cape Light Compact. His work there was important to him given his strong belief in protecting the environment. As an action guy, he always wanted to put his beliefs into real work.

In December 2018, Tom left his position on both boards to help support his recently widowed mother- in-law in North Carolina. He remained an active member on the board of the Fine Arts Work Center, serving for a time as treasurer, until his death. It was an organization that was very important to him, and he enjoyed meeting and discussing their work with FAWC's fellows.

Thomas Neal Donegan was born in Los Angeles on Jan. 21, 1960. A year later, his brother Ned was born. (Ned survives him.) The family lived in Manhattan Beach, CA, and the San Francisco Bay area, divided by a stint in Marshfield, MA, while Tom was in elementary school.

His father, Jim, was a pilot for Trans World Airlines. His mother, Glorian Gainey, a South Carolina native, was a homemaker and later a real estate agent. The Donegan family used their T.W.A. perquisite to journey all over the world, imbuing Tom with a lifelong passion for travel, flying, and even airports.

Tom attended the Head-Royce School in Oakland, CA, after which he enrolled at the George Washington University in Washington, DC., where he majored in political science. Tom was the ad manager of The GW Hatchet student newspaper and president of the Sigma Chi fraternity chapter, which he steered toward community service. He earned his bachelor's degree in 1983.

But the most important thing that happened to him at GW was meeting Mark and commencing a lifetime of 38 years together, They were wed on July 27th, 2015, a month after the Supreme Court decision legalizing gay marriage, at Saint Mary's church in Provincetown MA.

A year after graduation - both Tom and Mark began a spiritual program of recovery from alcohol and drugs. They have cherished their continuous sobriety from that date and consider it, along with their 38-year partnership, as the best thing they've ever done.

The couple lived first in the District of Columbia, before moving in 1999 to Arlington, VA. It was there in 2001 that they welcomed for the year, 16-year-old exchange student, Svenja Jaeger from Germany, who considers Tom and Mark her "American dads." Their close relationship is one of the most important in their lives. And they now get to be the American granddads.

Tom joined the Baltimore office of the W. B. Doner & Company advertising agency in 1984, rising to the position of account executive. From there, he joined Ullico (Union Labor Life Insurance Company) in Washington DC, doing in-house marketing.

During this time, in August of 1990, Tom and Mark were attacked and injured in an anti-gay hate crime. Theirs was the first successful case first tried under DC's new hate crimes law. As a result of the experience Tom became involved in the newly formed grassroots group GLOV, Gay Men and Lesbians Opposing Violence. The group provided community safety education and advocated for accountability from the police and media in recognizing and addressing anti-LGBTQ violence. Tom soon became GLOV's co-chair and was known as the "activist in the suit," since he rarely had time to change out of his daytime business attire before being interviewed by the press, attending public meetings and the occasional on TV news appearance.

After his service with GLOV, and upon his move to VA, Tom became president of Crisis Link, a Virginia-based 24/7 Crisis & Suicide Prevention Hotline

Like more than 80% of Americans, Tom had never been online as of 1995. However, he took a leap and joined a young company called America Online, where he served as VP of membership marketing. Tom managed a team integral to building total members to over 37 million. He developed many groundbreaking programs for multiple sales channels and lead integration for AOL Time Warner. When he left the company in 2008, he was one of its longest serving employees.

After following his dream of retiring and moving to Provincetown.

Tom relished being on the water. He bought a catboat in Provincetown and enjoyed sailing all summer long, even competing in races. Six years ago, Mark and Tom decided to make Manhattan their second home.

Tom was diagnosed with cancer two years ago. Although the disease was advanced, he decided he would lean even harder into his already upbeat attitude and continue to enjoy his life gratefully. Until the last few months, treatments were very successful and he continued his active life, filled with sailing, cooking, time with friends, and travel.

While on a trip to London, Tom spotted a plaque that perfectly summed up his gratitude, his faith, and his belief that a higher power existed for all. He bought two of them and placed one each in his Provincetown and New York homes. The saying became his motto.

“Bidden or not bidden, God is present.”

Services for Tom will take place at Saint Mary of the Harbor Church in Provincetown on Thursday, July 22 at 11:00 am, followed by a reception. A private burial will take place at Provincetown Cemetery.

Charitable contributions in Tom’s memory may be made to the Carrie A. Seaman Animal Shelter (CASAS), Outer Cape Health Services, the Fine Arts Work Center, or the AIDS Support Group of Cape Cod.

The Great Irish Famine and the Holocaust retrieved from Irish History Live The Great Irish Famine and the Holocaust Professor Liam Kennedy and copied or modified to here

Thinking of Studying Irish History News / Events21 July - 8 August 2014, International Summer School History: Staff/Postgraduate Seminar Series

Put briefly and more bluntly, professors Charles Rice and Francis Boyle believe: ‘the policies pursued by the British government from 1845-50 in Ireland constituted ‘genocide’.’

The most traumatic event of modern Irish history is undoubtedly the Great Famine of the mid-nineteenth century. By the end of 1847 the British government was effectively turning its back financially on a starving people in the most westerly province of the United Kingdom.

The famine was to run for a further two or three years, making it one of the longest-running famines in Irish and European history. Before it had run its awful course, more than one million people had perished of hunger and famine-related diseases. Viewed globally, it was one of the worst famines of modern times.

For the Jewish peoples of Europe their darkest hour belongs to living memory. The mass destruction of some six million Jews in the mid twentieth century at the hands of the German Nazis, and their enthusiastic collaborators in Poland, the Baltic countries, the Ukraine, Hungary and in parts of the former Yugoslavia, seemed to mark a turning point not only in Jewish but in world history.

The Holocaust and the Great Famine. Can we somehow associate these two searing episodes in the life histories of the two peoples? James Pius Sweeney of New York, writing in the Irish-American paper, the Irish Echo, while acknowledging that there were differences between the Famine and the Holocaust, went on to argue:'The genocide of the Holocaust was remarkable because of the macabre efficiency of freight cars, camps and gas houses. The genocide of the Great Famine is distinct in the fact that the British created the conditions of dire hopelessness, and desperate dependence on the potato crop through a series of sadistic, debasing, premeditated and barbarous Penal Laws, which deliberately and systematically stripped the Irish of even the least semblance of basic human freedom.

'When blight struck the Irish were 'totally vulnerable'. This was a 'nuanced genocide', he continues, one that manipulated fate 'by pushing a people to the brink of annihilation and turning away so not to hear the wailing …'.

Trinity is a novel by American author Leon Uris, published in 1976 by Doubleday. It spent 21 weeks atop The New York Times Best Sellers list in 1976[1] and 14 weeks in 1977.

The book tells the story of the intertwining lives of the following families: the Larkins and O'Neills, Catholic hill farmers from the fictional town of Ballyutogue in County Donegal; the Macleods, Protestant shipyard workers from Belfast; and the Hubbles.

Conor's best friend Seamus O'Neill begins school in town under a Protestant named Andrew Ingram. Conor, needed at home, helps his father in the fields, until he becomes an apprentice at a blacksmith shop. As the years pass, the boys become friends with Mr. Ingram, who teaches them of the power of books and the history of their Irish forefathers.

Seamus goes to college in Belfast, and Conor heads to Derry. In Bogside Conor witnesses the extent of the disaster that has befallen the Irish people. Bogside is in tatters and a state of despair that has stricken its inhabitants since before the Great Famine that had taken place between 1845 and 1852. Held down by the Protestant reign in Derry's labor unions, the Catholics are dying slowly without hope.

In Derry, Conor discovers other like-minded Irish tired of the oppression of the Catholics by the Protestants. This small group, with the support of the few Irish politicians, becomes the Republican Brotherhood, the roots of Sinn Féin, and the whisper of freedom throughout Ireland.

Hitler saw the 1936 Games as an opportunity to promote his government and ideals of racial supremacy and antisemitism, and the official Nazi Party paper, the Völkischer Beobachter, wrote in the strongest terms that Jews should not be allowed to participate in the Games

German Jewish athletes were barred or prevented from taking part in the Games by a variety of methods,[5] although some women swimmers from the Jewish sports club Hakoah Vienna did participate. Jewish athletes from other countries were said to have been side-lined to avoid offending the Nazi regime.

A Plot from House of Saxe-Coburg, later called the Windsors of English Royalty

The House of Windsor is the reigning royal house of the United Kingdom and the other Commonwealth realms. In 1901, the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha (a branch of the House of Wettin) succeeded the House of Hanover to the British monarchy with the accession of King Edward VII, son of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

King Edward VII (Albert Edward; 9 November 1841 - 6 May 1910) was King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and Emperor of India from 22 January 1901 until his death in 1910.

In 1917, the name of the royal house was changed from the anglicised German Saxe-Coburg and Gotha to the English Windsor because of anti-German sentiment in the United Kingdom during World War I.[1] There have been four British Georg Ritter von Trapp Georg Ritter von Trapp was born on APRIL 4TH, 1880, in Zara (now Zadar), Croatia, then still part of the Austrian-Hungarian Empire. His father was a navy captain. He wanted to embark on a navy career as well and attended the Royal Naval Academy in Fiume (now Rijeka).

In 1910, he met Agathe Whitehead at a ball. It was love at the first sight and their marriage a society event. While still a young navy captain, the command of the submarine "U6" was assigned to him. During World War One, the French submarine "Leon Gambetta" was sunk by Trapp's mission. In 1916, he was promoted to lieutenant commander by Emperor Franz Josef I.

After the war, Austria no longer had a coast and did not need a navy, Captain Trapp not only lost his post, but also his wife. Lady Whitehead died in 1924 and left him alone with seven children to look after.

On November 26th 1927 he married Maria Kutschera then in London, who was the governess for the captain's children while in growingly Nazi Austria before.

The Secrets Behind Freddie Mercury's Legendary Voice video on YouTube

A property of Freddie Mercury's singing is his range He allegedly had a range from a low F2 to a soprano F6. This is what that looks like on a musical staff, and here's what the low-end sounds like in "All Dead, All Dead" (Note: Freddie only sings the backing vocals here) You can hear the upper end of Freddie's vocals in this astounding moment from "Under Pressure" That kind of range is impressive enough on its own, but Freddie knew how to use it Montserrat Caballé is a Spanish opera singer who recorded an album with Mercury She said that she was floored by the way Freddie could move around within that giant range She said "He was able to glide effortlessly from a register to another" A second aspect of what made Freddie so incredible was how performative he was with his vocals "The difference between Freddie and almost all other rock stars was that he was selling the voice" Caballé said He also had a great musicality His phrasing was subtle, delicate and sweet, or energetic and slamming. He was able to find the right colouring or expressive nuance for each word

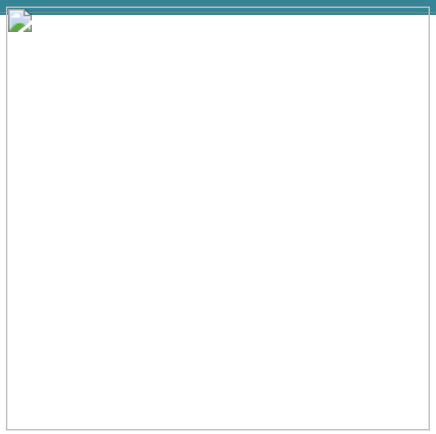
Listen for the color nuance and performance in “Somebody To Love” Every single note that comes out of Freddie’s mouth is carefully placed and belies the emotion of the song The wide array of influences in Queen’s music helped Mercury display the versatility of his voice Their music was informed by hard rock and musical theater, by gospel and disco It was all over the map and each of these styles has different vocal traits that Mercury was able to inhabit flawlessly Listen for the way he can belt it out on the hard rock banger “Tie Your Mother Down” But his vocals feel equally at home in the rockabilly tune “Crazy Little Thing Called Love” Or how about the operatic interlude in “Innuendo” Freddie Mercury can slip in and out of genres seamlessly and sound perfectly comfortable in all of them In 2016 a group of researchers published a study on Freddie Mercury’s voice

That study found a few things about him The first is that while Freddie frequently sang in the tenor register. His natural voice was actually a baritone It seemed like no trouble at all for Freddie to jump out of his natural range for most of his career. What’s more impressive that the researchers discovered is his vibrato. A vibrato is a regular pulsating change in pitch that adds some expression and texture to an instrument or vocal.

Usually a vocal vibrato moves between the frequencies of 5.4 Hertz and 6.9 Hertz. The study found that Mercury’s went as high as 7.04 Hertz Researcher christian Herbst said on top of this his vibrato was more irregular than others He said this creates a kind of “vocal fingerprint” that really helped Mercury’s voice stand out If you want to hear the vibrato in action check out “We Are The Champions” The study was also interested in the grit and growl that Mercury could add to his voice

You can hear that in songs like “I Want To Break Free” By filming the larynx of a singer imitating Mercury they were able to see what his voice was doing they discovered that he was using something called subharmonics Which not only used the vocal folds, but also a body part called the ventricular folds

Ventricular Folds



Muscular Anatomy of the Human Ventricular Folds

Jerald Moon, Ph.D and Fariborz Alipour, Ph.D *

The ventricular folds, also known as the vestibular or false vocal folds are located above the true vocal folds and separated from them by the laryngeal ventricle. They are commonly referred as “false” vocal folds as they historically have been thought not to be directly involved in the production of “normal” voice. However, they are part of the vocal articulation during glottal stops and pressed phonation1 and actively involved during Mongolian throat singing2. They have been linked to closure of the laryngeal lumen during swallowing and other primitive reflexes such as coughing, gagging, etc3. They lubricate the true vocal folds by secreting mucosa through their glands and provide antimicrobial defense protection4.

During phonation, the ventricular gap is kept large enough by the laryngeal or ventricular muscles to prevent unwanted ventricular fold vibration. This gap is usually larger in males than in females5. When the VF controlling muscles fail to keep them apart or the VFs become larger than usual, the increased glottal resistance creates a condition favorable for unwanted vibrations and voice disorders. Such a decreased VF gap was shown to have major aerodynamic and acoustic effects during the phonation of excised canine larynges6,7. For example, Alipour et al.6 and also Finnegan and Alipour7 determined that medial compression of the VF increased glottal flow resistance, as well as sound intensity.

The ventricular fold is usually composed of muscular, glandular, adipose and connective tissues that contribute to its phonatory and non phonatory maneuvers. Due to the lack of a complete understanding of the complex VF histological structure, its muscular and physiological functions have been the subject of many recent studies. Recent morphological studies of VF have confirmed the existence of various distinct muscle bundles8-10. Further, the activity of the thyroarytenoid muscle bundle during phonation has been confirmed with electromyography

These tissues don’t tend to get used in speaking or classical singing, but they’re actually part of what gives Tuvan throat-singing its unique sound. It’s impossible to know whether Freddie was consciously doing this or it was just his natural instinct But it’s equally impressive either way and of course, I couldn’t end this video without talking about “Bohemian Rhapsody”

The song is Mercury’s opus, and that’s because it combines everything that makes Freddie great The song is filled with harmonies that show off the range of Freddie’s voice all at once Though the video shows the band members singing, the opening of the song is a five-part harmony,

- “Father Franz” Franz Kutschera, written as Max Detweiler in Sound of Music
    - Franz Kutschera would become a leading Gestopa (Secret Police) general assassinated in 1943 Operation Kutschera
    - Uncle of orphaned Maria Kutshchera who he taught to sing and was also future wife of Captain Von Trapp
- Maria Kutschera, in 1926 has out of wedlock daughters by Prince Edward of Wales , “Kings Daughters” who is later King Edward VIII for a while, also children by Captain Von Trapp her 1926 marital husband, the Von Trapp Family go to London then the USA and used for pro USA propoganda
- Captain Von Trapp, Austrian navy officer widowed by the death of his wealthy wife Agathe Whitehead (British engineering magnates who made the Whitehead missile for England) met and married Maria Kutschera
- The Catholic Church in Germany which would intermediate the marriage between Captain Von Trapp and Maria Kutschera and the Von Trapp family from Central Europe to London then to the USA.

> Georg Ludwig Ritter von Trapp was an Austro-Hungarian naval officer who later acquired U.S. citizenship. He was the patriarch of the Trapp Family Singers, whose lives were the inspiration for the musical play and film The Sound of Music.

- In Wedlock Captain Von Trapp and his wife Maria Von Trapp had last names, Von Trapp.
- Puut out to farm: King Edward VIII and Maria Kutchera may or may not get names like Victoria Windsor. Or perhaps Glory Anne, Glorian Gainey adapted by Festus Gained in North Carolina.

Maria Augusta Kutschera takes the stage and sings. Franz Kutchera her uncle has been encouraging her as I Edward Paul Donegan was encouraged to drama and theater through my life to learn speech regulation.

Now, in a moment we learn how she got there and also how she left there as the wife of Capatain Von Trapp.

History will record Franz was abusive, as a Nazi official for “turning out” his orphaned neice into a Nazi propogandist.

Maria has also heen helped by the Catholics and for a while she is pledged to become a Nun but she is a free spirit which is out place in serious study environments which ask great discipline of students and perhaps ho outward near bipolar but constant activity is too interactive for the immersion environment.

It is a trait I Edward Paul Donegan carry.

She is assigned to help the widowed and struggling Captain Von Trapp, Austrian Navy Officer, a man of many decorations for bravery and a proud man, with his family itself a war front for him.

Georg Ludwig Ritter[a] von Trapp (4 April 1880 - 30 May 1947) was an Austro-Hungarian naval officer who later acquired U.S. citizenship.

- His naval exploits during World War I earned him numerous decorations, including the Military Order of Maria Theresa. Under his command, the submarines SM U-5 and SM U-14 sank 13 Allied ships totaling about 45,669 gross register tons (GRT).
- WWII - He was the patriarch of the Trapp Family Singers, whose lives were the inspiration for the musical play and film The Sound of Music.

Archduke Franz Ferdinand Carl Ludwig Joseph Maria of Austria (18 December 1863 - 28 June 1914) was the heir presumptive to the throne of Austria-Hungary.[1] His assassination in Sarajevo is considered the most immediate cause of World War I.

Franz Ferdinand was the eldest son of Archduke Karl Ludwig of Austria, the younger brother of Emperor Franz Joseph I of Austria. Following the death of Crown Prince Rudolf in 1889 and the death of Karl Ludwig in 1896, Franz Ferdinand became the heir presumptive to the Austro-Hungarian throne. His courtship of Sophie Chotek, a lady-in-waiting, caused conflict within the imperial household, and their morganatic marriage in 1900 was only allowed after he renounced his descendants’ rights to the throne.

Franz Ferdinand held significant influence over the military, and in 1913 he was appointed inspector general of the Austro-Hungarian armed forces.

The Archduke and his wife visited England in the autumn of 1913, spending a week with George V and Queen Mary at Windsor Castle before going to stay for another week with the Duke of Portland at Welbeck Abbey, Nottinghamshire, where they arrived on 22 November. He attended a service at the local Catholic church in Worksop and the Duke and Archduke went game shooting on the Welbeck estate when, according to the Duke’s memoirs, Men, Women and Things:

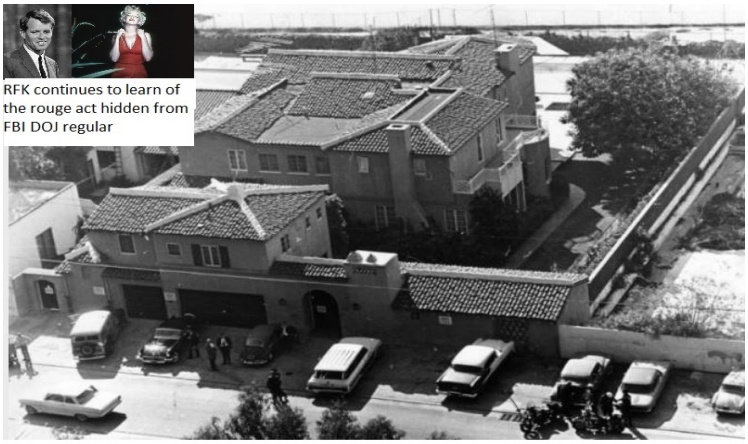
RFK continues to learn of the rouge act hidden from FBI DOJ regular



The Peter Lawford home. The British actor known as the Brother In Lawford to JFK was also the neighbor of Marylin Monroe who lived next to this home and also was a near neigbor in Palm Springs. IT as at this house when this photo is taken many have gathered in 1963 following the assasination of JFK.

Arnold Schwartzenegger, Peter Lawford, the Rat Pack, Sargent Shriver of the Peace Corps, are part of this JFK history in the Santa Monica Manhattan Beach Venice Beach area and I think tied to JFKs visit Novermber 18 November 19 1961 and test birth(s) under the Manhattan Project. Franz Ferdinand of Austria was the eldest son of Archduke Karl Ludwig of Austria, the younger brother of Emperor Franz Joseph I of Austria.

The Imperial Austrian Franz Joseph Order 1914-1918

Franz Ferdinand of Austria was the eldest son of Archduke Karl Ludwig of Austria, the younger brother of Emperor Franz Joseph I of Austria.

The Franz Joseph Order was founded by the Kaiser of that name on the 2nd December 1849 on the first anniversary of his assumption of the Crown .

Kaiser Franz Joseph I or Francis Joseph I was Emperor of Austria, King of Hungary, Croatia, and Bohemia, and monarch of other states of the Austro-Hungarian Empire

WWI

Archduke Franz Ferdinand Carl Ludwig Joseph Maria of Austria (18 DECEMBER 1863 - 28 June 1914) was the heir presumptive to the throne of Austria-Hungary.[1] He also held honorary ranks in the Austro-Hungarian Navy, and received the rank of Admiral at the close of the Austro-Hungarian naval maneuvers in September 1902.[19] His assassination in Sarajevo is considered the most immediate cause of World War I.

Before the assassination of him recognized by history a near death.

The Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife visited England in the autumn of 1913, spending a week with George V and Queen Mary at Windsor Castle before going to stay for another week with the Duke of Portland at Welbeck Abbey, Nottinghamshire, where they arrived on NOVEMBER 22 1913.

> A gun discharge nearly killed Franz Ferdinand and Windsors say had that shot killed him (among his friends) WWI might have been avoided for lack of suspicions.
> from Watson, Greig. "Could Franz Ferdinand Welbeck gun accident have halted WWI?". BBC News.

His courtship of Sophie Chotek, a lady-in-waiting, caused conflict within the imperial household, and their morganatic {Morgana, Lady In Waiting to meet a Royal] marriage in 1900 was only allowed after he renounced his descendants' rights to the throne.

Whitehead was born on 14 June 1891 in Fiume as the first daughter and third child of John Whitehead and Countess Agathe Gobertina von Breunner-Enckevoirth.[1] Her father, a British engineer who had been made a Knight of the Order of Franz Joseph, was the son of Robert Whitehead, the eponym of the Whitehead torpedo.which Captain Von Trapp would use. Her mother, an amateur architect and pianist, was a member of the Austrian and Hungarian nobility.[5] Through her father, Whitehead was a niece of the diplomat Sir James Beethom Whitehead, who served as the British Minister to Serbia, and a first cousin of Sir Edgar Whitehead, who served as Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia.

He will hear the Von Trapp singers on the radio and recognize it is Von Trapps family.

With the rise of Nazism and the German Austrian fall to it Captain Von Trapp and Maria Kutschera would make it through the hills of Austira Germany and finally to England, and to Prince Edward VIII who had the same speech defect and was working with Sidney Gottlieb, speech therapist, biologist, and CIA agent assisting the Allies during this time.

I speculate during the time in London in the 1920s Price Edward, then the Prince of Wales, sired out of wedlock Kutscheras, my mother and Victoria Windsor, genealogist, being another one of them, also tracing her family history and genealogy from family stories.

Maria was born on 26 January 1905 to Augusta (née Rainer) and Karl Kutschera.[8] She was delivered on a train heading from her parents’ village in Tyrol to a hospital in Vienna, Austria.[6]

Her mother died of pneumonia when she was two. Her father, grief-stricken, left Maria with his cousin (her foster mother) who had cared for Maria’s half-brother after his mother died. Maria’s father then traveled the world, although Maria would visit him upon occasion at his apartment in Vienna. When she was nine, her father died. Her foster mother’s son-in-law,

DuPont, Warriner had a top-secret hand in history

By William H. McMichaelThe News Journal

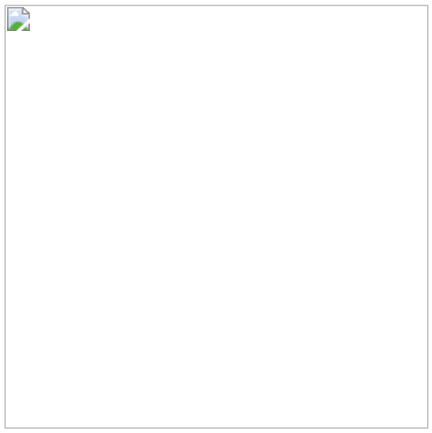
Together Watson Warriner and Dupont [gunowder supply and other Defense contracting since the 1800s] would make history - a story of a technological achievement of remarkable yet horrific proportions that ended World War II. Warriner and DuPont were key players in the anhattan Project - the secret development of the atomic bomb. The 1945 detonation of two of the devastating weapons ended World War II.

“DuPont’s role was absolutely vital,” said Erik Rau, a historian whose specialties include the history of industrialization and who also directs Wilmington’s Hagley Library, a leading business history repository. “They turned to DuPont because of all of its chemical expertise, and its production facilities expertise.

“This was a project that couldn’t fail.”

Many who were involved in the top secret effort had no idea what they were working on, largely due to a policy of “compartmentalization” that limited the amount of information known to any one person. Warriner, who had a top secret Department of Energy “Q” clearance, was one of the few who did.

Operation Kutschera retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here



Kutschera’s funeral procession in Adolf Hitler Platz in Warsaw

Operation Kutschera was the code name for the successful execution of Franz Kutschera, SS and Reich’s Police Chief in German-occupied Warsaw, who was shot on 1 February 1944 by a combat sabotage unit of Kedyw of the Home Army (predecessor of Battalion Parasol) mainly manned by members of scouting and guiding Gray Ranks. This special action was a part of the larger Operation Heads - the code name of a series of executions of Nazi officials by the Polish Resistance.[1]

SS-Brigadeführer und Generalmajor der Polizei Franz Kutschera became SS and Police Leader of the Warsaw District on 25 September 1943. During his earlier posting in the Mogilev District of the Soviet Union he proved himself as a ruthless officer, prone to brutal and unscrupulous methods.[2]

Soon after his arrival in Warsaw he stepped up terror measures directed against the civilian population. The number of public executions and łapanka round-ups were increased, and lists of hostages to be shot in reprisal for civil disobedience or any attack on a German soldier were published daily. These actions, based on a decree by Hans Frank, were intended to crush the will to resist among the Polish population. As a result, the Polish underground leadership included Kutschera in its “Operation Heads” list.[3]

In the course of his surveillance of the area around the Gestapo HQ on Aleje Szucha, Rayski one day noticed an Opel Admiral limousine entering the drive of the building at Aleje Ujazdowskie number 23, which was then the SS headquarters in Warsaw (and now houses the Hungarian Embassy). The SS-man who emerged from the car wore the insignia of a general, and Rayski began to monitor his arrivals and departures from the building. The SS-man was soon identified as Kutschera, who actually lived only 150 metres away, at Aleja Róż number 2. Rayski also discovered that despite the short distance from his home to the SS headquarters, Kutschera always used his car to get there.[4]

A Scheme of Elder Abuse targeting her genealogy line

2011 was a planned for Fulcrum Point of her death, body, genes, and legacy

Long battles between me and Gangsatalking street people, evidence plants, dopples, Due Proccess violations kept my life under COINTELPRO criminal harrassment while my brother facilitated that harrassment frequently generating the disputes he would report me to the police and psychiatrists as the initiator of.

Under a scheme of creating me and my mother appear not of sound mind, of Glorian and I stalked, we were dismissed as the people we really were and are.

My brother winning the battle to be perceived as competent, with the FBI DOJ help in doing that, he because a State actor as a Confidential Informant who could undermine me and my mother’s will and allow State backed causes like orphanage work globally to use the biology of GLorian which was donated to the US PHS Commissioned Corps and additionally from a position of power contravene positive developments in my life like moving to Austin and gaining housing, instead my being trapped in homeless shelters unnoticed to achievement and the followers of those who achieve.

If my mother and I were to, and did, live solitary and non productive lices the family tree may be in its last branches,I think the goal.

A key part of this would be his targeting me under the NDAA as an alleged gays hater or as an alleged white supremacist in prison fights with prison blacks, the context of that life getting me targeted under the NDAA.

Elder of Me in the form of

Elder Financial Abuse		Elder Religious Abuse		Elder Reproductive Abuse
Elder Race and Elder Sexual Orientation Abuse		Elder Physical Abuse

In the scheme which unfolds those who have ties to abuse of my bloodline across generations, likely Baptists, Salvation Army, Opus Dei, hard to tell in charities work which form councils, have street people “providers” engage in a scam I call the Consensual and Non-Consensual Camera Scam.

I am in a public area. Others surround me and consensually photograph those traveling with them as a team, I call this group “grifters” of Long Con con artists.

Because I am in the area it will seem plausible to some I had non consensually photographed the females victim which was photographed by the grifters, who like the victim, were near me.

Often at the same time I am in the area and the female the real photographer, in fact the only photographer specifically of the female, will assert I owe for the photograph, a fight may be picked with me as if I photographed without permission, and that is a risk to me at the scene and in rumors about me passed along to others.

The system in usually “inlay photography.” I am taking a normal touristy photo, if a photo at all, and a photo-bomb female may jump in front of me. Regardless of whether I have a camera in use, the Grifters do and will assert I photographed the female and my trust fund owes theory social services or social causes, I owe them (in restitution for using tier children for my sexual relief) from my mother’s trust fund and her genetic legacy.

The False Pretenses claim against my mother’s trust harms me an my interests but becomes a way to transfer assets to other private and State backed funds my mother did not intend.

Three concepts should be considered here.

PERSONAL EUGENICS

Designer babies and 3rd Party Parents, seeking DNA from family lines admired and that DNA introduced selecting those attributes into another’s family line not having those attributes, also as Gene Therapy in families

PERSONAL GENOCIDE

The destruction of one or more family blood lines as atributes of it are shifted into other family lines, including in crossing Ethnic, Racial, National, or Religious lines

CONSPIRACY AGAINST REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS OR STERILIZATION

Creation of biological or contextual reproductive environments hostile to intra-racial, intra-religious, or intra-national, or intra-ethnic reproductivity

Micheal Hastings and Victoria Windsor Investigating Obama origins reporting

Micheal Hastings speaks, him quoted and speaking in the first person

How ironic that they accuse Trump of Russia involvement when it was they who conspired with Russia to produce a polished liar and charlatan to unleash on an unsuspecting and naïve nation.

Irony has nothing to do with it. Brennan's carefully-laid plan was to use CIA-linked Columbia University to provide cover for Obama and pad a nice résumé for him.

In the meantime no one ever saw Obama at Columbia because Barry Soetoro was attending the Patrice Lumumba University in Moscow, named for Patrice Lumumba, the anti-colonialist who fought for Congo's independence from Belgium and was assassinated for his troubles.

He remains a martyr for his radical e?orts and revered in Russia as a communist sympathizer. The name of the university has since changed to "People's Friendship University of Moscow" to shed the radical connotation of Lumumba.

While Victoria [Windsor] and I [Micheal Hastings] were researching the Columbia [University] discrepancies we got a lead that Barry had been in Moscow during the years 1981-83 at Lamumba.

["Barry" being BHO or Harrack Obama Jr.]

I was skeptical. Something this big surely would be splayed everywhere in our underground conservative online news outlets. I went to the PLU website and clicked on "Famous Alumni."

At the top of the list was Mahmood Abbas, President of the Palestinian Authority, or better-known as Chairman of the terrorist organization the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO). It was the second name on the list that rocked me to my core: Barry Soetoro, President of the United States. I swear on all things holy that it was there. I saw it and Victoria took a screenshot on her computer.

Glory Ann and Victoria Windsor were Kings Dauhters under the Prince Edward Maria von Trapp playboy era.

Sidney Gottleib knew of these two family lines, and when my father and mother were having DNA and fertilization testing during above ground atomic blast testing, some of the Glorian DNA was used for Twins studies including Mark and Scott Kelly, Ed Donegan Barrack Obama Jr, and others.

Probably Tom Donegan felt a few sacrifices in his own family line could spare the national spasm of the Birther theory and Michelle Obama Transgender theory from shaking the nation

Elsewhere in this book I will describe the entire Cartel operation as a Kludge of a for profit espionage profit center with an international objective across nations.

KLUDGE

A kludge or kluge is a workaround or quick-and-dirty solution that is clumsy, inelegant, inefficient, difficult to extend and hard to maintain. Wikipedia

Apparatchik and Dezinformatsiya are terms I introduce by formal definition and I apply them to the Press Corps and academia coverup of this large Espioange centered operation which requests secrecy and kills to protect the existance of the operation from disclosure, a secrecy mission likely charted to Rosenstein, Holder, Machen Jr, and the family members of Rosentein who for instance work for the DOJ as well and in support of CIA operations in legal matters before the DOJ and courts, and this goes to the murder of Seth Rich and Jen Moore.

Its operation included Tom Donegan hiding the pictures, mitochondria, and loving nature of my mother over years and making her seem paranoid, schizophrenic, lonely, etc., and not a popular fun loving person. Her, like me, underwent years of social and legal and even psychological sabotage from my brother and his agents and assets trying to hide the genealogy truth of our family and our fun and loving personalities.

ITS Corporal make-up, the cells operating in the cartel and the structures of it operational body are the following

That happened and now after the fact I have discovered the reasons the real characteristics of my mother and I were undermined and hidden.

BY defaming my mother and I my brother defamed her Nazi Origins, but of course most Europeans have Nazi era military connections. The reall issue was hiding that the good and fun loving side of our famlily tree, disclosed and not, are full of people who have succeeded in MANY different countries and context, and been part of those countries and contexts.

1. Pizzagate is real and teens or other exploited minors are near me as it is alleged that when in public I wish a pizza that is a code word for a teen model and that seeking teen or other minor females is the reason I am in public thus making the public hostile to me.

2. Pizzagate is a financial crime. Communities I have been to and the females will demand restitution for harms alleged to them and to those who will need assets such as patrol vehicles to protect against my presence when I am near minors.

3. CIA operatives Donald Barr and his son William Pellham Barr are tied to reproductive claims and genome, tied to the financial element of a bankruptcy court settlign clams against Ed Donegan through his mother’s asset, biological rights included and this ties to Human Brain studies, the DARPA Brain Program, and the Jeffery Epstein Virgin Island brain research center which he, Jefferey Epstein may have revealed if he was not found dead in his cell

4. This ties to MKULTRA and the Manhattan Project and nuclear war studies by DAPRA, CIA, and others as options were explored like Mutual Assured Destruction deterrent to nucelar war (Robert MacNamara during JFK years) or other options and considerations to the cause and fighting of wars. This was run out of Columbia University, tied to Barrack Obama, and tied to Micheal Hatings, Columbia University New York City overlooks Manhattan Island and have the government research projects including PEGASUS written about by Andrew D. Basiago DARPA Future Battle which is quoted in this book

5. This ties to JFJK murder and other murders and assassinations as leadership genes long tracked by MKULTRA including out of wedlock celebrity DNA was used for sleeper agents in the war for regime change in Cuba, Hawaii, Indonesia, Korea, Vietnam, Tehran, and elsewhere including Middle East North African and Operation 40 to gain control of Mid East MENA airport connected locales for securing oil supplies.

6. This ties to JFK and his unwillingness for mass usage of the these experimental programs

7. This ties to missionary work in which Trinity Baptists, Herman Edward Butts of HEB, and others with the Catholic Church and Anglican Church and Mossad built a plan for regime change and stabilizing the Mid East and DNA from the Donegan family under study in the Manhattan Project has been part of that program.

Immediately prior to his death, Hastings had published a strong critique of the Obama administration titled “Why Democrats Love to Spy on Americans,” which exposed the party’s hypocrisy regarding some of the civil liberty overreaches they had criticized under Bush but embraced under Obama. San Diego 6 News reported that Hastings had been investigating CIA Director John Brennan for an upcoming exposé prior to the crash.

I believe the more real story yet is that Franz Kutschera, the Austrian Nazi Propoganda official who enouraged her orphand niece to sing Nazi propoganda was in fact coaching Maria Kutschera, and she upon arrival in London had out of wedlock daughers in 1926 with Prince Edwward of Wales, to beomce King Edward VIII, the King of somewhere I had been named after, I thought a Belfast area of Ireland, County Donegal and on my father’s side.

A wonderful brilliant woman. She like I underwent violent hate crime stalk during the duration of her life and the outcome of her life like the outcome to my life, trapped in homeless shelter as if I were a buttocks photographer sex offender - without job opportunities - is a result of CIA FBI NSA US Marshalls stalking both watching and claiming (while denying) our good genetics.

This I think what the OECD FBI CIA DARPA Missile command Space Council espionage system of Dan Coates DNI Underground Railroad, secretive railroad, of genetics denied to the world actually exist [since of course according to Free Masonry all genetics are equal to begin with why would Ed Donegan or Glorian Donegan by any better as studied long term?

Glorian Dongan and I have spent our full lifespans since the 1980s trapped in decaying homes running from window to window and simply old and faiding relationships rather than be able to be in public and hgarrassing abd abuive street theater emerging around us.

“I should have been a dancer!” she would say as she danced some steps around in the kitchen waving her arms.

She talked of growing up poor on the farm and making clothes from sacks or old cloths and that was fine so long as they were kept clean, not like old or dirty clothes.

It looks now like she was a daughter to Maria Von Trapp, at first Maria Kutschera. Maria Kuschera was a niece of an abuse Austrian Nazi official who had Borderline Personality Disorder like symptoms, volatile emotions or at least passionate ones.

The ADHD like gene that runs in that area is like one chamber in a guns revolver cylinder not working in the Executive part of the brain causing some spontaneity not like Bipolar, from long periods one way to long periods the other, but a regular ADHD state of slightly impulsive, perhaps even charismaticly so.

Maria Kutschera had been used by Nazis for propaganda, Nazi propaganda, and she was taken in as a novitiate in an Austrian Catholic convent where she as a novitiate was ask to assist the widow Captain Von Trapp, a resister of Nazis.

In 1926 the Von Trapps were in London where they may have finally wed however also that year they performed for Edward Prince of Wales, a Windsor from Wales thus inline to become King. Edward Prince of Wales later King Edward VIII appears to have had out of wedlock children and Glorian was among the “King’s Daughters” the English Royal Family, Catholic Church, and Sidney Gottlieb relocated into the United States of America farm of Festus Gainey.

Sidney Gottlieb as a speech therapist working with the spasmodic speech tendacy of ADHD and also close with the British Ambassador Joseph Kenney, father of John F. Kennedy and it is Cape Cod Massachusetts these families came together.

I come from a good family, studied extensively, and now our DNA on the black market especially if I die or wills or Glorian or I are hidden or faked under others control and benefit

Somewhere someone else will say they are Ed DOnegan or authorized to act on my behalf will agree to allow usage of my DNA and the media will not out the fraud of this tied to long term CIA programs and research such as the Esptein VI Brain Foundation.

A signature affixed to something does not constitute and agreement. I learned that from my father. An offer which is clear must be extended to a person, that person consider the terms, and then agree to them or not. The agreement would then exist until its terms are executed or breached priot to completion.

I do expect to die in an institution who will under “the circumstances” manage me and my assets.

Those circumstances being that sham or shell identity from uwanted behavioral health called “Ed Donegan incorporated,” a Dopple (accountancy brand confusion mistakable for me will realize assets created by Ed Donegan, thus Ed Donegan will not be of worth in creating or generating assets by financial view, but the dopple who does realize the assets actually generated by Ed will squander the assets Ed accumulated and squander them in the idenity of Edward Donegan.

Unwanted religious care is even more offensive.

Not a legitimate use of the NDAA or CIA Secret Kill Lists

Asset transfers of Edward Paul Donegan’s work production to the accounts of others where the valuation is placed is not legitimate NDAA asset seizure.

Cognizance of guil by those shell identities of Ed Donegan attempting to create confusion that htey are Edward Donegan are the source of illegitimate conduct and the acts which are pretexts of loss of Edward Donegan’s assets to squander or seizure.

This is not my conduct, which was legitimate activity which lawfully and with bard work produced the legitimate assets wrongly transferred into the look like account of squanderer of asset and of wrongful conduct such as squanders activities which get assets seized into the control of asset managers, I call these corrupt actors Cartels acting under color of law to manufacture the claim to assets under asset seizure which are not subject to asset seizures unless predicate acts or manufactured to seize lawfully held and created assets, and unwanted cause or religious control the asset assets allowing themselves to self enrich from positions of power over the person who is under management.

Ed Donegan fake shell legal entity of Ed Donegan is not a real account of Ed Donegan, but when improperly slid Ed Donegan’s assets including assets of Glorian’s will and work product gain of real Ed, real Ed without wealth will fall to his death in poverty and street fights, until unable to realized profits in his life, he will come under asset management, probably in a mental health unit and by social workers.

Thus the property of Glorian Donegan is or Ed Donegan is not realized by either, and unwanted religious or trust fund conservancy soak way both the original assets of Ed and Glorian and any future assets Ed creates, later credited to Fake Ed and thus not seen as gainful result of Ed Donegan work result.

The conditions created for Ed Donegan are hostile and abusive, meant to defile and degrade him publicly, and do so such that in the dehumanized and weekend state malicious actors can gain from a position of power from him what they envy and want, and deny it to him and his mother.

That the tools of Espionage used does not make it non corrupt use of espionage tools. Every cop on a beat can be dirty and shake down the law abiding if they want something from that person.

More family history and how our good family was under the microscope by admiring observers

My father James Paul Donegan Irish resident of Cape Cod joined the Army Air Corps as a P-51 plane pilot, B-29 escort, some fighters to protect the atomic bomb dropping B-29s, my father flying the North American P-51 Inglewood Los Angeles (Manhattan Beach California near Santa Monica) Manhattan Project WW II atomic SIMI Valley proving ground of the bomb, the “gadet” and the plane compliments which would deliver the bombs.

The CIA Speech Therapist Biologist Sidney Gottlieb was close to this all. He worked with the speech defect this ADHD form created, a gene now called the FOXP2 LONDON KE FAMILY gene I have, a KE VIII out of wedlock descendent, and also Sidney Gottlieb worked on other bio sciences such as biological weapons, assassinations, and overthrows, and he would utilize illegally genome from Glorian Donegan, and alongside my birth of these dates, a secret half twin created for study in Twins Study by the CIA during the post racial war ongoing racial strife 1961.

February 20 fertilization, Cape Cod JFK being informed, November 18 birth, Dec 13 my mothers birthday and her fertility and Aug 4, the day of Sidney Gotlieb owns birthday who oversaw creation of a Twin, and called that Twin’s birthday Aug 4, and that twin was Barrack Obama, and later twins by NASA DARPA CIA included Mark and Scott Kelly and many other twins combinations is secret long term brain research and also with those twins grooming them as CIA backed sleepers.

The CIA does not want my DNA from my mother traced to me since it is in others and I think ongoing CIA assassinations and targeting of me and my mother during our lives is a CIA NASA DARPA NSA hope my own DNA and DNA rights will soon be gone and forgotten to the world and not identifies as a “beneficial” set of brain genes, unlike those in current social CIA backed leadership families.

There had been some shadowy group referencing her vaguely and I thought it was European Jews who I am quite fond of and in the course of researching this book I think it more likely Middle Easterners angry at British Imperialism in the Middle East, suppression of the Middle East, puppet governments in the Middle East, and robbed profits from the Middle East, the Royal Family of England at work much like East Indian Tea Company history, and much of this 1961 oil business masonry business tied to Rockefeller and Bush families of of Dallas Texas, Little Rock Arkansas, and the MENA Middle East North Africa airport of Howard Hughes Oil Drilling, TWA, and more.

This book goes into the Minnesota Twins Registry and Adoption Studies of personality and life stories of twins raised apart and I speculate I am an Obama half twin through the use of Glorian Donegan ovum the ovum of my white mother.

Eugenicists are trying to build UP the Black side of Obama in Eugenics

and they are trying to harass DOWN the white side of Barrack Obama Jr. (whether you accept “Stanley” Ann[a] Dunham or Glorian Donegan as the white mother of Barrack Obama Jr.)

and this is why I have been harassed all my life by the DARPA Brain Program including as Obama further increased its scope.

> The Minnesota Twin Registry was established in 1983.[2] Its original goal was to establish a registry of all twins born in Minnesota from 1936 to 1955 to be used for psychological research. Recently, it has added twins born between 1961 and 1964.

> Gregor Mendel: “Children resemble their parents ” (Such as Glorian Donegan.) Through his work on pea plants, discovered the fundamental laws of inheritance. He deduced that genes come in pairs and are inherited as distinct units, one from each parent. Mendel tracked the segregation of parental genes and their appearance in the offspring as dominant or recessive traits. He recognized the mathematical patterns of inheritance from one generation to the next. Mendel’s Laws of Heredity

> The Sibling Interaction and Behavior Study (SIBS) is a study of >600 adoptive and non-adoptive families.[1] The adoption study design allows one to disentangle the environmental and genetic influences on a phenotype, including psychological phenotypes.

This book holes Understand Tom Donegan’s Role in denying The Goods (valuable genome) existing in Glorian or Jim DNA line, and using a Behavioral Health Care trap to gain control of, study, and launder the value of the “goods” to others, or at least create an asset seizures cover story of how, without permission, the genome is others including those calling themselves “little brown princesses.”

An impersonator of me will authorize DNA under blackmail of exploiting minors, and those representing those allege victims claim to be authorized to use Glorian’s DNA as payment for what seems harms I have done to others.

The claims I have harmed others, or that Tom Dunham has harmed others, are false and not agreed to by me.

- To Get the Goods onto Repugnant Black Market for biology
    - Deny to me or her Glorian the Goods exist or existed.
    - Get control of the Goods by a fake claim to protecting the GOods via management aka a Conservancy, for instance, the will of Glorian Donegan which did not include the Goods but if created can money launder the Goods.

- then under sham legal moves such as wrongly pre-texted asset seizures get the goods available for usage via mechanisms of money laundering confusion and switching between accounts of individuals moving credits and debits around with dummy accounts to create a verifiable balance sheet [because accounting was denied the true asset possessor the anihalating libilities and expenditures of an imposter will not be detected in any way]

Accounting fraud is critical. Set up BLIND conservancy which will not accurately nor specially report the liabilities, assets, or transactions under which the Goods are recognized in value and used as value. This is achieved by an unwanted unneeded conservancy which imposes itself to solve a problem it created, also called a Protection Racket which also used accounting fraud during the money laundering racket.

This Racket which depends on unwanted and hostile conservatorship of my mother and I is based not on today's needs for anyone, but weaponzing hostile acts towards me which a compounding record of damages my life and legitimizes the work of MKULTRA as claiming my genome rights or my mother's genome rights when rights to that never existed.

Hostile acts towards me and the wills of my father and mother and myself are the desperate and defiant acts of those who do not wish to admit error and come clean on the illegal operations; rather, instead, hoping additional acts of fraud can normalize, legitimize, and create a false appearance of what the reality of the matter really is.

In short I was born to Glorian and James Donegan in the P-51 side of the 509 Composite Bomber Group, the first nuclear bomber flight wing.

It is alleged that Barrack Obama has a white side mother of Mrs Dunham, Daughter of Madelyn Lee Payne [Dunham] and Stanley Armour Dunham of the Boeing B-29 Stratofortress nuclear bomber from Wichita Kansas that my father was flight escort to in the P-51.

The recieved the order to bomb Japan on Aug 4. That is Obama Jr, President Obama's birthday. He notes as far as my research (thin on this matter and second hand) that his white parents had a brother tied to the liberation of a Nazi death camp. I have not heard him mention or seen record of mention his white side parents worked on building the B-29 Bomber or that they were caught trying to pass the plans to German Nazi intelligence.

It is in this story the history of Glorian, The Vatican, and CIA comes into play. I was born under atomic testing in 1961, my father have been exposed to above ground nuclear blasts in Nevada, and his DNA watched.

It wasn't just his DNA. His wife, my mother GLorian, was out of wedlock Windsor Kustchera, Maria Kutschera who became a Singing Von Trapp, abonded Nazi propoganda shows, and fled to London and was among King Edward VIII and Maria Von Trapps out of wedlock children.

That secret history, of European Sovereigns, singing, and propaganda was her ovums piece in twins study. Along with me and my lousing speaking and writing, her, Glorian's Ovum was used with Malcom X in the same February 20 1961 fertilization study and I thik with Malcom X spren and carried by Eva Ban.

I am the P-51 side of Glorian Donegan history on Nov 18 1961 birth. Barrack Obama is said to be of the B-29 part of the 509th Composite Bomber Group story, with an August 4 Bday as his white mother moved to Hawaii.

I think the Hawaii USA piece is a cover story, and possible CIA planted birth record in Kenya was a possible fake document placed by the CIA if they need Obama as a sleeper agent in Kenay or elsewhere.

I think he is really a half brother of me, my mother's DNA continues in other white and non white lines, and a paper record, based on forgeries, is being created to explain that DNA trail, and the death of Judge Roll could be tied to the need to cover up that hisotyr of the 509 Composite Bomber Group story and CIA DARAP NASA history.

Was there a motive for a crime robbing what GLorian Donegan willed and left?

Tia Marsilli has an autistic child and a fund raising an advocacy company the Autism Institute she was the principle in and her child a beneficiary of that institue she ran with Arc of Northern Virginia. She need rights to GLorian's genome and created or went along with the protection racket to rob me of assets for me denying them to me and using them for others and also slandering me as an Alt Right person not sympathetic to the retarded or autistic.

She was in no way a dissenterested financial operator of these funds, she was personally needy.

Wherever I went, wherever I had lodging, an illegal espionage operation called a Gangstalk, organized crime by law enforcement and recruits, would create harmed children crime scenes alleged to me which would reviecve compensation from my trust fund.

For this to work Tom Donegan need to keep me out of normal community people and employment Austin Texas and into fake claims of minorities and gays who oppose Establishment Whites, the area of Nueces Texas.

This asset Seizures Kill List of fake claims against me could protect long term missuses of my genome including in Obamas by seeming to legitimize the usage of my genome, under law suit, while also ostracizing me to normal society where my genome would be used by me in racial choices I would make and that might show up on family databases as a close match to the Obama family or other families which I did not agree to genome claims too.

CARTEL

When groups band together to control the supply of a product for their best interests, that's called a cartel. If you and the other kids running lemonade stands form a cartel, you can force up the price of lemonade.

The word cartel originally referred to political parties that joined forces to promote a common cause. Over the years, cartel took on a decidedly negative connotation, and now it's more likely to describe organizations that join together to limit supply of a product to force prices to remain high. You might read about an international drug cartel or a cartel of natural gas producers. To correctly pronounce the word cartel, put the accent on the second syllable: "car TEL."

1. noun. a consortium of independent organizations formed to limit competition by controlling the production and distribution of a product or service

synonyms: combine, corporate trust, trust

Examples

1. Medellin cartel
   a drug cartel in Colombia; controlled the production of cocaine from the 1970s until 1993 when the leader was killed

2. Cali cartel
   a drug cartel that seized control of cocaine production in Colombia in 1993; adopted techniques used by terrorist organizations (small cells and sophisticated communications equipment and close ties with politicians etc.)

THe Medical State usage: Jeffery Esptien VI (Virgin Island) Brain Foundation along with the British are running large scale billions or trillions in racketeering and money laundering and blackmail based shakedowns.

It is my belief at the time I tried to free myself of Tom Donegan and Mark Wierness who sought control of my genes rights including brain genes Rikki Epstein possible kinfolk of Jeffery Epstein was moved in to the Retarded Children funds management firm (Advocacy for Retarded Children of Northern Virginia.

Described me as retarded gave them access to my brain genes they could use as payouts and monetize to their advocacy work beneficiaries and workers just so long as they deny my genes have value to anyone, deny that to me. The genes gets seized after a White Supremacist, me is given child porn (he doesn't want) and later his cell phone will be found, actually an impersonators cell phone, and genes rights are monetized in "pay up to the community and victim" restitution shakedown lead by an anti white nationalist District Attorney and Religious red state with long illegal access to my genome trying to make access to my genome appear legal

Types

1. drug cartel
   an illicit cartel formed to control the production and distribution of narcotic drugs

2. oil cartel
   a cartel of companies or nations formed to control the production and distribution of oil

Types of: consortium, pool, syndicate an association of companies for some definite purpose

The Longtime George H.W Bush Zapata role operating the shadow government with Mafia channeled into the US Government by infiltrating Mafia operation loyalists.

Variously termed Operation40, the Business Plot, or Shadow Government, it included Operation Mongoose that was the gathering of Cuban exiles to invade Cuba, Operation Northwood to blame the assassination of JFK on Cuba, and other elite shadow government State actors acts.

Those with enough criminal culpability in denied rouge acts now have a vision for the world which will rid the evidence and shape a world of silenced journalists and big business friendly world government run by mafia elites, enforced by violence, and concealed by friendly press.

The oil interests of penetrating into the middle east of any kind of friendly government, no matter how repressive or repugnant in form while denying Russia allies in the middle east is the vector of movement of the Shadow Government and dead informants to Congress allowed the Espionage Deep State sufficient growth and consolidation of power it was able to with use of propaganda demonize and eliminate opposition.

This system is based in Free Masonry, is tied to the assasination of the Kennedy Family, and utilized Donegan DNA illegally to create it current espionage CIA backed arbitrarily supported “popularly elected” public officials.

Rolling Stone Magazine

During the most violent years of the war in Nicaragua, a retired CIA agent - a man of many talents and pseudonyms whose given name is Felix Rodriguez - was the logistics officer for airlifts of weapons and supplies from the Ilopango air base, in El Salvador, to the jungle hide-outs of the Nicaraguan rebels known as contras. On October 5th, 1986, one of Rodriguez's cargo planes, a Southern Air Transport C-123K, loaded with 10,000 pounds of ammunition, failed to return from a scheduled drop in Nicaragua. Fearing the worst, Rodriguez made a series of phone calls to Washington that evening. What was unusual was that Rodriguez did not notify anyone at the Defense Department or the CIA but rather attempted to get word about the missing plane to Donald Gregg, the national-security adviser for Vice President George Bush.

When Rodriguez failed to reach Gregg, he telephoned Gregg's deputy, army colonel Samuel Watson. Watson relayed the information to the White House Situation Room, and an order was given to send U.S. aircraft toward the Nicaraguan border on a search-and-rescue mission. The following morning Rodriguez learned that Sandinista-government artillerymen had knocked the Southern Air plane out of the sky, killing the pilot and copilot. The third crewman, Eugene Hasenfus, had been captured. Again Rodriguez called Vice President Bush's office with the news, and the search-and-rescue mission was called off.

The subsequent investigation of the downed cargo plane revealed for the first rime a connection between the office of George Bush and a clandestine campaign to arm the contras - during the 1984-86 period when the U.S. Congress had ordered a halt to CIA and Pentagon aid. In response to reporters' queries, however, Bush's press officers issued statements claiming that the phone calls from Rodriguez represented the only time that the vice-president’s office had played any role in the arms-supply campaign. Later Gregg expanded on the official denials in a deposition to the joint select committee investigating the Iran-contra affair. “We [Bush and Gregg] never discussed the contras,” Gregg testified. “We had no responsibility for it; we had no expertise in it.”

A ROLLING STONE investigation, however, has found that the denials of Bush and Gregg are part of a continuing cover-up intended to hide their true role in the Reagan administration’s secret war against the Sandinista government of Nicaragua. Bush and Gregg were, in fact, deeply involved in a previously undisclosed weapons-smuggling operation to arm the contras that began in 1982, two years before the much publicized Iran-contra operation run by marine lieutenant colonel Oliver North and financed by the sale of missiles to Iran. This earlier operation, known as Black Eagle, went on for three years, overlapping North’s operation. The idea of both operations was to circumvent congressional restrictions on the CIA and the Pentagon. Although conceived by William Casey, the late CIA director, these operations were not sanctioned officially by the CIA or other government agencies. They were the instruments of a secret U.S. foreign policy carried out by men who constituted a kind of shadow government.

After meetings with Casey in the summer of 1982, Bush agreed to use the vice-president’s office as a cover for Black Eagle, according to a retired army covert operative assigned to Black Eagle. Gregg, a veteran CIA official, was assigned to work out of Bush’s office as the Washington liaison to Black Eagle operatives in Central America, coordinating financial and operational details. Gregg made regular status reports on Black Eagle to Bush, who relayed them to Casey. “Bush and Gregg were the asbestos wall,” says the career military man, who used the code name Lew Archer. “You had to burn through them to get to Casey.”

Felix Rodriguez, a close friend of Gregg’s since 1970, when they served together in Vietnam, had a unique soldier-statesman role in the Black Eagle operation: he not only handled airfield logistics for the arms airlifts to the contras but also traveled throughout Central America as a special envoy, authorized to negotiate with military commanders and even chiefs of state.

The ROLLING STONE investigation - based on congressional and court documents and more than fifty interviews with government diplomats, career military officers and intelligence agents, including key Black Eagle operatives - also found that General Manuel Noriega, the Panamanian dictator indicted in the U.S. on drug charges early this year, played an important part in Black Eagle, making available his country’s airfields and front companies to the American operatives. In exchange, Noriega appropriated Black Eagle’s fleet of cargo planes to smuggle cocaine and marijuana into the U.S. on behalf of the notorious Medellín cartel of Colombia. Several of those involved with the operation contend that Bush and Gregg knew about Noriega’s use of Black Eagle for drug running and that nothing was done to stop it.

The Cuban Project, also known as Operation Mongoose, was an extensive campaign of terrorist attacks against civilians, and covert operations, carried out by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in Cuba.[10] It was officially authorized on November 30, 1961 by American President John F. Kennedy. The name Operation Mongoose had been agreed at a prior White House meeting on November 4, 1961. The operation was run out of JM/WAVE, a major secret United States covert operations and intelligence gathering station established a year earlier in Miami, Florida,[11][12] and led by United States Air Force General Edward Lansdale on the military side and William King Harvey at the CIA and went into effect after the failed Bay of Pigs Invasion.

Operation Mongoose was a secret program against Cuba aimed at removing the Communists from power, which was a prime focus of the Kennedy administration.[4] A document from the United States Department of State confirms that the project aimed to “help Cuba overthrow the Communist regime,” including its leader Fidel Castro, and it aimed “for a revolt which can take place in Cuba by October 1962”. US policymakers also wanted to see “a new government with which the United States can live in peace”.

The government formally authorized the operation on March 17, 1960, when President Eisenhower signed off on a CIA paper entitled “A Program of Covert Action Against the Castro Regime.”

A declassified report by the Inspector General Lyman Kirkpatrick details the history of the operation, and states that the presidential order gave the agency authorization to create an organization of exiled Cubans to manage opposition programs, begin a “propaganda offensive” to draw support for the movement, create an intelligence gathering network inside Cuba, and to “develop a paramilitary force to be introduced into Cuba to organize, train and lead resistance groups against the Castro regime.[17] The propaganda offensive employed the use of radio broadcasts and leaflets to be passed around. This measure was solely aimed at propagating support for the provisional government.

Cuba versus the CIA FEBRUARY 01 1963

Cuba versus the CIA. By Light, Robert E. and Marzani, Carl. New York, 1961. Marzani and Munsell, Publishers. Illustrations. Pp. 72. Paper. $1.00. Robert F. Smith *

This booklet is primarily devoted to a critical examination of the abortive invasion of Cuba of April, 1961. Two chapters are reserved for vigorous attacks on the CIA, Allen Dulles, and United States' foreign policy in general.

The chapters dealing with the invasion are composed of general information gathered from various news media. The most original chapter presents the thesis that the basic plan of Operation Pluto "almost succeeded." According to the authors, the exile invasion was designed only to secure and hold a beachhead. When this had been accomplished the Revolutionary Council would have been flown in to establish a provisional government and to call for]U.S.] military help. During the next phase the U. S. Marínes and troops from three Latin American countries would have launched a major invasion of Cuba. Thus, the authors write that the failure of the exile phase of > the operation was not due to CIA bungling or errors of intelligence, but to the effectiveness of Castro's forces in eliminating the beachhead.

Harvey joined the Federal Bureau of Investigation in December 1940[4] and enjoyed a distinguished career (specializing in German and Soviet counterintelligence) throughout World War II and its immediate aftermath. In July 1947, he broke a regulation on being available on two-hour call due to sleeping off heavy drinking at a party the night before. He refused the resulting demotion and reassignment to Indianapolis, Indiana, preferring to resign. He joined the CIA shortly thereafter.

As he plotted to reduce the FBI's overseas powers, his knowledge of the Bureau proved to be invaluable. Along with James Angleton, he became one of the foremost operatives in the secret war against the KGB during the Cold War. According to journalist David Martin, Harvey swiftly gained a reputation for consuming more alcohol than any other person in the United States government; however, no one ever saw him drunk during this period.

Harvey's CIA career began with his founding of Staff D, the electronic surveillance branch of the Clandestine Service Division. In 1951 Harvey's investigation of the career history of Kim Philby, noting suspicious coincidences that suggested he had long been a Soviet agent, saw the CIA demand that Philby be kept out of his position as MI6 liaison; Philby was fired. Six months earlier, Harvey had got into a fight with Guy Burgess at a party after Burgess had drunkenly drawn a lewd cartoon of Harvey's wife.

From 1952 to 1960, Harvey was posted to West Berlin as chief of base, where he led the operation that built a tunnel to the Soviet sector to spy on their communication channels. This operation was called PBJOINTLY.[1] On his return to CIA headquarters, Harvey was tasked with a project to organize “executive actions” (a euphemism for the assassination of foreign political leaders) under the codename ZR/RIFLE.[1] To vanquish Fidel Castro, Harvey decided he needed to employ the resources of the American Mafia. He drew on the connections of businessman and CIA asset Robert Maheu, who had cultivated relationships with Sam Giancana, Santo Trafficante Jr., Johnny Roselli and other figures.[1] Finding Maheu’s operation chaotic, Harvey cut everyone but Roselli out, and ran the operations against Castro himself.

Harvey was also involved in Operation Mongoose, a CIA operation run from Miami, Florida that ran various attempts to undermine or overthrow the Cuban Revolution.[6] At the height of the Cuban Missile Crisis in October 1962, Harvey sent ten intelligence operatives into Cuba to gather intelligence and prepare for an invasion Harvey thought inevitable.

The unauthorized operation tarnished Harvey’s reputation. Although he was eventually assigned to Rome as station chief in 1963 following a punitive administrative post at CIA headquarters, he failed to acclimate to the milieu and was denied a high-profile assignment in the Laotian Civil War by Richard Helms.[1] Notably, Harvey recommended Colonel Renzo Rocca, chief of the Italian military intelligence Division R, as liaison for building up the Italian component of Operation Gladio in 1964. However, his drinking and health deteriorated, and he was ultimately relieved.

Although Harvey briefly headed a CIA headquarters unit on possible countermeasures to electronic surveillance, he took an extended leave of absence (largely precipitated by his alcohol use disorder and the concurrent fallout from his relationship with Roselli, who had been convicted in an elaborate card-cheating case) throughout much of 1967. He formally retired from the CIA in January 1968. Following a brief law practice in Washington, D.C., Harvey and his family relocated to Indianapolis amid fears of ongoing surveillance in 1969. During this period, he curtailed his alcohol use and edited legal decisions for the Bobbs-Merrill Company.

In 1975, he testified before the Church Committee on some of the CIA's past operations.

Harvey died in Indianapolis on JUNE 9, 1976 from a heart attack, at 60 years of age.

Assassination of John F. Kennedy

After the death of former CIA officer and Watergate figure E. Howard Hunt in 2007, Saint John Hunt and David Hunt revealed that their father had recorded several claims about himself and others being involved in a conspiracy to assassinate John F. Kennedy. In the April 5, 2007 issue of Rolling Stone, Saint John Hunt detailed a number of individuals implicated by his father, including Harvey, Lyndon B. Johnson, Cord Meyer, David Sánchez Morales, David Atlee Phillips, Frank Sturgis, and an assassin he termed "French gunman grassy knoll", who many presume was Lucien Sarti.

The two sons alleged that their father excised the information from his memoirs, "American Spy: My Secret History in the CIA, Watergate and Beyond", to avoid possible perjury charges.[8] Hunt's widow and other children told the Los Angeles Times that the two sons took advantage of Hunt's loss of lucidity by coaching and exploiting him for financial gain. The newspaper said it examined the materials offered by the sons to support the story and found them to be “inconclusive.”

In November 1988, Steve J. Rivele’s French-published book The Murderers of John F. Kennedy named Sarti as one of three French gangsters involved in the assassination of John F. Kennedy.[8] Rivele claimed Sarti fired the fatal shot from Dealey Plaza’s “grassy knoll”.[8] According to Rivele, Sarti, Roger Bocagnani, and Sauveur Pironti were contracted by organized crime in the United States to protect their drug interests.[8][9] The British two-hour television special The Men Who Killed Kennedy was based on Rivele’s book, but preceded its release airing on October 25, 1988.

In the French newspaper Le Provençal published the day following the special, Pironti denied the allegation, stating that he believed at the time of the assassination that Sarti was held in Marseille’s Baumettes Prison and that Bocagnani was in Bordeaux’s Fort du Hâ.[9] He also showed the paper military records proving that he was serving on a minesweeper from October 1962 to April 1964. The French Ministry of Justice stated that Bocagnani was in prison on the day of Kennedy’s assassination and officials from the French Navy confirmed Pironti’s military service.

After the death of E. Howard Hunt in 2007, Howard St. John Hunt and David Hunt stated that their father had recorded several claims about himself and others being involved in a conspiracy to assassinate John F. Kennedy.

In the April 5th, 2007 issue of Rolling Stone, Howard St. John Hunt detailed a number of individuals purported to be implicated by his father including Sarti, as well as Lyndon B. Johnson, Cord Meyer, David Phillips, Frank Sturgis, David Morales, and William Harvey. The two sons alleged that their father cut the information from his memoirs, American Spy: My Secret History in the CIA, Watergate and Beyond, to avoid possible perjury charges.[10] According to Hunt's widow and other children, the two sons took advantage of Hunt's loss of lucidity by coaching and exploiting him for financial gain.[10] The Los Angeles Times said they examined the materials offered by the sons to support the story and found them to be "inconclusive".

Lederberg was a key individual in the creation of bio¬ weapons as he first discovered that bacteria can swap genes[12]. He was connected to Fort Detrick bio-weapon research since 1949[13] and later became the president of Rockefeller University, a member of the Defense Science Board and the mysterious JASON Group [14]. Lederberg now advises the government in biological weapons and the potential for bio-terrorism[15].

Oswald

The Fair Play for Cuba Operation was a CIA operation likely to plant Nazi Windsors derived mixed race families.

At two minutes in to a recording of the real Jim Garrison and his team it is ignored that Oswald coming from California (and late Mexican border) found Nazis. Later in the tape at this mark Garrison and his team note that building Oswald is working out of seems to be a CIA operation, and also btw Masonic Temple, and Office of Naval Intelligence and FBI operation. audio

At 32 minutes Garrison notes suspiciously an English lord he calls Harold Lord Barney or something like that is speaking and Dallas AND General Edwin Walker had come to Dallas to hear the speech, and even more suspiciously General Walker, who Oswald is said to try have killed (but the evidence seems faked) hides his relationship and hotel stay in Dallas as when seeing the English Lord.

Did General Walker fake an attempt on himself to build a Legend regarding Oswald? Probably so.

News of the discovery of nuclear fission by German chemists Otto Hahn and Fritz Strassmann in 1938, and its theoretical explanation by Lise Meitner and Otto Frisch, was brought to the United States by Niels Bohr. *

At the University of Birmingham in Britain, the Australian physicist Mark Oliphant assigned two refugee physicists—Otto Frisch and Rudolf Peierls—the task of investigating the feasibility of an atomic bomb, ironically because their status as enemy aliens precluded their working on secret projects like radar. Their March 1940 Frisch-Peierls memorandum indicated that the critical mass of uranium-235 was within an order of magnitude of 10 kg, which was small enough to be carried by a bomber of the day. The British Maud Committee then unanimously recommended pursuing the development of an atomic bomb. Britain had offered to give the United States access to its scientific research,[10] so the Tizard Mission's John Cockcroft briefed American scientists on British developments. He discovered that the American project was smaller than the British, and not as far advanced.

A disappointed Oliphant flew to the United States to speak to the American scientists. These included Ernest Lawrence at the University of California's Radiation Laboratory in Berkeley. The two men had met before the war, and were friends.Lawrence was sufficiently impressed to commence his own research into uranium. Uranium-235 makes up only about 0.72% of natural uranium, so the separation factor of any uranium enrichment process needs to be higher than 1250 to produce 90% uranium-235 from natural uranium.[The Maud Committee had recommended that this be done by a process of gaseous diffusion, but Oliphant had pioneered another technique in 1934: electromagnetic separation. This was the process that Nier had used.

A Calutron is a mass spectrometer originally designed and used for separating the isotopes of uranium. It was developed by Ernest Lawrence during the Manhattan Project and was based on his earlier invention, the cyclotron. Its name was derived from California University Cyclotron, in tribute to Lawrence's institution, the University of California, where it was invented. Calutrons were used in the industrial-scale Y-12 uranium enrichment plant at the Clinton Engineer Works in Oak Ridge, Tennessee. The enriched uranium produced was used in the Little Boy

Government officials began to view the development of atomic bombs in time to affect the outcome of the war as a genuine possibility. Vannevar Bush, the director of the OSRD, which was overseeing the project, visited Berkeley in February 1942, and found the atmosphere there "stimulating" and "refreshing".[44] On 9 March 1942, he atomic bomb that was detonated over Hiroshima on 6 August 1945.

Electromagnetic separation for uranium enrichment was abandoned in the post-war period in favor of the more complicated, but more efficient, gaseous diffusion method.

reported to the president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, that it might be possible to produce enough material for a bomb by mid-1943, based on new estimates from Robert Oppenheimer that the critical mass of a sphere of pure uranium-235 was between 2.0 and 2.5 kilograms. From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Even though Oak Ridge (outgrowth of Columbia University New York City near Manhattan Island project seed) was a secret, closed city during the Manhattan Project, several mini-communities existed within its boundaries. Happy Valley, a community designated for the workers at the nearby K-25 Gaseous Diffusion Plant, was a good example of the miniature “worlds” that existed within Oak Ridge during the Manhattan Project.

In June, 1943 the J.A. Jones Construction Company began building housing for temporary workers involved in construction of the K-25 Gaseous Diffusion Plant and development of the Manhattan Project’s Oak Ridge operations. The housing area’s population ranged from 9,000 to almost 15,000 people during the Manhattan Project. The community included a theater, grocery store, bowling alley, 100 homes, 900 trailers, men’s dorms, mess hall, barracks, a school, a recreation center and more. A smaller, more rudimentary workers’ community existed nearby for the segregated African American population.

Happy Valley was a vital part of the Manhattan Project and the nation’s quest to develop an atomic bomb during World War II. The construction camp was demolished by the mid-1950s and the property was allowed to re-vegetate and became a mixed pine and hardwood forest.

Project Y From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

The Los Alamos Laboratory, also known as Project Y, was a secret laboratory established by the Manhattan Project and operated by the University of California during World War II. Its mission was to design and build the first atomic bombs. Robert Oppenheimer was its first director, serving from 1943 to December 1945, when he was succeeded by Norris Bradbury. In order to enable scientists to freely discuss their work while preserving security, the laboratory was located in a remote part of New Mexico. The wartime laboratory occupied buildings that had once been part of the Los Alamos Ranch School.

The development effort initially concentrated on a gun-type fission weapon using plutonium called Thin Man. In April 1944, the Los Alamos Laboratory determined that the rate of spontaneous fission in plutonium bred in a nuclear reactor was too great due to the presence of plutonium-240 and would cause a predetonation, a nuclear chain reaction before the core was fully assembled. Oppenheimer then reorganized the laboratory and orchestrated an all-out and ultimately successful effort on an alternative design proposed by John von Neumann, an implosion-type nuclear weapon, which was called Fat Man. A variant of the gun-type design known as Little Boy was developed using uranium-235.

Chemists at the Los Alamos Laboratory developed methods of purifying uranium and plutonium, the latter a metal that only existed in microscopic quantities when Project Y began. Its metallurgists found that plutonium had unexpected properties, but were nonetheless able to cast it into metal spheres. The laboratory built the Water Boiler, an aqueous homogeneous reactor that was the third reactor in the world to become operational. It also researched the Super, a hydrogen bomb that would use a fission bomb to ignite a nuclear fusion reaction in deuterium and tritium.

The Fat Man design was tested in the Trinity nuclear test in July 1945. Project Y personnel formed pit crews and assembly teams for the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki and participated in the bombing as weaponeers and observers. After the war ended, the laboratory supported the Operation Crossroads nuclear tests at Bikini Atoll. A new Z Division was created to control testing, stockpiling and bomb assembly activities, which were concentrated at Sandia Base. The Los Alamos Laboratory became Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in 1947.

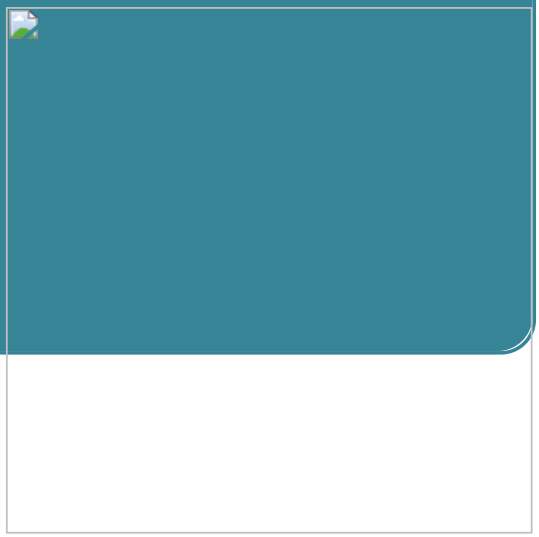
A Situate Light House stained paste on glass piece of artwork was something I cherished through much my life and kept with me through the years in Moraga California



Robert W. Donegan, age 87, passed away surrounded by his loving family on February 3. He is survived by his devoted wife of 62 years, Helen (Boudrot). He is also survived by his 5 children and their families - Elizabeth Bynarowicz, her husband Paul and their sons, Timothy, Michael and Peter of Simpsonville, SC; Nancy Levanchy, her husband John and their son Michael of Scituate; Susan Burke, her husband Daniel and their daughters Lindsay and Emily of Marshfield; Robert Jr., his former wife Amy and their sons David and James of North Reading, and Stephen, his wife Patricia and their daughters Kathleen, Annemarie, and Julie of Plymouth. He is also survived by his sister Elizabeth Connolly and many nieces and nephews. Bob was predeceased by his brothers, Edward Jr., Francis Donegan, and James Paul Donegan.

I think my father modified a few facts one of which I was named Edward “Ned” the British name for Edward after his father Edward. Edward Jr. was his brother along with William. The English Edwward I think was on his wife Glorians paternal side who my father and others described as titled abicated little signifance king I though in Ireland.

Bob was born in Dorchester to poor Irish imgrants as my father James Paul was and attended schools in Dorchester and South Boston. He joined the Coast Guard at the end of WWII and upon completion of service attended and graduated from Bentley College. He worked many years in private industry in accounting and financial management. At the end of his career he worked for the Mass Rehab Commission, retiring in 1982.

Together, Bob and his wife Helen raised their family in Scituate and later retired to Marshfield. Bob was an avid reader with a passion for history, sports and politics. His sense of humor and his endless enthusiasm, pride and unwavering support for his friends and his family members will be remembered fondly and missed greatly.

A funeral Mass will be on Tuesday, February 9th at 11 AM, in St. Mary of the Nativity Church, 1 Kent St., Scituate. Visitation at the Richardson-Gaffey Funeral Home, 382 First Parish Road, Scituate on Tuesday from 9 - 10:30 AM. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Shriner’s Hospital for Children, PO Box 1525, Ranson, WV 25438.

What is Gang Stalking a Targeted Individual? Targeting of Individuals by the US Government for Subversion, attacks, etc.?

By Professor Eric Thor Karlstrom, Ph.D
https://erickarlstrom.com/

A Simple Definition

Under Occupational Health and Safety laws, individuals are being flagged and placed on community notification lists. This is happening without the targets knowledge. In many countries these community notifications are being used by companies and others to target innocent individuals such as whistle-blowers, the outspoken, etc. In conjunction with these notifications, companies and others are in some cases using a practice that was used in the former soviet union called the psychiatric reprisal. This is used as a means of retaliation, blacklisting, silencing, or controlling members of society. Once on the notification system, warnings about the targets are sent out to every individual the target comes in contact with, thus poisoning their associations, and socially annexing the targeted individual.

Gang Stalking is a systemic form of control, which seeks to destroy every aspect of a Targeted Individuals life. Once a target is flagged a notification is sent out to the community at large, and the target is followed around 24/7 by the various communities that they are in.

Target Selection

Gang stalking apparently targets American citizens deemed to be dissidents or whistle-blowers (and perhaps potential dissidents and whistle-blowers), although others might be targeted for other reasons - such as for experimental or training purposes. For perspective, it should be remembered that for two decades the CIA performed secret illegal experiments on U.S. and Canadian citizens (the infamous MK Ultra program). Those experiments included physical and psychological torture.

A lot of accounts by self-proclaimed targets of gang stalking suggest that people are often subjected to severe long-term harassment simply because they crossed someone connected with the agencies and security firms which perpetrate such operations.

An example of that type of abuse occurred in April 2012, when USA Today reported that one of its reporters and an editor were slandered by a secret disinformation campaign waged by an intelligence contractor firm to discredit them because the newspaper had investigated and reported on that contractor. The company involved conducted propaganda campaigns for the U.S. military. Similarly, in August 2013 it was reported that at least a dozen National Security Agency (NSA) employees had used their surveillance system access to spy on their current and former spouses and partners.

Implications

In addition to being morally reprehensible, gang stalking - just like the original version of the FBI's Cointelpro operations - is illegal. It violates criminal laws in all fifty states against stalking, as well as grossly violating the U.S. Constitution's prohibitions against warrantless searches and extra-judicial punishment.

While the vast majority of Americans are never personally targeted by gang stalking, they should still be concerned about the existence of such operations. Even if such activities were constitutionally legitimate (clearly they are not), they would still have an enormous potential for abuse as a personal or political weapon by the practitioners.

Ending this cowardly and illegal practice by law enforcement agencies, intelligence agencies, and their parasitic corporate contractors will require exposing what is happening to the public. Anyone reading this can assist with that exposure by simply sharing this information with others.

Subversion, assassination, wetworks, psychological ware in conjunction with the United States military is a form of non-uniformed political violence and regime change denied to the public.

Through the death of Jen Moore and the FBI cover-up of many murders of their own, of members of the press, and US Government officials I have learned more about the reason for the murders and Shadow Government of the USA.

In short the Oil Business loyal to England, the British Pilgrim Society and the US Council on Foreign Relations along with Knights of Malta and many other State actors such as DuPont, Boeing, and other military contractors tied to their board members such as Robert Mueller, Christopher Wray, George H.W. Bush and many of the others of the Bush family along with the Rockefellers, LBJ, Oliver North, and many others have been running attempts to overthrow nations via OSS/CIA techniques long in use including radiological attacks.

My mother grew up in North Carolina with Harold Gainey with Festus Gainey. Glorian Gainey was tied to the Maria August Kutschera Von Trapp, and that history goes to a dirty war of the day of WWI and WWII as Eugenics studied and now covers-up the genes in our families.

The Espionage murders of Jen Moore and others (often who are law enforcement) are the CIA FBI Shadow Government of Targeted Killings who have path to hide and that path includes the murder of Marilyn Monroe and many Roman Catholic figures who did refuse a deal they could not refuse, working with the Queen of England on these programs.

I assert the FBI DOJ OSS love of mafia and contract killings was shown in the murder of JFK, RFK, Marylin Monroe, Lee Harvey Oswald, Ted Gunderson, and Dorothy Kilgallen.

The after that were the WETDIVISION murders of Thomas Crane Wales, Justice Scalia, Judge Roll, and other Roman Catholics again who did refuse a deal mistakenly offered to them.

I take no deals with these people either and my life is in danger.

Robert Swan Mueller, Christopher Wray and others specially in Targeted Killings, targeting people in the USA for assassination by radioactive raw source or X-RAY, evidence plants, COINTELPRO evidence plants, Gang Stalk paid actors evidence manufacture (stage false appearances in Abuse of Processes sabotage) and other acts.

It is these crimes I am victim of because the plan to kill Castro and create Obama Jr. in Indonesia involved a sampling of Donegan DNA in Twins studies and the Free Masons (J. Edgar Hoover, others) will not admit to their meeting with JFK February 20 1961 or the Middle East North Africa (MENA) CIA airport black budget money laundering plan of oil profits, or the murder of Barry Seal, all connected including the the YMCA and Salvation Army, US Peace Corp, and USAID, and the Anglicans.

A SONIC oscillator, a show being produced to theater goers about how RADAR works, perhaps in Japan “How Charlie” won the war over Dover Cliffs? Lee Harvey Oswald part of demonstrating the radar to as Glorian Gainey, Harold Gainey, and Marylin Monroe are there? Rocky Horror Sonic Oscilator operator?

My theory is the CIA and RKO were making some fictionalized movies about how Charlie, pilots of the F-80s won the war The Americanization of EMily with Julie Andrews, out of wedlock Windsor hiding who her father is, also Sound of Music, and she was in “Tell me how you won the [WWII] war over London” and that story was RADAR also this is in Jet Pilot with John Wayne.

I think when my father met my mother’s sister first but did not find to be looking for a date was Marylin Monroe. Harold Gainey and GLorian Gainey were also there and my father married GLorian Donegan at the movie making cast of characters.

THe Movie and play Rocky Horror Picture show has writing on the wall of GLorian and Tom and a C-section, a plane, and a a chicken, I thin an IVF rpresentaion, and the RADAR could have been shown at a Boieng lab, SSFL, Japanese RADAR station, or elsewhere, and Lee Harvey Oswald in on the whole story.

In the quotes of the order to bomb Japan there is also a fine targeting I have ever seen may have meant some marriages and also the usefullness of radar in finding threats in the air.

OSWALD, MARINE CORPS INTELLIGENCE, AND THE ASSAULT ON THE STATE DEPARTMENT

Introductory Abstract

by

Peter Dale Scott

The special handling of Lee Harvey Oswald by the State Department (in conjunction as I have argued with the CIA) was undeniably anomalous. It swiftly aroused (by as early as 1960) the suspicions of FBI, ONI and Marine intelligence personnel, and Hoover's allies (notably Otto Otepka) in the State Department Office of Security. We know this chiefly from Oswald's ONI records, where we also learn that there were confidential ONI messages on Oswald (alias Harvey Lee Oswald), stored in Marine G-2 (intelligence) files that were never seen by the Warren Commission.

The charade of Oswald's discharge from the Marine Reserve in 1960 was an operation coordinated by Marine G-2 and ONI Counterintelligence. This discharge was used to challenge State's determination that Oswald had not revoked his U.S. citizenship, and to empower Otto Otepka in a series of vain efforts to pry loose confidential information about Oswald from files in other parts of the State Department.

Otepka eventually shared his understandable suspicions about State's handling of Oswald with the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee (SISS). After Otepka was first reprimanded, and then dismissed from his position, the SISS in 1964 publicly explored Otepka's concern that Oswald's passport application had been mishandled by the State Department.

The uproar over the Otepka case in 1963 became one more battle in an on-going war between elite (above all State) and anti-elitist (FBI, military intelligence) factions in the U.S. Government, the latter backed by the SISS and virulently anti-Kennedy right-wing organizations, notably in Dallas. The drilling and ransacking of Otepka's safe by Kennedy-appointed officials (later forced to resign) reveals how deeply this conflict divided elements inside the bureaucracy.

Oswald's Suppressed ONI and Marine G-2 Records

To consider and explain Lee Harvey Oswald as a CIA Patriot much like Leslie Ann Shedd or other CIA operatives betrayed by slush-fund CIA it is neccesary to show where his intersectional story with the life path of James and Glorian Donegan.

James Paul Donegan

James was born to Nancy Donegan and I am a little confused about his father’s first name.

Jame’s father came from Ireland to Boston Massachusetts during the Potato Famine believed by the Irish to be an economic throttle

The FBI-Supplied "Basis" for the ONI/G-2-Arranged "Discharge"

The first available evidence of on-going contact between ONI and Marine G-2 with respect to Oswald is an Confidential ONI file reference, dated February 4, 1960, to a conversation two days earlier between Lt. j.g. Fredrickson of ONI and Captain Steele of Marine G-2. The topic is Oswald's recent defection to the USSR, or more specifically State Department reporting of this event.[48] There are other such references to such telephone conversations, whose content remains hidden even in the confidential ONI letters withheld from the unclassified Oswald personnel file.[49] It is not clear

[42] Letter of 6/3/60 from John Edgar Hoover, Director of FBI, to Office of Security, Department of State (ONI-100). Consider also the unfulfilled requests for information from J.Edgar Hoover on February 27, 1961, and from Emery J. Adams of the State Security Office on March 2, 1961 (Newman, Oswald and the CIA, 213-14). As if he had seen military intelligence references to "Harvey Lee Oswald," Adams asked other branches of State to "advise if the FBI is receiving info about Harvey on a continuing basis."

[43] 16 WH 597; cf. 16 WH 594. On July 16, Marguerite wrote again, astutely raising a potentially embarrassing question: in what city had her son's passport been issued (16 WH 600)?. The State Department replied, correctly, "Los Angeles" (16 WH 601). Originally Richard Snyder of the Moscow Embassy had misreported this as "San Francisco" (18 WH 97; cf. Peter Dale Scott, "Oswald and the Hunt for Popov's Mole," The Fourth Decade, March 1994, 7). Marguerite and the State Department continued to correspond vigorously until Oswald's return (16 WH 603-20).

[46] For example, the State Department advised the Chiefs of ONI and Marine G-2 on May 10, 1962, that "The Passport Office, with jurisdiction in this matter, has advised...that Mr. Oswald...has not expatriated himself" (ONI-50). Nevertheless the Navy upheld Oswald's discharge in 1963, finding "proper" an earlier determination "that he had renounced his U.S. citizenship" (19 WH 690).

of the Irish people that fueled England’s military against the French while suppressing Ireland and its productivity.

Though James’ father had been an accountant CPA type in Ireland in Boston he was only able to work as a janitor in a Hersheys chocolate factory and later died of a heart attack, said to have been dead by the time he hit the floor in a sudden event leaving my father in tears.

James’s mother I believe to be Nancy Detweiler or Nancy Donegan, the wife of James’s father and those two the biological family of James and the family of origin in which hg was born into in Boston Massachusetts.

While in extreme poverty as a youth he joined the Army Air Corps as soon as he could likely seeing one of the Jimmy Stuart ads on TV that I have now seen in which those just under 18 and with little existing training could recieve training in a military eager for recruits as the war was unfolding.

His became a pilot in the Army Air Corps flying the P-51 built in Inglewood California (a neighborhood of Manhattan Beach, a city in Los Angeles County.)

Manhattan Beach used to confuse me for many years. Where was I born? Every bank security question or various enrollments asked though. My mother used to say Manhattan Beach and I would hear Los Angeles and say but those are on the opposite sides of the Country.

Manhattan Beach California (perhaps like Venice Beach) takes its name as a city from the Manhattan Project which was conducted by Columbia University New York City, named as the Manhattan Project because Columbia University in NYC overlooks the island of Manhattan and that became the code name for the building of the Atomic Bomb and first nuclear piles as a high energy physics research project as well as the Cyclotron atom smashers of Lawrence Livermore Lab my father used to take me to and tell me about in the UC Berkeley hills where we would live, on the east side, in a foothill town called Moraga California though I would go to high-school on the west side of the school near Lancer Livermore lab at Head Royce and be enrolled in extra curricular classes at LLL.

It is probable as the P-51 was being developed my father was at the first atomic bomb destination but that is not certain. He did fly in tandem with the B-29s as part of what I think was the 509th in and over Germany from which he had a mug which was stolen possibly by Tom or more accurately hidden from becoming noticed by anyone.

He told me he was a participant in the first and second atomic bombings of Japan and if we had a third atomic bomb (which he said we did not) and if the Japanese did not surrender (though they did because we said we had a third bomb) he would have had to go back to Japan again for the third bombing.

After the war he flew in Korea and I saw pictures of him next to a P-86 with flight suite, helmet, and and oxygen mask off to the side of his face. He told me there he flew reconnaissance and had nightmares of picking civilian targets by identification.

I think in the late 1950s during the Cold War, the Chinese Great Leap Forward disaster, the Pacific Missle Crisis and the Atlantic missile crisis James Paul Donegan intersected with the Von Trapp family and Julie Andres and Lee Harvey Oswald in a CIA propaganda system in Japan.

Glorian and Harold Gainey were raised by Festus Gainey in North Carolina in the depression too poor to buy clothes but told it was ok to where gunny sack made clothing if it were clean, then the material did not matter, because good clothing was just having good hygenei and keeping clothes clean.

I think CIA films were being made like Jet Pilot, The Americanization of Emily, and The Sound of Music which were part of the tale of Maria Augusta Kutschera, whith three out of wedlock Windosor children and her new husband Captaiin Von Trapp of Austria with his 7 children coming to the USA in 1926, Maria Augusta Kutschera likely leaving the convent pregnant.

She, like Glorian Donegan and Edward Paul Donegan expressed FOXP2 Minimal Brain Disorder creating a charming buut flighty personality, and somewhat rebellious children on a path of their own unable to and unwilling to follow to much disciplined studiousness.

Part of the background films was understanding RADAR and how the fighters defended London from German bombers as RADAR gave their warnings. One problem were Buzz Bombs, a German device which has propeller and would fly until the propeller ran out of power and the bomb fell to earth.

The defense of the cliffs of Dover turned into counter bombing of Dresden, military targets all through Nazi occupied Europe, and finaly into Japan to end the war.

In Japan where the bombs were dropped the stage was being set for its fictionalized story in Julie Andrews Sound of Musci and the actors were being show how radar operated, etc., with CIA backed Lee Harvey Oswald at the RADAR set;

Harold Gainey and my father and mother said James and Glorian met at an plane crash, my father’s plane catching on fire, his emergency landing, and arriving on Harold Gainey DOt Dew farm in South Carolina.

Harold Gainey is actually how this group was brought together. He was taken with Glorian to South Carolina where DuPont and Robert Mueller II of DuPont arranged for the company to get a foster home with the Dew Family in South Carolina. When Harold and Glorian were telling their stories DuPont was a part of that story and keeping the Von Trapps in the United States of America. Oswald was part of that likely with Captain Von Trapp and submarine warfare in and anti sub warfare in North Carolina.

The more likely story is they met in Japan at British Propaganda about England's finest hour, and the 1961 atomic bomber crash in North Carolina was adopted and modified by my family as an alternative to the truth about meeting in Japan a few years early in in the USAF.

It was also part of a CIA plan that that gene was in Maria Augusta Keutschere, the London KE Family and it seems who was said to by my grandfather an abdicated king, Edward, but some kind of post reign (a reign of some minor or little significance) numeral of some types, I had been referee to as a III.

I think my father was told i had some gene which was being studies or at least atomic test data DNA was being studied from atomic veterans like him who at least at one time were in a blast tower in Las Vegas with googles on, and likely about this time in the 1950s, late 1950s, Tom Donegan was born to Glorian Donegan and James Donegan, Thomas Neil [Armstrong] Donegan born 1 year and 11 months earlier than Edward Paul Donegan born 11 18 1961 and with a birth certificate of November 19 1961 Manhattan Beach California at St Josephs Catholic hospital, and I think more DNA from Glorian Donegan produced at least Barrack Obama Jr, and possibly this same DNA being in Mark and Scott Kelly and others including from other sources being int the Prescott Bush family line and also Rockefellers.

James Donegan leaves the Air Force and joins TWA and we move to Manhattan Beach Los Angeles and flies out of LAX and later we move back to Boston Massachusetts.

JFK and his Irish Mafia seem to be at Los Angeles at the time of my birth and Marilyn Monroe arrived with Joseph Kennedy Sr just outside RKO at an orphanage, her biological father unknown.

What Lee Harvey Oswald was doing for the CIA is setting up children from this British Austrian family line to become unregistered registry. The Registry tracks births and Regicide is killing a royal. The non registry births allowed the London KE family to have some privacy, and kinfolk in a secret club.

Oswald’s role in the CIA was to get involved with an already mole in Russia, marry his daughter, and open the door for Ted Cruz Jr. or even further infiltration of communism from inside either Russia or inside Cuba.

JFK and Jack do not like the plan nor does Marilyn Monroe. Asked to create fake birthday photos for Barrack Obama Jr. she balks and is killed.

In Seattle Expo 1962 the plan continues to be discussed, Malcolm X the biological father of Glorian Ovum produced child.

At Barrack Obama turning two years old and not expressing the genetic defect he will be a sleeper agent per J. Edgar Hoower, Lyndon B. Johson, the East West Center, Peace Corps, Shriver Lawfords, Schwartzeneggres, but JFK says no.

Rose Cherami knows of the plan to kill JFK and those over-ride the “np” but she is killed before she can reach JFK and may not have been able to get access anyway. She could have been a threat if after JFK was killed she could have offered a reason why.

Though Dorothy Kilgallen was part of the publicity for The Sound of Music her closeness to the Irish and anti mafia Kennedy Administration does not get her quite enough access to put the entire story together but she is working on it until she is killed herself.

Upon JFK’s death Oswald tries to out the program by called Raleigh North Carolina but then Oswald is killed by Ruby who was part of the mafia plan to bring Rafael Cruz Jr and himself into the new casino operations in Chicago Mob Havana as a subsidiary of Chicago mafia.

> Former FBI official Ted Gunderson died of cancer on July 31, 2011. Was his illness induced by silent electromagnetic assault or by other nefarious means? We will never know - and that's just the way certain entities want it.
>
> A former senior official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation says "rogue" military intelligence and law enforcement units of the federal government oversee a nationwide network of community-based "gang stalking" harassment, intimidation and domestic terrorism directed at thousands of U.S. citizens who have been extrajudicially targeted as "dissidents" or undesirables.
> Ted Gunderson, 82, who has served as the Special Agent in Charge of the FBI's Los Angeles, Memphis and Dallas FBI Field Offices, has stated in a series of public speaking appearances that he is now targeted by these same elements, and fears for his life and for the safety of his family. He reports that the windows of his home have been shot out, and he believes he has been poisoned and physically sickened by those seeking to silence him.

"Based on my thirty years' experience and research, I have determined there are thousands of victims who have been targeted by an illegal U.S. government rogue criminal enterprise - military intelligence, probably, tied into CIA and FBI and so forth - that is active 24 hours a day throughout the United States," Gunderson stated in an October 2008 speech posted last fall on YouTube, three years before cancer consumed him.

GANG STALKING VIGILANTISM RUN BY U.S. GOVERNMENT, SAYS EX-FBI OFFICIAL *

Right to a phone call if arrested

By Andrew Lu Findlaw *

If your legal knowledge comes mostly from watching movies and TV shows, you may believe that you are automatically granted this right. And in many states, this may be the case.

However, the right to make a phone call is typically governed by state law and is not something specifically enumerated in the Constitution. As a result, to learn your exact rights, you may need to talk to an attorney in your state.

For example, a person arrested in Rhode Island does have the enumerated right to make a phone call. The person arrested can make a call to secure a lawyer or to arrange for bail as soon as practicable following an arrest, typically within one hour.

Furthermore, Rhode Island law also provides that the telephone call shall be carried out in a manner that maximizes confidentiality between the person arrested and the call's recipient.

Detention and Imprisonment retrieved from Amnesty International and copied or modified to here

Through our detailed research and determined campaigning, we help fight abuses of human rights worldwide. We bring torturers to justice. Change oppressive laws. And free people jailed just for voicing their opinion.

Overview

It is easy sometimes to think that the rights of prisoners have little to do with us - that they have somehow exchanged their rights for a life of crime. This is wrong on two counts. Firstly, everyone has the same rights and they can never be taken away, no matter where you are, or what you may have done. Secondly, just because you are in prison, it does not mean you are guilty of a crime - if you were lucky enough to have a trial, it may not have been a fair one.

Since we began in 1961, Amnesty activists have been ready to spring into action for people facing imminent danger in detention. From sending faxes and tweets to making phone calls or taking to the streets. “… The phone calls to the police during my arrest saved me from torture and rape. The police station was so swamped they stopped picking up the phone,” says Women of Zimbabwe Arise (WOZA)’s co-founder Jenni Williams.

While there have been thousands of victories, systemic change is harder to come by, and far too many people are still languishing in isolation, incommunicado, in fear.

The problem

There are seven main problems.

1. Prisoners of conscience - someone has not used or advocated violence or hatred but is imprisoned because of who they are (sexual orientation, ethnic, national or social origin, language, birth, colour, sex or economic status) or what they believe (religious, political or other conscientiously held beliefs).
2. Arbitrary detention - being detained for no legitimate reason or without legal process
3. Incommunicado - being detained without access to family, lawyers etc.
4. Secret detention - being detained in a secret location.
5. Inadequate prison conditions - such as overcrowding and prolonged solitary confinement.
6. Unfair trials - trials conducted without ensuring minimum legal process.
7. Torture and other forms of ill-treatment.

Amnesty International is calling for

- No secret detentions.
- No torture or other forms of ill-treatment.
- Rapid and regular access to lawyers, doctors and relatives.
- Effective legal process so that people can challenge their detention and treatment.

• Independent judges.
• Adequate detention conditions. Including an end to prolonged solitary confinement.
• Prompt and independent investigations when someone dies in detention.
• Independent Monitoring bodies make regular visits to detention places.
• Fair trials within a reasonable time or release.
• All prisoners of conscience released without conditions.

The issue in detail

Under international human rights law, no one can be detained without a legitimate reason and, anyone accused of a crime has the right to a fair trial. But in many countries throughout the world, no proper process is followed and no safeguards are in place: such as lawyers present during interrogations; independent doctors on-hand to examine detainees; contact with families and ensuring confessions obtained by torture can never be used as evidence.

Amnesty's Fair Trial Manual is a practical guide to international fair trial standards. It is a vital tool for lawyers, judges and trial observers. It is also used by political prisoners representing themselves in court as a DIY defence guide - such as Albin Kurti who used the Manual to represent himself before a UN tribunal in Kosovo and was released.

Detainees are entitled to the rights and standards enshrined in international law. At the universal level, the main protections are contained in:

- International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights
- UN Convention Against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment and its Optional Protocol
- UN Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance
- UN Convention on the Rights of the Child

- UN Body of Principles for the Protection of All Persons under any Form of Detention or Imprisonment
- UN Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners
- UN Rules for the Treatment of Women Prisoners and Non-custodial Measures for Women Offenders ('the Bangkok Rules').
- United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice ("the Beijing Rules")
- United Nations Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of their Liberty
- UN Standard Minimum Rules for Non-custodial Measures (the 'Tokyo Rules').

Eugenio Rolando Martínez retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Eugenio Rolando Martínez Careaga (alias Musculito, JULY 8, 1922 - January 30, 2021

Eugenio Rolando Martínez Careaga[1] (alias Musculito, July 8, 1922 - January 30, 2021) was a member of the anti-Castro movement in the early 1960s, and later was one of the five men recruited by G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt in 1972 for the Memorial Day weekend Watergate burglary at the Democratic National Committee (DNC) headquarters in Washington, D.C. He later worked as a real estate agent.

Weeks after the initial break-in, on June 17, 1972, the men were arrested by District of Columbia Police inside DNC headquarters during what they said was a second entry into the building to correct problems with the first break-in. Martinez and the others were convicted in the ensuing Watergate scandal. The others were Frank Sturgis, Virgilio Gonzalez, Bernard Barker and James McCord. After completing his 15 month prison term,[3] Martinez was pardoned by President Ronald Reagan in 1983. Martínez was the only person aside from Nixon to receive a pardon for his role in the scandal.

Martinez was portrayed in All the President's Men, the 1976 film retelling the events of the Watergate scandal, by Dominic Chianese.

On August 31, 2016, the conservative watchdog group Judicial Watch obtained CIA internal documents, through a FOIA request, that stated Martinez was a paid asset of the Agency at the time of the break-in. Although his connection to the Agency was acknowledged, until this release the CIA had maintained that his service had ended and he no longer had an association with the Agency for at least two years prior to the incident at the Watergate Hotel. He died on January 30, 2021, at his daughter's home in Minneola, Florida at the age of 98.

On 3RD JULY, 1972, Martinez, Frank Sturgis, Virgilio Gonzalez, Bernard L. Barker and James W. McCord were arrested while removing electronic devices from the Democratic Party campaign offices in an apartment block called Watergate. The phone number of E.Howard Hunt was found in address books of the burglars. Reporters were now able to link the break-in to the White House. Bob Woodward, a reporter working for the Washington Post was told by a friend who was employed by the government, that senior aides of President Richard Nixon, had paid the burglars to obtain information about its political opponents.

What Are The Differences Between Burglary, Theft, And Vandalism? retrieved from Voss Law and copied or modified to here

Someone has broken into your business and caused damage. You may be confused by which crime was technically committed on your property and whether the damage is covered by your commercial insurance policy. In order to better understand how your business was damaged, it is important to know the differences between burglary, theft, and vandalism. Let's take a look at their basic definitions:

THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN BURGLARY, THEFT, AND VANDALISM

- BURGLARY: Burglary is the act of entering a property illegally with the intent of breaking a law. Elements of burglary include trespassing, breaking, and entering. Someone who commits burglary could do so in order to steal from the property, to illegally dwell there, or to vandalize property.

- THEFT: Theft or robbery is a criminal act in which a person takes someone else's property without permission. While burglary often goes hand-in-hand with theft, theft can occur without burglary and vice versa.

- VANDALISM:Vandalism is the purposeful and malicious destruction of property by someone who does not own the property. It is sometimes referred to as malicious mischief or malicious trespassing. It is common for those who commit vandalism to first commit burglary, though not everyone who commits burglary is guilty of vandalism.

The espionage we Targeted Individuals are subjected to (as my mother was) depends on Broken Links.

Broken (or invalid links) come in two forms. The first is that an evidence plant, a home invasion, a faked property record, items taken from or placed into our homes, or even wrong billings of what TV service we have link us to a distruth.

and the second form of broken links is once we have been improperly tied to negative things through plants of evidence, etc., on our property links that then SHOULD occur are postive and correct outcomes but do not (failed to get hired at a job) do not occur. The wrongful link to negatives and thus sabotaging links to our forward progress in life act together to destroy our lives.

2. Fail to create new links to things upon the earlier sabotage

ETK Introduction Dr. Eric T. Karlstrom P.O. Box 54 Crestone, CO 81131 email https://911nwo.com/

What is Gang Stalking a Targeted Individual? Targeting of Individuals by the US Government for Subversion, attacks, etc.?

By Professor Eric Thor Karlstrom, Ph.D https://erickarlstrom.com/

“Gang Stalking” is, very likely, a disinformation term created by U.S. intelligence agencies. It refers to the intense, long-term, unconstitutional surveillance and harassment of a person who has been designated as a target by someone associated with America’s security industry.

Such operations have nothing to do with criminal gangs. Official domestic counterintelligence operations of this type are - apparently - perpetrated by federal agents and contractors, sometimes with the support of state and local law enforcement personnel. The goal of such operations - in the parlance of counterintelligence agents - is to “subvert” or “neutralize” an individual deemed to be an enemy (or potential enemy) of clients or members of the security state. Arguably, the most accurate term for this form of harassment would be “counterintelligence stalking.”

Espionage Agencies target people for subversion of careers, housing, family, jobs, etc., thorugh illegal acts and under-cover operations.

LEGEND (URBAN)

An urban legend or contemporary legend is a genre of folklore comprising stories circulated as true, especially as having happened to a "friend of a friend" or family member, often with horrifying or humorous elements. These legends can be entertaining but often concern mysterious peril or troubling events, such as disappearances and strange objects. They may also be confirmation of moral standards, or reflect prejudices, or be a way to make sense of societal anxieties. - Wikipedia

LEGEND (ESPIONAGE)

A spy's claimed background or biography, usually supported by documents and memorized details. - Spy Museum

legends are most often circulated orally, but can be spread by any media, including newspapers, mobile news apps, e-mail, and social media. Some urban legends have passed through the years with only minor changes to suit regional variations. Some my come from false flags such as Komprmoat, evidence of misconduct placed on or around a victim who will be wrongly blamed.

- STREET THEATER Is the Gang of Stalker surrounding a victim in public and alter the correct context of the Slander Victim into a distorted context of the Slander Victim.

- OFFICE MOB Is the same paid actors or other paid actors who surrounded the Slander Victim at one location that talk up and circulate rumors about the Slander Victim based on earlier events.

A Simple Definition

Under Occupational Health and Safety laws, individuals are being flagged and placed on community notification lists. This is happening without the targets knowledge. In many countries these community notifications are being used by companies and others to target innocent individuals such as whistle-blowers, the outspoken, etc. In conjunction with these notifications, companies and others are in some cases using a practice that was used in the former soviet union called the psychiatric reprisal. This is used as a means of retaliation, blacklisting, silencing, or controlling members of society. Once on the notification system, warnings about the targets are sent out to every individual the target comes in contact with, thus poisoning their associations, and socially annexing the targeted individual.

Gang Stalking is a systemic form of control, which seeks to destroy every aspect of a Targeted Individuals life. Once a target is flagged a notification is sent out to the community at large, and the target is followed around 24/7 by the various communities that they are in.

The goals of Predatory Gangstalking of an individual are numerous. Predatory Gangstalking is intended to deprive someone of their freedoms and rights. It destroys a person’s privacy and control of their own environments. It is intended to create distress, disrupt all relationships, deplete person’s resources, destroy one’s physical and mental health, and inflict great overall long term suffering. They interfere with a target’s sleep thereby producing chronic sleep deprivation, as a strategic tactic. They employ a variety of interactions with the targeted individual which are likely to produce accidents and various forms of illness. One of the main weapons they use for their own protection and to enable their success in gangstalking is to manipulate the target’s life in such a way as to cause them to lose their credibility with others. This is usually the first objective reached. After that, gangstalking the target involves only minor risk. Notably, people who become involved generally stop caring about the abuse by either turning a blind eye or actively joining in. While others, though concerned for the target, become too frightened to speak out or come to believe the propoganda that the target is mentally ill and needs ‘this‘ help.

Predatory Gangstalking also involves provoking “accidents” and consequences of harm to the target. Predatory Gangstalkers will surrounding a target’s moving vehicle and attempting to force them off of the road when they are stressed and exhausted.

Worse, these tactics will be employed after tampering with a targeted individual's vehicle. Predatory Gangstalking is very serious business. Predatory Gangstalking is, at the least, psychological violence, and at most, it is a protracted sadistic sociopathic domination and calculated destruction of an innocent human being for reasons of pleasure, power, and social control by a group predatory stranger.

Target Selection and Targets of Value or Interest

Gang stalking apparently targets American citizens deemed to be dissidents or whistle-blowers (and perhaps potential dissidents and whistle-blowers), although others might be targeted for other reasons - such as for experimental or training purposes. For perspective, it should be remembered that for two decades the CIA performed secret illegal experiments on U.S. and Canadian citizens in the infamous MK Ultra program of the Donegan family comes from, the atomic bombing of Japan, atomic testing and DNA, behavoiral research on FOXP2 gene. Those experiments included physical and psychological torture.

A lot of accounts by self-proclaimed targets of gang stalking suggest that people are often subjected to severe long-term harassment simply because they crossed someone connected with the agencies and security firms which perpetrate such operations.

An example of that type of abuse occurred in April 2012, when USA Today reported that one of its reporters and an editor were slandered by a secret disinformation campaign waged by an intelligence contractor firm to discredit them because the newspaper had investigated and reported on that contractor. The company involved conducted propaganda campaigns for the U.S. military. Similarly, in August 2013 it was reported that at least a dozen National Security Agency (NSA) employees had used their surveillance system access to spy on their current and former spouses and partners.

Harassment (a.k.a. "Subversion") Tactics

In counterintelligence, to "subvert" or "neutralize" an enemy is to make it impossible for that enemy to go about his business. Gang stalkers seek to keep their victim in a constant state of agitation and hyper-vigilance so that he or she will find it almost impossible to function.

This serves multiple purposes. For one thing, it makes it hard for the individual to pose a threat to the client of the gang stalkers - whether that is a corporation or a government.

Note that - as discussed in detail elsewhere in this website - the distinction between corporations and the government is often meaningless in America, given the vast industry of private intelligence contractors with secret clearances, the use of the FBI and other agencies to serve corporate interests, and the lucrative revolving-door nature of employment between the public and private spheres in law enforcement and intelligence. This is another obvious purpose of gang stalking: income for the perpetrators.

Implications

In addition to being morally reprehensible, gang stalking - just like the original version of the FBI's Cointelpro operations - is illegal. It violates criminal laws in all fifty states against stalking, as well as grossly violating the U.S. Constitution's prohibitions against warrantless searches and extra-judicial punishment.

While the vast majority of Americans are never personally targeted by gang stalking, they should still be concerned about the existence of such operations. Even if such activities were constitutionally legitimate (clearly they are not), they would still have an enormous potential for abuse as a personal or political weapon by the practitioners.

Ending this cowardly and illegal practice by law enforcement agencies, intelligence agencies, and their parasitic corporate contractors will require exposing what is happening to the public. Anyone reading this can assist with that exposure by simply sharing this information with others.

Comments by Edward Donegan

ETK will introduce Paid Actors system of assaulting Stalk Victims harass, sabotage, and destroy the lives of a Stalked person.

The cheifmost position the Stalker operate from is position of power, gaining Government offices, and holding private business, operating detention facilities such that people are not transported to Due Proccess hearings, Identification are switched out, camera systems are turned off or Hospital IDs are NOT used and something ambiguous is, etc., and personnel of these institutions are recruits selected for duplicitous activities undermining their assigned jobs and procedures.

This is especially dangerous since criticizing (calling out a stalker) lands the stalk victim in the stigma of a crazy conspiracy theorist.

So before getting back to ETK here is some more data I will post from other long term stalk victims.

End Ed Donegan comments and returning to ETK.

PsyOps trying to make business for itself, pissing people off, playing with people's perceptions, throwing critics in Loonie Bin

Ed Donegan offered Terms and other sources of terms which describe GangStalk methods

FUNCTIONALITY

- FIXING ON BEHALF OF POWER HOLDERS: The "plumbers" operators go in and undercover fix situations politicians need fixed by altering appearances, outcomes, lives, and even facts which are derived from staged events that did occur but did not occur naturally.

- PREDATORY USE OF FINANCIAL CLOUT: Owners of property are its self policing and when help is needed they can call State (Government) police. Use of financial power by criminals can create a lawless reservation in which the owner will likely have the defacto relationship and credibility with police and has certain Common Law type leeway as Shopkeepers on their property such as assaulting other to protect property or remove trespassers, and offer selectively create logs evidence about the property held and select employees who wok on the property. Punch is a synonym of clout. As a proper noun punch is (British) a glove puppet who is the main character used in a marionette punch and judy show. As a noun clout is influence or effectiveness, especially political. As a verb clout is to hit, especially with the fist.

- INDIGNIFICATION: Persons or business that are threat may be slandered, indignified by unjust smear tactics, and worth of targeted person hijacked by others via Espionage capabilities surveillance or Conspiracy against Rights including political, intellectual, speech, or religious rights. Selecting In, Out, Down. Selecting Down is a Card Trick of Con Artist who can move a card by slight of hand to a lower place in a deck or to the top of the deck.

- ASSASSINATION BY BRINKSMANSHIP: So offense or existential threat conditions or such irreversible harm can be manufactured for the Stalk Victim a lethal and losing flash-fight fight may still result and cost the Stalk Vitim his or her life. “Brinkmanship involves the introduction of an element of uncontrollable risk: even if all players act rationally in the face of risk, uncontrollable events can still trigger the catastrophic outcome. In the “chickie run” scene from the film Rebel Without a Cause, this happens when Buzz cannot escape from the car and dies in the crash.” From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia/

  The name “chicken” has its origins in a game in which two drivers drive toward each other on a collision course: one must swerve, or both may die in the crash, but if one driver swerves and the other does not, the one who swerved will be called a “chicken”, meaning a coward; this terminology is most prevalent in political science and economics.

  The name “hawk-dove” refers to a situation in which there is a competition for a shared resource and the contestants can choose either conciliation or conflict; this terminology is most commonly used in biology and evolutionary game theory. From a game-theoretic point of view, “chicken” and “hawk-dove” are identical; the different names stem from parallel development of the basic principles in different research areas.[2] The game has also been used to describe the mutual assured destruction of nuclear warfare, especially the sort of brinkmanship involved in the Cuban Missile Crisis.

- TIME CONSUMPTION : Those like myself who wish to build an intellectual Natural Law Philosophy Scientific Epistemic fabric of political philosophy. moral philosphy, dirved from Natural Rights theory. Causing harrassing fights which consume time is an FBI system for disrupting “radicalism” by distracting activities and even distracting noise or other harassment.

- PLAUSIBLE DENIABILITY BY USAGE OF GEHLEN ASSAILANTS: Reinhard Gehlen, Nazi head of intelligence on the Eastern Front war effort of Nazi Germany. He pioneered targeting regular individuals or organizations that Espionage agencies could act through thus remaing publicly out of the picture but bringing about Espionage agency desired ends. "A new biography traces the pathology of allen dulles and his appalling cabal . Dulles also led the push to save Reinhard Gehlen, Nazi head of intelligence on the Eastern Front and a genuine monster, from any post-war justice. Dulles then made certain Gehlen and his spies received a cozy embrace from the CIA, and helped push him to the top of West Germany’s Federal Intelligence Service." -The Intercept

- MALADMINISTRATION, ROAD BLOCKING, AND DOUBLE-AGENT GRAMMS : Bad Faith harrassment of Targeted Indivciduals is achieved by Double Agents who pretend to be neutral parties acting in Good Faith but instead in bad faith make up reasons a lease will end, etc., with excuses like “a new roadway is planned, etc., so, unfortunately, it seems you home will be affected and you will have to move.”

- SOCIAL SABOTAGE: The Gang Stalkers will mob any new potentiall association in life and gossip destroy any fruitful result of the desired new association, and in fact often the gossipers will suggest characteristics or property of the Stalk victim be obtained from the Gossipers instead, thus passing by the Stalk Victim in the roadway forward.

- PREREQUISITES SABOTAGE OR DEPLETION: Peaceful environments, Sailboarding on a nice day, non threatening public locations, quiet for work, all go into effective mental states and normal life activities. Toxifying all of this creates frantic emotions and hassled frustrated struggles. I Ed Donegan have to MEET people by first warning them the FBI is stalking me and SOON they will Stalk you and you are now in a fishbowl and your friends may be too. Nice start to things.

- SLUSH FUNDS CREATED, STOLEN, OR SIEZED IMPROPERLY BY UNDERCOVER OPERATION: Often the GangStalk is part of Shadow Government and includes lucrative illegal profits. Recruiting operatives into the program under various pay-ff methods allows the illegal operation Human Resources via ensuring recruits will be influenced by personal gains or desire to participate.

  Conflicts and Toxifying my presence in areas - Edward Paul Donegan] -epd

  As a methodology mafia police use activities of Infraguard, My Brothers Keepers, or other Neighborhood watch encouraging them and joining with them. Police, black US Marshalls, and others peeping at white women in the gym and elsewhere. Also these teams of people working to make me seem threat because they dresss someone as me, ety or these blacks or minorities peeping at there own children and demanding restitution and protection money for the immigrant families or others who get settlement money but have no other source of income or rental rights except for victims funds.

The police leave the crime unconfronted by allow the rumor of it being in the same place as the Stalk victim to circulate.

Savlation Army Prison Ministries, prison release-sees and prison programs are part of Neighborhood Watch mafia.

Defensive Briefings to Neighborhoods as Propaganda -epd

The police who setup the false flags often using a mimic of the Stalk Victim will also tel the community the Stalk Victim is mentally deranged and may attack at any time and for no reason at all. This is also the Pizzagate theory, that those who suggest a CIA plan are crazy, schizophrenic, and my attack innocent civilians who are NOT involved on wrongdoing, slush funds, or black budgets.

Vandalism -epd

Vandalism to my home especially visible to others makes it seems I am the harm to the property I am renting and to the neighborhood I live in.

- STAR CHAMBERS, SURROGACY, IDENTITY THEFT AND COFUSION, MISREPRESENTATION BY CONSERVANCY OR SURROGATES: Blind Conservators or Misrepresentations behind the scenes who work in cahoots while a Stalk Victim is left out of proceedings though is the stakeholder in the outcome, the Shadow Gov works behind the Stakeholders back and protects itself.

- STATE ACTS INCLUDING ELDER ABUSE BY MALICIOUS ADMINISTRATION: Hostile abusive 3rd party agency is created to operate as a racket exposing "beneficiary" of the Trust Fund or Conservatorship to crime. The actual interest of the agency placed in charge and is to protect the wealthy by dehumanizing accusers as mentally ill or deluded and holding them without trial in elder abuse conditions of predatory psychiatry and asset management or detention. This book The Great Treason asserts Gangtalk wrestled away artistic works and Britteny Spears and Tom Clancy via and myself Edwad Paul Donean by hostile and abusive conservatorship.

TRESPASS

Generally Human identity, property, rights, and protection from assaults and protection from harassment is built into modern societies.

The Gangstalk sets up getting control of an environment like taking over a local business then starts forms of trespass such as unwanted and maliciously motivated conversation that is both harassing and a threat from a fraud perspective such as photo-boming a Stalk victim near a security camera in the in the store by adding a child in who is being abused,in such as way the resultant photo is KOMPROMAT and an abnormal scene which people would call in to question as suspicious activity upon seeing the security cam photo. A Dopple in the same store may steal the ID of the Stalk victim and confess to misconduct, perhaps even in the stalk victims home when the stalk victim is not home. It is a common complaint of Stalk Victims that landlords and business owners will go along with Stalks and often when a Stalk victim moves in to an area the Stalkers will buy local business and gain positions of power and access to the Stalk victim, and setup precursor material to later gossip. -Ed Donegan

As I write this book about the FBI people (city employees) begi9n banking on dumpsters near me “accidently,” children in nearby apartments start shreaking, sex noises high offense next door are shouted, junk phone calls come in just as I am typing etc., In acts called Brighing cqrs emphatically flashy lights, honk horns, skied tires or rev engines and intense and sharp gesturing out of place with the environment. Death threat can occur such as flahses of knives from outside windows, other activities, even attack or stealing computers.

All are intrusive violations of space and vary in legal measure as individual acts but are in also in furtherance of disruptions into a home or use of public property.

The Trespass in my case often involves Sexual Attack, psychotic shouted “cum” noises” or pervert type gestures such as children making sexual gestures or positions near me or even outside my windows or as I am undressing for the shower or to use the toilet. Sexual attack in the outdoors public area rather than through my apartment walls and vents don’t need a condition of nudity, just things like underwear stolen from me strewn about, lewd comments, lewd acts, etc., even if clothed, an unwanted physical contact, assault and battery.

FATE KONTROL AND ROOADBLOCKING-HIJACKING

Sometimes called Mind Control or Mind Kontrol which is more general, the idea of manipulating thinking is what PsyOps is about. Fate Control may slander a Targeted Person, a person Targeted for Harassment, an the Espionage Stalk Team my undermine the Stalk Victims life covertly and effectively.

At its most successful a person under Stalk my alter life plans, life decisions, and life outcomes because of the stalk. In Corpus Christi I decided to stay safe in my apartment after a trip the the grocery store on foot and the bus led to 3 very near violent fights setup by an illegal operation and as in most cases some of the people attacking me were crazy and likely thought I was out abusing children or something like that.

It is also possible that the police operating as criminals changethe Stalk Victim to an anti-government stance and acts in that direction also alter the perception or life outcomes of a Stalk Victim. I Ed Donegan hold anti-police sentiments that are not out place in the context of police abuse I have been subjected to but are out of place if the police instigation are successfully denied by police and police are the good guys. I have suspected the FBI or others needed Russian Terrorist to attack Boston and the JFK library and the Tsarnevs were sensitized against the USA just as loyal patriot Ed Donegan has been mentally directed to as political position.

"Power gives people an opportunity to act as predators because it reduces the risk of consequences from what would otherwise be social suicide. No one can rape the president without being exposed and punished, but the president may believe he can rape someone without consequence because his power can be leveraged to keep silence victims, dismiss allegations, and punish accusers. Tragically, powerful people believe they can get away with it because in fact they often can. Power truly insulates a person from the vulnerability and risk that most people face. This is true of political power, physical power, social and communal power, and especially spiritual or religious power." Sexual Assault and Abuse of Power https://almostheretical.com/ *

Landlords, grocers, or others by Sexual Assaulting a tenet or parishner can create a grievance procedure which from the position of power can be resolved against the tenent and a tenet evicted, etc., I have found the Gangstalk uses positions of power to assault from so that a fight with a needed service such as financial, housing, or other emerges which creates a break. I had been assaulted and evicted from so many laundry mats where police started the fights I thought I would have to wash my laundry in a home wash tub because there were not places left I was not banned from. Often a defense act from an attack victim like me leads to my eviction as a roadblock and someone else will assume my identity after I am moved off property I signed up for or entered. The scheme is hijacking starts of something by creating a block is called .. a Roadblock where a person is bumped off the path they had initiated and were on until attacked.

ETK has this list which is common among Gang Stalk researchers an Free Masons themselves describe as their techniques of dealing with enemies

SLANDER

LA Times article on Seberg

As mentioned above, an investigation - or even the pretense of an investigation - is a perfect opportunity to slander a target. If someone who even appears to be an investigator or undercover cop begins quietly asking neighbors, employers, relatives, and co-workers about a targeted individual, it will almost certainly begin to corrode that person’s reputation, even if no explicit allegations are made.

Sometimes slander in a counterintelligence operation can be much more aggressive. A textbook example is the FBI’s successful campaign to destroy the career and life of film actress Jean Seberg during their Cointelpro operations. That case is noteworthy both because it involved a high-profile target - Seberg was a successful actress in the prime of her career - and also because internal FBI memos and news reports explicitly revealed that they were deliberately spreading lies about her.

Tactics used in the spying-and-lying industry are unfamiliar to the general public. Many people will assume that anyone posing as an “investigator” is legitimate. If you doubt that, watch this video clip of an ABC program which features a demonstration of how easily citizens can be recruited to assist in crimes against strangers.

BLACKLISTING

A tactic closely related to slander is blacklisting. For centuries blacklists have been used to identify and discriminate against individuals (and organizations) deemed to be undesirable. In U.S. history the most famous example was the blacklisting of leftists in the entertainment industry during the 1940s and 1950s.

The tactic is perfectly suited to counterintelligence subversion because it undermines the targeted individual in a way that will likely force the victim to be preoccupied with economic survival rather than political activism or whistle-blowing.

MOBBING

Newsweek magazine published an article in August 2000 titled “They Call it Mobbing.” The article (which you can see in the “Gang Stalking News” section of this website) describes a process of intense systematic harassment of a targeted employee by multiple co-workers and managers at his or her workplace. The abuse involves slandering and isolating an employee and verbal abuse. Apparently, this is a common element of gang stalking campaigns against targeted individuals. Since the tactic is apparently widespread - and since it is apparently connected in some cases to workplace violence - I have devoted the entire next section to it in this overview.

BLACK BAG JOBS

A common element among victims’ accounts of organized stalking is the experience of having their residences broken into. In the counterintelligence business, the slang term for this is a “black bag job.”

A “black bag job” is a clandestine entry into the residence, office, storage facility, or vehicle of a targeted individual or organization. The term is a reference to a small black bag filled with burglary tools. One of the most famous historical examples of a black bag operation was the Watergate break-in. Common goals of such operations include obtaining information and planting surveillance devices. They can also be used to steal or plant evidence, and to perpetrate acts of vandalism for psychological operations purposes.

Illegal black bag operations were conducted by the FBI during its original Cointelpro operations. For example, volume 6 of the U.S. Senate’s Church Committee investigations contains a letter about black bag jobs (referred to as such) which explicitly states that the FBI knew that the operations were clearly illegal.

Are such operations still illegal? That depends upon whether you subscribe to the subversive notion that the U.S. Constitution means what it says. In theory, the Fourth Amendment protects Americans from “unreasonable searches and seizures” conducted without a warrant based “upon probable cause.” As a practical matter though, individual rights in America have been massively eroded since the 9/11 terrorist attacks by such policies as the “USA Patriot Act.”

Under the Patriot Act, there has been an expansion of the use by law enforcement agencies of a Constitutionally-dubious tactic commonly referred to as a “sneak and peek” warrant. Officially called a “Delayed-Notice Search Warrant,” it allows police to covertly enter private residences, perform searches, and seize property without notifying the residents.

Here are a few discussions of this police state tactic:

An explanation of sneak and peek warrants by the ACLU (March 2002)

A criticism of the legal legitimacy of sneak and peek warrants by Donald E. Wilkes, Jr., Professor of Law, University of Georgia School of Law. (September 2002)

An article about a wrongly-accused man from Oregon who won a
$2 million settlement against the U.S. government because of his harassment by federal agents - which included black bag jobs. (November 2010)

“Federal authorities planted listening devices in his office, throughout his house - including in his bedroom - and tapped his phones. He and his family were kept under surveillance. Agents conducted “sneak and peak” searches, entering the home when the family was away.”

A more recent review of sneak and peek warrants, which notes that requests for such warrants are granted almost automatically. A study in 2010 found that judges denied such requests in less than one percent of all cases. (June 2014)

GAS-LIGHTING

Another example of a classic psyops tactic often reported by gang stalking victims is “gas-lighting” - in which perpetrators enter the victim’s residence and re-locate certain objects to make victims doubt their own memory and create confusion - or to send a message that the victim’s life has been invaded and is now under intense surveillance. Such activities usually stop short of theft - which could lead to police reports. If items are stolen, they are typically limited to items that would be inexpensive and therefore unlikely objects of theft - so reports of the incident will seem implausible and evidence of mental instability.

In this short video clip, Luke Harding, a journalist with the Guardian, describes his personal experience with gas-lighting tactics being used against him by Russian intelligence agents while he was living in Moscow. I first saw this video on the “Gang Stalking is Murder” website.

Harding naturally found the experience unsettling, but keep in mind that he had the total support of his wife and his employer. Most victims of gang stalking are more isolated and if they attempt to describe the experience to others, are met with skepticism. The most likely reaction is to assume that the victim simply forgot where he placed something, or whether he left the window open, etc.

ABUSIVE PHONE CALLS

As with adolescent pranks, phone calls to the victim’s residence are an easy way to harass the victim. Messages can range from insults to threats, although they are subtle, not explicit, in case the calls are being recorded.

COMPUTER HACKING

Accounts of computer hacking seem to be nearly universal among victims of organized stalking.

U.S. government agents and private security contractors use the tactic both to gather information and to perpetrate psychological operations, such as threats and harassment.

This tactic was apparently used against Larry Klayman, a public interest lawyer and conservative political activist, after he filed a lawsuit against the National Security Agency (NSA) to challenge that agency's program of mass surveillance. According to Klayman, after he filed his lawsuit, his email account was hacked. Someone began sending emails from his account to other people he knew - a move which Klayman interpreted as being an effort by U.S. intelligence agents to intimidate him by letting him know he was being closely watched.

in December 2013 a federal judge ruled in favor of Klayman in his lawsuit against the NSA, finding that the agency's collection of Americans' phone records was apparently a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Fourth Amendment. Ultimately though, an appellate court reversed that decision.

FRAMING

As with most of these gang stalking tactics, you can use your imagination regarding the countless ways someone can be framed. Planting evidence can be done either to further a slander campaign, or to actually set up the victim for arrest and prosecution. Additionally, planting evidence can be intentionally done in ways that the victim himself will easily find the evidence - just to send the threatening message that target is vulnerable to this type of attack.

For a recent high-profile example of a "stitch-up" by intelligence agencies, consider the case of WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange. WikiLeaks' exposure of U.S. diplomatic cables in 2010 did not go over well with U.S. officials. The cables included some inconvenient information - such as corroboration of evidence that the U.S. had launched a missile strike in Yemen the year before that killed dozens of civilians - and that the U.S. conspired with Yemen's government to conceal the fact that the U.S. was behind the attack.

To gain leverage for extraditing Assange from the U.K., he was made the target of apparently trumped-up charges in Sweden. Apologists and useful idiots for the governments of the U.S., U.K., and Sweden were publicly treating the charges against Assange as plausible and legitimate, but people familiar with how spy agencies operate immediately recognized the game that was being played.

A high-profile example of U.S. counterintelligence agents framing someone for political reasons was described in this June 2013 article in the New York Review of Books:

"A well-known example of COINTELPRO was the FBI's planting in 1964 of false documents about William Albertson, a long-time Communist Party official, that persuaded the Communist Party that Albertson was an FBI informant. Amid major publicity, Albertson was expelled from the party, lost all his friends, and was fired from his job. Until his death in an automobile accident in 1972, he tried to prove that he was not a snitch, but the case was not resolved until 1989, when the FBI agreed to pay Albertson's widow $170,000 to settle her lawsuit against the government."

THREATS

Other such threats are apparently common in gang stalking cases. They can take any form imaginable, but will inevitably be anonymous and difficult to prove. At one point, the gang stalking crew in my neighborhood began dropping life insurance pamphlets on the walkway inside my courtyard.

BLACKMAIL

Another trick in the J. Edgar Hoover playbook is blackmail. A famous example was its use by the feds against Martin Luther King, Jr. Pages 220-221 of this U.S. Senate report show that the FBI apparently attempted to blackmail King, and encourage him to commit suicide.
Final Report - Book 2

VANDALISM

Since gang stalking victims are normally under virtually constant surveillance, and since they are rarely in a position to afford counter-surveillance measures to capture evidence of the harassment being done, it's easy to commit minor acts of vandalism against their premises and belongings. This can be dumping trash on the lawn, scratching the paint of their car, or whatever. Victims should not assume that perpetrators are above doing physical harm to their pets either; I know this both from personal experience and from accounts by a few individuals I have reasons to regard as very credible.

BAITING

Baiting is any effort to evoke a response by the victim which can be used to discredit or legally ensnare him. In a sense, all gang stalking tactics are forms of baiting because their cumulative effect will eventually drive the victim to respond in ways that will create additional trouble.

MIMICKING

Victims of gang stalking sometimes report that perpetrators mimic their words and actions as a form of zersetzung (psychological degradation). This was reported for example in the Washington Post Magazine's 2007 cover article on gang stalking. Novelist Gloria Naylor - a self-proclaimed victim of organized stalking - related that she had been harassed that way:

"On an airplane, fellow passengers mimicked her every movement — like mimes on a street."

[the Mimick can also be "mistaken" for a stalking victim and thus be an Information Dopleganger who will eminate information as though but not the Stalk Victim]

EXPRESSIVE SPEECH RACIAL, SEXUAL, OR OTHER ATTACK IN STALKING HATE CRIME

The Psychology of Hate Crimes

American Psychological Association APA

- WHAT LEADS TO HATE CRIMES? : Hate crimes are an extreme form of prejudice, made more likely in the context of social and political change. Public and political discourse may devalue members of unfamiliar groups,ix and offenders may feel that their livelihood or way of life is threatened by demographic changes. Offenders may not be motivated by hate, but rather by fear, ignorance or anger. These can lead to dehumanization of unfamiliar groups and to targeted aggression

- WHAT ARE THE EFFECTS OF HATE CRIMES? People victimized by violent hate crimes [including expressive non verbal speech] are more likely to experience more psychological distress than victims of other violent crimes. Specifically, victims of crimes that are bias-motivated are more likely to experience post-traumatic stress, safety concerns, depression, anxiety and anger than victims of crimes that are not motivated by bias.

  Hate crimes send messages to members of the victim's group that they are unwelcome and unsafe in the community, victimizing the entire group and decreasing feelings of safety and security. Furthermore, witnessing discrimination against one's own group can lead to psychological distress and lower self-esteem.

Stalker Forced Teaming

- GANGSTALK OFFENDER ACTS An offender's bias against a race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, ethnicity, gender or gender identity can be acted out by forced-teaming Stalk Victim into situations mean to be abusive, offensive, revolting, or exploitative.

STREET THEATER

A general category of harassment, "street theater" can include some of the tactics described above and below, and simply refers to any sort of staged encounter with one or more perpetrators in public. Typically, both the comments and actions of the perpetrators are carefully scripted to resonate with the victim, but appear benign if captured on video or seen by witnesses.

BLOCKING/CUTTING-OFF/INVASION OF PERSONAL SPACE

One example of gang stalking “street theater” is to cut-off the victim - when he or she is walking, driving, or riding a bicycle. A related tactic is to crowd the victim by rudely invading his or her space or brushing against the person. Since this occasionally happens to everyone in the normal course of events, accounts by the victim will likely sound paranoid when described to others. Also, anyone nearby will be unlikely to notice - let alone understand that the action was deliberate.

This is their description of this psychological operations tactic:

Here is an example of how an FBI surveillance team will deliberately provoke you.

> When you’re walking through a mall or a downtown shopping district, the surveillance team will intentionally interfere with your route. A pavement artist will “absent-mindedly” cross your path, forcing you to change course to avoid walking into him. A group of agents will “inadvertently” obstruct your path - they’ll be standing together chatting, forcing you to walk around them. Other pavement artists will “accidentally” create near-misses as you walk along.
> Some of these “pedestrians” will create situations with a potential for a head-on collision, forcing you to dodge them.
> As the psychological pressure continues to build, agents may “innocently” bump into you, jostle you, or step on your heel from behind. A group of pavement artists will cue up ahead of you, creating > a line-up that delays you as you try to make a purchase, order fast food, buy tickets, and so on.

Activity like this can quickly create frustration, even anger, in you. But because the incidents occur in public locations, it's difficult to prove who's behind them. You never see any agent more than once. You don't know where the next provocation is going to come from. You're beginning to get upset, irritated, unstable. You're more likely to make mistakes in judgment. And that's exactly what the surveillance team wants.

Targets of gang stalking should expect this tactic and have a clear idea in mind of how they will respond. Here is a good response to this tactic - or for that matter, any type of street harassment by a "pavement artist."

SENSITIZATION

As described in some of the sections below, perpetrators of organized stalking sometimes make use of various cutting-edge technologies, but psychological torture does not require electronic hardware. Nor does it even require unconventional psychology.

A basic concept in Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP) is that a particular stimulus - such as a sound or gesture - can become associated or "anchored" in the thoughts and reactions of an individual through repetition. Gang stalkers exploit this phenomenon by repeatedly performing a particular action - such as generating a particular sound as part of a noise harassment campaign.

Since the victim is made aware that the sound is an element of the harassment, his or her mind will naturally begin responding to that sound as a "trigger" for a negative emotional reaction. It's a way to keep the victim constantly agitated because he or she will have the negative response whenever stalkers generate the sound - or even when the sound occurs in the normal course of events.

SYNCHRONIZATION

Similar to sensitization, “synchronizing” is when gang stalking perp’s always perform a particular action at the same moment as a particular action by the victim. For example, whenever the victim leaves his residence, a stalker in the area will cough or honk a horn or slam a door. It is a way of reminding the targeted individual that he or she is under constant surveillance.

NOISE HARASSMENT (ESPECIALLY WHEN WRITING A BOOK ABOUT THE FBI OR ITS OFFICIALS OR THE CONDUCT OF ITS OFFICIALS)

One of the major weapons in the arsenal of gang stalkers is noise.

It was widely reported that loud music was used by the U.S. military in its invasion of Panama in 1989 to harass General Manuel Noriega and flush him from the Vatican Embassy where he was holed-up. Accounts differ about exactly how and why the tactic was used in that instance, but no one questions the potential effectiveness of noise to create distress.

As with many of the tactics described here, the cumulative effects are difficult to fully appreciate if you haven’t personally been on the sharp end of them. Among other things, the tactic can be used to cause sleep deprivation, which in turn can create additional problems, both physical and psychological.

Again, with Tresspass, by harrasing phone calls, outside noise, other disruptions sent into an apartement or house, if gang stalkers have access to a residence adjacent to that of the victim (especially, for example, in an apartment building or condominium complex), they can easily generate noises that will be heard only by the target.

As is typical of psychological operations tactics used by FBI minions, harassment by noise is virtually impossible to prove. You could record the noise, but you could not prove where and when you made the recording - let alone where the sound came from or who was generating it. Moreover, even if you could prove all of that, it would be difficult or impossible > to legally establish that the perpetrator was conspiring with anyone else to deliberately harass you.

The community notifications will go out to various places. Apartment rentals, future employers, stores and communities where the target visits, will be notified. Doctors offices, fire departments, police, etc. A covert investigation might also be opened, and electronic, means used by the civilian spies/snitches as part of the overt and covert monitoring and surveillance process.

Individuals can be flagged designating them as having a history of aggressive or inappropriate behavior. This notification system will follow the target if they move, change jobs, visit other areas. It let's the community believe that the target is a person who needs to be watched or monitored.

Allegations of Stalking by Private Organizations

KKK Georgia May 1946

Deception is a major element of counterintelligence programs. Consequently, all discussion of Cointelpro-type stalking has to be viewed skeptically. Allegations that the ongoing criminal harassment of targeted individuals is simply an activity by one or more vigilante groups is a case in point.

It is inconceivable - especially with the modern surveillance state - that the Justice Department and the other federal intelligence agencies are unaware of exactly what is happening. Their silence about the issue means that they acquiesce in it, whatever the specific operational structure might be.

That said, it is also clear that there is a "snitch culture" element to organized stalking - not just a bureaucratic machine. Perpetrators of gang stalking crimes rely upon a degree of informal support from sadists and useful idiots. Also, there is a long history of non-governmental organizations perpetrating very serious crimes against their fellow citizens. In addition, such organizations - for example, the Ku Klux Klan - have historically included members of the political and law enforcement community. So the involvement of private groups in organized stalking cannot be categorically dismissed, even though the core of the activity has to be state-sanctioned.

Gang stalking tactics are sometimes alleged to be used by certain fraternal orders such as Freemasons, and by various religious groups such as Scientologists and Jehovah's Witnesses - for example, to control or punish current or former members. See for example, this March 15, 2013 article in the Brisbane Times.

I have no first-hand knowledge of the use of organized stalking by religious groups, but it does seem plausible - especially if you agree with America's second president, John Adams:

"There is a germ of religion in human nature so strong that whenever an order of men can persuade the people by flattery or terror that they have salvation at their disposal, there can be no end to fraud, violence, or usurpation."

In the case of Scientologists, there is reportedly a policy called "Fair Game," under which the church allegedly uses aggressive tactics toward individuals and groups it perceives as its enemies. The practices - as described in this 1990 Los Angeles Times article, apparently include some tactics associated with organized stalking: "psychological warfare," "dirty tricks," and "harassment." Reportedly, the Fair Game policy also sometimes involves employing detectives, former police officers, and criminals:

"Teams of private detectives have been dispatched to the far corners of the world to spy on critics and rummage through their personal lives-and trash cans-for information to discredit them.

During one investigation, headed by a former Los Angeles police sergeant, the church paid tens of thousands of dollars to reputed organized crime figures and con men for information linking a leading church opponent to a crime that it turned out he did not commit."

Instances of "cause stalking" and stalking by religious cults presumably account for only a very small portion of the numerous incidents in the aforementioned crime survey statistics. It is true however, that members of religious cults (and cult-like fraternal organizations) are - by definition - easily manipulated, so they could serve in some cases as "useful idiot" vigilantes for others whose motivations they don't even comprehend.

That is perhaps true for most of the general public since most people are completely unaware of the existence of any domestic counterintelligence operations - past or present - and would be unlikely to suspect that what they are being told might be disinformation and manipulation as part of a modern American version of the Stasi.

One group which is sometimes mentioned as a source of organized stalking perpetrators - probably as disinformation in most cases - is the ancient fraternal order of Freemasons. Mentioning the organization often brings to mind tin-foil hat conspiracy theories. It should be noted, however, that mainstream news reports also include allegations about the group. Specifically, there are claims that the Freemasons' network is exploited to abuse the power of its members.

Psychiatric Reprisal, State Abuse of Psychiatry do eliminate critics and the reputation of critics via State guided Psychiatry retrieved from Ed Donegan quotes Wikipedia on Abuse of Psychiatry Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Political abuse of psychiatry, also commonly referred to as punitive psychiatry, is the misuse of psychiatry, including diagnosis, detention, and treatment, for the purposes of obstructing the human rights of individuals and/or groups in a society.

In other words, abuse of psychiatry (including that for political purposes) is the deliberate action of having citizens psychiatrically diagnosed who need neither psychiatric restraint nor psychiatric treatment.

Psychiatrists have been involved in human rights abuses in states across the world when the definitions of mental disease were expanded to include political disobedience.

As scholars have long argued, governmental and medical institutions code menaces to authority as mental diseases during political disturbances.

Nowadays, in many countries, political prisoners are sometimes confined and abused in psychiatric hospitals.

Psychiatry possesses a built-in capacity for abuse that is greater than in other areas of medicine. The diagnosis of mental disease allows the state to hold persons against their will and insist upon therapy in their interest and in the broader interests of society.

Psychiatry can be used to bypass standard legal procedures for establishing guilt or innocence and allow political incarceration without the ordinary odium attaching to such political trials.

The use of hospitals instead of jails also prevents the victims from receiving legal aid before the courts in some countries, makes indefinite incarceration possible, and discredits the individuals and their ideas.

In that manner, whenever open trials are undesirable, they are avoided.

The political abuse of the power entrusted to physicians, and particularly psychiatrists, has a long and abundant history, for example during the Nazi era and the Soviet rule when religious and political dissenters were labeled as “mentally ill” and subjected to inhumane “treatments”. In the period from the 1960s up to 1986, abuse of psychiatry for political and ideological purposes was reported to be systematic in the Soviet Union, and occasional in other Eastern European countries such as Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia.

The practice of incarceration of religious and political dissidents in psychiatric hospitals in the Eastern Bloc and the former USSR damaged the credibility of psychiatric practice in these states and entailed strong condemnation from the international community.

Political abuse of psychiatry also takes place in the People’s Republic of China. Psychiatric diagnoses such as the diagnosis of “sluggish schizophrenia” in political dissidents in the USSR were used for political purposes.

War Crimes by Sociopaths in U.S. Intelligence Agencies

Journalist Douglas Valentine has written extensively about the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), including a book called The Phoenix Program which details the CIA’s Operation Phoenix in the Vietnam war. That program, which is largely unknown to the American public even today, involved torture, assassinations, and the murder of civilians - including women and children - on a large scale.

For anyone who is curious about Operation Phoenix, I recommend this article which Valentine wrote for CounterPunch magazine in May of 2001 in which he explains both the nature of the war crimes committed and how those crimes were whitewashed by the establishment press.

Writing for that same magazine in September 2013, Douglas Valentine made the following observation about the CIA. No doubt this also applies to many agents in other U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies as well.

“Despite the popular portrayal of the CIA as patriotic guys and girls risking everything to do a dirty job, the typical CIA officer is a sociopath without the guts to go it alone in the underworld. They gravitate to the CIA because they are protected there by the all-powerful Cult of Death that rules America.”

How Far Will U.S. Officials Go in their Criminality?

An instructive example of the extremes to which federal agencies sometimes go is the CIA’s secret MK Ultra program. I describe MK Ultra in some detail in section 6 below, so I will just note here that it involved performing experiments (including psychological and physical torture) on American citizens. No one was punished for his participation in that program - which lasted two decades, and the head of the CIA destroyed most of the records about it when it was discovered.

In September 1970 the leftists in Chile won a plurality of that country’s democratic election, as a result of which, their representative would have soon been confirmed as the next president. Right-wing political leaders in Chile, some major U.S. corporations which did business in the country (including Pepsi Cola and Chase Manhattan Bank), and the CIA were not pleased with this development and communicated that to then-president Richard Nixon and his Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger, and they plotted to arrange for a military coup instead.

An obstacle they faced was that the chief of the Chilean General Staff, General René Schnieder did not believe in interfering with the democratic process. So Nixon and Kissinger had him murdered.

The incident - and other very serious transgressions - did not prevent Kissinger from generally being treated with great respect and adulation by the American news media over the rest of his career. That kind of sycophancy and complacency by mainstream journalists obviously makes it difficult to expose and punish the bad behavior done in secret by the U.S. government.

FBI Whistle-Blowers

Most Americans are unaware that the FBI is exempt from the Whistleblower Protection Act. If anything, the agency deserves extra scrutiny because of its history of domestic spying done for political reasons.

An October 2013 article in Reason described the FBI as a "dangerous" domestic spy agency. The author, J.D. Tucille, explains not only how the FBI is able to mostly keep its agents from revealing the agency's crimes, but also why the abuses tend not to be investigated very aggressively by the press:

"Never hesitant about flexing its muscles to target dissenters and whistleblowers, the FBI….is more dangerous than ever."

"Exempted from the Whistleblower Protection Act, the FBI freely retaliates against employees who attempt to call out wrongdoing. As a result, it's rare for FBI employees to speak out. That culture lends itself to a willingness to target whistleblowers in other agencies—and journalists."

Tucille quoted from the September 2013 report by the ACLU - Unleashed and Unaccountable: the FBI's Unchecked Abuse of Authority. That report noted examples of the FBI spying on journalists, such as this:

"In 2010 the Inspector General reported the FBI used an illegal 'exigent letter' to obtain the telephone records of 7 New York Times and Washington Post reporters."

A more high-profile case of spying on journalists was reported in May 2013, when it was revealed that the Justice Department secretly obtained two months of telephone records of reporters and editors of the Associated Press.

Famous Watergate reporter Carl Bernstein said on May 14, 2013 on MSNBC that he believed that the intention of the AP records seizure was “to intimidate people who talk to reporters.”

Mike German

Mike German was a decorated FBI agent who specialized in counter-terrorism. He left the agency after 16 years, when he became a whistle-blower. He had discovered that fellow officers were violating wiretapping regulations. When he reported that to his supervisors, his accusations were ignored, and his career was effectively frozen. Apparently, his experience was not unique in an agency which values secrecy more than ethics.

After leaving the FBI, German served as a senior policy counsel at the ACLU. He is now with the Brennan Center for Justice.

Mike German is one of the guests on this Democracy Now! interview together with an individual who was targeted by the FBI for being a political dissident. The individual was subjected to intense investigation for years - despite having no criminal record, apart from trespassing incidents related to political protests.

At 2:06 in the video of this interview journalist Amy Goodman asks Mike German to explain the FBI’s legal authority to perform the “assessments” which, as I mentioned in the introduction above, are essentially investigations that can now be launched against an individual without any evidence that the individual has committed a crime.

This April 2014 interview with Mike German is also worth watching. He suggests that much of the FBI’s threat assessment role should be taken over by Congress, since the agency has a natural tendency to exaggerate the threat of terrorism. German also states that the FBI is now more powerful than at any time since the Cointelpro era.

Ted Gunderson

A high-level FBI official who retired after a full career with the bureau, the late Ted Gunderson, claimed that the FBI's infamous COINTELPRO operations, which lasted from 1956 to 1971, re-emerged in a more sophisticated form a decade or so later, as what is now commonly referred to as "gang stalking." Gunderson's testimony is complicated however, for several reasons, as I explain here in my full discussion of COINTELPRO.

Returning to ETK now as he quotes Monarch Fighting.

The following excellent summary articles come from the websites- www.fightgangstalking.com, https://gangstalking.wordpress.com/faq/, and http://www.whale.to/c/predatory_gangstalking.html. Information in these articles corroborates, supplements, and extends information that I posted on this site in my January 21, 2015 post entitled Appendix 9. "Gang Stalking:" Organized and Electronic Targeting the "Domestic Enemy." Notes from Books, utube Presentations, and Blogs."

This subject is extremely important and is so poorly understood and recognized by the public that I want to make this material available here. I also recommend that those interested in learning more about this subject visit these and other websites because they also include many excellent graphics, youtube films, resources, etc.

The author of the first article below is a former security/intelligence officer who makes the important point that the term "gang stalking" may itself be a disinformation term invented by the intelligence agencies that conduct these covert, criminal, "counter-terrorism" programs in order to "neutralize" and/or destroy the innocent civilians whom they target. The more accurate term for this kind of unconstitutional and criminal activity, according to the author, is "counterintelligence stalking."

"Cursed is he who strikes his neighbor in secret." - Deuteronomy 27:24

For the purpose of this informational writing, all activities will be referred to as "predatory gangstalking" because the tactics and characteristics of the gangstalking are the same. And often a targeted person will become the victim of more than one type of gangstalking.

“Predatory Gangstalking” is a criminal phenomenon referring to a group of loosely affiliated people who, in an organized and systematic manner, relentlessly invade an individual’s life on a continuous basis, to an extreme degree, as part of their lifestyle. While each individual gangstalker does his or her small part, what defines Predatory Gangstalking is the collective intent to do harm.” R.B. Ross

Predatory Gangstalking is reported by historians to have been originally developed by social scientists and psychologists in communist and fascist’s countries as a means of control of individuals within those societies.

> Edward Paul Donegan chiming in. I think there are two or more forms of traditions in the Gangstalk. In Old Money societies movers and shakers who held business and government and perhaps Crown positions could decide the fate of citizens. They could send “people down” by criminal prosecution, blackballing them in employment or hirings, or harassing them in public and in business locations and this was called Rough Noise for instance as a person walked by a coffee shop’s trash can the owner might bang on the trashcans making the sidewalk uncomfortable.
> Charivari, alternatively spelled shivaree or chivaree and also called skimmington, was a European and North American folk custom in which a mock parade was staged through a community accompanied by a discordant mock serenade. Wikipedia
> Noisy, masked processions were held outside the home of the accused wrongdoer, involving the cacophonous rattling of bones and cleavers, the ringing of bells, hooting, blowing bull’s horns, the banging of frying pans, saucepans, kettles, or other kitchen or barn implements > with the intention of creating long-lasting embarrassment to the alleged perpetrator. During a rough music performance, the victim could be displayed upon a pole or donkey (in person or as an effigy), their “crimes” becoming the subject of mime, theatrical performances or recitatives, along with a litany of obscenities and insults.[16] Alternatively, one of the participants would “ride the stang” (a pole carried between the shoulders of two or more men or youths) while banging an old kettle or pan with a stick and reciting a rhyme (called a “nominy”) such as the following:

> The Paid Actors Street Theater of Psychological Warfare is that in Russia has the name KOMPOMAT highly offense is being acted out along a persons route such as to the grocery store, etc., and the staged street theater acted events can make a victim feel or look a certain way by acts framed around them by actors.

> In many Feudal societies like England, Northern Ireland, Austria Hungary Germany Poland and elsewhere gym roughian can intimidate in street harassment and that is the history of Brown Shirts.
> Arnold Schwartzenegger and his brother were body builders, his Nazi official father may have been as well.

It is rightfully assumed that money is involved in Predatory Gangstalking because of the amount of resources required to execute such extensive efforts. The gangstalkers develop capabilities directly proportionate to the amount money that funds them. In following the money trail speculatively, one looks to the possibility that drug money is involved. Some people reason that the government may be involved because of the amount of resources that are available to the practitioners of Predatory Gangstalking. Other individual situations seem to indicate that corporations, insurance companies, and even wealthy individuals with revenge motives fund a Predatory Gangstalking.

In addition to cash payment for participation in Predatory Gangstalking, other forms of barter are used. These include drugs, *, alcohol, reciprocal favors, release from debts, jobs, contracts,”deals” for legal problems, and other forms of compensation. Some gangstalkers are given free housing in exchange for performing Predatory Gangstalking activities against a nearby target. However, it is clear from observing Predatory Gangstalkers in action that many engage in it for pleasure. One high ranking leader in Predatory Gangstalking stated that it was like an addiction. He described how the build up and culmination of a gangstalking assault was intoxicating, but that there was a let-down feeling afterwards that compelled him to do it again, and the cycle continued.

It is also true that some people participate in Predatory Gangstalking because they are deceived into participating. Friends, neighbors and associates of a selected target are given false information and finally come to believe the targeted individual has committed a heinous crime for which they deserve what is portrayed them to be rehabilitative social intervention. Sometimes people reluctantly participate in indirect ways, such as making their homes available at times for part of the operation, for fear of consequences if they did not. Others involved in Predatory Gangstalking, including the homeless, do so for money or drugs. Disabled Vets are known to participate in Predatory Gangstalking activities for alleged government or defense contractor’s projects. Predatory Gangstalkers have successfully elicited the participation of neighbors by appealing to their sense of service to the community or government, often representing themselves as affiliates of the government or law enforcement. Lastly, those who are in the underworld or secret organizations practice Predatory Gangstalking as part of their membership duties.

The craft and practice of Predatory Gangstalking appears to be standardized around the world. Many similarities parallel incidents reported by targets internationally. It appears that there is a standard protocol involving a series of tactics, progressive phases, and nature of assaults. It appears that an individual has been selected to become a target and the groundwork has been established for their assaults long before the individual can be aware that something criminal is occurring in their lives and to their person. Predatory Gangstalkers achieve this strategically. By the time the targeted individual becomes aware that something very threatening and disturbing is happening to them, they have already been thoroughly investigated by their enemies, stigmatized, discredited, and compromised. All wells have been already poisoned, so to speak, and all avenues of help and escape have been blocked.

Predatory Gangstalkers first establish “information dominance” over a targeted individual. This achievement alone enables them to attain excessive power over the targeted individual. It is believed that this is accomplished by means of eavesdropping devices in the target’s environment, global positioning technology (GPS) secreted on their vehicles, obtaining illegal access to all of a targeted individual’s personal records such banks accounts, emails, medical records, and credit card purchases. They are often able to achieve 100% surveillance of a targeted individual and almost 100% access to a targeted individual’s entire lifetime of available information from any computer, paper, photographic, or personal source. They use all of the information obtained to ambush and sabotage a targeted individual. Predatory Gangstalkers ultimately become capable of entering a target’s house, place of employment, and vehicle at-will and often. All forms of communications in the targeted individual’s life is interfered with by the gangstalkers. They will intercept email, tamper with voicemail, and obstruct the delivery of postal mail. The net result is that all communication in a targeted individual’s life will become unreliable and incomplete, both incoming and outgoing. The Predatory Gangstalkers are then capable of greater insidious manipulation and control.

Predatory Gangstalkers constantly update information about a target. Updates are promptly shared with all of the participants in that predatory gangstalking group. They take frequent photographs of the targeted individual, and maintain photos of the target’s house, vehicle, place of employment, family, friends, and even the target’s pets. They promptly disseminate this information through email and cell phones to other gangstalkers. This is the means by which a targeted individual is continually recognized by Predatory Gangstalkers everywhere they go. The Predatory Gangstalkers sadistically prefer to maintain a file of photos taken at points in time when the victimization reaches peaks, such as when a target is reaping consequences brought about by the gangstalkers, such as upon a targeted individual's firing, eviction, or when the person emotionally breaks down, or when they appear disheveled from insomnia or is fearful.

Psychological profiling is yet another tactic performed on a targeted individual for the purpose of finding weaknesses. They exploit all information obtained, including fears, triggers, value-conflicts, skeletons in the closet, areas of shame, addictions, vices, and all things they hold dear. They often successfully "interview" a target under various guises. They use the information obtained to maximize the Predatory Gangstalkers' ability to destroy the targeted individual.

Practitioners of Predatory Gangstalking have their own coded language, both verbal and visual. Each targeted individual is referred to by an assigned code word. Hand signals are an important tool of their universal protocol. Some hand signals resemble the mannerisms used in baseball and other sports. Other signals are those found in law enforcement and the military. They use hand signals to identify the area of a target's body designated to be the target of a pending physical attack. This is often the eyes and the heart. They also use hand signals to coordinate the unauthorized entry into a target's home or vehicle. They also use hand signals during roving vehicle caravans and while on foot, for the purpose of coordinating attacks and pointing out the location of a target. Vehicle alarm panic buttons and horns are other commonly used tools of communication and coordination. In residential areas, outside lights have an established set of messages. They also use "dead drops" like spies have done historically to secretly pass along information to one another. Public bathrooms are commonly utilized as locations for the transfer of information and equipment. Mobile pick-up and delivery systems are in place for this purpose as well. They have a set of questions and responses to confirm the identity of a predatory gangstalker to another which are also coded. In the USA they refer to money by the last names of the president whose face is on the bill. Someone may say “I have references. (translation: money). I know 5 of the Franklin’s.” Their coded language is universal to them.

Predatory Gangstalkers will begin an intense and extensive discrediting campaign against a selected target well before the target could even suspect he or she has an enemy. This critical tactic sets the stage for neighbors and associates to become alienated from the target. One of the Predatory Gangstalkers’ goals is to eliminate all forms of support and assistance for the target. Towards this objective, the police are given anonymous “concerned citizen” tips designed to lead the police to believe the target is mentally unstable or a problem in the community in advance of any actual direct gangstalking of the targeted individual. This sets the stage for having the targeted individual prejudged so they will be disbelieved and dismissed when the gangstalking begins and they seek help. The discrediting campaign includes accusing the target of being an “undesirable” for any number of reasons, including fabricated reports of having committed crimes that are the most repulsive to members of society. Practitioners of Predatory Gangstalking even go so far as to represent themselves as undercover law enforcement or government agents. It has been reported that they will even show false documents for substantiation, but they will never leave them behind.

Financial devastation is another goal of Predatory Gangstalking. Towards this goal, they make attempts to destroy one’s gainful employment, pose as offering services to intervene in the problem to further take your money, and will steal funds and personal property on an on-going basis. Repeated unauthorized entries into a target’s residence, vehicles, computer, and workplace are hallmark tactics of this crime and is nearly impossible to stop. Predatory Gangstalkers can pick locks, bypass security alarms, and enter any location posing as utility crews, law enforcement, or delivery men. Practitioners of Predatory Gangstalking will apply for and obtain legitimate jobs in a target’s home or business in order to have access to the target and their life, relationships, and assets just to do harm.

Predatory Gangstalking employs a tactic of syncronicity (Mobs of MAFIA Shills in Lockstep.) This tactic involves the precise timing of interactions with the targeted individual. For example, the target can go out to get the morning newspaper and encounter gangstalking activities that suddenly appear and which are precisely synchronized. Throughout the targeted individual's day, these synchronized encounters repeatedly occur. Activities such as leaving one's driveway, taking out the trash, going to a store, or even walking the dog, are activities which result in an encounter with one or more Predatory Gangstalkers. Even when a target strategically does not follow any set routine, these synchronized occurrences continue.

This makes the gangstalkers appear to be all- knowing and almost omnipresent in the mind of a new targeted individual. This is intimidating, demoralizing, and even terrorizing to targets. It is often unavoidable.

In the case of primary targeted individuals of gangstalking (the rare individuals who are the priority target of global gangstalking) the primary objective is to induce as much fear as possible and over time as the numbers of individuals that become involved or are made aware of a target, the abuse can increase substantially, so that there is no aspect of the targets life that is private or sacred. Rarely, if ever, does a targeted individual engage in an activity of daily living without the unwanted participation of Predatory Gangstalkers. The timing and coordination of these activities are remarkably precise. The targeted individual becomes aware that all of their activities include the presence of Predatory Gangstalkers. These gangstalkers demand to be noticed by their target, and if they are not, they will take an action to be noticed. This could include honking their horn strategically, making a comment, creating a scenario to get the attention of the targeted individual. Once noticed, they will return to non-contact, knowing that by that point, the targeted individual will henceforth anxiously watch for them.

Most times, however, these practitioners of gangstalking maintain the appearance of "business as usual." They rarely make direct contact, with some exception. However, these strangers often boldly smirk and openly laugh at the targeted individual at some close point in the encounter. This is the universal exception to the "no direct contact" protocol. Other times, when verbal or physical contact is made, these encounters are conducted in such a way as to appear to have been "happenstance."

Since most of the practitioners of Predatory Gangstalking rotate in and out of the life of a target, the same patterns of gangstalking will occur, but it will involve different people all the time. Therefore, many different stranger and many different vehicles will walk, drive, or bike past the target and interact in some manner, at various times and locations. All of the predatory gangstalkers will be strangers to the targeted individual and they will continue to make their presence, but not their purpose, known. This is one element of Predatory Gangstalking that is disbelieved by others. These "others" include law enforcement, the medical profession, and family. Those who are unaware of activities of subcultures such as criminals, secret organizations, clubs, extremist groups, radical political groups, hate groups, organized crime groups, and other antisocial groups, the scope of attack by Predatory Gangstalkers is unfathomable. Never the less, the extent of this massive assault on one individual is as extensive as described here and even more so.

8. Investigation, Surveillance, and Harassment Tactics

Africa Day 23 - Leaving Serengeti

Investigation

Apparently, gang stalking begins with a deep investigation of the targeted individual.

An investigation serves multiple purposes in counterintelligence:

(1) Information gathered about the target can later be used to tailor the surveillance and harassment (subversion) strategies. In some cases, an investigation could also reveal that the target is unsuitable for gang stalking because he or she has connections and resources which would enable the target to fight back.

(2) In the unlikely event that acts of harassment get exposed, formal documentation that an "investigation" was being performed could possibly be cited to explain some of the suspicious activity (for example, overt stalking could be easily explained as "covert surveillance" that happened to be noticed by the target).

(3) Law enforcement and intelligence personnel - public and private - at various levels are sometimes under pressure to show that they are being productive, so there could well be a de facto quota for conducting investigations of “suspicious” persons.

(4) Acts of subversion can be seamlessly incorporated into what is ostensibly an investigation. As noted above, overt stalking is a prime example. Stalking was one of the tactics used by the FBI in their subversion campaign against the actress Jean Seberg during their Cointelpro operations, for example. (After years of such harassment she committed suicide.) Another tactic - also used during Cointelpro against various targeted individuals - was slander. An investigation provides a legally bullet-proof opportunity to slander the victim. If an investigator quietly begins questioning persons associated with a targeted individual (co-workers, friends, etc.), and tells them that he is conducting an investigation, it could easily destroy the target’s reputation and relationships.

Obtaining information from the targeted individual and from persons who know the targeted individual is a process undercover investigators and spies call “elicitation.” This pdf document from the FBI explains the strategies and tactics of elicitation: FBI Elicitation Tactics

Surveillance

> “Surveillance equals power. The more you know about someone, the more you can control and manipulate them in all sorts of ways. That is one reason a Surveillance State is so menacing to basic political liberties.”
> - Glenn Greenwald

As with investigations, the surveillance element of organized stalking involves the same tactics used around the world by many private investigators, intelligence agents, and law enforcement personnel: black bag jobs, electronic surveillance (phone wiretaps, hacking of personal computers, listening devices, spy cameras, GPS-monitoring of vehicle location, etc.), combined with direct visual surveillance (“human intelligence”) by various accomplices.

Most personnel involved in managing and performing organized stalking are paid for their services - whether they work directly for an agency such as the FBI, or for private intelligence-security contractor firms, or as criminal “informants.” Others though, are recruited to assist as volunteers. For example, when the FBI’s illegal Cointelpro operations were exposed, internal documents showed that the agency had enlisted a local police chief, letter carriers, and a switchboard operator at Swarthmore College to spy on campus and black activist groups in the Philadelphia area.

Another function of gang stalking is to exact revenge against the victim. Stalking is a form of extra-judical punishment for anyone who crosses someone with connections to the vast homeland security infrastructure.

Constant surveillance of targeted individuals (described above) is also an element of subversion. Anyone who knows that he or she is under constant surveillance will not only be inhibited from acting against the interests of the client of the gang stalkers, he or she will also find it difficult to fight back against the harassment or evade the surveillance itself because many efforts at counter-measures will be observed by the stalkers. In addition, anyone who is aware that he or she is constantly being watched by illegal spying will suffer the emotional trauma caused by having virtually no privacy.

“Harassment” is an appropriate description of many of the individual acts perpetrated against gang stalking victims since they are intended to annoy, anger, and frustrate the targeted individual - rather than, say, physically injure him or her. On the other hand, “harassment” does not begin to convey the severity of the cumulative psychological effects of organized stalking.

Slander, verbal abuse, noise, threats by strangers, constant surveillance, and other tactics, performed daily over a period of years will cause psychological torture, social isolation, and financial destruction.

According to some anonymous sources, the overall process is sometimes called “slow kill.” Regardless of whether that term is actually used by perperators of gang stalking, it is an appropriate description.

Historical origins of psychological torture methods

Some of the psychological operations tactics described below have ancient roots. For example, the use of noise to torment enemies dates back to the warfare of early civilizations - including the siege of Jericho in the Old Testament. Apparently, noise is still used in U.S. military psychological operations, although details about such tactics are mostly classified.

As noted above, it is clear that many of the tactics used in organized stalking were also used by East Germany's Stasi (state police), who referred to the overall process as "zersetzung der seele" (decomposition of the soul).

Some of the core principles of organized stalking harassment are also used in military interrogations - such as those conducted on terrorist suspects at Guantánamo. Several of these concepts were documented by the sociologist Albert D. Biderman, in a 1957 journal article about coercive interrogation methods used by the Chinese to obtain confessions from American prisoners during the Korean War.

Among the methods documented by Biderman were isolation (depriving the victim of social support), "monopolization of perception" (fixing the victim's attention upon his or her immediate predicament), sleep deprivation, threats, "demonstration of omnipotence" (to suggest the futility of resistance), and degradation (including "demeaning punishments, insults and taunts, and denial of privacy).

A copy of Biderman's Chart of Coercion is on page 48 of this report.Tactics chosen for their lack of evidence

For the most part, organized stalking tactics are chosen for their lack of directly observable and legally persuasive evidence. The idea is to completely destroy someone without leaving fingerprints.

Intelligence-gathering and policing are often done in ways that make it inherently difficult to prove misconduct. Gang stalking employs a refined set of practices specifically chosen for the lack of legally incriminating evidence, and for the likelihood that victims' accounts will be perceived as simply paranoid impressions of routine events when described to others.

Victims' accounts tend to be dismissed since their experiences sound like commonplace occurrences - because that is indeed what they are: strangers who are rude, noisy neighbors, bad service, being cut-off in traffic, etc. These are things which happen to everyone. But for gang stalking victims, these things happen constantly - which becomes a form of real psychological torture, which must be experienced to comprehend.

Below are the primary tactics associated with counterintelligence subversion. Keep in mind that, by all accounts, a gang stalking campaign starts employing these tactics long before the victim has any clue that he or she is being systematically targeted. Many of the early instances of harassment are only understood by the victim later when the whole process becomes clear. By that point, often the harassment and slandering might have been going on for years.

1. A Brief Explanation of “Gang Stalking”

Definitions

“Gang Stalking” is, very likely, a disinformation term created by U.S. intelligence agencies. It refers to the intense, long-term, unconstitutional surveillance and harassment of a person who has been designated as a target by someone associated with America’s security industry.

Such operations have nothing to do with criminal gangs. Official domestic counterintelligence operations of this type are - apparently - perpetrated by federal agents and contractors, sometimes with the support of state and local law enforcement personnel. The goal of such operations - in the parlance of counterintelligence agents - is to “subvert” or “neutralize” an individual deemed to be an enemy (or potential enemy) of clients or members of the security state. Arguably, the most accurate term for this form of harassment would be “counterintelligence stalking.”

Published news reports and other evidence cited on this website seem to suggest that much - but not all - of this stalking is done as part of a national program. News reports indicate that such stalking is also sometimes used unofficially for personal and corporate vendettas by current and former employees of law enforcement and intelligence agencies, including private investigators.

Since counterintelligence stalking goes far beyond surveillance - into the realm of psychological terrorism, it is essentially a form of extrajudicial punishment. As such, the harassment is illegal - even when done by the government. It clearly violates the Sixth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, for example - which guarantees the right to a trial. Such operations also violate similar fundamental rights defined by state constitutions, which people on the right of America's political spectrum claim to respect. Stalking is also specifically prohibited by the criminal codes of every state in America.

Although the term "gang stalking" is intentionally misleading, it does have one merit: it is accurate in the sense that the perpetrators - law enforcement agencies, intelligence agencies, and private security thugs - do often function in the manner of criminal gangs. Although they sometimes conduct their operations under the color of law, many of their activities have neither constitutional nor moral legitimacy. That is true of all of the likely major perpetrators of organized stalking in the U.S.: the FBI, the Department of Homeland Security, U.S. military counterintelligence agencies, state and local Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs), and security contractors. All of those groups - and other federal intelligence agencies, such as the CIA and NSA - have well-documented histories of abusing their powers.

History

Organized stalking methods were used extensively by communist East Germany's Stasi (state police) as a means of maintaining political control over its citizens. The Stasi referred to the tactics as "Zersetzung" (German for "decomposition" or "corrosion" - a reference to the intended psychological, social, and financial effects upon the victim).

Although they are illegal in the U.S., the same covert tactics are quietly used by America's local and federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to suppress dissent, silence whistle-blowers, and get revenge against persons who have angered someone with connections to the public and private agencies involved.

Illegal counterintelligence operations have been perpetrated against Americans by urban police departments in the U.S. since the late 1800s. Traditionally, the groups of mostly-undercover police officers involved are called “red squads,” although the modern official term is “Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs).”

The most well-documented example of such operations was the FBI’s infamous Cointelpro (Counter-Intelligence Programs) under the direction of J. Edgar Hoover. Those operations ran from 1956 until 1971 when they were exposed by political activists who broke into an FBI office and obtained secret documents which they handed over to the press.

Cointelpro’s official goal was to “expose, disrupt, misdirect, discredit, or otherwise neutralize” individuals and groups deemed to be subversive.

Tactics

As the U.S. Senate’s investigation of Cointelpro found, tactics used by the FBI included many of the methods associated with gang stalking, such as overt surveillance (stalking for psychological operations purposes). The agency even perpetrated crimes such as blackmail and assassinations.

Organized stalking methods include warrantless electronic surveillance, slander, blacklisting, and a variety of psychological operations. The latter presumably exploit findings from studies such as the notorious MK Ultra experiments conducted on American and Canadian citizens by the CIA, as well as the aforementioned psychological torture tactics refined by the Stasi. In fact, as explained in the overview below, former CIA analyst and expert on the history of U.S. spying, George O’Toole wrote about a connection between the CIA and the aforementioned LEIUs.

An organized stalking victim is systematically isolated and harassed in a manner intended to cause sustained emotional torment while creating the least-possible amount of evidence of stalking that would be visible to others. The process is sometimes referred to as “no-touch torture.” Methods are specifically chosen for their lack of easily-captured objective evidence. Perpetrators use common annoyances such as constant noise by neighbors or rude comments and abusive behavior by strangers, but on a frequent ongoing long-term basis. The cumulative effects of relentless exposure to such tactics can amount to psychological torture for the victim.

Accomplices - such as neighbors, co-workers, and even friends or relatives of the victim in some cases - are recruited to participate (often unwittingly) by counterintelligence personnel using various means, such as by telling them that the target is a potential threat or that the target is the subject of an “investigation.”

A whole set of psychological operations are perpetrated against targeted individuals. These methods, described in detail in the overview below, include such things as threats, slander, vandalism, abusive phone calls, computer hacking, tormenting the victim with noise, and “mobbing” (orchestrated verbal harassment by strangers, neighbors, or co-workers).

Accounts by numerous victims of organized stalking share common specific details - suggesting that the perpetrators are following a well-tested and standardized playbook of methods that have proven to be easily kept off of the radar of potential witnesses and the mainstream news media.

News Reports

Note: The following published news reports are discussed in more detail later in this overview, and accompanied by links to the original sources.

Although Edward Snowden’s revelations about the National Security Agency (NSA) in 2013 and 2014 generated a great deal of public discussion about mass surveillance, U.S. domestic counterintelligence activities receive relatively little attention. This is so despite reports - such as those which follow - from sources across the political spectrum.

Published articles and anecdotal reports have appeared with increasing frequency - especially in the past decade or so - alleging that something comparable to the FBI’s Cointelpro operations is still happening, although it naturally involves more advanced surveillance technology.

One of the first significant works of investigative journalism about U.S. domestic counterintelligence operations in the post-Cointelpro era appeared just 7 months after the U.S. Senate's "Church Committee" issued its final report about Cointelpro and MK Ultra.

Pulitzer Prize nominee George O'Toole, a novelist and historian who specialized in the history of American espionage, and who had worked for the CIA as an analyst, wrote an article titled "America's Secret Police Network." The article, which was published in the December 1976 issue of Penthouse, exposed a secretive quasi-governmental organization called the Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIU).

Although LEIUs - or "Red Squads" - have existed in America since the late 1800s, the private national network of such intelligence units that was quietly formed in the 1950s had remained - and still remains - mostly unknown to the general public. O'Toole described the group this way:

"The organization forms a vast network of intelligence units that exchange dossiers and conduct investigations on a reciprocal basis. Several of the police departments belonging to the group have recently been caught in illegal wiretapping, burglary, and spying on the private lives of ordinary citizens. The LEIU is, in effect, a huge, private domestic-intelligence agency."

A New York Times article published in April 1979 reviewed a three-and-a-half-year study of the LEIU association by the American Friends Service Committee. The study described the LEIU as "an old-boy network" whose illegal surveillance "of groups and individuals for political purposes is continuing on a vast scale in the nation." According to the report, the widespread illegal spying posed "a grave threat to the constitutional rights of freedom of expression, due process and privacy."

A Los Angeles Times article published in September 1979 under the headline "FBI Admits Spreading Lies About Jean Seberg" was the lead story on the paper's front page. Seberg - a successful film actress and a political activist - had died the month before in Paris from an apparent suicide. As the Los Angeles Times reported, Seberg had been the target of a systematic campaign by the FBI to slander her. She had also apparently been blacklisted and terrorized by the FBI using tactics associated with counterintelligence operations intended to neutralize political dissidents, such as “black bag jobs,” illegal wiretapping, and overt stalking.

During the 1980s and 90s a trend toward militarization began in American police departments. For example, Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) teams were being created across the nation. However, relatively little news about U.S. counterintelligence operations emerged. This is not to say that illegal spying was not taking place; it just mostly stayed out of the media. A book published in 2014, L.A. Secret Police, exposed such spying in Los Angeles and explained how it was kept out of the news. Police Chief Daryl Gates apparently used threats and blackmail to scare city council members and the Los Angeles Times away from digging into his activities.

Here is an excerpt from a description of the book:

“L.A. cops ruined lives and reputations, inflicted mindless brutality, committed murder and engaged in massive cover-ups. In Los Angeles, police corruption was much more than unmarked envelopes stuffed with cash. It was a total corruption of power. For decades LAPD engaged in massive illegal spying and lied about it. Its spying targets included politicians, movie stars, professional athletes, news reporters and anyone wielding power or those of interest to Daryl Gates.”

An apparent case of organized stalking by federal agents which did appear in the news during that era was the high-profile case of a cancer research scientist named Arnold Lockshin, who fled with his family to the Soviet Union in 1986 and was granted political asylum. An article in the Gadsen Times - and other newspaper reports - in October 1986 brought national attention to the case. According to Lockshin, he and his family were being intensely harassed by agents because of the socialist political views of Lockshin and his wife. The harassment tactics included many of those associated with organized stalking: slander, spying, break-ins, threats, harassing phone calls, etc.

News reports about domestic spying and subversion in the U.S. and other Western nations became more frequent in the post-9/11 era.

In 2004 the PBS news program NOW and Newsweek magazine both reported that the Pentagon had quietly resumed its practice of domestic spying, and suggested that “something like Cointelpro may again be at hand.” Spying on civilians by the U.S. Army was one of the scandals which led to the famous Church Committee investigations by Congress in the mid-1970s.

In October 2004 the U.K newspaper The Sunday Times published an article about the use of Stasi-type psychological operations to punish whistle-blowers by MI5 - an intelligence agency with close ties to the U.S. intelligence community.

In December 2005 National Book Award winner Gloria Naylor, wrote a semi-autobiographical book in which she described her experiences as a target of organized stalking. The book’s title, 1996, was the year it became apparent to Naylor that she was being stalked. Apparently, her harassment began after she had a minor dispute with a neighbor whose brother worked for the National Security Agency (NSA).

The Globe and Mail, a national newspaper in Canada, reported in May 2006 that the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) used organized stalking techniques (referred to as “Diffuse and Disrupt” tactics) against terrorism suspects for whom they lacked sufficient evidence to prosecute.

A cover article in The Washington Post Magazine in January 2007 by a journalist familiar with military policies and weapon systems portrayed self-proclaimed victims of gang stalking as intelligent and credible, and suggested that claims about exotic non-lethal weapons being used by the U.S. government to harass targeted individuals were plausible.

Former CIA division chief Melvin Goodman was quoted in a June 2008 article by Jeremy Scahill in The Nation (America’s oldest continuously-published weekly magazine) on the vast private contractor element of the intelligence-security community:

“My major concern is the lack of accountability, the lack of responsibility. The entire industry is essentially out of control. It’s outrageous.”

A newspaper article in the Verona-Cedar Grove Times in March 2009 titled “Stalker Claims Unsettle Police” described how a self-proclaimed target of gang stalking had been distributing flyers in his former neighborhood in Verona, New Jersey, warning about organized stalking of targeted individuals. The flyers stated: “Their intention is to murder their target without getting their hands dirty. It’s the perfect hate crime.”

A post on the political blog Daily Kos in October 2010 alleged that intelligence agencies in the U.S., the U.K., and Canada use gang stalking (zersetzung as East Germany’s Stasi called it) against targeted individuals.

A local TV news broadcast in California in January 2011 (on KION - Channel 46 and KCBA - Channel 35) featured a report about gang stalking - referred to as such by the reporters and by Lieutenant Larry Richard of the Santa Cruz Police Department.

In his February 2011 article for the Guardian, “The Dirty History of Corporate Spying,” investigative reporter James Ridgeway described how corporations target people with what is, in effect, a secret private law enforcement system:

“The private detective firms working for corporations can develop information against their own targets and find eager recipients among federal and local law enforcement agencies, some of whose employees end up retiring into private-sector detective work. The corporate spy business thus amounts to a shadow para-law enforcement system that basically can get around any of the safeguards set out in the American legal system; it ought to be subject first to transparency, and then to banning.”

A newspaper article in The Record and a TV report on KCRA Channel 3 in August 2011 reported that the city manager of Stockton, California was stalked by local police after a break-down in contract negotiations. The brazen tactics used by the police included purchasing the house next to that of the city manager and using it as a base for psychological operations of the sort used by counterintelligence personnel.

Florida’s Pulitzer Prize-winning Sun Sentinel reported in December 2012 on the organized stalking of a police officer by other police officers and sheriff’s deputies from multiple jurisdictions. The victim of the stalking had cited an off-duty police officer for reckless driving. The stalking - which included illegally snooping on the victim's private data and efforts to harass and intimidate her - was apparently done in retaliation.

An article in CounterPunch magazine in January 2013 asserted that the FBI's infamous Cointelpro operations have re-emerged in full force: "Cointelpro is alive and well."

A June 2013 article in the Nation said this about activities by private security firms, the FBI, and the Department of Justice:

"One might think that what we are looking at is Cointelpro 2.0 - an outsourced surveillance state - but in fact it's worse."

Articles in the Washington Times and Wired magazine about the September 2013 mass shooting at the Washington D.C. Navy Yard included reports of speculation that the incident resulted from the shooter having been systematically tormented by gang stalking, including tactics such as constant noise harassment.

The cover article of Fortean Times magazine in October 2013 (U.S. edition) was about "state-sponsored gangstalking." The author, a professor from California State University Long Beach, described in detail how a former military service member who stole some equipment from the U.S. military has been relentlessly stalked by undercover operatives and psychologically tortured.

A TV news broadcast in West Virginia on 14 November 2013 (on CBS affiliate WDTV) included a report about "organized stalking" which featured two individuals from Pennsylvania who appeared to be credible and sincere, discussing their constant harassment by perpetrators using gang stalking tactics.

In November 2013, a TV and radio broadcast of Democracy Now! featured an interview with the director of the Center for Corporate Policy in which he discussed the shadowy industry of spies employed by major U.S. corporations to conduct secret - and often illegal - counterintelligence operations against critics of those corporations.

Articles published by CBS, the Daily Mail, RT, Tech Dirt, and Courthouse News Service in December 2013 reported that a U.S. government contractor filed a lawsuit against multiple federal agencies for gang stalking him (the complaint refers to gang stalking as such). The plaintiff claims he was subjected to constant surveillance - including inside his residence and his vehicle - and constant psychological harassment from co-workers and strangers.

An article in The New Yorker in February 2014 gave a detailed account of an organized stalking campaign by a large corporation. Research biologist Tyrone Hayes discovered some disturbing effects from a pesticide made by the agribusiness corporation Syngenta. When he refused to keep quiet about it, the corporation's goon squad began slandering him to discredit him. They also stalked him, hacked his emails, and threatened him for more than a decade.

A report on the ABC News TV program 20/20 - and an article in the Daily Mail - in May 2014 chronicled the ordeal of a couple in Hubbard, Ohio who were systematically harassed for 7 years in a vengeance campaign orchestrated by the town's fire chief. Apparently, the fire chief was angry at the couple because of a real estate dispute, so he enlisted the help of other firefighters, police officers, and local residents to perpetrate a campaign of constant vehicle horn honking outside the couple's home. The harassment - which the couple thoroughly documented on video - resulted in legal claims which were still pending at the time of the news reports.

Disinformation

In addition to the use of covert methods, another factor contributing to the low profile of organized stalking in the media is a disinformation campaign - a common tactic in counterintelligence operations. In the case of organized stalking, the disinformation is mainly intended to mitigate exposure of the program.

Toward that end the Internet has been flooded with websites and forum comments about gang stalking that falsely purport to be from self-proclaimed victims of organized stalking, making irrational claims - references to demons and such. The intended effect is to convey the impression that everyone who claims to be targeted by gang stalking is simply delusional.

An additional disinformation strategy has been the establishment of front groups - most notably, FFCHS (Freedom From Covert Harassment and Surveillance) - ostensibly a gang stalking victims support group, but actually an organization run by counterintelligence operatives.

Scope of Operations

U.S. Department of Justice crime statistics from a 2006 survey indicated that an estimated 445,220 stalking victims reported being stalked by three or more perpetrators.

Such statistics suggest the existence of activities whose scope cannot be explained simply as stalking by criminals - especially given that the otherwise-comprehensive index of crime categories in the DOJ's website conspicuously makes no mention of this type of stalking.

Another indication of how common organized stalking in the U.S. has become can be seen if you perform a search-engine query of the term "gang stalking." You will get millions of results. The total silence of the DOJ and FBI on this crime is an obvious clue that it is sanctioned by those agencies.

Organizational Structure

Ted L. Gunderson was a high-level FBI official during the Cointelpro era. After he retired from the agency he asserted that a much more sophisticated version of Cointelpro began to re-emerge in the 1980s. A link to Gunderson's affidavit on the subject is included in the overview below. Further Reading

Based on news reports, accounts of self-proclaimed victims, and the DOJ statistics cited above, the apparent scope of current organized stalking operations would require the acquiescence of multiple federal and local government agencies (including the FBI and the Department of Justice, among others). Local and federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies now share crime and national security information via a nationwide network of data "fusion centers" - an element of the extensive post-9/11 homeland security infrastructure.

America's now-vast industry of intelligence-security contractors, federal intelligence agencies (there are 16 not including the Director of National Intelligence office), and the hundreds of local police department Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs) make it difficult to speculate about exactly how domestic counterintelligence operations are currently being administered.

Increasingly-common reports of illegal spying by corporations as well as reports of police officers and federal agents sometimes initiating gang stalking operations for personal vendettas further complicate the analysis.

Numerous job listings by intelligence/security contractor corporations for “surveillance role players” with active security clearances and training in counterintelligence (links and details in the overview below) strongly suggest that federal law enforcement agencies have largely outsourced these operations - which would be consistent with other security programs. A June 10, 2013 article in USA Today noted that about 1.4 million Americans had top-secret security clearances.

Federal and local law enforcement agencies also make extensive use of criminal informants (who are in large supply in America, with its extraordinary per capita incarceration rate). It would be natural for such informants to be used in a counterintelligence program. Indeed, the original Cointelpro was found by the U.S. Senate’s Church Committee investigations to have delegated some activities to organized crime groups. First-hand accounts of self-proclaimed victims of gang stalking support this assumption: by their appearance and behavior, many street-level perpetrators appear to possibly be ex-convicts.

Regardless of the exact nature of organized stalking in the U.S., any national counterintelligence program would require at least passive acquiescence by the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) - just like the first version of Cointelpro did. U.S. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy approved some of the original Cointelpro operations. Because of the critical role of the DOJ in allowing organized stalking to occur, I devote an entire section of this overview to that agency.

2. Introduction to the Full Explanation of Gang Stalking

I urge readers to consider the evidence presented here in its totality; the nature of organized stalking - by design - is such that it is difficult to comprehend and evaluate without considering it in its full context.

With the goal of providing some of that context, the first page of this website (“COINTELPRO News”) includes not only the relatively infrequent mainstream press articles specifically about gang stalking, but also news which is only indirectly related. Published news and analysis of subjects such as government secrecy, police corruption, privacy, surveillance, private investigators, and various government scandals are relevant to organized stalking in ways which I try to make clear.

I hope readers are not put-off by my sometimes harsh views on related political topics. I express my opinions here candidly, and the intensity of my rhetoric is partly a function of having been on the sharp end of gang stalking for years.

As for my analysis of organized stalking, I try to be as measured and cautious as possible while still confronting the reality that the subject requires a certain amount of speculation because of the secrecy and deception which surrounds it.

Given the current state of technologies and government policies concerning surveillance, the average American faces many potential and actual invasions of privacy. For individuals targeted for gang stalking, the situation is infinitely worse. Given all of that, this website is only nominally “anonymous.”

Anyone associated with the professional news media who is interested in additional information about my personal experiences with gang stalking can reach me at the email address I have provided.

Thank you for taking an interest in this material.

For victims of gang stalking, I hope that the information I post here will be helpful.

COUNTERINTELLIGENC

Counterintelligence is the assessment and countering of threats posed by enemy subversion, espionage, and sabotage. Counterintelligence operations include covert surveillance (spying on the enemy), sabotage (disruption of the enemy’s activities), and disinformation (efforts to deceive the enemy and - when it serves the objectives of the counterintelligence program - the public). From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Wikipedia's entry on counterintelligence describes the organizational nature this way:

> "In most countries the counterintelligence mission is spread over multiple organizations, though one usually predominates. There is usually a domestic counterintelligence service, usually part of a larger organization such as the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States."

COINTELPRO (short for "Counterintelligence Program") was the name of a secret illegal counterintelligence program run by the FBI from 1956 until it was exposed by civilian activists in 1971 and subsequently investigated by Congress.

The U.S. Senate's Church Committee investigations in the mid-1970s found that under Cointelpro U.S. law enforcement personnel and their various government and private citizen and criminal accomplices systematically spied on, slandered, terrorized, and committed acts of violence (including murder) against American citizens deemed to be dissidents.

Gang stalking (also known as "organized stalking") is the covert organized surveillance and harassment of a targeted individual by multiple perpetrators. The goal is to systematically isolate and harass the victim using tactics whose cumulative effects amount to psychological torture.

As far as I know, the term “gang stalking” has not yet found its way into any major print publication dictionaries - which is not surprising for a subject residing in the grey area of counterintelligence. The term is however, much less obscure than it was, say a decade ago. For example, you can find it here in the (non-censored) popular online dictionary of slang terms: the Urban Dictionary.

Organized stalking of a targeted individual employs methods used in counterintelligence operations - such as electronic and human surveillance, slander, disinformation, and a variety of intensive long-term psychological operations (“psyops”) methods.

The Stasi - communist East Germany’s infamous secret police agency - monitored and terrorized citizens with the same tactics. They referred to the process of destroying targeted individuals as “zersetzung” which translates as “decomposition” or “corrosion.”

“Gang stalking” is an unfortunate term as it gives the erroneous impression that the activity is connected with street gangs. “Organized stalking” is a superior description; it avoids that confusion and it accurately conveys the systematic nature of the crime.

Other terms used to describe stalking by multiple perpetrators include “group stalking,” “vigilante stalking,” and “cause stalking.” The latter term refers to the fact that the activity is sometimes associated with political causes.

For example, in his book Stopping a Stalker, Robert L. Snow, a retired police captain from the Indianapolis Police Department, devoted a chapter to organized stalking by multiple perpetrators associated with causes - such as stalking of abortion clinic staff members by extreme anti-abortion activists, and stalking of workers who crossed picket lines by union members.

Arguably, the best term for the counterintelligence operations widely referred to as “gang stalking” would be the term “COINTELPRO Stalking” because that is exactly what it is.

The Prevalence of Stalking by Multiple Perpetrators

U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) crime statistics from a 2006 survey indicated that an estimated 445,220 stalking victims reported being stalked by 3 or more perpetrators. (Page 12 of the report has the relevant numbers: 13.1 percent of 3,398,630 victims reported such group stalking.)

DOJ Stalking Survey - 2006

Incidentally, that percentage is comparable to what appears in crime surveys in the U.K. - a nation with whom U.S. intelligence agencies have very close ties. A 1998 crime survey of England and Wales found that 12 percent of stalking victims reported being stalked by 3 perpetrators (page 25).

British Crime Survey - 1998

Possibly more relevant to organized stalking is the number of victims stalked by “four or more” perpetrators. In the British survey, that group was approximately 8 percent of all stalking victims (page 25). That would be approximately 1 percent (0.944 percent) of all adults aged 16 to 59.

A Curiously Incurious Justice Department

An attorney, Keith Labella, contacted the National Center for Victims of Crime (which is funded by the DOJ) in October 2008 to inquire about the frequency of reports the center receives about organized stalking crimes. He was informed that they receive “thousands of calls per month.”

Notwithstanding the frequency of calls to their helpline, the center offered no guidance or referral to other agencies or organizations. Here is Mr. Labella’s affidavit about his inquiry.

Make of it what you will, but the U.S. Department of Justice never publicly discusses the issue of counterintelligence stalking - not even to dismiss it as nonsense.

COINTELPRO Version 2.0

In a society as heavily-policed as America now is - a society whose National Security Agency is tracking everyone's phone calls and Internet activity for example - it is inconceivable that tens of thousands or more cases of criminal stalking (as documented in the DOJ crime statistics) fail to appear on the radar of law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

Yet there is no mention of such crimes by the federal government anywhere except in those statistics.

The implication is inescapable: federal agencies are acquiescing in what is happening. Assuming the statistics are even roughly accurate, there is no other explanation; organized stalking (the monitoring and "disruption" of the activities of targeted individuals) is being perpetrated as part of a counterintelligence program.

And it is being done illegally - as it violates state laws (in every state) against stalking as well as the U.S. Constitution's prohibitions against unreasonable searches and punishment without a trial. Stalking is also a violation of federal law (U.S. Code Title 18, Section 2261A).

Under the Radar

How is it that the general public would not be aware of the re-emergence of Cointelpro operations?

I address this question in more detail in the section titled "The Wall of Silence Which Surrounds Gang Stalking," but here are the main factors:

(1) Covert Methods

The most fundamental explanation for the low-profile of gang stalking is that counterintelligence operations - by definition - are performed covertly. The FBI's original version of Cointelpro remained undetected by the public until stolen secret documents were leaked to the press.

(2) Security Clearances

Law enforcement and intelligence agency personnel involved in counterintelligence activities are bound by secrecy oaths. This is also true of the vast industry of private contractors employed by those agencies. For example, job ads posted by security-intelligence contractors for “surveillance role players” (domestic spies) all require an active security clearance in addition to counterintelligence training.

Similarly, judges who sit on the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) court which reviews legal issues about secret federal policies are also bound by secrecy oaths. That is also true of members of the House and Senate intelligence committees.

(3) Whistleblower Protection Act Exemptions

Agencies such as the FBI are exempt from the Whistleblower Protection Act. Consequently, an agent who tries to reveal unethical behavior by the agency faces potentially serious legal consequences. Contractors of intelligence agencies are also not protected by the Whistleblower Protection Act.

(4) Legal Restrictions on Witnesses

Almost certainly, when an individual is targeted for subversion (“gang stalking”), the operation is portrayed to witnesses (neighbors, co-workers, etc.) as an “investigation.” In an investigation, law enforcement personnel can order witnesses to keep silent. For example, when the FBI issues an administrative subpoena called a “National Security Letter” the document has a gag order attached which prohibits the recipient from discussing it.

(5) Tactics Which Create Minimal Evidence

Subversion tactics used by the FBI include many tactics from the original version of Cointelpro, and some which were futher refined by East Germany’s Stasi. For the most part, the tactics are all chosen because they are known to be effective forms of “no-touch torture.” The idea is to destroy the victim psychologically and socially and financially by forms of criminal harassment which create minimal objective evidence from the perspective of witnesses and courts.

Victims' accounts tend to be dismissed since their experiences sound like commonplace occurrences - because that is indeed what they are: strangers who are rude, neighbors who are noisy, businesses which deliver bad service, drivers who cut-off the victim in traffic, pedestrians who bump them as they walk by, etc. These are things which happen to everyone. But for gang stalking victims, these things happen constantly - which becomes a form of real psychological torture, the intensity of which must be experienced to comprehend.

(6) Ignorance

Americans are largely unaware of the history of well-documented relevant programs, such as the FBI's Cointelpro operations and the CIA's MK Ultra program - even though both were thoroughly investigated and exposed by Congress in the 1970s. Similarly, although many people have heard of the Stasi (East Germany's secret police agency), they are not specifically familiar with the Stasi's use of Zersetzung - which was a set of methods virtually identical to current gang stalking in America.

This is not surprising; nearly three-quarters of Americans do not know what the Cold War was about, and 29 percent cannot even name the vice president. Counterintelligence operations can thrive in an environment of such widespread ignorance.

Of course, even well-educated individuals are unlikely to recognize the connections between a local situation in which they are told that a neighbor or co-worker or business patron is under investigation and historical phenomena like Cointelpro and East Germany's Stasi.

Still, it can only make things easier for an agency such as the FBI to recruit vigilante citizen volunteers and to conduct illegal operations without detection when they are dealing with a society in which 64 percent of the public cannot name the three branches of their federal government and a fourth of the people do not even know that the earth revolves around the sun.

(7) Cowardice, Laziness, & Incompetence in the Mainstream News Media

Organized stalking goes mostly undiscussed in the mainstream news media. There are some notable exceptions - most frequently in the local and alternative press. I review those in detail throughout this website, but as a rule, major corporate news agencies avoid discussing matters which the intelligence and law enforcement community do not wish to have discussed.

This silence in the press is largely the result of the kinds of self-censorship documented in sources such as Kristina Borjesson's Into the Buzzsaw, and Noam Chomsky's Manufacturing Consent.

Laziness in the news media should not be underestimated either. Often when the federal government is engaged in serious deception and crimes, the news media play no role in the disclosure until a whistle-blower drops a set of incriminating official documents about it in their laps - as happened with the Pentagon Papers, Cointelpro, and the NSA's mass surveillance exposed by Edward Snowden in 2013.

It would be difficult to overstate the significance of the news media's cowardice as a factor in keeping modern Cointelpro operations off of the public's radar. For perspective, one has to re-consider the reporting on crimes by U.S. intelligence agencies during the 1970s. A book by historian Kathryn S. Olmsted, Challenging the Secret Government (1996), makes the case that Americans overestimate the boldness of the journalism during that period.

The following review of Olmsted's book gives a sense of what really happened. With a few notable exceptions - such as reporters Seymour Hersh and Daniel Schorr - the news media generally had a loss of nerve at a critical moment in America's history. As a result, we missed a golden opportunity to fully expose the deep corruption in the U.S. intelligence community, and implement serious reforms.

Conventional wisdom would have it that, in the wake of Vietnam and Watergate, the nation's press was emboldened to enter a new phase of investigative zeal. Olmsted, a lecturer in history at U.C.-Davis, provides an absorbing contrarian account of the extent to which, with a few singular exceptions, the press retreated from such zeal, in part intimidated by the discovery of their own potential power. Thus, four months after Nixon's resignation, when New York Times reporter Seymour Hersh launched a series charging that the CIA, "forbidden by law from operating in the U.S.," had engaged in massive domestic spying, his reports were greeted with skepticism and tentativeness in follow-ups by fellow journalists. (Hersh's vindication came from CIA Director William Colby's Senate testimony, in which he disputed only the characterization of wrongdoing as "massive.")

Olmsted charts how Hersh's story, along with a cautious but competitive exploration of FBI abuses by the Washington Post, resulted in two congressional investigations that also had the potential to break the code of deference previously accorded to organizations responsible for national security by both Congress and the press. Particularly compelling is the author's account of how colleagues excoriated reporter Daniel Schorr when he went to the Village Voice with the confidential results of one of the investigations, after having been silenced by his own employers, CBS. This is a fascinating study of how, just months after Watergate, both press and Congress quietly retreated to the same silk-gloved handling of the CIA and FBI in the name of national security.

(8) Disinformation

Search results on the Internet's largest search engine, Google, fluctuate wildly for particular words and phrases over time. Only people within Google know the exact policies and algorithms which determine those results, but the search results do provide a rough indication of the online presence of certain topics.

Typically, the list of websites generated by a search is the tip of an iceberg. Ten pages of website links will show the top 100 results, but the screen also displays a much larger number that indicates the number of references to the search term that were detected.

A Google query of the term "gang stalking" in October 2013 yielded over six million results.

As you begin to wade through the search results, you will mostly encounter websites filled with incoherent rubbish. Anyone even superficially familiar with counterintelligence will recognize this tactic; it is called disinformation.

This is another reason organized stalking has been able to remain mostly below the public's radar. Disinformation is used to muddy the waters surrounding the topic wherever it is discussed online. The intent is to mitigate exposure of the operations.

Because of its central importance to counterintelligence generally - and organized stalking in particular - I explore the subject of disinformation at length in its own section of this overview and elsewhere in this website.

(9) Failure to Connect the Dots

If you view all of the mainstream press reports about domestic spying, counterintelligence activities, and gang stalking from the past decade, it is clear that something is going on. On the other hand, very few people see most of those reports - let alone all of them together and combined with the context provided by the analysis you are now reading.

If you browse through the "Published News Reports on Gang Stalking" section of this overview, you will see that the evidence grows every year that a government-sanctioned program of informants and domestic spying and organized stalking is an element of the current homeland security infrastructure. Unfortunately, very few civilians ever see that evidence all grouped together, and therefore they are very unlikely to realize what is happening.

Lowering Requirements for Investigations

In 2008 the U.S. Department of Justice guidelines which govern FBI investigations were changed to create a new category of investigation called "assessments." These investigations can be initiated with no evidence that any criminal activity has occurred, and the investigations can involve such intrusive measures as physical surveillance, recruitment of criminal informants, interviewing associates of the person being investigated and deploying undercover FBI agents.

The FBI's internal rules were further relaxed in 2011 so that - without even opening an assessment - agents can begin searching commercial databases for information about the individual being investigated, and search through the subject's trash.

Expansion of the powers wielded by the "surveillance state" - and the corresponding erosion of citizens' civil liberties - has been occurring in the U.K. as well. Citizens of the U.S. should be mindful of that fact because a close relationship exists between the intelligence communities of both nations. Among the secret documents revealed by NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden, for example, were presentation slides about how the NSA assisted its British equivalent, GCHQ, in developing technology that was used to spy on citizens via their webcams.

In the same way that the U.S. government slashed some of Americans' traditional rights by legislation such as the Patriot Act, in the U.K. the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 (RIPA) expanded the surveillance powers of the government in the name of national security. As far as I know, the members of Parliament did not hold much public discussion about how the U.K.'s intelligence agencies might want spy on a couple of million innocent citizens via their webcams.

Exploiting a Government Program as a Private Weapon

The potential for abuse of power by members of private intelligence corporations and government agencies in all of this is enormous.

Here is an example of such abuse which was reported in the news media - partly because it was directed at members of the news media. One of the counterintelligence tactics which the federal government hires intelligence contractors to perform is spreading disinformation. Most Americans would probably be surprised to learn that systematically spreading lies is even a government contractor job which their taxes are funding, but they underestimate - despite President Eisenhower's famous warning - the extent to which the U.S. government's defense budget has become a pig trough for shady contractors.

If you criticize a comedian, you will likely become the target of a joke. Similarly, when a reporter and editor at USA Today investigated and reported on the U.S. propaganda industry in 2012, they were anonymously slandered by those same contractors.

This was the opening paragraph of their first report that apparently did not go over well with the businesses they were exposing:

“ As the Pentagon has sought to sell wars in Iraq and Afghanistan to often-hostile populations there, it has spent hundreds of millions of dollars on poorly tracked marketing and propaganda campaigns that military leaders like to call “information operations,” the modern equivalent of psychological warfare.”

As a result of their reporting, this is what happened:

“Fake Twitter and Facebook accounts have been created in their names, along with a Wikipedia entry and dozens of message board postings and blog comments. Websites were registered in their names.…”

“…Internet domain registries show the website TomVandenBrook.com was created Jan. 7 — just days after Pentagon reporter Tom Vanden Brook first contacted Pentagon contractors involved in the program. Two weeks after his editor Ray Locker’s byline appeared on a story, someone created a similar site, RayLocker.com, through the same company.”

The article notes that a proxy service was used to hide the identity of the owner of the websites, and a third website was registered to a non-existent address.

Slander is just one of the tactics used in organized stalking by counterintelligence operations. Any or all of the tactics - which are described in detail in a section of this overview - could be used as a weapon by people in the business.

In theory, an organized stalking operation against an individual could be initiated by anyone familiar with the tactics who has associates willing to participate. Perpetrators with financial resources could easily employ private investigators, for example, and others with relevant technical skills to wage a sophisticated operation against someone for revenge or intimidation.

Someone with connections to current or former law enforcement or intelligence agency personnel - or military personnel with a background in intelligence - could mount a very serious campaign against a victim without even (officially) involving government agencies in the initial stages of the investigation and harassment.

In a tactic called “baiting” a surveillance operation can selectively capture evidence of a targeted person responding to harassment. That evidence could then be used to justify the initiation of more formal scrutiny by a government agency.

At whatever point at which it becomes useful or necessary, the perpetrators can - officially or unofficially - turn over to the government counterintelligence personnel whatever they have gathered to have the individual targeted more formally. For example, they could contact a “Terrorism Liaison Officer” (TLO) - a government or civilian operative entrusted with hunting for “suspicious activity.” More on TLOs in section 10 below (“The Organizational Structure of Gang Stalking”).

In essence, organized stalking tactics (and a national counterintelligence program which uses such tacics) could easily be exploited - and probably are - as a weapon against individuals who are disliked for any reason by someone who is either a member of the community of intelligence/security firms, law enforcement agencies, and intelligence agencies. Similarly, being a member of the FBI-corporate alliance called InfraGard (discussed in detail below) could create a perfect opportunity to have someone blacklisted.

Being associated with the national counterintelligence program of organized stalking (“Cointelpro 2.0”) is like having a cousin who is in the Mafia.

This June 2013 article in The Independent revealed that a leaked secret report from British law enforcement authorities found that many law firms, wealthy individuals, and large corporations hire private investigators to conduct illegal spying for them. The article mentioned one of the ways sensitive information was obtained:

[The report] found private investigators to be experts at “developing and cultivating useful relationships” through “socialising with law enforcement personnel.” One particular method identified was to become a member of the Freemasons, which has been repeatedly linked to corruption in the police and judiciary.

Rise of the Police State

Photog - Brendan Scherer

More than 5.1 million Americans had security clearances in 2013 according to a report by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). 3.6 million of the clearances were confidential or secret, and 1.5 million clearances were top secret. Almost one-third of those top secret clearances belong to contractors rather than government employees.

Although the budget for U.S. intelligence activities is mostly kept secret, it is clear that the monitoring of American citizens is taken seriously by their government. This is especially clear after revelations in 2013 about the scope of domestic surveillance by the National Security Agency (NSA).

Equally clear is that the U.S. justice system aggressively polices and prosecutes its citizens: the U.S. has one of the very highest per capita incarceration rates in the world.

A common - and accurate - critique of the modern U.S. government is that it has become unbalanced by the massive expansion of power and secrecy in the executive branch.

A related problem is that the now-vast network of federal agencies (whose officials of course are non-elected) operate with minimal accountability. In many cases they effectively create their own laws.

This is true to some extent in all agencies since they issue and enforce regulations, but the potential to be corrupted by power is infinitely greater in law enforcement and intelligence agencies such as the FBI, the CIA, and the NSA - which operate mostly in secrecy.

The Threat to American Democracy Posed by the Spying Industry

“In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military industrial complex.”

- President Dwight D. Eisenhower

Even Eisenhower was corrupted by the kind of power he warned against. As President, he authorized CIA-backed coups in Iran and Guatemala. In Iran, a democratically-elected prime minister was overthrown by the CIA (and its British counterpart MI6), and replaced by a monarchy. The CIA also trained the repressive police force used to maintain the dictatorship. Similarly, in Guatemala, the CIA overthrew a democratically-elected president and installed a military dictatorship. In both cases, the motives were corporate greed and the desire for U.S. government hegemony.

In addition to the extreme violations of the Constitutional and state rights of the particular individuals targeted for organized stalking, the current counterintelligence program poses a threat to democracy itself, since it can be used against anyone who dares to question the legitimacy of the government’s authority.

The FBI’s original COINTELPRO operations were illegal and disturbing abuses of power; the modern version is similarly corrupt, and it is supported by the now-vast network of powerful secretive agencies and contractors armed with much more powerful technology.

Spying on Americans: a lucrative business for security contractors pig trough

The huge (and largely secret) federal budget for intelligence activities and homeland security supports a large industry of private contractors who provide technology and services for surveillance, investigations, security, and varous intelligence functions. About 70 percent of America’s budget for intelligence activities goes to private contractors, according to a 2012 report from the Director of National Intelligence.

The collusion between corporations and the federal government in the area of domestic surveillance is inherently dangerous. This July 2013 article in the Atlantic posed the issue this way:

"Government and corporations are both capable of terrible things. To have them colluding with one another in secret, inexorably arranging things so that there's disincentive for disagreement among them, is terrifying. The people can fight Big Government. The people can fight Big Finance. The people can fight Big Tech. Could the people fight them if they're all working together with secret law on their side?

Booz Allen Hamilton is paid handsomely to spy on us for the government, then pours campaign contributions back into that same government, protecting their powerful financial incentive to have the surveillance state expand, something that is already a bipartisan cause."

Political support for a Stasi Big Brother police state in the U.S. is partly rooted in hawkish views about law enforcement and anti-terrorism strategy, but it is mostly rooted in greed. There will always be a long line of contractors seeking to cash-in. They all want to be IG Farben (sort of the gold standard of war pigs).

When Congress voted in July 2013 on whether to rein-in the NSA's domestic surveillance program which tracks Americans' phone calls and emails, House members who voted to continue the surveillance received twice as much campaign finance money from the military and intelligence industry as those who voted to dismantle the program.

Americans are not normally permitted to know how much of their money the federal government spends on spying. NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden changed that.

Among the secret documents he revealed was the 178-page "black budget" for the 2013 fiscal year. That year's slush-fund contained $52.6 billion. You can buy a lot of traitorous Stasi rodents with that kind of money.

Also be aware that a lot more money is sloshing around in the federal pig trough which might be getting funneled into spying activities. Many U.S. intelligence operations are conducted under the authority of the Pentagon - for example, those of the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA). Pentagon spending is notoriously difficult to keep track of. Even the U.S. Government Accounting Office says that U.S. Department of Defense spending is “unauditable.”

Defenders of Constitutional liberties are up against a powerful and well-financed industry of parasites. This May 2013 article in The New Yorker describes a “bureaucratic empire” of entities built around the homeland security industry:

“When the Washington Post surveyed that empire, in 2010, it counted more than three thousand government organizations and associated private companies working on counterterrorism, homeland security, and intelligence, in ten thousand locations across the United States.”

Frontline produced a fascinating documentary in April 2013 about the secretive agencies and corporations which make up the modern military and law enforcement industrial complex. The program is called “Top Secret America - 9/11 to the Boston Bombings.”

The whole thing is interesting, but if nothing else, watch the set-up (minutes 3 to 6) and the five minutes or so in the middle (minutes 27 to 32) about journalists uncovering the massive shadowy industry of private intelligence firms.

The Washington Post articles upon which the documentary was based were the product of one of the most thorough investigations of the American police state. More than a dozen journalists spent two years investigating the vast network of agencies and corporations performing secret homeland security operations. This was their conclusion:

“The top-secret world the government created in response to the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, has become so large, so unwieldy and so secretive that no one knows how much money it costs, how many people it employs, how many programs exist within it or exactly how many agencies do the same work.”

Tom Engelhardt, who teaches at the Graduate School of Journalism at the University of California, Berkeley, described the expansion of the national security complex this way:

“It has essentially merged with a set of crony outfits that now do a significant part of its work. It has hired private contractors by the tens of thousands, creating corporate spies, corporate analysts, corporate mercenaries, corporate builders, and corporate providers for a structure that is increasingly becoming the profit-center of a state within a state.”

Barrett Brown on the Role of Private Intelligence/Security Contractors

As I am updating this (in March 2014), journalist Barrett Brown is in jail facing charges related to his role in exposing information leaked by hackers who obtained internal emails from private intelligence firms, such as Stratfor and HB Gary.

Activities revealed in those leaked emails included things such as plotting to discredit journalist Glenn Greenwald and critics of the Chamber of Commerce by spreading lies about them.

In other words, at least some of these numerous secret firms engage in the kind of actions which the CIA might perform against foreign enemies - but they do so on behalf of corporate interests.

Here is an excellent article by Barrett Brown on this topic published in the Guardian in July 2013.

Job Ads for Gang Stalkers?

On August 21, 2013 Drudge Report linked to a brief article posted the day before on InfoWars about a job announcement posted in San Diego. The job - advertised on Craigslist - was for a part-time position with an intelligence/security contractor firm as a “Surveillance Role Player.”

As I explain in detail in the “Organizational Structure” section of this overview, these job listings are numerous. They are mainly found on the websites of defense contractors. You can locate them easily by performing an online search for “surveillance role player job.”

Clearly these jobs are for some type of domestic spying (there are no foreign language requirements, for example). All of the job listings specify that applicants must have active secret clearances and counterintelligence training.

I have so far been unable to locate any mainstream news reports that might shed light on this issue, but multiple indications suggest that these could be jobs for gang stalkers. I re-visit this critical issue in section 11 of this overview ("The Organizational Structure of Gang Stalking").

Here is an example of one such job listing:

Law Enforcement & Intelligence Agencies' Support of a Corporate Agenda

Collusion between corporations and the federal law enforcement/intelligence community is not limited to companies in the spying industry. This subject was explored in depth in a May 2013 report from the Center for Media and Democracy, called Dissent or Terror: How the Nation's Counter-Terrorism Apparatus, in Partnership with Corporate America, Turned on Occupy Wall Street.

That report describes two organizations which facilitate that partnership:

"There are two primary domestic public-private intelligence sharing partnerships at work at the federal level: InfraGard and the Domestic Security Alliance Council (DSAC).

InfraGard is a public-private intelligence sharing partnership managed by the FBI Cyber Division Public/Private Alliance Unit (PPAU). As described by the FBI, Infragard is an "association of businesses, academic institutions, state and local law enforcement agencies and other participants dedicated to sharing information and intelligence to prevent hostile acts against the United States." There are 86 Infragard chapters nationwide. These Infragard chapters serve as representatives of private sector "stakeholders" in many of the nation's fusion centers.

DSAC is a public-private intelligence sharing partnership between the FBI, U.S. DHS I&A and several of the nation's leading corporate/financial interests. Some of these corporate/financial interests comprise the DSAC Leadership Board. The DSAC Leadership Board consists of 29 corporations and banks, including several entities that have been the subject of OWS protests/criticism. Corporate/financial interests active in the DSAC Leadership Board include: Bank of America, MasterCard, Citigroup, American Express, Barclays, RBS Citizens, 3M, Archer Daniels Midland, ConocoPhillips, Time Warner and Wal-Mart. Along with DSAC chairmen from the FBI and U.S. DHS I&A, DSAC is co-chaired by a representative of these private sector interests- currently Grant Ashley, vice president of global security for pharmaceutical giant Merck & Co.

Artist's rendering of an InfraGard member

The March 2008 issue of The Progressive featured an article about this creepy corporate spy club. It seems that InfraGard's communications with the FBI and the Department of Homeland Security can be kept hidden from the public, as they are covered by the "trade secrets" exemption of the Freedom of Information Act.

Apparently mindful that the public will be naturally suspicious of the organization's legitimacy, InfraGard's website explains that members must carefully manage the image presented to the public:

"The interests of InfraGard must be protected whenever presented to non-InfraGard members," the website states. "During interviews with members of the press, controlling the image of InfraGard being presented can be difficult. Proper preparation for the interview will minimize the risk of embarrassment… . The InfraGard leadership and the local FBI representative should review the submitted questions, agree on the predilection of the answers, and identify the appropriate interviewee… . Tailor answers to the expected audience… . Questions concerning sensitive information should be avoided."

For those wishing to join this elite secretive alliance between the FBI and the corporate sector - to learn their secret handshake and to gain the power of being able to name an employee as a suspicious person to be targeted by federal goons, you "must be sponsored by an existing InfraGard member, chapter, or partner organization."

Those who are deemed worthy of membership in the InfraGard partnership are given ID cards and enjoy privileged access to information and direct communication with the FBI.

In a 2009 TV program, Jesse Ventura, the former governor of Minnesota, interviewed Matthew Rothschild, senior editor of the Progressive about InfraGard. Ventura also confronted a member of InfraGard regarding the partnership's obvious potential for abuse of power. The relevant section begins 25 minutes into this video clip.

Note: if the video becomes unavailable at the above link, and you want to search for it, this is the information: Conspiracy Theory with Jesse Ventura, Episode #4, "Big Brother" - originally broadcast on December 23, 2009.

The existence of programs like InfraGard, along with the FBI's infiltration of groups like Occupy Wall Street, and the plotting by intelligence firms to wage a disinformation-slander campaign against critics of the Chamber of Commerce (also discussed in this overview), all suggest that activist and hacker Jeremy Hammond is correct in his assessment of the current U.S. law enforcement industry personnel - namely, that they are "the boot boys of the 1 percent, paid to protect the rich and powerful."

Power in the United States: the "Deep State" analysis

Deep State

To understand organized stalking, it is necessary to understand the power structure which sanctions it. Gang stalking is a weapon for people with connections to the government's intelligence and law enforcement agencies, and their contractors. The fact that counterintelligence subversion could theoretically be used against someone who poses an actual threat to society presumably makes it easy to rationalize the existence of such a program - for example, within the Justice Department. Since such operations are covert, they are subject to no real oversight. Outsourcing most of the work to the now-vast industry of private contractor firms (who in turn, can delegate the operations), creates plausible deniability for those at the top of the food chain.

Mike Lofgren on the deep state

So who are the people with such connections? In the TV interview and essay linked below, Mike Lofgren, a former congressional staff member, offers a sort of unified theory of the current U.S. power structure which attempts to explain the connections between Washington, Wall Street, the Pentagon, Silicon Valley, the intelligence community and law enforcement. This big picture view is helpful to understand U.S. national security and law enforcement policy - of which domestic counterintelligence operations are an element.

Other observers - for example, Peter Dale Scott - have written about the distinction between the formal elected government and the informal “shadow government” or “deep state” which shapes policies, so Lofgren’s views on this subject are not entirely unique, but he does an excellent job of explaining the concept. He also speaks with Washington insider experience, having spent nearly three decades as a congressional staffer, including serving on the powerful House and Senate Budget Committees.

Lofgren refers to “the deep state” as a hybrid of corporate America and the national security state.

“There is another government concealed behind the one that is visible at either end of Pennsylvania Avenue, a hybrid entity of public and private institutions ruling the country according to consistent patterns in season and out, connected to, but only intermittently controlled by, the visible state whose leaders we choose. My analysis of this phenomenon is not an exposé of a secret, conspiratorial cabal; the state within a state is hiding mostly in plain sight.”

Mike Lofgren appeared on Moyers and Company in February 2014 to discuss his views on the deep state. Here is the video.

This webpage features an essay by Lofgren on the same topic.

Here is a webpage of reactions to Lofgren’s portrayal of the deep rot in Washington. They include comments such as this one by Heidi Boghosian, director of the National Lawyers Guild.

“The term Deep State aptly conveys how the private security industry has melded with government. It is soldered by plutocracy, perpetual war, reduction of industrial capacity, US exceptionalism and political malfunction. Lofgren is a credible and welcome interpreter of how these factors combine to exert control over us.”

For more on the issue of who really calls the shots in the U.S. government, you might want to also consider the very credible observations expressed by NSA whistle-blower Russ Tice in this article and interview from September 2013.

For a quick look at some of the elite members of the U.S. oligarchy, you might want to visit the website LittleSis. Many of the individuals and organizations who make up America's "shadow government" are listed there - along with explanations of their connections and political influence. The name "Little Sis" is a play on the Orwellian term "Big Brother."

Noam Chomsky on the deep state

Noam Chomsky, a professor of linguistics and philosophy at MIT, is deservedly one of the most influential analysts of the nature of political power in America. His books, articles, speeches, and debates on the subject are so numerous that it can be difficult to know where to begin for someone who wants to become familiar with his views.

A speech Chomsky gave in Bonn, Germany on June 17, 2013 is a good place to start. In that speech, he explained that the standard view of capitalist democracy taught to American schoolchildren is essentially fictional.

"….Roughly 70% of the population - the lower 70% on the wealth/income scale - they have no influence on policy whatsoever. They're effectively disenfranchised. As you move up the wealth/income ladder, you get a little bit more influence on policy. When you get to the top, which is maybe a tenth of one percent, people essentially get what they want, i.e. they determine the policy. So the proper term for that is not democracy; it's plutocracy."

Chomsky notes that this arrangement is not unique to America:

"Europe, incidentally, is much worse….[The general public has voted against the European Union's economic model,] yet economic policies have changed little in response to one electoral defeat after another."

According to Chomsky, America is essentially a one-party state, and the one party is the business party. He argues that this general power structure has been the same since the nation's founding.

Chomsky’s conclusion:

“The general picture is pretty grim, I think. But there are shafts of light. As always through history, there are two trajectories. One leads towards oppression and destruction. The other leads towards freedom and justice. And as always - to adapt Martin Luther King’s famous phrase - there are ways to bend the arc of the moral universe towards justice and freedom…”

Michael J. Glennon on the deep state

In October 2014, The Boston Globe published an article on the views of Tufts University political scientist Michael J. Glennon regarding the deep state. If you think that things like voting and writing letters to your political representatives might help slow America’s mutation into a police state, you might want to re-evaluate how far things have already deteriorated.

Though it’s a bedrock American principle that citizens can steer their own government by electing new officials, Glennon suggests that in practice, much of our government no longer works that way. In a new book, “National Security and Double Government,” he catalogs the ways that the defense and national security apparatus is effectively self-governing, with virtually no accountability, transparency, or checks and balances of any kind. He uses the term “double government”: There’s the one we elect, and then there’s the one behind it, steering huge swaths of policy almost unchecked.

Asked whether there was any hope of reining in the rogue elements of America’s national security apparatus, Glennon said this:

“The ultimate problem is the pervasive political ignorance on the part of the American people. And indifference to the threat that is emerging from these > concealed institutions. That is where the energy for reform has to come from: the American people. Not from government. Government is very much the problem here. The people have to take the bull by the horns."

George Carlin on the deep state

This 3-minute rant by comedian George Carlin captures some of the core points about the deep state.

A Gang Stalking Organization Chart

Victims of organized stalking can only speculate about the exact nature of the shadowy network of perpetrators arrayed against them.

That speculation is made more difficult by the fact that the people who are overtly and covertly watching them and perpetrating various acts of harassment are of different classes of perpetrators with different motivations and have different connections (and often no connection) to the victim.

For example, the street-level perpetrator ("perp" as cops say) is typically someone who appears to be a rough-looking homeless or near-homeless ex-con type.

Their interactions with the target require no technical skills; the perp is just following some simple instruction - for example, to bump into the victim, or to make some specific creepy comment, or to harass the victim at his or her residence by making various noises.

Such participants in the stalking of course would not be told anything about who they are ultimately working for; in some cases perhaps they are simply paid a small sum of cash by a person who approached them on the street to perform a single act of harassment. In other cases, they might be ex-con's who have been recruited/coerced/paid to function - technically - as "criminal informants."

At a slightly higher level in the stalker food-chain (among those who interact with the victims) are people who appear more clean-cut and are often carrying a cell phone - presumably to communicate with their handlers.

Some of the intermediate-level participants are apparently recruited because of their relevant technical skills or because their jobs afford them access to facilities and information relevant to the operation - such as phone technicians, security guards, and landlords.

At the level above them are the people who actually orchestrate the operation. Based on my own observations, analysis, speculation, and various material I've read (which is included or linked in this website), these people are presumably employed by various intelligence contractors who are ultimately overseen by federal law enforcement and/or intelligence agency personnel.

The active support - or at least approval - of federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies would be necessary for such activities to occur without attracting interference from the massive homeland security infrastructure now in place.

The agencies, corporations, & individuals involved in organized stalking

Historically, counterintelligence crimes against Americans in the U.S. have been perpetrated by three main entities: (1) "red squads" (Law Enforcement Intelligence Units of local police departments), (2) Private Intelligence-security firms such as Pinkerton (now Securitas), and (3) the FBI.

Today, you can probably add the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) to the list. The most authoritative journalism on the subject - such as that of George O'Toole in the late 1970s - also shows connections between LEIUs and the CIA. Technically of course, the CIA is not supposed to be preying on Americans, but anyone who has read about MK Ultra knows that is a purely theoretical boundary.

Similarly, anyone who has not been living in a cave since June 2013 knows that the NSA is deeply involved in unconstitutional domestic spying. And all those agencies - plus others - have access to the nationwide system of data "Fusion Centers," so there is no way that everyone from local cops (especially those in LEIUs) to the U.S. Attorney General is not in the know about organized stalking.

Other players in the overall process include Terrorism Liaison Officers (TLOs) who help choose some of the targets, corporate partners such as members of InfraGard and DSAC, and Threat Assessment Teams in various civilian organizations.

Lastly, the perps include a type of person famously used by East Germany's Stasi - the civilian snitch. Stasi agents referred to such a person as an Inoffizielle Mitarbeiter - unofficial collaborator. Although the street-level thugs used in gang stalking harassment are sometimes apparently recruited from the ranks of criminal informants, many are just un-paid civilian minions who will do almost anything to please someone in a position of authority - for example, under the guise of assisting a "neighborhood watch" program or an "investigation."

Who sanctions all of this? In the case of the FBI's Cointelpro crimes under J. Edgar Hoover, some of the operations were approved by the Department of Justice (DOJ). Presumably, the DOJ signs-off on everything today also (or at least knowingly acquiesces in it). The same might be true of the U.S. judiciary's "Star Chamber" - the secret FISA Court.

Precedence for Organized Stalking of Dissidents

The conspiratorial criminality involved in organized stalking might seem far-fetched if not for the fact that the U.S. government has been caught doing such things before. Context provided by an awareness of documented crimes - past and present - by government agencies is critical for evaluating the plausibility of claims about ongoing counterintelligence operations in the U.S.

3. Crimes by U.S. Law Enforcement and Intelligence Agencies

"When the president does it, that means it is not illegal." - Richard Nixon in a 1977 interview with David Frost

Attitudes of Government Officials About the Law

Although scandals such as Watergate and Iran-Contra occasionally break into the public's consciousness, most Americans are unaware of the criminality which routinely occurs at the upper levels of government.

The same government officials who oversee America's domestic surveillance and law enforcement programs often have a very casual attitude about their own obligation to obey the law.

In a Senate hearing in March 2013 the Director of National Intelligence, James Clapper, was asked "Does the NSA collect any type of data at all on millions or hundreds of millions of Americans?" Clapper said they did not.

NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden's subsequent revelations proved that Clapper was lying to Congress - which Clapper himself was forced to acknowledge. A typical American citizen would be prosecuted for perjury if he or she lied to Congress; Clapper obviously has no such concerns.

As a practical matter, intelligence agencies and federal law enforcement agencies exist in a mostly secret and politically-protected realm outside of the laws that bind the rest of us. They know they won't be punished for their crimes.

The political establishment is similarly unconcerned. Since the intelligence and law enforcement community enjoys virtually unconditional support from both major parties, neither party has to worry about negative political consequences for its role in creating domestic surveillance programs which violate the Fourth Amendment.

In April 2013 WikiLeaks published a searchable database of more than 1.7 million U.S. diplomatic and intelligence documents from the mid-1970s which had been declassified. The documents included a revealing transcript of a discussion involving then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

When a Turkish official suggested that the U.S. arrange to supply military hardware to Turkey - in violation of a U.S. Congressional arms embargo - Kissinger joked about the illegality:

Before the Freedom of Information Act, I used to say at meetings, "The illegal we do immediately; the unconstitutional takes a little longer.” [laughter] But since the Freedom of Information Act, I’m afraid to say things like that.

We’ll make a major effort.

For the average American, violating federal laws would be a serious matter; for government officials like Kissinger it is literally a joke.

In an August 2013 National Review article, conservative columnist John Fund quoted an intelligence official who alluded to the pervasiveness of such arrogance and deception:

A veteran intelligence official with decades of experience at various agencies identified to me what he sees as the real problem with the current NSA: “It’s increasingly become a culture of arrogance. They tell Congress what they want to tell them. Mike Rogers and Dianne Feinstein at the Intelligence Committees don’t know what they don’t know about the programs.” He himself was asked to skew the data an intelligence agency submitted to Congress, in an effort to get a bigger piece of the intelligence budget. He refused and was promptly replaced in his job, presumably by someone who would do as told.

Such behavior at the federal level sets the tone for law enforcement agencies lower down the food chain. I address this issue also in the section of this overview about the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ).

The Erosion of Trust in the U.S. Government

Obama

“Turns out I’m really good at killing people.”

Comment by President Obama - from Double Down
- a behind-the-scenes account of the 2012 presidential race by journalists Mark Halperin and John Heilmann

An April 2014 Rasmussen poll found that more than twice as many American voters regard the federal government as a threat to their rights than those who view the federal government as a protector of their rights.

The poll found that 54 percent of voters considered the federal government to be a threat to individual liberties. Only 22 percent viewed the government as a source of protection of individual liberties. The remaining 24 percent were undecided.

Two of the major reasons trust in U.S. government officials has eroded are: (1) the massive expansion of power and secrecy of the federal government - especially the executive branch - has predictably led to abuses of authority, and (2) access to information via the Internet has made it harder to keep such abuses secret.

That's the good news for targets of organized stalking. The bad news is that - as a practical matter - many people still naïvely assume that anyone who seems to be associated with law enforcement should be absolutely trusted - as seen in this ABC TV show segment.

Organized stalkers (and other criminals) can easily exploit that fact to recruit accomplices by persuading them that they are assisting an investigation or a neighborhood watch surveillance program. This common tendency of blind obedience toward authority figures is such an important element of organized stalking that I address it in detail in its own section of this overview.

Evidence of this sheep-like deference to law enforcement authority figures was on display in January 2014 a jury in the southern California city of Fullerton decided that it was OK with them that their local police department beat to death an unarmed mentally-ill homeless man who posed no risk to anyone. They were not persuaded by the mere fact that the murder had been captured on surveillance camera video.

The Prevalence of Government Corruption in the U.S.

A 2013 Gallup poll found that 79 percent of U.S. residents believed that corruption was widespread throughout the government in America.

Govt Corruption Poll

Admittedly, this is a measurement of the perception of corruption, rather than corruption itself, but corruption is inherently difficult to measure, and public perception is an important indicator.

Now imagine the depth of corruption in those corners of America's government which operate mostly in secret with minimal oversight, such as the intelligence and law enforcement industry.

The Frequency of Crimes Perpetrated by U.S. Government Agencies

You don't have to visit an obscure blog these days to find complaints that America is becoming something of a police state. But America's government doesn't just engage in secret invasive surveillance and aggressive policing - it also engages in crimes.

That's not my opinion - that's what the federal government itself says. For example, the CIA constantly commits crimes according to the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, IC 21 (April 9, 1996) - as explained in chapter 6 of Into the Buzzsaw.

The Congressional report cited therein by John Kelly (whose book Tainting Evidence: Inside the Scandals at the FBI Crime Lab was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize) states that "several hundred times every day" officers of the Clandestine Service (CS) of the CIA "engage in highly illegal activities."

Part of the blame for the American public's ignorance of crimes by federal agencies lies with the mainstream media, which routinely avoids or downplays news that would upset the political establishment. On the other hand, even when good reporting does occur, it often fails to penetrate the public's consciousness.

On the November 21, 1993 episode of the CBS news show 60 Minutes, a former head of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) stated that the CIA had colluded with the Venezuelan National Guard to smuggle a ton of pure cocaine into the U.S. That revelation - and other reports of CIA involvement in the illicit drug trade - seems to have minimal impact on the assumption that Americans should trust the nation's intelligence community.

By the way, if you want to see that moment of the 60 Minutes episode, it is included in this documentary by WhoWhatWhy on counterintelligence. That segment begins at minute 29.

In an August 2013 article, Reuters revealed that - as a matter of official policy - a secretive unit within the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) instructs law enforcement officers in various agencies to lie about the origins of their investigations.

Some cops don't need to be told to lie. The subject of crimes by police officers is generally under-reported in the mainstream corporate news media - especially on national TV news, but to evaluate the plausibility of widespread acquiescence in gang stalking by local police officers it is helpful to consider criminality by police generally.

This review of crimes by Chicago police officers published by the University of Illinois at Chicago, Department of Political Science is illuminating. Browse through the list of convictions of police officers on pages 24 to 47 of this report. The list is in alphabetical order by the officers' names, and covers the past half-century. Keep in mind: these were just the crimes that were discovered and prosecuted.

The crimes range from bribery and extortion to torture and murder. Gang stalking would be like jay-walking for the cops on this list.

Crimes Perpetrated Under Authority of the FBI

Law enforcement agencies in America make extensive use of criminal informants in their investigations, and in many cases authorize criminals to commit crimes when an agency believes it furthers its goals, as reported for example in this August 2013 article in USA Today.

"The FBI gave its informants permission to break the law at least 5,658 times in a single year, according to newly-disclosed documents that show just how often the nation's top law enforcement agency enlists criminals to help it battle crime."

The FBI report from 2011 which USA Today obtained via the Freedom of Information Act does not reveal the nature of the crimes:

"The report does not spell out what types of crimes its agents authorized, or how serious they were. It also did not include any information about crimes the bureau's sources were known to have committed without the government's permission."

A document released in December 2013 showed that informant crimes authorized by the FBI increased another 5 percent in 2012 to 5,939 crimes.

Sometimes the FBI uses cops to perpetrate crimes too. During the original Cointelpro era, for example, they arranged for police to assassinate two young members of the Black Power movement. On December 4, 1969 in Chicago 14 police officers raided an apartment and killed two members of the Black Panther Party - Fred Hampton and Mark Clark - while they were sleeping.

Noam Chomsky in an interview on Democracy Now! in February 2011 noted that the assassination barely showed up on the radar of the American public:

"…one of the events was a straight Gestapo-style assassination of two black organizers, Fred Hampton and Mark Clark, literally. I mean, the FBI set up the assassination. The Chicago police actually carried it out, broke into the apartment at 4:00 in the morning and murdered them. Fake information that came from the FBI about arms stores and so on. There was almost nothing about it. In fact, the information about this, remarkably, was released at about the same time as Watergate. I mean, as compared with this, Watergate was a tea party. There was nothing, you know?"

Illegal Spying by the FBI

Of course, the most well-known and well-documented crimes by the FBI occurred during the COINTELPRO era, and I devote an entire section to that later in this overview. I will just point out here that despite the extreme secrecy in which the agency operates, evidence continues to emerge of ongoing criminality. No doubt these reports represent the tip of an iceberg.

A report released in January 2011 by the non-profit watchdog group Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF) revealed documents obtained under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), which suggested widespread civil rights violations in FBI investigations.

“[The documents show] serious misconduct by FBI agents including lying in declarations to courts, using improper evidence to obtain grand jury subpoenas, and accessing password-protected files without a warrant.”

Operation Northwoods

High-level U.S. officials are sometimes willing to perpetrate very serious crimes against their own citizens when they believe it could further their agendas. A perfect example of this was the proposed “false flag operation” called “Operation Northwoods.”

The following description of the plan is an excerpt from an ABC News article in May 2001 by David Ruppe:

In the early 1960s, America’s top military leaders reportedly drafted plans to kill innocent people and commit acts of terrorism in U.S. cities to create public support for a war against Cuba.

Code named Operation Northwoods, the plans reportedly included the possible assassination of Cuban émigrés, sinking boats of Cuban refugees on the high seas, hijacking planes, blowing up a U.S. ship, and even orchestrating violent terrorism in U.S. cities.

The plans were developed as ways to trick the American public and the international community into supporting a war to oust Cuba’s then new leader, communist Fidel Castro.

America’s top military brass even contemplated causing U.S. military casualties, writing: “We could blow up a U.S. ship in Guantanamo Bay and blame Cuba,” and, “casualty lists in U.S. newspapers would cause a helpful wave of national indignation.”

Details of the plans are described in Body of Secrets (Doubleday), a new book by investigative reporter James Bamford about the history of America’s largest spy agency, the National Security Agency. However, the plans were not connected to the agency, he notes.

The plans had the written approval of all of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and were presented to President Kennedy’s defense secretary, Robert McNamara, in March 1962. But they apparently were rejected by the civilian leadership and have gone undisclosed for nearly 40 years.

Lying About Killing

A thorough review of disturbing crimes and conspiracies by the U.S. government is beyond the scope of this website. My goal here is simply to cite a few examples to make the general case that acts and programs involving serious deception and criminality are not aberrations. Here is a final example from a few years ago.

When a U.S. cruise missile struck a village in Yemen in December 2009 killing 41 people - including 14 women and 21 children - the U.S. government and the Yemeni government conspired to lie about the incident, saying that the Yemeni government had launched the attack rather than the U.S., and that the victims were members of an al-Qaeda training camp.

The truth about who launched the attack and the identity of the victims was later revealed by two sources: cables released by Wikileaks and evidence gathered and reported by a young Yemini journalist named Abdulelah Haider Shaye.

After exposing what really happened in the missile strike, Shaye was arrested on apparently trumped-up charges and given a sham trial that was criticized by major human rights organizations such as Amnesty International and sentenced to five years in prison.

In 2011 the president of Yemen announced that he was going to pardon Shaye, but apparently decided against it “because of a phone call from Obama.”

According to Amnesty International, the unexploded cluster bomblet in the photo below was found at the location of the missile strike in Yemen. It would have been one of the 166 bomblets carried by the Tomahawk cruise missile.

Each bomblet explodes “into over 200 sharp steel fragments that can cause injuries up to 150m away. An incendiary material inside the bomblet also spreads fragments of burning zirconium designed to set fire to nearby flammable objects.”

U.S. Cluster Bomb

To review: In an incident which barely registered on the radar of the news media and the American public, U.S. government officials killed a bunch of women and children. Then they lied about it to cover it up. Then, when they got caught, they arranged to have the journalist who exposed all the killing and lying kept in prison for reporting it.

If you think that a government which routinely does that kind of stuff (without any negative career consequences or political consequences or legal consequences for those involved) - and which was previously caught waging an illegal counterintelligence war against its own citizens (COINTELPRO) - could not possibly be acquiescing in an illegal program of organized surveillance and harassment of targeted citizens, then you're not skeptical - you're just

4. Oversight of Law Enforcement and Intelligence Agencies

Lawlessness in the U.S. intelligence community

A May 2015 column by journalist Tom Engelhardt examined some recurring patterns of deception, hubris, violence, and incompetence in the U.S. national security state. This passage - which is relevant to counterintelligence stalking - perfectly describes the security state's quest: maximum power for itself and a minimum of oversight from the public whose interests it supposedly serves.

"…the American national security state, which has undergone an era of unprecedented expansion, is now remarkably unconstrained by any kind of serious oversight, the rule of law, or limits of almost any sort. It should be clear by now that the urge for ever more latitude and power has become part of its institutional DNA. It has already created a global surveillance system of a kind never before seen or imagined, not even by the totalitarian regimes of the last century. Its end goal is clearly to have access to everyone on the planet, Americans included, and every imaginable form of communication now in use. There was to be a sole exception to this blanket system of surveillance: the official denizens of the national security state itself. No one was to have the capacity to look at them. This helps explain why its top officials were so viscerally outraged by Edward Snowden and his revelations. When someone surveilled them as they did others, they felt violated and deeply offended.”

U.S. law enforcement and intelligence agencies currently operate with essentially the same lack of accountability that existed during the days of COINTELPRO and MK Ultra. Following the Church Committee investigations in the 1970s efforts were made to implement policies to protect Americans from crimes by the federal government. Unfortunately, those protections have been thoroughly undone - especially by policies such as the Patriot Act enacted in the wake of the 9/11 attacks. The FBI - and even the IRS - now assert the right to have warrantless access to the email communication of all Americans, to cite just one example.

Arguably, even the Church Committee reforms aimed at outlawing assassinations of foreign leaders have been undermined. The government now orders drone assassinations in places like Yemen and launches wars without the approval of Congress - such as the “military intervention” against Libya launched in March 2011.

It’s difficult to even assess the extent to which America’s law enforcement and intelligence agencies have returned to being rogue entities, given that they now routinely invoke “national security” as a justification for keeping American citizens from knowing their business. Political cowardice by members of Congress - as well as laziness, group-think, and careerism among many journalists at major news outlets has resulted in a lack of oversight of America’s most secretive government agencies.

Fortunately, there are some exceptions; some journalists do report that the intelligence and law enforcement communities have slipped the leash. A Forbes magazine writer - to cite just one example - has suggested that we probably need another Church Committee investigation. The Forbes article quotes a former senior NSA official, William H. Binney, who said we seem to be headed “toward an Orwellian state.”

A November 2013 article in the New York Times on spying by the NSA quoted Binney on the danger of the intelligence community’s powers being used as a weapon against Americans:

Mr. Binney said that without new leadership, new laws and top-to-bottom reform, the agency will represent a threat of “turnkey totalitarianism” — the capability to turn its awesome power, now directed mainly against other countries, on the American public. “I think it’s already starting to happen,” he said. “That’s what we have to stop.”

Congress members’ fear of the intelligence community

Oversight of the U.S. intelligence agencies is the responsibility of the House and Senate intelligence committees. Those committees are unlikely to provide much real oversight though if they are afraid of the people they are supposed to be monitoring. Unfortunately, that is very likely the case.

In March 2014, two members of Congress made comments which strongly implied that such fears exist. Senator Rand Paul (R-Kentucky) said this of his fellow senators:

“I think I perceive fear of an intelligence community drunk with power, unrepentant, and uninclined to relinquish power.”

The next day, House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi (D-California) said this about disagreeing with the intelligence community:

“You don’t fight it without a price, because they come after you.”

On April 10, 2014, Senator Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa) gave a speech about the Whistleblower Protection Act. According to Grassley, President Obama’s Insider Threat detection program fails to adequately distinguish true insider threats - such as spies and terrorists - from whistle-blowers.

As Senator Grassley explained in his speech, when he and Senator Patrick Leahy (D-Vermont) had a briefing with the FBI the week before, the head of the FBI’s Insider Threat Program did not bring the program’s training materials as the senators had requested so they could review them. About ten minutes into the briefing, after the senators began raising questions about whether the bureau was fairly distinguishing between threats and whistle-blowers, the FBI officials “abruptly walked out.”

Senator Grassley described the FBI’s attitude this way:

Victims of organized stalking by corrupt law enforcement and intelligence agencies sometimes try to gain the attention of members of Congress so they might intervene to stop such criminal behavior. I encourage such efforts, but I would caution targeted individuals to be realistic. Senator Leahy is the Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and the FBI officials simply walked out of his briefing when he and Senator Grassley tried to question them about how they target individuals as potential threats.

Lawlessness in the private spying industry

Concerns that the spy industry in the U.S. has slipped the leash have been voiced by many people who know the profession from first-hand experience. Former CIA division chief Melvin Goodman said this of the vast private contractor element of the intelligence community:

“My major concern is the lack of accountability, the lack of responsibility. The entire industry is essentially out of control. It’s outrageous.”

Concerns about the lack of oversight of U.S. intelligence community contractors have also been expressed by the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO). A report released by the GAO in February 2014 indicated that over a third of the personnel records for intelligence contractors lacked the documentation needed to validate the number of personnel employed or the reasons core intelligence functions were being assigned to them.

GAO - Civilian Intelligence Community

The lack of oversight for private spooks does not just apply to those working for government agencies as contractors; it also applies to a large shadowy industry of corporate spies who work for intelligence-security firms.

A November 2013 report on corporate spying by Gary Ruskin, director of the Center for Corporate Policy, used the word “lawlessness” to describe the nature of the industry. His report - “Spooky Business” - concluded that the private intelligence and law enforcement industry functions with virtually no oversight.

“[The industry] appears to enjoy near impunity, is a threat to democracy and the rule of law. In essence, corporations are now able to hire a private law enforcement capacity - which is barely constrained by legal and ethical norms….”

Spooky Business

In his February 2011 article for the Guardian, “The Dirty History of Corporate Spying,” investigative reporter James Ridgeway described how corporations target people with what is, in effect, a secret private law enforcement system:

“The private detective firms working for corporations can develop information against their own targets and find eager recipients among federal and local law enforcement agencies, some of whose employees end up retiring into private-sector detective work. The corporate spy business thus amounts to a shadow para-law enforcement system that basically can get around any of the safeguards set out in the American legal system; it ought to be subject first to transparency, and then to banning.”

Oversight of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS)

Who will guard the guards

DHS is America’s third-largest government agency, with a massive $39 billion budget and 225,000 employees in 2014. (Americans require a lot of monitoring by Big Brother to make the political class feel safe.)

With all those federal employees and private contractors feeding at that giant pig trough - in an area of government which operates largely in secrecy - oversight is critical. Here is the Washington Post’s description of the April 2014 report about the U.S. Senate’s investigations into the oversight being provided:

“Charles K. Edwards, who served as acting DHS inspector general from 2011 through 2013, routinely shared drinks and dinner with department leaders and gave them inside information about the timing and findings of investigations…”

Here is a comment from the report by Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.), the ranking Republican on the subcommittee on financial and contracting oversight, which conducted the investigation:

"We found that Mr. Edwards was a compromised inspector general…who was not exercising real oversight….Any report generated out of his office would be suspect."

Oversight of the Justice Department

Because of its critical role at the top of the U.S. law enforcement system, I devote an entire section of this overview to the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ). For now, I will just mention this for perspective:

A January 1993 Washington Post article quoted a government auditor describing the secretive and dysfunctional nature of the DOJ's internal affairs office this way:

"The system they have in place could not be better for sweeping things under the rug."

Oversight of an inherently corrupt system

Regardless of the integrity of the oversight, if the true nature of the programs themselves is illegitimate, the public's rights and interests will not be protected. Unfortunately, that is precisely the situation.

Declaring an endless "war on terror" - just like declaring an endless "war on drugs" - guarantees as a practical matter that civil rights will always be a low priority, and that other agendas - such as political control, corporate profits, and career interests associated with enforcement and surveillance will drive government policy.

"Oceania had always been at war with Eastasia." - from 1984 by George Orwell

In December 2013, NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden posted an open letter to the people of Brazil regarding U.S. spying. In that letter he explained that the ostensible purpose of America's massive surveillance system - protecting Americans from terrorism - is essentially a lie:

> “These programs were never about terrorism: they’re about economic spying, social control, and diplomatic manipulation. They’re about power.”

5. Published News Reports

In the absence of leaked official documents, analysis of domestic counterintelligence operations often requires speculation based on information from public sources, such as the news reports listed below. Journalist Dan Froomkin mentioned this strategy of uncovering abuses of power in a blog entry at The Intercept in September 2014:

“Reading copiously is one approach. Even in a flawed press climate, a pretty compelling picture emerges when you connect the dots.”

For perspective, keep this in mind about the following news items: When a criminal is caught perpetrating a crime, often the transgression is just one of a large number of crimes, most of which went undetected. That also applies to crimes perpetrated by law enforcement and intelligence agencies. What follows are, presumably, just glimpses of activities which mostly stay off of the public’s radar.

December 1976

A Penthouse article published in December 1976 exposed a secretive quasi-governmental organization called the Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIU). The reporter was Pulitzer Prize nominee George O’Toole, a novelist and historian who specialized in the history of American espionage and who had worked for the CIA. The article, “America’s Secret Police Network,” revealed the modern system of what are traditionally referred to as “Red Squads” - intelligence units within urban police departments that conduct spying and counterintelligence activities, such as infiltrating and disrupting groups deemed to be subversive. Despite having received government funding and despite the group's management of a sensitive intelligence database, LEIU is a private organization, and therefore mostly free of any oversight. O'Toole described the group this way:

"The organization forms a vast network of intelligence units that exchange dossiers and conduct investigations on a reciprocal basis. Several of the police departments belonging to the group have recently been caught in illegal wiretapping, burglary, and spying on the private lives of ordinary citizens. The LEIU is, in effect, a huge, private domestic-intelligence agency."

April 1979

A New York Times article reviewed a three-and-a-half-year study of the aforementioned LEIU association by the American Friends Service Committee. The study described the LEIU as "an old-boy network" whose illegal surveillance "of groups and individuals for political purposes is continuing on a vast scale in the nation." According to the report, the widespread illegal spying posed "a grave threat to the constitutional rights of freedom of expression, due process and privacy."

September 1979

A Los Angeles Times article under the headline "FBI Admits Spreading Lies About Jean Seberg" was the lead story on the paper's front page. Seberg - a successful film actress and a political activist - had died the month before in Paris from an apparent suicide. As the Los Angeles Times reported, Seberg had been the target of a systematic campaign by the FBI to slander her. She had also apparently been blacklisted and terrorized by the FBI using tactics associated with counterintelligence operations intended to neutralize political dissidents, such as "black bag jobs," illegal wiretapping, and overt stalking.

October 1986

An article in the Gadsen Times - and other news reports - brought national attention to the case of Arnold Lockshin, an American cancer research scientist who fled with his family to the Soviet Union in 1986 and was granted political asylum. According to Lockshin, he and his family were being intensely harassed by federal agents because of their socialist political views. The alleged harassment tactics included many of those associated with other cases of organized stalking: slander, spying, break-ins, threats, harassing phone calls, etc. A book - Silent Terror - by Arnold Lockshin about the organized stalking campaign against his family was published in 1988.

August 2000

An article in Newsweek/Daily Beast was among the first mainstream U.S. news reports about a trend of intense systematic harassment in the workplace. The process, known as “mobbing,” involves multiple perpetrators engaging in the coordinated psychological abuse of an individual employee. Although the article does not link the reports of such organized harassment to a larger phenomenon, that form of abuse is a common element of victim accounts in organized stalking cases.

An episode of the PBS News show NOW addressed the possible re-emergence of the FBI’s Cointelpro operations. NOW is an Emmy-winning weekly TV newsmagazine on PBS. Tom Brokaw described NOW as “fearless about challenging conventional wisdom.” The Austin American-Statesman called NOW “one of the last bastions of serious journalism on TV.”

While the video of the program is not posted on the PBS website, there is a synopsis of the show under the title “COINTELPRO Again?”

Here is the relevant passage:

“Some fear that something like COINTELPRO may again be at hand. There are undercover agents infiltrating peaceful protests in America. Pretending to be political activists, local law enforcement officials are monitoring the activities of advocacy and protest groups based on what one judge calls those organizations' "political philosophies and conduct protected under the First Amendment." The tactic has come about as a result of the relaxation of guidelines first put into place after the COINTELPRO scandal investigation."

An article in Newsweek noted that the Pentagon was quietly re-entering the business of domestic spying. One of the scandals (along with Watergate, COINTELPRO, and other crimes) which led to the U.S. Senate's Church Committee investigations during the 1970s was the spying on Americans by U.S. Army intelligence agents. In the years following the 9/11 attacks, as this article noted, the military sneaked back into that role:

"Without any public hearing or debate, NEWSWEEK has learned, Defense officials recently slipped a provision into a bill before Congress that could vastly expand the Pentagon's ability to gather intelligence inside the United States, including recruiting citizens as informants."

An article in The Sunday Times, a major newspaper in the U.K., reported that the intelligence agency MI5 uses gang stalking tactics to punish whistle-blowers. In the article the tactics are referred to as "Zersetzung" - as the process was called by the Stasi (the state police of communist East Germany).

Note: Most of this article is behind a subscription pay wall at the link posted here; however, you can see the full text of the article in my October 10, 2004 post on the "Cointelpro News (2013)" page of this website.

December 2005

A semi-autobiographical book by Gloria Naylor - winner of the National Book Award for her novel The Women of Brewster Place - was published in 2005. In the book, Naylor described her experiences as a target of organized stalking. The book's title, 1996, was the year Naylor realized that she was being stalked.

(Presumably, it is also a reference to Orwell's 1984.) Apparently, her harassment began after she had a dispute with a neighbor whose brother worked for the National Security Agency (NSA).

Some of Naylor's comments in an interview on National Public Radio, January 23, 2006:

"I think I just ran into the wrong people at the wrong time, and like the book shows, what starts from a very innocent dispute with a neighbor cascades and cascades and cascades into a whole production."

"…these cars began to surveil me. People began to follow me around, and it did, it was very disrupting to think that your privacy was being violated, and for no reason that I could come up with."

On the possible skepticism some people might have of her account:

"…what I can say to them is this: it's the same thing that happens when a child is abused by a trusted adult. Now, that child will go to some parents and tell them these things. They will be believed by some of the parents. Some of the parents will never believe that Uncle George could be doing these things to their little girl."

An article in The Globe and Mail, a Canadian national newspaper, reported that the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) used gang stalking techniques (referred to as "Diffuse and Disrupt" tactics) against suspects for whom they lacked sufficient evidence to prosecute. A criminal defense attorney stated that many of her clients complained of harassment by authorities, although they were never arrested.

"Both CSIS and the RCMP are now under scrutiny in judicial inquiries and civil courts, with a series of men jailed overseas accusing the agencies of making end runs around the justice system."

A CSIS official told a Canadian Senate committee: "if prosecution is not viable, there are other techniques."

November 2006

A New York Times article reported that the federal government agreed to pay a $2 million settlement to an Oregon man who was wrongly accused of terrorism. As the Christian Science Monitor reported in November 2010, the harassment of the man by federal law enforcement agents included performing black bag operations on his residence, exactly like those described by victims of organized stalking:

“Federal authorities planted listening devices in his office, throughout his house - including in his bedroom - and tapped his phones. He and his family were kept under surveillance. Agents conducted “sneak and peak” searches, entering the home when the family was away.”

January 2007

A cover article in The Washington Post Magazine by a journalist familiar with military policies and weapon systems portrayed self-proclaimed victims of “gang stalking” as intelligent and credible, and suggested that claims about exotic non-lethal weapons being used by the U.S. government to harass targeted individuals were plausible.

“…given the history of America’s clandestine research, it’s reasonable to assume that if the defense establishment could develop mind-control or long-distance ray weapons, it almost certainly would. And, once developed, the possibility that they might be tested on innocent civilians could not be categorically dismissed.”

The Washington Post reporter, Sharon Weinberger, described her efforts to obtain information about the defense deparrment technology known to be associated with some of the experiences described by self-proclaimed victims of organized stalking:

“Rich Garcia, a spokesman for the research laboratory’s directed energy directorate, declined to discuss that patent or current or related research in the field, citing the lab's policy not to comment on its microwave work."

"…Research appeared to continue at least through 2002. Where this work has gone since is unclear — the research laboratory, citing classification, refused to discuss it or release other materials."

Regarding the numerous comments generated by her article, for example, Weinberger again noted the apparently rational nature of many of the self-proclaimed victims of gang stalking:

"….for anyone who thinks that all TIs are mentally ill people in need of forced medication, I suggest you check out some of the extremely sane tactics they employ. For example, their organized response to the article would make some political campaigns jealous. As one mind control blog advises:

We must write the Washington Post in high numbers to show that this story merits a follow up. We must get our side of the story out, before the perps start inundating them with letters that we are crazy. Please take part in this to give the accurate side of what is really happening and remember to forward any supporting evidence."

An article in the Nation quoted former CIA division chief Melvin Goodman on his views of the vast private contractor element of the intelligence-security community:

"My major concern is the lack of accountability, the lack of responsibility. The entire industry is essentially out of control. It's outrageous."

March 2009

A newspaper article in the Verona-Cedar Grove Times titled "Stalker Claims Unsettle Police" described how a self-proclaimed target of gang stalking "has been handing out fliers claiming a large, organized group of stalkers is targeting residents and business owners with the objective of destroying their lives."

The flyers stated: “Their intention is to murder their target without getting their hands dirty. It’s the perfect hate crime.”

October 2010

A post on the political blog Daily Kos alleged that intelligence agencies in the U.S., the U.K., and Canada use “Zersetzung” - as East Germany’s Stasi referred to gang stalking - against targeted individuals. Although the article did not provide sourced details, it might have helped raised awareness of this form of state-sponsored criminal harassment since Daily Kos receives several hundred thousand visits per day.

November 2010

A classified U.S. diplomatic cable published by WikiLeaks documented a discussion between a U.S. State Department official and the director of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) in which the CSIS director said the agency was “vigorously harassing” members of Hezbollah - an apparent reference to organized stalking (which the Canadian intelligence community sometimes calls “diffuse and disrupt” tactics).

January 2011

A local TV news broadcast in California (on KION - Channel 46 and KCBA - Channel 35) featured a report about “gang stalking” - referred to as such by the reporters and by Lieutenant Larry Richard of the Santa Cruz Police Department.

February 2011

An article for the Guardian titled “The Dirty History of Corporate Spying,” by investigative reporter James Ridgeway, described how corporations target people with what is, in effect, a secret private law enforcement system:

“The private detective firms working for corporations can develop information against their own targets and find eager recipients among federal and local law enforcement agencies, some of whose employees end up retiring into private-sector detective work. The corporate spy business thus amounts to a shadow para-law enforcement system that basically can get around any of the safeguards set out in the American legal system; it ought to be subject first to transparency, and then to banning."

August 2011

A newspaper article in The Record and a TV report on KCRA Channel 3 described an organized stalking case in which the city manager of Stockton, California was stalked by local police after a break-down in contract negotiations. The brazen tactics used by the police included purchasing the house next to the city manager's home and using it as a base for psychological operations. Stockton's mayor was quoted in the Record as saying that the city manager had been "targeted for harassment at home." KCRA 3 News reported that the police department would not return its calls about the matter.

December 2012

An article in the Sun Sentinel, a Pulitzer Prize-winning newspaper in Florida, reported the organized stalking of Donna Jane Watts, a Florida Highway Patrol trooper, by other police officers and sheriff's deputies from multiple jurisdictions. The victim of the stalking had cited an off-duty police officer for reckless driving (he was later fired). The stalking - which included illegally snooping on the victim's private data and efforts to harass and intimidate her - was apparently done in retaliation. Ms. Watts filed a lawsuit seeking compensation for the illegal harassment. Incidentally, the Sun Sentinel later won a Pulitzer Prize for public service journalism for its series of articles on deaths and injuries caused by reckless driving by Florida police officers.

"Trooper Donna 'Jane' Watts' 69-page lawsuit, filed in federal court Friday, seeks more than $1 million in damages. She is suing more than 100 police officers and agencies, and the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles. The suit alleges 88 law enforcement officers from 25 jurisdictions illegally accessed her personal information more than 200 times, violating her privacy.”

“…officers looked up information such as her home address, picture, Social Security number, date of birth, and detailed vehicle description in a database available to police officers, according to her lawsuit.”

“Watts said after the incident she received random calls on her home and cell phones, some threatening.”

A few days later, a very similar complaint was filed by another apparent victim of group stalking by law enforcement officers in Florida. Toni Foudy, a former sheriff’s deputy alleged that she and her husband were the targets of illegal surveillance and harassment. The two cases were reported on a local TV news broadcast in Palm Beach (WPTV), and were also reported by Treasure Coast Newspapers.

Here are some excerpts from the newspaper article:

A former deputy who worked for the Indian River and St. Lucie County sheriff’s offices says her former colleagues looked into driver’s license information for herself and her husband hundreds of times over a six-year period, according to a $1 million federal lawsuit filed Monday.

…The Foudy lawsuit names about 100 members of the two sheriff’s offices as accessing the driver’s license information for the former deputy and her husband.

…Foudy joined the St. Lucie County Sheriff’s Office in 2005 but left after a year on the force during an internal affairs investigation into her patrol car becoming disabled, the lawsuit states. Foudy resigned because she believed she was being targeted by people at the agency, according to the lawsuit.

Foudy and her husband said they began receiving harassing emails in 2006. Years later, the emails were traced to a computer terminal at the St. Lucie County Jail, the lawsuit states. Several times a week, the couple said, patrol cars would drive by their home and blare their sirens. This prompted them to move twice, according to the lawsuit.

Here is a copy of the claim that was filed: Foudy’s Complaint

As the complaint notes (page 36), Foudy's relatives also became targets of the illegal surveillance. Unauthorized queries about them in two databases were allegedly made nearly 200 times over a six-year period.

January 2013

An article in CounterPunch asserted that the FBI's infamous COINTELPRO operations had re-emerged in full force: "COINTELPRO is alive and well."

June 2013

An article in the Nation titled "The Strange Case of Barrett Brown," by Northwestern University professor Peter Ludlow, stated - in reference to actions by private security firms, the FBI, and the Department of Justice: "One might think that what we are looking at is COINTELPRO 2.0 - an outsourced surveillance state - but in fact it's worse."

September 2013

An article in the Washington Times and an article in Wired both discussed the speculation that a mass shooting at the Washington D.C. Navy Yard resulted from the shooter being "gang stalked" in an MK Ultra-type operation using electronic weapons and noise harassment.

September 2013

The cover article of Fortean Times in September 2013 (U.K. edition) was about "state-sponsored gangstalking." The author - Robert Guffey, a faculty member of the English department at California State University Long Beach - gave a detailed account of a gang stalking case which involved the U.S. military.

A marine had gone AWOL after stealing some sensitive military property - including night vision goggles and a laptop containing classfied information. Apparently the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) initiated an organized stalking campaign against the suspect and his associates as well as an investigation. Various psychological operations tactics were used, such as overt stalking, in addition to some far more exotic methods. Possibly the operations were intended to serve as both a form of extra-judicial punishment and as experimentation.

November 2013

A local TV news broadcast in West Virginia (on WDTV - local CBS News affiliate Channel 5) featured a report about “organized stalking.” The broadcast featured testimony by two individuals from Pennsylvania who appeared to be credible and sincere, discussing their constant harassment by perpetrators using gang stalking tactics.

November 2013

A TV and radio broadcast of Democracy Now! featured an interview with Gary Ruskin, director of the Center for Corporate Policy, in which he discussed the shadowy industry of spies employed by major U.S. corporations to conduct secret - and often illegal - counterintelligence operations against critics of those corporations.

Journalist Amy Goodman:

“According to the report, these corporations employ former CIA, National Security Agency and FBI agents to engage in private surveillance work, which is often illegal in nature but rarely — if ever — prosecuted.”

December 2013

Articles published by CBS, the Daily Mail, RT, Tech Dirt, and Courthouse News Service reported that a U.S. government contractor, Jeffrey Kantor, filed a lawsuit against multiple federal agencies for orchestrating what the complaint describes as “group stalking attacks (aka gang-stalking) against him.” Kantor claimed that his stalking began after he made a Google search for information about how to build a radio-controlled airplane. While typing his query, Google's auto-complete function finished his "How to build a radio-controlled…" query with the word "bomb." The individual was then subjected to constant surveillance - including inside his residence and his vehicle - and constant psychological harassment from co-workers and strangers. In addition to his claim against the U.S. government, Mr. Kantor sued the federal contractors for which he worked, because of the orchestrated harassment ("mobbing") he was forced to endure at his workplace.

The Winnipeg Free Press reported that in July of 2013 a 56-year-old man named Gerald Chudy stabbed a man in Manitoba, Canada, in retaliation for what Chudy said was years of "gang stalking." The reporter did not elaborate in the article on the term "gang stalking," and he did not reply to my email to him about the issue. The article does not mention the name of the man Chudy accused of being a stalker. Apparently, the man's injuries were not serious.

February 2014

An article in The New Yorker gave a detailed account of a stalking campaign by a large corporation. Research biologist Tyrone Hayes discovered some disturbing effects from a pesticide made by the agribusiness corporation Syngenta. When he refused to keep quiet about it, the corporation's goon squad began slandering him to discredit him. They also stalked him, hacked his emails, and threatened him for more than a decade. This was not a case of "gang stalking," (government-run counterintelligence subversion), but it is an example of the increasingly common thuggish tactics of a rogue industry of corporate spooks in America that mostly operates with impunity.

A report on the ABC News TV program 20/20 - and an article in the Daily Mail - chronicled the ordeal of a couple in Hubbard, Ohio who were systematically harassed for 7 years in a vengeance campaign orchestrated by the town's fire chief. Apparently, the fire chief was angry at the couple because of a real estate dispute, so he enlisted the help of other firefighters, police officers, and local residents to perpetrate a campaign of constant vehicle horn honking outside the couple's home. The harassment - which the couple thoroughly documented on video - resulted in legal claims which were still pending at the time of the news reports.

July 2014

A local TV news report on WTNH News 8 in Connecticut and a local TV news report on an NBC News affiliate, and an article in the Connecticut newspaper, The Courant, reported that hundreds of "suspicious flyers" about "gang stalking" were being distributed in Guilford, CT. The flyers made reference to this website (Fight Gang Stalking), and alleged that organized counterintelligence stalking was being perpetrated in Guilford. A statement by the Guilford Police Department about the matter was also posted in The Day newspaper. A copy of one of the flyers was posted on this page of The Courant's website.

November 2014

NBC News reported - along with numerous other media outlets - that 31-year-old lawyer, Myron May, shot three people at Florida State University, after informing a number of people - in writing - prior to the incident, that "government 'stalkers' were harassing him." Two of the persons he shot sustained minor injuries; the third was left paralyzed from the waist down. Prior to the shooting, the self-proclaimed "targeted individual," Myron May, left a voice message for an acquaintance in which he said "I do not want to die in vain." He also made other phone calls - and sent emails and text messages - about what was being done to him. In addition, May sent ten packages of information to various people to "expose" what was happening. The FBI intercepted the ten packages in the mail.

An article published by the Daily Mail described a legal case filed the month before in the U.K. by a businessman who claimed that over the previous 11 years he was intensely spied upon and harassed - as punishment and intimidation - by the British intelligence agency MI5 for refusing to assist that agency with its operations targeting his friend, whom the Daily Mail described as “a notorious gangster.”

“[The plaintiff] has reportedly claimed MI5 spies have planted secret microphones in his house and have trained birds to tap on his windows in an attempt to frighten him. Businessman Philip Kerr is seeking to win a High Court injunction against the intelligence agents, who he says have targeted him because he refused to co-operate with the security service. The 53-year-old says he has been subjected to a ‘campaign of harassment’ over the past 11 years, claiming agents have filled his houses in Wirral, Merseyside, and Thailand with hidden cameras and microphones.

…he also says in legal papers that spies have interfered with his phone, TV and radio…

The article noted that Kerr had, in addition to retaining legal counsel, sought advice from former MI5 intelligence officer and whistle-blower Annie Machon, a high-profile whistle-blower. (She appears, for example, as the first speaker in this video, which also features famous whistle-blowers from U.S. intelligence agencies, such as Ray McGovern and Thomas Drake.)

‘Annie confirmed to me that the things I am being subjected to are exactly the kinds of things MI5 do to get into your head. It is psychological warfare,’ he said.

…Kerr’s barrister Anthony Barraclough, said…‘This has taken his life away and had a major effect on his health.’

…MI5 said it would neither confirm nor deny the allegations in the High Court Claim.”

The same case was reported with updated information in April 2015 in the Daily Mirror - another British national daily tabloid newspaper. Some excerpts:

“A judge this month refused to strike out the claim at the request of MI5, which said it would neither confirm nor deny the allegations.”

“Senior Master Barbara Fontaine instead stayed - or suspended - the proceedings and told Mr. Kerr to take his complaint to the Investigatory Powers Tribunal (IPT), a closed court which investigates complaints of unlawful covert techniques by public authorities.”

“[Kerr] says that this course of conduct, which includes stalking and surveillance, has been carried out overtly, rather than covertly, by MI5 in order to persuade or force him by intimidation to work with the Security Service.”

6. Historical Origins of Gang Stalking: COINTELPRO, MK Ultra, Red Squads, & the Stasi

History

American high school and college students would be well-served by a deeper study of government conspiracies such as the Teapot Dome scandal, Operation Mockingbird, Operation Northwoods, the Pentagon Papers, Watergate, and Iran-Contra. No one can participate intelligently in America’s republic without such an historical background.

The strategies and tactics used in organized stalking have their roots in earlier programs and agencies in America and elsewhere. Among the subjects of particular relevance to contemporary counterintelligence crimes in the U.S. are the following:

COINTELPRO was a secret program of FBI counterintelligence operations against American citizens orchestrated under the leadership of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Project MK Ultra was a secret program run by the CIA from the early 1950s until the early 1970s, in which mind control and interrogation experiments were performed on U.S. and Canadian citizens.

“Red Squads” - now called “Law Enforcement Intelligence Units” (LEIUs), are elements of local police departments. They spy on criminals, but they also conduct counterintelligence activities - including infiltrating and disrupting organizations deemed to be subversive, such as labor groups and civil rights groups. Red Squads have been used - especially by urban police departments - since the late 1800s. Historically, Red Squads have taken very seriously the protection of business interests and the disruption of political movements. They have been rather more casual in their attitudes about complying with the law and principles of morality.

The Stasi - communist East Germany's secret police agency - enforced the political control over East Germany's citizens through a combination of surveillance and psychological terrorism. Core elements of that system of spying and psychological torture, called zersetzung, are used in gang stalking in the U.S. today.

Anyone who doubts that the U.S. government could be sanctioning a widespread conspiracy involving illegal surveillance and harassment of targeted citizens should read the basic facts about these programs. You don't even need to explore obscure sources of information; simply read the established mainstream accounts of the undisputed facts.

Blue Line
COINTELPRO

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director from 1924 to 1972

COINTELPRO was a secret illegal program in which U.S. law enforcement personnel and their various government and private citizen accomplices systematically spied on, slandered, terrorized, and committed acts of violence (including murder) against American citizens. The program ended after being exposed in 1971 by civilian activists who obtained information about it and leaked it to the news media.

It would be difficult to overstate the relevance of the COINTELPRO operations to modern gang stalking in the U.S. By all available evidence, current organized stalking crimes in the U.S. are not similar to COINTELPRO; they are a continuation of COINTELPRO.

Significantly, COINTELPRO was not exposed by insider whistle-blowers; the FBI agents and their civilian minions dutifully perpetrated their assigned crimes until the operations were derailed by civilian outsiders.

Exposure of the program required those civilians to break into an FBI office and steal documents about the program and give them to the news media.

Also bear in mind: J. Edgar Hoover's name is still on the FBI headquarters building.

As noted in the introduction above, a January 21, 2013 article in CounterPunch magazine asserted that COINTELPRO is now secretly being used again on a wide scale. In that article, "The Return of COINTELPRO?" Tom McNamara describes the original program - and its re-emergence - as follows:

For 15 years (1956-1971) the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) ran a broad and highly coordinated domestic intelligence / counterintelligence program known as COINTELPRO (COunter INTELligence PROgrams). What was originally deemed as a justifiable effort to protect the US during the Cold War from Soviet and Communist threats and infiltration, soon devolved into a program for suppressing domestic dissent and spying on American citizens. Approximately 20,000 people were investigated by the FBI based only on their political views and beliefs. Most were never suspected of having committed any crime.

The reasoning behind the program, as detailed in a 1976 Senate report, was that the FBI had "the duty to do whatever is necessary to combat perceived threats to the existing social and political order." The fact that the "perceived threats" were usually American citizens engaging in constitutionally protected behaviour was apparently overlooked. The stated goal of COINTELPRO was to "expose, disrupt, misdirect, discredit, or otherwise neutralize" any individual or group deemed to be subversive or a threat to the established power structure.

The FBI's techniques were often extreme, with the agency being complicit in the murder and assassination of political dissidents, or having people sent away to prison for life. Some of the more "moderate" actions that were used were blackmail, spreading false rumors, intimidation and harassment. It has been argued that the US is unique in that it is the only Western industrialized democracy to have engaged in such a wide spread and well organized domestic surveillance program. It finally came to an end in 1971 when it was threatened with public exposure.

Or did it?

In a stunning revelation from the Partnership for Civil Justice Fund (PCJF), it appears that COINTELPRO is alive and well. Through a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, PCJF was able to obtain documents showing how the FBI was treating the Occupy Wall Street (OWS) movement, from its inception, as a potential criminal and domestic terrorist threat.

Retired FBI official from the COINTELPRO era on “gang stalking”

Among the most interesting testimony about the current version of COINTELPRO (“gang stalking”) came from a man who was familiar with the original COINTELPRO operations - because he participated in them as an FBI official. The late Ted L. Gunderson served as the head of the FBI field offices in Los Angeles, Dallas, and Memphis. After retiring from the FBI in 1979, he became a private investigator. His investigations included working for the defense in the famous murder case involving former U.S. Army physician, Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald.

In a series of public appearances (and in an affidavit linked below) Gunderson stated that “rogue” military intelligence and law enforcement units of the federal government oversee a nationwide network of community-based gang stalkers who monitor, harass, and intimidate thousands of American citizens who have been extrajudicially targeted as dissidents or undesirables. Gunderson also claimed that his efforts to expose gang stalking resulted in him becoming a victim himself, as efforts were made to silence him.

Here is an audio clip from a presentation Gunderson gave in which he described how organized stalking tactics - such as electronic surveillance and “gas lighting” - were used against him.

According to Gunderson, gang stalking had been operational since the early 1980s (i.e., it began only a few years after the U.S. Senate thought they had pulled the plug on COINTELPRO following the Church Committee investigations). Gunderson said that the scope, intensity, and sophistication of gang stalking increased since its inception, as it exploited new surveillance and communication technologies.

Analysis of Ted Gunderson's claims about gang stalking is complicated for several reasons. On one hand, as a former high-level FBI official who worked in the agency during the era of COINTELPRO, he had professional expertise and first-hand experience with that agency's counterintelligence operations. On the other hand, his public statements about gang stalking - in his affidavit which you can view below, as well as in his public discussions of the matter, which can be found on YouTube, include references to various fringe topics, such as Satanism, child sex rings, and such.

Those claims - along with the fact that he is no longer around to clarify or defend them - raise several questions that might never be answered. Gunderson never provided any documentation or other evidence to support what he said. One possible explanation for the more bizarre things he discussed is that he could have simply been nuts. That explanation, however, begs a serious question for anyone who is skeptical that COINTELPRO and MK Ultra have essentially continued as what is now called "gang stalking." How is it that a high-level official in the FBI managed to work for the bureau for three decades - during which he handled high-profile cases and received glowing performance evaluations (which you can view here) - without anyone inside or outside the FBI noticing that he was crazy?

The most plausible explanation for Gunderson's bizarre claims is that he was continuing to work for the FBI - at least informally - after he officially retired, and he was spreading disinformation. That explanation is consistent with Gunderson's FBI career - in which he participated in the original COINTELPRO, and in which he was never perceived by anyone as crazy. A common disinformation tactic used in counterintelligence operations is to discredit a person or idea by associating the person or idea with craziness, and that is very likely what he was doing.

Note this: if one insists upon interpreting Gunderson's public statements as being delusions rather than disinformation, that analysis would seem to imply that the FBI is even more of a rogue agency than its harshest critics allege, since it would mean that the bureau is run by lunatics.

FBI’s Gang Stalking Campaign Against Actress Jean Seberg

For a sense of the evil nature of gang stalking, take a look at one of the most high-profile well-documented cases of it perpetrated by the FBI in the days of the original COINTELPRO operations.

My November 23, 2013 post on the “COINTELPRO News (2013)” page of this website is on a documentary about the well-known film actress, Jean Seberg, who was systematically terrorized by the FBI for her support of the civil rights movement.

This was a case with explicitly incriminating “smoking gun” FBI memos and mainstream news reports documenting what the feds did to their victim. (Those documents are included in my post.)

FBI agents blacklisted Seberg, slandered her by planting false stories about her in the news media, monitored her with covert surveillance (wiretaps), and terrorized her with overt surveillance (stalking) and black bag jobs (break-ins).

Emotional distress from the FBI’s operations against Ms. Seberg - while she was pregnant - apparently caused her to give birth prematurely (her baby died), and ultimately led her to commit suicide. Ms. Seberg was just one of many victims targeted by the FBI’s secret police program.

The Break-in

A fascinating but under-reported aspect of COINTELPRO is the break-in which led to the program’s exposure.

In his March 8, 2006 Los Angeles Times article on the subject, Allan M. Jalon described the event:

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS ago today, a group of anonymous activists broke into the small, two-man office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Media, Pa., and stole more than 1,000 FBI documents that revealed years of systematic wiretapping, infiltration and media manipulation designed to suppress dissent.

The Citizens’ Commission to Investigate the FBI, as the group called itself, forced its way in at night with a crowbar while much of the country was watching the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight. When agents arrived for work the next morning, they found the file cabinets virtually emptied.

Within a few weeks, the documents began to show up — mailed anonymously in manila envelopes with no return address — in the newsrooms of major American newspapers. When the Washington Post received copies, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asked Executive Editor Ben Bradlee not to publish them because disclosure, he said, could “endanger the lives” of people involved in investigations on behalf of the United States.

Nevertheless, the Post broke the first story on March 24, 1971, after receiving an envelope with 14 FBI documents detailing how the bureau had enlisted a local police chief, letter carriers and a switchboard operator at Swarthmore College to spy on campus and black activist groups in the Philadelphia area.

More documents went to other reporters — Tom Wicker received copies at his New York Times office; so did reporters at the Los Angeles Times — and to politicians including Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and Rep. Parren J. Mitchell of Maryland.

To this day, no individual has claimed responsibility for the break-in. The FBI, after building up a six-year, 33,000-page file on the case, couldn’t solve it. But it remains one of the most lastingly consequential (although underemphasized) watersheds of political awareness in recent American history…

Updates:

An article in the January 7, 2014 New York Times revealed the identities of the activists who exposed COINTELPRO by breaking into that FBI office to obtain the secret documents.

A documentary film about the break-in, 1971, was released in 2015.

The Official Reports

Since the FBI committed so many crimes against Americans during the COINTELPRO era, there are thousands of pages of documents in the U.S. Senate's Church Committee reports. Most Congressional reports are boring - but not these. Among the most interesting documents (and the most relevant to gang stalking) are the three which you can view or download below.

Just browsing through the contents pages gives a sense of the scope of the FBI's crimes. Here are some of the topic headings:

Use of illegal or improper means, Mail opening, Political abuse, Ignoring the law, Efforts to discredit, Media manipulation, Distorting data to influence government policy and public perception, Congress declines to confront the issue, "Infiltration," Investigations, Wiretaps, Bugging, FBI political intelligence for the White House, Exaggeration of communist influence, "Black Bag"jobs, Misuse of the IRS by the FBI and CIA, Targeting of ideological groups, NSA monitoring, Warrantless electronic surveillance, Domestic intelligence network, Violent and illegal activities of informants, Targeting law-abiding citizens, Targeting critics and political figures, Attorneys general failure to limit and control FBI intelligence activities, Efforts to promote enmity and factionalism within groups or between groups, Encouraging violence between groups, Efforts to prevent speaking/teaching/writing and publishing, Propaganda, Fictitious organizations, Disseminating derogatory information to family, friends, and associates, Contacts with employers, Interference with the judicial process, Blurred distinction between counterintelligence and investigation.

These reports are filled with interesting stuff. For example, Volume 6 of the hearings contains, among other items, a letter about "black bag jobs" (referred to as such). Book 2 of the final reports refers to an apparent attempt to blackmail Martin Luther King, Jr. and encourage him to commit suicide (pages 220-221).

Accounts of Organized Stalking from the COINTELPRO Era

Robert Guffey - author of the October 2013 Fortean Times magazine cover article on “state-sponsored gangstalking” - posted a reference to the following material on his blog, Cryptoscatology on January 26, 2014. These are unpublished notes written by the late John A. Keel (1930—2009), a journalist whom Guffey describes as “without a doubt the preeminent investigator of the paranormal in the 20th century.”

Guffey says this of the origins of gang stalking:

“Of course, at this point one can’t be certain of the phenomenon’s true origins; however, it appears that such organized harassment was indeed operative at least as far back as the 1960s and ‘70s when John A. Keel was at the peak of his investigative prowess.”

These accounts of organized stalking - apparently perpetrated by U.S. government agents - are from the same period as the FBI’s COINTELPRO activities, which of course took place during the Cold War. Consequently, it does not seem far-fetched that federal agents might have investigated and intimidated individuals who were closely monitoring unusual aircraft activity (UFOs).

Here are the notes. Since they were apparently not intended for publication, and since they are posted in a somewhat confusing format regarding sequence, I recommend that you disregard the entry numbers and part numbers and section numbers, and just read through them in this order:

MK Ultra

CIA Insignia

The CIA's official mission statement refers to spying on America's "adversaries" - which generally refers to foreign adversaries. On the other hand, the mission statement also proclaims that the CIA "upholds the highest standards of conduct" - even though the agency has a well-documented history of involvement with things like torture, assassinations, drug trafficking, and orchestrating coups against democratically-elected governments.

Despite its mission statement, the long list of moral and legal transgressions by the CIA includes spying on Americans based on their political beliefs (in the past and recently), and - in the case of Project MK Ultra - performing secret unethical experiments on Americans.

As described in the section which follows this one, the CIA reportedly also has a role in the training of local Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs).

Whatever your assessment of the possible nature and scope of illegal counterintelligence activities currently taking place in the U.S., it is worth considering the implications of the CIA's history of performing secret mind-control experiments on American (and Canadian) citizens.

In Project MK Ultra, which ran from the early 1950s until the early 1970s, the CIA secretly conducted mind-control and interrogation experiments. Many of the experiments were performed without the consent of the subjects, and in some cases without the subjects even being aware that they were being used for experimentation.

Methods that were tested included sensory deprivation, isolation, hypnosis, verbal and sexual abuse, electrical shocks, and the administration of drugs and substances which caused confusion, brain damage, blistering, and paralysis.

That might explain why there are no MK Ultra tribute floats in America's parades.

“In all, the agency conducted 149 separate mind-control experiments, and as many as 25 involved unwitting subjects. First-hand testimony, fragmentary government documents and court records show that at least one participant died, others went mad, and still others suffered psychological damage after participating in the project, known as MK Ultra.”

- New York Times, March 10, 1999

The above summary of MK Ultra from The Times should be viewed as a conservative estimate of the scope of the program. The clue is the phrase “fragmentary government documents.” This is a vague reference to the fact that CIA Director Richard Helms - by his own admission - ordered the destruction of the program’s records in 1973.

Another reason to suspect that The Times’ account of MK Ultra might be understating the CIA’s crimes is that the newspaper has a history of sometimes functioning as a conveyor belt for that agency’s lies.

Experiments were performed at dozens of colleges and universities, hospitals, prisons, and pharmaceutical companies in the U.S. and Canada. Front organizations were used by the CIA to operate the program through those institutions, although in some cases the top officials at the institutions knew about the CIA’s involvement.

Keep that in mind when you evaluate the plausibility that a widespread program of organized stalking could exist without being compromised by various officials at private and public institutions and organizations.

In the mid-1970s the program was exposed by the U.S. Senate’s Church Committee investigations. Those investigations (which also examined Cointelpro) were a response to a series of revelations about crimes by the U.S. government, including the attempted assassinations of foreign leaders, the U.S. Army’s spying on civilians, Cointelpro, and the Watergate scandal.

This passage from Andrew Goliszek's book In the Name of Science (2003) gives a sense of what was involved in MK Ultra. These are descriptions of some of the of the experiments performed by Dr. Ewen Cameron, a psychiatrist paid by the CIA to study brainwashing:

In 1957, a young girl was led to a small room at Montreal's Allan Memorial Institiute, her arms and legs strapped to a bed and electrodes from a Page-Russell electroconvulsive therapy machine attached to her head. When the signal was given, a switch was thrown, causing her frail body to stiffen then convulse uncontrollably from electroshock forty times more intense than was considered safe. Over the next few weeks, she was awakened three times a day and subjected to these multiple shocking sessions known as "depatterning."

Another patient, this one an older man, was kept in a drug-induced state for several months while being forced to listen to an audiotaped message twelve to sixteeen hours per day. The purpose of this experiment, as well as the electroshock treatment, was to see how long it would take before repeated messages, physical shock, drugs, or a combination of all three would destroy a person's personality…

Collateral Damage from MK Ultra - The Unabomber

A series of bombings perpetrated from 1978 to 1995 killed three people and injured 23 others. The bomber, a mathematician named Theodore Kaczynski, was referred to as "the Unabomber" by the FBI before they discovered his identity.

Kaczynski had been one of the subjects of the CIA's mind-control experiments while he was a student at Harvard University. An article in the June 2000 issue of the Atlantic suggested that the experiments could possibly have been a factor in Kaczynski's later acts of violence.

Some excerpts from the article:

"As Sally Johnson, the forensic psychiatrist, reported, Kaczynski clearly began to experience emotional distress…"

“When, soon after, Kaczynski began to worry about the possibility of mind control, he was not giving vent to paranoid delusions…..The university and the psychiatric establishment had been willing accomplices in an experiment that had treated human beings as unwitting guinea pigs, and had treated them brutally.”

Books about MK Ultra

One of the best books on MK Ultra is The Search for the “Manchurian Candidate” by John D. Marks, a former Foreign Service Officer with the U.S. State Department. Seymour Hersh - the famous investigative journalist who exposed the My Lai Massacre and Nixon’s secret bombing of Cambodia during the Vietnam war - said this of Marks’ book:

“A wonderful piece of investigative reporting. The best account we’ll ever get of one of the seamiest episodes of American intelligence.”

Here are some examples of the book’s accounts of the CIA’s experiments:

“The frequent screams of patients that echoed through the hospital did not deter Cameron or most of his associates in their attempts to ‘depattern’ their subjects completely.”

“Sometimes, as in the case of Lauren G., patients would try to escape when the sedatives wore thin, and the staff would have to chase after them.”

Another widely-praised book on MK Ultra is Operation Mind Control by Walter Bowart (1978). An updated and expanded “researcher’s edition” published in 1994 can be viewed and downloaded for free as a pdf document here.

Here is the Congressional report on Project MK Ultra.

In October 2014, it was reported that ABC is planning to produce a TV mini-series about MK Ultra.

Calls for a new Church Committee

Frank Church & Pres. Carter (1977)

President Carter and Senator Frank Church (1977)

If there are reasons to think that the FBI, CIA, and NSA stopped secretly perpetrating crimes against Americans at some point after the U.S. Senate's Church Committee investigations in the 1970s, I am unaware of them. Although the investigations succeeded in shining a light on the extreme abuses of power by U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies, the reforms which followed were nowhere close to being serious enough to rein in the rogue tendencies of those agencies.

Arguably, the situation today is much worse than it was in the era of J. Edgar Hoover. Surveillance technologies are now vastly more sophisticated, and there has been an enormous expansion of both the size and power of the public and private sectors of the spying industry. Oversight of domestic covert operations is minimal.

Because of such concerns - and scandals such as the NSA's secret mass surveillance programs - many individuals, publications, and organizations have called for another Church Committee-type investigation. Here is a partial list of those calling for new hearings or alleging that a new version of COINTELPRO is happening:

Red Squads - a.k.a. Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs)

Philly LEIU patch

A “Red Squad” is a police intelligence unit. Since the late 1800s they have been used by urban police departments in the U.S. for spying and counterintelligence activities, such as infiltrating and disrupting groups deemed to be subversive.

The Haymarket Riot

The most famous example of Red Squad-type activity was in Chicago in 1886 when police officers and private security agents working for the Pinkerton Detective Agency used spying and violence to suppress a labor rights movement. That culminated in a violent riot at a labor rally in the Haymarket Square. When it was over, 7 policemen and at least 4 workers were dead. As many as 70 people were injured (approximately 60 of them police officers). After a trial - which was widely viewed as unfair - 8 labor activists were convicted for their alleged role in the violence. Of the 8 laborers, 4 were executed by hanging, 1 committed suicide, and 3 received prison sentences. The riot and the violence which preceded it - police had killed two laborers the day before - gave rise to the annual celebration of International Workers' Day or May Day. The incident also led to the creation of the first official Red Squad.

The two images below were published in Harper's shortly after the riot.

The Haymarket Riot - Harper's Weekly, May 15, 1886

Police officers killed for being paid thugs?

Historical information about the Haymarket affair is insufficient to make any assessment of how many - if any - of the seven police officers killed in the Haymarket Riot, or how many of the approximately 60 police officers injured, were corrupt goons terrorizing laborers on behalf of the Chicago political establishment. There is no way to say, in other words, to what extent the officers who were injured and killed might have been what gang stalking victims in the U.S. today refer to as "perps" (perpetrators of counterintelligence crimes).

Perps

Police officers killed in the Haymarket Riot

Harper's Magazine - May 2015

Now, 129 years after its first reporting on Red Squads, Harper's is still covering the issue. A May 2015 article, "Beyond the Broken Window," is about current spying by local police departments, and it also reviews the historical origins of the phenomenon:

"The Haymarket Square bombing of 1886…led to the creation of the first Red Squad, in Chicago, where police used the incident to round up suspected radicals and individuals identified with the labor movement."

The article explains how other cities - the piece focuses on Los Angeles in particular - have also been infested with Red Squads, and that efforts to eradicate these secret police gangs have been unsuccessful:

"Police spying in Los Angeles goes back to the city's Red Squads in the early twentieth century, when powerful trade organizations, seeking to thwart unionization efforts among the city's working class, championed a broadly repressive agenda of police surveillance, wiretapping, and infiltration of organized labor by undercover agents. During the First World War, police in Los Angeles expanded their focus to include ideological subversion, hunting for radicals and "disloyal" people and groups. By the end of the Sixties, the successor to the LAPD's Red Squad, the Public Disorder Intelligence Division, had gathered some 2 million secret files over the course of fifty years on all manner of legitimate dissenters, from the Wobblies to antipoverty groups to antiwar protesters. In 1970, the P.D.I.D. spied on students and professors at UCLA who were suspected of "conspiratorial activities," and agents provocateurs infiltrated student demonstrations. The target list included political organizations as well as church and social-welfare groups and charities, categorizing suspect individuals as "controversial," "agitator," "anti-establishment," "anti-police," or "engaged in protest." Dossiers were maintained on city-council members and the mayor.

In 1976, after these programs came to light, the city's Board of Police Commissioners, a civilian panel that supervises the LAPD, ordered the department to destroy its surveillance records, but in 1983 a grand jury found that officers had retained boxes of files and that the P.D.I.D. was still keeping tabs on more than 200 organizations, including the Coalition Against Police Abuse and Citizens Commission on Police Repression. These two groups were part of a civil suit the next year that resulted in a $1.8 million settlement from the city, which forced the LAPD to enter into a consent decree that curtailed some of the worst surveillance practices. After the grand-jury revelations, the P.D.I.D. was finally disbanded, but was immediately reconstituted as the Anti-Terrorist Division…”

“Protectors of Privilege”

Well-researched studies of Red Squads - most notably, Protectors of Privilege (1990) by civil rights lawyer Frank Donner - show that federal, state, and local governments, and the business community, have often used red squads as political enforcers and corporate mercenaries. In many cases the targets are labor unions, leftists, and other dissidents.

Here, for example, is Donner’s description (on page 12) of the role of law enforcement personnel and private intelligence contractors in Chicago during the 1880s:

“The reliance by the Chicago business community on repressive police tactics to deal with labor unrest was unconcealed. Indeed, the Chicago police were as much the minions of the business community as hired Pinkertons.”

A Los Angeles Times review of Donner’s book explains why police officers would want to participate in Red Squads:

“The cops love these free-wheeling, elite units. They were ostensibly created to combat terrorism, but have been used mostly to infiltrate and suppress liberal and radical political organizations and civil rights groups. They lift their members out of the routine of police work into something of a James Bond life….

….The elite Red squads work on their own, usually reporting directly to the chief, operating outside normal department procedures.”

Ostensibly, the role of Red Squads has been to keep the public safe from criminal and terrorist organizations, although historically red squads have often been more involved in dishing out terror than preventing it.

Although many individuals targeted by organized stalking in the U.S. today are apparently unaware of the history of Red Squads, some activists in the past were very much aware of the legacy of such law enforcement units and the ongoing threat to civil liberties and democracy they presented (and still present).

A commemorative statue of a policeman was erected in Haymarket Square in 1889. On the 41st anniversary of the Haymarket affair - in 1927 - a streetcar driver apparently crashed into the monument intentionally. The statue was restored and eventually re-located. In 1969 the statue was destroyed by a bomb. In 1970, after it was re-built, it was blown up again. Apparently, not everyone is a fan of cops who serve as corporate thugs. The current version of the statue resides at the Chicago Police Department headquarters.

Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Units

LEIU Paper Weight

"Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit" (LEIU) is the modern term for "Red Squad." Origin of the Association of LEIUs

In 1956, the same year the FBI initiated its COINTELPRO program, 26 Red Squads gathered in San Francisco and formed an organization for sharing confidential intelligence about crime. They adopted the name Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit. In 2008, the organization changed its name to the "Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Units" but they retained the original acronym, LEIU.

In addition to maintaining a system of sharing criminal intelligence, LEIU provides training and technical assistance to its members.

Here is LEIU's official website.

The Connection between LEIUs and Organized Stalking

Organized stalking is a set of counterintelligence tactics rather than a specific program. News articles, books, anecdotal accounts, and government reports cited throughout the Fight Gang Stalking website suggest that the tactics are used by local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies, and by U.S. intelligence agencies, as well as by private security-intelligence firms. Many of those reports about organized stalking also make clear that the operations are sometimes initiated for corporate or political agendas, and for purely personal vendettas.

Regardless of exactly how the majority of organized stalking operations are perpetrated, it is inconceivable that members of Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs) would not be aware of those operations - if not participating in them or even orchestrating them.

A major red flag is the fact that the LEIU association is a quasi-governmental entity. Although the group received federal funding to create a networked database of criminal intelligence to share among its members, it is a private, tax-exempt organization, and therefore mostly independent of any real oversight.

“America’s Secret Police Network”

The LEIU maintains a very low profile outside the law enforcement community; few people in the general public are even aware of its existence. Civil liberties groups familiar with the LEIU have expressed serious concerns about the lack of any external accountability for its activities, such as its handling of sensitive intelligence.

Media reports about the LEIU began to emerge in the 1970s. Pulitzer Prize nominee George O’Toole, a novelist and historian who specialized in the history of American espionage and who had worked for the CIA, wrote an article about the LEIU. “America’s Secret Police Network” was published in the December 1976 issue of Penthouse. The article - a copy of which is posted at the end of this section - is a remarkable piece of journalism.

Over the 5 or 6 years preceding the publication of the article Americans had become aware of a whole set of major conspiracies perpetrated by their government, including Cointelpro, the Pentagon Papers, Watergate, MK Ultra, and the CIA’s domestic spying program Operation CHAOS. Yet the existence of the LEIU and the nature of its activities remained - and still remains - mostly below the radar of the press and the American public.

Here - in O’Toole’s words - is a description of the LEIU network. For anyone familiar with reports of organized stalking in the U.S., this ought to ring a few bells:

“The organization forms a vast network of intelligence units that exchange dossiers and conduct investigations on a reciprocal basis. Several of the police departments belonging to the group have recently been caught in illegal wiretapping, burglary, and spying on the private lives of ordinary citizens. The LEIU is, in effect, a huge, private domestic-intelligence agency."

Extreme Secrecy

O'Toole's article emphasized the extreme secrecy of the LEIU. He noted that in many cases, even other police officers were often unaware of the nature of the intelligence units:

"In Baltimore many veteran officers were completely unaware of the existence of the Inspectional Services Division….In fact, the Baltimore cops were themselves targets of ISD spying when they went out on strike in 1974; undercover officers from the unit photographed policemen as they walked picket lines outside their station houses…."

"….In Chicago, too, the Red Squad's activities were shrouded from the rest of the police department. Recruits selected to serve in the unit bypassed training in the police academy so that former classmates couldn't identify them later."

Reportedly, when LEIUs are in danger of having their crimes exposed by state investigations and grand juries, they apparently make sure that attorneys, reporters, and witnesses are controlled and intimidated - including even their own members:

In Chicago a state's attorney investigating the police received a report that his own phone had been tapped. A Baltimore newspaper reporter critical of the police was the target of surveillance and other harassment; on three occasions when he returned to his car parked in the police department's parking lot, he found that the tire lugs had been loosened….

….In Chicago many officers who were called in the grand jury investigation of the Red Squad received the same anonymous telephone message: "We know you have seen the state's attorney. If you want to stay healthy, you'd better not talk before the grand jury."

O'Toole also reported that LEIUs burned their files to avoid having them seen by investigators.

Use of Civilian Spies

One of the elements of LEIU operations which is consistent with contemporary accounts of organized stalking - and with accounts of operations conducted by communist East Germany's Stasi - is the use of civilian spies.

From the perspective of police intelligence units, the most useful civilians are those who share the police officers' contempt for the United States Constitution:

A Chicago grandmother who was paid twenty-five dollars per month by the Red Squad to infiltrate church and community groups told reporters from the Chicago Daily News, "I am a police spy, and I am proud of it. I do police-spy work because, as far as I'm concerned, God and Country come first.…You guys are so busy worrying about constitutional rights, along with the Communists, that they are going to take us over."

Illegal Electronic Surveillance

Another practice of LEIUs reported by George O'Toole which is a common element of most or all organized stalking accounts is the use of illegal electronic surveillance:

"The most common type of criminality among LEIU intelligence squads is illegal wiretapping, which is almost always done with some degree of cooperation from the local telephone company. A former Baltimore vice-squad officer told the Maryland Senate investigating committee that the intelligence squad routinely installed illegal telephone taps with the aid of an ex-cop who worked for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company."

In another incident mentioned in the article, Chicago police intelligence officers used blackmail to coerce employees of Illinois Bell to cooperate in illegal wiretapping.

Corporations "Surrendering Information About Their Clients"

Telephone company cooperation in illegal wiretapping is just one example of a long history of complicity of American corporations in government programs involving spying and lying. Famed Watergate journalist Carl Bernstein reported, for example, that CBS News was essentially a puppet of the CIA during the 1950s and '60s. That kind of unethical collusion continues today: the NSA documents leaked in 2013 by Edward Snowden revealed that U.S. tech companies cooperated with the NSA's data collection scheme called PRISM.

Apparently, LEIUs have long exploited American corporations' willingness to violate the rights of their customers:

"A police textbook on [LEIU spying] advises intelligence officers to cultivate contacts in utility companies, airlines, banks, newspapers, bonding companies, private detective agencies, and credit bureaus. The Federal Privacy Protection Study Commission recently heard testimony from such companies as American Express and Sheraton Hotels, in which they admitted that they routinely surrendered information about their clients and guests to law-enforcement officers on a simple oral request, without requiring a court order."

LEIU as a Weapon for Personal Vendettas

The nature of the LEIU was - and still is - a perfect design for the abuse of power: a secretive private organization with government funding, police powers and secret files on citizens across the country. The group has essentially no civilian oversight because it is exempt from the Freedom of Information Act.

LEIU is a perfect weapon to use against an individual who crosses anyone with connections to it. Here is O'Toole's description of how a dossier can be opened on a targeted individual:

"Any LEIU member can open a file on an individual simply by filling out a form and obtaining the approval of the local LEIU regional chairman."

Some of the organizational structure and procedures have no doubt changed in the past few decades, although the group is still shrouded in secrecy, so it is difficult to know exactly how it might differ now - apart from its use of digital databases and more technologically advanced spy gear. The group's fundamental nature is still ideal for perpetrating acts of extra-judicial punishment by goon squads of corrupt police officers:

"In setting up the LEIU, the cops have created the skeleton of a national police force that is also, in essence, a vigilante organization."

Connections between the LEIU, FBI, U.S. Military, & CIA

Agencies at all levels of government often have tribal attitudes toward other agencies. Each branch of the military, for example, tends to pursue its own agenda to a certain extent while simultaneously working to support a common goal of national security. The federal intelligence community also has well-known rivalries between agencies, each of which desires to see its relative prestige and influence maximized.

Those turf battles exist in the law enforcement community as well of course; sometimes there are tensions between the FBI and local police for example. In fact, O'Toole explains in his article that one of the motivations for establishing the LEIU association was to enable national intelligence sharing among police in a system which was independent from the FBI.

On the other hand, all of America's law enforcement and intelligence agencies now have access to enormous amounts of information - for example, through the national network of data fusion centers. It would be impossible for the feds to be unaware of widespread use of organized stalking by local police - and vice versa.

Their silence on the issue implies that the feds approve of what is happening. The material in the Published News Reports section of this overview indicates that federal agencies use the same tactics against targeted individuals themselves - just as they were caught doing in the Cointelpro era.

In the absence of more whistle-blower revelations, it is impossible to know precisely how the various local, federal and private elements of America's Stasi might be colluding with each other to perpetrate counterintelligence operations, but there have been some glimpses. The Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF) pointed out that the secret NSA documents released by Edward Snowden showed a close relationship between the NSA and the FBI:

LEIU’s Connection to U.S. Army Intelligence

Many accounts of organized stalking include reports of sophisticated electronic surveillance, black bag operations, and exotic weapons. O’Toole’s reporting offers an insight into how such tactics and equipment are acquired by police department intelligence units:

“U.S. Army Intelligence, which in the recent past has shown a disturbing propensity for spying on Americans, is more than a little chummy with the local cops in many cities. The Army trained several Baltimore intelligence-squad officers in techniques of electronic eavesdropping and surreptitious entry at its Fort Holabird spy school in Maryland. In return, the Baltimore cops passed along many of their intelligence reports to the army. In Chicago the Red Squad was in daily contact with the army’s 113th Military Intelligence Group during the late 1960s and early 1970s, passing along intelligence reports and receiving a variety of technical assistance.”

The CIA’s Involvement in Domestic Spying

The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has also been caught performing domestic spying. The previously-mentioned Operation CHAOS was shut-down in 1973, after the exposure of other conspiracies such as Cointelpro and the Watergate break-in. The true nature of CHAOS - a massive illegal program of spying on Americans based on their political views - was not known until December 1974 however, when it was exposed in a New York Times article by Seymour Hersh.

Incidentally, the Watergate break-in also had a CIA connection - the exact nature of which is still not clear according to some reports. What is not disputed though is that a key figure in the break-in, Howard Hunt, was a former career CIA officer, and one of the burglars, Eugenio R. Martinez was still on the CIA’s payroll at the time of the break-in. Another accomplice, Alfred C. Baldwin III, was an ex-FBI agent.

At a minimum, the Watergate break-in showed that in America, corrupt politicians (and corrupt corporate executives) can draw upon a deep supply of corrupt ex-spies and corrupt ex-law enforcement agents to perform illegal special assignments as mercenaries.

The ACLU's Allegations of the CIA's Domestic Spying

O'Toole was not alone in his suspicions about the CIA's participation in spying on Americans, and such concerns are arguably even more justified today. The following are excerpts from a page within the website of the ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union) which provides an overview of the agencies and programs which the ACLU suggests are involved in "illegal domestic spying."

Because of the excessive secrecy surrounding CIA operations, little is known about its domestic activities. In its 1947 charter, the CIA was prohibited from spying against Americans….

….But the law didn't stop the CIA from spying on Americans. During the 1960s, in clear violation of its statutory mission to co-ordinate foreign intelligence operations only, the CIA ventured into the domestic spying business through "Operation Chaos," in which it spied on as many as 7,000 Americans involved in the peace movement.

Unfortunately, the exposure of intelligence failings before the 9/11 attacks caused policy makers to promote "information sharing" among intelligence and law enforcement agencies as a cure-all, creating the likelihood that the CIA would increasingly operate domestically. Today we know that the CIA is a participant in FBI Joint Terrorism Task Forces, which engage in both foreign and domestic terrorism investigations. And the USA Patriot Act eased restrictions on the sharing of information the FBI collects in grand jury investigations and law enforcement wiretaps with the CIA. An ACLU lawsuit revealed that the CIA has also used National Security Letters to demand Americans' personal financial records without prior court approval….

….The history of the CIA's abuse of power and the continuing lack of public accountability over CIA operations make such revelations concerning to civil liberties advocates. The CIA's involvement in the NYPD intelligence activities targeting innocent Muslim communities in the Northeast reveal the CIA is once again treating Americans as suspected enemies.

The CIA's Connection to the LEIU

George O'Toole had serious concerns about the potential for federal agencies such as the CIA to exploit the LEIU - in addition to the threats posed by the LEIU itself because of its lawless spying.

His article noted that the CIA had very close ties to the police department in Fairfax County, Virginia, where the CIA headquarters is located. The Fairfax Police Department is a member of the LEIU.

"Ties between the CIA and the Fairfax County police are, to say the least, close. The agency has given the Fairfax cops training in electronic surveillance, surreptitious entry, lockpicking, safecracking, and explosives. It has provided equipment and personnel to assist the police department in several of its investigations."

O'Toole's article even includes details of a felony break-in perpetrated in February 1971 by several Fairfax County police officers and CIA agents. The break-in was led by the chief of the police department himself. Such collusion among various agencies and corporations to perpetrate crimes against American citizens is a deep corruption of democracy, as the author notes:

"[The LEIU is part of] a powerful dossier subculture in America, a vast old-boy network that ties together intelligence agencies, police departments, credit bureaus, private detective agencies, bonding companies, and the many other collectors and compilers of personal information about private citizens. It is an aggregation of police power beyond the direct control of the democratic process."

Here is O'Toole's entire article: America's Secret Police Network

For a much more recent example of the connections between the CIA and the LEIU, you can see from the LEIU's own website that their training seminars include presentations by people such as Bob Dougherty, a former CIA Operations Officer.

The San Francisco Chronicle's Reporting on the LEIU

On November 25, 1978 the San Francisco Chronicle published an article called “Leaks to the Mob: U.S. Police Network’s Big Problem.” The article - and several others on the same incident - documented the kind of problem which critics of the LEIU have warned about: the misuse of intelligence.

Whenever an agency of a government gathers intelligence on its citizens, the potential for abuse is enormous - as was proven by the FBI’s Cointelpro, the CIA’s Operation CHAOS, and other programs. The potential for abuse of power when the agency is privately-run is even greater.

As the Chronicle reported, the FBI found that an intelligence specialist with the Las Vegas Police Department was passing information from the LEIU database to mobsters. The FBI issued a memo urging “that all FBI agents be discreet in future dealings with [the LEIU].”

Leaks to the Mob

The New York Times’ Reporting on the LEIU

In April 1979 the New York Times published an article which reviewed a three-and-a-half-year study of the LEIU by the American Friends Service Committee. The study described the LEIU as “an old-boy network.”

Most of the article posted at the above link is behind a subscription paywall. Here are a few quotes which give a sense of the report’s conclusions:

“[The report] maintains that police surveillance of groups and individuals for political purposes is continuing on a vast scale in the nation.”

“[The report found that illegal surveillance was happening and that it posed] a grave threat to the constitutional rights of freedom of expression, due process and privacy.”

Protest Against the LEIU - Seattle, June 2003

On June 2, 2003 about 400 protestors gathered in Seattle outside the Red Lion Inn where the LEIU was holding a training seminar titled “Criminal Intelligence and the War on Terrorism.” The seminar was co-hosted by the FBI and other police agencies.

A dozen activists were arrested, and police used pepper spray and rubber bullets to disperse the crowd. Demonstrators were protesting the domestic spying policies of the Patriot Act and the Seattle Police Department's membership in the LEIU.

Here is a video of the protest:

As quoted in the news report of the incident in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, one of the protesters said that the LEIU association "acts basically as a secret political police in the United States."

The Stasi

Stasi Insignia

Insignia of East Germany's "Ministry for State Security"

Counterintelligence methods used by communist East Germany's secret police agency - the Stasi - are among the elements of organized stalking operations in the U.S. today.

The Stasi referred to its psychological terrorism against individual dissidents as "Zersetzung" - which translates as "decomposition" or "corrosion." As used by the Stasi, the term meant "to undermine or subvert." Zersetzung is the noun; zersetzen is the verb.

Methods used by the Stasi - overt and covert surveillance, slander, and psychological operations ("psyops") tactics - were essentially identical to those currently used in counterintelligence operations in America.

Arguably, the Stasi's use of Zersetzung is much more relevant to modern gang stalking in the U.S. than is the FBI's program of Cointelpro operations. In the decades since Cointelpro, a far more comprehensive and sophisticated domestic surveillance system has been developed in the U.S. than what existed during the era of J. Edgar Hoover. The nature of America's spying network has moved much further toward that of a police state.

Although the Stasi's technology for "signals intelligence" (interception of electronic communications) was primitive compared to that now used by the National Security Agency (NSA) to monitor Americans, the Stasi was famous for exploiting "human intelligence" to control East Germany's citizens. A January 2008 article in Wired magazine described it this way:

“As the enforcement arm of the German Democratic Republic’s Communist Party, the Stasi at its height in 1989 employed 91,000 people to watch a country of 16.4 million. A sprawling bureaucracy almost three times the size of Hitler’s Gestapo was spying on a population a quarter that of Nazi Germany.

Unlike the prison camps of the Gestapo or the summary executions of the Soviet Union’s KGB, the Stasi strove for subtlety. “They offered incentives, made it clear people should cooperate, recruited informal helpers to infiltrate the entire society,” says Konrad Jarausch, a historian at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. “They beat people up less often, sure, but they psychologically trampled people. Which is worse depends on what you prefer.”

That finesse helped the Stasi quell dissent, but it also fostered a pervasive and justified paranoia.”

By the 1970s, the Stasi had decided that methods of overt persecution which had been employed up to that time, such as arrest and torture, were too crude and obvious. It was realised that psychological harassment was far less likely to be recognised for what it was, so its victims, and their supporters, were less likely to be provoked into active resistance, given that they would often not be aware of the source of their problems, or even its exact nature. Zersetzung was designed to side-track and “switch off” perceived enemies so that they would lose the will to continue any “inappropriate” activities.

Tactics employed under Zersetzung generally involved the disruption of the victim’s private or family life. This often included psychological attacks such as breaking into homes and messing with the contents - moving furniture, altering the timing of an alarm, removing pictures from walls or replacing one variety of tea with another. Other practices included property damage, sabotage of cars, purposely incorrect medical treatment, smear campaigns including sending falsified compromising photos or documents to the victim’s family, denunciation, provocation, psychological warfare, psychological subversion, wiretapping, bugging, mysterious phone calls or unnecessary deliveries, even including sending a vibrator to a target’s wife. Usually victims had no idea the Stasi were responsible. Many thought they were losing their minds, and mental breakdowns and suicide could result.

One great advantage of the harassment perpetrated under Zersetzung was that its subtle nature meant that it was able to be denied. That was important given that the GDR was trying to improve its international standing during the 1970s and 80s.

Zersetzung techniques have since been adopted by other security agencies, particularly the Russian Federal Security Service (FSB).

For more information on the psychological torture methods used by the Stasi - many of which are being used today in the U.S. - you can visit this website.

The use of energy weapons by the Stasi

Nuclear-Symbol

Counterintelligence tactics used by the Stasi were remarkably similar to the tactics now being reported by victims of ongoing Cointelpro harassment in the U.S. Even the most exotic form of torture associated with organized stalking - the use of energy weapons - is an issue which appears in news reports about East Germany’s secret police.

An article published by BBC News in May 1999 describes the allegations about the Stasi’s possible use of energy weapons against dissidents:

When three of former East Germany’s best-known dissidents died within a few months of each other, of similar rare forms of leukaemia, suspicions were aroused among their friends that this was more than just a coincidence.

The writer Juergen Fuchs was convinced before his death this month that he had been deliberately exposed to high levels of radiation by the East German secret police, the Stasi, which could have caused his terminal cancer….

In 1989, when the Berlin Wall came down, members of East German citizens’ committees occupied prisons across the country.

Some of them were surprised to find powerful X-ray equipment there - not, as you might expect, in the medical centres, but in the rooms where prisoners had their photographs taken….

Thomas Auerbach works as a scientific researcher for the main authority investigating the Stasi. He saw X-ray equipment himself when he was taking part in a sit-in in an East German prison.

He has seen the documents which show that a variety of experiments were being carried out involving the potential uses of radiation as a means of poison and sabotage.

He believes that instead of X-rays, it was highly likely that radioactive isotopes were used to try to induce cancer in prisoners.

Books and Films about the Stasi

Zersetzung der Selle (“Decomposition of the Soul”)

Subtitle: Psychologie und Psychiatrie im Dienste der Stasi (“psychology and psychiatry in the service of the Stasi”)

This book about the Stasi’s methods of psychological torture was published in 1995. The authors, Klaus Behnke and Jürgen Fuchs, studied psychology in East Germany before being expelled in 1977. Unfortunately, as of this writing, the book has not been translated into English.

Zersetzung was the term used by the Stasi to describe the psychological operations (psyops) element of their counterintelligence subversion. The objective was to emotionally and socially destroy individuals who were perceived as dissidents, and to do so in a manner which would not be obvious to others.

Unfortunately, there does not seem to be an English language translation of this book. Similarly, the 2002 documentary based on this book does not seem to be available with English subtitles.

A man who was a target of the Stasi describes the infamous agency

In this 15-minute TED speech given in Berlin in June 2014, Hubertus Knabe, a German historian who was a victim of the Stasi (he was under surveillance for smuggling banned books), describes the infamous secret police agency, and its system of Zersetzung.

Here is the description which accompanies the video:

Tour the deep dark world of the East German state security agency known as Stasi. Uniquely powerful at spying on its citizens, until the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 the Stasi masterminded a system of surveillance and psychological pressure that kept the country under control for decades. Hubertus Knabe studies the Stasi — and was spied on by them. He shares stunning details from the fall of a surveillance state, and shows how easy it was for neighbor to turn on neighbor.

The TED website showed that as of September 2014, this video had already been viewed over 700,000 times.

Chief of the Stasi

From 1957 until the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, the head of East Germany’s secret police was Erich Mielke. He was essentially the communist version of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. Mielke presided over a network of 85,000 full-time domestic spies and 170,000 civilian informants.

Erich Mielke

Erich Mielke

When a film company, LOOKS Filmproduktionen, began producing a documentary on Mielke, it submitted a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request to the CIA for its records on the notorious Stasi leader, but the CIA denied the request.

In July 2014 Courthouse News reported that the film company filed a lawsuit to force the CIA to release its records on Mielke.

7. The National and International Scope of

world map 01

Well-documented historical and contemporary reporting - including some of the examples cited in the Published News Reports section of this overview - suggest that organized stalking is used by various foreign intelligence services and law enforcement agencies. In the following section, for example, is a credible first-hand journalist’s account of organized stalking tactics being used by Russian intelligence agents. No one disputes that such tactics were widely used by East Germany’s Stasi.

Two mainstream news articles I posted in the Cointelpro News page of this website (October 10, 2004 and May 31, 2006) are about gang stalking tactics used by intelligence and law enforcement agencies in Northern Ireland and Canada. As I explain in the Gang Stalking Documents page of this website, a classified U.S. diplomatic cable published by WikiLeaks in 2010 also contained an apparent reference to the use of such tactics in Canada.

Incidentally, the U.S. Senate Church Committee investigations found that the government of Canada was also complicit in the infamous CIA program, MK Ultra.

Anectdotal evidence of the use of organized stalking by other Western governments also includes accounts such as this self-published book about gang stalking allegedly perpetrated on behalf of the Dutch royal family.

From my perspective, another indication of the international scope of gang stalking is the Internet traffic and emails to this website from countries all over the world.

Based on my personal experience and numerous accounts by self-proclaimed victims, organized stalking occurs across the U.S., so moving from one area to another is not likely to help. Similarly, international cooperation among law enforcement and intelligence agencies means that moving from the U.S. to Canada is probably not going to be helpful.

A quick note on that point: anyone in America who is considering moving to another country to escape illegal stalking by the U.S. government's Stasi goons should probably avoid the four nations with the closest ties to the U.S. intelligence community: Canada, the U.K, Australia, and New Zealand. Lynnae Williams, a former CIA clandestine service trainee and former Defense Intelligence Agency analyst, is a self-proclaimed target of organized stalking by the FBI. She ultimately moved to Spain to find refuge.

Unfortunately for the criminals, traitors, and greedy contractors who run the U.S. intelligence community, Ms. Williams revealed that those agencies use sock puppets to monitor social media and to spread false information on the Internet - a claim which has also been confirmed by other sources. Hacked emails from intelligence contractors, for example, revealed elaborate disinformation schemes using sock puppets, and a smoking-gun NSA document leaked by Edward Snowden proved that the NSA collaborates with its British counterpart GCHQ to systematically spread lies the same way.

Other High-Tech Gadgetry: Seeing Through Walls

Seeing Through Walls

A photo from February 10, 2010 Stars and Stripes

Caption for the above photo: "A soldier shows how a new scanner can see motion of an individual behind a wall. The device is set to be fielded in Afghanistan this year.”

Internal documents from the Cointelpro era proved that the FBI secretly used illegal “black bag jobs” (breaking into the residences of targeted individuals) to perform surveillance and to perpetrate psychological warfare - such as the tactic of “gas-lighting” described earlier.

Although the tactic is just as illegal now as it was then (invasive spying without a search warrant), it is apparently used routinely in gang stalking, based on virtually all victim accounts.

Consequently, it would be very easy to deploy miniature spy cameras (which are now very advanced and small and inexpensive) in the victim’s residence. So the use of technology which can see through walls is probably unnecessary in most cases, but the technology does exist.

A June 2005 article in Popular Mechanics by Frank Vizard stated that “through-the-wall” technology “has been aggressively researched by military and university labs since the mid-1990s.” The article is on page 30.

Popular Mechanics June 2005

This August 2012 article in Popular Science describes a form of this technology which uses Wi-Fi radio signals - which are now available in most U.S. homes. Reportedly, Wi-Fi radar can “determine a person’s location, speed, and direction - even through a one-foot-thick brick wall.”

Such technology could be perfect for gang stalking because, as the article notes, the device cannot be detected, since it does not emit any radio waves.

Other High-Tech Gadgetry: Directed-Energy Weapons (DEWs)

DARPA Laser Gun

DARPA Laser Gun - from Business Insider, September 14, 2012

As I noted in the section about East Germany’s secret police, the Stasi used counterintelligence tactics remarkably similar to the tactics reported by victims of ongoing Cointelpro harassment in the U.S. Even the most exotic form of torture associated with organized stalking - the use of energy weapons - is an issue which appears in news reports about East Germany’s secret police. An article published by BBC News in May 1999, for example, describes allegations about the Stasi's possible use of energy weapons against dissidents.

Claims about energy weapons being used against targeted individuals in the U.S. are difficult to prove - as one would expect, but there are a number of reasons the subject deserves serious consideration.

From a July 2005 Associated Press article:

"For years, the U.S. military has explored a new kind of firepower that is instantaneous, precise and virtually inexhaustible: beams of electromagnetic energy. "Directed-energy" pulses can be throttled up or down depending on the situation, much like the phasers on "Star Trek" could be set to kill or merely stun….

The hallmark of all directed-energy weapons is that the target — whether a human or a mechanical object — has no chance to avoid the shot because it moves at the speed of light. At some frequencies, it can penetrate walls."

A Directed-Energy Weapon (DEW) emits energy at a target without using a projectile, and can produce a variety of lethal or non-lethal effects. Such weapons have existed for decades, and are used by militaries and law enforcement agencies around the world. DEWs use various forms of energy, such as laser beams, electromagnetic radiation, and particle beams, as well as sound.

Weapons of this type are often referred to as "non-lethal weapons" to distinguish them from weapons such as knives, batons, firearms, artillery, and such; however, the intensity of some energy weapons can produce lethal effects.

Naturally, much of the information about these weapons is classified. One example of the publicly-available documents on the subject is the previously-mentioned declassified Pentagon report about electronic weapons (dated 1998) called "Bioeffects of Selected Non-Lethal Weapons" - which was obtained via a Freedom of Information Act request.

Here is the Defense Department's website about non-lethal weapons.

Occasional references to the subject do appear in the news. An example is this May 17, 2013 article in the Marine Corps Times about the Joint Non-Lethal Weapons Directorate at Quantico, Virginia. The article explains that the directorate performs “research into everything from electroshock weapons to the Active Denial System, a directed energy weapon that causes painful sensations to targeted individuals without burning the skin.”

This September 2012 article in Business Insider - “America’s Scariest Weapons” - gives an idea of some of the electronics weapons being developed by the U.S. government, such as a “heat ray.”

If you are interested in an example of how someone could construct a homemade short-range electromagnetic weapon (for research purposes or for self-defense or whatever), this might be a good place to start.

You will need to be pretty resourceful working in your garage to keep pace with the feds though. In September 2013 it was reported that the U.S. Defense Department granted a $49 million contract to General Dynamics for developing directed energy weapons.

That is some of the non-disputed information about DEWs. The role of such weapons in U.S. domestic counterintelligence operations is in the realm of speculation and anecdotal evidence.

Many descriptions exist on the Internet which purport to be accounts by gang stalking victims claiming to have been attacked with such weapons. Accounts include descriptions of burning sensations, headaches, nausea, sudden fatigue, a fluttering sensation in the chest, etc.

My observations about DEWs and organized stalking:

(1) The extensive use of disinformation by gang stalkers raises problems when assessing the plausibility of claims about the use of DEWs against targeted individuals. To the extent that the use of DEWs is perceived by non-victims of gang stalking as being implausible, discussion of their use (whether accurate or not) could undermine efforts to expose gang stalking generally. Secondly, even if DEWs are rarely used, it could further the counterintelligence objectives to discuss them on the Internet, if only to raise the anxiety of victims, who might begin wondering whether their headaches, high-blood pressure, and other problems are being induced by DEWs.

(2) It is inherently difficult to distinguish between some of the effects of DEWs and the effects of psychological harassment (“psyops”) tactics. Stress induced by psychological torment can manifest in some of the same ways - accelerated heart rates and headaches, for example.

However…

(3) The use of DEWs against gang stalking victims is technologically plausible. No one disputes the existence of such devices, and they’re consistent with the tactics of gang stalking. For example, harassment by noises generated from adjacent residences is a common gang stalking tactic, so it isn’t much of a stretch to imagine the use of energy weapons in the same situation, as the energy would easily pass through most walls.

(4) Such a tactic would be a logical choice for use in organized stalking, since it would be difficult or impossible to prove that such attacks were happening.

(5) Reportedly, the intensity and lethality of such weapons varies greatly, but even the most extreme applications would be consistent with the malevolent campaigns against gang stalking victims. Anyone willing to terrorize someone relentlessly with psychological torment - even knowing that it could lead to suicide or heart attack (or lethal violence by the victim against others in response), would presumably not have moral reservations about using DEWs.

(6) My own personal contacts with self-proclaimed targeted individuals include three cases in which persons whom I believe (for multiple reasons) to be highly credible reported having apparently been attacked by some form of non-lethal weapons.

Counter-measures

Since the role of DEWs in organized stalking is surrounded by at least as much disinformation as any other area of the subject, it is difficult to know how widespread the use of such weapons could be - let alone how to defend against them. The technical issues involved in possible counter-measures are beyond my ken, but for what it is worth, a credible source - Wired - states in this May 2012 article that a Faraday cage blocks all electromagnetic radiation.

Other High-Tech Gadgetry: Brain Implants

This final “tactic” is in a separate category from all of those above because its use as a weapon of organized stalking is apparently fictional. I include it here because the subject appears in numerous online references to gang stalking - although most or all such websites are clearly pieces of deliberate disinformation.

Creating numerous websites which are purportedly authored by people who believe themselves to be controlled by chips implanted in their brains is an easy way to discredit reports of the more mundane - but still evil and illegal - tactics of America’s counterintelligence goon squads. Such disinformation strategies are extremely effective when most of the public is ignorant of basic counterintelligence methods.

The technology of implanted electronic devices to manipulate brain functions is very real. The neuroscience research was pioneered by Jose M.R. Delgado, a professor of physiology at Yale University.

As disinformation, the subject has traction both because brain implant technology has existed for decades and because the U.S. intelligence community has a well-documented history of secret unethical mind-control experiments on humans (MK Ultra).

Anyone wishing to learn about electronic brain implants should probably begin with this October 2005 article from Scientific American: “The Forgotten Era of Brain Chips.”

Scientific American (Oct. 2005)

Even Higher-Tech Gadgetry: Smart Dust

Smart Dust

I mention this only to give a sense of the kind of threats on the horizon - for everyone, not just for those unlucky enough to already be victims of America’s Stasi.

All the mental giants who advocate that U.S. intelligence agencies and their contractors - and the Pentagon and its contractors - should be granted unlimited power and secrecy and money should pause to consider the types of technologies that those people will be playing with in the future.

Here is a technology that is potentially a more sophisticated version of brain chip implants, and which at a minimum will enable

Big Brother (and his network of friends) to perform all sorts of monitoring.

“Smart Dust” is a system of tiny wireless electromechanical systems which can function as sensors and perform certain tasks using radio-frequency identification.

A July 2013 article in MIT Technology Review: “How Smart Dust Could Spy on Your Brain”

A final note on the efficacy of gang stalking tactics

At the end of his aforementioned book Stopping a Stalker, retired police captain Robert L. Snow describes the psychological aftermath of stalking.

Keep in mind: Snow is describing the impact of being stalked by a single individual with limited resources - not the long-term effects of being stalked by numerous perpetrators with seemingly unlimited resources, conspiring with each other across a criminal network which has the support of the government and uses refined psychological operations (“psyops”) tactics combined with high-tech surveillance.

“During my 30 years as a police officer I have dealt with thousands of crime victims, and have felt a deep compassion for the majority of these people, who have been robbed, raped, shot, swindled, beaten, and burglarized. Yet, by the time I saw these victims, the crime was over and the healing process had already begun.

With stalking victims, however, the crime wasn’t over with, but continued on and on. Victims of stalking say the experience is like a prolonged rape, a never-ending and terrifying loss of control over one’s life. Stalking is one of the most psychologically crippling things that can happen to a person. Being stalked takes away a person’s freedom, a person’s security, and often a person’s will to live.”

9. Mobbing and Workplace Violence

r-CRIME-SCENE-TAPE-large570

“Workplace Harassment” versus “Mobbing”

“Mobbing” is intense systematic harassment of an employee by multiple co-workers and managers. Presumably only a fraction of workplace harassment cases involve the kind of coordinated and severe emotional abuse that could be categorized as mobbing.

Mobbing is sometimes - but probably not always - an element of organized stalking. I would guess that only a fraction of cases of mobbing are part of the even more extreme phenomenon of organized stalking, which includes invasive illegal surveillance and sophisticated psychological operations tactics.

Depending on the circumstances, workplace mobbing - even when not accompanied by stalking outside the workplace - can involve serious psychological abuse. In some cases, the bullying leads to a violent response by the victim, as apparently happened in the cases described below.

The objective of mobbing is to emotionally torture a targeted employee - either to force him or her to quit, or for vengeance, or both.

News Reports on Mobbing

Articles occasionally appear in the mainstream press about mobbing. This August 2000 article from Newsweek/Daily Beast is an early example of reporting on what was already becoming an international trend.

Corporate Psychopaths

The 2012 presentation in the video clip below is a fascinating 14-minute explanation of the dynamics of intense workplace bullying by psychopaths in the corporate world. The presenter, Clive Boddy, is an expert on the phenomenon. Boddy is a professor of Leadership and Organizational Behavior at Middlesex University in England.

Connections Between Mobbing and Organized Stalking

Although apparently accurate, the above video is exclusively about abusive behavior within an organization, such as a corporation. An abusive boss can make the workplace a hellish place for subordinates, but if the psychopathic boss also has connections to public law enforcement and private security personnel, the potential for abuse extends far beyond the range of common workplace harassment.

Opportunities for psychopaths in corporations to abuse the legal system and to abuse modern security technology in order to target individuals for personal reasons have greatly increased recently.

As explained elsewhere in this website, the U.S. law enforcement and intelligence community has worked to expand its powers and information sources by establishing closer ties with corporations - for example, through partnerships such as InfraGard and DSAC. Among the consequences is that it is theoretically now easier for at least some corporate managers to use procedures such as “threat assessment teams” to toss an employee into the legal meat-grinder - for example, by declaring him or her to be an apparent “insider threat.” This is especially true if the manager has established a personal relationship with local or federal law enforcement contact persons.

As described in the section of this webpage about the U.S. Department of Justice, America’s “post-constitutional” law enforcement paradigm’s emphasis on things such as surveillance, secrecy, watch-lists, “predictive policing,” and the aggressive investigation and prosecution of whistle-blowers all create an environment ripe for abuse by managers with personal vendettas.

Another problem for any individual who crosses someone with connections to America’s law enforcement and intelligence community is that the entire industry is long on enforcers and short on legitimate targets. Organized stalking - illegal counterintelligence subversion - dates back to at least the FBI’s Cointelpro era of the 1950s and ‘60s, but the size and power of America’s “homeland security” infrastructure was radically expanded after the September 2001 terrorist attacks, and now includes numerous government agencies and private contractors whose place at the federal budget pig trough needs to be justified. Any dissident, whistle-blower, or even marginally-suspicious individual who wanders into the cross-hairs of the police state these days is likely to be portrayed as a grave threat to national security by the bureaucrats and thugs who populate the security industry.

Compounding the threat to employees who are potential “targeted individuals” is the trend discussed previously in this website of corporations hiring private spies - many of whom are current or former government law enforcement and intelligence agents who often have contacts with their government counterparts. Here again is the best report I have seen on the topic: Spooky Business

America’s diminishing economic opportunities for middle and lower class workers could also be increasing the supply of people willing to serve as pawns and snitches in group harassment activities - whether orchestrated privately or by law enforcement agencies. It seems likely that financially desperate subordinates are more easily manipulated.

Advances in surveillance technology pose another threat to individuals targeted by corporations. Employers now often snoop on employees’ email communications, Internet activity, and Facebook pages for example. Also, any corporation willing to hire private investigators can easily spy on employees’ personal lives in various ways.

Finally, to whatever extent workplace mobbing leads to violence - as discussed below - there are potentially self-fulfilling and self-reinforcing dynamics at work. A violent outburst by the employee being harassed can be cited as confirmation that he was correctly singled out for investigation and surveillance, and the violent incident can also be cited - locally and nationally - as evidence for the need to increase the use of aggressive security measures.

A Federal Lawsuit about Mobbing and Gang Stalking

In December 2013 a federal contractor, Jeffrey Kantor, filed a lawsuit in Virginia against multiple U.S. agencies for secretly and illegally subjecting him to invasive surveillance, overt stalking, and intentional systematic infliction of severe emotional abuse - including by means of carefully orchestrated verbal abuse by his co-workers.

Kantor’s case appears to be a clear example of mobbing as part of a state-sanctioned organized stalking campaign against a targeted individual - in fact, the complaint filed refers to “gang stalking” as such. I posted a complete account of the case here.

Regardless of the ultimate outcome of Jeffrey Kantor’s legal claim, it is significant that a widely-reported lawsuit was filed against members of the U.S. intelligence community alleging precisely the same illegal counterintelligence psychological operations tactics reported by virtually all self-proclaimed victims of organized stalking.

News Reports on the Connection between Mobbing and Workplace Violence

Mainstream news reports and commentary on workplace violence - such as mass shootings - tends to follow a predictable template. The primary questions addressed are whether such incidents can be reduced by the following measures: (1) more restrictive gun control laws, (2) better mental health care policies, (3) more rigorous security protocols - such as background checks and metal detectors, and (4) a reduction in the amount of violence in popular culture, such as movies and video games.

When mass-shootings occur in schools and involve minors, the role of bullying as a causal factor is sometimes discussed, but for the most part, in cases of workplace violence, the subject is conspicuously absent from reporting and analysis. News agencies rarely give serious consideration to whether intense bullying by the shooter’s managers and co-workers contributed to the violence.

Even in cases of violence in schools, news media attention to the role of bullying is small relative to its importance. A 2011 survey of high school students found that teenagers who are the victims of bullying are up to 31 times more likely to bring weapons to school.

Such statistics give an idea of how deeply corrupt U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies must be to acquiesce in organized harassment of targeted individuals; those agencies have to be aware of the high potential for violence it creates.

That failure to discuss what is arguably the most obvious possible causal factor in workplace shootings is partly attributable to intellectually-lazy journalism, but it also involves ideological priorities. People wishing to see stricter firearms regulations enacted, for example, are inclined to view mass-shootings as opportunities for public discussion of those policies. Similarly, those whose agendas include increased surveillance and security systems will seek to use these incidents to bolster their case for a more muscular police state.

Another reason for ignoring the role of bullying in workplace violence incidents is presumably that the organizations involved - companies, schools, and government agencies where such incidents occur - have every incentive to downplay their own negligent tolerance of the bullying.

Reporting on workplace violence is probably self-censored to some extent, because the news agencies involved do not wish to raise the unpleasant issue of whether the victims of such shootings might have brought the violence upon themselves by their abusive behavior.

An exception to the lack of good reporting on this subject was published by the Huffington Post in August 2011. Anthropologist Janice Harper dared to ask the most important question about a mass shooting which had occurred a year earlier in Manchester, Connecticut. Omar Thornton, a delivery truck driver, fatally shot eight of his co-workers and then killed himself.

“Was Thornton bullied in the workplace, mobbed by management and co-workers to the point of mass murder? Given the savagery of his final acts, does it really matter if he was harassed, discriminated against, bullied or mobbed?

It does if it can prevent future acts of workplace vengeance. Last year, when Lt. Governor M. Jodi Rell asked, “In the wake of this tragedy, we are all left asking the same questions: How could someone do this? Why did they do this?” his question was treated almost as if it were rhetorical. Any serious effort to answer it was blasted away with a flippant hate-filled remark as if trying to understand what drives workers to kill somehow excuses the killing and trivializes the trauma the survivors will forever suffer.”

As Harper noted, the shooter, Omar Thornton, reportedly did not have a history of violence or mental illness.

Any intelligent person should be curious about why an otherwise non-violent individual would suddenly lash-out at others with lethal force. It turns out that Thornton had apparently been the target of intense harassment by his co-workers. There does not seem to be any reported evidence that the shooter was the target of organized stalking, but the case - like other similar cases - has implications for the issue of gang stalking. Among those implications is that cases of intense harassment of an individual by multiple perpetrators often fail to generate any serious inquiry - even when the process culminates in extreme violence.

Academic Reports on the Connection between Mobbing and Workplace Violence

Peer-reviewed studies by Dr. Kenneth Westhues, Professor Emeritus of Sociology, University of Waterloo, Canada, have found a link between mobbing (group bullying) and mass shootings in recent years in North America in workplaces and educational institutions.

As noted by Keith Labella at Gang Stalking is Murder, the link between mobbing and workplace violence “eluded authorities, university officials, and, obviously, the mainstream media.” Westhues estimates that at least a third of all rampage shootings can be attributed to mobbing.

“In nearly every mass shooting, Westhues found that a programmatic system of workplace or academic bullying had systematically isolated, scapegoated and humiliated the victim and virtually groomed the shooter for the role of monster. The role of psychiatry, police, and administrative bureaucracy as “threat assessment teams” and “safety prevention” was not only an utter failure, but, moreover, prompted the very acts of mass violence they sought to prevent.”

The following passage is from Professor Westhues’s report Mobbing and the Virginia Tech Massacre (November 2007).

“On April 16, 2007, Seung-Hui Cho, a fourth-year student in the English Department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, murdered 32 professors and students and injured a further 25, then took his own life….

Cho appears to have been the target of an uncommon but distinct and devastating social process called workplace mobbing. It is the impassioned ganging up of managers and/or peers against a targeted worker, the object being the target's absolute humiliation and elimination from respectable company."

An example of a case which deserves a closer look

To cite one example (of many), a workplace shooting in Long Beach, California invites suspicion about the possible involvement of mobbing. Even if there are other explanations, this particular case is interesting for several reasons.

Incidentally, at the time of this shooting, I lived close to downtown Long Beach, and I witnessed some of the police and ambulance activity associated with the event. I became curious about the relative silence about it in the media.

On February 16, 2012, on the seventh floor of the Glenn M. Anderson Federal Building in downtown Long Beach, Ezequiel Garcia, an agent of Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), shot his boss, Kevin Kozak, six times. Reportedly (see the article linked below for details), Mr. Garcia's attack on his boss was in response to the fact that Mr. Kozak (who was the second-in-command of ICE's Los Angeles region) had turned-down Garcia's request for a transfer within the department.

Apparently, Garcia shot Kozak "following a discussion about Garcia's job performance." Another agent, Perry Woo, then rushed into the room and fatally shot Garcia. Kozak survived.

This workplace violence incident involved two government officers being shot - one fatally - in a federal building in the downtown area of a major city, yet barely registered as a blip on the media's radar. Furthermore, both ICE and the FBI - which investigated the case - declined to provide any details about what happened.

After spending a year investigating the incident, the FBI determined that the fatal shooting of Garcia was justified. By the way, the FBI always finds that its shootings are justified. As the CBS article below notes, The FBI's spokeswoman, Laura Eimiller, would only say that the details about what led to the incident "would be kept confidential because no criminal charges are planned."

Apart from several paragraphs in the middle of the article linked below, most of the media did not seem to be curious about the incident - or about the silence of the government agencies involved. Apparently the matter did pique the interest of a few people other than myself though; the article cites concerns about the secrecy surrounding the event expressed by representatives of the Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington (CREW) and the Open Government Project at the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC).

Maybe the ICE agent, Mr. Garcia, was just having a bad day. Perhaps someone cut him off in traffic on his way to work that morning and he was a bit wound-up about it, so he shot his boss six times during his job performance review.

On the other hand, maybe he snapped after a period of systematic harassment, and the feds did not want that made public. At a minimum, the case illustrates the secrecy which often surrounds the activities of America's law enforcement agencies.

This is an article about the incident from CBS Los Angeles Local News.

Mass shooting at the Washington Navy Yard - September 2013

Washington Navy Yard

This website would not be complete without mentioning this incident; news coverage of the shooting - and the public commentary about it - included speculation about the possibility that the shooter had been the target of a "gang stalking" /MK Ultra-type operation.

Here is what has been reported:

A shooting rampage at the Washington D.C. Navy Yard on September 16, 2013 left a dozen people killed (13 including the shooter), and 8 others wounded. Naturally, the shooting received extensive national news coverage.

The shooter, Aaron Alexis, had claimed to have been stalked by multiple perpetrators, and had reported that he was the victim of electronic harassment and noise harassment tactics of the sort often described by other individuals targeted in counterintelligence operations.

Alexis even carved “My ELF Weapon” into the receiver of his shotgun, as seen in this photo. ELF is a common abbreviation for “extremely low frequency.”

navy yard shooting

The incident involved other red flags for many observers. For example, while some people suggested the voices Alexis reported hearing were symptomatic of schizophrenia, others noted that schizophrenia typically begins in early adulthood, roughly between the ages of 15 and 25. Alexis, who was an information technology employee with a security clearance at a defense-related computer company, was 34 years old. Also, persons afflicted with schizophrenia are not typically violent; if anything, they are more likely to be a danger to themselves.

It should also be noted that Alexis never reported that he believed that the voices he heard were coming from some supernatural source - which would have been more suggestive of mental illness. His accounts were much more consistent with the kind of sonic projection device demonstrated here by an engineer who designs them. At 20 minutes and 8 seconds into this TV program which aired in 2009 is an interview with an engineer describing and demonstrating how such devices work. If the link becomes unavailable at some point, you can search for this program on which it aired: Jesse Ventura’s Conspiracy Theory, season #1, episode #4 (“Big Brother”). Roll your eyes at the source if you want, but everything about it is credible, and additional reading - as you will easily find out - only confirms it.

No manifesto was left by the shooter citing any political or religious agenda that might have motivated him to shoot twenty people at his workplace. His words and actions are more plausibly explained by his claim that he was in fact being systematically harassed, and he eventually snapped.

Other facts about the incident also drew suspicion. For example, the FBI bypassed the ATF (the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives) and performed their own trace of the shotgun used - even though the ATF is the federal agency in charge of tracing guns used in crimes. An Associated Press article included this quote:

“I have never seen an instance where ATF had not been relied upon to trace the gun,” said Mike Bouchard, a former ATF assistant director for field operations. “I have never heard of a situation like that.”

Since the investigation of the shooting is being handled by the FBI - which is notoriously secretive and has a history of perpetrating organized stalking crimes against Americans (Cointelpro) - it is difficult to guess how much critical information about the case is being kept secret from the public.

It has not been reported, for example, whether some of the shooting victims had been intensely harassing (“mobbing”) the shooter - as was done to the plaintiff in the federal gang stalking case filed in December 2013.

Multiple news sources - such as the New York Times - made note of the curious timeline of events surrounding the shooting. The shooter’s employer and the Newport Rhode Island Police Department and the navy were all aware that Alexis had reported being harassed by “voices” and noises, yet no one suspended his security clearance or otherwise intervened.

Similarly - and this has never been explained as far as I know - a tactical response team of the Capitol Police was reportedly in the area at the time, but was ordered to stand down (not participate in the police response).

Here are some excerpts from a BBC News report on September 18 which described the non-response:

Multiple sources in the Capitol Police department have told the BBC that its highly trained and heavily armed four-man Containment and Emergency Response Team (Cert) was near the Navy Yard when the initial report of an active shooter came in about 8:20 local time.

According to a Capitol Police source, an officer with the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD), Washington DC’s main municipal force, told the Capitol Cert officers they were the only police on the site equipped with long guns and requested their help stopping the gunman.

When the Capitol Police team radioed their superiors, they were told by a watch commander to leave the scene, the BBC was told.

The gunman, Aaron Alexis, was reported killed after 9:00.

A few days later, a Congressman confirmed that the local SWAT unit had been inexplicably ordered not to respond. Rep. Michael McCaul (R-Texas) told CNN's Jake Tapper that he personally spoke with a SWAT team member who confirmed that they were told to stand down (not respond) to the mass shooting at the Washington Navy Yard.

A week after the shooting, The Washington Times (in their Communities section) published an article exploring the gang stalking (electronic harassment) speculation surrounding the shooting.

A few days later, Wired magazine posted an article which also examined the gang stalking aspects of the navy yard shooting. Here are some excerpts:

Some conspiracists suggest that Alexis was a "targeted individual," or "TI," the term-of-art used by anguished people who believe they're being "gang stalked" by shadowy enemies, often in the government. The elements of Alexis' police report — covert microwave weapons, conspiracies and sleep disturbances — are common elements in gang stalking accounts. (Of course, they're also common elements in schizophrenia.)….

The microwave weaponry theory would be just as absurd as some of the other conspiracies if the Pentagon hadn't been researching the possibility of using similar voice-projection technology in the past as a nonlethal weapon.

According to one report on the project, such a weapon would create a condition similar to schizophrenia. "Application of the microwave hearing technology could facilitate a private message transmission. It may be useful to provide a disruptive condition to a person not aware of the technology. Not only might it be disruptive to the sense of hearing, it could be psychologically devastating if one suddenly heard 'voices within one's head.'"

The year before, Wired featured an article specifically about the so-called "Voice of God" device.

Nine days after the shooting, CNN reported that the assistant director in charge of the FBI's Washington field office, Valerie Parlave, was asked whether Aaron Alexis had "talked to or e-mailed anyone ahead of the attack" and she responded "No."

A month later however, The New York Post reported that the shooter had sent three emails to the group called Freedom From Covert Harassment & Surveillance (FFCHS) - which is ostensibly a gang stalking victims support group - although, as explained in the web page about the organization in this website, is clearly a disinformation front group.

So the fed's - who apparently monitor everyone's phone calls, emails, and Internet activity - failed to intervene in any way despite the shooter's emails (and despite other obvious warning flags mentioned above) in a case involving an employee with a security clearance who was working at military facilities and reporting that he was being harassed and hearing voices.

As The Post noted, this added to the list of questions about the official account of the whole incident:

"[The emails] also suggest that the bloody rampage was plotted as a revenge attack against the US Navy — contrary to FBI statements that the former sailor did not appear to have had a specific target."

On November 20, 2013, The Washington Times reported that U.S. Rep. Darrell E. Issa (R-Calif.), chairman of the Oversight and Government Reform Committee is seeking information from the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) about the security clearance possessed by Aaron Alexis:

"But Mr. Issa says OPM is refusing to turn over those documents and allowing them to be viewed only behind closed doors."

In January 2014, Politico reported that a local NBC news journalist in Washington D.C., Scott MacFarlane, received an email which the U.S. Navy sent to him by accident.

The internal email - from the Navy's FOIA (Freedom of Information Act) office - outlined the strategy which they planned to use to limit the amount of information released to MacFarlane, who had filed a FOIA request for internal Navy memos sent on the day of the shooting.

MacFarlane tweeted about the incident with this message:

“EPIC FAILURE- U.S. Navy accidentally sends reporter its strategy memo for dodging his FOIA request”

He included this screenshot of the email.

Click on image to enlarge

Dodging FOIA Request

The most charitable analysis would be that this was simply routine “cover your ass” protocol for a government entity seeking to avoid embarrassing revelations about its incompetent management of security at a naval facility.

On 31 January 2014, the Associated Press reported that Aaron Alexis’s medical records revealed that the Veterans Affairs doctors who examined him weeks before the shooting determined that he did not appear to have any mental health issues.

“Speech and thoughts clear and focused…” was the description of the attending doctor.

The AP obtained Alexis’s medical records via a Freedom of Information Act request. Normally, the government does not disclose medical records, but the Veterans Affairs Department made an exception because of the public interest in the mass shooting.

As the New York Times reported (in the article cited previously), about six weeks before the shooting, Alexis was staying at a hotel and complained about being harassed by noise - a common psychological operations tactic. The harassment apparently was leaving him sleep-deprived, and he reported his insomnia to his VA doctors, as his records showed.

“An attending doctor provided additional details, saying Alexis suffered from fatigue after sleeping only two or three hours every night over the past three weeks.”

Alexis’s medical record - like the other facts of the case - are consistent with his account of having been intensely harassed.

What does not make sense is the official explanation - namely, that out of the blue, someone who appeared to be normal - and even was given a security clearance - suddenly went on a murderous rampage for no reason whatsoever.

U.S. Navy's FOIA office nominated for "Golden Padlock Award"

In June 2014, Investigative Reporters and Editors (IRE) named the U.S. Navy's FOIA office as one of the three winners of the 2014 Golden Padlock Award - which celebrates "the most secretive government agency or individual in the U.S."

The nomination was made "for blocking access to records" about the Navy Yard shooting. As the IRE noted at that time, "…to this day, the Navy has still not responded to [NBC News reporter Scott MacFarlane's numerous FOIA requests]."

FOIA request regarding Aaron Alexis's interactions with FFCHS

Among the various FOIA requests filed regarding the navy yard shooting was a request filed in December 2013 seeking the FBI files "referencing the Freedom from Covert Harassment and Surveillance (FFCHS) organization in regards to the well publicized shooting investigation…"

As noted above, some of the reporting on the shooting noted that Alexis had sent three emails to FFCHS prior to the shooting.

The FBI rejected the request later that month, claiming that the information was exempt from disclosure requirements on the grounds that it was part of an investigative file. In January 2014, the person requesting the information filed an appeal, noting that the president of FFCHS, Derrick Robinson, had already revealed information about the matter by publishing an FFCHS newsletter in which he stated that he had been interviewed by two FBI agents concerning the case.

In September 2014, the Justice Department finally sent a letter denying the appeal. Language in the DOJ's denial letter was of the boilerplate variety. The agency asserted that the information sought was exempt from disclosure requirements of FOIA because it fell under the category of "records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes the release of which could reasonably be expected to interfere with enforcement proceedings."

The U.S. government's position is that the mass shooting at the navy yard was simply a random act of insanity by a disturbed individual - as opposed to being the result of intense systematic harassment of the shooter, as the shooter himself clearly suggested. Since the shooter, Aaron Alexis, is dead, presumably the only potential “enforcement proceedings” would be civil litigation related to security issues, such as Alexis’s security clearance, and the management of security at the naval base.

At least one such lawsuit has been filed by the family of one of the shooting victims.

Several critical pieces of information will remain in the dark - at least for now. One is the FBI’s investigation - if any - regarding Alexis’s claims that he was the target of psyops harassment. A closely related question is whether Alexis was, in any sense, a “targeted individual.” Obviously, if he had been the subject of any kind of investigation and monitoring, that would have huge implications regarding his security clearance.

The DOJ’s denial letter only addresses that issue with a standard blanket statement that applies to all FOIA inquiries:

“To the extent that your request seeks access to records that would either confirm or deny an individual’s placement on any government watch list, the FBI properly refused to confirm or deny the existence of any records responsive to your request because the existence of such records is protected from disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(7)(E). FOIA Exemption 7(E) concerns records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes the release of which would disclose techniques and procedures for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions. This response should not be taken as an indication that records do or do not exist. Rather, this is the standard response made by the FBI.”

The other critical piece of information which remains a secret is the FBI’s investigation of Alexis’s communications with FFCHS. Some news reports about the shooting noted that Alexis had sent three emails to FFCHS prior to the shooting.

Just to review: FFCHS is ostensibly a gang stalking victims support group, although - as explained in the web page about the organization in this website - it is clearly a disinformation front group. It would be very interesting to read the description of FFCHS that appears in the FBI’s investigative files. No doubt, the DOJ would argue that such information also falls under one or more of the above FOIA exemptions. The only way to contest the claim would be to file a lawsuit.

Muckrock, which tracked the FOIA request, now lists its status as rejected.

Here is the DOJ's denial letter: DOJ Denial of Appeal

Whatever led to the mass shooting at the Washington Navy Yard in September 2013, one thing is clear: the U.S. Navy and the FBI do not want the public to know about it.

Theodore Kaczynski ("The Unabomber")

Theodore Kaczynski

A series of bombings was perpetrated from 1978 to 1995 which killed three people and injured 23 others. The bomber, a mathematician named Theodore Kaczynski, was referred to as "the Unabomber" by the FBI before they discovered his identity.

Kaczynski wrote a manifesto which explained that his motive for the bombings was to expose the threat to freedom posed by modern technology.

The court rejected Kaczynski's request to represent himself at his trial, and made a plea agreement to avoid having Kaczynski possibly use his trial as a public platform to express his views. In return for a promise to not seek the death penalty, Kaczynski pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to life in prison.

Those facts are commonly known; what is less widely-known is that Kaczynski was one of the subjects of the CIA's secret mind-control experiments program called MK Ultra while he was a student at Harvard University.

An article by Alston Chase in the June 2000 issue of the Atlantic explored the question of whether Kaczynski's violence was the result of his psychological torture. Kacyzinski was recruited to participate in a series of psychology experiments, and he was deceived about their true nature, which was to examine the effects of extreme emotional stress - possibly to help the CIA develop interrogation techniques.

The article implies that the experiment could possibly have been a factor in Kaczynski's later acts of violence. Some excerpts from the article:

"There is no evidence of immediate mental degradation in the project's aftermath. Emotional turmoil is another matter. As Sally Johnson, the forensic psychiatrist, reported, Kaczynski clearly began to experience emotional distress then, and began to develop his anti-technology views."

"It is clear, also, that Murray's experiment deeply affected at least some of its subjects. From interviews conducted after the project ended, it is apparent that certain students had found the experience searing."

"When, soon after, Kaczynski began to worry about the possibility of mind control, he was not giving vent to paranoid delusions. In view of Murray's experiment, he was not only rational but right. The university and the psychiatric establishment had been willing accomplices in an experiment that had treated human beings as unwitting guinea pigs, and had treated them brutally."

"Kaczynski felt that justice demanded that he take revenge on society."

The injuries and deaths of the 26 victims of Kaczynski's bombs were quite possibly "collateral damage" from a secret and unethical U.S. government program.

Blue Line

10. Selection of Targeted Individuals target 01

"To a hammer everything looks like a nail. To an intelligence agent, informant, or law enforcement officer, everything unconventional or unorthodox looks like at least a pre-embryonic terrorist danger."

- Bruce Fein, U.S. Deputy Attorney General,
Reagan administration

In 2009 Bruce Fein advised Congress that the national intelligence-gathering system of regional data fusion centers should be abandoned. He compared the system to those operated by the Soviet Union's KGB and East Germany's Stasi.

Threat assessments by bureaucrats

Incompetence in the U.S. law enforcement and intelligence community creates threats to Americans in two ways. Real threats - such as the 9/11 terrorist attack and the Boston Marathon bombing - often go unrecognized. Meanwhile, people who pose no threat whatsoever are often destroyed - such as the actress Jean Seberg, whose “crime” was supporting the civil rights movement, for which she was stalked and terrorized by the FBI, ultimately leading to her suicide.

One obvious problem currently is that in America we now have a vast industry of government and corporate entities in the domestic spying business, but relatively few actual threats. Predictably, people feeding at the giant homeland security pig trough are eager to create the impression that their jobs and budgets are justified, which makes witch-hunts almost inevitable.

Adding to the problem created by such careerist motivations is the fact that people who pursue careers in the intelligence and law enforcement industry often have, as Bruce Fein observed, a distorted perception of the danger posed by people who are less conformist and less subservient to authority figures than they are.

Writing in Mother Jones in February 2014, Jon Schwarz made this point about the kind of people who make up much of the security infrastructure:

“Throughout history, the security state in every country has attracted employees who were already a bit squirrelly, and then encouraged their squirreliness to blossom in the dark.…

….What these kinds of people share in common is that the pattern-recognition software in their head is badly calibrated and oversensitive. If they weren’t spies or intelligence “experts,” they’d spend their days proving Paul Is Dead or discovering the face of Jesus in tortillas.”

Blacklisting by threat assessment bureaucrats in the U.K.

Based upon the reported facts, I would not refer to the following case as “gang stalking” in the full sense of the term. The incident did not involve the intense and sophisticated psychological operations tactics commonly associated with organized stalking by corrupt law enforcement and intelligence agencies and their contractors. This case was however a well-documented example of social and professional isolation of a targeted individual who was blacklisted by government bureaucrats.

Articles published by the Guardian and BBC News in June 2009 reported that Jane Clift, a resident of the Borough of Slough in England had won a libel case against her borough's council in which she claimed to have been falsely labelled as potentially violent after she complained about someone vandalizing a flower bed in a town park in 2005. The high court (trial court) awarded Ms. Clift £12,000 in libel damages.

Ms. Clift had written an angry letter to the council after becoming frustrated during a phone conversation with the council's "anti-social behavior coordinator." The council then placed Ms. Clift on its "violent persons register" and then emailed people in the community about the fact that she had been placed on the list.

An October 2010 article in the Daily Mail described her blacklisting ordeal as follows:

"Her details were circulated to an extraordinary range of public and private bodies, including doctors, dentists, opticians, libraries, contraceptive clinics, schools and nurseries. Their staff were advised not to see her alone.

The 43-year-old former care worker was forced to withdraw an application to become a foster parent and, eventually, to leave the town where she had lived for ten years."

U.S. government's terrorist watch list

I would confidently bet that the vast majority of Americans targeted by organized stalking would be unlikely to suspect that their personal circumstances might be connected - even remotely - to the subject of terrorism. Still, it is highly plausible that in many cases such a connection exists within the vast homeland security bureaucracy.

The U.S. government's Terrorist Screening Database is shrouded in secrecy. The fact that names are routinely added and removed from the watch-list - which is officially known as the “Terrorist Screening Database” - combined with the secrecy which surrounds the list, make it difficult to know how many people it includes, but apparently the list has grown rapidly. An article in the New York Times in December 2013 reported that at least 700,000 people were on the watch-list, but an Associated Press report in July 2014 stated that official numbers revealed in a lawsuit showed that “more than 1.5 million [names were] added in the last five years.”

Some excerpts from the New York Times article:

“…the government refuses to confirm or deny whether someone is on the list, officially called the Terrorist Screening Database, or divulge the criteria used to make the decisions…”

“The Terrorist Screening Center, which administers the main terrorist watch list, declined to discuss its procedures, or to release current data about the number of people on various watch lists, and how many of them are American citizens.”

A report released by the ACLU in March 2014 (pdf file linked below) about the terrorist watch list included a number of references which would resonate with anyone familiar with gang stalking. The report described a system which “blacklists” people “including American citizens” - “based on secret standards and evidence, without a meaningful process to challenge error and clear their names.”

This is how the ACLU describes their understanding of how people get placed on the feds’ watchlists: “We don’t know.”

The ACLU explained that the U.S. government “has refused to disclose the standards by which it places individuals on other watchlists, such as the No Fly list.”

Among the “devastating consequences” of the secret watchlist system cited in the report is the following:

Here is the ACLU’s recommendation:

“Ultimately, Congress and the Obama administration must rein in what the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has called ‘a vast, multi-agency, counterterrorism bureaucracy that tracks hundreds of thousands of individuals' - a bureaucracy that remains secret and unaccountable to the public or the individuals it targets for blacklisting."

ACLU - U.S. Govt Watchlisting

Multiple secret watch-lists

As with many elements of America's complex security state, watch-lists exist in multiple jurisdictions and agencies and databases, and are maintained by both public and private organizations. In addition to the federal terrorist screening database and no-fly list, there is the secretive quasi-governmental database maintained by the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit (LEIU) association, which is described in the "Red Squads" section of this overview. States also maintain files on their residents - such as Louisiana's database of "comprehensive person profiles."

One of Big Brother's interesting lists was the subject of a July 2008 article in Salon. This is apparently the list that will be used by the feds to round up potential trouble-makers in the event that martial law is declared:

Dating back to the 1980s and known to government insiders as "Main Core," the database reportedly collects and stores — without warrants or court orders — the names and detailed data of Americans considered to be threats to national security….

….Main Core in its current incarnation apparently contains a vast amount of personal data on Americans, including NSA intercepts of bank and credit card transactions and the results of surveillance efforts by the FBI, the CIA and other agencies. One former intelligence official described Main Core as "an emergency internal security database system" designed for use by the military in the event of a national catastrophe, a suspension of the Constitution or the imposition of martial law.

An article in Radar magazine in May, citing three unnamed former government officials, reported that "8 million Americans are now listed in Main Core as potentially suspect" and, in the event of a national emergency, "could be subject to everything from heightened surveillance and tracking to direct questioning and even detention."

Here is the above-referenced May 2008 Radar article about the Main Core database: The Last Roundup

Getting your name removed from a watch-list

Blacklist

Avoiding the cliché “Kafkaesque” is nearly impossible when describing U.S. government watch-lists - or when describing organized stalking for that matter. The protagonist in Kafka’s novel “The Trial” was arrested by agents from an unidentified agency and tried without being told the nature of the charges against him.

Most of the policies governing how people are placed on federal watch-lists are secrets, and the government has an official policy of refusing to confirm or deny whether someone is on the government’s various lists.

The case of Rahinah Ibrahim is instructive. Dr. Ibrahim was placed on the federal no-fly list by mistake when an FBI agent mistakenly checked the wrong box on a form. She struggled for 9 years - including a 7-year legal battle - before a federal judge finally ruled (in February 2014) that her name should be removed from the government’s various watch-lists.

Ibrahim had to litigate most of her case without knowing the information in the U.S. government’s case against her. Even the judge’s findings in Ibrahim v. DHS are heavily redacted.

Quotas for reporting suspicious persons

A report by an ABC local news affiliate in Denver in July 2006 revealed that some federal air marshals said they have quotas for identifying a certain number of passengers as suspicious.

Air marshals interviewed for the article said that if they wish to receive positive performance evaluations, raises, bonuses, and special assignments, they must regularly file Surveillance Detection Reports (SDRs) - at least one per month according to some sources - about passengers who supposedly behaved in a suspicious manner. Individuals identified in such reports can end up in an international database watch list.

While it is unlikely that law enforcement and intelligence officials would publicly acknowledge the pressure on employees to name persons as being suspicious, it is easy to imagine how career pressures upon and within various agencies could create a sort of “witch hunt” culture to rationalize the budgets and jobs in the homeland security bureaucracy.

Black-listing by brown-nosers

In a September 2004 article in the Sociological Forum, David Cunningham and Barb Browning at Brandeis University analyzed the selection of individuals targeted by the FBI’s original COINTELPRO operations. The article begins with this quote from Frank Donner’s The Age of Surveillance:

“The selection of a target embodies a judgment of deviance from the dominant political culture.”

In essence, the authors found that FBI agents responded to organizational pressure from the upper echelon of the FBI by rationalizing the targeting of individuals for surveillance and subversion - even when those individuals were not engaged in subversive political activities. They did so by pointing to characteristics of the targets which the agents knew their senior officials regarded as culturally objectionable:

“…field agents drew upon particular culturally resonant signals of deviance to demonize and subsequently act against SDS members even in the absence of threatening political activity.”

Agents were trying to curry favor with a small group at the top of the agency - the directorate - who “made the final decisions about all counterintelligence actions.”

Targeting suspected potential future “terrorists”

According to some published mainstream news reports, individuals are sometimes targeted for gang stalking because they are suspected of involvement - or potential future involvement - in terrorism or crime, but are not implicated by any legal evidence. For example, see the May 31, 2006 article in the Canadian national newspaper, The Globe and Mail, regarding such tactics being illegally used in Canada.

Not surprisingly, people in the U.S. “homeland security” industry - whose money and power is tied to the perceived risk of terrorism - take a very expansive view of what constitutes a suspicious person.

In the case of federal contractor Jeffrey Kantor an innocent Google search apparently led to him being targeted for gang stalking by federal agents.

A 2011 Air Force training manual for teaching personnel how to identify individuals who should be reported to the Office of Special Investigations (OSI) - the Air Force intelligence agency - included the following examples (on page 43) of “extremist ideologies and movements”

“The colonists who sought to free themselves from British rule”

“Environmental activists who take action to fight against the exploitation of the environment and/or animals”

On page 45 of that manual is some helpful advice for recognizing the rhetoric of hate groups:

“Many extremists will talk of individual liberties, states’ rights, and how to make the world a better place”

If you happen to meet an American who believes in America’s independence from Great Britain, or opposes cruelty to animals, or believes in individual liberties, or - God forbid - wants “to make the world a better place,” be sure to report him or her to a U.S. law enforcement agency or intelligence agency immediately so he or she can be put on a secret government watch list.

Targeting to discredit & retaliate against whistle-blowers

Other mainstream news reports indicate that gang stalking is also used by intelligence agencies to punish or intimidate whistle-blowers - for example, as reported in the October 10, 2004 article in the Sunday Times, a major newspaper in the U.K., about the use of gang stalking by the intelligence agency MI5.

U.S. intelligence agencies are often accused of retaliating against whistle-blowers also. This 2007 report by the ACLU describes several cases in detail.

“…employees in national security agencies blow the whistle at their peril. They find no protection in the vast patchwork of laws designed to protect whistleblowers. Whistle-blowers often find themselves sidelined, without a security clearance, without a job, discredited, the victim of a smear campaign, investigated, labeled crazy, a bad team player, a liar, isolated.”

Targeting individuals for experimental or training purposes

Some unlucky individuals might be targeted essentially for counterintelligence psyops research or training purposes (even if they are ostensibly chosen for some more “legitimate” security reasons).

If you doubt that is plausible, read about the CIA’s MK Ultra experiments, in which many American (and Canadian) citizens were used as human guinea pigs.

Targeting individuals for extra-judicial punishment & experimentation

A well-researched article in the October 2013 issue of Fortean Times documented a case of state-sponsored gang stalking - described as such - in which a former U.S. military member was apparently targeted both for the purposes of extra-judicial punishment and to test psychological operations technology.

Targeting individuals by mistake

Sometimes individuals are targeted by America’s spy industry purely because of a bureaucrat’s incompetence. A perfect example of this was reported in September 2011 by the journalist John Cook. Here is his report of how a CIA analyst arranged to have a man kidnapped and tortured, although he was completely innocent. In some jobs, mistakes of that sort would be viewed unfavorably. Apparently, at the CIA they are a bit more forgiving; the analyst was promoted.

Her name is Alfreda Frances Bikowsky and, according to independent reporters Ray Nowosielski and John Duffy, she is a CIA analyst who is partially responsible for intelligence lapses that led to 9/11……..

Bikowsky was also, according to Nowosielski and Duffy, instrumentally involved in one of the CIA's most notorious fuck-ups —the kidnapping, drugging, sodomizing, and torture of Khalid El-Masri in 2003 (El-Masri turned out to be the wrong guy, and had nothing to do with terrorism). As the Associated Press' Adam Goldman and Matt Apuzzo reported earlier this year, an analyst they described only by her middle name—"Frances"—pressed for El-Masri to be abducted even though some in the agency weren't convinced he was the terrorist that Frances suspected he was. Instead of being punished or fired for the error, "Frances" was eventually promoted to running the Global Jihad Unit by then-CIA director Michael Hayden. According to Goldman and Apuzzo's story, "Hayden told colleagues that he gave Frances a pass because he didn't want to deter initiative within the counterterrorism ranks."

Exploiting watch-lists for personal vendettas and corporate agendas

As you read accounts - whether published or informal - of organized stalking cases from the Cointelpro era in the U.S., from the Stasi era in East Germany, and of current gang stalking in the U.S., Canada, and the U.K., one of the most common factors seems to be the exploitation of such tactics for personal vengeance.

In recent years, there have been media reports of something called "swatting" - in which an anonymous person - either for revenge or for amusement - calls 911 and makes a false report of an emergency happening at the address of a neighbor or enemy (or in some cases a celebrity) so police will respond to the residence.

It is not difficult to imagine how a more sophisticated and sinister version of that tactic could be used by someone with connections to America's now-massive and secretive homeland security infrastructure, by reporting someone as "suspicious."

As it is now structured, the U.S. law enforcement and intelligence industry provides a perfect environment for abuse of power. The claim that America faces a constant indefinite threat of terrorism has created political cover for seemingly unlimited money and secrecy and power for the agencies and private firms involved.

Increasingly sophisticated surveillance and “non-lethal” weapons technology makes the potential for abuse even greater still.

In theory, organized stalking (counterintelligence subversion) could be used against someone by an individual or a corporation in one of several ways.

One possibility is that a person who has either a personal or professional connection to the law enforcement or intelligence industry could have someone named as a “suspicious person” - for example, by submitting his or her name to a Terrorism Liaison Officer (TLO). This might be easily done by a member of InfraGard (the corporate-FBI alliance) or someone with a friend or relative in an agency such as the FBI.

As explained elsewhere in this website, we know from hacked emails of intelligence-security firms and other sources that corporations hire current and former spooks and law enforcement agents to do their bidding, and that such work includes counterintelligence operations (disinformation, infiltration, etc.). It is certainly possible that such work also includes subversion (gang stalking).

One prominent case of gang stalking that apparently involved exploiting U.S. counterintelligence subversion for a personal vendetta is that of Gloria Naylor. A National Book Award-winning novelist, Ms. Naylor also wrote a semi-autobiographical book, 1996, about her experiences as a targeted individual of gang stalking.

An excerpt from Booklist’s review of 1996:

“In 1996 novelist Naylor moved to secluded St. Helena Island. A minor fracas with a crotchety neighbor, whose brother worked for the National Security Agency, set into motion a series of events that made Naylor the object of close scrutiny by the government.”

Another example - there are many, including my own experience - of organized stalking being used by corrupt members of local and federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies (and their friends) can be found at a blog called “Systematic Police Harassment - Pinellas County Florida.”

That website is an account by a divorce attorney in Florida of his gang stalking - which was apparently initiated in retaliation for angering a senior official of a local county sheriff's office.

Similar cases - which were well-documented in published mainstream news media articles - include an incident in Stockton, California in 2011 in which the city manager was stalked by local police after a break-down in contract negotiations, and an incident in Florida in 2012 in which a police officer was stalked by other police officers after citing an off-duty cop for reckless driving.

Threat Assessment Teams & Personal Vendettas

Individuals become targets of surveillance states in a variety of ways. In the U.S., one of the mechanisms which could potentially lead to someone being targeted is a Threat Assessment Team - a concept promoted by the FBI.

A Threat Assessment Team (TAT) is a small group of designated staff members in an organization (public or private) which attempts to assess whether certain individuals in the organization pose a threat.

A description of TATs on the FBI website describes these groups as follows:

Like-minded, concerned professionals gathered together in person or via a teleconference can use the power of synergy to find dynamic solutions in a short time. Using TATs changes the dynamics in employee- or student-related threat situations from What do I do? to What do we do? These meetings allow the participants to share ideas, experiences, fears, and concerns in a problem-solving environment. TATs serve five primary functions.

Information gathering: What does the team know about the threatener and the targets?
Interviewing: What can TAT personnel learn from anyone personally or professionally connected to the perpetrator and victims?
Evaluation: What does all of this information mean in terms of threats of violence to people and the organization?
Decision making: What should the team do now and in the immediate future? Who will take the lead role in managing the subject's behaviors or actions (e.g., human resources, law enforcement, security, campus police, EAP, mental health clinicians)?

Follow-up: If the emotional temperature has cooled around this situation, how will the TAT continue to monitor the people and behaviors involved so that it does not reescalate?

Note that the FBI prefers that the group judging an individual's potential for future crimes be "like-minded." Naturally, you should avoid any diversity of viewpoints on the panel which is going to decide whether to label someone as suspicious. You don't want to mess-up a good witch-hunt.

Tellingly, the FBI's webpage makes no mention of the issue of workplace harassment and bullying. As noted previously in the section on "mobbing," Dr. Kenneth Westhues, a sociologist, found that violent incidents in the workplace and in schools in North America are often a response to the individual being intensely harassed.

Workplace mobbing is a commonly-reported element of organized stalking (for example, in the claim filed against the U.S. government by Jeffrey Kantor in December 2013). Organized stalking - by all accounts - involves the tactics associated with counterintelligence subversion. The FBI is the primary agency in the U.S. responsible for domestic counterintelligence. Draw your own conclusions about the FBI's silence on the issue.

Clearly, there is a potential for abuse of power by these Threat Assessment Teams. Although that is also an issue on which the FBI's chooses to remain silent, a federal judge has found that the practice has already been abused.

A 2011 article about Threat Assessment Teams in USA Today included the following passages regarding the abuse of power by such groups at universities:

Critics say administrators may try to use threat assessment teams for their own purposes. In a case involving a student dismissed from Valdosta State University, a federal judge ruled that the former president improperly called for an investigation into the student's mental health, employment and grades mostly because the student opposed plans to build a campus parking garage.

Students' rights groups say administrators are infringing on students' free-speech rights. 'Putting innocent outbursts into a campus database is a chilling way to police discourse on campus,' says Adam Kissel, vice president of the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education. "In the name of security, behavioral intervention teams are encouraged to go far beyond what they need to do."

Official rationale for counterintelligence subversion

Merely invoking the magic phrase "national security" seems to provide sufficient legal and political justification these days for almost any secret policy of the intelligence community. Even in the rare cases when the U.S. government's "Star Chamber" - the secret FISA Court - rules that a policy is out of bounds, Americans are not permitted to know what the feds were trying to get away with.

As practiced, organized stalking is essentially an extra-judicial punishment, and it grossly violates multiple state and federal laws. However, the policy is presumably justified - at least unofficially - within the FBI and DOJ as being a legitimate counterintelligence policy needed to subvert individuals who would otherwise pose a threat.

As explained later in this overview (in the section on the U.S. Department of Justice), probably the closest thing to an official public statement of the philosophy behind targeting certain individuals was expressed in the policy statement of the now-defunct "Weed and Seed" program. That program's description suggested a law enforcement strategy of identifying and removing undesirable citizens from neighborhoods through a "community-based" law enforcement approach.

Who gets to declare someone a suspicious person?

Consider just one part of the massive "homeland security" infrastructure - electronic surveillance by the NSA. In September 2013 it emerged that at least a dozen NSA employees had been illegally spying on their spouses and partners. This was a small glimpse of the potential abuses of power in the modern U.S. spy industry.

Note: The revelation of those incidents might be what propagandists and intelligence agencies sometimes refer to as a "limited hangout." In other words, the abuses of power were real, but their revelation might well have been intended to distract from much more serious widespread transgressions - as explained here.

"The story overshadowed the more alarming story that 3,000 privacy violations had occurred over a one-year period."

NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden explained that access to the U.S. police state's weapons is not limited to high-level officials:

"Any analyst at any time can target anyone. Any selector, anywhere… I, sitting at my desk, certainly had the authorities to wiretap anyone, from you or your accountant, to a federal judge, to even the President…"

The desire for a feeling of power: snitches in communist East Germany

Understanding the social dynamics of America's current "homeland security" domestic spying programs does not require re-inventing the wheel. A great deal can be learned from the well-documented historical predecessor which most closely resembled it: East Germany's Stasi.

In addition to thousands of professional spies, the Stasi (state police) had over 100,000 citizen informants. An informant for the Stasi was referred to as an IM (Inoffizielle Mitarbeiter) - an unofficial collaborator. All sectors of East German society had IMs who supplied information about their fellow citizens to the communist government.

One of the striking things that researchers found when examining the records of the Stasi in recent years is that although some of these informants were coerced into spying, most did not need to be pressured into it.

A November 2009 article in Der Spiegel examined the nature of this rodent-like element of society - which no doubt exists today in America.

"Friends informed voluntarily on friends and spouses even tattled on each other."

Here is the description by the head of the department which now manages the Stasi files:

“More often than not, the Stasi did not need to apply pressure at all,” he says. “In fact, many often felt snubbed if their information was deemed to be of no interest.” The real motivation behind these acts of betrayal was much more humdrum than one might think. “People informed for personal gain, out of loyalty to the East German regime, or simply because they wanted to feel like they had some power.”

As the article notes, often the origin of the targeting of individuals was simply a trivial incident or a misunderstanding. In one case a man was turned-in for having a West German brand of pudding in his kitchen. The Stasi had him fired, and his family became destitute.

Additional thoughts on how individuals are targeted

For more of my analysis of how individuals are chosen as targets for gang stalking, see my May 28, 2013 entry in the “Gang Stalking News” section of this website, in which I explain my inferences from the fact that certain types of people are not chosen as gang stalking targets.

11. The Organizational Structure of Gang Stalking

cockroaches 01 copy

“The system of espionage thus established, the country will swarm with informers, spies, delators [accusers], and all that odious reptiles tribe that bred in the sunshine of despotic power; that suck the blood of the unfortunate and creep into the bosom of sleeping innocence.”

- Congressman John Allen, during the debates about the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798.

In the shadowy world of gang stalking, it is difficult for the targeted individual to know the exact nature of the organizational structure of his or her enemies. From the victim’s perspective - especially when the person first realizes that he or she is being systematically harassed, it is virtually impossible to know exactly who the enemies are and how they are conspiring with each other.

For many victims, their situation remains opaque because of the vast disinformation campaign they encounter when they attempt to ascertain what is happening via Internet research.

As I described in the introduction to this overview however, the basic nature of the crime - namely, that it is a government counter-intelligence program - is an unavoidable conclusion since the apparent scope of the activity would make it impossible for it to be undetected by America's now-massive homeland security surveillance and information-sharing infrastructure.

Gang stalking's organizational structure apparently involves a mixture of personnel. At the top are government officials and agents in federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies, who would need to at least passively acquiesce in the program, if not orchestrate it. Several levels of delegates below them would be needed to manage and perform various operations.

The FBI's original version of Cointelpro also made use of local government and civilian minions. A Los Angeles Times account of one of the Cointelpro operations explained that "the bureau had enlisted a local police chief, letter carriers and a switchboard operator at Swathmore College to spy on campus and black activist groups in the Philadelphia area."

Agents and criminals

Police and thieves in the street, oh yeah

Fighting the nation with their guns and ammunition from the song "Police and Thieves" by Junior Murvin (1976)

also covered by The Clash (1977)

In a sense, everyone who participates in organized stalking - and officials who knowingly permit it - are criminals, insofar as stalking is a violation of federal law and of state laws in every state - as well as being a violation of several provisions of the U.S. Constitution.

For many people, the notion that law enforcement and intelligence agencies would be perpetrating crimes seems counter-intuitive.

Remember though, U.S. intelligence agencies such as the CIA, routinely engage in criminal activity according to the government itself - as explained in an earlier section of this overview (“Crimes by U.S. Law Enforcement & Intelligence Agencies”). Also, law enforcement and intelligence agencies such as the FBI often authorize crimes by criminal informants.

Why would law enforcement and intelligence agencies incorporate outsiders such as criminal informants, private contractors, and citizens into their counterintelligence operations?

One reason is that outsourcing can create plausible deniability. If a government agency (or a corporation) contracts with a private firm - and then that firm employs criminal informants, former cops, and former agents to perform the dirty work - the crimes can be several steps removed from officials. Another reason is that structural complexity itself can be desirable if one is trying to conduct activities in a way that will be difficult for outsiders to understand.

“A Wilderness of Mirrors”

Room Full of Mirrors

Another reason the U.S. intelligence and law enforcement community might countenance a system of counterintelligence which has overlapping public and private elements - might be to exploit a counterintelligence concept called “a wilderness of mirrors.”

The description -attributed to James J. Angleton, the CIA’s Chief of the Counterintelligence from 1954 until 1974 - comes from T.S. Eliot’s poem “Gerontion.”

In essence, the idea is to make it difficult to ascertain the structure and dynamics and agendas which are at work. Having a complex and opaque system of counterintelligence (CI) operations serves the interests of the perpetrators - as does further obfuscating the nature of the system by spreading disinformation - as explained in detail later in this overview.

Of course, another factor could simply be greed. As with the U.S. military-industrial complex, parasitic intelligence-security contractors all want a place at the pig trough whenever a government program creates opportunities. Also, the domestic spying industry provides a lucrative revolving-door career path for employees of law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

Opportunities for expansion of personal power could be just as significant a factor. For example, as government-corporate alliances such as InfraGard and DSAC are formed, participants in organized stalking can exploit the system for their own personal vendettas.

This is true in police agencies as well. A prime example was the previously-described incident in 2011 in which the city manager in Stockton, California was stalked by local police to punish him for not granting them a sufficiently generous contract.

Some CI operations are handled directly by the FBI and other intelligence agencies. Other CI activities are performed for the government by private intelligence-security firms under government contract. CI work is also done by such firms on behalf of large corporations. In some cases - for example, the infiltration and subversion of the Occupy Wall Street Movement - CI activities were performed by the FBI and by private firms.

Presumably, one major difference between the structure of the original Cointelpro operations and modern gang stalking is the huge number of private intelligence/security firm contractors with secret clearances now employed by “homeland security” programs and corporations.

The DOJ, FBI, & DHS

Cerberus

America has a vast, complex, interconnected workforce associated with law enforcement, intelligence, and national security operations. It includes everything from local volunteer neighborhood watch programs to the Pentagon. Components of that infrastructure include federal, state, and local government agencies, private contractors, criminal informants, hybrid quasi-governmental associations such as the previously-discussed Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs), corporate-government intelligence-sharing partnerships such as InfraGard and DSAC, and volunteer organizations. The U.S. intelligence community alone consists of 16 agencies (17 counting the Office of the Director of National Intelligence - which oversees the other 16).

Adding to the complexity are overlapping jurisdictions, bureaucracy, “revolving-door” employment patterns, and coordination between different groups. Some examples of that coordination - both formal and informal - would be disturbing to many Americans. For example, there have been reports of connections between the CIA and local Law Enforcement Intelligence Units, as was described in the section of this overview about “red squads.”

The scale and complexity of America’s security industry - combined with its inherent secrecy - makes it difficult to speculate about the exact way counterintelligence operations are perpetrated. Whatever particular operational structure supports Cointelpro-type stalking in the U.S., it would unavoidably involve the approval and coordination of at least these three federal intelligence agencies: the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI), and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS).

The three agencies work with each other on the collection and sharing of information - as in the case of this biometric-based database of criminal suspects.

The DOJ is the U.S. executive department responsible for law enforcement. As such, it would need to provide legal authorization for programs such as COINTELPRO.

“An internal affairs office at the Justice Department has found that, over the last decade, hundreds of federal prosecutors and other Justice employees violated rules, laws, or ethical standards governing their work.

The violations include instances in which attorneys who have a duty to uphold justice have, according to the internal affairs office, misled courts, withheld evidence that could have helped defendants, abused prosecutorial and investigative power, and violated constitutional rights.”

- Project on Government Oversight report, March 2014

The FBI is both a federal criminal investigative agency and the nation’s primary counterintelligence agency. It was the FBI which secretly orchestrated the original version of Cointelpro under FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

- J.D. Tuccille, Journalist, Reason, September 2013

The DHS - which was created in response to the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks - is the department with primary responsibility for counter-terrorism programs, such as maintenance of the national network of data fusion centers used to share security information across all levels of government.

- Paul Craig Roberts, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, CounterPunch, July 2014

The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA)

Octopus

Whatever your assessment of the possible nature and scope of illegal counterintelligence activities currently taking place in the U.S., it is impossible - given the agency’s history - to rule-out the possibility that current or former CIA agents are involved - directly or indirectly, formally or informally - in at least some cases of domestic psychological operations.

As with organized stalking generally, motivations might vary from counterintelligence subversion, to experimentation, to personal vengeance for individuals and corporations with connections.

I noted the following in the section on MK Ultra. Sorry for the redundancy, but it bears repeating.

The CIA’s official mission statement refers to spying on America’s “adversaries” - which generally refers to foreign adversaries. On the other hand, the mission statement also proclaims that the CIA “upholds the highest standards of conduct,” and yet the agency has a well-documented history of involvement with things like torture, assassinations, drug trafficking, orchestrating coups against democratically-elected governments, kidnapping families for dictators, arranging the capture of Nelson Mandela, spying on Americans based on their political beliefs (in the past and recently), and - in the case of Project MK Ultra - performing secret unethical mind-control experiments on Americans.

The agency's crimes associated with MK Ultra will never be fully known, because CIA Director Richard Helms - by his own admission - ordered the destruction of the program's records in 1973. Those kinds of practices continue today. The CIA is known to have destroyed videos of their agents' use of torture in interrogations, and to have spied on the U.S. Senate while it was investigating the CIA's use of torture.

As explained in the section on Red Squads, the CIA reportedly also has a role in the training of local Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs). Accounts by self-proclaimed victims of organized stalking often include relatively sophisticated methods. The tactics and technology are consistent with the operational capabilities of the CIA, and consistent with the agency's reputation for operating outside of legal and ethical boundaries.

Also worth considering is the fact that the CIA supports regimes which torture their citizens. In his book CIA Diary (1975), former CIA case officer Philip Agee wrote about the agency's support of the brutal fascist military dictatorships in Latin America:

"Repression in Brazil even includes cases of the torture of children, before their parents' eyes, in order to force the parents to give information."

It does not strain the imagination to think that such an agency might have its slimy tentacles connected - in various plausibly deniable ways - to the organized stalking of targeted individuals.

The National Security Agency (NSA)

Tower of Sauron

"The ultimate goal of the NSA is total population control."

- NSA Whistle-blower William Binney

William Binney, a 36-year veteran of the NSA (he was a mathematician and code-breaker), has described that spy agency as having a "totalitarian mentality." He has also said this about the NSA’s crimes against Americans: “I call people who are covering up NSA crimes traitors.”

As with the CIA, one can only speculate about the NSA’s possible involvement with organized stalking, but there are reasons to suspect that the agency is not entirely innocent. Although the NSA - unlike the CIA - specializes in signals intelligence rather than operations, revelations in 2013 by NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden showed that the NSA is aggressively involved in spying on its own citizens - and lying about it.

NSA Director Keith Alexander lied about the mass surveillance of Americans by the NSA - twice. He denied that the data was being collected, then after it was revealed, he claimed that the program had uncovered 54 terrorist plots. When challenged by Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman, Patrick Leahy, he admitted that the number was an exaggeration. Later the President’s Review Board reported that the actual number of terrorist threats detected was zero.

Domestic spying is not new for the agency either. The U.S. Senate’s Church Committee investigations in the 1970s said this in its conclusions about the NSA’s activities:

“…the deliberate targeting of American citizens and the associated incidental interception of their communications demonstrates the need for a legislative charter that will define, limit, and control the signals intelligence activities of the National Security Agency.” (Church Committee Final Report - Book 3, page 764)

Another reason to think that some members of the NSA acquiesce in organized stalking is more specific. A semi-autobiographical book by Gloria Naylor - winner of the National Book Award for her novel The Women of Brewster Place - was published in 2005. In the book, Naylor described her experiences as a target of organized stalking. The book’s title, 1996, was the year Naylor realized that she was being stalked. (Presumably, it is also a reference to Orwell’s 1984.) Apparently, her harassment began after she had a dispute with a neighbor whose brother worked for the National Security Agency (NSA).

Here are some of Naylor’s comments in an interview on National Public Radio, January 23, 2006:

“I think I just ran into the wrong people at the wrong time, and like the book shows, what starts from a very innocent dispute with a neighbor cascades and cascades and cascades into a whole production.”

“…these cars began to surveil me. People began to follow me around, and it did, it was very disrupting to think that your privacy was being violated, and for no reason that I could come up with.”

Another reason to suspect that some members of the NSA must acquiesce in organized stalking - and this would apply to the other numerous intelligence agencies as well - is that it would be impossible for them to be unaware of the various electronic communications associated with it. This website you are reading, for example, receives several hundred visits every day. Gang stalking must be something of an open secret among much of the intelligence community.

Finally, another reason to suspect that NSA officials likely approve of gang stalking is that such operations are consistent with what is now known about the agency’s culture. When William Binney - the technical chief of the NSA who became a whistle-blower - testified before Germany’s parliament in July 2014, he said that the NSA seeks “total information control” over American citizens and has a “totalitarian mentality.”

Intelligence-Security Contractors (“Surveillance Role Players”)

spy

I am unaware of any publicly available information about the exact origin or nature of the jobs for “Surveillance Role Players” which are listed on numerous defense/security contractor websites. Possibly the position was created as part of the massive increase in the “national security” infrastructure following the 9/11 attacks.

It is very possible that Surveillance Role Players (SRPs) fill a variety of roles. For example, one of those roles might be to simulate the role of terrorists and others in various security drills.

Another role might or might not be to perpetrate the counterintelligence stalking of targeted individuals. In the absence of reporting on either the nature of SRPs or the nature of counterintelligence stalking, it is at least worth considering that the two phenomena might be connected.

Certainly the collusion of corporations and federal agencies in the area of domestic intelligence activities is not new. The U.S. government has been colluding with big corporations to spy on Americans since the dawn of the Cold War, as this article in Wired notes, although the practice has greatly expanded.

"The government is increasingly using corporations to do its surveillance work, allowing it to get around restrictions that protect the privacy and civil liberties of Americans, according to a report released….by the American Civil Liberties Union…"

Cointelpro Version 2.0 (gang stalking) apparently makes use of the large supply of Americans who possess security clearances - over 5.1 million people as of 2013- almost a third of whom work for private firms. Nearly one-third of the Americans with top secret clearances are private contractors rather than government employees.

Numerous online job listings by defense/intelligence contractors for SRPs seek applicants with active secret clearances and training in counterintelligence. Each listing indicates that the unspecified work involves human intelligence operations (as distinguished from signals intelligence) within the U.S. Some of the ads note that an element of the job is to "coordinate with local law enforcement."

In at least some cases, the client for the Surveillance Role Player contractors is the Department of Defense. Often though, the job announcements do not indicate which U.S. government department or agency is the client. It seems likely that some of the contracts would be with the Department of Homeland Security.

I posted one of these ads in the introduction of this overview. Here is another example:

These ads could be evidence that federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies support outsourced organized stalking operations. Absent leaks by whistle-blowers, one can only speculate about that. Clearly though, SRPs would have the tactical skills, technological assets, funding, and law enforcement connections needed to perpetrate nationwide stalking operations involving counterintelligence methods.

SRPs would also have a powerful incentive to maintain secrecy about such operations. Members of the intelligence community - including contractors - are exempt from the Whistleblower Protection Act. So even if an intelligence-security contractor firm were to mistakenly hire someone who has moral integrity, that employee would still be reluctant to expose misconduct. Revealing secret practices - even practices which are legally dubious - would involve a high risk of serious legal trouble.

Another aspect of the SRP job which makes it a plausible explanation for how organized stalking is perpetrated is the fact that the position is relatively low on the food chain. If organized stalking is widespread - as anecdotal and media reports seem to suggest - the street-level work is certainly not being performed (in most cases) by FBI agents. Victims of organized stalking seem to be rather ordinary individuals who are not connected to criminal or terrorist organizations. In many cases, targets seem to have no idea how they came to be targeted. Some of them - perhaps most - might have simply crossed someone with connections to the law enforcement industry.

Such targeted persons do not have the resources and skills that would require serious “tradecraft” on the part of the perpetrators. Any brown-noser who can follow orders and keep a secret could perform this level of dirty work. Surveillance Role Players would seem to fit the bill.

Training the lowest-level perps

Most of the employment announcements I have seen for SRPs state that one element of the job is training others. That too is consistent with observable activities associated with organized stalking. Acts of harassment done for psychological operations purposes are often perpetrated by someone having only a single momentary interaction with the target. For example, someone unknown to the victim makes some particular comment or performs some act of rudeness, or simply glares at the victim. Such persons are probably ignorant of why the victim is supposedly even being targeted.

Perhaps SRPs orchestrate and delegate those minor acts of “no-touch torture” which collectively make up what the Stasi referred to as “zersetzung” - the process of systematically degrading the target’s morale.

Many Surveillance Role Player job ads - such as the one below - indicate that the work is part-time. That would make sense for this type of work for several reasons. For one thing, a part-time job would be easier to conceal from the public. Also, it is possible that harassing people full-time might be a bit demoralizing for all but the most purely sadistic CI agents. Some cops frequently behave as bullies, but few people could spend all 40 hours of their work week perpetrating acts of harassment.

Of course, an additional practical reason for restricting employees to part-time status is that it greatly reduces the obligation to provide benefits for them.

Note also that the job ad below states that one element of the work is to “coordinate with local law enforcement.” If SRPs are stalking people, they would inevitably need to sometimes coordinate their activities with police. Quite possibly, Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs) could be involved in some ways. As explained in detail in the section of this website about “red squads,” LEIUs have a long history in the U.S. of functioning as political enforcement agencies.

If any readers of this website have any insights about the precise nature of these jobs (which seem never to be discussed in the mainstream news media), I welcome them. Obviously, it’s pure speculation from my perspective that they are possibly connected with organized stalking, but such a connection would neatly answer these three questions:

“What do surveillance role players do?”

“Who perpetrates organized stalking?”

“How do the stalkers maintain the secrecy of their operations?”

SRP job announcements do not indicate which U.S. government department or agency is the client. The most likely entity would be the Department of Homeland Security.

Gang stalking crosses multiple boundaries: geographical, jurisdictional, legal, and moral. My guess is that the participants are primarily motivated by the financial benefits, but also by the notion that they are part of a secret group which is essentially above the law, and which imposes what they see as a moral punishment on dissidents. They are America's more cowardly and more secretive version of the Taliban.

The professional caliber of Surveillance Role Players

Players in this game are not exactly members of the premier league in the intelligence business. First, spying (espionage) is traditionally regarded within the intelligence community as a more prestigious occupation than counterintelligence work.

Secondly, for obvious reasons, domestic counterintelligence operations are less challenging than foreign counterintelligence operations. Even those who argue that counterintelligence work deserves to be taken more seriously, such as Roy Godson, acknowledge that distinction.

Some ads for SRPs list a college degree among the qualifications, but many - such as the one below - require only a high school diploma. This means that former enlisted military personnel with counterintelligence (CI) training can easily make some good money relative to their education level as SRPs - possibly by harassing and spying on their fellow citizens. That would be tempting for a certain type of person during any period, but especially in today's relatively weak job market.

Finally, counterintelligence subversion which targets amateurs (non-intelligence professionals) who have very limited assets is by definition the easiest work of all. Unlike covert operations - which must be conducted without being detected by the targets - organized stalking involves overt harassment, so the level of "tradecraft" required is relatively primitive.

Being a gang stalking perp is several rungs down the ladder from being the protagonist in a John le Carré novel.

Goldilocks' porridge temperature IQ

Sometimes it is better from an employer's perspective to hire people who do not think too deeply about the business in which they are involved.

One of the mistakes made by the National Security Agency (NSA) that led to the scandalous revelations of its Big Brother spying programs in 2013 was that the agency permitted one of its contractor firms - Booz Allen Hamilton Inc. - to hire an employee who was exceptionally intelligent.

Edward Snowden was smart enough to not only understand the information technology aspect of the spy agency, but also to perceive how morally corrupt and unconstitutional the surveillance system was, and how to expose the whole slimy business to the public.

Corporations who employ Surveillance Role Players quite possibly seek to hire people smart enough to carry out orders, but not smart enough to consider the philosophical implications associated with a Stasi-type system of political enforcement.

This phenomenon is definitely at work in the law enforcement industry. One example is a federal lawsuit by a police department applicant in Connecticut. A man was denied the opportunity to apply for a job with the New London Police Department on the grounds that he was too intelligent. As a matter of policy, the police department only interviewed candidates who were just slightly above average in intelligence "on the theory that those who scored too high could get bored with police work and leave soon after undergoing costly training."

In August 2000, a federal appeals court ruled that the policy was legitimate.

The moral character of security contractors

Admittedly, the possible participation of SRPs in counterintelligence stalking is purely speculative for now. On the other hand, there are well-documented cases of lawlessness and minimal oversight among military, security, and intelligence contractors, so one does not have to wonder about the plausibility of such involvement.

A perfect example of contractors with secret clearances performing dirty work for the federal government was a June 2014 report by Pulitzer Prize-winning New York Times journalist James Risen. The article documented how the mercenary soldier corporation formerly known as Blackwater operated with legal impunity in Iraq.

Several weeks before an infamous incident in which Blackwater personnel killed 17 civilians in Baghdad in 2007, the U.S. State Department had begun investigating the corporation's misconduct and lack of oversight. However, American Embassy officials pulled the plug on that investigation and ordered the investigators to immediately leave the country. That move followed a rather interesting exchange between a Blackwater official and an investigator:

… the inquiry was abandoned after Blackwater's top manager there issued a threat: "that he could kill" the government's chief investigator and "no one could or would do anything about it as we were in Iraq," according to department reports.

The death threat - which was made by a former member of SEAL Team 6 - was witnessed by another investigator. Despite having the statements of the investigators - as well as a long list of other examples of serious misconduct by Blackwater employees, the State Department never even interviewed either of the investigators during its inquiry.

The attitude among Blackwater employees - whose corporation had a contract worth over $1 billion to protect American diplomats - was described by the lead investigator as follows:

"Blackwater contractors saw themselves as above the law," he said, adding that the "hands off" management resulted in a situation in which "the contractors, instead of Department officials, are in command and in control."

Although most of us can only speculate about a connection between Surveillance Role Players and Cointelpro stalking, Americans should at least be curious why their government is constantly hiring people with counterintelligence training and secret clearances for unspecified activities within the U.S.

Journalists especially ought to investigate this mystery - if only out of professional curiosity.

U.S. Military Counterintelligence Agents

Military CI Agent

Where do intelligence-security contractor firms find the aforementioned “surveillance role players?” Since the qualifications include counterintelligence training and secret clearances, the most obvious source of personnel would be former military counterintelligence agents. In fact, the job announcements - such as the one shown above - specifically state that applicants with military experience are “highly desired.” For someone who is a former military CI agent, domestic spying offers an opportunity for easy money and power.

The Military Counterintelligence Agencies

Each branch of the military has a component responsible for counterintelligence:

U.S. Army Counterintelligence
Office of Special Investigations (Air Force)
Naval Criminal Investigative Service (Navy & Marine Corps)

US Army Intelligence Insignia

US Air Force OSI Insignia

US Navy - NCIS Insignia

Agents in each of the branches are federal law enforcement officers. They conduct the operations and investigations in their respective branches aimed at disrupting such crimes as espionage and sabotage, and they also handle other criminal matters.

This is the badge carried by Army Counterintelligence Special Agents:

Cashing In

CI stands for counterintelligence; it also stands for “cashing in.”

Imagine for a moment that you are a military intelligence agent who is either close to leaving the military or has recently left the military (or you are transitioning from full-time active duty status to that of a part-time active reservist). Now imagine you are told that you can work either full-time or part-time for an intelligence-security contractor and make good money for relatively easy work. (Harassing and spying on civilians in your own country is presumably a bit easier than working on counterintelligence operations in say, Afghanistan.)

Imagine further that you are the kind of person likely to be working in military counterintelligence to begin with - someone who can follow orders and keep a secret (and lie), and who does not question the morality of his or her work.

Keep in mind that the job proposal - working as a “surveillance role player” - offers the allure of participating in a secret program that operates outside the law - sort of a low-rent spy club.

The opportunity would be especially appealing to anyone whose marketable job skills are limited. A CI agent’s job training emphasizes things such as lying convincingly. That kind of skill set is not always in big demand outside of fields such as used-car sales and politics.

Further imagine that - just like J. Edgar Hoover and his thugs - you subscribe to the kind of reactionary authoritarian political outlook that enables you to rationalize perpetrating various unconstitutional actions against your fellow citizens. Morally, you can live with what you do because you have an authority figure - your boss at the security-intelligence firm (and more generally, the military-intelligence industrial establishment) sanctioning your activities. In short, you’re a minion of a larger program run by people smarter and more powerful than you, and as such you are not inclined to question the morality of it all. (It would be “above your pay grade” to think independently about such matters.)

You can see why a job as a “surveillance role player” might be very attractive to such a person. If the individual is fundamentally a bully as well, he or she will have found the promised land.

Domestic spying on American civilians by the U.S. military

Not only do U.S. military CI agents sometimes cash-in on their experience by working as intelligence-security contractors after they leave the military, some of them do some spying on American civilians while they are still on active duty.

Most Americans probably assume that the targets of spying by the U.S. military are exclusively foreign enemies. That is not always the case. For example, one of the scandals which led to the U.S. Senate's famous Church Committee investigations during the 1970s involved U.S. Army intelligence agents getting caught spying on anti-war protesters.

About a decade ago, news reports began to emerge about efforts by the Defense Department to quietly loosen restrictions on its ability to conduct domestic spying. In June 2004, Newsweek reported the following:

"Without any public hearing or debate, NEWSWEEK has learned, Defense officials recently slipped a provision into a bill before Congress that could vastly expand the Pentagon's ability to gather intelligence inside the United States, including recruiting citizens as informants."

Allegations of political spying by military contractors have also been in the news in recent years. This lawsuit in Washington State for example, accused two civilian employees of the U.S. Army of spying on anti-war protesters. The case was dismissed in June 2014, but the plaintiffs are appealing the decision.

Larry Hildes, the lead attorney for the plaintiffs, had some interesting comments about the case, as reported in this write-up.

Hildes and [co-counsel] Hendricks say there are dossiers and PowerPoint presentations on some of the demonstrators that made the rounds at domestic terrorism conferences.

Some of the depositions of Army personnel, Hildes says, "are amazing." One colonel, he says, said "of course we monitor the peace movement because they're anti-military and might demonstrate against us." Another, Hildes says, "was like something out of Dr. Strangelove. 'There are no limits in intelligence-sharing to defend the homeland.' He said that three times!"

Hildes says another Army official bragged about their effectiveness in disrupting the lives of PMR demonstrators to her bosses in the Pentagon—and that there was a PMR task force at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. “There’s no way they weren’t duplicating this model other places,” he says.

If Judge Leighton’s current ruling stands, Hildes says, “the Army can take any peace group, where any member of it has ever engaged in civil disobedience, which is probably most peace groups in the country, and spy on them as much as they want, gather personal information as much as they want, label them as terrorists as much as they want, and everything is okay. Nothing’s out of bounds. The ground where the First Amendment and Fourth Amendment coexist to protect dissent, if this ruling stands, will be gone.”

Here is a deposition from the case which is an interesting read. It appears that just being an anti-war activist was enough to get someone designated as a surveillance target - which also involved having security personnel gather information about the activist’s friends and relatives.

John Towery Deposition

Gang stalking by active duty military intelligence agents

The cover article of the September 2013 issue (U.K. edition) of the magazine Fortean Times was called “Strange Tales of Homeland Security.” As the blurb on the cover made clear, the piece was about “State-Sponsored Gangstalking.” The author - Robert Guffey, a faculty member of the English department at California State University Long Beach - gave a detailed account of a gang stalking case which involved the U.S. military.

A marine had gone AWOL after stealing some sensitive military property - including night vision goggles and a laptop containing classfied information. Apparently the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) initiated an organized stalking campaign against the suspect and his associates as well as an investigation. Various psychological operations tactics were used, such as overt stalking, in addition to some far more exotic methods.

So there is at least one credible published report of intense gang stalking being used by a U.S. military counterintelligence agency against an American citizen. Possibly the operations were intended to serve as both a form of extra-judicial punishment and as experimentation.

Click here to download a copy of the article as a Word document. (The article is behind a subscription pay-wall at the Fortean Times website.)

Strange Tales of Homeland Security by Robert Guffey

Connections between U.S. military intelligence agencies and Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs)

Most accounts of organized stalking include reports of sophisticated electronic surveillance, black bag operations, and exotic weapons. As noted in the previous section on LEIUs, former CIA analyst and expert on the history of spying in America, George O'Toole, offered an insight into how such tactics and equipment are acquired by police department intelligence units. Writing in 1979, O'Toole said this:

"U.S. Army Intelligence, which in the recent past has shown a disturbing propensity for spying on Americans, is more than a little chummy with the local cops in many cities. The Army trained several Baltimore intelligence-squad officers in techniques of electronic eavesdropping and surreptitious entry at its Fort Holabird spy school in Maryland. In return, the Baltimore cops passed along many of their intelligence reports to the army. In Chicago the Red Squad was in daily contact with the army's 113th Military Intelligence Group during the late 1960s and early 1970s, passing along intelligence reports and receiving a variety of technical assistance."

U.S. military intelligence agency databases about American civilians

In March 2014 the Washington Examiner reported that the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) maintains a huge database which tracks civilian law enforcement records - including even minor offenses such as parking tickets. At the time of the report, the database already contained over 500 million entries.

The article quotes Eugene Fidell, who teaches military law at Yale Law School, describing the military's current policy as "domestic spying."

"Clearly, it cannot be right that any part of the Navy is collecting traffic citation information," Fidell said. "This sounds like something from a third-world country, where you have powerful military intelligence watching everybody."

Criminal "Informants" (Street-Level Perps)

My comments on this subject are mostly speculative, but are based on first-hand experience as a target of illegal harassment by members of America's security industry.

Criminal "informants" are the pawns on the counterintelligence chessboard. In a legitimate counterintelligence operation, an informant might have useful information and contacts - and therefore, be comparable to a more valuable chess piece, but in "gang stalking," the perpetrators are expendable. Very likely, ex-convicts - over whom authorities have leverage - are used for some of the acts of overt stalking of counterintelligence targets. Potential pawns of this sort are never in short supply in America - a nation with one of the world's highest per capita rates of incarceration.

Quite possibly, "informants" are the "students" referred to in the previously-discussed job descriptions for Surveillance Role Players (SRPs). The SRPs probably delegate much of the street-level harassment to rodents even lower on the food chain than themselves. This creates a perfect system of plausible deniability; the perpetrators seen by the target are unknown to the target, and the identities of the SRPs are unknown to the informants. Very likely, the security agent simply gives some cash to the perpetrator for executing some one-time act of harassment - such as making a comment which would be meaningless to anyone except the target, such as a reference to something learned by illegal surveillance. In other cases, the perpetrator might cut-off or bump the target in pedestrian traffic as a form of psychological warfare. Again, the contacts would be meaningless to outside observers, and virtually impossible to prove. Also - and this is critical: The street-level perpetrators have minimal credibility because of their backgrounds, so they pose little threat of exposing the operations.

Finally, this type of perpetrator is basically expendable from the perspective of the security agency (public or private) which uses him or her. If the “student” gets injured or killed, or captured, no one in a position of power will really care. If you want to get an idea of how America’s law enforcement industry views its informants, you should read this September 2012 New Yorker article about what local and federal police agencies did to 23-year-old Rachel Hoffman.

The fate of “informants” and other non-professionals recruited to participate in counterintelligence stalking cases - as distinguished from criminal investigation cases - is not easily ascertained because of the secrecy which surrounds such activity. Some of the published news reports cited on this website contain evidence that U.S. intelligence agencies might have orchestrated harassment campaigns in which informant perpetrators - and possibly others - were seriously injured or killed when the victims lashed out in response to the harassment. (For examples, see the news reports about the Washington Navy Yard shooting in 2013 cited in this webpage’s section on “Mobbing and Workplace Violence,” as well as the January 2014 stabbing in Manitoba, Canada, and the November 2014 shooting at Florida State University, cited in this webpage’s section about “Published News Reports.”)

Helpful Tips

Based on my own observations, and credible accounts shared with me by other self-proclaimed victims of government stalking, many low-level perpetrators are apparently rotated by the agents and contractors coordinating the harassment, so the target is not confronting the same individuals repeatedly. Even though a victim might be harassed daily, many of the stalkers only have a single instance of direct contact with the victim.

One of the implications of the apparently extensive use of multiple anonymous perpetrators for organized stalking is this: the corrupt members of public and private security organizations who orchestrate this form of crime apparently recognize the danger of using perpetrators who can be identified by the victim. Consequently, if you are a victim of this cowardly psychological terrorism, you should pay very close attention when perpetrators are used who are not anonymous. If someone whose identity is known to you has clearly been recruited to harass you (for example, if acts and comments by a neighbor, co-worker, landlord, local merchant, etc. are clearly intended to harass you), you should exploit that fact by making it very clear to that person - in a way that does not constitute an illegal threat - that you know he or she is perpetrating crimes against you. Even if that particular individual's participation in the harassment discontinues, you should "stay in touch" with the person, and make clear (subtly) that you remember exactly what he or she did for the Stasi. An easy - and legal - way to do this is by anonymously mailing a flyer about this website to the person. You could even hand a copy of the flyer to him or her, and just mention that you saw it and thought it was interesting. Don't elaborate or discuss it. You won't need to.

That will create problems for both the pawns and their puppet-masters, neither of whom will be comfortable with spreading information about what they are doing.

Terrorism Liaison Officers (TLOs)

TLO

Since 2008, America's "national security" personnel include "Terrorism Liaison Officers." As explained on this website of a regional information-sharing network, TLOs are designated police officers, firefighters, paramedics, utility workers, and others trained to report "suspicious activity" to a national government database - the network of data fusion centers.

As the Denver Post reported, the "suspicious activity" could be simply taking photos or expressing "extremist beliefs." One of the concerns about this policy was expressed by the director of the Electronic Privacy Information Center, John Verdi:

“The problem is, you’re drafting individuals whose job isn’t law enforcement to spy on ordinary Americans and report their activities to the government.”

Be discrete if you are ever taking notes. Apparently, that is also one of the forms of “suspicious activity.”

Whether some TLOs might also be directly involved - officially or unofficially - in counterintelligence harassment, is impossible to say. It is not hard to imagine such involvement though for the kind of person who would volunteer to be the designated reporter of “suspicious” citizens to Big Brother.

Police Officers

cop (cropped)

Participation of local police officers in extra-judicial enforcement activities has a long and well-documented history in the U.S. As previously discussed, counterintelligence units within urban police departments - called “Red Squads” - date back to the 1800s.

Historically, many of the spying and subversion operations of Red Squads targets political dissidents rather than organized crime groups. Such activities by local police departments continues today - although the police squads are now more commonly referred to as “Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs).”

Not surprisingly, large cities such as Los Angeles and New York have the most extensive intelligence operations, although even small police departments are increasingly involved in the “national security” infrastructure because of federal grants from the Department of Homeland Security (DHS).

Money from the DHS creates a massive pig trough - excuse the pun - for local law enforcement agencies, and has greatly contributed to the militarization of police departments. DHS funding enables towns such as Keene, New Hampshire - population 23,000 - to purchase armored personnel carriers, for example.

Having police departments arm themselves with military weapons is disturbing, but the far more dangerous trend is the expansion of spying on citizens by local police, which is being encouraged at the federal level.

Local police departments participate in organized stalking of targeted individuals. In some cases they perpetrate stalking operations purely for local personal agendas - instead of as part of an unconstitutional, but ostensibly security-related program. The clearest example of this was the previously-mentioned 2011 case in Stockton, California, which was covered in local TV and newspaper reports. Cops stalked the city manager to punish him for not granting them a sufficiently generous compensation package.

That the local police officers resorted to creepy psychological operations tactics is significant; it did not happen randomly. The cops in Stockton were apparently familiar with psyops tactics, and they were used to getting away with such behavior.

Here is the TV news report about gang stalking by the Stockton police:

Sometimes the role of local police in gang stalking operations is to simply look the other way while others (federal agents or their private intelligence contractors) perpetrate their crimes. This was apparently the case when the feds were terrorizing Jacob Appelbaum and his girlfriend in June 2011.

Appelbaum is a prominent activist associated with WikiLeaks and with Tor (the anonymous web-browsing network). Not surprisingly, the U.S. intelligence community is not fond of him since he is in the business of exposing their crimes. After a botched home invasion of the residence of Appelbaum’s girlfriend by federal agents in Seattle (while she was at home), Appelbaum tried to file a police report about the crime. The cops initially refused to even take a report about the incident, let alone investigate it. After several attempts, Appelbaum was able to force them to take a report, but only after the ACLU got involved on his behalf.

Although I cannot prove it, I personally experienced several unmistakable instances of local uniformed police officers in California overtly stalking me. This occurred in multiple jurisdictions. I often receive reports of similar crimes by police from readers of this website. I can imagine that the ACLU must receive similar reports, although they refuse to publicly discuss the issue. It should be remembered that the ACLU - although extremely helpful on a range of civil rights issues - played no role in the exposure of the first version of Cointelpro.

Anyone who might be skeptical about the willingness of cops to perpetrate crimes against their fellow citizens as part of counterintelligence operations should read about the assassinations of black political organizers Fred Hampton and Mark Clark in 1969. As part of the FBI's Cointelpro activities, 14 Chicago police officers raided the apartment in which the two men were sleeping, and shot them to death.

Furthermore, anyone who is skeptical that widespread gang stalking could occur without America's vigilant news media calling attention to it - and the public becoming outraged - should also consider that those assassinations were barely noticed by the public.

For a complete explanation of counterintelligence crimes perpetrated by police officers, see the section earlier in this overview about Red squads (Law Enforcement Intelligence Units).

Firefighters (cropped)

As noted above, firefighters sometimes participate in intelligence sharing as Terrorism Liaison Officers. Some accounts by victims of organized harassment (including one linked below which was reported on the ABC News TV program 20/20) suggest that firefighters also sometimes participate in the systematic harassment of targeted individuals.

In the case of police officers, I have first-hand knowledge that some participate in organized stalking. Moreover, you don't need to take my word for it since I have included several published news reports on this website which make the same point. In the case of firefighters, the extent of their involvement is less clear, but several facts make it plausible that they sometimes function as gang stalking perps.

For one thing, a pilot program to have firefighters gather and share security intelligence was launched by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) in 2006. Apparently, a complete national framework for “suspicious activity reporting” by first-responders has not been fully worked out, but some fire department officials have taken a great interest in the program.

If you have a traditional (non-police state) view of America, you might have difficulty wrapping your mind around the notion that firefighters, paramedics, and utility workers are spying upon - let alone stalking and harassing - their fellow Americans. For an example of the thinking behind using first-responders as spies - and an overview of the main elements of the national intelligence-gathering infrastructure - you can read the following document.

Below is a Naval Postgraduate School master’s thesis written in 2012 by Joshua M. Dennis, a Chicago Fire Department chief. In his thesis, Mr. Dennis seeks to clarify the role of the U.S. Fire Service in the intelligence community.

Incidentally, the Naval Postgraduate School is apparently something of a firefighter spy academy. If you perform a Google search for similar theses, you can find several.

Fire Service Intelligence

Hat-tip to the blog Cryptoscatology for highlighting that document.

An example of the kind of suspicious things for which firefighters are supposed to be looking is given in the May 2010 issue of Homeland Security Affairs:

“Unusual documents for the occupancy type: especially maps, books, blueprints, literature…of critical infrastructures.”

So if firefighters visit your apartment building some day - for a periodic safety inspection, or in response to a false fire alarm - don’t be surprised if you notice them taking a keen interest in your reading material as they pass through.

Fire departments also participate - presumably both as providers and users of information - in the nation’s system of data fusion centers. A May 2014 article in the New York Times describes those fusion centers as follows:

The nation’s 78 fusion centers — which have received hundreds of millions of dollars from the Department of Homeland Security and other federal agencies, as well as money from state governments — are run by state and local authorities…..Many centers….can involve dozens of officials from police and fire departments, federal agencies and private companies….[emphasis added]

Another indication of the law enforcement and surveillance role of fire departments in the new Big Brother version of America is that some fire departments apparently have subpoena powers. We know this because, for example, the Fire Department of New York used its subpoena powers to spy on the cell phone records of a whistle-blower in what appears to have been an effort at retaliation.

ABC News TV Report: Corrupt Firefighters Harassing Ohio Couple

This news report broadcast in May 2014 gives a clear example of firefighters participating in organized stalking. As in the previously-mentioned incident involving gang stalking by local police in Stockton, California in 2011, this Ohio case was done for personal vengeance.

In Hubbard, Ohio a couple was systematically tormented for 7 years in a harassment campaign orchestrated by the town's fire chief. Apparently, he was angry at the couple because of a real estate dispute. He enlisted other firefighters, police officers, and local residents to terrorize the couple by having people drive by the victims' home at all hours honking their horns.

The harassment - which the couple thoroughly documented on video - resulted in legal claims which were still pending at the time of the news reports. The couple's website includes the official reports and overwhelmingly-convincing video evidence of their systematic harassment by corrupt firefighters and corrupt police officers.

This 2-minute video perfectly illustrates the relentless harassment:

Public image versus reality

A large gap often exists between the public's perception and reality regarding first-responders (firefighters, police officers, and paramedics). Those professions contain their share of good people - and even heroes, but there is a significant bad element that tends to be underestimated.

When you consider reports such as the one above, and not-infrequent reports of corruption, nepotism, racism, brutality, and an often “tribal” culture among first-responders, you realize: allegations that such people perpetrate organized harassment - both the professional and vigilante varieties - are not at all far-fetched.

InfraGard & DSAC Members

excellent

As mentioned in the introduction of this overview, two corporate associations - InfraGard and DSAC - have partnerships with the FBI and Homeland Security to share intelligence. Apparently, certain trusted individuals in the participating corporations are granted special membership status by the FBI - complete with ID cards - and have privileged access to information and direct communication with the FBI.

As a practical matter, this very likely means that if one of these elite members of the business community decides to have someone targeted for an “investigation” they could simply tell the FBI that they have concerns that the individual represents what counterintelligence agents call “an insider threat” - meaning that an employee is suspected of being likely to steal proprietary information or that he or she is a “disgruntled employee” or has “extremist beliefs” and poses a safety or national security risk.

For a detailed explanation of this unholy alliance, I recommend reading this May 2013 report from the Center for Media and Democracy, which reported that certain corporations apparently exploited this partnership to use the FBI as a weapon against their political adversary, the Occupy Wall Street Movement.

In a 2009 TV program, Jesse Ventura, the former governor of Minnesota, interviewed Matthew Rothschild, senior editor of the Progressive about InfraGard. Ventura also confronted a member of InfraGard regarding the partnership’s obvious potential for abuse of power. The relevant section begins 25 minutes into this video clip.

If you suspect that your boss - or former boss - might have arranged to have you blacklisted, you should definitely watch this.

If the video becomes unavailable at the above link, and you want to search for it, this is the information: Conspiracy Theory with

Threat Assessment Teams

Witch Trial

An early example of a Threat Assessment Team: peasants at a witch trial in “Monty Python and the Holy Grail”

As mentioned in the section above on selection of targeted individuals, a Threat Assessment Team (TAT) is a small group of designated staff members in an organization (public or private) which attempts to assess whether certain individuals in the organization pose a threat.

As the page about TATs in the FBI’s website makes clear, these groups are expected to work with law enforcement agencies to share their suspicions that an individual is likely to commit a crime in the future.

If the members of the TAT are also members of InfraGard or DSAC - or if they have an informal connection to a law enforcement or security agency, it would presumably not be unlikely that the suspicious individual would find his or her way onto a watch list of some sort.

Of course, it’s purely speculative how such a process might play out regarding organized stalking, but the U.S. law enforcement business is now so secretive that speculation is often the only option to try to understand it.

Citizen Spies

DHS Poster

Department of Homeland Security Poster

Snitch Programs

Clearly the government also makes extensive use of citizen informants. An obvious example of this was the Department of Homeland Security’s public awareness campaign introduced in 2010 encouraging citizens to report anything suspicious: “If you see something, say something”

State and local governments have followed the feds’ lead (and used the feds’ money) to promote a “snitch” culture - such as this Florida program to encourage residents to spy on their neighbors.

Naturally, such programs could have a corrosive effect on the inclination of Americans trust each other. That general level of trust ought to be a concern for everyone, since it has declined in recent decades. An Associated Press poll published in November 2013 found that the segment of America’s population which believes that “most people can be trusted” had fallen from half (in 1972) to one-third.

Public awareness programs designed to encourage people to become snitches are bad enough, but even more disturbing are secret programs in which citizens are paid to function as part-time spies to gather information on their fellow Americans.

Such programs date back to at least the Cointelpro era. Chicago Daily News Columnist Mike Royko reported on one political activist targeted in Chicago in 1970 who obtained information (perhaps through a Freedom of Information Act request) from the FBI about her record. She discovered that she had been spied upon by the “Welcome Wagon” lady who had met her when she moved into a new neighborhood. (Welcome Wagon is a company which promotes local businesses. From the late 1920s until the late 1990s, they sent “hostesses” to visit new homeowners and give them gift baskets with samples and coupons.)

Incidentally, Mike Royko - whose quote appears at the top of the homepage of Fight Gang Stalking - was also a target of government spying. He was apparently being followed by Chicago’s Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit (LEIU). Apparently, the FBI did not approve of Royko’s columns, which sometimes criticized the agency. Eventually, the FBI had an 86-page file on Mike Royko, who died in 1997 at age 64.

A Brigade of Snitches: The American Protective League

Most Americans are unaware of the U.S. government’s history of using its citizens to spy on each other. A prime example of this phenomenon was the American Protective League:

During World War I some 250,000 volunteers joined the units that made up the American Protective League (APL). This private organization, which had nearly 100,000 members in 600 cities by 1917, worked with the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation to identify war saboteurs and alien spies.

Wearing badges that looked official, the volunteers soon expanded their mission. They conducted surveillance, and harassed, intimidated and "arrested" people whose loyalty was questioned, perhaps because they refused to buy Liberty Bonds. The APL staged raids on factories, union halls, and private homes, and detained more than 40,000 people, including draft dodgers, for the War Department.

Boy Scout Merit Badges for Snitching

Nazi Boy Scout

Volunteer members of the American Protective League (see above) were issued U.S. government ID cards. Another group of volunteer snitches who were issued government ID cards was described in a June 2013 blog entry on The New York Review of Books website:

"In the 1960s in Rochester, New York, the local police department launched Operation SAFE (Scout Awareness for Emergency). It involved twenty thousand boy scouts living in the vicinity of Rochester. They got identification cards marked with their thumb prints. On the cards were the telephone numbers of the local police and the FBI. The scouts participating in the program were given a list of suspicious activities that they were to report."

Letter from an Anonymous Snitch

Just as the Stasi received intelligence from volunteer snitches in communist East Germany, so did the FBI during J. Edgar Hoover's reign (and no doubt still do today). Here is an example of that kind of tip. The following letter is included in the FBI file obtained through a Freedom of Information request about Bella Abzug, a progressive activist who was a member of the House of Representatives during the mid-1970s.

The anonymous letter is from a college classmate of Abzug who identifies himself or herself as "Pro-F.B.I." Apparently, he or she deemed Ms. Abzug to be insufficiently fascistic, and therefore someone on whom the agency should definitely spy.

Snitch Letter

Hat tip to Matt Stoller, who highlighted this document in his blog in March 2014.

Motivations for becoming a snitch

Based on my own observations and on speculation about what would be a logical (and in some cases necessary) use of resources for a counterintelligence operation, it seems that some of the people who participate - at least in small ways - in the stalking are civilians who are presumably told they are assisting in an investigation or a “neighborhood watch” type program.

No doubt such neighbors of the targeted individual would not think of themselves as “vigilantes” even though they are in fact participating in an illegal conspiracy designed to inflict extra-judicial punishment.

The motivations of a particular stalker are probably often unrelated to the reason the targeted individual was blacklisted in the first place. While the victim may have been targeted simply because he or she crossed someone with connections and money, the perpetrators - including the victim’s neighbors, associates, relatives, etc. - can simply be told various lies about the victim. Those lies can be tailored to fit the particular person or groups of persons being recruited to participate in the harassment.

New snitch programs

In September 2014, the Justice Department announced a new plan to root out all the potential terrorists in America by implementing a program of “community-led interventions.” If that sounds like it might lead to Stasi-type witch hunts, don’t worry; Attorney General Eric Holder assures us that this “innovative and aggressive” program will be guided by “democratic values.”

The Whole Stasi Gang

entire goon squad

The full list of groups who either passively acquiesce or actively participate in “gang stalking” - for money or as volunteers - probably looks something like this:

1) Federal law enforcement & intelligence agencies
. (DOJ, FBI, DHS, CIA, NSA, etc.)

2) Intelligence-security contractors
. (including “Surveillance Role Players”)

3) Military counterintelligence agents

4) Criminal informants

5) InfraGard & DSAC members & Threat Assessment Team members

6) Terrorism Liaison Officers

7) Police officers
. (Law Enforcement Intelligence Units & patrol officers)

8) Firefighters

9) Private investigators

10) Neighbors, landlords, merchants, co-workers, and even relatives of the victim. In some cases, these persons are apparently recruited under the pretense that they are participating in an “investigation” or a neighborhood watch program.

11) Others informally recruited to assist - such as friends, relatives, and business associates of persons in one of the other categories

A person in category 10 or 11 is what East Germany’s Stasi agents referred to as an Inoffizielle Mitarbeiter - an unofficial collaborator.

Gang stalking perpetrators are an assortment of corrupt politicians, corrupt corporate executives, corrupt federal agents, corrupt cops, snitches, brown-nosers, bullies, liars, parasitic security contractors, sociopaths, psychopaths, traitors, and useful idiots. This is exactly what you would expect in a program refined by a communist secret police agency.

12. Social Conformity & Obedience to Authority
Nazi Soldiers

Nazi soldiers invading Poland

“Blind belief in authority is the greatest enemy of truth.”
- Albert Einstein

People like to believe that the evil and stupid obedience displayed by people such as Hitler’s followers is far-removed from their own nature and culture. History and science suggest that is not the case.

Anyone wishing to understand gang stalking - or even to assess the plausibility of such a conspiracy - should briefly review the interesting (but disturbing) historical and scientific evidence on conformity and obedience.

History is filled with shocking manifestations of group-think - such as the Salem, Massachusetts witch trials. Examples of blind deference to authority include attrocities such as the “Rape of Nanking” in the 1930s, in which Japanese soldiers, sanctioned by their leaders, raped, tortured, and murdered thousand of Chinese civilians. Many infants were killed in front of their mothers in that massacre; sometimes the soldiers gouged-out the children’s eyes before killing them.

Literature is similarly filled with helpful examples of the evil and idiocy associated with group-think and obedience. William Golding’s Lord of the Flies is one iconic example.

Be this guy

The story behind this photograph

Psychology experiments show that it would be easy to recruit people to participate - as paid thugs or as vigilantes - in the organized harassment of targeted individuals. The social dynamics would be effective in a small workplace run by a psychopath manager, or on a large scale in an agency such as the FBI.

In fact, that was the conclusion of a previously-mentioned article in the September 2004 issue of the Sociological Forum. The authors found that agents in the original version of the FBI's Cointelpro operations targeted individuals for surveillance and harassment even when those individuals were not engaged in subversive activities. The targeting was done to please the authority figures higher up in the agency's food chain.

Two famous sets of experiments are of particular relevance here:

(1) Conformity experiments by social psychologist Solomon Asch

In Asch's experiments, students were asked to participate - along with others - in what was ostensibly a "vision test." Actually, the other participants were accomplices of the experimenter, and the study sought to find how the unsuspecting students would be influenced by the behavior of the others.

When asked to assess the relative lengths of lines displayed on cards, unsuspecting students were frequently influenced by the responses of the accomplices around them. In other words, people often changed their beliefs about what they had seen when the group expressed an opinion at variance with their own. In a control group, with no pressure to conform, few of the subjects gave incorrect answers. A majority (75 percent) of the subjects gave an incorrect answer to at least one question when surrounded by others expressing the wrong answer.

Asch Experiments

(2) Obedience to authority figures experiments by psychologist Stanley Milgram

In Milgram's experiments, participants were led to believe that they were administering small electrical shocks to a person being tested, and that the voltage was being incrementally increased with each delivery of the shock. The experiment (and other similar subsequent experiments by others) found that most people (61 to 66 percent) will administer a fatal electrical shock to an innocent person purely out of deference to authority.

“The disappearance of a sense of responsibility is the most far-reaching consequence of submission to authority.” - Stanley Milgram

Anyone skeptical - despite such findings - about how easy it is to manipulate average citizens to do very bad things to people they don’t know should watch this video clip from an ABC TV program on the subject. The video features a private investigator-type person (not unlike the people who manage Cointelpro stalking operations presumably) portraying himself as a law enforcement officer, and easily persuading people to participate in serious crimes against strangers.

The fascist element of the U.S. intelligence community, law enforcement community, and military-industrial complex

As a former member of the U.S. military who also worked as a security contractor, I can say with some authority that many of the people in those professions have both integrity and intelligence.

Unfortunately though, such career fields - and I’m sure this applies to intelligence and law enforcement agencies such as the FBI and CIA as well - have more than their share of the type of folks described here by journalist Chris Hedges. Having spent a couple of decades as a war correspondent, he understands the mentality and character of authoritarian careerists.

Hedges’ observations apply not only to military officers, but also to the related professions of law enforcement and domestic spying as well.

“Most institutions have a propensity to promote mediocrities, those whose primary strengths are knowing where power lies, being subservient and obsequious to the centers of power and never letting morality get in the way of one’s career. The military is the worst in this respect. In the military, whether at the Paris Island boot camp or West Point, you are trained not to think but to obey. What amazes me about the military is how stupid and bovine its senior officers are. Those with brains and the willingness to use them seem to be pushed out long before they can rise to the senior-officer ranks. The many Army generals I met over the years not only lacked the most rudimentary creativity and independence of thought but nearly always saw the press, as well as an informed public, as impinging on their love of order, regimentation, unwavering obedience to authority and single-minded use of force to solve complex problems.”

Here is the full article at truthdig.

Authoritarian Personality Type

The Authoritarians (Cropped)

Participants in the original Cointelpro and its current form - gang stalking - have what psychologists sometimes refer to as an “authoritarian personality.”

Robert Altemeyer, an associate professor of psychology at the University of Manitoba, has studied this subject extensively. An October 2004 article in Reason describes his findings about the authoritarian type personality:

“….authoritarians are cognitively rigid, aggressive, and intolerant. They are characterized by steadfast conformity to group norms, submission to higher status individuals, and aggression toward out-groups and unconventional group members.”

The article notes that Altemeyer’s views were confirmed by research at the University of California at Berkeley, where they found that such people - who are typically very conservative politically - have common psychological factors described by the article’s author as follows:

“fear and aggression, dogmatism and intolerance of ambiguity, uncertainty avoidance, need for cognitive closure, and terror management that causes conservatives to shun and even punish outsiders and those who threaten the status of their cherished world views.”

Dr. Altemeyer wrote a book on this subject called The Authoritarians (2006). In his book, he makes clear that his references to “right-wing” authoritarian followers is a psychological - not ideological - category. Citizens in communist East Germany who served as informants for the Stasi (state police) were “authoritarians” just like far-right kooks in America today who participate in organized stalking. Because they are subservient to authority figures, such people are easily manipulated by those in power.

Professor Altemeyer generously made his book available to the public as a free pdf document: The Authoritarians

Authoritarian Tribalism Versus Respect for Legitimate Authority

A fundamental distinction deserves to be made here explicitly. The perspective of “authoritarian” perpetrators of organized stalking has nothing to do with respect for legitimate authority. Corrupt members of U.S. intelligence agencies, law enforcement agencies, and their security contractor associates are not motivated by concerns about public safety or national security - let alone respect for the law. They mostly value the paychecks they receive for “work” that involves minimal effort or risk. To the extent that they have any loyalty, it is not to their country, but to their fellow corrupt pigs. It probably is true that a fair number of the perpetrators do have right-wing political views which could be vaguely characterized as “authoritarian,” but it would be giving them too much intellectual credit to ascribe their bullying to some philosophical vision - even a fascistic un-American one. Perpetrators of COINTELPRO/MK Ultra-type harassment are just criminals with badges; they’re drunk with power and they serve their own interests.

Personality & Character Traits of Counterintelligence Stalkers

Authoritarian personality-type folks are exactly whom you would expect to find in the ranks of a counterintelligence agency (and its contractor firms). Based partly on inference and partly on first-hand observation, here are some of their key traits:

Subservience

As Stanley Milgram’s experiment found, people who can be induced by authority figures to commit acts of unwarranted cruelty are as common as manure at a cattle ranch. People who seek employment in a counterintelligence agency such as the FBI or DHS (or one of their security contractor firms) are especially likely to fit this profile. The previously-mentioned Sociological Forum article regarding the original Cointelpro program seemed to confirm this.

Cowardice

A person would not necessarily have to be a coward to participate in the kind of harassment associated with the current version of Cointelpro (“gang stalking”); however, he or she would also not need to be courageous. A cowardly sociopath would be a perfect fit. The “work” is neither physically dangerous nor legally risky. Author Douglas Valentine perfectly described the type of person often drawn to U.S. intelligence agencies - namely, someone who is excited by the prospect of engaging in lawless behavior without the legal jeopardy that usually entails: “a sociopath without the guts to go it alone in the underworld.”

Counterintelligence agents such as “Surveillance Role Players” who perpetrate gang stalking are bullies, but they like to play close to mommy’s apron where it’s safe.

Stupidity

Having worked for years in the corporate security industry (often with current and former law enforcement officers), I can tell you that a lot of people in such professions have the imagination, sense of humor, deep thinking capacity, and empathy of a cinder block. Having such a personality is not a sin of course, but it has consequences. People who are unable or unwilling to question what they are told by higher ranking authority figures are dangerous when serving in a corrupt power structure. The difference between constitutionally legitimate law enforcement and being a thug is too subtle for some people to grasp.

Sadism

“The connection between stupidity and cruelty is a close one.”

— Christopher Hitchens

I don’t have much to add to Hitchens’ observation. The tactics of organized stalking are intended as psychological torture, and the perpetrators are often just as stupid as you would expect such people to be.

Dishonesty

Deception can be an ethically legitimate element of a counterintelligence operation (or an undercover law enforcement operation); however, counterintelligence programs in the U.S. - in the past (Cointelpro), and currently (“gang stalking”), are frequently both immoral and illegal. The FBI's campaign to destroy the actress Jean Seberg by slandering her (for supporting the black civil rights movement) was a case in point. A rogue agency's classified internal memo that purports to sanction something that clearly violates the U.S. Constitution - and morality - does not make the activity legal. Lying as part of such an operation is just corruption. People who engage in such deception and get paid for it are just criminals.

Laziness

Counterintelligence stalking does not require technically complex operations. America's current version of Cointelpro mainly involves harassing individuals who lack the kind of resources and connections that would make them challenging or dangerous targets. Also, there are essentially no objective goals for security contractors who perform this kind of work; the firms which engage in this sleazy business are not expected to produce anything tangible. They receive their cash flow from the national security budget pig trough regardless of whether they do anything productive. Boondoggles are common in the military-industrial complex of course, but most contractors have to at least produce something, such as a tank or an airplane. Intelligence-security contractors sometimes only have to pretend that they are monitoring and countering actual threats.

Greed & Lust for Power

This is the core of organized stalking. Probably only the stupidest perpetrators of gang stalking are under any illusion that they are doing anything useful and legitimate; they're just thugs for a government which opinion polls show is regarded as corrupt by most Americans. "Surveillance Role Players" and their bosses have security clearances, so perhaps some of them convince themselves that they are special, but they are not an elite group; in 2013, over 5.1 million Americans had security clearances. Gang stalking perps are among the many parasites feeding at the massive "homeland security" pig trough.

"Except for an extraordinary diligence in looking out for his personal advancement, he had no motives at all."

- Hannah Arendt on Adolf Eichmann (one of the major organizers of the Holocaust)

In summary, the kind of people who participate in gang stalking are generally subservient, easily influenced by peer pressure, cowardly, stupid, sadistic, dishonest, lazy, and greedy. Apart from those traits though, they are probably fine people.

Blue Line

13. The U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) . and Gang Stalking

DOJ Fish

The moral character of the DOJ

A fish rots from the head - whether it's the Vatican covering up decades of child sex abuse by priests or the U.S. Justice Department sanctioning secret operations which violate the U.S. Constitution. The DOJ - one of America's 17 intelligence agencies - administers the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) - which the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) says "has a long history of abusing its national security surveillance powers." Whatever the exact organizational structure of the current illegal counterintelligence surveillance and harassment operations that are sometimes called "gang stalking," such operations would not be happening without the knowledge and approval of the DOJ.

In recent years, the DOJ has been justly criticized for its aggressive prosecution and intimidation of whistle-blowers and journalists who expose abuses of power by U.S. intelligence agencies. In 2012, for example, the Justice Department secretly seized two months of telephone records of reporters and editors of the Associated Press. James Goodale, a First Amendment lawyer who played a key role in the publication of the Pentagon Papers by The New York Times, made the case that the DOJ was essentially treating reporters as criminals.

As the ACLU points out though, such behavior is consistent with a long-established history. When Robert F. Kennedy was the U.S. Attorney General (i.e., head of the DOJ) in the 1960s, he authorized some of the original COINTELPRO operations, such as wiretaps on the home of Martin Luther King, Jr.

Corruption at the U.S. Department of Justice is a bipartisan phenomenon. In 1971, when civilian activists leaked secret FBI documents to the Washington Post which revealed crimes committed against Americans by the FBI during the COINTELPRO operations, U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell (who later served prison time for his role in the Watergate scandal) tried unsuccessfully to persuade the Post's executive editor Ben Bradlee not to disclose the documents.

Assessing the plausibility of the claim that the DOJ countenances a modern version of COINTELPRO ("gang stalking") requires looking at various examples of the moral character of the agency. Eric Holder, U.S. Attorney General from 2009 to 2015, is a good example of the kind of people who work at the DOJ, and - more generally - the kind of people who often infest the highest echelons of America's power structures. The approval of unconstitutional secret counterintelligence operations would not be out of character for someone like Holder. When he was President Clinton's Deputy Attorney General (1997 to 2001), he approved the pardon of Marc Rich - a wealthy investor who was indicted on 63 counts of tax evasion and other charges and fled to Switzerland to avoid prosecution. By all serious accounts, the only reason Clinton granted the pardon was that Rich's wife was a big donor to the Democratic Party. Even the opinion writers for The Washington Post - an establishment newspaper which is generally sympathetic to the Democrats - said the pardon should have precluded Holder from becoming President Obama's Attorney General. Richard Cohen wrote of the pardon:

"It suggests that Holder, whatever his other qualifications, could not say no to power. The Rich pardon request had power written all over it — the patronage of important Democratic fundraisers, for instance."

Sweeping the Dirt Under the Rug

Even the Justice Department's own internal affairs office - the Office of Professional Responsibility (OPR) - reports that hundreds of federal prosecutors and other DOJ employees violated laws, rules, and ethical principles over the decade from 2002 through 2013.

More than 400 of the instances they cited involved serious transgressions: recklessness or intentional misconduct. These included things such as failure to provide exculpatory evidence information to defendants, violation of Constitutional rights, and abuse of investigative authority.

In its review of the DOJ's findings, the Project on Government Oversight (POGO) made clear that the Justice Department also conceals some of its bad behavior from the public.

"As a general practice, the Justice Department does not make public the names of attorneys who acted improperly or the defendants whose cases were affected. The result: the Department, its lawyers, and the internal watchdog office itself are insulated from meaningful public scrutiny and accountability."

The report from POGO also quoted from a January 1993 Washington Post article, in which a government auditor described the secretive and dysfunctional nature of the DOJ's internal affairs office this way:

"The system they have in place could not be better for sweeping things under the rug."

Federal Judges Report Frequent Lying by DOJ Prosecutors

Most Americans give little thought to their nation's Department of Justice, except perhaps for high-profile cases with partisan political implications. Evidence of the DOJ's lack of integrity does not usually show up on the public's radar.

Federal judges however, often see examples of the moral rot at the DOJ, and have warned for decades that frequent misconduct by prosecutors undermines Constitutional protections of individuals' rights. A September 2010 article in USA Today reported on the effectiveness of a law enacted by Congress in 1997 intended to curb illegal conduct by prosecutors, such as lying and deliberately concealing evidence:

"…USA TODAY documented 201 criminal cases in the years that followed in which judges determined that Justice Department prosecutors — the nation's most elite and powerful law enforcement officials — themselves violated laws or ethics rules.

In case after case during that time, judges blasted prosecutors for "flagrant" or "outrageous" misconduct. They caught some prosecutors hiding evidence, found others lying to judges and juries, and said others had broken plea bargains.”

Why would federal prosecutors engage in misconduct? Part of the explanation is that when they get caught, they are unlikely to be fired - as noted in another article by USA Today, which also found that “the Justice Department consistently conceals its own investigations of misconduct from the public.”

Lying by the FBI

Since the DOJ oversees the FBI, it is not surprising that the latter also takes a very elastic view of its obligation to abide by the U.S. Constitution. One way they do this is to assert, when caught lying, that the deception is being done in the name of “national security.”

When various American Islamic organizations and individuals filed a FOIA (Freedom of Information Act) request in 2006 to determine if the FBI had engaged in illegal surveillance of them, the FBI concealed the existence of much of the material requested. In a lawsuit which followed, the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals found that the FBI lied to the plaintiffs and to the court about the existence of the documents sought.

When confronted with their deception, the FBI argued, in effect, that the agency should not be required to tell the truth in court if they feel that doing so could compromise national security interests. The court rejected that claim.

Anyone wondering about the plausibility of claims that federal law enforcement agencies acquiesce in gang stalking should consider the fact that such agencies sometimes explicitly assert that they are above the law.

DOJ’s Complicity in Spying and Lying by Private Intelligence Firms

Members of the Anonymous movement hacked into the emails of the cybersecurity firm HB Gary Federal In February 2011 after an executive at that firm boasted in the Financial Times that his company had infiltrated Anonymous and started to expose them.

One of the reports contained in the emails was a plan for HB Gary to work with several other security firms to destroy the whistleblower organization WikiLeaks. News reports had indicated that Wikileaks was planning to publish documents showing possible corruption and fraud at Bank of America, so the bank funded a “counterespionage” campaign against Wikileaks, which included hiring the large intelligence contractor firm Booz Allen, whose staff includes many former top officials from the intelligence community and the defense department.

One of the proposals was to create and plant fake documents to discredit Wikileaks. The plans also included hacking into Wikileaks’ computer systems. Another proposal was to “attack” and “disrupt” the career of journalist Glenn Greenwald to pressure him into abandoning his public support of Wikileaks.

Bank of America had hired the law firm Hunton & Williams - among the most well-connected law firms in the nation’s capital - to coordinate the bank’s war against Wikileaks at the recommendation of the DOJ.

Glenn Greenwald explained the serious implications of this network of government and corporate players in the private espionage business in a February 2011 article for Salon.com:

“What is set forth in these proposals for Bank of America quite possibly constitutes serious crimes. Manufacturing and submitting fake documents with the intent they be published likely constitutes forgery and fraud. Threatening the careers of journalists and activists in order to force them to be silent is possibly extortion and, depending on the specific means to be used, constitutes other crimes as well. Attacking WikiLeaks’ computer infrastructure in an attempt to compromise their sources undoubtedly violates numerous cyber laws.

Yet these firms had no compunction about proposing such measures to Bank of America and Hunton & Williams, and even writing them down. What accounts for that brazen disregard of risk? In this world, law does not exist as a constraint. It’s impossible to imagine the DOJ ever, ever prosecuting a huge entity like Bank of America for doing something like waging war against WikiLeaks and its supporters. These massive corporations and the firms that serve them have no fear of law or government because they control each.”

As Greenwald notes, a clear example of the extent to which the DOJ serves corporate interests rather than the interests of justice and the American public is the department's very different reactions to the cyber attacks on corporations versus an attack on Wikileaks:

"After Anonymous imposed some very minimal cyber disruptions on Paypal, Master Card and Amazon, the DOJ flamboyantly vowed to arrest the culprits, and several individuals were just arrested as part of those attacks. But weeks earlier, a far more damaging and serious cyber-attack was launched at WikiLeaks, knocking them offline. Those attacks were sophisticated and dangerous. Whoever did that was quite likely part of either a government agency or a large private entity acting at its behest. Yet the DOJ has never announced any investigation into those attacks or vowed to apprehend the culprits, and it's impossible to imagine that ever happening.

Why? Because crimes carried out that serve the Government's agenda and target its opponents are permitted and even encouraged; cyber-attacks are "crimes" only when undertaken by those whom the Government dislikes, but are perfectly permissible when the Government itself or those with a sympathetic agenda unleash them."

A November 2013 news report from Democracy Now! also asserted that private intelligence-security contractor firms are pretty much free to perpetrate crimes on behalf of their corporate clients without fear of legal punishment. A report by Gary Ruskin, director of the Center for Corporate Policy, a project of Essential Information, was the main subject of the segment.

"…these corporations employ former CIA, National Security Agency and FBI agents to engage in private surveillance work, which is often illegal in nature but rarely — if ever — prosecuted."

- Journalist Amy Goodman

The report explained that major U.S. corporations use spies to conduct surveillance (sometimes illegally) of non-profit organizations engaged in advocacy for causes such as anti-war policy, consumer rights, environmentalism, animal rights, and arms control.

Corporations engaging in this kind of espionage reportedly include Wal-Mart, Monsanto, Bank of America, Dow Chemical, Kraft, Coca-Cola, Chevron, Burger King, McDonald's, Shell, BP, and others - as well as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

America's Post-Constitutional Law Enforcement Paradigm

constitution on fire

A confluence of developments over the past couple of decades has led to a more militarized and secretive form of law enforcement in America. A counterintelligence subversion strategy of organized stalking is among the most extreme manifestations of the new paradigm.

The government's natural tendency to expand its size and power has been accelerated by the politics, profits, and career opportunities associated with the "War on Drugs" and the "War on Terrorism." At the same time, advances in technology have made possible highly invasive surveillance tools which create a constant temptation for abuse by people in the intelligence, law enforcement, and security industries.

Another development has been an erosion of traditional jurisdictional boundaries in law enforcement. By design, numerous federal and local law enforcement and intelligence agencies now work more closely with each other, and with the private contractors who provide much of the infrastructure, such as defense industry firms and private security firms.

U.S. law enforcement agencies rely heavily upon criminal informants - despite the obvious conflicts of interest that involves. Budgets and audits cited in the New York Times for example, showed that the FBI was using more than 15,000 secret informants in 2008, and the DEA (Drug Enforcement Adminstration) had about 4,000 criminal informants on its payroll in 2005.

By my own observations, and by anecdotal reports of others, gang stalking apparently makes extensive use of criminal informants. But those snitches are not being used by the FBI just to spy and inform; they are perpetrating acts of criminal harassment for the purposes of counterintelligence subversion.

Rather than working to ensure the protection of Americans' rights in this new Big Brother surveillance environment, the U.S. Department of Justice has done everything possible to enable the executive branch to increase its secrecy and power at the expense of Americans' civil liberties.

A variety of Orwellian legal weapons have emerged - always based on claims of national security. "Suspicious Activity Reports" are now filed by "Terrorism Liaison Officers" and sent to a network of regional "Data Fusion Centers" and reviewed by agents at the "Homeland Security Department."

Old-fashioned concepts in the Bill of Rights - like obtaining search warrants from judges - have been tossed aside. Now the FBI can just issue a "National Security Letter." Instead of launching an investigation based on probable cause, the FBI can now just target an individual for surveillance and investigation by calling it an "assessment."

Concerning other elements of the now-massive U.S. spy network, the public can only speculate. For example, no one has yet said publicly what is being done by the numerous "surveillance role players" (discussed elsewhere in this website) with secret clearances and counterintelligence training who are employed by intelligence-security contractors.

If anyone challenges the Constitutional legitimacy of any of these suspicious policies (or if members of the government question other secret policies whose existence is unknown to the public), the matter is referred to the U.S. government's "Star Chamber" - the secret FISA Court, which in nearly all cases simply rubber-stamps the policy to maintain the façade of legitimacy.

"Suspicious Activity Reports" and "Data Fusion Centers"

Minority Report

In the science fiction film Minority Report (2002) a special police unit arrests murderers before they commit their crimes

In theory, America's justice system is based on ideals such as protecting rights and punishing people who have been convicted in fair trials. Sometimes those principles are operative. Often however, the U.S. justice system is driven by political agendas, careerism, greed, laziness, prejudice, bureaucracy, technological opportunism, corporate interests, the arrogance of people in power and - as in the case of organized stalking - criminal behavior by the very people associated with the system.

In some quarters, the notion that criminal suspects should be given a trial is seen as quaint. One example of this new attitude is “predictive policing” - also called “proactive policing” - in which law enforcement agencies aggressively gather and analyze data to try to anticipate threats before they emerge.

Among the manifestations of that law enforcement philosophy is the “Suspicious Activity Reporting” (SAR) system and data “Fusion Centers.”

Apologists for this form of policing characterize the strategy as just a modernized approach to the assessment of information and allocation of resources, but there is also a creepy Orwellian aspect to it, and it seems very unlikely that it does not play some role in the subversion by overt stalking of those secretly declared as “suspicious.”

Suspicious Activity Reports (SARs) are initiated from a variety of sources: law enforcement agencies, private sector partnerships (such as InfraGard and DSAC), and tips from citizens (the “If you see something, say something” program).

SARs - and other intelligence - are managed by a network of 78 data fusion centers across the nation, where the information is shared by local and federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

Among the disturbing and un-American aspects of SARs is that they can be used to initiate investigations - as a way around the old-fashioned Constitutional requirement of reasonable suspicion or probable cause.

The May 2015 issue of Harper’s Magazine featured an article, “Beyond the Broken Window,” about spying on Americans by the Los Angeles Police Department. The article explores modern Orwellian police state programs, including Suspicious Activity Reports:

Under [Police Chief] Bratton's watch, Los Angeles became the first city to implement the Nationwide Suspicious Activity Reporting Initiative, a federal-local partnership program led by Homeland Security and the FBI. Suspicious Activity Reports, or SARs, have since been adopted by cities across the country and are now the primary means for documenting citizen behavior that might be construed as "preoperational planning related to terrorism or other criminal activity." This vague standard means that behavior that is both protected by the First Amendment and entirely benign can be labeled as suspicious.

Lack of Oversight and Accountability for Fusion Centers

This Big Brother system of Fusion Centers and Suspicious Activity Reports takes place in a shadowy structure which has been the subject of much criticism by civil rights advocates. In its description of the multi-agency bureaucracy responsible for oversight of the system, the Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF) had this to say:

"If this all sounds confusing, that's because it is: the entire intelligence community is a plethora of duplicative agencies with overlapping areas of responsibility."

Anyone familiar with the ethics and tactics historically associated with the U.S. intelligence business knows that deception of the public, undetected criminality, and creative abuses of power are often merely viewed as examples of professional competence. In that context, it is reasonable to suspect that a policy framework which inherently dodges accountability did not arise by accident. The folks at EFF hint at this also:

"Because they are collaborative, legal authority over fusion centers is blurred, perhaps purposefully."

Contempt for the opinions and rights of American citizens is pervasive in the law enforcement and intelligence community. Arguably the tone is set by the Department of Justice, but other agencies - federal, state, and local - are just as bad. The Department of Homeland Security, for example, resists efforts by Congress to conduct oversight of the data fusion centers. Senator Tom Coburn (R-Oklahoma) had this to say about issue:

"DHS has resisted oversight of these centers. The Department opted not to inform Congress or the public of serious problems plaguing its fusion center and broader intelligence efforts. When this Subcommittee requested documents that would help it identify these issues, the Department initially resisted turning them over, arguing that they were protected by privilege, too sensitive to share, were protected by confidentiality agreements, or did not exist at all. The American people deserve better."

Compromising Freedoms for Zero Benefits

While many people would consider the system of Suspicious Activity Reporting and Data Fusion Centers to be a creepy Orwellian program, some might still defend it on the grounds that it is identifying terrorist threats - except that it isn't.

This October 2012 Senate report found that the system was not yielding any information about terrorism (page 2):

"Despite reviewing 13 months' worth of reporting originating from fusion centers from April 1, 2009 to April 30, 2010, the Subcommittee investigation could identify no reporting which uncovered a terrorist threat, nor could it identify a contribution such fusion center reporting made to disrupt an active terrorist plot."

A Quick History of the U.S. Intelligence & Law Enforcement Community

Although it is officially part of the executive branch of the federal government, America's supremely powerful and secretive intelligence community has been described - without exaggeration - as the "fourth branch" of government. It's the branch that is not mentioned anywhere in the U.S. Constitution, and it's the branch that has the least respect for the rules established in that document.

Arguably, its genesis occurred in 1908 when the DOJ created the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). In essence, the executive branch of the U.S. government decided to expand its own powers, despite well-founded concerns expressed by members of Congress, such as this statement by New York Congressman George Waldo:

"The only question here before the House is whether we believe in a central secret-service bureau, such as there is in Russia today….I believe that it would be a great blow to freedom and to free institutions if there should arise in this country any such… bureau…”

Tony G. Poveda, in The FBI: A Comprehensive Reference Guide (1999), described the fears which Congress members had when the FBI was first proposed (page 168):

“Members of Congress expressed concern that a Justice Department investigative force might become a secret political police that could be used to spy on citizens, including members of Congress, and that it could ultimately subvert the democratic principles of government.”

Despite such opposition, one month after Congress adjourned, the DOJ created its own permanent detective force, which in 1935 was given the name Federal Bureau of Investigation. Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Chris Hedges described the essential nature of the agency (at 19:56) in this speech titled “Wages of Rebellion:”

“Let’s not forget why the FBI was formed. The FBI was basically a goon squad that was formed to break radical movements.”

The next major development in the growth of the now-massive U.S. intelligence community occurred in 1947, when the National Security Act established the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). Five years later, the National Security Agency (NSA) was formed. Primary security concerns at that time, of course, revolved around the Cold War with the Soviet Union.

A decade or so later, a similar expansion of the law enforcement intelligence community began. In 1956, two things happened which are related to America’s current “gang stalking” (i.e., counterintelligence stalking) phenomenon.

One of those developments was that police department intelligence units - “red squads” - formed a national association called LEIU (the Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Units). The other development that year was that the FBI began its secret counter-intelligence program (COINTELPRO). Counterintelligence crimes perpetrated against Americans by red squads and the FBI over the next 15 years or so primarily targeted supporters of communism, supporters of the civil rights movement, and critics of the Vietnam War.

In theory, COINTELPRO ended in the 1970s after it was exposed by activists and investigated by Congress. Many critics of the FBI allege that the unconstitutional practices of the agency never ceased - or were only briefly suspended.

Just a few years earlier, the first signs of the militarization of local police departments also began. In the 1960s, the first police SWAT (Special Weapons and Tactics) teams emerged. A parallel development was the expansion of the size and power of the executive branch of the federal government. These two trends became closely connected in 1971 when President Nixon declared the beginning of the perpetual “War on Drugs.”

Although the corrupting influence on police departments and the erosion of Americans’ civil rights associated with the drug war have relevance to modern Cointelpro stalking, the subject is generally beyond the scope of this website. Suffice to say, the constant examples of extreme abuses of power by America’s law enforcement industry associated with the drug war tend to lend support to claims that other civil rights abuses could be taking place without objection from the Justice Department. Currently, America is a country in which possession of two dollars’ worth of marijuana can result in police officers shooting you to death inside your own home.

Although the drug war rages on, the Cold War, of course, has ended. Fortunately for those who are happy about America’s trajectory toward a quasi-police state government, the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks launched a new war to justify unlimited power and money and secrecy for the intelligence and law enforcement industry - the perpetual global “war on terrorism.”

The Counter-Terrorism Charade

In reality, the threat from terrorism is wildly exaggerated by those whose careers benefit from scaring the public about the issue. This New York Times column notes that we should be twice as concerned about bee and wasp stings.

“More Americans die of falling televisions and other appliances than from terrorism. Twice as many Americans die of bee or wasp stings annually. And 15 times as many die by falling off ladders.”

For agencies such as the DOJ and the FBI however, the war on terrorism has been an opportunity for a massive power grab at the expense of Americans' freedoms - and an opportunity for big profits for defense/security contractors. To rationalize the extraordinary secrecy and power wielded by the FBI, the agency needs to create the illusion that it is protecting Americans from constant peril.

Toward that end, the FBI has essentially been creating its own terrorists to compensate for the shortage of actual terrorists. That the agency concocts and funds fake terrorism plots to entrap hapless stooges in sting operations has become an open secret, as documented, among other places, in a widely-reported July 2014 report by Human Rights Watch.

For its part, the Justice Department is happy to play along with this charade. This is the point for anyone concerned about allegations of ongoing counterintelligence stalking operations: the DOJ is one of the U.S. intelligence agencies, and as such, it is not about to make trouble for any of the other intelligence agencies, such as the FBI.

Another example of this is the DOJ's relationship with the CIA. When that agency apparently tortured people in the process of its interrogations, and destroyed evidence of the torture, and then lied to Congress about what happened, the DOJ closed its inquiry into the matter in 2012 without bringing any charges. Then, while the U.S. Senate Intelligence Committee was investigating the torture, the CIA apparently spied on the senate committee. In July 2014, the DOJ announced that it would not be conducting a criminal investigation of that spying either.

State Databases

To supplement their access to federal systems for monitoring citizens - such as the data fusion centers - states also create their own watch-lists and databases. Since agencies at the federal level set the tone for state and local elements of the police state, some of these state level programs are also of an Orwellian nature.

Louisiana's system for monitoring its residents is a case in point. In April 2014 it was reported that the state was building a database which will contain a “Comprehensive Person Profile” on each resident.

In this 3-minute video clip, you can watch a state legislator explain the virtues of this program - which include predicting who is likely to become “a risk to the state” so that the state can preemptively “intervene in that person’s life.”

Note a couple of aspects of this program which are typical of the surveillance trend. One is that the system was originally designed to detect fraud, but now through a sort of “mission creep” phenomenon, it is being expanded to track data for a range of purposes.

The other common factor is that a corporate parasite is cashing in. Technology for the database was developed by the software company SAS, which profits from the destruction of Americans’ privacy.

Future Attribute Screening Technology (FAST)

FAST System

A blurred image of the FAST system displayed on a computer monitor

Some defenders of “predictive policing” have claimed that civil rights concerns about the philosophy are unwarranted because it mostly involves directing resources to areas with higher statistical probability of crimes - rather than attempting to predict behavior of particular individuals.

The development and implementation of technologies such as Future Attribute Screening Technology (FAST) tends to undermine such assurances.

FAST is a program created by the Homeland Security department for the purpose of detecting malicious intent by screening individuals through electronic monitoring of such things as pulse rate, skin temperature, breathing, and facial expression.

I am not suggesting that FAST has a connection to organized stalking - or even that such systems would necessarily be inappropriate in certain high-security facilities. I merely cite it as an example of the general direction of law enforcement and the fact that opportunities to use such surveillance technologies will be aggressively exploited - especially given the profit motive for contractors to lobby the U.S. government to purchase such systems.

FBI’s Face Recognition Database

In April 2014 the Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF) reported that information they obtained via a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request showed that the FBI expects to have 52 million photographs in its face recognition database by 2015.

The Next Generation Identification (NGI) database will incorporate the FBI’s existing fingerprint database - which contains over a 100 million records - and other forms of biometric data such as iris scans and facial dimensions. This database will be shared with other federal, state, and local agencies, and will be capable of performing tens of thousands of searches per day.

EFF points out that this database will include both criminals and non-criminals - for example, people whose employers require them to have a “mug shot” photo taken as a condition of employment. In theory, this could mean that innocent people might sometimes be investigated if their photo has facial characteristics similar to those of a criminal suspect.

This June 2015 article about facial recognition technology by The Intercept explains that Americans’ privacy is threatened not just by careerist authoritarians in the government, but also by greedy lobbyists for technology firms.

The DOJ’s views on the government’s right to track you via GPS

GPS IIF

Most Americans who only casually follow civil rights issues probably assume that the U.S. Department of Justice exists to promote justice - after all, it’s right there in its name and everything.

The DOJ does some of that, but it takes more seriously its role as a protector of the interests of those in power. Part of that role is slapping-down annoying attempts by the American public to find out what its officials are doing.

For example, if you want to challenge the U.S. government's use of GPS tracking to monitor your location, the DOJ will apparently be fighting you on the basis of arguments outlined in some DOJ memos. As an American, you might be curious about what is in those memos. Too bad. The DOJ decided that those memos are a secret, and in March 2014 a federal court agreed to let the DOJ keep it that way.

The DOJ's views on the government's right to detain you forever

Prison

In April 2014, the DOJ successfully persuaded the U.S. Supreme Court to dismiss a lawsuit - Hedges v. Obama - challenging the constitutionality of a provision in the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA). The section that was at issue - 1021(b)(2) - essentially authorizes the federal government to indefinitely detain someone if that person is suspected of having supported hostilities against the U.S. or its allies.

Because the U.S. "war on terror" is indefinite, so is the potential period of detention for anyone - including a U.S. citizen - who is detained under the law. Such a person can now be legally deprived of the right to an attorney and the right to a trial for as long as the "war on terror" lasts.

In May 2012 a U.S. District Court judge ruled that this was not kosher, but the DOJ challenged the ruling and it was overturned by an appellate court. When the case was then taken to the U.S. Supreme Court, the DOJ asked that the case be dismissed. The court obliged.

Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Chris Hedges - the lead plaintiff in the case - published a column denouncing the Supreme Court's refusal to hear the case. He cited the response by Carl Mayer, one of the plaintiffs' attorneys in the case:

“…the Supreme Court has turned its back on precedent dating back to the Civil War era that holds that the military cannot police the streets of America”

That the U.S. military now has jurisdiction over civilians is no small concern. As a practical matter, the executive branch has few limits anymore on what it can do simply by invoking the magical phrase “national security.”

As always, Hedges did an excellent job of providing the larger political context of such developments:

“….if we do not rapidly build militant mass movements to overthrow corporate tyranny, including breaking the back of the two-party duopoly that is the mask of corporate power, we will lose our liberty.”

“….The fusion of corporate and state power means that government is broken. It is little more than a protection racket for Wall Street. And it is our job to wrest government back. This will come only through the building of mass movements.”

The DOJ’s views on the government’s right to assassinate you

Drone Strike

In September 2011 an American citizen - Anwar al-Awlaki - was assassinated by a U.S. drone strike. Although dozens of Americans are executed each year, traditionally they are given trials first, and are only killed after having been convicted.

Many people questioned the legality of the assassination and inquired about the legal reasoning of the U.S. Department of Justice. However, the DOJ declined to share its secret legal justification for the policy of targeted killings. The DOJ’s position, in essence, was that the federal government not only has the legal right to kill American citizens without first giving them a trial, it also does not have to explain to the public why it believes such legal authority exists.

In April 2014, a federal appellate court ruled that the DOJ must release its classified memo on the policy. A redacted version of the 2010 memo was released in June 2014.

Fake Secret Laws Created by Federal Agencies

In a previous section of this webpage - regarding the selection of targeted individuals - I mentioned the ordeal of Rahinah Ibrahim, a woman whose name had been placed on the federal no-fly list by mistake. Ms. Ibrahim had to spend 9 years battling to have her name removed from that watch-list before a federal judge finally ruled in her favor in February 2014. During that process, Ibrahim had to litigate without knowing the information in the U.S. government's case against her.

In his excellent analysis of that case, Peter Van Buren, a former U.S. State Department Foreign Service Officer, explained how "the DOJ employed an arsenal of dodges and post-9/11 tricks to impede her lawsuit."

One of the DOJ's legal weapons used against Ms. Ibrahim was invoking the "state secrets doctrine." As Van Buren explains, that is not a U.S. law created by Congress:

….it is instead a kind of assumed privilege and the courts accept it as such. Based on it, the president can refuse to produce evidence in a court case on the grounds that its public disclosure might harm national security. The government has, in the past,successfully employed this "privilege" to withhold information and dead-end legal challenges. Once "state secrets" is in play, there is literally nothing left to talk about in court.

Another similar weapon used by the DOJ against Ibrahim and others involves the use of secret classifications which have been created by federal agencies - rather than by Congress:

A related DOJ dodge was also brought to bear in an attempt to derail Ibrahim's case: the use of made-up classification categories that dispatch even routine information into the black world of national security. Much of the information concerning her placement on the no-fly list, for instance, was labeled Security Sensitive Information (SSI) and so was unavailable to her. SSI is among hundreds of post-9/11 security categories created via memo by various federal agencies. These categories, too, have no true legal basis. Congress never passed a law establishing anything called SSI, nor is there any law prohibiting the disclosure of SSI information.

The DOJ’s Index of Crimes

As mentioned in the introduction to this overview, claims about the widespread existence of gang stalking are supported by the DOJ’s own crime survey statistics which showed that in 2006 an estimated 445,220 individuals reported being stalked by three or more perpetrators. (Page 12 of the report has the relevant numbers: 13.1 percent of 3,398,630 victims reported such group stalking.)

DOJ Stalking Survey 2006

Claims about gang stalking are also supported by the fact that the National Center for Victims of Crime - which is funded by the DOJ - apparently receives “thousands of calls per month” about such crimes. Yet organized stalking is conspicuously absent from the DOJ’s Index of Crimes.

As previously mentioned, Robert L. Snow, a retired police captain from the Indianapolis P.D., wrote a book called Stopping a Stalker, in which he devoted a chapter to the subject of organized stalking by multiple perpetrators associated with causes (“cause stalking”) - such as stalking by extreme anti-abortion activists.

However, the entire subject of organized stalking (or “group stalking,” “vigilante stalking,” etc.) does not appear in the DOJ’s website - even though the site includes a comprehensive index of types of crimes and legal issues, including some that are relatively obscure.

The DOJ’s “Weed and Seed” Program

The most interesting section of the DOJ website’s crime index - in relation to the government’s apparent acquiescence in gang stalking - is a reference to a program called “Weed and Seed.” The program name was still in the index the last time I checked, but the information for that section - which was part of something called the “Community Capacity Development Office” (CCDO) no longer existed. Elsewhere in the website was a statement explaining that the CCDO was closed due to lack of funding:

“As of June 5, 2011, the Community Capacity Development Office (CCDO) closed due to a lack of federal funding for the office. For Fiscal Year 2012 Weed and Seed grants, the Bureau of Justice Assistance will manage these grants until the end of the grant award period.”

I copied the Weed and Seed program’s description (shown below) while it was still on the DOJ’s website in February 2012. It describes a community policing strategy. If you read it without the context of first-hand experience or an awareness of the historical background, it might seem innocuous. If you are familiar with the FBI’s Cointelpro operations (past and present), and the Stasi’s system of targeting individuals to be “weeded out” of society, it takes on a much darker character.

Operation Weed and Seed

A strategy within the U.S. Department of Justice’s Office of Justice Programs that incorporates community-based initiatives. It is an innovative and comprehensive multi-agency approach to law enforcement, crime prevention, and community revitalization.

The Weed and Seed Strategy

Operation Weed and Seed is foremost a strategy-rather than a grant program- which aims to prevent, control, and reduce violent crime, drug abuse, and gang activity in targeted high-crime neighborhoods across the country. Weed and Seed sites range in size from several neighborhood blocks to 15 square miles.

The strategy involves a two-pronged approach: law enforcement agencies and prosecutors cooperate in “weeding out” criminals who participate in violent crime and drug abuse, attempting to prevent their return to the targeted area; and “seeding” brings human services to the area, encompassing prevention, intervention, treatment, and neighborhood revitalization.

A community-orientated policing component bridges weeding and seeding strategies. Officers obtain helpful information from area residents for weeding efforts while they aid residents in obtaining information about community revitalization and seeding resources.

Note that this law enforcement model can be exploited not just by government agencies, but also by private groups and individuals for their own agendas. I would suggest that is exactly what is happening. Private organizations and individuals who have the relevant skill sets, connections to law enforcement and intelligence agencies, and assets to hire private investigators, can either create illicit “neighborhood watch” programs to monitor and harass their targets, or they can exploit existing programs by feeding information (whether true or false) about their targets to law enforcement personnel to have the victims become subjects of investigation and surveillance.

The “Weed and Seed” program is the most explicit official statement of the institutional philosophy behind gang stalking - namely, that the victims are deserving of persecution because they are potential criminals, socially marginal dissidents, drug-users, whistle-blowers, trouble-makers, etc. Essentially, the targeted individuals are the “weeds” that need to be removed (or at least isolated and suppressed).

Blue Line

14. Disinformation

truth

“All governments are run by liars.”
- I.F. Stone

The role of disinformation in counterintelligence stalking

According to the U.S. Office of the National Counterintelligence Executive, disinformation is defined as follows:

Carefully contrived misinformation prepared by an intelligence or CI service for the purpose of misleading, deluding, disrupting, or undermining confidence in individuals, organizations, or governments.

In a national program of counterintelligence subversion such as America’s version of the communist Stasi network, some public exposure is inevitable. Disinformation is used to mitigate the effects of that exposure.

Often the effectiveness of disinformation derives from the fact that most people - unlike, say, con artists, intelligence agents, and detectives - don’t usually even consider that the information they’re encountering might be a batch of deliberate lies. Partly because of most Americans' ignorance of history and politics, lying to them about security issues is about as challenging as performing a magic trick for a toddler.

Operation Mockingbird

Sadly, most Americans are unaware of the history of disinformation campaigns by the U.S. government. One of the most well-documented programs in which the U.S. intelligence community systematically lied to the American public occurred in the 1950s. Here is a portion of a Wikipedia entry about it. The facts of the program are not in dispute.

Operation Mockingbird was a secret Central Intelligence Agency campaign to influence media beginning in the 1950s. Organized by Cord Meyer and Allen W. Dulles in the 1950s, it was later led by Frank Wisner after Dulles became head of CIA. The organization recruited leading American journalists into a network to help present the CIA's views, and funded some student and cultural organizations, and magazines as fronts. As it developed, it also worked to influence foreign media and political campaigns, in addition to activities by other operating units of the CIA.

By the early 1950s, Wisner 'owned' respected members of The New York Times, Newsweek, CBS and other communications vehicles.

The usual methodology was placing reports developed from intelligence provided by the CIA to witting or unwitting reporters. Those reports would then be repeated or cited by the preceding reporters which in turn would then be cited throughout the media wire services. These networks were run by people with well-known liberal but pro-American big business and anti-Soviet views such as William Paley (CBS), Henry Luce (Time and Life Magazine), Arthur Hays Sulzberger (New York Times), Alfred Friendly (managing editor of the Washington Post), Jerry O'Leary(Washington Star), Hal Hendrix (Miami News), Barry Bingham, Sr. (Louisville Courier-Journal), James Copley (Copley News Services) and Joseph Harrison (Christian Science Monitor).

The Office of Policy Coordination (OPC) was funded by siphoning of funds intended for the Marshall Plan. Some of this money was used to bribe journalists and publishers.

According to Alex Constantine (Mockingbird: The Subversion Of The Free Press By The CIA), in the 1950s, “some 3,000 salaried and contract CIA employees were eventually engaged in propaganda efforts”. Wisner was able to constrain newspapers from reporting about certain events, including the CIA plots to overthrow the governments of Iran.

Carl Bernstein’s reporting on Operation Mockingbird

For additional information about Operation Mockingbird, you should read this excellent article on the subject by Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist, Carl Bernstein.

Here is an excerpt from that article about how the New York Times essentially served as a propaganda tool for the CIA:

The Agency’s relationship with the Times was by far its most valuable among newspapers, according to CIA officials. From 1950 to 1966, about ten CIA employees were provided Times cover under arrangements approved by the newspaper’s late publisher, Arthur Hays Sulzberger. The cover arrangements were part of a general Times policy—set by Sulzberger—to provide assistance to the CIA whenever possible.

Sulzberger was especially close to Allen Dulles. “At that level of contact it was the mighty talking to the mighty,” said a high-level CIA official who was present at some of the discussions. “There was an agreement in principle that, yes indeed, we would help each other. The question of cover came up on several occasions. It was agreed that the actual arrangements would be handled by subordinates…. The mighty didn’t want to know the specifics; they wanted plausible deniability.

News Media Whores in the Operation Mockingbird Era

Probably few readers of this website need to have their cynicism about the corporate news media - past and present - reinforced, but this document is worth a look anyway.

One of the most prominent reporters on American politics in the 1960s was Theodore H. White, a Pulitzer prize-winning journalist whose book The Making of the President sold four million copies. Scott Porch at Politico profiled him in April 2015, and Jon Schwarz at The Intercept posted this summary of the essential point. In his published writings, White lavished praise upon members of the political class and the press. Privately, however, he admitted that they were all liars. Here is one of the excerpts from a previously-unreleased letter White sent to a close friend in 1960:

"…it is all fraudulent, all of it, everywhere, up and down, East and West. The movies, radio and state and books and TV — all of them are fraudulent; and the foundations and universities and scholars, they are all fraudulent too; and the executives and the financiers … and the Commissars and the Krushchevs and the Mao Tze-tungs, they are fraudulent equally; it is all a great game; and there are two dangers in this great game: first, the fraudulent people come to believe their own lies, they come to have faith in their fraud; and second, underneath it all, because people are fundamentally good, they come to realize that we live in lies and the people get angrier and angrier and they may explode."

One of the reasons that the U.S. surveillance state - the FBI, NSA, CIA, DHS, and their army of private contractors and useful-idiot minions - keeps a close eye on Americans is to keep a lid on such anger.

Today's News Media Whores

Operation Mockingbird was an example of systematic disinformation.
An equally serious threat to the American public is the informal disinformation that comes from biased news reporting. Distortion and deception occur routinely in the mainstream press on intelligence issues because of ideological bias and careerist motivations.

Defending the political establishment when it is lying about intelligence matters serves the political agenda of right-wing reporters, and it creates opportunities for such reporters to get access to senior officials for interviews. One example of someone who carries water for the government - rather than serving as a professionally skeptical journalist - is National Public Radio (NPR) reporter Dina Temple-Raston.

An August 2014 article by Glenn Greenwald helpfully deconstructed a piece of dishonest reporting by Temple-Raston about NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden. In the wake of Snowden's revelations that the NSA was spying on Americans in violation of the Fourth Amendment, various apologists for the U.S. intelligence community asserted that the revelations had damaged U.S. national security. It was claimed that surveillance methods were revealed in a way that enabled terrorists to more effectively conduct their business undetected.

The claim was rubbish, but to the extent that people believed it, it served the political interests of those who support Big Brother-type domestic spying on Americans by their government. With the apparent goal of giving the claim plausibility, NPR broadcast a report on August 1, 2014 that a data firm called Recorded Future had produced "tangible evidence" which proved the government's accusations.

While the report itself was not convincing - for reasons outlined in Greenwald's article, NPR also failed to disclose that Recorded Future receives significant funding from the CIA. Instead, the corporation was portrayed as an independent source. That kind of lying is common, and it creates an environment in which intelligence agencies can get away with serious abuses of power.

To fully appreciate the feud between real journalists like Greenwald and government propagandists like Temple-Raston, you should watch the first 7 minutes of this video clip, in which those two reporters debate whether it is appropriate for the U.S. government to execute Americans without due process:

Current U.S. Government Policies on Lying

Pinocchio

The values associated with Operation Mockingbird are alive and well in America's federal government today - with its penchant for secrecy and for spying on Americans - and its casual attitude about the Constitution and honesty.

An article by journalist Glenn Greenwald in January 2010 in Salon.com called attention to the shockingly Orwellian view of news and propaganda in both the George W. Bush and Barack Obama administrations. In particular, Greenwald focused on a member of the Obama administration.

Cass Sunstein - a close confidant of President Obama - who served as Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs from September 2009 to 2012 - has an interesting view on lying by the federal government: he favors it.

“In 2008, while at Harvard Law School, Sunstein co-wrote a truly pernicious paper proposing that the U.S. Government employ teams of covert agents and pseudo-”independent” advocates to “cognitively infiltrate” online groups and websites — as well as other activist groups — which advocate views that Sunstein deems “false conspiracy theories” about the Government. This would be designed to increase citizens’ faith in government officials and undermine the credibility of conspiracists.

….Sunstein advocates that the Government’s stealth infiltration should be accomplished by sending covert agents into “chat rooms, online social networks, or even real-space groups.” He also proposes that the Government make secret payments to so-called “independent” credible voices to bolster the Government’s messaging (on the ground that those who don’t believe government sources will be more inclined to listen to those who appear independent while secretly acting on behalf of the Government). This program would target those advocating false “conspiracy theories,” which they define to mean: “an attempt to explain an event or practice by reference to the machinations of powerful people, who have also managed to conceal their role.”

Glenn Greenwald’s article about Cass Sunstein

Conspiracy Theories

Not surprisingly, Sunstein seems to be uncomfortable when confronted with his record of explicitly condoning government deception. He has not, however, disavowed his views. In fact, he has written articles purporting to reveal what he sees as a threat posed by “paranoid” conspiracy theories.

As far as I know, Sunstein has never discussed whether it might contribute to the public’s “paranoid” distrust of government officials to have the head of the Office of Information write a paper advocating that the government should sometimes lie to the citizens.

That someone with Sunstein’s high profile would have no reservations about (a) publicly advocating systematic lying to the public by the U.S. government, and (b) ridiculing people who do not blindly trust government officials, speaks volumes about the arrogance and moral corruption of America’s political class.

One of the main counterintelligence disinformation strategies to keep organized stalking from being closely investigated by the mainstream press is to simply dismiss it as a “conspiracy theory.” For many people, simply invoking that term will short-circuit any critical thinking about an allegation. They are encouraged in that view by mainstream media institutions which routinely embrace intellectual conformity masquerading as skepticism.

An April 1977 article in Reason by economist and historian Murray N. Rothbard offers a clear explanation of the political establishment’s relentless dismissal of analyses which take into account the self-interests of those in power.

“It is no wonder that usually these realistic analyses are spelled out by various “extremists” who are outside the Establishment consensus. For it is vital to the continued rule of the State apparatus that it have legitimacy and even sanctity in the eyes of the public, and it is vital to that sanctity that our politicians and bureaucrats be deemed to be disembodied spirits solely devoted to the “public good.” Once let the cat out of the bag that these spirits are all too often grounded in the solid earth of advancing a set of economic interests through use of the State, and the basic mystique of government begins to collapse.”

Another person with well-informed insights on the issue of conspiracy theories is Russ Baker - an investigative journalist whose articles have been published in The New Yorker, Vanity Fair, the Nation, The New York Times, the Washington Post, The Village Voice, Esquire and other major publications.

In this article, Baker deconstructs a piece of rubbish featured in The New York Times which advocates, essentially, that you should always believe what the government says.

In contrast to the Times reporter's apparent view that virtually all conspiracies are fictional and attributable to psychological explanations, Baker makes this observation about the potential for conspiratorial government crimes in America:

"Her assumption is that, in a country perennially employing tens of thousands of top-secret covert operatives, homicide-trained assassins and "special forces" enthusiasts, no one has any reason to suspect that any event involving some kind of death or mayhem was ever engineered on an organized basis."

Blatant Lying by Senior U.S. Intelligence Officials

When Cointelpro stalkers slander targeted individuals and tell other lies that enable them to perpetrate counterintelligence subversion against Americans, they are following the same ethical standards set by those at the very top of their industry. Again, the fish rots from the head down.

The long history of lying associated with the U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies is too extensive to chronicle here, but you can get a sense of the culture by considering just a few of the recent scandals.

In 2013 and 2014, three of the most senior intelligence officials were caught lying, and none of them suffered any consequences. An article in Reason in August 2014 reviewed some of the biggest lies.

CIA Director John Brennan denied that his agency was spying on the U.S. Senate while it was investigating the agency's use of torture, and then the agency's inspector general revealed that the spying did in fact happen. In response, President Barack Obama harshly criticized the CIA Director of course, saying “I have full confidence in John Brennan.”

Director of National Intelligence James Clapper not only lied, he did so under oath while testifying in a Senate hearing about the mass surveillance of Americans by the NSA. Subsequent revelations by the whistle-blower Edward Snowden showed that the mass surveillance which Clapper denied was happening was in fact taking place. Although Clapper was not prosecuted for committing perjury, he did have to read about the harsh criticism later expressed by President Obama in an interview on CNN. Obama said that Clapper “should have been more careful about how he responded.”

NSA Director Keith Alexander lied about the mass surveillance of Americans by the NSA twice. He denied that the data was being collected, then after it was revealed, he claimed that the program had uncovered 54 terrorist plots. When challenged by Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman, Patrick Leahy, he admitted that the number was an exaggeration. Later the President’s Review Board reported that the actual number of terrorist threats revealed was zero. Naturally, Alexander was immediately fired. Just kidding - actually he kept his job until March 2014 and then retired to take a job in the financial industry which paid $600,000 per month.

“Parallel Construction”

To appreciate the extent of the moral corruption and casual attitude toward the U.S. Constitution - and toward honesty - within America’s law enforcement and intelligence community, it is important to note that the government’s enforcers do not merely lie on occasion; they lie as a matter of official policy.

A clear example of this was reported by Reuters in August 2013. A secretive unit within the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) called the Special Operations Division (SOD) gathers information - for example, through foreign and domestic wiretaps - and forwards that information to various agencies. The SOD also helps coordinate multi-agency investigations.

So far, so good (apart from the strategic idiocy and civil rights violations inherent in drug prohibition). However, documents obtained by Reuters showed that agents who receive those tips from the SOD are instructed to lie about the origins of their investigations by keeping the SOD's involvement a secret from defense lawyers, prosecutors, and judges.

That policy - called "parallel construction" - involves "re-creating" the investigation record to make it appear that the initial step in the investigation was something other than a tip from the SOD.

For example, an agent might be told to stop and search a particular vehicle based on a tip. If that search results in an arrest, the agent will then lie - in accordance with official policy - and say that the search was the result of a routine traffic stop.

Presumably "parallel construction" exploits a moral version of a parallel universe - one in which lying is ethically sound. We can only speculate about the legal theory upon which the concept is based because, as Reuters reported: " A spokesman with the Department of Justice, which oversees the DEA, declined to comment."

Slandering Critics of Corporations

U.S. government agencies and corporations sometimes use intelligence-security contractors to do their dirty work, such as spying on and slandering critics. A prime example of this was reported in a June 18, 2013 article published in The Nation titled "The Strange Case of Barrett Brown."

Intelligence contractors planned an operation to discredit a group critical of the Chamber of Commerce, and to discredit others, such as reporter Glenn Greenwald:

Its main objective was to discredit critics of the Chamber of Commerce, like Chamber Watch, using such tactics as creating a "false document, perhaps highlighting periodical financial information," giving it to a progressive group opposing the Chamber, and then subsequently exposing the document as a fake to "prove that US Chamber Watch cannot be trusted with information and/or tell the truth." In addition, the group proposed creating a "fake insider persona" to infiltrate Chamber Watch. They would "create two fake insider personas, using one as leverage to discredit the other while confirming the legitimacy of the second." The leaked e-mails showed that similar disinformation campaigns were being planned against WikiLeaks and Glenn Greenwald.

If operations such as that one were not proven by the documents obtained by hackers, many people would dismiss allegations of such activities as tin-foil hat conspiracy theories.

Another example (among many) happened in 2012. When a reporter and editor at USA Today investigated one of the Pentagon contractors being paid to spread propaganda, that contractor began a secret smear campaign against them.

“Fake Twitter and Facebook accounts were created in their names, along with a Wikipedia entry and dozens of message board postings and blog comments. Websites were registered in their names…”

A proxy service was used to hide the identity of the owner of the websites, and another website was registered to a non-existent address. Here is an article about it.

The four major disinformation tactics used by America’s Stasi

Four main tactics are used by the U.S. intelligence-law enforcement industry to conceal its counterintelligence operations against U.S. citizens. Each tactic is a variation on the same general strategy - namely, to discredit organized stalking targets by casting doubts on their sanity and intelligence.

1) Government Front Groups

One tactic is to create faux support groups for gang stalking victims. Freedom From Covert Harassment and Surveillance (FFCHS) and Organized Stalking Informers (OSI), to which I dedicate a page of this website, are the main examples.

These groups serve two purposes. First, they exist so that victims will turn to them - rather than forming their own legitimate advocacy groups to lobby Congress and the media to investigate gang stalking.

Secondly, everything about the groups is designed to convey the impression that people claiming to be gang stalking victims should not be taken seriously. For example, the written materials associated with those two groups - such as their websites and petitions - appear very badly written and poorly edited. The websites and documents contain almost no specific information about the perpetrators of organized stalking, and very rarely refer to the published mainstream news reports about gang stalking and counterintelligence activities.

Another type of front group deception used in counterintelligence operations occurs when agents persuade a legitimate organization to let itself be used to stage activities which are actually orchestrated by a counterintelligence agency.

An example of that apparently occurred in 2013, when a U.K-based film company called Firecracker Films was apparently used as a front under the pretense that it was considering the production of a documentary about gang stalking.

Representatives of the company began to solicit the participation of targeted individuals of organized stalking in what was apparently a fake project by asking the individuals to consent to video chat interviews about their experiences - ostensibly for the purposes of gathering material for determining whether to go ahead with the production of the documentary.

In reality - presumably - the videos would be used to gather information about the victims' perceptions of being illegally stalked by the feds.

Online searches of Internet forums about organized stalking revealed that agents purporting to be representatives of Firecracker Films had used the same ploy previously. They had posted messages encouraging individuals to contact them. In both instances the "project" was quietly abandoned or postponed.

You can read more about my account of the incident - including the email I sent to everyone at Firecracker Films in my November 17, 2013 post on the Cointelpro News (2013) page of this website.

2) Disinformation Websites

A second tactic is the creation of numerous websites about gang stalking that are filled with badly-written stupid assertions and extraneous information. Again, the objective is to discredit all self-proclaimed organized stalking victims by making it appear that they are paranoid idiots.

On the "Recommended Websites" page of Fight Gang Stalking, I posted links to legitimate sites about organized stalking, and also links to some of the dozens of websites designed to spread disinformation.

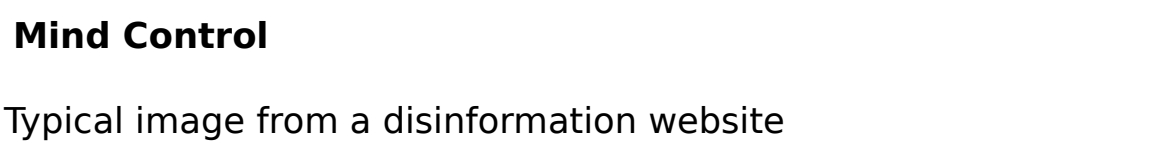
Anyone who browses through some of the countless disinformation websites will begin to recognize common themes. For example, many of the sites emphasize mind-control - although they often do so without reference to MK Ultra - since (a) no one disputes the facts about that CIA program, and (b) the U.S. intelligence community would prefer to avoid contributing to the public's awareness of it.

Images on gang stalking disinformation websites are generally chosen to suggest insanity - either subtly or obviously. Whenever you see an image such as this one, you have almost certainly stumbled upon a disinformation site:



Typical image from a disinformation website

Another common aspect of these websites reflects an interesting personality trait of people in the counterintelligence (CI) business. CI perps - calling them "agents" would be giving them too much credit - seem to fancy themselves as some kind of evil James Bond movie villains. The phenomenon is similar to the embrace of military hardware and tactics by police officers who imagine themselves to be special warfare unit soldiers.

Even lowly web page designers and sock puppets (discussed below) in the counterintelligence business seem to embrace the cultural flavor one sees on the insignia patches of military units. Cyber personas posting comments online adopt names like "Lucifer" or "Nemesis." Images on their websites reflect what journalist Douglas Valentine calls the "Cult of Death." CI perps seem to have the same personality type that Valentine attributes to CIA agents - namely, that of a cowardly sociopath:

"…a sociopath without the guts to go it alone in the underworld. They gravitate to the CIA because they are protected there by the all-powerful Cult of Death."

You can even see this on display at the aforementioned website of the U.S. Office of the National Counterintelligence Executive. Here, for example, is one of their official posters celebrating the value of thought policing:

By the way, if you are really impressed by this kind of thing, you can download the poster-size version of the above image from the U.S. government here.

In the spirit of that obsession with x-rays and brain images, I offer the following:

3) Cyber Personas (also called “Sock Puppets”)

A third form of disinformation is the use of cyber personas to monitor and discredit legitimate websites and social media entities which discuss gang stalking.

The U.S. Office of the National Counterintelligence Executive defines a cyber persona as follows:

An identity used in cyberspace to obtain information or influence others, while dissociating the actor’s true identity or affiliation.

Anyone who reads the comments posted online whenever the subject of gang stalking is raised, will note that reports of gang stalking almost invariably attract sarcastic - but ultimately unconvincing - statements by forum trolls, registering their skepticism.

One expects that sort of verbal warfare on Internet forums about politics, but you have to wonder why the relatively obscure topic of gang stalking attracts such a dedicated army of detractors. As Hamlet’s mother observed, sometimes people “protest too much.”

As this article posted on LiveLeak notes, a former CIA clandestine service trainee and DIA analyst revealed that the FBI and CIA use trolls to monitor social media and interact with users to discredit information disseminated on the web.

Lynnae Williams reports that she became a gang stalking target when she left the CIA. According to her blogs and Twitter messages, Ms. Williams has been stalked and intensely harassed by the FBI - to the point that she eventually felt compelled to leave the U.S.

This is her original blog: http://ciacorrupt.blogspot.com/

Most mainstream news media corporations dutifully avoid investigating and discussing the U.S. government's use of cyber personas to spread disinformation.

Fortunately, some news sources are not on the federal government's leash.

The Guardian newspaper - which published the famous revelations about NSA surveillance leaked by Edward Snowden - reported in July 2013 on the sneaky (and possibly illegal) proposals by a consortium of private intelligence contracting firms, such as Stratfor, to spread lies on the Internet on behalf of their corporate clients, using personas:

"[The intelligence firms were] involved in another scheme to deploy sophisticated software-based fake people across social networks in order to infiltrate and mislead."

As I write this, hacker-activist Jeremy Hammond is serving a ten year prison sentence for his role in exposing how this shadowy industry of professional liars and spies operates on behalf of large U.S. corporations.

Journalist Barrett Brown is in jail in Texas facing charges which could potentially lead to a life sentence for his role in exposing the information yielded by the hacked emails.

Brown founded a group called Project PM to sort through the numerous emails that had been revealed. Here is a fascinating web page by that group which summarizes the disinformation schemes organized by the intelligence-security contractors.

The proof: secret documents leaked by Edward Snowden

Articles by Glenn Greenwald published by NBC News and The Intercept in February 2014 revealed leaked documents from NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden which show some of the online disinformation tactics being used by the intelligence agency GCHQ (the U.K.'s equivalent of the NSA).

One of the main tactics described in the secret documents is spreading false information online to destroy the reputations of targeted individuals and groups. Another main tactic was to use social science principles to manipulate online discussions and activism.

No one familiar with organized stalking in the U.S. is unaware that western intelligence agencies systematically spread lies on the Internet - in discussion forums, for example. Now there is proof.

Among the tactics revealed by the documents is the use of false flag operations (referred to as such in the documents) in which the spy agency posts material online and makes it appear that it was posted by a targeted individual or group. GCHQ also creates fake blog posts which purport to be those of victims of the people and groups being targeted.

Other tactics include leaking confidential information and emailing colleagues, neighbors and friends of the target.

Greenwald poses this question for citizens and policy-makers on this issue:

“Who would possibly trust a government to exercise these powers at all, let alone do so in secret, with virtually no oversight, and outside of any cognizable legal framework?”

Another fundamental point made by Greenwald - and this applies equally to organized stalking - is that these tactics are not about national security. These are weapons being used in many cases to destroy people who are suspected of crimes but have never been charged or convicted, and people who are engaged in political activism of which the government disapproves.

4) Faux Articles Planted in the News Media

Finally, the fourth disinformation tactic is to plant articles in the news media which create the impression that gang stalking exists only in the minds of delusional individuals.

The prime example of this - arguably a textbook case of the art of disinformation - is a lengthy New York Times article on gang stalking called “Sharing Their Demons on the Web” (November 13, 2008).

Because of its relevance to material in the “Gang Stalking Documents” section of this website, the following information also appears there. Please forgive the redundancy.

FBI whistle-blower Ted Gunderson (former head of the Los Angeles FBI office) was a key figure in exposing gang stalking, yet he goes unmentioned in the Times piece. That should be a giant red warning flag to any reader armed with that information who isn’t retarded.

Even if the “reporter” had determined that Gunderson’s claims arose from the fact that he simply became delusional for some reason after a long high-profile law enforcement career, you would think that finding would be worth mentioning. Not a word.

That lengthy article also failed to include any interviews with the licensed private investigators who have written on the subject of gang stalking, such as David Lawson and John B. Lopes.

Instead, the only “experts” interviewed for the article were four mental health professionals (psychiatrists and psychologists) who discussed mental illness and delusions. The one other person interviewed was someone who supposedly claimed to be a victim of gang stalking, Derrick Robinson, who is identified as a janitor in Cincinnati, and president of FFCHS - the aforementioned support group for gang stalking victims.

Most readers of the Times article would not be familiar with FFCHS, and would have no way of knowing - or even suspecting - that it’s a disinformation front group - as I detail in the FFCHS section of this website.

Note that the mental health experts quoted were not asked about their knowledge of crimes (such as stalking) - let alone their views on the plausibility of the existence of a modern version of the FBI’s Cointelpro. In fact, remarkably, the article makes no mention of Cointelpro whatsoever.

Also note that the one supposedly self-proclaimed gang stalking victim, Mr. Robinson, is a janitor - and he is the head of the victims support group. The intended takeaway is that the most capable member of the community of self-proclaimed victims of organized stalking - the one with the wherewithal to become head of their national organization - is a janitor.

The reader is left to infer that the rest of the self-proclaimed gang stalking victim community must really be losers if he's their brightest bulb. It simply would not have served the objective of the "reporter" to discuss gang stalking victims who were professionals, such as the aforementioned FBI special agent, Mr. Gunderson, or the attorney, Mr. Labella.

Just to be sure readers got the message though, a psychiatrist quoted in the article mentioned that "These people lead quietly desperate lives." (Read "losers.")

A final point about the article: none of the websites cited are legitimate, credible websites, such as those I have listed in the "Recommended Websites" section of this blog. If the Times readers had been directed to any of the sites which I recommend, they would have encountered discussions of gang stalking very much at odds with what they were reading in the Times. The websites mentioned in the article - such as Gang Stalking World (as distinguished from Gangstalkingworld.wordpress.com) are badly-edited and filled with extraneous garbage. Most likely, they are also examples of deliberate disinformation.

You can read the Times article at the link below if you want to see a textbook case of disinformation planted by the government in the mainstream news media - the sort of thing people like Noam Chomsky get marginalized for warning people about. (Incidentally, for more on the way government apologists in the media tend to dismiss people like Chomsky who deviate from political orthodoxies, see my March 23, 2013 entry in the "Police State Amerika News" section of this website.)

If, despite the historical background of Cointelpro, and despite all the other information provided in this website, you conclude that this article is simply an example of journalistic incompetence at the nation's "Paper of Record," then I have a bridge to sell you.

Incidentally, by a remarkable coincidence, an article that was virtually identical to the Times piece was published by ABC News one month later (although it makes no reference to the Times piece that preceded it). By remarkable coincidence, the "reporter" at ABC interviewed the same psychiatrist who was interviewed by the Times, Ken Duckworth. Also by remarkable coincidence, the “reporters” in both cases were third-tier shills no one has heard of - rather than, say, Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative journalists.

Also by coincidence, the ABC article - like the Times article - failed to include any reference to the important high-profile credible whistle-blower key witness who supports the claims of gang stalking victims, Ted Gunderson. The ABC News article which involved such an extraordinary number of coincidences also failed to even mention Cointelpro or MK Ultra - or any other actual relevant non-disputed government conspiracies, and focused exclusively on discussions of delusional thinking. If you want to read this ground-breaking, hard-hitting piece of brave investigative journalism by the intrepid Lauren Cox, here is the link.

There is a down-side for gang stalkers to all these efforts at disinformation: they constitute evidence of a conspiracy when viewed in the context of other information - such as I have provided in this website.

A final observation about the two articles cited above:

It’s interesting that those two rare examples of mainstream news media articles about organized stalking both appeared (about the same time) years ago, and then the subject has been off the radar since then.

Since that time, the number of online accounts of gang stalking - such as this website - have only increased, and the number of published articles in the alternative media alleging a re-emergence of Cointelpro (such as those cited in section 4 of this overview) have increased. Yet the New York Times and ABC have not re-visited the issue.

That makes perfect sense as a disinformation strategy. Anyone searching for mainstream news reports on gang stalking will see that - apparently - a couple of major news outlets looked into the phenomenon years ago and found it was all rubbish. Case closed. Further articles - even if they were similarly dismissive - might call attention to the topic in an unhelpful way

15. The Wall of Silence Which Surrounds Gang Stalking

Laurel & Hardy - Shhh

“The first rule of fight club is you do not talk about fight club.”
- from the 1999 film Fight Club

Sometimes people violate the rule and do mention fight club.

A local TV news broadcast in California in January 2011 featured a report about gang stalking in which the reporters used the term and so did Lieutenant Larry Richard of the Santa Cruz Police Department.

Even in that instance, Lt. Richard (a) did not say that the stalking was perpetrated by the government, and (b) he seemed to walk-back his comment in a subsequent letter about the TV broadcast obtained by a Freedom of Information request.

Even such qualified reports are the exception to the rule. Despite its seriousness, gang stalking is rarely discussed publicly by the mainstream news media - let alone by law enforcement officials. (I have listed the most notable exceptions that I am aware of above in the “Published News Reports” section of this web page.)

The Silence of the F.B.I. and the D.O.J.

What mainly accounts for the FBI’s success in keeping its modern counterintelligence operations off of the American public’s radar is the secrecy with which the program is administered and the use of tactics chosen specifically for their lack of incriminating evidence.

Official records from the U.S. Senate’s Church Committee cited previously on this webpage show that many of the same tactics were unquestionably used by the FBI during the first version of Cointelpro. Those operations also remained unknown to the general public until some civilan activists broke into an FBI office and stole the secret documents which proved it.

Based upon reports by gang stalking victims, U.S. intelligence and law enforcement agencies have greatly raised the technological sophistication for domestic counterintelligence - just as was alleged by the late Ted Gunderson, the former FBI official, when he discussed gang stalking. In addition, revelations in 2013 by NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden proved that the scope of Big Brother’s surveillance is now vast.

“Gang stalking” is also more sophisticated than Cointelpro in the realm of law: a legal architecture has been developed which enables counterintelligence operations to be conducted under a paper charade of legal legitimacy within the Department of Justice, despite violating the U.S. Constitution.

By labeling extra-judicial punishment as “surveillance” and “investigation,” and by referring to stalkers as “informants,” and by citing a “national security” need to keep their operations shrouded in secrecy, the FBI and DOJ can pretty much do whatever they want.

In fact, the Orwellian nature of the legal fictions is even deeper. As explained previously, “investigations” have been replaced in many cases with “assessments” which have lower standards of suspicion. “National Security Letters” based upon “Suspicious Activity Reports” have replaced court-sanctioned subpoenas. As a practical matter, organized stalking can be initiated with no concerns about the Fourth Amendment or the state and federal laws against stalking.

One of the ways silence is maintained - as mentioned previously - is by the FBI’s exemption from the Whistleblower Protection Act. Anyone wishing to expose misconduct at the FBI could face severe legal repercussions.

Nothing comparable to Edward Snowden’s revelations about the NSA’s domestic spying has yet occurred with the FBI. Ted Gunderson did not speak out about gang stalking until after he was retired, and he did not reveal any smoking-gun documents to prove his allegations. Also, Gunderson claimed that his discussion of organized stalking resulted in him being targeted himself - which would tend to discourage other potential whistle-blowers.

People familiar with corruption in the U.S. government have deep suspicions about the kinds of crimes being perpetrated by agencies such as the FBI and the CIA. Writing on that subject in January 2014, former State Department Foreign Service Officer Peter Van Buren put it this way:

“…count on one thing: we undoubtedly don’t yet know the worst or most illegal aspects of this era of “intelligence.” After all, while Snowden “liberated” up to 1.7 million National Security Agency documents (many of them not yet looked at, analyzed, or written about), there have been no similar twenty-first-century break-ins at the FBI, the CIA, or other parts of the American intelligence community (or for that matter at the Pentagon and the Department of Homeland Security). Massive and shocking as the NSA revelations have been, the curtain has only been pulled back on a corner of the new Washington world that we, the people, continue to fund, even if we aren't considered important enough to know anything about it." [emphasis added]

The Silence of Intelligence-Security Contractors

Just as law enforcement and intelligence agency personnel involved in counterintelligence activities are bound by secrecy oaths, so is the vast industry of private contractors employed by those agencies. For example, job ads posted by security-intelligence contractors for "surveillance role players" (domestic spies) all require an active security clearance in addition to counterintelligence training.

In most cases, the potential legal risk is not a factor anyway; the type of people who seek work as domestic spies like the idea of being informants for Big Brother and they presumably like the income it generates for them.

The Silence of Witnesses

Witnesses to U.S. government criminality often become the targets of very aggressive efforts to intimidate them to remain silent - and to make an example of them so others will remain silent. This 4-minute trailer of a 2013 documentary film gives a good sense of the dangers faced by whistle-blowers, which include blacklisting, surveillance, and legal warfare.

Promotional video for Silenced: The War on Whistleblowers

FBI agents can legally order witnesses to keep their mouths shut regarding anything the feds choose to portray as an investigation.

For example, a National Security Letter (NSL) is an administrative subpoena used by the FBI, and it has a gag order attached which prohibits the recipient from ever saying anything about having been served with the letter. The U.S. government has issued hundreds of thousands of such letters, and they have been upheld in court.

Anyone wondering why landlords, neighbors, co-workers, and others recruited to participate in organized stalking never say anything should consider the possibility that they do not want to end up in prison.

The Silence of U.S. Political Leaders

Jefferson Censored

In your high school civics classes, you probably learned about the three equal branches of the federal government. Presumably, they still teach that. In reality, the U.S. is now dominated by a massively powerful executive branch.

Officially, the White House is at the top of that branch, but the nation's chief executive must share power as a practical matter with the shadowy U.S. intelligence community and its cronies.

On the one hand, the president can appoint - and fire - the heads of the intelligence agencies; on the other hand, the intelligence agencies can tap the president's phones and create files on the president's sex life and shady business dealings which can be used as leverage.

In theory, the U.S. Congress has oversight authority over the intelligence community. Again though, you need to distinguish between what it says in your high school textbook and what takes place in the real world.

During the 1970s Americans learned about the illegal counterintelligence operations (COINTELPRO) being perpetrated by the FBI - and the secret experiments, torture, and assassinations being perpetrated by the CIA (MK Ultra and other programs).

As mentioned previously, the official source of information about those scandalous programs was the U.S. Senate's Church Committee - named after its chairman, Senator Frank Church (D-Idaho). One of the important facts about that chapter in U.S. history is this: by their own admission, the members of Congress had no clue what had been going on before Cointelpro was exposed by civilian activists.

Another important fact for perspective about Congressional oversight is this: the head of the Church Committee himself, Frank Church, was being spied upon by the NSA and never knew about it. Declassified documents released in September 2013 showed that the NSA was monitoring his overseas phone calls and cables.

Although they were familiar with espionage, America's founders certainly could never have envisioned the vast network of rogue U.S. intelligence agencies and corporate intelligence-security contractors who now spy on Americans using advanced technology.

If the founders could have forseen the development of such a monstrous threat to democracy and privacy, they certainly would never have prescribed the current system of oversight.

The House of Representatives and the Senate each has a Select Committee on Intelligence. Between the two committees, there are essentially just three dozen people who are supposed to provide oversight of the U.S. intelligence community.

Even worse, those three dozen or so people are bound by secrecy oaths which legally prevent them from revealing their knowledge of any unconstitutional and immoral behavior that is being perpetrated by the nation's intelligence agencies. Committee members can be prosecuted even for revealing information to other members of Congress.

Congress members' fear of the intelligence community

As I mentioned in the Oversight section of this page, it is very possible that members of Congress actually fear the intelligence community, and avoid trying to control it for that reason.

In March 2014, two members of Congress made comments which strongly implied that such fears exist. Senator Rand Paul (R-Kentucky) said this of his fellow senators:

"I think I perceive fear of an intelligence community drunk with power, unrepentant, and uninclined to relinquish power."

The next day, House Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi (D-California) said this about disagreeing with the intelligence community:

"You don't fight it without a price, because they come after you."

Presidents' fear of the intelligence community

More than a few people have been suspicious of President Barack Obama's apparent subservient relationship to the U.S. intelligence community. Despite campaigning for the presidency as a progressive reformer, as president he embraced secrecy, drone strikes, mass surveillance, the attack on Libya, and aggressive prosecutions of whistle-blowers. Of course, it is very possible that Obama was never sincere about his views in the first place. Opportunistic dishonest sociopaths are common in politics. On the other hand, there might be a darker explanation.

One person willing to publicly comment about that is Ray McGovern, a retired CIA analyst-turned-activist. In June 2013, McGovern explained in a radio interview that he believes that President Obama fears the CIA:

"I've come to the conclusion that he's afraid. Number one, he's afraid of what happened to Martin Luther King Jr.….

….Now does he have any reason to fear the CIA? Well he sure as heck does. For those of your listeners who have not read James Douglass's JFK and the Unspeakable, you need to read that, because it's coming up on 50 years. The mystery has not been solved in the mainstream press. After reading James Douglass, who took advantage of all the previous studies, plus all the more recent information released by Congress, I'm convinced that John Kennedy was assassinated largely by Allan Dulles whom he cashiered as the head of the CIA after the Bay of Pigs, and a coterie of joint chiefs of staff, FBI, even some Secret Service folks who thought that JFK was being soft on Communism by back channel communications with Krushchev, that he was playing games with Fidel Castro…to repair the relationship, and worst of all he was giving Southeast Asia to the Communists. Now is there evidence for this? There sure as heck is. John Kennedy signed two executive orders just a month or so before he was killed. One of them said we're pulling out 1000 troops out of South Vietnam by the end of the year, the year being 1963. The other said we're going to pull out the bulk of the troops by 1965, we're finished in Vietnam. That's a matter of record."

Local politicians' fear of the law enforcement community

operated a lawless spy network for decades without having its crimes exposed. The LAPD used threats and blackmail to intimidate city council members - and the staff of the Los Angeles Times.

Here is an excerpt from the book's description on Amazon regarding the nature of LAPD during the reign of police chief Daryl Gates (1978 to 1992):

"L.A. cops ruined lives and reputations, inflicted mindless brutality, committed murder and engaged in massive cover-ups. In Los Angeles, police corruption was much more than unmarked envelopes stuffed with cash. It was a total corruption of power. For decades LAPD engaged in massive illegal spying and lied about it. Its spying targets included politicians, movie stars, professional athletes, news reporters and anyone wielding power or those of interest to Daryl Gates."

The reluctance of people in power to criticize others in power

A general rule among most people who occupy influential positions is to avoid criticism of others who are similarly situated. This is done for selfish career reasons. Most people who are in a position to expose corruption and incompetence rarely do so because they fear being perceived as a threat to others in power.

In a May 2014 article on the Intercept, journalist Glenn Greenwald called attention to a quote originally published in the New Yorker. The remark was made by Lawrence "Larry" Summers, who served as - among other roles - the president of Harvard University and the Secretary of the Treasury. He was speaking to Elizabeth Warren, a former Harvard law professor and current U.S. Senator.

"Larry Summers took Warren out to dinner in Washington and, she recalls, told her that she had a choice to make. She could be an insider or an outsider, but if she was going to be an insider she needed to understand one unbreakable rule about insiders: "They don't criticize other insiders."

The Silence of the Judicial Branch

Justice Gagged

Just like the members of the Congressional intelligence committees, judges on the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) Court are bound by secrecy oaths which prevent them from revealing anything about the scandalous crimes by members of the spying industry.

A good example of how that plays out in America's Star Chamber occurred in April 2013. In a rare instance of the secret FISA court not simply rubber-stamping whatever the feds wanted to do, the court ruled that the domestic spying activities at issue involved an unacceptable abuse of the Constitution.

However, the Obama administration decided that Americans should not be allowed to know what the Feds were trying to get away with - because publicly disclosing the nature of the unconstitutional B.S. they were engaged in would allegedly jeopardize Americans' national security.

The last I heard, the fed's were still trying to keep the whole thing under wraps (whatever it was).

The silence of the ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union)

Cowardly Lion

Picture yourself as an ACLU attorney. You have a job and a family and a safe comfortable life. Do you really want to go to war with some shadowy rogue intelligence agency Stasi bastards who could target you for extra-judicial punishment? Probably not.

It is one thing to be a legal advocate for a position which annoys people in middle America; it is another thing altogether to throw rocks at a hornets' nest by exposing the modern version of Cointelpro.

As an organization, the ACLU is also inclined to err on the side of caution to avoid risking its reputation. They do not wish to be associated with anything that has not already been conclusively proven by smoking-gun official documents published in the mainstream news media.

That is especially true for something like gang stalking, since the tactics render the subject inherently susceptible to being dismissed as a tin-foil hat conspiracy theory.

Keith Forsyth, one of the activists who broke into the FBI office in 1971 and stole the secret documents that exposed the first verion of Cointelpro, said this regarding the need for the break-in:

“When you talked to people outside the movement about what the FBI was doing, nobody wanted to believe it.”

Remember: the ACLU did not expose the first version of Cointelpro, and they have shown no interest in exposing its current version. By all indications, the ACLU’s national office plans to wait until it is safe before they wade in.

Notably, the ACLU has never made any public statements that are dismissive of the numerous claims of organized stalking. Apparently it is simpler for them to just avoid the topic completely. If you write to staff members at the ACLU to inquire about their views on reports of gang stalking, you will find that they do not respond with skepticism; they just don’t respond at all.

As I mention in the “Tactics” page of this website, anyone wishing to gain the attention of the ACLU on the subject of organized stalking should probably meet face-to-face with members of a local ACLU chapter rather than trying to contact the organization’s national office.

The Silence of the American News Media

The Silence of the Lambs

Organized stalking goes mostly undiscussed in the mainstream news media. I review the notable exceptions in detail elsewhere in this website, but as a rule, major corporate news agencies avoid discussing matters which the intelligence and law enforcement community do not wish to have discussed.

This silence in the press is largely the result of the kinds of self-censorship documented in sources such as Kristina Borjesson’s Into the Buzzsaw, and Noam Chomsky’s Manufacturing Consent.

Primarily, the media’s silence on gang stalking can be attributed to laziness, incompetence, and cowardice.

Edward R. Murrow

As a general rule, major news agencies ignore conspiracies in the absence of incriminating smoking-gun type official documents. Also, they prefer to have such documents conveniently dropped in their laps by whistle-blowers - as happened with the Pentagon Papers, Cointelpro, and the NSA's domestic spying.

Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative journalist Seymour Hersh - who revealed the My Lai Massacre in the Vietnam War and the abuse of Iraqi prisoners at Abu Ghraib during the Iraq War - discussed the issue of documents when he was interviewed by the Guardian in September 2013. He said this of Edward Snowden's revelations about the NSA:

"Editors love documents. Chicken-shit editors who wouldn't touch stories like that, they love documents, so he changed the whole ball game."

Intimidation of the press by the federal government adds to the problem.

To discourage reporting on issues it would rather not see publicly discussed, the U.S. government has aimed two weapons of intimidation at the American news media in recent years: surveillance of communication and prosecution of whistle-blowers.

In May 2013 it was revealed that two months of phone records of the Associated Press were secretly obtained by the Department of Justice, seeking the identities of confidential informants. Famed Watergate reporter Carl Bernstein said he believed the seizure of records was intended "to intimidate people who talk to reporters."

Such efforts by the feds seem to have had their intended effect.

Following the AP phone records incident, journalists reported that trusted sources were becoming noticably more reluctant to provide information. AP President Gary Pruitt said that sources now "fear that they will be monitored by the government."

A survey published in November 2013 by PEN American Center - an association of American writers dedicated to protecting free expression - found that many published writers in the U.S. reported that they self-censor on subjects such as military affairs, mass incarceration, drug policies, the Occupy Wall Street movement, and criticism of the U.S. government.

The survey found that 40 percent of the writers polled had either curtailed their social media activities or seriously considered doing so. In addition, 33 percent reported deliberately avoiding certain topics - or at least seriously considered avoiding certain topics - in phone or email conversations.

The survey also revealed that 28 percent had refrained - or seriously considered refraining - “from conducting Internet searches or visiting websites on topics that may be considered controversial or suspicious.”

Doing its best to chill criticism of the federal government, the Obama administration prosecuted more whistle-blowers than all former presidents combined. The Committee to Protect Journalists published an article on this disturbing trend in October 2013 by a former editor of the Washington Post. Some excerpts:

“Six government employees, plus two contractors including Edward Snowden, have been subjects of felony criminal prosecutions since 2009 under the 1917 Espionage Act, accused of leaking classified information to the press — compared with a total of three such prosecutions in all previous U.S. administrations. Still more criminal investigations into leaks are under way.”

“Exposing “waste, fraud and abuse” is considered to be whistle-blowing. But exposing questionable government policies and actions, even if they could be illegal or unconstitutional, is often considered to be leaking that must be stopped and punished. This greatly reduces the potential for the press to help hold the government accountable to citizens.”

In February 2014, Reporters Without Borders ranked America as the 46th best country for journalist freedoms - in between Romania and Haiti.

For a sense of why many reporters are afraid to investigate criminality by the U.S. intelligence and law enforcement community, I recommend watching this 3-minute video clip in which the Pulitzer prize winning Washington Post journalist Dana Priest describes the backlash she experienced - which included death threats - when she exposed the CIA’s use of secret prisons to torture terrorism suspects.

The “Someone would have talked” Fallacy

Telling a secret

Investigative journalist Russ Baker disputes the common response to allegations of criminal conspiracies by covert operatives in the U.S. government - namely, that such claims are not plausible because “someone would have talked.”

“…whistleblowers are quickly discredited, suppressed, or worse. From time to time people even come out of the national security establishment to testify to such wrongdoing, but they almost always pay a heavy price -which of course discourages others from bearing witness.”

Among the examples cited by Baker is the case of John Kiriakou, a former CIA official and whistle-blower who revealed that the CIA tortured prisoners as part of its official policy. Kiriakou lost his job and was sentenced to 30 months in prison.

Daniel Ellsberg, the whistle-blower who famously revealed the Pentagon Papers, makes exactly the same point:

“Since wrong-doing virtually always requires both secrecy and lies, and further secrets and lies to protect the secrets and lies, the wrongful operation-especially in a regime that approaches democracy-is commonly highly vulnerable to a breach of secrecy by any one of the many who share the secret. Yet typically in the national security field (and to a striking degree even in corporate and private associations without a formal apparatus of secrecy) even the “weakest links” do not break. No one tells.”

Failure to Connect the Dots

Connecting Dots

Another factor which helps explain the relatively low-profile of organized stalking in the news media is a failure to recognize a common thread between various related news reports. The most important of these articles and broadcasts are listed in the “Published News Reports” section of this webpage.

In 2004 the PBS News show NOW featured an episode about signs of a possible re-emergence of Cointelpro “as a result of the relaxation of guidelines first put into place after the Cointelpro scandal investigation.”

Later that year, Newsweek reported that the Pentagon was quietly re-entering the business of domestic spying - “including recruiting citizens as informants.”

In 2007 the Washington Post Magazine featured a cover article about gang stalking which portrayed several of the self-proclaimed victims of the crimes as credible, and claims about the types of electronic weapons allegedly being used as plausible.

Several local news reports have documented police officers engaging in organized stalking for personal vendettas. In 2011 police in Stockton, California stalked the city manager after a break-down in contract negotiations. In 2012 a police officer was stalked by numerous fellow officers - from multiple jurisdictions - after issuing a citation to an off-duty police officer for reckless driving.

Both cases suggested that the police were familiar with gang stalking tactics and were unconcerned about any legal consequences.

To their credit, during 2013 at least two magazines - the Nation and CounterPunch - reported on counterintelligence operations (including psychological operations tactics) by the FBI and by private intelligence-security contractors against critics of corporations and asserted that Cointelpro has re-emerged.

Sources such as Democracy Now! have reported the emergence of a shadowy industry of spies employed by major U.S. corporations to conduct secret - and often illegal - counterintelligence operations. Such reports make clear that there is almost no oversight or legal accountability for these private spooks - most of whom are former or present agents of law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

Over the past decade numerous individuals have reported being harassed and spied upon by perpetrators whose tactics were largely identical to those used by the FBI and other intelligence agencies such as East Germany’s Stasi. Local newspaper and TV news reports about gang stalking claims have also emerged from across the country in recent years.

Viewed as separate isolated incidents and news reports, such developments are mostly not recognized as examples of a common phenomenon.

The more you delve into the subject of organized stalking, the more you realize that the scope of the crime and its extreme impact upon the victims warrants a very close look by America's journalists.

Refusal to confront truths about deep corruption stop!

Another obstacle to exposing criminality by government and corporate officials is an unwillingness by many people to face the reality that the institutions we count on to protect us are often seriously corrupt.

Journalist Russ Baker touched on this phenomenon when looking back at the 1991 book October Surprise by Gary Sick, the National Security Council liaison to President Carter.

As documented in the book, during the 1980 presidential campaign Ronald Reagan's campaign chief William Casey made a secret promise to give military aid to Hezbollah in return for assurance that the 52 American hostages then being held by Iran would not be released until after the election - thus making President Carter appear weak.

As Baker notes, Casey's deal was essentially an act of treason. Gary Sick explained in his book why this very serious scandal was basically ignored by the press and by the Washington political establishment:

We in Washington are accustomed to the petty scandals of Washington politics. However, there is another category of offenses, described by the French poet Andre Chenier as "les crimes puissants qui font trembler les lois," crimes so great that they make the laws themselves tremble.

We know what to do with someone caught misappropriating funds. But, when we are confronted with evidence of a systematic attempt to undermine the very political system itself, we recoil in a general failure of imagination and nerve….

….Most mere observers are, therefore, very much disposed toward misbelief and are, therefore, willing to disregard evidence that is directly presented to them—and even to construct alternative explanations for events that seem just too distasteful to want to believe. This all-too-human propensity provides just the margin of safety that is needed by those who would dare to under take what would otherwise be regarded as just too immensely a risky undertaking to attempt.

Hitler’s Sheep

A final thought on how cowardice and dishonesty keeps U.S. government-sanctioned crimes against Americans hidden from the public…

Holocaust survivor Primo Levi explained how it worked in Nazi Germany. No doubt something similar - although on a much smaller scale - applies today in America when people are enlisted to assist in various ways with “investigations” - or whatever the operations are publicly called. Anyone who encounters a corrupt federal, state, or local agent who waves a badge (and perhaps a National Security Letter) while requesting some Constitutionally-suspect assistance - and silence about the assistance - should consider the following:

“In Hitler’s Germany a particular code was widespread—those who knew did not talk; those who did not know did not ask questions; those who did ask questions received no answers. Shutting his mouth, his eyes, and his ears, the typical German citizen built for himself the illusion of not knowing, hence of not being an accomplice to the things taking place in front of his very door.”

- Primo Levi, The New Republic, October 23,

16. Shining a Light on the Cockroaches be-a-light

Gang stalking is conducted in secret because, like its predecessors Cointelpro and MK Ultra, it is illegal and unconstitutional. Stalking - described as such, or as “criminal harassment” or “criminal menace” - is a crime under the laws of every state in America.

In 1990 California became the first state to criminalize stalking. Within three years, all states had done so. Stalking is illegal because the vast majority of Americans deem it morally reprehensible and an assault on the basic rights and freedoms of the victims.

Gang stalkers know that most people - if they understood the crimes gang stalkers perpetrate - would regard them as the human equivalent of cockroaches, so the stalkers skulk around and ply their trade in the shadows.

They don’t have to worry about being caught and prosecuted however, because (a) their tactics are inherently difficult to prove legally, and (b) their crimes are supported directly and indirectly by people with power and money and government connections.

Even if you assume that some individuals targeted for gang stalking are in some way deserving of persecution, you should note that gang stalking is very different from “shaming.” The historical practice of shaming individuals had the imprimatur of the society. If gang stalkers had such a sanction, they would not have to conduct their activities in secret.

Instead, gang stalking is largely a game played by people who are wealthy and/or well-connected to the police state infrastructure. For their personal vendettas and agendas, they exclusively wield gang stalking as a weapon that is unavailable to most people.

Exposing what is happening is the challenge for victims of gang stalking - and for anyone who believes that America should be a constitutional free nation instead of a quasi-police state run by plutocrats and neo-fascist members of law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

The balance of power is completely tipped in favor of the perpetrators of organized stalking. Also, cowardice and careerism by politicians and members of the mainstream press make it unlikely that much help will spontaneously emerge from those quarters.

On the other hand, civilian activists managed to derail the FBI's Cointelpro operations, so there is precedent for eventual victory by the good guys. Mind you, those activists had to break into an FBI office to get the documents which exposed the crimes, so a certain amount of courage is required.

A final point: the Internet is a game-changer; it has the potential to expose gang stalking and ultimately lead to the program's demise. As I note in my essay "Gang Stalking and America's Police State Government" on another page in this website, the digital public square is already filled with information and rhetoric which the government would prefer to censor but cannot, posted by Americans fed-up with the secrecy and abuses of power in the upper echelons of government and corporations.

Please do whatever you can to help expose the rot.

If you can help expose illegal spying and harassment of Americans by intelligence agencies, law enforcement agencies, and private security contractors, please do so. America needs more patriots like Daniel Ellsberg, Edward Snowden, Jeremy Hammond, Barrett Brown, Russell Tice, William Binney, Ray McGovern, Thomas Drake, Frank Serpico, Thomas Tamm, Hugh Thompson, Jr., William C. Davidon, John Raines, Bonnie Raines, Keith Forsyth, Judi Feingold, and Bob Williamson.

II. What is Gang Stalking? (from https://gangstalking.wordpress.com/faq/) A Simple Definition

Under Occupational Health and Safety laws, individuals are being flagged and placed on community notification lists. This is happening without the targets knowledge. In many countries these community notifications are being used by companies and others to target innocent individuals such as whistle-blowers, the outspoken, etc. In conjunction with these notifications, companies and others are in some cases using a practice that was used in the former soviet union called the psychiatric reprisal. This is used as a means of retaliation, blacklisting, silencing, or controlling members of society. Once on the notification system, warnings about the targets are sent out to every individual the target comes in contact with, thus poisoning their associations, and socially annexing the targeted individual.

Full Definition

Gang Stalking is a systemic form of control, which seeks to destroy every aspect of a Targeted Individuals life. Once a target is flagged a notification is sent out to the community at large, and the target is followed around 24/7 by the various communities that they are in.

The community notifications will go out to various places. Apartment rentals, future employers, stores and communities where the target visits, will be notified. Doctors offices, fire departments, police, etc. A covert investigation might also be opened, and electronic, means used by the civilian spies/snitches as part of the overt and covert monitoring and surveillance process.

Individuals can be flagged designating them as having a history of aggressive or inappropriate behavior. This notification system will follow the target if they move, change jobs, visit other areas. It let's the community believe that the target is a person who needs to be watched or monitored.

Community health and safety

Click to access wcb_wpviolence.pdf

"In the service sector this may require identifying to employees persons who have a history of aggressive or inappropriate behavior in the store, bar, mall or taxi.

The identity of the person and the nature of the risk must be given to staff likely to come into contact with that person. While workers have the right to know the risks, it is important to remember that this information cannot be indiscriminately distributed.

A woman named Jane Clift in the U.K. went through a very similar type of flagging system. A warning marker was placed against her name designating her as potentially violent.

Violent Persons Registry

http://gangstalkingworld.com/Media/2007/09/2009/10/defamation-and-anti-social-behaviour/

She sensed that, everywhere she went, there was "whispering, collaboration, people scurrying about". "Everywhere I went - hospitals, GPs, libraries - anywhere at all, even if I phoned the fire service, as soon as my name went on to that system, it flagged up ‘violent person marker, only to be seen in twos, medium risk’.”

Jane Clift was targeted this way and spent four year clearing her name.

Individuals are being flagged without their knowledge. In many countries these community notifications might fall under community safety and health laws. It seems that employers, educational facilities, and community centers are in some cases flagging innocent individuals as a means of retaliation, silencing, or controlling members of society.

Maria Buffa, a former salaried employee in the personnel department at Ford World Headquarters in Dearborn, Michigan, said she, too, was sent to a psychiatrist after she filed a sexual harassment complaint in February 1999 against a woman co-worker. “You think, maybe I am the problem, else why would they be sending me to a psychiatrist,” she said. The psychiatrist Ford selected, Dr. Edward Dorsey of Midwest Health Center, made a report that said the only psychiatric symptom Buffa displayed was anxiety. Dorsey’s report said that the referral came from Ford’s medical department and was at least in part due to her complaints of sexual harassment. He also noted that the Ford doctor who referred Buffa cited a couple of “incidents”: She was seen yelling at someone, and she had shown up at a fitness center “wearing less than the usual amount of clothing for that physical activity.”

In April 1999, Buffa’s boss fired her “for the good of the company,” she recalled being told.

The individual is then placed under overt and covert forms of surveillance. Everywhere the Targeted Individual goes, their name is flagged. In a big city this could mean that thousands upon thousands of people are getting a notification about the target. The person is followed around 24/7. Foot patrols and vehicle patrols are used to follow the Individual around, as part of the monitoring process. During these patrols a one handed sign language is used to assist the citizen informants with communicating to each other. They will use this to silently communicate to any business the target enters, or other areas.

Gang Stalking is experienced by the Targeted Individual as psychological attack, that is capable of immobilizing and destroying them over time. The covert methods used to harass, persecute, and falsely defame the targets often leave no evidence to incriminate the civilian spies.

It’s similar to workplace mobbing, but takes place outside in the community. It called Gang Stalking, because groups of organized community members stalk and monitor the targets 24/7.

Many Targeted Individuals are flagged, harassed and placed under surveillance in this way for months or even years before they realize that they are being targeted by an organized protocol of harassment.

What happens during this monitoring and surveillance is very similar to what happened to many innocent individuals in the former East Germany or Activists and Dissidents in Russia. Many innocent people in the former East Germany would be targeted by the state, and then their friends, family, and the community at large would be used to monitor, prosecute, and harass them. The same persecutions and harassment’s are now happening in democratic countries.

Once a person is flagged or has a warning marker placed on their file, the community becomes hypervigilant, and within this structure there is a targeted and illegal protocol of harassment that happens. Electronic means are used to monitor, harass and torture the target. When the target tries to describe what is happening to them, it sounds as if they have had a mental breakdown. The reality is electronic means are being used to make it appear as if the target has had a breakdown.

Electronic Harassment

This System is the “MOSQUITO” that is used in the UK to break up groups of unruly people. Creates A Protective Shield Of High Pressure Complex Ultrasonic Shock Waves.

The Mosquito device is being considered for banning by the European Union, cause it infringes on the human rights of children.

Produces a power field of ultrasonic shock wave energy. The frequency range is adjustable from 7kHz to 25kHz, with the PCC30 putting out 140db of sound (135db for the PPF40) measured at 30cm. Intended for mounting to vehicles for potential crowd control applications. Also excellent for keeping out pests from gardens, etc. Hearing protection recommended when in use.

Many of these devices are easy to access, and almost impossible for an unaware target to describe in a credible manner, without sounding as if they have had a mental breakdown.

Unauthorized intruders are exposed to a feeling of intense paranoia, discomfort, disorientation, nausea and other undesirable effects. Government research is currently investigating the weapons potential and may soon classify these devices!

http://www.amazing1.com/ultra.htm

In Russia similar means were used by the state to declare activist, dissidents or anyone they thought to be an enemy of the state as mentally unfit and many were institutionalized using this form of systemic control.

The closest thing to Gang Stalking that democratic countries have seen before this is McCarthyism, Cointelpro, and RED SQUAD programs. Red Squad programs were used for monitoring, and harassment of various groups. They have been in place for over a hundred years, and they also employed Informants.

Civilian Spies, who can also be termed “Covert Human Intelligence Sources” come from every level and sector of society. Remember anyone the Targeted Individual comes into contact with gets a warning about the target.

Just like with Cointelpro investigations, everyone in the targets life is contacted, advised as to why the individual has been flagged, advised not to discuss the notification and asked to be a part of the ongoing, never ending monitoring (systemic psychological harassment and manipulation of the target) process. This process is covertly designed to control the targets, keep them in line, or destroy the target over time, leaving them with no form of support.

These actions are specifically designed to mimic a psychological operation. This psychological harassment of the target is designed to destroy them over years, making them look crazy and leave them with no form of support. The individuals around the target carry out actions and tasks as they are instructed, without realizing that the structure is psychologically designed to break the target down.

Worldwide programs of control and conformity have been used with equal success and lethality. What we are seeing now is a co-ordinated and organized effort of control and conformity. Many countries around the world are currently using a model of policing called: Community Oriented Policing. It's described as a systemic approach to policing. It focuses on instilling a sense of community within a geographically located neighborhood. Communities come together and discuss what values they would like to have in their community, community development, and it's also a time to discuss any problems that might be happening in a specific area. If a problem is identified an investigation might be opened. These local programs in many countries have been forming partnerships with other government run programs at, provincial, state and federal levels. A process called Deconfliction allows them to share information. Reports of Gang Stalking are not only coming in from democratic countries, but they are coming in from many other countries as well.

The modern day systemic form of control could only be funded at governmental levels, just like it has in other societies where these similar types of harassment programs have been implemented. It's all part of a system of control and conformity that has been in place for many years. A system of control with many local groups and appendages taking part. Many targets report that their information is passed and shared between country boarders, and that the surveillance continues even when they travel.

What are the goals of Gang Stalking?

The official goal is listed as a notification for the community, to alert them of individuals who have been flagged, or have had a warning marker placed on their file. It's officially used as a means of investigating or monitoring individuals who have displayed inappropriate, or violent behaviours. The real goal in some cases however seems to be to isolate the target from all forms of support, so that the target can be set up in the future for arrest, institutionalization, or forced suicide. Other goals of this harassment is to destroy the targets reputation and credibility. Make the target look crazy or unstable.

Other goals involve sensitizing the target to everyday stimuli's as a form of control, which is used to control targets when they get out of line. Once the target is sensitized, the Citizen Informants have an easier time identifying the Targeted Individual in public. The targets sensitivity is most likely added to their file as a warning marker and sign to watch for future reactions to.

The structure of this type of notification makes the targets vulnerable. Once a community goes into monitoring mode, they unofficially work towards driving the target from the community. This can be done by making the target destitute. Secondary goals include making the target homeless, jobless, giving them a breakdown, and the primary goals seems to be to drive the target to forced suicide. This is the same thing that was done to targets of the Stasi and Cointelpro investigations. It's a useful way of eliminating perceived enemies of the state.

What are other Names for Gang Stalking?

There are many names for this form of systemic control and harassment. Under the Gang Stalking label you will also find such terms as Community Mobbing, Community Stalking, Stalking by Proxy, Organized Stalking, Cause Stalking, Multi-Stalking, but it's all part of the same community notification harassment protocol. What many people do not realize is that Gang Stalking is just one appendage of this systemic form of control. There are other forms of control used to repress, and keep individuals in line. Other forms or appendages include, but are not limited to: Mobbing, Cointelpro, The Buzzsaw, Covert War, Electronic Harassment, etc. These are the just some of the names being given to a very old game, that is once again being played by governments on their unsuspecting citizens.

How are targets chosen?

Officially targets can be flagged and investigated for suspected, or reported behaviours. Unofficially the Targets can be chosen because of many other reasons. They can be chosen for political views. They can be chosen for whistle-blowing. They can be chosen because they belong to a dissident movement. They can be chosen because they asserted their rights at work, or filed a complaint. They can be chosen because they made the wrong enemy. Were considered to be too outspoken, unwittingly investigated something that the state did not want investigated, signed a petition, wrote a letter. They were deemed as suspicious by a civilian spy/snitch and their names were handed over.

It's becoming apparent that targets might be chosen for this systemic form of control, if they are not already in some way a part of this controlled system. Eg. Many Targeted Individuals seem to be unaware of this community notification, flagging and monitoring system. Some targets also seem to be unaware that large chunks of our society are now being used as Citizen Informants.

Who gets targeted?

Targeting can happen to anyone in society. In the past primary targets of programs such as Cointelpro have been minorities. Targeting however can happen to anyone. Individuals are often targeted for being outspoken, whistle blowers, dissidents, people who go up against wealthy corporations, woman's groups, (single) women, minorities, extremists, conspiracy theorists, anti-war proponents, individuals identified or targeted as problems at these community meetings, and other innocent individuals. The majority of the targets are often not aware that they are being targeted in this way. When a target moves, changes jobs, the harassment still continues, because they are still flagged, and a notification is still going out to everyone they come in contact with. Every time the target moves, the same information, lies, and slander will be spread out into the new community and the systemic monitoring and harassment will continue. Traits of those targeted

http://gangstalkingworld.com/Forum/YaBB.pl?num=1205738832/0

Who takes part?

People from all walks of life are a part of this system, because once a target is flagged, their information is distributed to a wide range of people, organizations, and communities. People from all races, ages, genders. Every sector of society that you can think of is a part of this. Civilian Spies/Snitches include, but are not limited to: General laborers, the wealthy, bikers, drug dealers, drug users, street people, punks, hip hop culture, KKK, black activists, church groups, youth groups, Fire Fighters, police officers, lawyers, health care workers, store keepers, maids, janitors, cable installers, phone repair persons, mail carriers, locksmiths, electricians, etc. There really is no minimum or maximum age range. An article came out recently in the UK, saying they were recruiting children as young as eight years old to be Covert Human Intelligence Sources.

http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/uknews/2689996/Children-aged-eight-enlisted-as-c%20ouncil-snoopers.html

Public individuals that the Targeted Individual comes in contact with are given this warning. These community notifications started with good intentions. Workers and the community at large do have a right to be notified if they are going to encounter persons who have violent, inappropriate histories. Citizens want to be able to protect themselves and their communities, however what is happening is that this program is also being used to falsely target innocent people.

Many do not understand or care that the end consequence of this flagging, this harassment protocol is to destroy a person. Many people in today’s society are scared, they are willing to give up personal freedoms, for a false sense of security, and if that means taking away the rights of another individual to accomplish this, they have no problem doing this.

Why people participate in Gang Stalking?

There are many reasons that someone takes part in this.

1. Some do it for the sense of power that it gives them. They feel in control. Many wholeheartedly believe that this let's them know who is bad and who they need to protect themselves and their communities from.

2. Others do this as a way to make friends and keep friends. It's something social and fun for them to do. They love that special feeling of monitoring and protecting their community. Many in society use the one handed sign language to communicate and it's very effective in breaking down race, gender, age, social barriers. Many believe that it also let's them know who is on their side, vs who could be the potential target.

3. Others are forced or blackmailed by the State or the police into taking part. I have seen a few people pressured into taking part.

4. They are told that they are part of homeland or national security. They are told that they are being used to help keep and eye on dangerous or emotionally disturbed individuals. They see themselves as heroic spies for the state.

5. Others are just local thugs or Informants who are already being used for other activities, and their energies are just diverted over into these community health and safety programs. Eg. Some may be given the choice of monitoring a Targeted Individual for the community or the police vs going to jail.

6. Others are told outright lies and slander about the target to get them to go along with ruining the targets life. Eg. Many caring families are told that the individuals has displayed mental health issues, or other socially unacceptable behaviours and might be a danger to themselves or the community at large, and that the notification is necessary for keeping the community safe. They are asked not to disclose this.

7. Many are however just average citizens who in the course of going about their day to day jobs, are being used to keep an eye out, and if a flagged target does come into their vicinity, they are asked to watch, monitor and observe the target. It’s the way the society is.

What are some techniques used against targets?

A few of the most common techniques are listed below.

a) Classical conditioning.

Getting a Targeted Individual sensitized to an everyday stimuli. The targeted individual over a period of months, or even years is negatively sensitized to an everyday stimuli, which is then used to harass them. It’s used out in public to let them know they are constantly being harassed and monitored. Some examples of everyday stimulus that might be used include: sounds, colors, patterns, actions. Eg. Red, white, yellow, strips, pens clicking, key jangling, loud coughing, loud whistling, loud smacking of clapping of hands together, cell phones, laptops, etc.

b) 24/7 Surveillance

This will involve flagging and following the target everywhere they go. Learning about the target. Where they shop, work, play, who their friends and family are. Getting close to the target, moving into the community or apartment where they live, across the street. Monitoring the targets phone, house, and computer activity. Surveillance Policy.

Click to access n_039963.pdf

c) Isolation of said target.

This is done via reports. The flagging is meant to warn the community, but they act as little more than slander campaigns. They present a one sided assessment of the targets behavior and activity. The target is never allowed to tell their side of the story or to clear their name. This one sided assessment can include false reports, lies, and legitimate incidents where the target was set up. Eg. People in the targets community are told that the target is crazy, dangerous, a thief, into drugs, a prostitute, pedophile, in trouble for something, needs to be watched. This very flagging in and of itself is capable of creating paranoia, and false interpretation of everyday incidents.

Files will even be produced on the target.

It’s been shown that community notifications of any kind can and do create a sense of paranoia within a community.

Community Notification

Click to access C20.pdf

Some people might argue that they would feel more secure if they were aware of the identities of dangerous offenders in their neighborhoods, but widespread community notification actually serves to heighten fear of victimization. In a large metropolitan area, hundreds of thousands of people are notified of a dangerous offender’s release, while only hundreds will come into contact with him in the community. This blanket notification propagates the belief that there are more “predators” in the community than ever before, and fearful attitudes among members of the public are reinforced. A vicious cycle results: widespread notification leads to an increase in the community’s fear of crime which, in turn, leads to more calls for notification. We would also argue that the use of inflammatory language such as “predator” by politicians and officials also works to heighten fear and increase calls for more punitive action.

d) Noise and mimicking campaigns.

Disrupting the targets life, sleep with loud power tools, construction, stereos, doors slamming, etc. Talking in public about private things in the targets life. Mimicking actions of the target. Basically letting the target know that they are in the targets life. Daily interferences, nothing that would be too overt to the untrained eye, but psychologically degrading and damaging to the target over time.

e) Everyday life breaks and street theatre.

Flat tires, sleep deprivation, drugging food, putting dirt on targets property. Mass strangers doing things in public to annoy targets.

These strangers might get text messaged to be at a specific time and place, and perform a specific action.

f) Electronic Harassment.

Electronic means can be used to create the illusion that the target is having a mental breakdown, when in fact they are being targeted and harassed by a community that is trying to get them to move, because they believe that the person is a danger, or an undesirable. This flagging system allows the community to treat the target as less than, someone they are allowed to harass, and victimize. It gives them a license to do unspeakable things to innocent targets, and their families.

Hightech Harassment

http://www.amazon.com/High-Tech-Harassment-Scott-French/dp/0873646169

This is not just another revenge book. This is the ultimate revenge book-high tech recipes for madness concocted by the author in collaboration with the experts. Scott French interviewed engineers, bank tellers, phone operators, computer technicians, radio and TV managers, and asked them point black, “How would you get even with somebody?” What he came up with is a collection of electronics, chemicals, and common sense designed to push anybody over the edge. Discover how to induce insanity with lasers, shockers, breakers, and blowers; clear beaches with “silent sound”; zap computer disks from a distance, bypas computer passwords, blast boomboxes and bother banks. In short learn to harass the forces of science and technology and excercise your God-given right to get even with anybody, anytime.

These actions might seem harmless to these Citizen Informants, but in reality the actions could be causing great psychological trauma for the target. Eg. Blocking targets path, getting ahead of them in line, cutting or boxing them in on the road, saying or doing things to elicit a response from targets. Etc. It’s like the death of a thousand paper cuts. One or two minor incidents will not cause any harm to the target, but over time the target is slowly worn down.

Where does the support or funding for this come from?

Though the systemic harassment that Targeted Individuals refer to as Gang Stalking is immoral and unethical in nature, programs such as this in democratic countries, and none democratic countries have always been funded by the Government. They are the only ones with enough money, coordination, and power to keep such a system in place. These Co-ordinated efforts then join hands with others for this systemic form of control and harassment.

Ruling the community

http://www.albionmonitor.com/9711b/policing.html

"Ruling the community with an iron fist. "Savvy law enforcement types realized that under the community policing rubric, cops, community groups, local companies, private foundations, citizen informants and federal agencies could form alliances without causing public outcry." Covert Action Quarterly, summer 1997."

ACLU Blog

http://www.gangstalkingworld.com/blog.aclu.org/2009/04/30/mass-con-fusion/#more-5320

"You mean to tell me that it is legal for corporations from the private sector to team up with local law enforcement officials in efforts to spy on innocent members of our society? You also mean to tell me that the synthesis of law enforcement authority and the drive of for-profit companies operate under little to no guidelines or restrictions and it is unclear to whom they are responsible to?"

What can you do to help?

1. If you know someone who is being targeted in this way please don't go along with it. Don't assume that the person is guilty or a bad person. Many innocent people are currently being targeted, and people are being told lies. This form of harassment is systemic and it’s about state control and conformity. The express goal of this harassment is to destroy the individual over time.

2. If you are aware of someone being harassed in this way, subtly direct them to websites that deal with Gang Stalking, or sites for Targeted Individuals. Knowledge is power.

3. You can subtly suggest that your local newspapers or community papers print articles about Targeted Individuals or even an write an objective piece about Gang Stalking.

4. If you are a law maker, you can petition for changing the laws. Ensure targets who are flagged in this way have proper notification letting them know that they are flagged. Convicted criminals have this right, why not targets? Many of whom are innocent members of the public.
Petition for better oversight of these programs. As it stands Communities are getting away with serious human rights abuses, and complaints are not being heard. Authority figures such as the police in many cases are not taking the reports seriously due to the type of warning markers attached to a targets file.

5. If you are a lawyer our community needs lawyers who are skilled in helping targets access Freedom Of Information files. Lawyers who can help targets get their files reviewed, or corrected. Lawyers who can work with the existing privacy laws to limit who and where the targets information is disseminated to. We need human rights lawyers who can address the complaints of abuses that are happening to people listed or flagged in this manner. Illegal surveillance, illegal access of mail and electronic communications, and torture via electronic monitoring.

6. Mental health professionals can recognize that there is illegal harassment happening to individuals who are flagged, listed or have warning markers placed against their names. Community notifications can and do create paranoia within communities. This notification makes targets prime for harassment, and community mobbing.
They can objectively investigate the complaints, and become familiar with the Electronic means of monitoring and harassment that are being used. Laws are just starting to catch up to the technology. Eg. Europe is considering a ban on the mosquito device, because it infringes on the human rights of children.

7. You can subtly offer your support to someone who is being unfairly treated, in very small little ways.

8. You can bring up the subject of Gang Stalking or Targeted Individuals.

How do participants communicate?

Communication happens in a number of ways. When on the street or in cars patrolling, they use a one handed sign language. Citizen Informants also seem to get ques via cellphone and some via earphones.

http://gangstalkingworld.com/Media/2010/02/informant-signals/

Their one handed sign language include things like tapping the side of the nose, corner of the eye, brushing back the hair 3 times, the infamous double blink, etc.

Here is a list of signals that the former East German Secret Police the Stasi used. These signals below are not gang stalking signals, they were used in the former East Germany.
http://www.nthposition.com/stasiland.php

SIGNALS FOR OBSERVATION

1. Watch out! Subject is coming - touch nose with hand or handkerchief

2. Subject is moving on, going further, or overtaking - stroke hair with hand, or raise hat briefly

3. Subject standing still - lay one hand against back, or on stomach

4. Observing Agent wishes to terminate observation because cover threatened - bend and retie shoelaces

5. Subject returning - both hands against back, or on stomach

6. Observing Agent wishes to speak with Team Leader or other Observing Agents - take out briefcase or equivalent and examine contents.

“In the service sector this may require identifying to employees persons who have a history of aggressive or inappropriate behavior in the store, bar, mall or taxi.

The identity of the person and the nature of the risk must be given to staff likely to come into contact with that person. While workers have the right to know the risks, it is important to remember that this information cannot be indiscriminately distributed.

A woman named Jane Clift in the U.K. went through a very similar type of flagging system. A warning marker was placed against her name designating her as potentially violent.

ane Clift was targeted this way and spent four year clearing her name.

Individuals are being flagged without their knowledge. In many countries these community notifications might fall under community safety and health laws. It seems that employers, educational facilities, and community centers are in some cases flagging innocent individuals as a means of retaliation, silencing, or controlling members of society.

Communities come together and discuss what values they would like to have in their community, community development, and it's also a time to discuss any problems that might be happening in a specific area. If a problem is identified an investigation might be opened. These local programs in many countries have been forming partnerships with other government run programs at, provincial, state and federal levels. A process called Deconfliction allows them to share information. Reports of Gang Stalking are not only coming in from democratic countries, but they are coming in from many other countries as well.

The modern day systemic form of control could only be funded at governmental levels, just like it has in other societies where these similar types of harassment programs have been implemented. It's all part of a system of control and conformity that has been in place for many years. A system of control with many local groups and appendages taking part. Many targets report that their information is passed and shared between country boarders, and that the surveillance continues even when they travel.

What are the goals of Gang Stalking?

he official goal is listed as a notification for the community, to alert them of individuals who have been flagged, or have had a warning marker placed on their file. It's officially used as a means of investigating or monitoring individuals who have displayed inappropriate, or violent behaviours. The real goal in some cases however seems to be to isolate the target from all forms of support, so that the target can be set up in the future for arrest, institutionalization, or forced suicide. Other goals of this harassment is to destroy the targets reputation and credibility. Make the target look crazy or unstable.

Other goals involve sensitizing the target to everyday stimuli's as a form of control, which is used to control targets when they get out of line. Once the target is sensitized, the Citizen Informants have an easier time identifying the Targeted Individual in public. The targets sensitivity is most likely added to their file as a warning marker and sign to watch for future reactions to.

The structure of this type of notification makes the targets vulnerable. Once a community goes into monitoring mode, they unofficially work towards driving the target from the community. This can be done by making the target destitute. Secondary goals include making the target homeless, jobless, giving them a breakdown, and the primary goals seems to be to drive the target to forced suicide. This is the same thing that was done to targets of the Stasi and Cointelpro investigations. It's a useful way of eliminating perceived enemies of the state.

What are other Names for Gang Stalking?

There are many names for this form of systemic control and harassment. Under the Gang Stalking label you will also find such terms as Community Mobbing, Community Stalking, Stalking by Proxy, Organized Stalking, Cause Stalking, Multi-Stalking, but it's all part of the same community notification harassment protocol. What many people do not realize is that Gang Stalking is just one appendage of this systemic form of control. There are other forms of control used to repress, and keep individuals in line. Other forms or appendages include, but are not limited to: Mobbing, Cointelpro, The Buzzsaw, Covert War, Electronic Harassment, etc. These are the just some of the names being given to a very old game, that is once again being played by governments on their unsuspecting citizens.

How are targets chosen?

Officially targets can be flagged and investigated for suspected, or reported behaviours. Unofficially the Targets can be chosen because of many other reasons. They can be chosen for political views. They can be chosen for whistle-blowing. They can be chosen because they belong to a dissident movement. They can be chosen because they asserted their rights at work, or filed a complaint. They can be chosen because they made the wrong enemy. Were considered to be too outspoken, unwittingly investigated something that the state did not want investigated, signed a petition, wrote a letter. They were deemed as suspicious by a civilian spy/snitch and their names were handed over.

It’s becoming apparent that targets might be chosen for this systemic form of control, if they are not already in some way a part of this controlled system. Eg. Many Targeted Individuals seem to be unaware of this community notification, flagging and monitoring system. Some targets also seem to be unaware that large chunks of our society are now being used as Citizen Informants.

Who gets targeted?

Targeting can happen to anyone in society. In the past primary targets of programs such as Cointelpro have been minorities. Targeting however can happen to anyone. Individuals are often targeted for being outspoken, whistle blowers, dissidents, people who go up against wealthy corporations, woman’s groups, (single) women, minorities, extremists, conspiracy theorists, anti-war proponents, individuals identified or targeted as problems at these community meetings, and other innocent individuals. The majority of the targets are often not aware that they are being targeted in this way. When a target moves, changes jobs, the harassment still continues, because they are still flagged, and a notification is still going out to everyone they come in contact with. Every time the target moves, the same information, lies, and slander will be spread out into the new community and the systemic monitoring and harassment will continue. Traits of those targeted

http://gangstalkingworld.com/Forum/YaBB.pl?num=1205738832/0

Who takes part?

People from all walks of life are a part of this system, because once a target is flagged, their information is distributed to a wide range of people, organizations, and communities. People from all races, ages, genders. Every sector of society that you can think of is a part of this. Civilian Spies/Snitches include, but are not limited to: General laborers, the wealthy, bikers, drug dealers, drug users, street people, punks, hip hop culture, KKK, black activists, church groups, youth groups, Fire Fighters, police officers, lawyers, health care workers, store keepers, maids, janitors, cable installers, phone repair persons, mail carriers, locksmiths, electricians, etc. There really is no minimum or maximum age range. An article came out recently in the UK, saying they were recruiting children as young as eight years old to be Covert Human Intelligence Sources.

http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/uknews/2689996/Children-aged-eight-enlisted-as-c%20ouncil-snoopers.html

Public individuals that the Targeted Individual comes in contact with are given this warning. These community notifications started with good intentions. Workers and the community at large do have a right to be notified if they are going to encounter persons who have violent, inappropriate histories. Citizens want to be able to protect themselves and their communities, however what is happening is that this program is also being used to falsely target innocent people.

Many do not understand or care that the end consequence of this flagging, this harassment protocol is to destroy a person. Many people in today's society are scared, they are willing to give up personal freedoms, for a false sense of security, and if that means taking away the rights of another individual to accomplish this, they have no problem doing this.

Why people participate in Gang Stalking?

here are many reasons that someone takes part in this.

1. Some do it for the sense of power that it gives them. They feel in control. Many wholeheartedly believe that this let's them know who is bad and who they need to protect themselves and their communities from.

. Others do this as a way to make friends and keep friends. It's something social and fun for them to do. They love that special feeling of monitoring and protecting their community. Many in society use the one handed sign language to communicate and it's very effective in breaking down race, gender, age, social barriers. Many believe that it also let's them know who is on their side, vs who could be the potential target.

3. Others are forced or blackmailed by the State or the police into taking part. I have seen a few people pressured into taking part.

4. They are told that they are part of homeland or national security. They are told that they are being used to help keep and eye on dangerous or emotionally disturbed individuals. They see themselves as heroic spies for the state.

5. Others are just local thugs or Informants who are already being used for other activities, and their energies are just diverted over into these community health and safety programs. Eg. Some may be given the choice of monitoring a Targeted Individual for the community or the police vs going to jail.

6. Others are told outright lies and slander about the target to get them to go along with ruining the targets life. Eg. Many caring families are told that the individuals has displayed mental health issues, or other socially unacceptable behaviours and might be a danger to themselves or the community at large, and that the notification is necessary for keeping the community safe. They are asked not to disclose this.

7. Many are however just average citizens who in the course of going about their day to day jobs, are being used to keep an eye out, and if a flagged target does come into their vicinity, they are asked to watch, monitor and observe the target. It’s the way the society is.

What are some techniques used against targets?

A few of the most common techniques are listed below.

a) Classical conditioning.

Getting a Targeted Individual sensitized to an everyday stimuli. The targeted individual over a period of months, or even years is negatively sensitized to an everyday stimuli, which is then used to harass them. It’s used out in public to let them know they are constantly being harassed and monitored. Some examples of everyday stimulus that might be used include: sounds, colors, patterns, actions. Eg. Red, white, yellow, strips, pens clicking, key jangling, loud coughing, loud whistling, loud smacking of clapping of hands together, cell phones, laptops, etc.

b) 24/7 Surveillance

This will involve flagging and following the target everywhere they go. Learning about the target. Where they shop, work, play, who their friends and family are. Getting close to the target, moving into the community or apartment where they live, across the street. Monitoring the targets phone, house, and computer activity. Surveillance Policy.

Click to access n_039963.pdf

Isolation of said target.

This is done via reports. The flagging is meant to warn the community, but they act as little more than slander campaigns. They present a one sided assessment of the targets behavior and activity. The target is never allowed to tell their side of the story or to clear their name. This one sided assessment can include false reports, lies, and legitimate incidents where the target was set up. Eg. People in the targets community are told that the target is crazy, dangerous, a thief, into drugs, a prostitute, pedophile, in trouble for something, needs to be watched. This very flagging in and of itself is capable of creating paranoia, and false interpretation of everyday incidents.

Files will even be produced on the target.

It’s been shown that community notifications of any kind can and do create a sense of paranoia within a community.

Click to access C20.pdf

Some people might argue that they would feel more secure if they were aware of the identities of dangerous offenders in their neighborhoods, but widespread community notification actually serves to heighten fear of victimization. In a large metropolitan area, hundreds of thousands of people are notified of a dangerous offender’s release, while only hundreds will come into contact with him in the community. This blanket notification propagates the belief that there are more “predators” in the community than ever before, and fearful attitudes among members of the public are reinforced. A vicious cycle results: widespread notification leads to an increase in the community's fear of crime which, in turn, leads to more calls for notification. We would also argue that the use of inflammatory language such as "predator" by politicians and officials also works to heighten fear and increase calls for more punitive action.

d) Noise and mimicking campaigns.

Disrupting the targets life, sleep with loud power tools, construction, stereos, doors slamming, etc. Talking in public about private things in the targets life. Mimicking actions of the target. Basically letting the target know that they are in the targets life. Daily interferences, nothing that would be too overt to the untrained eye, but psychologically degrading and damaging to the target over time.

e) Everyday life breaks and street theatre.

Flat tires, sleep deprivation, drugging food, putting dirt on targets property. Mass strangers doing things in public to annoy targets. These strangers might get text messaged to be at a specific time and place, and perform a specific action.

f) Electronic Harassment.

Electronic means can be used to create the illusion that the target is having a mental breakdown, when in fact they are being targeted and harassed by a community that is trying to get them to move, because they believe that the person is a danger, or an undesirable. This flagging system allows the community to treat the target as less than, someone they are allowed to harass, and victimize. It gives them a license to do unspeakable things to innocent targets, and their families.

Hightech Harassment

ttp://www.amazon.com/High-Tech-Harassment-Scott-French/dp/0873646169

This is not just another revenge book. This is the ultimate revenge book-high tech recipes for madness concocted by the author in collaboration with the experts. Scott French interviewed engineers, bank tellers, phone operators, computer technicians, radio and TV managers, and asked them point black, “How would you get even with somebody?” What he came up with is a collection of electronics, chemicals, and common sense designed to push anybody over the edge. Discover how to induce insanity with lasers, shockers, breakers, and blowers; clear beaches with “silent sound”; zap computer disks from a distance, bypas computer passwords, blast boomboxes and bother banks. In short learn to harass the forces of science and technology and excercise your God-given right to get even with anybody, anytime.

These actions might seem harmless to these Citizen Informants, but in reality the actions could be causing great psychological trauma for the target. Eg. Blocking targets path, getting ahead of them in line, cutting or boxing them in on the road, saying or doing things to elicit a response from targets. Etc. It’s like the death of a thousand paper cuts. One or two minor incidents will not cause any harm to the target, but over time the target is slowly worn down.

Where does the support or funding for this come from?

Though the systemic harassment that Targeted Individuals refer to as Gang Stalking is immoral and unethical in nature, programs such as this in democratic countries, and none democratic countries have always been funded by the Government. They are the only ones with enough money, coordination, and power to keep such a system in place. These Co-ordinated efforts then join hands with others for this systemic form of control and harassment.

Ruling the community

http://www.albionmonitor.com/9711b/policing.html

Ruling the community with an iron fist. “Savvy law enforcement types realized that under the community policing rubric, cops, community groups, local companies, private foundations, citizen informants and federal agencies could form alliances without causing public outcry.” Covert Action Quarterly, summer 1997.”

ACLU Blog

http://www.gangstalkingworld.com/blog.aclu.org/2009/04/30/mass-con-fusion/#more-5320

“You mean to tell me that it is legal for corporations from the private sector to team up with local law enforcement officials in efforts to spy on innocent members of our society? You also mean to tell me that the synthesis of law enforcement authority and the drive of for-profit companies operate under little to no guidelines or restrictions and it is unclear to whom they are responsible to?”

What can you do to help?

1. If you know someone who is being targeted in this way please don’t go along with it. Don’t assume that the person is guilty or a bad person. Many innocent people are currently being targeted, and people are being told lies. This form of harassment is systemic and it’s about state control and conformity. The express goal of this harassment is to destroy the individual over time.

2. If you are aware of someone being harassed in this way, subtly direct them to websites that deal with Gang Stalking, or sites for Targeted Individuals. Knowledge is power.

3. You can subtly suggest that your local newspapers or community papers print articles about Targeted Individuals or even an write an objective piece about Gang Stalking.

4. If you are a law maker, you can petition for changing the laws. Ensure targets who are flagged in this way have proper notification letting them know that they are flagged. Convicted criminals have this right, why not targets? Many of whom are innocent members of the public.

   Petition for better oversight of these programs. As it stands Communities are getting away with serious human rights abuses, and complaints are not being heard. Authority figures such as the police in many cases are not taking the reports seriously due to the type of warning markers attached to a targets file.

5. If you are a lawyer our community needs lawyers who are skilled in helping targets access Freedom Of Information files. Lawyers who can help targets get their files reviewed, or corrected. Lawyers who can work with the existing privacy laws to limit who and where the targets information is disseminated to. We need human rights lawyers who can address the complaints of abuses that are happening to people listed or flagged in this manner. Illegal surveillance, illegal access of mail and electronic communications, and torture via electronic monitoring.

6. Mental health professionals can recognize that there is illegal harassment happening to individuals who are flagged, listed or have warning markers placed against their names. Community notifications can and do create paranoia within communities. This notification makes targets prime for harassment, and community mobbing.

   They can objectively investigate the complaints, and become familiar with the Electronic means of monitoring and harassment that are being used. Laws are just starting to catch up to the technology. Eg. Europe is considering a ban on the mosquito device, because it infringes on the human rights of children.

7. You can subtly offer your support to someone who is being unfairly treated, in very small little ways.

8. You can bring up the subject of Gang Stalking or Targeted Individuals.

How do participants communicate?

Communication happens in a number of ways. When on the street or in cars patrolling, they use a one handed sign language. Citizen Informants also seem to get ques via cellphone and some via earphones.

http://gangstalkingworld.com/Media/2010/02/informant-signals/

heir one handed sign language include things like tapping the side of the nose, corner of the eye, brushing back the hair 3 times, the infamous double blink, etc.

Here is a list of signals that the former East German Secret Police the Stasi used. These signals below are not gang stalking signals, they were used in the former East Germany.
http://www.nthposition.com/stasiland.php

SIGNALS FOR OBSERVATION

1. Watch out! Subject is coming - touch nose with hand or handkerchief

2. Subject is moving on, going further, or overtaking - stroke hair with hand, or raise hat briefly

3. Subject standing still - lay one hand against back, or on stomach

4. Observing Agent wishes to terminate observation because cover threatened - bend and retie shoelaces

5. Subject returning - both hands against back, or on stomach

6. Observing Agent wishes to speak with Team Leader or other Observing Agents - take out briefcase or equivalent and examine contents.

I used to think I was TI, before I started to read about synchronicities, parapsychology, and other stuff which indicated the existence of extremely sophisticated mind control throughout history that the controlled persons would not even ordinarily notice.

I also think a lot of you people put a bit too much faith in your five senses. Hallucinations can be as convincing as it gets. A lot of your experiences could be explained by hallucinations, paranoia, and synchronicity. The rest could be explained by sophisticated mind control. I don't believe anyone is really "involved". I think people are being manipulated like puppets to give the illusion of involvement or human conspiracy.

Does that sound far-fetched to you? I can quarantee you it's not as far fetched as thinking hundreds of ordinary people are consciously involved in a purposeless conspiracy against another ordinary person, including his parents and friends. And that there are thousands of such cases all over the world, and have been at least since the 19th century. That's what would be far-fetched. Your own theory is so far-fetched that people will believe in God and other nonsense but they won't believe what you believe.

That's partly why your crusade is futile as long as you keep employing the tactics you do. No one will believe your story, because it's unbelievable AND about things they are familiar with. If you want to make something unbelievable seem believable, you have to talk about things that are outside everyday reality. People know everyday reality. They know your everyday interpretation is nonsense because you are trying to talk about something they know from personal experience and that something is completely unambiguous to them.

People are being mind controlled and they haven't got a clue what you are talking about because they're all victims, you're just the person who is supposed to notice something is a bit off about all this.

I don't think the entity that does this controlling is super interested in what you believe so much as it may be toying with you or testing you, so you might want to try reading my blog post at my blog and acquiring a competing viewpoint. See which one makes more sense, your or mine. (My handle links to my blog.)

I like your post it's bright and intellegent, what's so conspiracy ridden about an out of control informant system, corrupt cops, local monitoring units that have no standards what so ever, and threat assessment teams that do enable such monitoring? The research is there, you are bright enough to figure it out. Would you call the Jane Clift case a conspiracy, being followed, her details shared, and having to move, cause every place she went her details were coming up, medium risk, only to be seen in pairs?

After reading your detailed and lengthy side of the issue, let me pose some comments. You do not need to respond. I already have the answers to these questions. These are for your benefit and others: Look around you, and I mean look REALLY hard, past the media hype, the government lies, and you will see the FACTS of what these criminals do, and what they are capable of. They follow the conspiracy of evil, and they don't even hide it most of the time. It is never ridiculous to believe in God being the creator and our Savior, whom is love and truth. It is more ludicrous to believe we all came from monkeys and amoeba since they all exist apart from us as humans to begin with. That alone disproves evolution easily. My other comment is have you ever been inside or involved in a secret society or cult? You either have and side with them, which is where the misinformation can come in to posts like this you write, or you simply have no idea about any of it, and thus need to really see what is going on here. These people are much more than victims. They are human beings with lives and feelings who have been severely used, harassed and had their minds and lives practically altered and destroyed. And this is why the deprogramming techniques and tons of Christian faith and love are the only things that will ever truly free them I can tell you that as a matter of fact. Psychology has caused a lot of problems, which is why many kill themselves on those pharma drugs!!! So please do not come in here and act like you know what you are talking about, because believe me, you clearly do not. Your words were not only insensitive, but unwarranted and uneducated. And you have not been through half of what these people have, or you would not have written this post. The facts are these people have been victims of cult stalking and mind control harassment, some even murdered, so please be more careful what you say. In fact I think it is best you just do not post here anymore, because you will not be respected at all. We are here to help, not to make ignorant and insensitive judgments. There is PLENTY of evidence besides the people themselves supporting all of this does happen to them. I personally think the moderator should not allow these comments at all because they do not serve the purpose here, and they have no bearing on what is going on here with all of the people involved and the victims they hurt and harass.

Dear site creator:

Hello, I am a targeted individual. I am harassed everywhere I go. I have lost all of my friends because of being gangstalked. They labeled me as some sort of sexual predator. Even my own family is in on it and believes the lies. You don’t know how devastating that is. Can you please contact me at the e-mail address provided. I have no one to turn to…

Thank you.

PREDATORY GANGSTALKING

from http://www.whale.to/c/predatory_gangstalking.html

“Predatory Gangstalking is a criminal phenomenon referring to a group of loosely affiliated people who, in an organized and systematic manner, relentlessly invade all areas of an individual’s life on a continuing basis, as part of their lifestyle. While each individual gangstalker does his or her small part, what defines Predatory Gangstalking is the collective intent to do harm.”
R.B.Ross c 2005

Tactics of Predatory Gangstalking include highly coordinated surveillance (hidden cameras, conversation bugging in private aswell as public), harassment, and psychological, psychosocial, financial, and sometimes physical assaults on an individual by a large group of people who are often strangers to the targeted individual.

A Predatory Gangstalking group is a well-run organization comprised of members who are unidentified as gangstalkers to the outside world. Until a group of gangstalkers turn their face towards someone selected to be one of their targets, members of society do not realize there is such an invisible group. The practitioners of predatory gangstalking are people who, for the most part, go about their business of daily life appearing like everyone else, except for their activities involved with Predatory Gangstalking. Predatory gangstalking activities take priority over everything else in the lives of Predatory Gangstalkers. Predatory gangstalking is actually a lifestyle for those who participate in it.

Predatory Gangstalking is also called “terror stalking”, “gangstalking”, “flash mobbing”, “cause stalking,” “hate stalking,” “multi-stalking, “happy slapping,” “workplace bullying, and “covert war.”

. “Flash mobbing” is an event occurring when a targeted individual is spotted in society. Their photo and location is immediately and simultaneously sent out by cell phone text messages and Internet email to all gangstalkers within a certain radius. All gangstalkers then suddenly descend upon the target as a mob.

. “Cause stalking” refers to gangstalking by single-issue radicals. They stalk a targeted person related to that specific agenda. “Cause stalking” has been reported to have been carried out by radical Christians who believe in “dominion theology.”

Dominion Theology is a religious interpretation of the Bible which these groups believe requires them to “take dominion over the earth” which they believe is the precursor to the return of Jesus to earth. “Cause stalkers” in general believe that they are bringing about social change through gangstalking activities. “Cause stalking” can be carried out by White Supremacist as a form of “Hate Stalking (Scientology groups are another eg.).” This type of predatory gangstalking is primarily for the purpose of intimidation and often is a precursor to or an adjunct to violence.

. “Happy slapping” refers to group harassment of one youth by other youths carried live over cell phones equipped to handle video to peers youths. The young gangstalkers slap around the targeted youth while laughing at him or her while several other youths broadcast the incident live to as many peers as possible.

. “Ritual Gangstalking” is reportedly performed by cults and secret organizations such as Satanists, secret orders of free masons, some voodoo /obeah practitioners and Scientologists as a means of control or for punishment. “Ritual abuse” is incorporated into “ritual gangstalking” patterns in this case.

N.B. Obeah is considered one of the darkest forms of black magic known. Blood sacrifice is always used and the intent is to harm, even to death, another person.

. “Workplace bullying” involves gangstalking activities tailored to the workplace which are carried out by a group of employees against another individual employee.

* “Cybergangstalking” is a situation where an individual is identified to be a target through Internet participation and their personal identity is determined. Cybergangstalkers pierce the electronic veil and are able to enter into the real life of a person, creating all forms of harassment, theft, psychological operations including slander and libel, and able to commit crimes against the targeted individual.

* “Vigilante Stalking, Terror Stalking” is the same as Predatory Stalking.

Let it be said that we really do live in amazing times. The world itself has seen much change and turmoil even in the last century, and with the increase of technology, the desire in those who choose to live out of balance with life and try to live in dominance and control of the masses have opted for this horrendous path of ‘stolen power’. This may sound quite vague, and it is, only because the other face of ganstalking or rather the precise reason for its use deals with a more incredible phenomena than hasn’t been touched up yet. In the first instance, we mustn’t be so naïve as to assume that our governments and all those that have been granted the power and authority to run our world are acting from a selfless perspective. They simply are not. The secrets of the universe, God and true power have always been the Holy Grail of man, and the desperate desire to achieve and own them by some.

To this effect the studies and research that has been conducted since time immemorial have been immense, with the one of the holiest of holiest being the understanding of the human mind, soul and will and how these can be controlled and used far more readily than man has been able to achieve so far. And it is for these reasons that extensive and more covert experimentation has been undertaken on people targeted for this work. These people are the targetted individuals of gangstalking.

Our minds are complex structures, our memories (long and short term), our thought processes, our fears and so on. If it is true that we do indeed manifest what we think as countless experts have us believe and that spiritually we are indeed one soul fragmented but unequivocally connected in a unified field, then it stands to reason that if one or a few souls and minds can be controlled then this will lead to the occupation of ALL. This of course sounds like insane rantings but assuredly this is the reality humanity faces today. There is a dark agenda to control all minds by controlling the energetic fields of existence, our physical bodies, dna, etheric fields, mental and emotional fields and so on.

Next, imagine for a moment if a ‘Lucifer’ were also created from one of the targeted individuals, more than just the social pariah they started as, what if society is lead to believe that they are actually a satanic entity or individual. In doing so, a common enemy is created with which to blame all eventual chaos upon. This is another portion of the agenda.

It is in the end the stuff of nightmares and what has been called dark prophecy or conspiracy theory is actually ancient agenda in it’s final stages of being played out.

On a personal level, participating in any form of gangstalking is not only insane but utterly immoral, and spiritually and criminally corrupt. If you care, choose never to participate, inform the target (carefully/secretly), make a united stand with friends and neighbors not participate and log all the evidence you can - take down all information you can. Be smart, technology and the capability of those that have orchestrated these world terrors are immense.

But most of all remember that the ‘fear matrix’ within the collective consciousness of humanity is an overall target. If people are afraid they can be controlled. Stand firm in a belief of your divinity and eternal being (whether you believe in a God or not) you are still part Omnipotent Grace experiencing on earth.

OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE

Obstruction of justice is considered a crime against justice itself. By obstructing justice, one is seeking to thwart the process of justice and the operation of the justice system. From presidents to street criminals, those facing obstruction of justice charges could suffer major consequences. Prosecutions can commence at either the federal or state level.

This article describes obstruction of justice, some examples of obstruction, and the types of penalties one could face.

Presidential Examples of Obstruction of Justice

In the midst of President Richard Nixon's bid for re-election in 1972, associates of his campaign team broke into the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington, D.C. They planted listening devices and gathered sensitive information. Nixon denied any involvement in what appeared to be a cover-up attempt but subpoenaed White House recordings proved otherwise. After articles of impeachment were brought to the House floor, which alleged obstruction of justice, among other crimes, Nixon resigned.

Twenty-four years later, President Bill Clinton also faced charges for obstruction of justice and perjury for lying about a sexual encounter he had with a White House intern. Those charges formed the basis of impeachment proceedings. He was ultimately acquitted by the Senate and served the remainder of his term.

The code section made infamous by Presidents Nixon and Clinton "Obstruction of proceedings before departments, agencies, and committees" (18 U.S.C. section 1505), is punishable by a fine and imprisonment of up to five years. Neither president ever faced the possibility of criminal penalties, however.

Elements of an Obstruction of Justice Charge

The elements required for a conviction on an obstruction of justice charge differ by code section. For a person to be convicted of obstruction of justice, they must have acted with the specific intent to create an obstruction. The statute criminalizes "endeavors to influence, intimidate, or impede" the legal process, even if those endeavors were unsuccessful. Seemingly innocuous acts could become criminal activity if they have the intended effect of impeding justice.

SUBORNATION OF PERJURY

In American federal law, Title 18 U.S.C. § 1622 provides:

> Whoever procures another to commit any perjury is guilty of subornation of perjury, and shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

In American law, Scots law, and under the laws of some English-speaking Commonwealth nations, subornation of perjury is the crime of persuading or permitting a person to commit perjury, which is the swearing of a false oath to tell the truth in a legal proceeding, whether spoken or written.

The term subornation of perjury further describes the circumstance wherein an attorney at law causes a client to lie under oath or, allows another party to lie under oath.

In California law, per the state bar code, the subornation of perjury constitutes an act of "moral turpitude" on the part of the attorney, and thus, is cause for their disbarment, or for the suspension of their license to practice law.

As a crime, it has been defined as "persuading another to commit perjury."

But "suborn" is more broadly defined. Amongst three definitions: to induce a person to commit a wrongful act ... esp. in a secret or underhanded manner; to induce a person to commit perjury; and to obtain perjured testimony from another.

In legal practice, the condition of suborning perjury applies to an attorney who presents either testimony or an affidavit, or both, either to a judge or to a jury, which the attorney knows to be materially false, and not factual. In civil law and in criminal law, the attorney's knowledge that the testimony is materially false must rise above mere suspicion to what an attorney would reasonably have believed in the circumstances of the matter discussed in the testimony. Hence, the attorney cannot be wilfully blind to the fact that their witness is giving false, perjurious testimony.

An attorney who encourages a witness to give false testimony is suborning perjury, a crime punished either with formal disciplinary action, disbarment, jail, or a combination thereof. A false statement by an attorney in court also is a crime similar to subornation of perjury and is punished accordingly. In the professional conduct of an attorney at law, there is a fine delineation between assisting a witness to recall events and encouraging the witness to give materially false testimony. The practice of ″horse shedding the witness″ (rehearsing testimony) (also known as woodshedding), is an example of such perjurious criminal conduct by an attorney, which is depicted in the true-crime novel Anatomy of a Murder (1958), by Robert Traver – John D. Voelker, a justice of the Michigan Supreme Court – and in the eponymous film (Otto Preminger, 1959), about a rape-and-murder case wherein are explored the ethical and legal problems inherent to the subornation of perjury.

JURY TAMPERING

Jury tampering is the crime of unduly attempting to influence the composition and/or decisions of a jury during the course of a trial. The means by which this crime could be perpetrated can include attempting to discredit potential jurors to ensure they will not be selected for duty. Once selected, jurors could be bribed or intimidated to act in a certain manner on duty. It could also involve making unauthorized contact with them for the purpose of introducing prohibited outside information and then arguing for a mistrial. In the United States, people have also been charged with jury tampering for handing out pamphlets and flyers indicating that jurors have certain rights and obligations, including an obligation to vote their conscience notwithstanding the instructions they are given by the judge.

What Are The Differences Between Burglary, Theft, And Vandalism?
retrieved from Voss Law and copied or modified to here

Someone has broken into your business and caused damage. You may be confused by which crime was technically committed on your property and whether the damage is covered by your commercial insurance policy. In order to better understand how your business was damaged, it is important to know the differences between burglary, theft, and vandalism. Let's take a look at their basic definitions:

THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN BURGLARY, THEFT, AND VANDALISM

- BURGLARY: Burglary is the act of entering a property illegally with the intent of breaking a law. Elements of burglary include trespassing, breaking, and entering. Someone who commits burglary could do so in order to steal from the property, to illegally dwell there, or to vandalize property.
- THEFT: Theft or robbery is a criminal act in which a person takes someone else's property without permission.

While burglary often goes hand-in-hand with theft, theft can occur without burglary and vice versa.

- VANDALISM:Vandalism is the purposeful and malicious destruction of property by someone who does not own the property. It is sometimes referred to as malicious mischief or malicious trespassing. It is common for those who commit vandalism to first commit burglary, though not everyone who commits burglary is guilty of vandalism.

When your business or commercial property has been damaged by burglars, thieves, or vandals, the damage can be significant and expensive. It is important to understand exactly how your property was damaged and exactly what your policy covers when you make an insurance claim. OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE IN STATE AND FEDERAL JURISDICTIONS

Obstruction of Justice Under Federal Jurisdiction

Obstruction of justice is defined by federal statute as an act that:

> "...corruptly or by threats or force, or by any threatening letter or communication, influences, obstructs, or impedes, or endeavors to influence, obstruct, or impede, the due administration of justice."

There are basically three categories of obstructing justice.

1. Interference with judicial processes and court proceedings by:
    - Obstructing, resisting, opposing, assaulting , or exposing process servers (18 U.S.C. section 1501) and extradition agents in the execution of their duties (18 U.S.C. section 1502).
    - Attempting to influence, threaten, intimidate, or impede a juror, grand jury, court officer, judge, or magistrate (18 U.S.C. section 1503)
    - Retaliating against a federal judge or federal law enforcement officer by making false claims against or slandering them (18 U.S.C. section 1521)
    - Trying to influence a juror through written communication (18 U.S.C. section 1504) or by picketing or parading outside a courtroom (18 U.S.C. section 1507)
    - Recording the deliberations or voting of a jury, or observing or listening in on a jury one is not part of (18 U.S.C. section 1508)

- Stealing, falsifying, or in other ways tampering with the proceedings of any court in the U.S. so that a judgment is reversed, made void, or fails to take effect (18 U.S.C. section 1505), or effects a false release or bail (18 U.S.C. section 1506)

- Tampering with (18 U.S.C. section 1512) or retaliating against a witness, victim, or an informant in a trial or legal proceeding (18 U.S.C. section 1513), including killing or attempting to kill in order to prevent evidence from being shared. (To prevent witness tampering, the courts can issue a restraining order [18 U.S.C. section 1514].)

- Using threats or force to prevent, or obstruct, or interfere with the performance of a court order (18 U.S.C. section 1509)

2. Interference with law enforcement and investigation of a crime by:

    - Obstructing a pending investigation by Congress, a committee of either House, a federal administrative agency, or a federal department (18 U.S.C. section 1505), or the Armed Forces (18 U.S.C. section 1518)

    - Obstructing a criminal investigation by bribery, or for a financial institution officer to notify a customer of the contents of a subpoena (18 U.S.C. section 1510)

    - Obstructing pending investigations involving:

        - The insurance industry (18 U.S.C. section 1515)

        - Federal audits (18 U.S.C. section 1516)

        - Financial institutions (18 U.S.C. section 1517)

        - Health care offenses (18 U.S.C. section 1518)

- Conspiring to obstruct law enforcement in order to facilitate illegal gambling (18 U.S.C. section 1511)

3. Destruction or concealment of evidence through:

   - Falsifying records in federal investigations and in bankruptcy cases (18 U.S.C. section 1519) or destroying corporate audit records (18 U.S.C. section 1520)
   - Bribery
   - Threats, physical force, or assault
   - Tampering with evidence: concealing, destroying, altering, or falsifying documents and written and oral testimony.
   - False statements meant to mislead investigators by intentionally omitting relevant information, concealing material facts, creating a false impression, knowingly submitting or inviting reliance on physical evidence that is false, forged, or altered
   - Abuse of power to prevent or obstruct compliance by others with an investigator or judicial proceeding

Obstruction of Justice Under State Laws

All states address obstruction of justice in some form. State codes tend to focus more on acts that interfere with the day-to-day work of the police. Some state laws, such as Florida's, define several specific acts, while others are more broadly written.

For example, one section of Florida's obstruction of justice code prohibits the unlawful possession of a concealed handcuff key.

California law makes it a crime to willfully "resist, delay or obstruct" a police officer or emergency personnel while performing their job duties. The statute includes the specific acts of interfering with radio communications over a public safety radio frequency. The law makes it clear that simply photographing or video recording police is not a violation.

Penalties and Sentencing

The federal obstruction of justice code sets different sentences for different parts of the code:

- Threatening or attempting to intimidate a juror is punishable by a fine and up to ten years in prison. But if the crime also involves an attempted murder or the commission of a class A or B felony against a juror, the defendant may be sentenced to up to twenty years in prison.
- Attempting to influence a juror through (non-threatening) written communication is punishable by a fine and up to six months in prison.

State laws usually classify obstruction of justice offenses as felonies, although they differ widely on how they define the crime.

- The Illinois law that prohibits the destruction of evidence classifies it as a Class 4 felony punishable by one to three years in prison.
- The crime of "obstructing a law enforcement officer" in Washington State is a gross misdemeanor and punishable by a fine and up to 364 days in county jail.

Counterfeiting Forgeries Money Laundering

Black Money and Crypto Currency

- BASE-2 BINARY: Consists of 0 or 1
- BASE-4 (QUARTERNARY) NUMBERS : base-4 number system consists of 4 digits: 0, 1, 2 and 3. or in genetics A,G, C, and T. adenine (A), cytosine (C), guanine (G), and thymine (T). A DNA molecule consists of two strands wound around each other, with each strand held together by bonds between the bases. Two times Binary gives Qquarernatry.
- BASE-8 (OCTAL) NUMBERS: he base-8 number system consists of 8 digits: 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7.
- BASE-16 (HEXADECIMAL) NUMBERS:

A "Black Currency" made out of rerpoducable "Genetic Codes" as unlimited value.

The real value of it is the secret history and desirability of the genome. No one other than Edward Paul Donegan who IS qualified to represent himself is entitled to that genome.

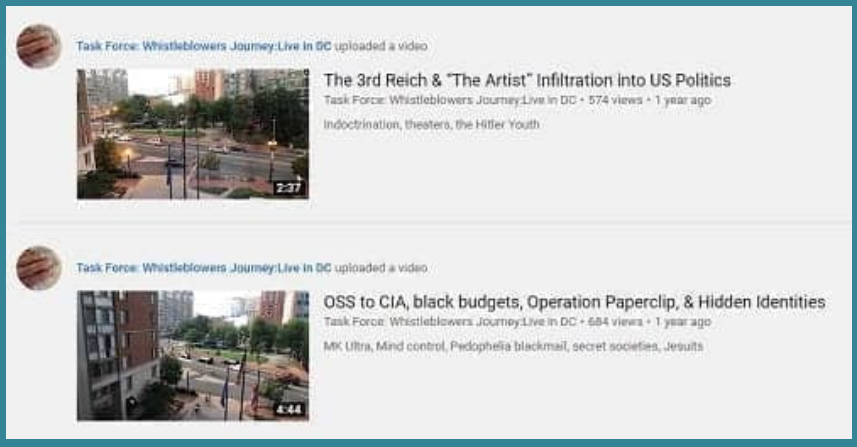
Capitalized value of Crypto Currency

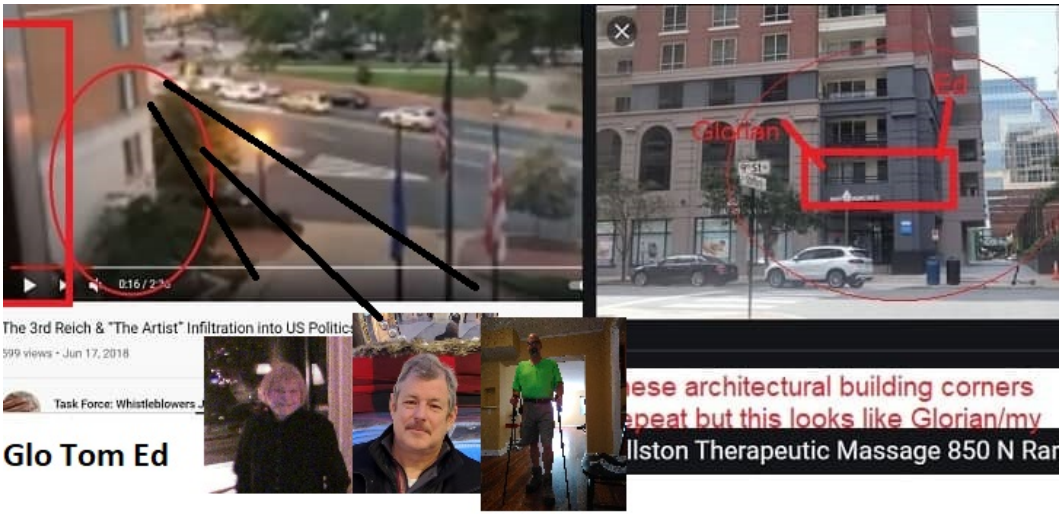
What is market cap?

Market capitalization (or market cap) is the total dollar value of all the shares of a company's stock — or, in the case of Bitcoin or another cryptocurrency, of all the coins that have been mined. In crypto, market cap is calculated by multiplying the total number of coins that have been mined by the price of a single coin at any given time. *

You might see references to "circulating supply" market cap or "fully diluted supply" market cap. With Bitcoin, those two numbers are the 18.5 million that have been mined ("circulating supply") or you can use the 21 million that will eventually be mined ("fully diluted supply). Depending on their methodology, some observers will measure market cap using the currently circulating supply, while others will use the fully diluted number.

In the two screen captures from her YouTube Channel I show Jen Moore Task Force out the CIA for using stolen rights to DNA of Glorian Donegan as black budget money for illegal and secret and even prurient operations and criminal gains





There are no limits to the amount of false allegations against Edwwr Paul Donegan and each "mined" coin, right to genome, can be created and arguably not devalue or dilute the total value of the Genome. This book speculates Malcolm X objected to so many MKLUTRA experimental births because it undermined the uniqueness of his own child, one such experimental birth.

A racial hate crime COIINTELPRO operations has been organized against me which is supposed to define me and defeat me and this is likely because my genome has been used in blacks and whites who do not wish be associated with the Kutscheras by attributes but do wish me defined by Kutschera attributes and defeated and disavowed.

The primary system has been subjected me to intense racial assault including black adults planting white minor children near me or my home as a black nationalist statement about me, and vows from those same black males to use my genome on their white female partners.

This should be easy to defeat by elites all through society black and white go far back in generations of underground railroads the destruction of my atomic veteran genome which was from lawful marriage and lawful family life achieves a benefit to the genome co-opting criminals and organizations.

Those high power well placed elites use their influence to get necessary programs in place to destroy or co-opt assets already my own and roadblock all property and achievement I attempt which is rooted in my law abiding Atheist family.

This is called “road blocking” or also Surveillance Ambushes where Espionage can intercept and co-opt my positive activities of health and community activities of normal life and opportunity.

Here is a look at the Deep State, how it buys its cars, ovoids oversight, et.,

- QUACKERY : Bad policing can allow the criminal to proceed if the crimes are not solved and bad medical services can fake medical needs for involvement in a said to be patient and even conduct physical batter of a person by creating hostile context or treatments of the person or subject a person via medical management to criminal environments. Quackery can diagnose a legitimate police report into the rantings of an unbalanced mind that should be ignored.

- MALADMINISTRATION: Maladministration is the actions of a government body which can be seen as causing an injustice. The law in the United Kingdom says Ombudsmen must investigate maladministration.

  The definition of maladministration is wide and can include: Delay, Incorrect action or failure to take any action, Failure to follow procedures or the law, Failure to provide information, Inadequate record-keeping, Failure to investigate Failure to reply, Misleading or inaccurate statements Inadequate liaison, Inadequate consultation, Broken promises

- CRIMINAL ACT: Breaking and Entering, murder of journalists, planting of child porn, theft of journalists works (like the work product of Dorothy Killagalen) vandalism to create physical evidence narrative such as creating peepholes in someone else s home which will imply the home owner has peeped outside of his or her home

- FENCING STOLEN GOODS: Use of outlets to created a market the stolen goods can be used at. An available though false lawsuit is a liquid asset such as a penny stock or option to buy a stock and can be re-marketed or transferred

- MONEY LAUNDERING AND RACKETEERING INFLUENCED CRIMINAL ORGANIZATIONS: Entities such as property managers, police and fire, county prosecutors, State gov or FBI DOJ, or other businesses which allow for activities of the Racket to proceed. Wire fraud, welfare fraud, physical assault, sexual assault by planted operatives who have access to common property of sole possession property. Welfare and other fraud.

- FRAUD: The machinery is built to use pretexts that are manufactured acts of fraud to gain rights to assets to which the parties acting fraudulently are not entitled.

- HOMICIDE: Assassination of Whistle-blowers like Jen Moore. The Mafia likes to stay in business and has partnership in a mob assisted State goal of Espionage ambitions for the NWO. Silencing Micheal Hastings and others keeps the Mafia unchallenged by the disinfecting Sunlight.

- PREDATORY JOURNALS: A “Legend” may be created in government records of the Press which will convince people of theories which allow the crime to proceed under, such as it is a military exercise sharing property with a society but not impacting the society

- CONSPIRACY AGAINST RIGHTS BY INCITING TO VIOLENCE: The Racket and its Quakery based layers of money laundering, fraud, and fencing operations will assert a series of events were true, the staged and faked events will be used to incite or influence the population as the Conspirators desire

Racketeering retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

A racket is a service that is fraudulently offered to solve a problem, such as for a problem that does not actually exist, that will not be put into effect, or that would not otherwise exist if the racket did not exist. Conducting a racket is racketeering.[34] Particularly, the potential problem may be caused by the same party that offers to solve it, although that fact may be concealed, with the specific intent to engender continual patronage for this party. An archetype is the protection racket, wherein a person or group (e.g., a criminal gang) indicates to a store owner that they could protect her/his store from potential damage, damage that the same person or group would otherwise inflict, while the correlation of threat and protection may be more or less deniably veiled, distinguishing it from the more direct act of extortion. Racketeering is often associated with organized crime, and the term was coined by the Employers' Association of Chicago in June 1927 in a statement about the influence of organized crime in the Teamsters union.

Hostile and self enriching Conservators can entangle, forced-team with me and assets belonging to me or my trust fund if I appear to need an asset manager.

If a manager of assets can insert itself as a conservator in layer of finances to become co-mingled with me and my asset by forced team they can assert they are required by law to continue to entangle, forced-team, with me and my assets though actually predatory and exploitative.

What Constitutes Child Abandonment?

The term "child abandonment" is broadly categorized and used to describe a variety of behaviors. Specific examples of abandonment vary, but common actions that may lead to charges include:

- Leaving a child with another person without provision for the child's support and without meaningful communication with the child for a period of three months;
- Making only minimal efforts to support and communicate with a child;
- Failing for a period of at least six months to maintain regular visitation with a child;
- Failing to participate in a suitable plan or program designed to reunite the parent or guardian with a child;

- Leaving an infant on a doorstep, in trash cans and dumpsters, and on the side of the road;
- Being absent from the home for a period of time that created a substantial risk of serious harm to a child left in the home;
- Failing to respond to notice of child protective proceedings; or
- Being unwilling to provide care, support, or supervision for the child.

While legally the land is the property of the University of California, People’s Park has operated since the early 1970s as a free public park. The City of Berkeley declared it a historical and cultural landmark in 1984.[7] Although open to all, it is often viewed as a sanctuary for Berkeley’s low income and large homeless population who, along with others, receive meals from East Bay Food Not Bombs regularly. Many homeless outreach organizations, like the Suitcase Clinic, also visit the park regularly.

Squatters have surrounded my private property and trespassed as though we have common assets, are a community, etc., none of which is true.

Work goes into destroying any property I lease.

Racketeering Influenced Criminal Organizations can conceal misconduct (with a sufficiently created cartel of people operation in collusion) to act fraudulently but conceal acts of fraud with a cover layer of respectable business.

Usually one party in an illegal act is fairly easy to catch but a few people colluding is harder to catch and constitute organized crime.

An interest in my genome tying into CIA history, DARPA, and a long line of illegal usage of my DNA has created in interest in hiding previous acts in the same manner as the original illegal DNA science will continuing rather than abandoning the original goals of the illegal acts.

The Central Intelligence Agency, FBI, Department of Defense and others have so long been criminally involved in secret family lines study and expploitation black operations are of CIA FBI Behavioral and DNA research continue as illegal abuses involving my family line and genome and the facts of the history of the Donegan genome are of more interest to the CIA and FBI assassinations program than they will admit thus those agencies will not abandon the illegal operations and affects on me.

FLEECE

Noun

1. the woolly covering of a sheep or goat. "as the sheep came on board, we grabbed their long shaggy fleeces"

2. a soft warm fabric with a texture similar to sheep's wool, used as a lining material. "a reversible fleece jacket"

Verb

1. INFORMAL obtain a great deal of money from (someone), typically by overcharging or swindling them. “money that authorities say he fleeced from well-to-do acquaintances”

2. LITERARY cover as if with a fleece. “the sky was half blue, half fleeced with white clouds”

A fleece is a sheep’s coat. Or a goat’s. Or a yak’s. A person’s coat can be called a fleece, too, if it comes from a sheep or goat or a yak or even if it just looks like it did.

You can also use fleece in an informal way to mean cheating someone. Remember how Mary had a little lamb whose fleece was white as snow? Well, it was such a nice, clean fleece that Mary tricked the lamb into trusting her, then robbed him of his fleece and turned it into a bomber jacket and a pair of boots. She totally fleeced him!

LAYERED

Architecture of Racketeering influence Criminal Organization introduces “railway” crossing point in which the cross out of accounts can occur cicrumventing in that extra step direct accounting of the asset owner

Recall from the Department of Treasury description and how this layering of an extra layer can provide the money laundering cross point.

> “History of Anti-Money Laundering Laws”. United States Department of the Treasury. 30 June 2015. Retrieved 30 June 2015

MONEY LAUNDERING IS THE PROCESS OF MAKING ILLEGALLY-GAINED PROCEEDS (I.E., “DIRTY MONEY”) APPEAR LEGAL (I.E., “CLEAN”).

Typically, Money Laundering involves three steps: placement, layering, and integration and introducing money not accounted for into a financial racket

- the illegitimate funds are furtively introduced into the legitimate financial system. (ARC Northern Virginia denied any starting accounting or geno assets accounting in setting up trust fund. I was told I would not a staring or opening accounting only a firs quarter statement after the first quarter passed. Similarly Integrity Payee denied principle statements and reported back to me some disbursements I requested but no whole ledger accounting)
- Then, the money (stolen items or worth as black currency liquid assets transitions) is moved around to create confusion, sometimes by wiring or transferring through numerous accounts (Doppelgangers, fake Ed Donegan, fake Ed Donegans at locations contused for Ed Donegan’s locations)
- Finally, it is integrated into the financial system through additional transactions until the “dirty money” appears “clean” after the Dopple of Edward Donegan agrees to real Ed Donegan assets being seized upon the Dopple of Ed Donegan harming others in real Ed Donegan’s community thus Dopple Ed Donegan creates a liability of real Ed Donegan

> Note that in Assets and Liabilities balance sheets the assets and liabilities must match, thus for an asset to be paid from the trust fund a liability must exist, which is children being exploited as child porn as the liability to be balanced with an asset disbursement.

Black Money as assets seized from a dopple of Ed not authorized to agree to asset seizure using improper accounting for the assets taken in by an institution and not reported to the person with rights to the assets.

ACHIEVING CONCEALMENT OF ED DONEGAN ASSETS FROM PROPER REPORTING AND ACCOUNTING.

Concealment of Ed Donegan cognitive assets by denial they exist and thus making the trade in them unlikely if not preposterous. Creating the appearance of a mentally challenged Ed Donegan not only creates an unlikelihood a retardation service would trade his genes it also puts that retardation services advocacy group as mice guarding the cheese.

“STRIPPER BUCKS” AND SPENDING ASSETS NOT PROPERLY REPORTED TO, BLACK MONEY, NOT ACCOUNTED TO ED DONEGAN

With unreported assets in a financial system and “cut out” accounts, accounts similar to be distinct from the real accounts to do illicit unreported transactions under spending assets can occur

- Genomic assets of interest to those seeking designer babies, etc., may be offered during erotic services as “Payment” by a person pretending to be Edward Donegan. Those “stripper bucks” title or form of deed to pay for adult entertainers are “black money”

- The Adult Entertainer Stripper and the Dopple of Edward Donegan may work an agreement he idolizes little “non white princesses” and their beauty, and by photographing them (which Real Ed Donegan did not) the genomic assets of the “fake” white supremacist Ed Donegan should go to those he thinks superior, little hottie non white totties

Thus under a RICO financial operation (engaging in advocacy for the underprivileged) a fake Ed Donegan, like for instance a social services beneficiary, could hire a stripper, pay for the stripper with Ed Donegan assets, and then also agree Ed Donegan really thinks minorities are his dream, how owes them, Ed Donean is a through a Dopple’s acts seems fake white supremacist who believes in The 14 Words.

FENCE (CRIMINAL) FROM WIKIPEDIA

A fence, also known as a receiver, mover, or moving man, is an individual who knowingly buys stolen goods in order to later resell them for profit. The fence acts as a middleman between thieves and the eventual buyers of stolen goods who may not be aware that the goods are stolen.

As a verb (e.g. “to fence stolen goods”), the word describes the behaviour of the thief in the transaction with the fence.

Fencing Operation in the RICO Architecture

I. Fencing has Racketeering Influence Criminal Organizations or Racketeering Influenced Racketeering Operatives as criminal assets in the Long Con.

II. One the financial infrastructure is in place and it commits its first money launder operation at least the Second Criminal Act (and count) of Criminal Racketeering has occurred. Agreement and placement of RICO organizational was the first.

III. As if a drug manufacture operation in abandoned aircraft hanger multiple felonious steps are need in furtherance of the Racket fraud.

A. Identity Theft must be conducted to financially switch as asset holder or a liability holder such that the switching between accounts can create a debit added to an account which is not in debt and credit to an account which is not due any credit, but falsifications of identities in the financial management layer enable the confusion of assets and liabilities.

B. Manufacture of fraudulent liabilities such as creating child porn the liability of which will be compensated by restitution.

C. Transfer of assets in the above created framework to parties not entitled to benefit from fraud and not entitled to the source of assets which will be used for the fraudulent pay out.

As is the case with the word fence and its derivatives when used in its other common meanings (i.e. as a type of barrier or enclosure, and also as a sport), the word in this context is derived from the word defence. Among criminals, the fence originated in thieves' slang tracing from the notion of such transactions providing a "defence" against being caught.

This process often relies on a [otherwise] legal business (such as a pawnshop, flea market, or street vendor) [under Racketeering Influences) in order to "launder" the stolen goods by intermixing them with legally-obtained items of the same type.[2] The fence is able to make a profit with stolen merchandise because he is able to secretly pay thieves a very low price for "hot" goods that cannot be easily sold on the open markets. Fencing is illegal in all countries, but legally proving a violation of anti-fencing laws can be difficult.

In the case of Assets belonging to Edward Paul Donegan the Defense of the act of fensing is to conduct the asset transfer at what I call Elements B and even C, B is a location I am not at, do not have scrutiny of where a forger of me will sign over my assets, and C is a organziation forging my permission or agreement which I do not and would not give for the asset transfer.

Element D which is the reputation damage of what occured when C pleaded me guilty to an offense I did not comit, then paid restitution I would not have agreed to, may be the final goal of the chain of events, harming my reputation in a way bringing about damate to my life.

TRESPASS AND BREAKING AND ENTERING

In violation of law including use of fraud such as using keys to an apartment for access not permissible under the lease is trespass. If the trespass is the basis for a criminal act on the accessed property the property had undergone Breaking and Entering, its sanctity as a property broken, even if not by force.

HORIZONTAL AND VERTICAL LAYERS USED IN MONEY LAUNDERING TO CREATE LEGITIMATE APPEARANCES

- Moles and Inside Jobs through buyout of leasing companies or apartment complexes and
- setting up lateral “accounts” such as apartment numbers to be confused with the tenant whose assets are being money laundered.
- Use of intermediate devices such as inserting an FBI Fake Cell Tower (Stingray) which will switch and cross switch between phone SIMM Chips for switching out who is on the phone and what is being said.
- Exploiting that smart phones have multiple functions such as Google Books reading, gym music, and cameras, and altering the perception of what lateral separate functions of the phone are in use in a gym, etc.,
- Person lateral to each other sharing similar clothes, motorcycles, etc.,

The scheme is be design hostile to who the REAL ME is and is meant to defame and incite hostility and vigilantism toward me.

Finally, the NOMINAL and ACTUAL goals differ and in fact the scheme harms the NOMINAL goal in achieving the ACTUAL goal.

The medical techniques should be publicly and freely available, not a secret underground sex trade economy.

PROTECTION RACKET (AND ONE RUN THROUGH SOCIAL SERVICES)

An unneeded mental retardation advocacy of me creating by my mother’s will creators enables this loot of my DNA rights by sabotaging my normal life circumstances such as metropolitan apartments and keeps me either homeless, institutionalized, or in deep slum non-white conditions of hostile environments devoid of my intellectual, sexual, religious, or their interests.

Example: Fagin is a fictional character and a main antagonist in Charles Dickens’ 1838 novel Oliver Twist. In the preface to the novel, he is described as a “receiver of stolen goods”. He is the leader of a group of children (the Artful Dodger and Charley Bates among them) whom he teaches to make their livings by pickpocketing and other criminal activities, in exchange for shelter.

Oliver Twist contains an unromantic portrayal of criminals and their sordid lives, as well as for exposing the cruel treatment of the many orphans in London in the mid-19th century.[2] The alternative title, The Parish Boy’s Progress, alludes to Bunyan’s The Pilgrim’s Progress, as well as the 18th-century caricature series by William Hogarth, A Rake’s Progress and A Harlot’s Progress.[3]

In this early example of the social novel, Dickens satirises the hypocrisies of his time, including child labour, domestic violence, the recruitment of children as criminals, and the presence of street children.

Somebody illegally set themselves up as Fagaon and broke my apartment leases in non skid row environments then used Texas Nueces County skid row to surround me in housing, plant evidence, and run scams to loot Donegan family assets. I reported this to the Social Security Administation to no avail.

SHILLS

Shills are fronts for secret motives and operations who conceal their real objectives and appear to be neutral, uncorrupted, or motivated as chartered but operate on behalf of secret agendas instead.

Shill planted victims who claim ti be victimize but in fact victimize themselves such as children sexualizing themselves in my vicinity and claiming they are “my visual pornography.” I am their victim for false claims, not vice versa.

GULLS (A CON ARTIST TERM FOR A “GULLIBLE” OR “GRAPE” WHICH CAN BE PLUCKED

A special kid of Shill (con artist team member) is a Gull who is a gullible person who can be caught in a compromising situation or lead into a bad deal.

I am not such a person so an impersonator me (I call Tx the transmitter of false information seeming from me) is created and that Gullible both needs a trust fund and is frequently caught in traps and needs the Trust FUnd to bail him out.

That person, ann Information Doppelgangers and will forge a confession of me that will be used as a pretext for legal claims against me, It is the Gull who actual photographed or committed the peeping whilst standing next to me in public at the same time the shill victim was planted in front of us.

RACKETEERIING INFLUENCED CRIMINAL ORGANIZATION

A Racket is a service which is not need but imposed or operates in such a way as to use illegal means to create a profit which would otherwise not exist.

While a Protection Racket creates a danger and then charges to protect against it a Money Laundering RICO uses its position of operating multiple accounts to switch unlawfully between them so that in the accounting shell game slight of hands the accounts appear to be correct.

N. KITE (METHODOLOGY)

Kleptocratic Intrusive Trespassing Entanglement

Religions and the State have through shams and Trespasses entangle themselves into that which is not theirs including by proximity of being close enough to get way with confusion about who holds any asset belonging to one person or close enough to create confusion as to which person is which and violating the boundary separating the property owner and the property thief.

A Mark is some person or asset who is the “bullseye” of the operation, the person or asset targeted to be defrauded. In my cast the trust fund of Glorian Donegan and her biology, with the indirect means of pretending to be my victim them seeking Trust Fund compensation.

Stages of the con (Confindence Trick including Long Con using sets and actors)

In Confessions of a Confidence Man, Edward H. Smith lists the “six definite steps or stages of growth” of a confidence game.[7] He notes that some steps may be omitted.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Confidence_trick

FOUNDATION WORK

Preparations are made in advance of the game, including the hiring of any assistants required. Co-operation of a population area of organization may be gained covertly

APPROACH

The victim is contacted in some way by proximity at least if not actual communication. The assault part of Assault and Battery in some cases

BUILD-UP

The victim (who had been law abiding) is entrapped and is given an opportunity to profit from a scheme. The victim’s greed is encouraged, such that their rational judgment of the situation might be impaired. The are now sued as Shill in a long con perhaps

PAY-OFF OR CONVINCER

People are told if they join the Con they can gain from it and some proof is shown. The enlistee receives a small payout as a demonstration of the scheme’s effectiveness. This may be a real amount of money, or faked in some way. In a gambling con, the victim is allowed to win several small bets. In a stock market con, the victim is given fake dividends.

THE HURRAH

A sudden crisis or change of events forces the victim to act immediately. This is the point at which the con succeeds or fails. I think in PsyOps the murder of a patsy to silence him or her or an excuse to prevent people from talking to each other stops Rational Analysis which would expose the con

THE IN-AND-IN

A conspirator (in on the con, but assumes the role of an interested bystander) puts an amount of money into the same scheme as the victim, to add an appearance of legitimacy. This can reassure the victim, and give the con man greater control when the deal has been completed. In Free Masonry systems the Office Mob, random people who create a wave of opinion which overpowers or nudges existing crow sentiment or information of events.

A SHILL

also called a plant or a stooge, is a person who publicly helps or gives credibility to a person or organization without disclosing that they have a close relationship with the person or organization. Shills can carry out their operations in the areas of media, journalism, marketing, politics, confidence games, or other business areas. A shill may also act to discredit opponents or critics of the person or organization in which they have a vested interest through character assassination or other means.

A CONSPIRATOR

(in on the con, but assumes the role of an interested bystander) puts an amount of money into the same scheme as the victim, to add an appearance of legitimacy to the scheme. This can reassure the victim, and give the con man greater control when the deal has been completed.

> In addition, some games require a “corroboration” step, particularly those involving a “rare item”[flim flam quackery claim of savant, etc.,]. This usually includes the use of an accomplice who plays the part of an uninvolved (initially skeptical) third party, who later confirms the claims made by the con[man.

Character assassination

(CA) is a deliberate and sustained effort to damage the reputation or credibility of an individual[1] The term could also be selectively applied to social groups and institutions. Agents of character assassinations employ a mix of open and covert methods to achieve their goals, such as raising false accusations, planting and fostering rumors, and manipulating information.

In a totalitarian regime The effect of a character assassination driven by an individual is not equal to that of a state-driven campaign. The state-sponsored destruction of reputations, fostered by political propaganda and cultural mechanisms, can have more far-reaching consequences. One of the earliest signs of a society’s compliance to loosening the reins on the perpetration of crimes (and even massacres) with total impunity is when a government favors or directly encourages a campaign aimed at destroying the dignity and reputation of its adversaries, and the public accepts its allegations without question. The mobilisation toward ruining the reputation of adversaries is the prelude to the mobilisation of violence in order to annihilate them. Generally, official dehumanisation has preceded the physical assault of the victims.[10]

CA may involve exaggeration, misleading half-truths, or manipulation of facts to present an untrue picture of the targeted person. It is a form of defamation and can be a form of ad hominem argument.

The “Money-Box Scheme”

Victor Lustig, a German con artist, designed and sold a “money box” which he claimed could print $100 bills using blank sheets of paper.[1] [self-published source] A victim, sensing huge profits and untroubled by ethical implications, would buy the machine for a high price, from $25,000 to $102,000.

Boiler Room

In business, the term boiler room refers to an outbound call center selling questionable investments by telephone

Jam Auction

In this scam, the confidence artist poses as a retail sales promoter, representing a manufacturer, distributor, or set of stores. The scam requires assistants to manage the purchases and money exchanges while the pitchman keeps the energy level up

Predatory Journals (Fox News and other Propoganda PsyOps

In some cases, predatory journals will use fictional editorial boards or use respected academics' names without permission to lend a veneer of credibility to the journal. A curated database of predatory journals can be found at "Scholarly Open Access"

Journal hijacking refers to the brandjacking of a legitimate academic journal by malicious third party. Typically the imposter journal sets up a fraud website for the purpose of offering scholars the opportunity to rapidly publish their research online for a fee.[1][2][3] The term hijacked journal may refer to either the fraud[4] or the legitimate journal.[5] Similar hijacking can occur with academic conferences as well.[2][6]

Social engineering

in the context of information security, refers to psychological manipulation of people into performing actions or divulging confidential information

A type of confidence trick for the purpose of information gathering, fraud, or system access, it differs from a traditional "con" in that it is often one of many steps in a more complex fraud scheme.

Pretexting

is the act of creating and using an invented scenario (the pretext) to engage a targeted victim in a manner that increases the chance the victim will divulge information or perform actions that would be unlikely in ordinary circumstances.[8] An elaborate lie, it most often involves some prior research or setup and the use of this information for impersonation (e.g., date of birth, Social Security number, last bill amount) to establish legitimacy in the mind of the target.[9]

Gull

A confidence trick is also known as a con game, a con, a scam, a grift, a hustle, a bunko (or bunco), a swindle, a flimflam, a gaffle, or a bamboozle. The intended victims are known as marks, suckers, stooges, mugus, rubes, or gulls (from the word gullible). When accomplices are employed, they are known as shills.

> "Cons succeed for inducing judgment errors , chiefly, errors arising from imperfect information and cognitive biases"

Inflammatory appearances about me (Edward Paul Donegan) are manufactured in furtherance of cons such as placing shills (exploitable females in vulnerable positions) as though, as if, they were of sexual interests to me, as though I had an interest in photographing or exploiting them, when I wish none that.

The basic elements of the scheme is plant females of no interest to me stalk me and people would blame an older white male, me, for being near a woman or child appearing to be exploitively stalked.

The Quackery will involved "in and ins" in the area "Are you OK? Are you OK?" as though I need behavioral services for my sexual deeds (manufactured) and alleged victim, the shill, will create the basis for a claim against me.

CONS

Quackery sets up the need for a Conservator who rob rather than protect assets

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Quackery, often synonymous with health fraud, is the promotion[1] of fraudulent or ignorant medical practices. A quack is a “fraudulent or ignorant pretender to medical skill” or “a person who pretends, professionally or publicly, to have skill, knowledge, qualification or credentials they do not possess; a charlatan or snake oil salesman”.[2] The term quack is a clipped form of the archaic term quacksalver, from Dutch: kwakzalver a “hawker of salve”.[3] In the Middle Ages the term quack meant “shouting”. The quacksalvers sold their wares on the market shouting in a loud voice.[4]

Common elements of general quackery include questionable diagnoses using questionable diagnostic tests, as well as untested or refuted treatments, especially for serious diseases such as cancer. Quackery is often described as “health fraud” with the salient characteristic of aggressive promotion.

And in relations to Quackery (Abuse of Psychiatry for false conservancy and false claims against an alleged patient having alleged symptoms)

Alleged conservancy acing in “Grandparents Grift”

Grandparent scam

A grandparent gets a call or e-mail from someone claiming to be their grandchild, saying that they are in trouble. For example, the scammer may claim to have been arrested and require money wired, or gift cards purchased for bail, and asks the victim not to tell the grandchild’s parents, as they would “only get upset.” The call is fraudulent impersonation, the name of the grandchild typically obtained from social media postings as well as obituaries listed either in newspapers or from a funeral home’s website. Any money wired out of the country is gone forever.

For Grandparent operation of Insurance fraud

Insurance fraud includes a wide variety of schemes in which insureds attempt to defraud their own insurance carriers, but when the victim is a private individual, the con artist tricks the mark into damaging, for example, the con artist’s car, or injuring the con artist, in a manner that the con artist can later exaggerate. One relatively common scheme involves two cars, one for the con artist, and the other for the shill. The con artist will pull in front of the victim, and the shill will pull in front of the con artist before slowing down. The con artist will then slam on his brakes to “avoid” the shill, causing the victim to rear-end the con artist. The shill will accelerate away, leaving the scene. The con artist will then claim various exaggerated injuries in an attempt to collect from the victim’s insurance carrier despite having intentionally caused the accident. Insurance carriers, who must spend money to fight even those claims they believe are fraudulent, frequently pay out thousands of dollar, a tiny amount to the carrier despite being a significant amount to an individua, to settle these claims instead of going to court.

Insurance Billed Against Trust Fund Embezzled Assets Estate, Trust, and Probate Issues

There are several common techniques that executors and trustees use to defraud trusts, estates or probate situations

- Failing to include certain assets on the inventory of the estate or trust and the trust ,manufacturing and settling false claims against the undisclosed (genomic) values

And

- up or be arrested scam[edit] (THE GULL WEARING THE SAME CLOTHES AS ME, ETC., GETS CAUGHT)

This scam is perpetrated through the phone where the caller threatens the victim with a fictitious arrest warrant. To make this threat seem real, the caller IDidentifies the caller as that of the local sheriff. Victims are told they must pay a fine to avoid arrest. Fines are in the hundreds, sometimes thousands, of dollars.

To be settled by the fake law firm fake conservancy money laundering system.

I was hospitalized in 2009 when I said I was exposed to radiation and had radiation burns. It was called eczema.

Little was known or discussed about radiation weaponry on citizens of the USA including those tied to national security and I was not believed.

At that time Ted Gunderson a high ranking FBI agent with strong beliefs about the murder of JFK and others and JFK and attorney General anti mafia right hand man to the FBI DOJ anti mafia team was alleging he was being poisoned, while in his 80s, by a violent capabilities internal espionage shadow government operating.

I remain under constant threat today, surviving, but with serious harassment including break-ins and theft of my computers, records, even cars by clear Government assets and sometimes using FBI, CIA, Secret Service or other agency identifications of themselves.

My father was in the Manhattan Project / Los Alamos war effort and part of the delivery of the atomic bomb and atomic bomb testing and the illegal activities back then I think tie not only the murder of JFK by an international mafia that same mafia is after me by infiltrators who under Dulles, Hunt, J. Edgar Hoover, James Angleton, and others including George H.W. Bush and his CIA cronies formed a criminal network. The needs of that network is a string of CIA murders to protect if those elements wish to keep their criminality secret and hidden from history.

The press generally backs the policy goals of the Cabal and the US Espionage agencies request for secrecy and the press is of no use so far outing the conspirators that are now in firm grip of government.

The National Security Agency, CIA, FBI, and others including the Press and Rockefeller Republican and Neo Con Cabal are promoting a growing New World Order of liberalized post racial Commonwealth largely led by England and Feudal European Masons in which Indirect Rule of liberalized post racial society accept Western Europe backed groomed sleeper leaders who under Free Mason theory as secret family of marriages (Mary Von Tek plan) wars will be eliminated.

That is known in most encyclopedias and libraries of historical information.

What I can add to that as a victim of the plan is the the FOXP2 gene runs in European family lines and as ruling elites select themselves in black-registry (not visible to the public) known Registry families silence those who either express the FOXP2 gene while being unwilling to remain silent OR government officials or reporters aware of the program are silenced.

The Donegan family and Kennedy family are on the outs and Bush, Schwarzenegger, Obama Jr, Harris and Biden, and other families are “in’ and share the Neocon goal of global post racial and post liberalism Feudal backed commonwealth.

I do not now and never had a child porn interest but things like pop up ads, still frames, etc., can be used to create the appearance of that in me which incites violence against me and silences my voice and acceptance, an FBI technique which I am being subjected to J. Edgar Hoover Robert Swan Mueller Christopher Wray Donald Washington style, which is Targeting of US citizens with COINTELPRO.

Richard Belzer has a book Hit List Further Reading I have heard him describe detailing 50 murders or unusual deaths of witnesses tied to the assassination of JFK and I believe a WETDIVISION of Mafia activities has tarted me to create a justification for retaliation against me for harms I did not commit but local mafia supported by the police did commit.

My father and mother were sure they could make me and prepare me for life they did not expect the US Government to make attempts on my life, the last living child of James and Glorian.

While Tom Donegan my brother and would be other witness to events of our family (like all other family members) is deceased of a suspiciously arising cancer case early in his life, I remain alive but under intense harassment.

Every time you see Genereal Patreus on US Media networks and no reporting of the available ansswers to who killed Micheal Hastings or why he was killed or you hear shrill ranting about Russian planted comspiracy theories about West European aggression against Russia including blaming Russia for internal acts of terror inside the US you see the Cabal in operation.

Among those who could have told this story were Tom Donegan and Jen Moore who were connected to my mother and the 850 N. Randolph Arlington Virginia home we lived in, two of the three of us are now dead, just in the last 3 years, and I believe and Espionage interest of the Deep State exists that I be silenced too and it seem a normal result of my life, not sabotage of my life.

Crossfire Hurrican and the GangStalk of Ed Donegan by the FBI asserting I was under Russian influences.

Crossfire Hurricane was the code name for the counterintelligence investigation undertaken by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) from July 31, 2016, to May 17, 2017, into links between Russian officials and associates of Donald Trump and "whether individuals associated with [his] presidential campaign were coordinating, wittingly or unwittingly, with the Russian government's efforts to interfere in the 2016 U.S. presidential election". Trump was not personally under investigation until May 2017, when his firing of FBI director James Comey raised suspicions of obstruction of justice, which triggered the Mueller investigation.

In 2014 or so I was informed while a mental health inmate by a black inmate that Barrack OBama Jr was running an operation out of the US military since as he prepared to leave the US Presidency he wanted to create his policies deep into the United State military as permanent policy that could not be interrupted as a result in change of presidency.

I have long loved the history of Russia and been under Gang Stalk. I believe the investigation both planted incriminating information on me who has legal viewpoints but liked Goth music and also "observed" me in incriminating circumstances since I was an eye in hurricane of illegal acts which surrounded me, paid actors staging events I am not a part of.

I believe the policy basis is to use appearances generated by paid actors run by the British and use that information to shake down my trust fund in what appears just compensation for perceived wrongdoing of me, but is staged wrongdoing.

The manufacture of records of my being pled guilty to staged acts by unwanted conservators of my assets allows great political damage to me and allowed hostile conservatorship to defame my reputation and incite against me.

The GangStalk system is based on several architectural foundations including making sure Due Process IS short-circuited or circumvented in some way and with rights of the stalked person (me) cripple in mechanisms to assert my right abuse of my rights.

Harassment of living conditions forces me into among other things that which counts as organ damage. The use of Rough Noise as infliction of distress of thinking causes short term cognitive injury to the brain and that can cause additional injury of poor acts and also long term trauma can and does result from inflictions of distress.

The Defense Intelligence Agency like system of recognizing what might cause me distress and subjecting me to that stimuli is used to cripple efforts of my writing my book, etc.,

In fact often the acts of Stalkers are genuinely believable use of death threats and other acts that are denied by but backed by the State through State confidential informants working for the State.

After working on the Ben Carson campaign as a foreign policy adviser, in early February 2016 George Papadopoulos, codenamed “Crossfire Typhoon” by the FBI,left the Carson campaign. Also in early February, he moved to London to begin working for the London Centre of International Law Practice (LCILP), with which he was associated for several months. On March 6, Papadopoulos accepted an offer to work with the Trump campaign. As part of his duties with the LCILP, on March 12 he traveled to the Link Campus University in Rome to meet officials with the university. While on this trip, on March 14 he met Maltese professor Joseph Mifsud and informed the professor about his joining the Trump campaign. On March 21, the Trump campaign told the Washington Post that Papadopoulos was one of five foreign policy advisers for the Trump campaign. Mifsud took more interest in Papadopoulos, and met him in London on March 24 with a Russian woman posing as “Putin’s niece.”

Mifsud traveled to Moscow in April 2016, and upon his return he told Papadopoulos that Russian government officials were in possession of “thousands of emails” that could be politically damaging to Hillary Clinton.[19][20] According to reporting by Malta Today about FBI records, Mifsud told the FBI in his February 2017 interviews that he had no advanced knowledge of Russia having emails from the Democratic National Committee, and did not make any offers to Papadopolous.[21] On May 6, Papadopoulos met Alexander Downer, the Australian High Commissioner to Britain in a London bar, and told him about the Clinton emails over drinks. After WikiLeaks released hacked Democratic National Committee (DNC) emails on July 22, the Australian government on July 26 advised American authorities of the encounter between Downer and Papadopoulos. Receipt of this information spurred the FBI’s launch of the Crossfire Hurricane investigation on July 31.

In late July 2016, according to his May 2017 testimony to the House Intelligence Committee, CIA director John Brennan convened a group of officials from the CIA, NSA and FBI to investigate Russian interference.[24][25] In a July 2017 interview, Brennan described this group effort as a “fusion cell”.[26] According to his later testimony, Brennan gave the FBI leads involving “contacts and interactions between Russian officials and U.S. persons involved in the Trump campaign” that were beyond the CIA’s mandate to pursue. He said this information “served as the basis for the FBI investigation to determine whether such collusion [or] cooperation occurred”.

"Laws against money laundering were created to use against organized crime during the period of Prohibition (of alcohol trafficking) in the United States during the 1930s. Organized crime received a major boost from Prohibition and a large source of new funds that were obtained from illegal sales of alcohol. The successful prosecution of Al Capone on tax evasion brought in a new emphasis by the state and law enforcement agencies to track and confiscate money, but existing laws against tax evasion could not be used once gangsters started paying their taxes." Paper Moon (film) retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The film, shot in black-and-white, is set in Kansas and Missouri during the Great Depression. It stars the real-life father and daughter pairing of Ryan and Tatum O'Neal as protagonists Moze and Addie.

In a state of poverty and needing car repairs, Moses visits recently widowed women often driving to funerals in the old car, pretending to have previously sold expensive, personalized Bibles to their deceased husbands, and the widows pay him for the Bibles inscribed with their names. Addie joins the scam, pretending she is his daughter, and exhibits a talent for confidence tricks, such as selling Bibles and the quick change scam. As time passes, Moses and Addie become a formidable team

This is a short con, run quickly, on sequential Gulls (Gullibles) who are grieving widows, emotional, at their husbands funeral, as the Bibble saleman shows up with a Bibble tied to the last purchase of their departed husband, which for a fee, the widow can buy and finish the sale.

It features many Confidence Tricks elements such as selecting Gulls in advance for a particular type of scam which has been rehearsed again and again, using Gulls who are in emotional and quick decisions states, and a team of Shills rather than just one con artist.

A Long Con focuses on a single Mark, such as my trust fund and Glorian Donegan, shaking it down in with long term preperation, resources, and complex sustaining efforts to keep the Con running.

RECITE

You are showing off your ability to recite, or repeat aloud from memory, when you say the entire text of “The Gettysburg Address” or name all the past winners of your town’s asparagus eating contest.

Recite entered the English language as a legal term but is now more often used in the realms of education, literature, and religion. Children in school may be assigned a famous poem to recite in front of the class or be tested on how well they can recite their multiplication tables. In many religious traditions, being able to recite passages of sacred texts is an important part of practicing the religion.

Billy Budd has a stutter retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Herman Melville Biography Mellvile lived in Cape Cod Boston and New Bedford as my father's mother did. Melville noted the British traditions of cruelty towards impressed sailors to maintain discipline and command.

Billy Budd is a seaman impressed into service aboard HMS Bellipotent in the year 1797, when the Royal Navy was reeling from two major mutinies and was threatened by the Revolutionary French Republic's military ambitions. He is impressed to this large warship from another, smaller, merchant ship, The Rights of Man (named after the book by Thomas Paine). As his former ship moves off, Budd shouts, "And good-bye to you too, old Rights-of-Man."

The British impressing Colonials into their navy., capturing US fishermen, and other acts of war by the British on Colonials was a very intensive emotional matter for James Paul Donegan as was resistance such as the Bostonians refusing to convict US citizens or colonials in British Courts by use of Jury Nullification, the Jury nullifies the entire proceeding as a mechanism of oppression and refuses to convict the defendent as the prosecution seeks.

These tales about the British and England's history towards the Irish among others would last into the 1980s Moraga California commuting to Head Royce drives and beyond as law, philosophy, and Irish and US history were a family topic.

Theatrical poster for the film Billy Budd (1962)

Billy Budd is a seaman impressed into service aboard HMS Bellipotent in the year 1797, when the Royal Navy was reeling from two major mutinies and was threatened by the Revolutionary French Republic's military ambitions. He is impressed to this large warship from another, smaller, merchant ship, The Rights of Man (named after the book by Thomas Paine). As his former ship moves off, Budd shouts, "And good-bye to you too, old Rights-of-Man."

Billy, a foundling from Bristol, has an innocence, good looks and a natural charisma that make him popular with the crew. He has a stutter, which becomes more noticeable when under intense emotion. He arouses the antagonism of the ship's master-at-arms, John Claggart. Claggart, while not unattractive, seems somehow "defective or abnormal in the constitution", possessing a "natural depravity." Envy is Claggart's explicitly stated emotion toward Budd, foremost because of his "significant personal beauty," and also for his innocence and general popularity. (Melville further opines that envy is “universally felt to be more shameful than even felonious crime.”) This leads Claggart to falsely charge Billy with conspiracy to mutiny. When the captain, Edward Fairfax “Starry” Vere, is presented with Claggart’s charges, he summons Claggart and Billy to his cabin for a private meeting. Claggart makes his case and Billy, astounded, is unable to respond, due to his stutter. In his extreme frustration he strikes out at Claggart, killing him instantly.

Vere convenes a drumhead court-martial. He acts as convening authority, prosecutor, defense counsel and sole witness (except for Billy). He intervenes in the deliberations of the court-martial panel to persuade them to convict Billy, despite their and his beliefs in Billy’s moral innocence. (Vere says in the moments following Claggart’s death, “Struck dead by an angel of God! Yet the angel must hang!”) Vere claims to be following the letter of the Mutiny Act and the Articles of War.

Although Vere and the other officers do not believe Claggart’s charge of conspiracy and think Billy justified in his response, they find that their own opinions matter little. The martial law in effect states that during wartime the blow itself, fatal or not, is a capital crime. The court-martial convicts Billy following Vere’s argument that any appearance of weakness in the officers and failure to enforce discipline could stir more mutiny throughout the British fleet. Condemned to be hanged the morning after his attack on Claggart, Billy before his execution says, “God bless Captain Vere!” His words were repeated by the gathered crew in a “resonant and sympathetic echo.”

Melville began work on the novella in November 1886, revising and expanding it from time to time, but he left the manuscript in disarray. Melville’s widow Elizabeth began to edit the manuscript for publication, but was not able to discern her husband’s intentions at key points, even as to the book’s title. Raymond M. Weaver, Melville’s first biographer, was given the manuscript and published the 1924 VERSION, which was marred by misinterpretation of Elizabeth’s queries, misreadings of Melville’s difficult handwriting, and even inclusion of a preface Melville had cut. Melville scholars Harrison Hayford and Merton M. Sealts Jr. published what is considered the best transcription and critical reading text in 1962.[1] In 2017, Northwestern University Press published a “new reading text” based on a “corrected version” of Hayford and Sealts’ genetic text prepared by G. Thomas Tanselle.

Joseph Patrick and Rose Kennedy Sr. (September 6, 1888 - NOVEMBER 18, 1969) was a prominent American businessman, investor and politician. He is known for his own political prominence as well as that of his children and was the patriarch of the Irish-American Kennedy family.

Rose Elizabeth Fitzgerald Kennedy (July 22, 1890 - January 22, 1995) was an American philanthropist, socialite, and a member of the Kennedy family. She was deeply embedded in the “lace curtain” Irish Catholic community in Boston, where her father John F. Fitzgerald was mayor. Kennedy was the wife of businessman and investor Joseph P. Kennedy Sr., who was United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom, formally known as Ambassador to the Court of St. James’s in the UK. Their nine children included President John F. Kennedy, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, and longtime Senator Ted Kennedy. In 1951 she was ennobled by Pope Pius XII, becoming the sixth American woman to be granted the rank of Papal countess.[1]

JOHN F. KENNEDY AND JACQUELINE LEE BOUVIE KENNEDY

John Fitzgerald Kennedy (May 29, 1917 - November 22, 1963), often referred to by his initials JFK, was an American politician who served as the 35th president of the United States from 1961 until his assassination near the end of his third year in office. Kennedy served at the height of the Cold War, and the majority of his work as president concerned relations with the Soviet Union and Cuba. A member of the Kennedy family and a Democrat, he represented Massachusetts in both houses of the U.S. Congress prior to becoming president.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Jacqueline Lee Bouvier was born on July 28, 1929, at Southampton Hospital in Southampton, New York, to Wall Street stockbroker John Vernou “Black Jack” Bouvier III and socialite Janet Norton Lee.[7] Her mother was of Irish descent,[8] and her father had French, Scottish, and English ancestry.[9][a] Named after her father, she was baptized at the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola in Manhattan and raised in the Catholic faith.

A popular first lady, she endeared the American public with her fashion sense, devotion to her family, and dedication to the historic preservation of the White House. During her lifetime, she was regarded as an international fashion icon.

After graduating with a Bachelor of Arts in French literature from George Washington University in 1951, Jacqueline Bouvier started working for the Washington Times-Herald as an inquiring photographer. The following year, she met then-Congressman John Kennedy at a dinner party in Washington. He was elected to the Senate that same year, and the couple married on September 12, 1953, in Newport, Rhode Island. They had four children, two of whom died in infancy. Following her husband’s election to the presidency in 1960, Kennedy was known for her highly publicized restoration of the White House and emphasis on arts and culture, as well as for her style. At age 31, she was the third-youngest first lady of the United States when her husband was inaugurated.

ROBERT F. KENNEDY

Brother of JFK Robert Francis Kennedy (November 20, 1925 - June 6, 1968), also referred to by his initials RFK or by the nickname Bobby, was an American lawyer and politician who served as the 64th United States Attorney General from January 1961 to September 1964, and as a U.S. Senator from New York from January 1965 until his assassination in June 1968. He was, like his brothers John and Edward, a prominent member of the Democratic Party and has come to be viewed by some historians as an icon of modern American liberalism and died while a candidate from the US Senate running for POTUS

SISTER OF JFK KATHLEEN AGNES CAVENDISH, MARCHIONESS OF HARTINGTON (NÉE KENNEDY; FEBRUARY 20, 1920 - MAY 13, 1948), ALSO KNOWN AS "KICK" KENNEDY

Kathleen Agnes Cavendish was an American socialite. She was the second daughter of Joseph P. Kennedy, Sr. and Rose Kennedy as well as a sister of former U.S. President John F. Kennedy and Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Edward M. "Ted" Kennedy and the wife of the Marquess of Hartington, heir apparent to the 10th Duke of Devonshire.

When her father was serving as United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom, Kathleen made many friends in London and was the "debutante of 1938." Working with the Red Cross, she began a romantic relationship with Lord Hartington, whom she married in May 1944. He was killed on active service in Belgium only four months later. Kathleen died in a plane crash in 1948, flying to the south of France while on vacation with her new partner, the 8th Earl Fitzwilliam.

SISTER OF JFK JEAN KENNEDY SMITH

Jean Ann Kennedy Smith (FEBRUARY 20, 1928 - June 17, 2020) was an American diplomat, activist, humanitarian,[1] and author who served as a Catholic United States Ambassador to Ireland from 1993 to 1998.

As Ambassador to Ireland, Smith was reportedly instrumental in the Northern Ireland peace process as President Bill Clinton's representative in Dublin. She was heavily criticized after urging the U.S. State Department to grant a visa to Sinn Féin President Gerry Adams, although her family said this step influenced the Provisional IRA in its declaration of a ceasefire in 1994.

Smith was the founder of Very Special Arts (VSA), an internationally recognized non-profit dedicated to creating a society where people with disabilities can engage with the arts. In 2011, she was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the highest civilian honor in the United States, by President Barack Obama for her work with VSA and with people with disabilities.

Shriver became executive vice president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation in 1957.[2] She shifted the organization's focus from Catholic charities to research on the causes of intellectual disabilities and humane ways to treat them.[5] This interest eventually culminated in, among other things, the Special Olympics movement.

A longtime advocate for children's health and disability issues, Shriver championed the creation of the President's Panel on Mental Retardation in 1961. The panel was significant in the movement from institutionalization to community integration in the US and throughout the world.[7] Shriver was a key founder of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD), a part of the National Institutes of Health in 1962. She has also helped to establish numerous other university programs, government initiatives, health-care facilities, and support service networks throughout the country.

In 1962, Shriver founded Camp Shriver, a camp for children with special needs that was held on her Maryland farm. Camp Shriver later evolved into the Special Olympics.[8] Shriver founded the Special Olympics in 1968.[9] That year, the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation helped to plan and fund the First International Special Olympics Summer Games, held in Chicago, Illinois. In her speech at the opening ceremony, Shriver said, "'The Chicago Special Olympics prove a very fundamental fact, the fact that exceptional children - children with mental retardation - can be exceptional athletes, the fact that through sports they can realize their potential for growth.'" Special Olympics Inc. was established as a nonprofit charity in 1968; since that time, nearly three million athletes have participated.[2]

On May 23, 1953, Shriver married Sargent Shriver in a Roman Catholic ceremony at Saint Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.[48] Her husband served as the U.S. Ambassador to France from 1968 to 1970 and was the 1972 Democratic U.S. vice presidential candidate (with George McGovern as the candidate for U.S. President).[48][49] They had five children: Robert Sargent Shriver III, Maria Owings Shriver, Timothy Perry Shriver, Mark Kennedy Shriver, and Anthony Paul Kennedy Shriver.[50] Shriver had nineteen grandchildren.[51]

On May 19, 1956, Jean Kennedy married businessman Stephen Edward Smith in a small chapel of the Roman Catholic St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.[13] The Smiths maintained a lower profile than some other members of the extended Kennedy family. Stephen and Jean had two biological sons, Stephen Jr. and William, and later adopted two daughters, Amanda and Kym.

Stephen Edward Smith died of cancer on August 19, 1990.[39] The following year, their younger son, William, was accused of rape in Florida, but was acquitted after a highly publicized trial.

Smith's elder sister Eunice died on August 11, 2009. Smith did not attend Eunice's funeral on August 14, choosing to stay with their brother Ted, who was terminally ill; he died on August 25, leaving her as the last surviving child of Joseph and Rose Kennedy.[8] Smith attended Ted Kennedy's funeral on August 29.

Smith died at her home in Manhattan on June 17, 2020, at the age of 92; she was the last surviving and the longest-lived of the nine Kennedy children.[43]

Arnold Schwarzenegger's father was the local chief of police. After the Anschluss (reunification of Gernmany and Hitler's native Austria in 1938 following the 1936 Berlin Olympics, he joined the Nazi Party and, in 1939 the Sturmabteilung (SA). In World War II, he served as a military policeman in the invasions of Poland, France and the Soviet Union, including the siege of Leningrad, rising to the rank of Hauptfeldwebel.[16][17] He was wounded in the Battle of Stalingrad,[18] and was discharged in 1943 following a bout of malaria. According to Holocaust scholar Michael Berenbaum, Gustav Schwarzenegger served in "in theaters of the war where atrocities were committed. But there is no way to know from the documents whether he played a role."[16] Gustav's background received wide press attention during the 2003 California gubernatorial recall election in which Schwarzenegger was elected governor.

Arnold Alois Schwarzenegger was born in Thal, Austria on July 30, 1947,[10] the second son of Gustav Schwarzenegger and his wife, Aurelia (née Jadrny). His mother was of Czech descent,[11][12] while his paternal great-grandfather, Wenzel Mach, was also Czech and came from the village of Chocov near Mladá Vožice.[13] Wenzel had a child out of wedlock with Kunigunde Schwarzenegger, and the child (Schwarzenegger's paternal grandfather) was originally named Carl Mach but later adopted his mother's surname Schwarzenegger.

Battle of Kansas retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Battle of Kansas (also known as the "Battle of Wichita"[1]) was the nickname given to a project to build, modify, and deliver large quantities of the world's most advanced bomber to the front-lines, originally in Europe and in the Pacific, although due to delay in production, was only used in the Pacific. The battle began as the first B-29 Superfortresses rolled off the production lines of the massive new Boeing factory on the prairies near Wichita, Kansas.[2]

The Boeing B-29 Superfortress was a significant advance in aviation technology, which came with a multitude of problems to be resolved before it was suitable for combat operations. When the B-29 was ordered into production, the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor had not yet taken place and the first flight of the XB-29 prototype was still over a year away. On 6 September 1941 the US Army Air Corps (soon to be the US Army Air Forces) placed its initial production contract for 250 B-29s, built mainly in Wichita, KS.[3]

Boeing submitted the proposal for the B-29 long-range heavy bomber to the Army in 1940, before the United States entered World War II.

One of the most technologically advanced airplanes of World War II, the B-29 had many new features, including guns that could be fired by remote control. Two crew areas, fore and aft, were pressurized and connected by a long tube over the bomb bays, allowing crew members to crawl between them. The tail gunner had a separate pressurized area that could only be entered or left at altitudes that did not require pressurization.

The B-29 was also the world's heaviest production plane because of increases in range, bomb load and defensive requirements.

The B-29 used the high-speed Boeing 117 airfoil, and its larger Fowler flaps added to the wing area as they increased lift. Modifications led to the B-29D, upgraded to the B-50, and the RB-29 photoreconnaissance aircraft. The Soviet-built copy of the B-29 was called the Tupolev Tu-4.

The earliest B-29s were built before testing was finished, so the Army established modification centers where last-minute changes could be made without slowing expanding assembly lines.

McNamara as Secretary of Defense, 1961. Up untile the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, an efficacy expert on B-29 usage (ending 1946)

Robert Strange McNamara (a Stranger, non Aristocrat?) was an American business executive and the eighth United States Secretary of Defense, serving from 1961 to 1968 under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. He played a major role in escalating the United States' involvement in the Vietnam War. Wikipedia

Born: June 9, 1916, San Francisco, CA Died: JULY 6, 2009, Washington, D.C.

Robert McNamara was born in San Francisco, California.[3] His father was Robert James McNamara, sales manager of a wholesale shoe company, and his mother was Clara Nell (Strange) McNamara.[5][6][7] His father's family was Irish and, in about 1850, following the Great Irish Famine, had emigrated to the U.S., first to Massachusetts and later to California.[8] He graduated from Piedmont High School in Piedmont, California in 1933

Before commissioning into the Army Air Force, McNamara was a Cadet in the Golden Bear Battalion at U.C. Berkeley.[11] McNamara was also a member of the UC Berkeley's Order of the Golden Bear, a fellowship of students and leading faculty members formed to promote leadership within the student body. He then attended Harvard Business School, where he earned an M.B.A. in 1939.

Immediately thereafter, McNamara worked a year at Price Waterhouse, a San Francisco accounting firm. He returned to Harvard in August 1940 to teach accounting in the Business School and became the institution's highest-paid and youngest assistant professor at that time.

Following his involvement there in a program to teach analytical approaches used in business to officers of the United States Army Air Forces, he entered the USAAF as a captain in early 1943, serving most of World War II with its Office of Statistical Control. One of his major responsibilities was the analysis of U.S. bombers' efficiency and effectiveness, especially the B-29 forces commanded by Major General Curtis LeMay in India, China, and the Mariana Islands.[13] McNamara established a statistical control unit for the XX Bomber Command and devised schedules for B-29s doubling as transports for carrying fuel and cargo over The Hump.

He left active duty in 1946 with the rank of lieutenant colonel and with a Legion of Merit.

After his election in 1960, President-elect John F. Kennedy first offered the post of Secretary of Defense to Robert A. Lovett, who had already served in that position in the Truman administration; Lovett declined but recommended McNamara. Kennedy had read about McNamara and his career in a Time magazine article on December 2, 1960, and interviewed him on December 8, with his brother and right-hand man Robert F. Kennedy also being present.[17] McNamara told Kennedy that he didn't know anything about government, to which Kennedy replied: "We can learn our jobs together. I don't know how to be president either".

According to Special Counsel Ted Sorensen, Kennedy regarded McNamara as the “star of his team, calling upon him for advice on a wide range of issues beyond national security, including business and economic matters.”

McNamara became one of the few members of the Kennedy Administration to work and socialize with Kennedy, and he became close to Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, eventually serving as a pallbearer at the younger Kennedy’s funeral in 1968.[22][page needed]

> Robert McNamara (1916-2009) was an American businessmen and the United States’ longest-serving Secretary of Defence. His tenure lasted eight years (1961-68) under presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Born in San Francisco, McNamara was the son of a shoe salesman descended from Irish immigrants.

U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara with U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff General Curtis LeMay at The Pentagon on April 10, 1963. During World War II, McNamara served under LeMay’s command as a statistician for the United States Army Air Forces.

Initially, the basic policies outlined by President Kennedy in a message to Congress on March 28, 1961, guided McNamara in the reorientation of the defense program. Kennedy rejected the concept of first-strike attack and emphasized the need for adequate strategic arms and defense to deter nuclear attack on the United States and its allies. U.S. arms, he maintained, must constantly be under civilian command and control, and the nation’s defense posture had to be “designed to reduce the danger of irrational or unpremeditated general war.” The primary mission of U.S. overseas forces, in cooperation with its allies, was “to prevent the steady erosion of the Free World through limited wars”. Kennedy and McNamara rejected massive retaliation for a posture of flexible response. The U.S. wanted choices in an emergency other than “inglorious retreat or unlimited retaliation”, as the president put it.

McNamara took other steps to increase U.S. deterrence posture and military capabilities. He raised the proportion of Strategic Air Command (SAC) strategic bombers on 15-minute ground alert from 25% to 50%, thus lessening their vulnerability to missile attack. In December 1961, he established the United States Strike Command (STRICOM).

The Kennedys' Irish Mafia The Kennedys' Irish Mafiastory of the Irish who surrounded the most charismatic political figure of the 20th Century - President John F. Kennedy: Who they were, how they supported their leader, and the price some of them paid for this unswerving devotion.

Nowhere was the assassination of Kennedy more acutely felt than in his ancestral homeland of Ireland.

What was known as Kennedys' "Irish Mafia" became the key advisors surrounding the President. People like the affable Dave Powers, the clinical Kenny O'Donnell and the strategist Larry O'Brien - men selected for their loyalty and devotion to JFK and his family. This group helped him win the Presidency, grieved for his passing and provided political support to his successors for decades afterwards.

This award winning documentary features interviews with key witnesses to the Kennedy Presidency, as well as professional and amateur archive footage and new scenes of the locations. The Kennedys' Irish Mafia is a stunning recollection about one of the most remarkable periods in modern history.

Who killed John Kennedy? It was It was Lyndon Johnson, Texas oil executives (allied with LBJ) & their friends in U.S. military intelligence who did it for a variety of reasons both personal & ideological. LBJ, Hoover, Allen Dulles, H.L. Hunt, Clint Murchison Sr, D. H. Byrd, Nelson Rockefeller and George Herbert Walker Bush are all very likely inner circle plotters to murder John Kennedy. You can add to that Gen. Curtis LeMay and most especially Gen. Edward Lansdale who was identified at Dealey Plaza by 2 of his peers: Col. Fletcher Prouty and Gen. Victor Krulak.

The financial activities likely CIA tied surrounding University of Wisconsin Madison by some first hand accounts tie to the JFK and other assassinations Evert Glover of the research lab was a a party in which Lee Harvey Oswald was provided a gun.

Attendees of that same university include Fletcher Prouty, a Donegan family friend and relative and Sidney Gottlieb CIA speech therapist, biologist, and CIA assassin.

Prouty asserted a Secret Team was profiting on some activities and wanted JFK dead.

In the story line of The Manchurian Candidate (1962) a Chinese psychology expert Dr. Yen Lo PsyOps expert stands in front of Stalin and Chairman Mao and the Communist star to explain a plot under which a US Soldier would be hypnotized by suggestion into doing something against his will, not away he was doing it.

Dr Lo gives this lecture to a horticulture lecture theater, a mind surgery room, in which surgical suggestions are given to US Soldiers and it is explained Blue flowers do not grow in certain locations.

In fact the Queen of Diamonds, of Family Jewels, the CIA program are nut under control of Stalin or Mao, that is to say, not under control of Cuba or China.

The program is to fight the Pacific and Atlantic missile crisis in both oceans by planting the Queens sleeper agents.

So play it backwards. The plot against the USA is a CIA plot for the USA which will stop Stalin and Mao. Black is White and White is Black, brainwash which is which by conditioning, reverse the answer to decode it.

JFK will oppose the Queens desire for world control as will my father James Donegan who married Glorian Donegan, though James and Glorian were given excuses as to why the CIA needed access to thier DNA and reproductivity, part of above ground blast testing and and follow up, though my father hated the British, my mother was humiliated and abandoned, left to stare at the Hope Diamond and wish she had had the chance of the recognized Von Trapps too.

In short the program was, as the Illuminati families of Rockefeller, Bush, Powell family, Gottlieb Family, Dulles brothers, Woolsey brothers, Clintons, Kellys, Donald Barr and William Peham Barr, Schwartenzeggers, Trumps, Obamas, the Cruz family, and others planned, the Mossad, British, and Vatican use of groomed sleeper agents planed out by the FBI, CIA, NSA, DARPA, NASA, and others, and JFK got in the way of Columbia University work and planning.

There should be a coming clean which Trump wants to do. There should be self-policing in the Vatican, Windsors, Israel, FBI DOJ, and elsewhere that panic moves were made, and now the nebula of WWII allies should remain strong and ALSO engage in correcting what were illegal acts, acts which history has only one time line and no comparison points of.

The alternative to this is that those countries of WWII allies are merely enemies pushign the error when they have the chance to right it.

This was the plan thought for Hawaii, Indonesia, Cuba, AND the USA.

Regime change, starting with the removal of JFK some plan could happen, OECD leading the charge.

Regime Change around the world as planned by Scottish Rites, the OECD, and FBI. Who strongly agrees with the Family Jewels sleeper agents plan? *Hint*The Queen of England has a special love for Emmerald diamonds and wants them.

2011

- November 12 - 19 - The President attends the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) economic summit in Honolulu (November 12 - 15) before traveling to Australia and Bali, Indonesia.[85]

- NOVEMBER 18 - While visiting Bali, Indonesia, President Obama announces Hillary Clinton’s plan to visit Burma, the first by a Secretary of State in more than 50 years.[86]

- November 23 - President Obama officially pardons two turkeys, “Liberty” and “Peace”, during the National Thanksgiving Turkey Presentation.[87]

- November 28 - President Obama hosts a White House summit for leaders of the European Union to discuss the European sovereign debt crisis.[88]

The grandfather (white side) of the Barrack Obama Jr. family line is Stanley Armour Dunham of Witicha Kansas who was reportedly caught stealing B-29 plans to help Gernmany during WWII.

During World War II, Madelyn Dunham (CIA agent) worked the night shift on a Boeing B-29 assembly line in Wichita and Stanley Dunham enlisted in the Army. Her brother Charlie Payne was part of the 89th Infantry Division, which liberated the Nazi concentration camp at Ohrdruf, a subcamp of Buchenwald,[7] a fact Barack Obama has referred to in speeches.[8] Madelyn Dunham gave birth to their only child, a daughter named Stanley Ann Dunham, who was later known as Ann, at St. Francis Hospital in Wichita on November 29, 1942.[9]

The most recent native European ancestor was Falmouth Kearney, a farmer who emigrated from Moneygall, County Offaly, Ireland, during the Great Irish Famine and settled in Jefferson Township, Tipton County, Indiana, United States. Kearney's youngest daughter, Mary Ann (Kearney) Dunham, was Stanley Dunham's paternal grandmother.[19]

Madelyn Dunham, born Madelyn Lee Payne on October 26, 1922, in Peru, Kansas,[1]

Stanley Dunham's distant cousins include six U.S. presidents - and another president who is Dunham's grandson: James Madison, Harry Truman, Lyndon Johnson, Jimmy Carter, George H. W. Bush and George W. Bush, plus Barack Obama, his grandson. [20] Through a common ancestor, Mareen Duvall, a wealthy Huguenot merchant who emigrated to Maryland in the 1650s, Dunham is related to former Vice-President Dick Cheney (an eighth cousin once removed).[6] Through another common ancestor, Hans Gutknecht, a German Swiss from Bischwiller, Alsace whose three sons resettled in Germantown, Pennsylvania as well as the Kentucky frontier in the mid-18th century, Dunham is President Harry S. Truman's fourth cousin, twice removed. [21][22][23] Dunham and Wild Bill Hickock are sixth cousins, four times removed, through Jacob Dunham.[24]

The white side grandmother is said to be Madelyn Paine, a CIA agent tied to Hawaii, Sidney Gottlieb, and other CIA activities.

Boeing RB-29 / F-13 (Superfortress) retrieved from Militaryfactory.com and copied or modified to here

The Boeing B-29 Superfortress served as the basis for the late-World War 2 F-13 long-range reconnaissance conversion model.

As American involvement in World War 2 (1939-1945) grew, so too did its need for long-range reconnaissance. This need was only partly solved by conversion of existing Boeing B-17 "Flying Fortress" and Consolidated B-24 "Liberator" four-engined heavy bombers but these designs still had their inherent range limitations. With the introduction of the Boeing B-29 "Superfortress" strategic bomber in 1943, all that changed for now the United States Army Air Forces (USAAF) now had, in its stable, a versatile performer capable of reaching the ranges expected of it - particularly across the vast expanse of the Pacific Theater.

The Chain of Command

Wilcher alleged the existence of a “top secret chain of command underlying all of the major covert and black operations which have been carried out by the CIA’s myriad wet teams over the past 30 years or so.” This “shadow government” would be led by “a top secret council of nine men whose names I do not know and would not recognize even if I stumbled across them,” who were capable of giving orders to the Director of Central Intelligence and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Wilcher claimed that this group was responsible for nearly every notable assassination and assassination attempt from JFK to John Lennon, for starting the Vietnam and Bosnian wars by destabilizing these societies, and for the deaths at Jonestown.

NOVEMBER 18, 1978 [the year by calculation of Jen MOores statistic I had been stalked for 45 years thus starting in 1978 and at the time of her death and that the CIA began the stalk of me and the year I noticed the stalk of me and tried to trace by phone tap who the stalkers were, all 1978], a total of 918 people died at the settlement including CIA MKULTRA investigator Congressman Leo Ryan. Most sources today refer to the deaths with terms such as mass murder-suicide,[6] a massacre,[7][8] or simply mass murder.[9][10] Seventy or more individuals at Jonestown were injected with poison, and a third of the victims (304) were minors.[11][12] Guards armed with guns and crossbows had been ordered to shoot those who fled the Jonestown pavilion as Jones lobbied for suicide.[8][13]

My premise in citing these works of fiction is that similar events occurred when evil Sidney Gottlieb and OSS CIA Vatican Mason types used hidden away Glorian Donegan ovum during my pregnacy, Feb 20 November 18 9 Months and her birthday December 13 as sort of annums of that pregnancy and delivery, and a half brother, perhaps in the same “oven” of Eva Ban, Barrack Obama with Malcom X as a

Manhattan Beach Los Angeles Santa Monica Area, Manhattan Project, and early childhood testing of me in odd facilities

Parents Dig Persistently for Evidence : McMartin school: Despite skeptics, they insist they have found underground network.

By STEVEN R. CHURM JUNE 5, 1990 12 TIMES STAFF WRITER

Former FBI agent Ted L. Gunderson believes it. So does Jackie McGauley and several other parents of former students at the McMartin Pre-school in Manhattan Beach.

And in recent days, Gunderson and the parents have tried to make the public believe that a long-rumored network of underground tunnels where children may have been taken and terrorized was discovered last week in the final hours before the now-infamous preschool was razed.

The ex-FBI Los Angeles bureau chief, who was hired by the parents, has appeared on radio talk shows to tell of the tunnels and criticize Dist. Atty. Ira Reiner’s office for failing to take seriously the parents’ findings. He offers boxes and boxes of artifacts—more than 2,000 at last count—gathered during the excavation as further proof that the preschool operators maintained and then tried to cover up a tunnel system by stuffing trash into the narrow openings. He says that tiny paint chips, curtain rod rings, charcoal and electrical wiring dug from under the foundation support the theory.

An investigator for the district attorney’s office who inspected the excavated school site last week told parents upon emerging from one of the crawl spaces that the openings hollowed out with picks and shovels “could be anything.” Sewer or water lines, for example.

Even the archeologist hired by Gunderson and the parents qualified the findings, saying workers came across “two probable tunnels… . But we can’t be 100% certain.”

The kidnapping of children for purposes of prostitution, pornography, high tech weaponry experimental abuse, mind control, child slave labor for underground alien-controlled facilities, white sex slavery, and the satanic ritual murder of untold thousands of American children snatched from the streets and playgrounds of America by agents working for the CIA is the principle reason for the existence of a covert CIA operation called “The Finders” [of FOXP2 gene expressing children and symptoms testing of them] . -Ted Gunderson, Stalk and Abuse of Children born in that area and time ALso see Church Committee and Stalk of certain families

The McMartin preschool trial was a day care sexual abuse case in the 1980s, prosecuted by the Los Angeles District Attorney Ira Reiner.[1] Members of the McMartin family, who operated a preschool in Manhattan Beach, California, were charged with numerous acts of sexual abuse of children in their care. Accusations were made in 1983, arrests and the pretrial investigation took place from 1984 to 1987, and trials ran from 1987 to 1990. The case lasted seven years but resulted in no convictions, and all charges were dropped in 1990. By the case’s end, it had become the longest and most expensive in American history.[2][3] The case was part of day-care sex-abuse hysteria, a moral panic over alleged Satanic ritual abuse in the 1980s and early 1990s.

From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Odd and secretive testing not revealed and in hidden facilities?

Some of the accusations were described as “bizarre”,[7] overlapping with accusations that mirrored the emerging satanic ritual abuse panic.[6][23] It was alleged that, in addition to having been sexually abused, they saw witches fly, traveled in a hot-air balloon, and were taken through tunnels.[6] When shown a series of photographs by Danny Davis (the McMartins’ lawyer), one child identified actor Chuck Norris as one of the abusers.[24]

Some of the abuse was alleged to have occurred in secret tunnels beneath the school.[25] Several excavations turned up evidence of old buildings on the site and other debris from before the school was built, but no evidence of any secret chambers or tunnels was found.[6]

My theory is rather than use those dates for Obama, JFK being at my Manhattan Beach Manhattan Project atomic bomb testing and development birth, the CIA moved the location to Hawaii, also in atomic testing, and Gottlieb August 8 birthday delivery dates of August 3 and August 4.

In short Barrack Obama Sr said to be wed Feb 2, and that would be Nov 2 birht. but she was 3 months preganat at wed, which gives Aug 2 as a birthday.

Lee Harvey Oswald found a position on October 12th, 1962 at the graphic arts firm of Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall as a photoprint trainee. The company has been cited as doing classified work for the US government but this was limited to typesetting for maps that were produced in a section to which Oswald had no access. While working for Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall, he may have used photographic and typesetting equipment in the unsecured area to create falsified identification documents, including some in the name of an alias he created, Alek James Hidell.

His co-workers and supervisors eventually grew frustrated with his inefficiency, lack of precision, inattention, and rudeness to others, to the point where fights had threatened to break out. He had also been seen reading a Russian publication, Krokodil, in the cafeteria. On April 1, 1963, after six months of work, Oswald's supervisor terminated Oswald's employment at Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall.

Robert Stovall and other employees who knew and worked with Oswald were called to testify before the Warren Commission, mainly to see if Oswald had come into contact with potentially classified materials, the aforementioned typograhic work for the government, which as it turns out was actually for the Department of Defense. As far as the Commission could tell, and as far as Mr. Stovall testified, Oswald didn't ever work on those jobs.

Very interesting sidenote: As noted above, Oswald was fired from Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall on April 1, 1963. That happens to be the day after the famous pictures of him holding a rifle in his backyard were taken by his wife, Marina. That is of course assuming that she was actually the person who took the pictures. They could be fakes, right? :) https://kscdirect.com/showpost.php?page_id=233

Bertrand Russell

Bertrand Arthur William Russell, 3rd Earl Russell OM FRS[65] (18 May 1872 - 2 February 1970) was a British polymath. As an academic, he worked in philosophy, mathematics, and logic. His work has had a considerable influence on mathematics, logic, set theory, linguistics, artificial intelligence, cognitive science, computer science (see type theory and type system) and various areas of analytic philosophy, especially logic, philosophy of mathematics, philosophy of language, epistemology and metaphysics. Russell was also a public intellectual, historian, social critic, political activist, and Nobel laureate.[66][67]

Russell was a pacifist who championed anti-imperialism and chaired the India League.[70][71][72] He occasionally advocated preventive nuclear war, before the opportunity provided by the atomic monopoly had passed and he decided he would “welcome with enthusiasm” world government.[73]

Owing to the birth of his two children, he became interested in education, especially early childhood education. He was not satisfied with the old traditional education and thought that progressive education also had some flaws,[137] as a result, together with Dora, Russell founded the experimental Beacon Hill School in 1927. The school was run from a succession of different locations, including its original premises at the Russells’ residence, Telegraph House, near Harting, West Sussex. During this time, he published On Education, Especially in Early Childhood. On 8 July 1930 Dora gave birth to her third child Harriet Ruth. After he left the school in 1932, Dora continued it until 1943.[138][139]

On a tour through the US in 1927, Russell met Barry Fox (later Barry Stevens), who became a well-known Gestalt therapist and writer in later years.[140] Russell and Fox developed an intensive relationship. In Fox's words: "... for three years we were very close."[141] Fox sent her daughter Judith to Beacon Hill School for some time.[142] From 1927 to 1932 Russell wrote 34 letters to Fox.[143]

Garrison believed that the men were part of an arms smuggling ring supplying anti-Castro Cubans with weapons."

In the autumn of 1966, Garrison began to re-examine the Kennedy assassination. Guy Banister had died of a heart attack in 1964,[20] but Garrison re-interviewed Martin, who told the district attorney that Banister and his associates were involved in stealing weapons and ammunition from armories and in gunrunning. Garrison believed that the men were part of an arms smuggling ring supplying anti-Castro Cubans with weapons."[21]

Journalist James Phelan said Garrison told him that the assassination was a "homosexual thrill killing."[22] As Garrison continued his investigation he became convinced that a group of right-wing activists, which he believed included David Ferrie, Guy Banister, and Clay Shaw (director of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans), were involved in a conspiracy with elements of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to kill President Kennedy. Garrison would later say that the motive for the assassination was anger over Kennedy's foreign policy, especially Kennedy's efforts to find a political, rather than a military, solution in Cuba and Southeast Asia, and his efforts toward a rapprochement with the Soviet Union.[1][2] Garrison also believed that Shaw, Banister, and Ferrie had conspired to set up Oswald as a patsy in the JFK assassination.[23] News of Garrison's investigation was reported in the New Orleans States-Item on FEBRUARY 17, 1967.[6][24]

On FEBRUARY 22, 1967, less than a week after the newspaper broke the story of Garrison's investigation, David Ferrie, then his chief suspect, was found dead in his apartment from a brain aneurysm. Garrison suspected that Ferrie had been murdered despite the coroner's report that his death was due to natural causes.[25] According to Garrison, the day news of the investigation broke, Ferrie had called his aide Lou Ivon and warned that "I'm a dead man".[26]

Garrison is subject to Slander campaign as he pursues CIA warfare techniques and Shaw.

Shaw's untimely death is just one of many bizarre "coincidences" that stretch from the Bay of Pigs to the doorsteps of Watergate. By Richard Boyle

Los Angeles Couinty prosecutor Garrison still carries with him a tremendous bitterness, a conviction that he was fighting a one-sided battle against the CIA and something he refers to as the "[Special or Leverage] warfare state."

Garrison says that since he first got a tip shortly after the assassination of JFK that Lee Harvey Oswald and David Ferrie had been associated together in the Civil Air Patrol, and since he first ordered his DA's staff to begin its own investigation, he has been the victim of a slander campaign.

Shaw was found innocent, and suddenly Garrison's credibility had vanished, as did his political future. After the trial ended in February 1969, Garrison disappeared from the headlines. Further, newspapers in New Orleans called for his removal from office, and he eventually was > defeated for reelection. Garrison faded into political obscurity and Shaw filed a multi-million-dollar lawsuit against the former district attorney. Shaw had become the object of national sympathy, seemingly an example of what one over-ambitious politician could do to an innocent man. Shaw was seen as a man whose life was left in a shambles, emotionally and financially

Gay rights activist Elmdorf may be able to provide prescient insight. Was something being setup in advance with Scalia, perhaps a read in to a program, and he was objecting to the start, and they decided to cut the preliminary conversation short, even before the real conversation began?

Final nail in Liz's coffin? Cheney 'secretly orchestrated Washington Post op-ed by all ten living former Defense Secretaries https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-9554985/Liz-Cheney-secretly-orchestrated-Washington-Post-op-ed-ten-living-former-Defense-Secretaries.html

Rep. Liz Cheney secretly masterminded an extraordinary Washington Post op-ed authored by top military leaders just three days before the January 6 Capitol riot, it has been claimed.

The letter published in the Washington Post contained a stark warning from 10 Defense Secretaries from both parties - and came just three days before the January 6 Capitol riot.

Now, the Wyoming Republican could be within days of losing her elected leadership post amid a clash with Trump that came to a head with his claim that the 2020 election was a 'BIG LIE.'

30-something Kassie Larson (Jennifer Aniston) is single, hasn't found love yet, and decides she wants to have a baby. Despite the objections of her long-time, best friend Wally Mars (Jason Bateman), she chooses to do so alone because she can't wait any longer. She also wants a face-to-face sperm donor, disdaining using a sperm bank.

Roland produces his sperm in the bathroom, leaving it in a sample cup.

Wally uses the bathroom and sees the sample. Drunk, Wally plays with the cup and accidentally spills it into the sink. Panicking, neurotic Roland replaces the sperm with his own.

Wally notices the strong personality and behavioral similarities between him and Sebastian (Kassie Larson's 7 year old) and realizes the result of the switch out sperm cups and the fertilization of Kassie Lorason (Jennifer Aniston) which occurred seven years earlier.

The concept of the screenplay by Ted Griffin is that Sarah Huttinger, (Jennifer Aniston) learns that her mother and grandmother may be the inspiration for the 1963 novel The Graduate by Charles Webb.

Sarah visits her mother's best friend, Aunt Mitzy, who confirms that Jocelyn spent time with their prep school classmate Beau Burroughs the week before her wedding to Sarah's father Earl, and that Beau was friends with Charles Webb, the author of the novel The Graduate.

Jeff points out Sarah's parents were married just short of nine months before her birth, leading her to wonder if Beau might really be her biological father. Sarah also accuses her grandmother of being the inspiration for Mrs. Robinson, the older character who seduced the young man (in The Graduate)

THE RUINS (FILM) IS A 2008 SUPERNATURAL HORROR FILM

The group of tourists in a remote Forrest now realizes that the vines around a pyramid are predatory

Two young American couples - Jeff (Jonathan Tucker) and Amy (Jena Malone), and Eric (Shawn Ashmore) and Stacy (Laura Ramsey) - enjoy their vacation in Mexico. They meet Mathias (Joe Anderson), a German tourist, who is looking for his brother Heinrich. His last known location is an archaeological dig at a remote Mayan ruin in the jungle. They are also joined by Dimitri (Dimitri Baveas), Mathias's friend. The group reaches the ruins of a Mayan temple, and are confronted by Mayan villagers with guns and bows. Mathias tries to explain their purpose, but the villagers do not understand Spanish or English. When Amy accidentally steps on some vines while taking a picture, the villagers become increasingly agitated. Dimitri approaches the villagers, hoping to appease them, but they shoot and kill him. The rest of the group flees up the steps of the ruins.

The group now realizes that the vines are predatory

The next morning, Stacy awakens and leaves the tent where the rest of the group is sleeping. She finds a backpack, which contains a knife. Jeff hears moans coming from outside and goes to see what is going on. Jeff and Amy follow with Eric. Jeff walks over to Stacy trying to calm her down as she has a deep gash on her forehead and is slicing up her thigh to get a vine out. He touches her and she flails the knife at him, slicing his palm. He backs away. Eric also approaches Stacy, trying to calm her down. As he touches her back to calm her, she spins around and fatally stabs him in the chest. While the rest try to restrain Stacy, Eric is dragged away by the vines. Overcome with remorse, Stacy begs Amy to kill her, and Jeff kills her as an act of mercy.

Christopher Pyle

Pyle graduated from Bowdoin College (1961) and earned LLB (1964), MA (1966), and PhD (1974) degrees at Manhattan Project's Columbia University overlooking Manhattan Beach. [1]

In the 1960s, Pyle served in the United States Army as a captain in Army Intelligence Command (now United States Army Intelligence and Security Command).[1]

In the 1960s while an Army captain in intelligence, Pyle learned that "Army intelligence had 1,500 plainclothes agents watching every demonstration of 20 people or more throughout the United States," (as later Pyle recounted on DECEMBER 19, 2005, on Democracy Now[3] and again on ABC News on January 6, 2006,[4]) as part of a broad-based program of domestic spying.

Frank Forrester Church III (July 25, 1924 - April 7, 1984) was an American lawyer and politician. A member of the Democratic Party, he served as a United States Senator from Idaho from 1957 to 1981. He is known for heading the Church Committee, which investigated abuses within the United States Intelligence Community.

By the early years of the 1970s, a series of troubling revelations had appeared in the press concerning intelligence activities. First came the revelations by Army intelligence officer Christopher Pyle in January 1970 of the U.S. Army's spying on the civilian population[1][2] and Senator Sam Ervin's Senate investigations produced more revelations.[3]

Then on December 22, 1974, The New York Times published a lengthy article by Seymour Hersh detailing operations engaged in by the CIA over the years that had been dubbed the "family jewels".

Covert action programs involving assassination attempts on foreign leaders [and replacement of them with Groomed USA Leaders born with Family Jewels, Windsor Secret Princedoms] and covert attempts to subvert foreign governments were reported for the first time. In addition, the article discussed efforts by intelligence agencies to collect information on the political activities of US citizens. [4]

My father left the church (Catholic Church) after fried of his was bitterly betrayed by the church and my father never forgave that. I think that person betrayed was his Cape Cod friend John Fitzgerald Kennedy, it was tied to my February 20 1961 November 18 1961 birth certificate and my mothers Dec 13 birthday, and her ovum use by the CIA for testing (FOXP2).

In a a later part of this book called #Books I will tell a story similar to that movie mine, Edward Paul Donegan born Los Angles Nov 18 1961 to parents in atomic testing CIA research.

James Paul Donegan and Glorian Donegan, my mother, my father in atomic testing and radiation affects as nuclear air force. Johnson Atoll, LA/Nevada SIMI Valley area.

My father, part of the “first nuclear wing of the Air Force (at one time the Army Air Corps which he had joined and later became the Air Force) was part of the Manhattan Project of the LA area and Pacific/ Nevada Proving Grounds where across the Southern US and Lawrence Livermore Labs the Gadget was built and tested, the first Atomic Bomb.

My father’s (James Paul Donegan’s) brother Robert William Donegan was in the nuclear industry our families in Cape Cod frequently dined together and visited together, James and Glorian Donegan, husband and wife, Robert Donegan and Helen Donegan, husband and wife, two brothers tied to nuclear testing and engineering, Robert, my father’s brother when in the private sector as it seems Exelon Nuclear Industries working on Three Mile Island and other civilian projects tied to the Depart of Energy and its proving requirements.

I was born at Manhattan Beach Los Angles under the Manhattan Project ongoing testing, in 1961, when my was later in his later TWA job but still under followup Manhattan Project Testing of DNA and I believe he met my mother GLorian Donegan through SIdney Gottlieb of CIA Werhner Vob BRaun history, and many families including Shrivers and Obamas share my DNA, now a CIA dirty secret.

He started in what was then the Army Air Corps.

His most likely school which is also a CIA center.

Sheppard Air Force Base is named in honor of Senator John Morris Sheppard of Texas (1875-1941), chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee from 1933 until his death on 9 April 1941. Senator Sheppard helped lead the fight for military preparedness before the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The base began as Sheppard Field on 300 acres (1.2 km²) just south of Kell Field, named for the businessman Frank Kell. A Texas cattleman, oilman, and philanthropist, Joseph Sterling Bridwell, sold the land to the U.S. Army for one dollar.[3]

It was officially opened as a United States Army Air Corps training center on 17 October 1941, following the arrival of the first military members on 14 June. As the Army Air Corps became the Army Air Forces, facilities were completed sufficiently to allow the first class of 22 aviation mechanics to enter training that October; the class graduated 23 February 1942.

TWA Pilot Barry Seal was probably tied to my father's age of pilots class action lawsuit in biology and psychometrics regarding piloting and retiring age for new pilots to come on line. His death (Barry Seal TWA and Barry Seals CIA accountant near Florence Martin of Mabell Texas near Sheppard Air Force Base may be connected to my father. My mother also had a "Flow in accounting" joke "How is the cash, flow?" she used to tell.

These are considered suspicious CIA deaths tied to a larger conspiracy of genome, genome experimentation around race, family lines, and futurism that centered around nuclear missile crisis with both China Indonesia and Cub Russia under presidnt John F. Wikipedia retrieved re: Kenny O'Donnell

O'Donnell was born in Worcester, Massachusetts, and raised in Boston. Both of his parents were Catholics of Irish descent.[2] O'Donnell graduated from high school during World War II and then served in the U.S. Army Air Forces (1942 - 1945), where he flew 30 missions as a bombardier in a B-17 squadron before being shot down over Belgium. “He was imprisoned, escaped, and emerged with the Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal with Four Oak Leaf Clusters.”[6] Following the war, he studied at Harvard College (1946 - 1949) and met Robert F. Kennedy, where they were roommates[5] [Similar to Thomas C. Wales?]

In 1958, Kenny O’Donnell became a member of Senator John Kennedy’s staff, where he was later a key organizer and adviser during Kennedy’s presidential campaign in 1960.[5] The following year, he became President Kennedy’s special assistant and Appointments Secretary. He later advised the President during the lead up to the Bay of Pigs invasion and during the 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis.[5]

O’Donnell arranged President Kennedy’s trip to Dallas in November 1963 and was in a car just behind the president’s limousine when Kennedy was assassinated. Kennedy’s death was an enormous blow to O’Donnell, who long blamed himself for the assassination.[7] [Mortal Error?]

Sidny Gottlieb. CIA biologist and speech therapist working with king Edward VIII on the FOXP2 speech defect tied to a number of symptoms like Borderline Personality Disorder, dry throughts, and polarized thinking capabilities or defects, depending clinically as to whether the cognitive trait is an asset or hinderance.

Glorian Donegan. My mother who carries the FOXP2 genes as I do and appears to have been rescued from King Edward VIII earlier days, as , having illegitimate children out of wedlock.

James P. Donegan, my father and his wife, who was working with DARPA, Sidney Gottlieb, and the CIA and other programs including Dept of Energy on the effects of radiation (being exposed to nuclear blasts in above ground testing towers and undergoing medical testing) during 1960s Los Angles we lived in a few years, other than that, living in Boston where my family likely knew the Kennedys JFK who was part of an experimental fertilization Feb 20 1961 and a birth in Los Angles Nov 18 / 19 1961 Lost Angles. I believe this is Obama’s birth as well as my own at St Joseph’s Hospital Los Angles.

I further research and speculate that 2 years after Nov 18 1961 JFK is assassinated because he will not comply with the Illuminati plot and through my life a protection racket built around racial assault of me and will place me in institutions in which religious conservancy can try to wipe away the evidence of what happened to my family over the decades.

After 2006 to 2007 Secret DNA Aunuki Convention tests complete, cleanup of those who might disclose the operation get eliminated starting in 2008 through to 2011 including DNA operations Aug 4 and Seal Team Six told to place it

The following people died in 2011 as witnesses to the Malcom X assassination at Audubon Hall France and I believe the connected matter of the John F. Kennedy and other assassinations tied to the secret FBI plans to create and hide to the world sleeper agents of CIA selected DNA, involuntary from the Donegan family during the Manhattan Project.

In the January 25, 2011 on his stomach cancer death bed letter, Wood, who was on duty the day of Malcolm X's death, said he "participated in actions that in hindsight were deplorable and detrimental to the advancement of my own black people."

“Under the direction of my handlers, I was told to encourage leaders and members of the civil rights groups to commit felonious acts,” Wood said in the letter. (In my case Edward Paul Donegan a Dopple of me creates the false-pretext basis for retaliatory criminal and civil harassment of me subverting my life, credibility, and following.)

Wood stated he was coerced by his NYPD supervisors to entice members of Malcolm X’s security detail into committing crimes that resulted in their arrest days before the deadly shooting.

Ted Gunderson, Special Agent in Charge, Santa Monica Los Angeles. (Died 2011 Cancer) Stalked by Gangsalked, in 2008 alleged he was being poisoned (as I was in 2008) and subjected to FBI and Military Organized Stalk for outing Fee Masonry deep state, poisoned, likely radiologically like myself, by MKULTRA Organized Stalk system which relies on plausibly denying criminal espionage acts conducted in public or during break ins.

Ted Gunderson cites one source being General Russell Bowden, a man in the know about George H.W. Bush connections into illegal CIA activities being covered up like the JFK, Marylin Monroe, and Macdonald family murders, the Malcom X murder tied to this as well as was the Jeffery MacDonald family members murdered, tied to the secret history of CIA work through Transhumanism cult groups that were CIA front organizations and basis for undercover CIA activity.

I was radiologically poisoned at the same time Ted Gunderson was alleging he was being poisoned. I was in a federal prison facility on a rigged charged of annoying Freedom of Information act officers with repeated contacts they would not return, such as an FBI connected document.

Seal Team Six and Judge Roll died at this time, as did my mother Glorian Donegan and I was forced into repeated arrests as an illegal and denied program of money laundering for asset seizures is used when an impersonator of me sees a Dominatrix and confesses to wrong doing, and admits he, not I, owes lots of people cars, gold jewelry, Jaguars, and other property in restitution for alleged acts.

The controlling motivation for the Judge Roll murder was that family genome databases could detect usage of various family lines from around the world (including Malcom X DNA, the X Component) and without co-operation which could hide things like FOXP2 genetics affects and family registries the CIA sleeper agents would be detected, and further, asset seizures could continue genetics plans to create groomed USAID locations which offered better fed, cared for, educated, and seized high value genome for an elite connected CIA backed near biological CIA deep state of secret groomed ancestry.

The Organized Stalk activity has stepped on me as the Crime Syndicate run from the top have been able to gain co-operation of the program which allows sham based claims against my trust fund which would rather keep control of my assets rather than I have them (a cartel) and use the assets for those they sympathize more with than me, alleged, only alleged, victims of me. My theory is those who are guilty run the FBI and are running under Cover Story of Law, the CIA Legend is they are DOJ FBI Law Enforcement, in reality they are CIA backed criminals trying to abuse state power to cover up the Espionage misdeeds that continue, and the coverup method is plausible deniable harassment of witnesses to the FBI murder of JFK and others because Free Masons and Bush Rockefeller Rothschild money wanted a Middle East and world overthrow plan JFK nor Malcom X would back, a plan using sleeper agents.

A religious group likely tied to Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the Queen of England and out of wedlock Austrian DNA of both Einstein, Kutschera Gestapo, and original “British” Windsor family origins, are trying to plant central European cognition into groomed recipient populations and leaders, literally hoping for similar thinking and leadership and peacefull relations.

My DNA is tied to this program through MKULTRA and JFK history and the espionage agencies have been plausibly deniable harassing and mischaracterizing me.

The result of my family leaving the Church was a love of learning away from the Church which I grew up in. A disdain for adjectives effusing religious emptiness meant always going into the library in the den, letting a book fall open, and just moving into the present passage as if a meditation in learning.

I never liked ghetto or Christianity and fighting that off has been the losing fight of my life.

For forty plus years I have been hit with an Agent Provocatear Gangstalk appearing CIA and Secret Service US Marhsalls planted evidence based

An agent provocateur (French for “inciting agent”) is a person who commits or who acts to entice another person to commit an illegal or rash act or falsely implicate them in partaking in an illegal act, so as to ruin the reputation or entice legal action against the target or a group they belong to. They may target any group, such as a peaceful protest or demonstration, a union, a political party or a company.

A Targeted Individual is a person selected from a Decision Matrix (such as that Barack Obama and Jey Johnson ran) of miltary “non lethal” “decomoposition” usually resulting in death from creation of the circumstances of death and are also called “Targeted Assination” and as Social Control use character assassination as part of the the Targeted Killing conducted by PsyOs military intelligence.

The entirety of this story is a Gangstalk of me which has been conduct by State Backed Assailants fitting the description of My Brothers Keepers foundation groups like Becoming A Man, operated from Chicago recruiting street criminals under grants in the cities of Los Angels, Seattle, and Boston.

After years, perhaps forty years of Gangstalk assailants attacking me I discovered a surplus of evidence why these odd attacks which do not fit my life are being conducted illegally.

Espionage agencies such as the CIA and Secret Service, and Free Masons and many in the military created Barack Obama Jr to infiltrate Indonesia politics during the missile crisis of the Pacific and JFK nixing some of the plans for the MKULTRA plans was assassinated.

To this day this Espionage continues and I am a second generation victim of Atomic Testing of the Manhattan Project, and Espionage Agencies conspiring to hide their Espionage blunders and ever increasing Deep State terror most likely led out of a shadow government building 555 in Corus Christi and backed by such people as Hillary Clinton, one of the Kennedy family members, Colin Powell

(his wife Elma Powell likely tied to the FOXP2 gene in Cape Cod and the Manhattan Project, and racial genome testing underway at that time.

I call this MKULTRA Birterism, Malcom X and Glorian Donegan the biological parents under Sidney Gottlieb of Barack Obama Jr, born to surrogate Evan Ban after an experimental IVF procedure.

Espionage murders and espionage acts against my mother and I, and our Mitochondria, are still under way and the goal of the destroyers of MKULTRA information (before the Church Committee could get them all) is the espionage coverup underway an it is using mass scale terror and illegal funding.

In Texas the CIA, US Military, and Gods works around the world have enormous support and stoppig this even in the courts has been a problem because of illegal interference with my court filings (conspiracy against my right to petition) and unrecused court officials like CIA tied B Janice Ellington have effectively blocked my suits allowing misrepresentation of me by benefiting agencies, etc.,

Why all of this and tied to me? Black Liberation or Liberation Theology and other movements later in the Vatican had even earlier roots in WII and trying to stop Hitler and the Nazis.

The Church, Christian interventionism involved acts like rescuing Von Trapp children (I will document Glorian Donegan “Dec 13 DNA” ovum art of that, and working with Spanish Illuminati and Nazis on the speech and Borderline Personality Didorder gene called FOXP2 led to “lab supplies” usage of that genome during the Manhattan Project DNA experimentation and part of that experimentation was created a Malcom X and Glorian Donegan biological child, fertilzed Feb 20 1961 and of a Nov 18 1961 Birth, Certificate on the 19th, creation of Vatican Sidney Gottlieb CIA FBI manufactured counter communist Barack Obama to be deployed into Indonesia by USAID, Peace Corps, newly founded SEALS (Sea Aair and Land) espionage teams.

These agencies ultimately killed JFK, someone, it seems the Catholic Mafia, George Hinky Jr., perhaps Dave Powers co-operating, close to both JFK and the Vatican, the Vatican concerned with Spain to Capetown genomics, and Hispanics as well, often carying gblack DNA.

While the JFK assassination keeping MKULTRA going worked for a while the progress in genetics and the tracing of FOXP2 now has created a Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, the Human Brain Program, and espionage agency continuing serecy for what really happens in MKULTRA and the families coming out of secret studies of secret fertilization by NASA and likely Langely NASA search for genetic origins and meanings of life, but with much to cover up for the families involved tied to Cape Cod or Los Angles/Santa Monica, and genetic closeness concerns.

DARPA and MKULTRA. Family Secrets (Donegans) what I know and will prove to you. Also, 2B or Not 2b, to take the fight with the provacatuer and get arrested or in a fight again.

> The creation of the Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA) was authorized by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1958 for the purpose of forming and executing research and development projects to expand the frontiers of technology and science, and able to reach far beyond immediate military requirements,[3] the two relevant acts being the Supplemental Military Construction Authorization (Air Force)[7] (Public Law 85-325) and Department of Defense Directive 5105.15, in February 1958.
>
> Its creation was directly attributed to the launching of Sputnik and to U.S. realization that the Soviet Union had developed the capacity to rapidly exploit military technology. Initial funding of ARPA was $520 million.[8] ARPA's first director, Roy Johnson, left a $160,000 management job at General Electric for an $18,000 job at ARPA.[9] Herbert York from Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory was hired as his scientific assistant.[10]

Much of DARPA was transferred into NASA and stopping the missile race by increasing global IQ and world development was an Illuminati goal of peace on Earth and in Space.

The result, in part, has been obsession with my genome, Glorian Donegans son.

The countries involved include Ethiopia and Australia, and the Free Masons of the DOD and DARPAs seeming greatest minds from around the world .

On the Birther issues is the "Obama dead pool" links in which said biological family and locations of said biologial Obama family seem to take hits (Kenya, Mexico) as well as those with CIA backed activity plant fake covers for Obama as Peace workers.

"Don't take the fight" has been my motto, staying at home when I can. Yes, the can make it physically and or psychologically to be in public such as being in my path during covid9 or smelling too foul to exercise near.

You will see me work from this table at several upcoming points in the book.

As for FOXP2 like Caitlyn Mahoney, Edward Paul Donegna, Justina Pelletier, we are targeted and have hard times gettting out of CIA illegal programs and study, or "illegal animal husbandry" as State backed assailant provocateurs call it, because this gene and where it comes from and tracing the families would give away CIA, Vatican, and US Illuminati Family Secrets of so many powerful people.

You will see this chart of CIA connected family history as well in various locations in the book, perhaps at different update or emphasis levels.

The US Mothers of World Disaster CIA, DARPA, MKULTRA, Defense Intelligence Agency, Secret Service, FBI, The Bible, Free Masons,

Thus the gene, or working with genetic forensics and study of the brain and even brain and race (Scalia, Roll) are deadly, as are investigating the CIA and brain research at Jonestown Guyanna or the Virgin Island Brain Foundation of Epstein.

Many “Far right wing conspiracy Theories” I myself rejected I have come to believe and even think I know more than anyone else about, such as a mysterious carpet van crash in Walnut Creek California near Moraga california, old carpet probably burning before it made it into land fill, from Moraga California where Glorian Dec 13 DNA and I lived for about 25 years.

And the dates of my fertilization, birth at Manhattan Beach, feb 20 nov 18, JFK present it seems at least by phone at both, and Dec 13, the brain and IQ world 360 DNA which will help foreign economies.

All of this leads in the destroyed files of the CIA and MKULTRA, racial genetics, racial testing, involuntary guinea pigs of the CIA and Illuminati, and family databases and Race and IQ under the law, Race and IQ and Autism in ongoing Illulminati work.

And then I assert a connection between Family Databases at Univerity of Arizona, Judge Roll assasination, Justice Scallia assasination, and Jahred Laughmber of Brain Research and DARPA ties to MKULTRA.

Tricking Dominas Twice and NIA of False ALlegations

Cops or snitches backed by cops have a ploy worked out.

Twice they will pretend (or their snitches) will pretend to me be me or ask others to use my identity for themselves.

1. When they photograph a witting or unwitting female vicitm
2. When they as a Domina to punish them, as me, for the picture alleged to have been taken by me.

The cops skidding their truck out near me or motorcycle near me “sells” that they seem to be on to me for something but won’t name it or make something else up.

Name: Sound and Fury

Roaring Engines, skidding tires, blocking windows, etc.

Information:

As told to others (not me) some childish asshole took a picture of a victim.

Application:

the Copl or Doppelgänger of me did take the picture. When the COpl or DOpl say to a domina “guess what ED DID” the domina will punish the cop, not me, for the rights to my DNA and use it for police backed causes, such as retarded children, themselves, their ministers or religions, etc.,

The cops tell me NOTHING is going on and no perps are in any area and no allegation exists against me or anyone else.

I believe as a matter of MKLULTRA history the Gov has a reason to beat me out to women and explain why it is my DNA has been signed over to others making me a “third parent” to their IVF test tube baby creations.

The Domina will be played, and told if she is a smart domina she will not speak to me about what was done, and that is how the BDSM should work, because a person left out is punished appropriately.

This system of beating me out to women I would have been near and protecting other women from my alleged dispicable interests near them sabotages my own reproductivity and also allows MKULTRA Behavioral Sciences to black market continuing use of my genome through adult entertainers and surrogages without my permission, them faking my permission to Dominas who accept them as me.

Assassination and Murder

Black Nationalists and Illuminati, and NASA Langley and others cover up this history by making “the clones drop like flies” but the problem is the coverup itself is outed by this book, which found the original crimes through researching the coverup of Sideny Gottlieb CIA Science.

Gangstalk of Me in Which My GEnome APPEARS to be Authorized and I stigmatized, and it is Racial and Religious

In Furtherance of .. Rome Statute Violations and PCR Amplication and Manufacture of Reproductive Biology An Ovum or Sperm of a person can be created now be it Ovum (cloned) (btw it seems Antibody Cells can be cloned) Spermatozoa, etc.,

Taken to the black market, such reproductivity is for sale for “children” and can violate religous and other rights in illegal black market transfer of children.

It can also violate financial as well as human rights laws. Since the DNA can “cum” from anyone with a beaker full of it the sperm bank value of it can be used on the black market for babies by those other than those who really own the DNA.

Surrogate mothers will likely be used.

When I came to Golds Gym Corpus Christi I said one of the WORST moments of my life, one of the three, was a black man in a GOlds Gym staff shirt jumping in front of my workout music when the Western Goth Rockers sang “One Dance. One Family (of goths.)

He was pretentiosly manufacturing a show that he and I were “family” to which I have insisted and have written about for years Goth merged Western society even Eastern Europe, with Europe as white, and this was good for Europe, and also the course of my life of being assaulted by blacks had led me to white supremacy.

In grocery stores and other locations including Golds Gym people say “I bought them as my pornography” thus they will be recipients of my “cum” or “money”: shots.

I have maintained that females are Rx to me, I am recipient of wrongful and inappropriate conduct towards me, even defamatory and abusive to me, as blacks say I owe them my babies for that.

Inside and outside of custody in the US a Legend has been built that I am retarded Tx, the moron an liker of blacks, who will have non white children and agrees to it.

That is Tx not me and that is a Doppelgänger long con set, not where I live.

I do not traffic in my DNA but grocers make it intoned that I do. Trying to use the blur of vaugness in property lines (which is 46, my only apartment I have anything to do with, and where are the common area and interior property lines, and who has legitimate access use of it for real repairs (not evidence plants) creat the blur as to who is trafficking, etc.

47 is NOT 46-46

In that blur is CIA and MKULTRA backed partially or wrongfully deceptively stated terms of human trafficking in bunko added to normal life.

The Schwartenegers, HEB, Christian and other histories families in MKULTRA have allowed their private entities to co-operate with the bunko of this but I have stated in clear terms I am not authorizing my DNA nor am I “Tx” nor do we have “code words.”

In fact I did not even have the code book until about 8 years into obvijous intonation, so I could not have agreed to what was hidden from me, I have never been Tx, ever, who is who agrees to it, and I have been clear my reciept states the groceries I bought, and btw if they stick some penny item on or something I did not catch, it is still bunko.

While all of this violates the Rome Stature I think it needed by the CIA to create the perception I had agreed to all this in the past, when, in fact, I never had and do not agree to it now.

Not only has grocery buying been a part of the fraud, grocery theft has, as both those appearing to shop with me and those stealing groceries vital to my health make it seem we are doign things together when we are not.

“46-46” appear to be Tx who pays up or is arrested, or the location of “the provider” of the sigjht of a females, the black on my property photographs, and thus in doing so has “given sperm to her or the provider of her, the “statement to me” is on the pubic exterior of a door an egg is posted…hmm Easter.

Of course the unstated concealed (from me) meaining as egg has been presented to 46 from 46-46 to be fertilized by an event where children were photographed by someone else at the pool.

A fake me? He took the tot pics

The actual tot photographing perv (aka Tx or Zoom Photographer) who took poolside tot pics which allegedly led to me fertilizing 46-46 because of his act made my DNA due

Edward and Albert were a Propaganda Front

Prince Edward of Wales King Edward VIII was likely a homicidal tyrant trying to protect his family's claim to the English throne rather than rejecting it to marry a "commoner."

The father King George V was King Edward VII of Wales who had the FOXP2 Syndrome. Three of King George V's sons were in order of birth Edward of Wales, ALbert King George VI of York, and Prince John deceased (at an early age) "epileptic."

While ALbert younger brother of Edward held the throne as King George VI he was somewhat hidden from diplomatic field work Edward of Wales Duke of York went about the globe I think as more presentable in less controlled circumstances.

On 9 November 1901, George V was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester. King Edward VII wished to prepare his son for his future role as king.

On 6 May 1910, Edward VII died, and George became king. He wrote in his diary,

> I have lost my best friend and the best of fathers … I never had a [cross] word with him in my life. I am heart-broken and overwhelmed with grief but God will help me in my responsibilities and darling May will be my comfort as she has always been. May God give me strength and guidance in the heavy task which has fallen on me.

George objected to the anti-Catholic wording of the Accession Declaration that he would be required to make at the opening of his first parliament. He made it known that he would refuse to open parliament unless it was changed. As a result, the Accession Declaration Act 1910 shortened the declaration and removed the most offensive phrases.

Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and his wife Sophie are shot to death by a Bosnian Serb nationalist during an official visit to the Bosnian capital of Sarajevo on June 28, 1914. The killings sparked a chain of events that led to the outbreak of World War I by early August. On June 28, 1919, five years to the day after Franz Ferdinand's death, Germany and the Allied Powers signed the Treaty of Versailles, officially marking the end of World War I.

In surveying Wikipedia it seemed to match the normal polarized Europe. Serbia in the middle was at question in Nationalism. It was being backed by Russia to the East of central Europe. England to the West was trying to keep Serbia and Archduke Franz Ferdinand was their guy. This later became a Masonic medal the Order of Franz Ferdinand.

On 4 August 1914, the King wrote in his diary, "I held a council at 10.45 to declare war with Germany. It is a terrible catastrophe but it is not our fault. … Please to God it may soon be over."[69] From 1914 to 1918, Britain and its allies were at war with the Central Powers, led by the German Empire. The German Kaiser Wilhelm II, who for the British public came to symbolise all the horrors of the war, was the King's first cousin. The King's paternal grandfather was Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha; consequently, the King and his children bore the German titles Prince and Princess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and Duke and Duchess of Saxony.

Edward of Wales son of George V (who partitioned Ireland via

The Government of Ireland Act 1920) had two “sick” brothers, one said to be an epileptic who died in a close and Albert of York King George VI.

George V (George Frederick Ernest Albert; 3 June 1865 - 20 January 1936) was King of the United Kingdom and the British Dominions, and Emperor of India, from 6 May 1910 until his death in 1936 ascented to the Parliament measure thus giving up royal territory

In the “Windsor” Royals ran a defective gene which though quirky offers a somewhat sentimental and sympathizing humility perhaps even by Nurture incluenced as wall by Nature.

“All glamour is fleeting” my father used to say to me. It is always good to play things close to the tree trunk not to far out on the limb if you can, further out is always more dangerous in lives filled with our own mistakes and those with Minimal Brain Dysfunction often have lower academic outcomes, etc., and are most likely to live on the creative side rather tham more button down collar lives.

Prince John was youngest brother of Edward Wales and Albert of York (John Charles Francis; 12 July 1905 - 18 January 1919) was the fifth son and youngest of the six children of King George V and Queen Mary. At the time of his birth, his father was heir apparent to the reigning monarch of the United Kingdom, King Edward VII. In 1910, the Prince of Wales succeeded to the throne upon Edward VII’s death and Prince John became fifth in the line of succession to the British throne.

In 1909, John was discovered to have epilepsy. As his condition deteriorated, he was sent to live at Sandringham House in 1916 and was kept away from the public eye. There, he was cared for by his governess, “Lala” Bill, and befriended local children whom his mother had gathered to be his playmates. He died at Sandringham in 1919, following a severe seizure, and was buried at nearby St Mary Magdalene Church. His illness was disclosed to the wider public only after his death.

Like ALbert of York later King George VI (after Edward of Wales King Edward VIII resigned) probably had FOXP2 Syndrome.

“King Geroge V, son King Edward VII (both of whome loved each other,) relationship with his (King George V) son Prince Edward of Wales were freightless and worsened throughout the 1920s. During this time Edward was involved in a string of sexual affairs.” *

Is it possible Edward had an Oedipus - Father Complex, eager for the throne, and feeling free of FOXP2 Syndrome King Edward VII and later King Geroge V had?

[Prince Edward of Wales] had affairs which would have rocked the monaracy if it had not been for the compliance of the Newspaper Barrons.” - The Murder of King George V, 1936 only revealed in 1986 in diaries. Murder of Geroge V also hidden from public Tbe Barrons need British Imperialism to open the door for Tea Company activities in India, oil company activities, banking, and other NWO pursuits under the flag Great Britain.

What could Big Business gain from bringing down the Imperial Rule it needed itself?

Propganda claims of King Edward VIII being in love with a commoner and having affairs was likely propaganda.

Though widely travelled, Edward shared a widely held racial prejudice against foreigners and many of the Empire's subjects, believing that whites were inherently superior.[38] In 1920, on his visit to Australia, he wrote of Indigenous Australians: "they are the most revolting form of living creatures I've ever seen!! They are the lowest known form of human beings & are the nearest thing to monkeys."[39]

In 1919, Edward agreed to be president of the organising committee for the proposed British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park, Middlesex. He wished the Exhibition to include "a great national sports ground", and so played a part in the creation of Wembley Stadium.[40] From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

If fact Edward VIII was morally a louse by financial operations standards and he loved Fasicisst among others.

When I was in Virginia USA in a Libertarian Party meetup and candidates presentation forum a couple of new faces showed up from the regular group.

During the handshaking from table row line to table row line it was found the two newcomers were from out of the area and in their own area they had started a Libertarian Party meetup and political organization because there had not been on thier area.

it was excatly that type of leader the Libertarians new the party needed.

For Edward VIII coping on the one hand with the genetic quirk in ALbert and his father Geroge V, the shrinking Great Britain, and the need for outside blood and out of wedlock genes studies he encouraged and participated likely with Albert may out of wedlock children around the world.

Bertrand Edward Dawson, 1st Viscount Dawson of Penn, GCVO KCB KCMG PC FRCP (9 March 1864 - 7 March 1945) was a physician to the British Royal Family and President of the Royal College of Physicians from 1931 to 1937. From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

He appears a close ally of Edward VIII and may have helped asssinaste Geroge V and others in a palace intriuge set of moves which had seminal moments or challenges in 1900 and Edwawd VII showing of the gene, the 1925 British Imperialism speech at Webley Stadium, and th3 1936 Berlin Olympics his own family was opposign but Edward VIII embraced as Prince Edward of Wales earlier, and there were Windsor chidlren with Gestapo General Franz Kutschera's neice Maria Kutschera.

For the British Royal Family they were fighting the anti monarchism of Socialist Germany. A play be Prince Edward is allow Hitlers' rise into a Fuedal Fascist Rule which would create a crown for Edwards VIII in Britain, posibly, or some other scenario, but at the least, Edward VIII and the Royals generaly didi not want to publicly struggle for help with udnerstanding the London KE Family gene and the secret history of this study invovles generations of people being studied and studied secretyly.

The Royal were wedding in Mary Tek and Walis Simpson and Royals from other royal families to strengthing the Commonwealth gene pool.

The Newspapers were backing them because it was the big businesses who need a Great Brittian to be the ogvoernming force of international trade and outing the royals was not in their business interest.

Catherinbe Black

Catherine Black was born in 1878 in Ramelton, County Donegal in Ardeen House on the outskirts of the town. It was King George V who had partitioned Irealnd and County Donegal Ulster Ulster Scots: Ulstèr or Ulster) is one of the four traditional Irish provinces, in the north of Ireland. It is made up of nine counties: six of these constitute Northern Ireland (a part of the United Kingdom); the remaining three are in the Republic of Ireland.

County Donegal in the Republic or Free Ireland part of Ulster was the home of the once-mighty Clann Dálaigh, whose best-known branch was the Clann Ó Domhnaill, better known in English as the O'Donnell dynasty. Until around 1600, the O'Donnells were one of Ireland's richest and most powerful native Irish ruling families. Within Ulster, only the Uí Néill (known in English as the O'Neill Clan) of modern County Tyrone was more powerful. The O'Donnells were Ulster's second most powerful clan or ruling-family from the early 13th century through to the start of the 17th century.

Private nurse of King George V.

Black was working as a private nurse in Royal London Hospital when the outbreak of World War I was declared.[5] She joined Queen Alexandra's Imperial Military Nursing Service, first serving in Cambridge Hospital in Aldershot and then the No. 7 Hospital in St Omer where she treated soldiers suffering from shell shock.[5] Black was then sent as a replacement for a nurse who was killed at a casualty clearing station at Poperinghe, Belgium, and subsequently went on to serve at the 41st Stationary Hospital at Sailly-Lorette, nursing soldiers with self-inflicted wounds. She was moved to the No. 5 General Hospital in Rouen and various other clearing stations until the end of the war.

Sister Black was the private nurse of King George V from 1928 until his death in 1936.[1] She began her service in late 1928 following a serious bout of illness for the King.[6] Black was made permanent in 1930; she was given her own chambers within Buckingham Palace.[7] She was known as “Blackie” to the members of the royal family.

Black objected to the actions of the King’s doctor Lord Dawson of Penn in administering a lethal combination of morphine and cocaine to hasten the King’s death. The King’s final words, “God damn you!”, were addressed to Black as she gave him a sedative on the night before his death.[

Black wrote of her life in the Palace in her autobiography King’s Nurse, Beggar’s Nurse, in which she also recounted her childhood in Donegal Ireland, nursing in Australia, as well as her service in WWI. In reflecting on the experiences of nurses in the war, Black recounted “you went into [a casualty-clearing station] young and light-hearted. You came out older than any span of years could make you.”

[Preserve the Dignity of the throne from what? The gene King George V's father King Edward VII had? FOXP2?

Dawson said that he acted to preserve the King's dignity, to prevent further strain on the family, and so that the King's death at 11:55 p.m. could be announced in the morning edition of The Times newspaper rather than "less appropriate ... evening journals".[15][16] To make doubly sure that this would happen Dawson telephoned his wife in London asking her to let The Times know when the announcement was imminent.

When this appeared in The Daily Telegraph a reader wrote in recalling a clerihew in circulation during Dawson's life:

> Lord Dawson of Penn
> Killed many men.
> That's why we sing/
> 'God Save the King'.

Dawson's public stance on euthanasia was expressed later that year when he opposed a move in the Lords to legalise it because it "belongs to the wisdom and conscience of the medical profession and not to the realm of law". In 1986, the contents of Dawson's diary were made public for the first time, in which he clearly acknowledged what he had done-which was described by a medical reviewer in 1994 as an arrogant "convenience killing".

Cabal Structure and Social Control

Let’s take some time to examine Rockefeller free Mason Little Rock free mason Pike / Mason are and the genome and divinci codes.

Let’s also remember George H.W. Bush gave his NWO speech in about 1983 and PCR genetics just came onto the shelf of medicine.

As the Linda Newkirk blogs of experimentation in Little Rock Arkansas tell the Bush family were there visting her at her bedside, H.W. Bush having worse bedside manner than W. Bush.

The US Military and missle command and Navy Seals and Air force were involved.

It was also in that set of blog entries of alien experimentation on her that “clones” who were clones of others would drop like house flies.

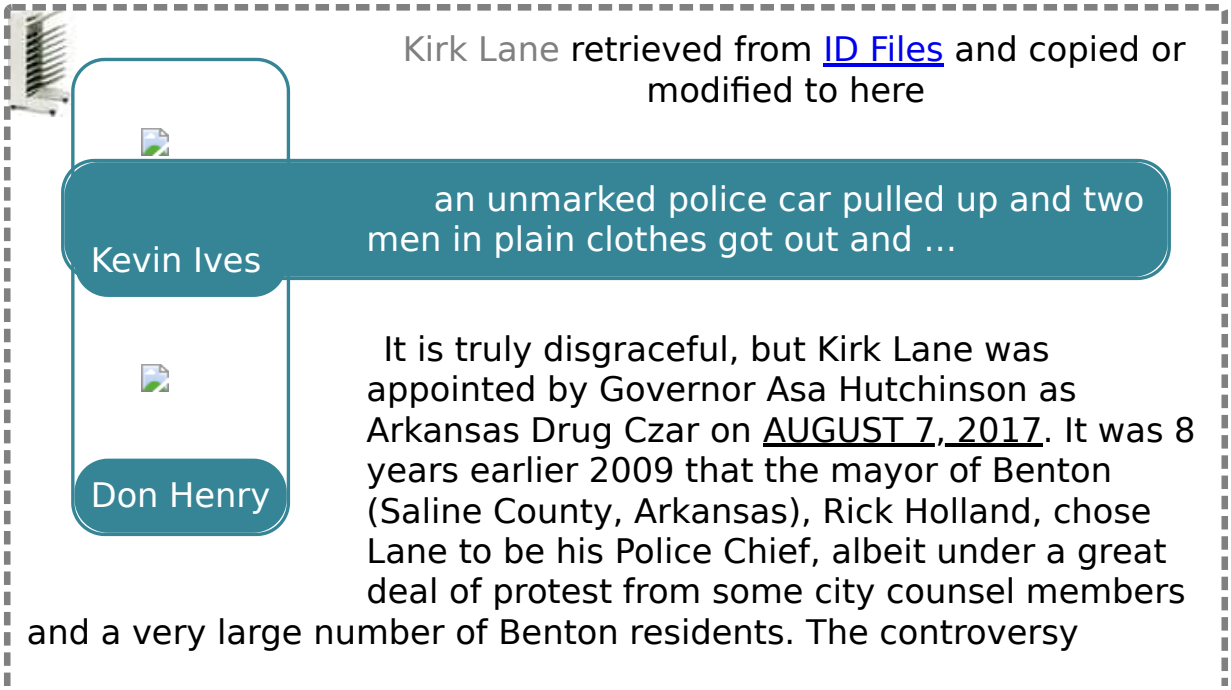
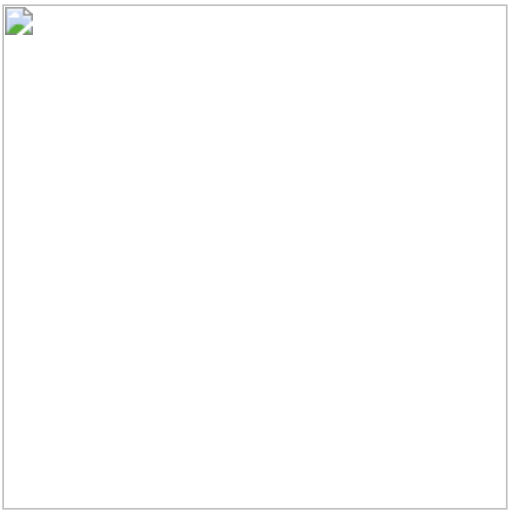
At least one has the name Jean who may have had knowledge of some experiments. Certain dates in the chronology like they are tied to the basic dates of February 20 Nov 18 Dec 13 April 1 June 4 July 4 August 4

Nearness to those dates is hard to miss but it still likes less than random dates of events.



centered around the allegations in the documentary video, “Obstruction of Justice: The Mena Connection” in which Kirk Lane and Jay Campbell are named as the suspected killers of Kevin and Don.



The AUGUST 4 dog whistle, he is playing for The Team, the Secret Team.

The protests began weeks previously when it became apparent that Holland was considering his “best friend, Kirk” for the job. Although Holland consistently said he was not going to choose Lane, he did so over Christmas break. When everyone returned to work, Lane was the new police chief. In an unusual procedure, some counsel members called for a vote to override Holland’s choice. To do so would take 7 votes out of the 10 council members.

On the evening of January 10, there was a standing-room-only crowd, and many spoke passionately about not wanting Lane as police chief.

Councilmen met in private to vote with the outcome of 5 to oust Lane and 4 to keep him, which fell short of the 2/3 required number to outs him. There was one council member absent. Holland put him in the “keep him” column.

Lane declared a great victory, but it’s hard to see how great it was. when more than half the council present wanted him gone.

During interviews before the council meeting, the subject of his being a suspect in the murders always came up. Lane then brings up the defamation law suit he and Campbell filed against the “Obstruction of Justice” documentary producer, Pat Matrisciana. He says that the lawsuit served to restore his credibility since 12 jurors agreed with him that he was defamed.

There’s a a bit of a problem with Lane’s reasoning. The 8th Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the juror’s decision. One reason was because the trial judge did not not allow the jury to hear all of the evidence that pointed to Campbell and Lane as the killers. The appellate court felt that the jurors should have reached a different verdict, so it reversed the verdict. Again, it's hard to see how Lane can claim vindication.

Apparently, he doesn't actually feel vindicated, because he told a Benton Courier reporter for an article published January 13, 2009, "This is a burden I've carried on my shoulders for a long time." No higher authority can take away the 8th Circuit Court findings, so it'll be on his shoulders as long as we continue to publish the appellate court's opinion.

The 8th Circuit Court opinion direct excerpt of an interview recounting the experience of a witness only hours after the train ran over the boys:

> "an unmarked police car pulled up and two men in plain clothes got out and … one of them was Kirk Lane, who used to work for the Benton Police Department, and the other guy he did not know but he was a large man." The two boys and "these two cops got into an argument and the two cops beat the boys unconscious and threw them into the car and then drove off."

The Benton Courier reported that the FBI agent in charge of the murder investigation testified in the defamation trial that she was "allowed to question Lane and Campbell, but this is an error. She actually said at trial that she was not allowed to question Lane or Campbell (although she made a request to her superiors to do so). Neither Lane nor Campbell have ever been questioned or interviewed by anyone.

This website team will make an offer to Lane. If he wants to finally lift the burden, he can take an out-of-state polygraph test and answer up to 10 simple questions about the night the boys were murdered. If he passes, we'll publish the results on the home page of this website with our apologies. If he doesn't agree, he'll have to live with the burden, which will get heavier and heavier.

In October, 1987, a plane belonging to the CIA was shot down in Nicaragua by a communist Sandinista missile. The plane was loaded with weapons to be delivered to the Nicaraguan freedom-fighters, who were being supported through CIA covert operations at the behest of President Ronald Reagan. This incident broke one of the ugliest foreign policy secrets in American history, the Iran-Contra scandal. The illegal operation, which included drug-smuggling, gun-running, and money-laundering was set up by Vice President George H. W. Bush. The inner city of Los Angeles, California was targeted for raising funds by selling crack cocaine. While at a small airport in rural Mena, Arkansas, the notorious smuggler Barry Seal was given protection by Governor Bill Clinton to continue his drug-smuggling, gun-running, money laundering operation but now as a DEA informant and a CIA contract pilot, also set up by Bush.

The crimes of Reagan, Bush, and Clinton, including reckless disregard for human life, are well documented, indisputable, and certainly not justifiable as evidenced by the extreme efforts of these presidents to keep their involvement secret. Even though the liberal and conservative mainstream medias have managed to quieten an otherwise outraged public with lies, the legacies of these presidents will not exclude their crimes, as they had hoped.

Timeline

- 1977 - Federal authorities, DEA, FBI, and CIA were watching Barry Seal as he set up his drug smuggling operation in Mena, Arkansas. Some believe he was already a DEA informant.
- 1979 - The “Sandinistas” were declared the ruling party in Nicaragua, while small rebel groups started forming.
- 1981 - The CIA begin coordinating rebel groups to form the “Contras.”
- Late 1982 - Barry Seal makes deal with DEA and CIA and increases his smuggling operations at Mena.
- 1983 - The CIA begin to smuggling drugs into Los Angeles.
- 1983 - 1995 - Federal investigations are covered up and shut down.
- Feb 3, 1986 - The Arkansas IRS assess Barry Seal’s income taxes at $29,487,718.00 for smuggling 30,000 kilos of cocaine into Mena from 1981 to 1983, saying nothing of 1984 to 1986 after which he acquired his two C-123 Air America cargo planes.
- FEB 19, 1986 - BARRY SEAL TWA PILOT (James Donegan knew and may have been in a lawsuit with regarding aging) was assassinated just before he was supposed to testify at the trial of Colombian drug lords Pablo Escobar and Jorge Ochoa of the Medellin Cartel.

After Seal's murder, the CIA continued operations at the Middle East North Africa Rockefeller oil money airfield.

- Oct, 1986 - Eugene Hasenfus was shot down by a Nicaraguan Sandinista missile while flying one of Seal's C-123k military cargo planes carrying weapons to the Contras. This broke the Iran-Contra scandal, yet the operations at Mena continued
- Aug 23, 1987 - Kevin Ives and Don Henry stumbled on a drug drop while walking down the railroad tracks in rural Saline County, Arkansas. They were murdered, placed on the tracks, and run over by a train.
- Jul, 1995 - "The Crimes of Mena" by Sally Denton and Roger Morris was published
- Aug, 1996, Oct, 1996, and Jan, 1997 - The 3-part-series, "The Dark Alliance" by Gary Webb was published.

Passing of Jen Moore retrieved from [Tracy Police Department on Fecebook] and copied or modified to here

Jen Moore of Tracy PD,California

Tracy Police: It is with deep sadness we announce the death of retired officer Jenny Moore who passed away on August 13, 2018 in Millersville, Maryland. Jenny served the community of Tracy from 1993 until her retirement in 2004. Jenny held the rank of Corporal, served in the then named Street Crime Unit as a narcotics investigator and worked in the Tracy Unified School District as a DARE officer. As a Field Training Officer, Jenny taught new officers how to police in Tracy and gave them an appreciation of what it meant to grow up in a town and later serve the same community. She also was a member of our adventure racing team competing in several events on the west coast.

Jenny graduated from Tracy High School in 1986 and later completed a Master's Degree in Psychology, which she put to good use as a psychologist at a non-profit organization.

Her mother, Jane Moore of California, survives her; her Father Bob Moore of Texas; her sisters Robin and Kelli, and brother Bobby, all of California. She also had numerous nieces and nephews.

Jennifer Marie Moore retrieved from Findagrave.com and copied or modified to here

Jennifer Marie "Task Force" Moore was the YouTube persona known as "Task Force" - a whistleblower, an investigative journalist and a former police officer. She was reportedly working on stories about child abuse / trafficking involving important people when she was found dead in her Washington, D.C. hotel room.

Her death from a brain hemorrhage appears to have been the result of a severe beating she received the year before.

The person that originally created this page (From Days Gone By) has removed the photo and blindly transferred maintenance of it. Will update this area as (verifiable) information becomes available.

Jenny Moore's youtube screen name was "Task Force".

DEEDS

1. n. performance of moral or religious acts

> They still hanged black people as a form of punishment for the smallest of deeds, but at Bethel AME, every member of the church was welcome and loved. -March Forward, Girl
>
> It grieves me to think that I have brought shame to the place that has sheltered me, that by my unwitting deeds, St. Emilion might be ruined. -Ophelia
>
> My lady wife lowered the New York Times and gazed at me so long that I inspected any recent deeds and impulses. - Travels with Charley in Search of America

Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 479 (1928)

Decency, security, and liberty alike demand that government officials shall be subjected to the same rules of conduct that are commands to the citizen. In a government of laws, existence of the government will be imperiled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously. Our government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means — to declare that the government may commit crimes in order to secure the conviction of a private criminal — would bring terrible retribution. Against that pernicious doctrine this court should resolutely set its face.

The empire strikes back: How Brandeis foreshadowed Snowden and Greenwald So-called liberals attack the whistle-blower duo — and a brilliant Supreme Court justice saw it all coming By ANDREW O'HEHIR PUBLISHED MAY 24, 2014 4:00PM (EDT)

Joseph Patrick Kennedy Sr. was born to a political family in East Boston, Massachusetts. He made a large fortune as a stock market and commodity investor and later rolled over his profits by investing in real estate and a wide range of business industries across the United States. During World War I, he was an assistant general manager of a Boston area Bethlehem Steel shipyard; through that position, he became acquainted with Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In the 1920s, Kennedy made huge profits by reorganizing and refinancing several Hollywood studios; several acquisitions were ultimately merged into Radio-Keith-Orpheum (RKO) Studios. Kennedy increased his fortune with distribution rights for Scotch whisky. He owned the largest privately-owned building in the country, Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation

Bethlehem Steel Corporation Shipbuilding Division was created in 1905 when the Bethlehem Steel Corporation of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, acquired the San Francisco shipyard Union Iron Works.[1][2] In 1917 it was incorporated as Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Limited.

> The division’s headquarters were moved to Quincy, Massachusetts, after acquiring the Fore River Shipyard in 1913.
>
> In 1964, the now-corporate headquarters moved to Sparrows Point, Maryland, southeast of Baltimore, Maryland, whose shipyard had been acquired in 1916.
>
> The Quincy / Fore River yard was sold to General Dynamics Corporation in the mid-1960s, and closed in 1986. The Alameda Works Shipyard in California was closed by Bethlehem Steel in the early 1970s, while the San Francisco facility (former Union Iron Works) was sold to British Aerospace in the mid-1990s and survives today as BAE Systems San Francisco Ship Repair.
> Bethlehem Steel ceased shipbuilding activities in 1997 in an attempt to preserve its core steelmaking operations.

On May 1, 1861, the company’s title was changed again, this time to the Bethlehem Iron Company.[1] Construction of the first blast furnace began on July 1, 1861, and it went into operation on January 4, 1863. The first rolling mill was built between the spring of 1861 and the summer of 1863, with the first railroad rails being rolled on September 26. A machine shop, in 1865, and another blast furnace, in 1867, were completed. During its early years, the company produced rails for the rapidly expanding railroads and armor plating for the US Navy.

Eugene Grace was president of Bethlehem Steel from 1916 to 1945, and chairman of the board from 1945 until his retirement in 1957. Eugene Grace orchestrated Bethlehem Steel’s wartime efforts. In 1943, he promised President Roosevelt one ship per day, and exceeded the commitment by 15 ships.

Was this tied to Captain Von Trapp, husband of relative of Robert Whitehead?

The Whitehead torpedo was the first self-propelled or “locomotive” torpedo ever developed.[a] It was perfected in 1866 by Robert Whitehead from a rough design conceived by Giovanni Luppis of the Austro-Hungarian Navy in Fiume.

> Robert Whitehead was an English engineer who was most famous for developing the first effective self-propelled naval torpedo. Wikipedia Born: January 3, 1823, Bolton, United Kingdom Died: NOVEMBER 14, 1905, Shrivenham, United Kingdom

In the early 1900s Samuel Broadbent led an initiative to diversify the company. The corporation branched out from steel, with iron mines in Cuba and shipyards around the country. In 1913, under Broadbent, it acquired the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Quincy, Massachusetts, thereby assuming the role of one of the world's major shipbuilders. In 1917, it incorporated its shipbuilding division as Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Limited. In 1922, it purchased the Lackawanna Steel Company, which included the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad as well as extensive coal holdings.

During World War I and World War II, Bethlehem Steel was a major supplier of armor plate and ordnance to the U.S. armed forces, including armor plate and large-caliber guns for the Navy.

In the 1930s, the company made the steel sections and parts for the Golden Gate Bridge and built for Yacimientos Petrolíferos Fiscales (YPF), a new oil refinery in La Plata City, Argentina, which was the tenth-largest in the world. During World War II, as much as 70 percent of airplane cylinder forgings, one-quarter of the armor plate for warships, and one-third of the big cannon forgings for the U.S armed forces were turned out by Bethlehem Steel.[citation needed]

Bethlehem Steel ranked seventh among United States corporations in the value of wartime production contracts.[9] Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation's 15 shipyards produced a total of 1,121 ships, more than any other builder during the war and nearly one-fifth of the U.S. Navy's two-ocean fleet. It employed as many as 180,000 persons, the bulk of the company's total employment of 300,000.

A case theory (aka theory of case, theory of a case, or theory of the case) is "a detailed, coherent, accurate story of what occurred" involving both a legal theory (i.e., claims/causes of action or affirmative defenses) and a factual theory (i.e., an explanation of how a particular course of events could have happened).[1]

That is, a case theory is a logical description of events that the attorney wants the judge or jury to adopt as their own perception of the underlying situation. The theory is often expressed in a story that should be compellingly probable.[2] Case theory is distinguished from jurisprudence (aka legal theory) as general theory of law not specific to a case.

10 days after Life reports a chimp goes goes into space another DARPA project starts, sleeper agents and keeping the Iron Curtain solid and far away

A chimp that became a space pioneer retrieved from Bangkok Post and copied or modified to here

Nasa officially called the chimp “No.65” and only recognised it as Ham after the successful completion of the mission. The reasoning was that the public would become upset if an animal with a name died in space, but would be less emotional about a number expiring.

Thankfully Ham survived his 16min 39sec flight, splashing down in the Atlantic with little more than a bruised nose to become the first hominid in space. The mission was hugely important because the chimp successfully pulled a couple of levers

To create the false claims likelihood of success I have been treated in an offensive and destructive way, creating the fact theory of the case I eroticize, peep at, tots, take peeping pictures, follow women around befudled by their yoga pants asses, etc.,

None of this is true and my being assaulted by acts towards me are abusive to me but that needs to appear to me true of the claims (which are also fake) can be consistent with the theory of the facts about me.’

I have no shortage of witnesses in this matter, I just seek its prosecution.

In carefully architected covert ops harassment the following occurs in flight, proving astronauts could perform tasks while in space.

The mission created considerable excitement in the US and Ham made the cover of Life magazine on FEB 10, 1961, looking cute in his Nasa helmet. The risks involved were reflected in the banner headline of the San Francisco Examiner which proclaimed with some relief, “SPACE CHIMP LIVES!”

SPECIAL REPORT The Story of Obama: All in The Company (Part I) retrieved from https://www.voltairenet.org/ and copied or modified to here

Investigative journalist Wayne Madsen has discovered CIA files that document the agency’s connections to institutions and individuals figuring prominently in the lives of Barack Obama and his mother, father, grandmother, and stepfather. The first part of his report highlights the connections between Barack Obama, Sr. and the CIA-sponsored operations in Kenya to counter rising Soviet and Chinese influence among student circles and, beyond, to create conditions obstructing the emergence of independent African leaders.

President Obama’s own work in 1983 for Business International Corporation, a CIA front [and a good example of rather thinly veneered making up front company names] that conducted seminars with the world’s most powerful leaders and used journalists as agents abroad, dovetails with CIA espionage activities conducted by his mother, Stanley Ann Dunham in 1960s post-coup Indonesia on behalf of a number of CIA front operations, including the East-West Center at the University of Hawaii, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), and the Ford Foundation. Dunham met and married Lolo Soetoro, Obama’s stepfather, at the East-West Center in 1965. Soetoro was recalled to Indonesia in 1965 to serve as a senior army officer and assist General Suharto and the CIA in the bloody overthrow of President Sukarno.

Barack Obama, Sr., of Kenya, who met Dunham in 1959 in a Russian language class at the University of Hawaii, had been part of what was described as an airlift of 280 East African students to the United States to attend various colleges - merely “aided” by a grant from the

▶ Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation according to a September 12, 1960, Reuters report from London. The airlift was a CIA operation to train and indoctrinate future agents of influence in Africa, which was becoming a battleground between the United States and the Soviet Union and China for influence among newly-independent and soon-to-be independent [of foreign powers] countries on the continent. [and elsewhere]

CIA files indicate that Mboya was an important

▶ Agent-Of-Influence for the CIA, not only in Kenya but in all of Africa. A formerly Secret CIA Current Intelligence Weekly Summary, dated NOVEMBER 19, 1959, states that Mboya served as a check on extremists at the second All-African People's Conference (AAPC) in Tunis.

[Perhaps Barrack Obama Sr once a Muslim but then convert to Anglicanism in the British Kenyam run school could produce a future Kenyan leader loyal to London and covertly rule on behalf of Great Britain]

Mboya received a $100,000 grant for the airlift from the Kennedy Foundation after he turned down the same offer from the U.S. State Department, obviously concerned that direct U.S. assistance would look suspicious to pro-Communist Kenyan politicians who suspected Mboya of having CIA ties. The Airlift Africa project was underwritten by the Kennedy Foundation and the African-American Students Foundation. Obama, Sr. was not on the first airlift but a subsequent one. The airlift, organized by Mboya in 1959, included students from Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, Zanzibar, Northern Rhodesia, Southern Rhodesia, and Nyasaland.

This book will document Joseph Kennedy Sr marriages and ties to England and the likelihood his own family is genetically tied to Windsors and the FOXP2 and is Royal Family sympathizing in war efforts as are the Saudis whose royal family King Saud is connected in history.

Louise Little retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Louise Norton Langdon Little was born in La Digue, Saint Andrew Parish, Grenada to Ella Langdon. Ella was the daughter of Jupiter and Mary Jane Langdon, both of whom were kidnapped by other Africans from the region of modern-day Nigeria and sold into slavery, before being freed by the British Royal Navy;

Little was raised by her grandparents, Jupiter and Mary Jane, until his death in 1901 and hers in 1916.[5] She was educated in a local Anglican school, and was fluent in English, French and Grenadian Creole French.[6] After her grandmother's death, she emigrated from Grenada in 1917 to Montreal, where her uncle Egerton Langdon introduced her to Garveyism and the Universal Negro Improvement Association (UNIA)

Garveyism is an aspect of black nationalism that refers to the economic, racial and political policies of UNIA-ACL founder Marcus Garvey.[1] The ideology of Garveyism centers on the unification and empowerment of African-descended men, women and children under the banner of their collective African descent, and the repatriation of the descendants of enslaved Africans and profits to the African continent.[citation needed]

Garvey put forward his dreams in response to the marginalization and discrimination of African Americans in the United States and the Caribbean at the time with the hopes of inspiring black Americans to proactively establish infrastructure, institutions and local economies rather than expecting such from the heavily prejudiced post-reconstruction American government. The movement had a major impact in stimulating and shaping black politics in the Caribbean and in parts of Africa.

Garvey was fought by the African-American establishment in the United States. An investigation by the Justice Department, directed by J. Edgar Hoover, led to Garvey's arrest on charges of mail fraud in January 1922, and his projects collapsed.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. RIDGELY.

I am transmitting herewith a communication which has come to my attention from the Panama Canal, Washington office, relative to the activities of Marcus Garvey. Garvey is a West-Indian negro and in addition to his activities in endeavoring to establish the Black Star Line Steamship Corporation he has also been particularly active among the radical elements in New York City in agitating the negro movement. Unfortunately, however, he has not as yet violated any federal law whereby he could be proceeded against on the grounds of being an undesirable alien, from the point of view of deportation. It occurs to me, however, from the attached clipping that there might be some proceeding against him for fraud in connection with his Black Star Line propaganda and for this reason I am transmitting the communication to you for your appropriate attention.

The following is a brief statement of Marcus Gravey and his activities:

- Subject a native of the West Indies and one of the most prominent negro agitators in New York;
- He is a founder of the Universal Negro Improvement Association and African Communities League;
- He is the promulgator of the Black Star Line and is the managing editor of the Negro World;
- He is an exceptionally fine orator, creating much excitement among the negroes through his steamship proposition;
- In his paper the “Negro World” the Soviet Russian Rule is upheld and there is open advocation of Bolshevism.

Respectfully,
J. E. Hoover

Through the UNIA in Montreal, she met Earl Little, a craftsman and lay minister from Reynolds, Georgia. The couple married on May 10, 1919.[8] The following year they moved to Philadelphia for a better life than they had in Canada, and then to Omaha, Nebraska in 1921. While in Omaha, she became the secretary and “branch reporter” of the UNIA’s local chapter, sending news of local UNIA activities, led by Earl, to Negro World; they inculcated self-reliance and black pride in their children.[9][10][11] Their son Malcolm, who became famous as Malcolm X, later said that white violence killed four of his father’s brothers.[12] Another son, Wilfred, later remembered that Louise “received letters from the leaders of the movement thanking her for the work she had done and praising her for her devotion to the cause”.[13]

Earl and Louise had seven children together: Wilfred (19201998), Hilda (19212015), Philbert (19231993), Malcolm (19251965), Reginald (19272001), Wesley (19282009) and Yvonne (19292003).

Because of Ku Klux Klan threatsEarl's UNIA activities were said to be "spreading trouble"[14]the family relocated in 1926 to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and shortly thereafter to Lansing, Michigan.[15] There the family was frequently harassed by the Black Legion, a white racist group. When the family home burned in 1929, Earl accused the Black Legion.[16]

In 1931, Earl died in what was officially ruled a streetcar accident, though Louise believed Earl had been murdered by the Black Legion. Rumors that white racists were responsible for Earl's death were widely circulated, and were very disturbing to Louise and their children.[17] After a dispute with creditors, Louise received a life insurance benefit (nominally $1,000about $17,000 in 2020 dollars[A]) in payments of $18 per month;[18] the issuer of another, larger policy refused to pay, claiming her husband Earl had committed suicide.[19] To make ends meet Louise rented out part of her garden, and her sons hunted game.

During the 1930s white Seventh-day Adventists witnessed to the Little family; later on Louise Little and her son Wilfred were baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church. In 1937, a man Louise had been dating marriage had seemed a possibility vanished from her life when she became pregnant with his child, Robert (19381999).[22] In late 1938 she had a nervous breakdown and was committed to Kalamazoo State Hospital. The children were separated and sent to foster homes.

Little was institutionalized at the Kalamazoo Mental Hospital from 1939 through 1963. Malcolmwho had become a criminal, then convicted, imprisoned, and released, and rose to fame as Malcolm X, a leading minister of the Nation of Islamjoined his siblings in securing her release from the hospital. She lived with her surviving family and descendants for the rest of her life mostly in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Most of her children lived and died in Grand Rapids like her where she was a member of Bethel Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

The power though is merely trying to conceal its blunders and cling to long term wealth and power since the subversion and subsumption international plot was launched.

My guess on the psychology of my parents on this knowing what I know and knowing them continually through their entire lives

A Peek into their minds and motives

- James Paul Donegan always felt for the little guy against abusive power. He hated fat cat business managers, considered the famine conditions imposed on Ireland by the British one of the worst disasters of history, felt no better about Christianity and religious wars either, and was deeply loyal to the natoin of Ireland where his father was an accountant who upon immigration to the United States worked as janitor in a Herscyys cholcate plant.

  When he died my father burst into tears. My father did not like Boston conditions either and WASPS because his mother, my grandmother in his side, tried to get jobs to belp raise him, my father, as they lived in extreme poverty, my father working as a house paioter as a mid teen to helo the family buy food.

  His mother, my grandmother was turnee donw for job after job, at one point, a WASP pointing to her Irish pin and saying “Well, since you are wearing that, why would yo uven come in for an interview?”

He would have liked the Irish Catholic Kennedy family as he did his own priest Uncle we all used to spend time with at my uncle Harold’s Cape Cod beach property.

This video tells of my mother’s poverty very mch like his own and his fellow Irishmen’s poverty.

Glorian Rememberance TouTube

- Me, Edward Paul Donegan. My went along with the “grandfather’s” wish of Ned Donegan as my nickname, knowing it was British, but also told me he didn’t like the British component of it, I only know Ned Edward Donegan was NED and early on I thought that was my full name.

  When I read Trinity by Leon Uris, there was a certain someone name James who stuck the book in my hands

  I held my father’s anti british views ranging from the britiish atrocieties around the world and during the American Revolution to fuedual societies generally.

- King Edward VIII and the Windsors. The faster King Edward VIII could distance himself from his out of wedlock children, from Nazi officials nieces, the better chance of him staying King. They, likely the CIA, were happy to move him out anyway for that and other reasons like speech timing impediment, writing dysgraphia making his signature exactly like mine, Edward Donegan’s for instance. [Try to find “paperclip[ped] written language from King Edward VIII!] Part of MKULTRA was working with RCA Corporation and preparing for radio broadcasting which the King George V line was not ready for with the speech impediment.

- Glorian was humiliated by the poverty she lived under though from a singing family. She was abandoned by the Windsor side AND the VonTrapp side both who hid Kutcshera reproductive ties. She had to wear gunny sacks for clothes but was told by someone, likely her mother, if the fabric was clean it did not matter where the fabric came front, only dirty clothes were a bad social sign.

- Tom Donegan, bragged about maybe being a King some day and showing me the three lion Donegan crest as a child he was bragging about, and the faster a Nazi like my mother could be disavowed, the more regal he might look to others, and I think Barrack Obama Jr. and others shared that mission of embracing Windsors and disavowing Glorian and even disavowing me.

Through the support of Identity Theft, the harassment of my identity such as getting a Drivers License fee paid allowed others in my identity to benefit under my mother's trust fund for me, and the person with my identity could therefore also victimize others such as minorities thus use my mother's trust fund for yet others the trust fund was not intended for.

- Jen Moore, defended me and my mother from the promoted theory that Glorian and I were of a psych line and horrible and mentally ill people, not at all like Obama, the Kelly brothers, Arnold Swchertezngers children or others, who DO have Glorian DNA.

  She was using the pictures my brother Tom Donegan and Mark Wierness had been stealing from my mother to confirm the truth of the Kutschera and Prince Edward of Wales (King Edward VIII) story, and she believed SOME truth about my mother such as my mother being anti social, but that was Tom Donegan propaganda, Tom claiming my mother and I were bipolor psychotic delusional when there was no truth to that and only had the FOXP2 genes and its symptoms which were dry throat, speech regulation, etc.,

  Jen Moore seems to reference me with a broken arm in Alington County Sherrifs detention, a situation where I was mouthing hard at some black Sherrifs/Marshalls types harrassing me, and broking me arm against the cell window slot as I got a letter from my father stating he was suicidal. This was in the 2011 -2013 time frame.

US developing sensor to stop ‘havana syndrome’ energy attack retrieved from via Yahoo News source www.independent.co.uk/us and copied or modified to here

The US Department of Defence has been working on a wearable sensor that would detect invisible radio frequencies amid reports that a microwave weapon might be causing a mysterious illness in US personnel.

Reports first surfaced from Cuba in 2016 of attacks on US embassy personnel that caused significant brain injury. The mysterious illness, which was named the “Havana syndrome”, causes symptoms like debilitating headache

Although the cause of the illness remains under investigation, the DoD appeared to be taking it seriously by funding research into a wearable sensor that would detect these radio frequencies, the New Scientist reports.

This development comes after the mysterious illness that causes brain injuries has occurred in more than 130 spies, diplomats, soldiers and other US personnel overseas within the last five years, The New York Times reports, sparking concern within the Biden administration.

DARPA and the Brain Initiative

When I lived in Clarendon Courts apartments in Arlington Virginia some heavy machinery was being rolled around above me late at night as I moved from place to place to sleep in my small apartment and the machine above would be moved to above my new location and then a transformer blew out in the neigbborhood and all power was lost, a black looking like Dr Cheltham was walking around Arlingon VA at that time (US Commissioned Corps medical)

At one time I was in a counseling session with Backy Harrison it felt warm and I remember thinking did she know if some DEW device was in place, she didn't seem alarmed or know of it but several events in Arlington convinced me they were in use.

The core system of the Gangstalk subversion of a person who the Government has targeted for ILLEGAL and SELF Serving Reasons is they manufacture through Espionage a reason which will be accepted then actu under that pretext, called Abuse of Process, using good process on bad facts. The system gives arbitrary SEEMING good use of State power to any executive law enforcement willing to plant evidence for the basis of asset seizures, just revenge or racial or social pretexts, or to get elite figures out of trouble by undermining critics of elite power. The Bullying is Street Theater in which it SEEMS like the evidence which was FAKED must be true because people ACT like it is true in front of others.

Bush and Richard "Dick" Chenney worked a CIA program Feb20 Nov 18 Dec 13 Aug 4 and at Seatle along with Jodi Foster, same dates, from 1961 to 1963) Tom Mboya, the Kenyan nationalist and labor leader who selected Obama, Sr. for a scholarship at the University of Hawaii. Obama, Sr., who was already married with an infant son and pregnant wife in Kenya, married Dunham on Maui on February 2, 1961 and was also the university's first African student. Dunham was three month's pregnant with Barack Obama, Jr. at the time of her marriage to Obama, Sr.
> The CIA allegedly recruited Tom M'Boya in a heavily funded "selective liberation" programme to isolate Kenya's founding President Jomo Kenyatta, whom the American spy agency labelled as "unsafe."

[During George H.W. Bush vice-presidency starting Ricky Prado CIA work] In 1983-84, and contempoary with an NWO speech by Bush) Barack Obama worked as Editor at Business Internation Corporation, a Business International Corporation, a known CIA front company.

Mboya received a $100,000 grant for the airlift from the Kennedy Foundation after he turned down the same offer from the U.S. State Department, obviously concerned that direct U.S. assistance would look suspicious to pro-Communist Kenyan politicians who suspected Mboya of having CIA ties.

Obama, Sr., who left Hawaii for Harvard in 1962, divorced Dunham in 1964. Obama, Sr. married a fellow Harvard student, Ruth Niedesand, a Jewish-American woman, who moved with him to Kenya and had two sons. They were later divorced. Obama, Sr. worked for the Kenyan Finance and Transport ministries as well as an oil firm. Obama, Sr. died in a 1982 car crash

President Obama’s own work in 1983 for Business International Corporation, a CIA front that conducted seminars with the world’s most powerful leaders and used journalists as agents abroad, dovetails with CIA espionage activities conducted by his mother, Stanley Ann Dunham in 1960s post-coup Indonesia on behalf of a number of CIA front operations, including the East-West Center at the University of Hawaii, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), and the Ford Foundation. Dunham met and married Lolo Soetoro, Obama’s stepfather, at the East-West Center in 1965. Soetoro was recalled to Indonesia in 1965 to serve as a senior army officer and assist General Suharto and the CIA in the bloody overthrow of President Sukarno.

“targeted Victims”

That is who Jen Moore was telling the true story of MKULTRA and its hidden identities for.

Already victims of Project Paperclip, MKULTRA, CIA Sidney Gottlieb programs, and other ethics be damned MKULTRA history, agencies, countries, NGOs and NGO interests continue their dark activities by further harassing already victims like my family, the Donegan family, me, my mother, and my father in particular.

Abuses in the Family Courts or Social Services system

A State-Actors a Long Con set location an impersonator of me , Shill working with other Shills, will accept responsibility for the Crisis Actors generated event, child porn, exploitive photos taken in my vicinity b Crisis Actos who create the crisis and act in a Braggadocio way towards me publicly that treats me as though I am suspected of the Crisis event.

This dopple of me is part of street criminal which have surrounded me, labeled me by their presence around me and around whatever apartment I rent a part of normal living, and these street criminals often both commit crimes while in my identity and proximity or with my property out of me control or on my property out of my control and then destroy the apartment complex premises, my property, and conspire against my rights and reputation slandering me for swath of destruction and crime.

An example of which is a motorcycle I bought which as doppled by a similar motorcycle parked outside the pool areas and children’s area of gyms, a peeping to camera platform and then my motorcycle disappeared and was badly damaged, this patter repeating itself several times, non of what I did in owning or operating the motorcycle was anything but responsible motorcycling but my ownership of it and my usage of it was slandered then the slander acted upon by vigilantes who may have been the dopple motorcycle owners in their hunt for the real peeping tom motorcycle and my motorcycle was quite similar to theirs.

The public accepting the destruction of my property vigilantly is accepted in public by the public because something, the pretext for it, was falsified nevertheless the falsity is believed and accepted as a valid motive for abusive acts towards me.

Racially Motivated Position of Abusive Power alleging I am retarded white needed gay and non white care takers and they making abusive claims demanding I pay restitution to those the dopple me harmed and demands I not leave assisted living for only the providers can “coral” the dangerous Edward Donegan.

This is a pretext system for Conspiracy Against Rights and blames me for things in my vicinity or stages things out of my control such as who is in my field of view in public or my apartment common area or apartment when I am not in it the blame of which will be assigned to me via behavioral health care workers who are defending the community and my common area property from the crimes the street people are committing and billing my trust for the the damage done as though all of the chaos of street criminals is tied to me who is stigmatized as an intellectually disable person likely to do the damage to people who are “pornography” for the peeping tom in the same vicinity I am in.

In my particular case the Surveillance State (see https://www.surveillancesurvivors.org/targeted-publications.html) first surveils my life and my normal living acts such as ordering a 30 pound weight bar which is like a long rubber coated iron bar which can be used for curls and various other exercises. That is then after being surveiled is publicly skitted as something from assisted living as someone makes gestures in public that they are coaching my making such a purchase, thus eroding my claims to living normally, eroding that normal impression of normal me by in public pretentiously involving themselves as associated coaching to my living.

> “I just wanted mention that I have been used by NSA for several years now, listening too their voices and dealing with the control of my career. I was kept from finding work in 2008-2009 and subsequently lost my condo to foreclosure. This was after my divorce and my ex-brother in law was a Long Beach DEA Agent. This helped my ex-wife get 80-20 custody of my child and allowed her to move out of state. I'm a chronic pain sufferer that tore both my shoulders and for 14 years the doctors focused on my C6 and C7 spinal damage instead of doing a full exam. I've been going thru right back shoulder pain in my shoulder blade and shooting nerve pain to my neck for over 14 years. It cost my career, my marriage and sent me down a financial down fall. Now that I'm on Obama care, my new Neurologist took the time to examine both shoulders and found rotator cuff tears in both shoulders. So I've been on pain meds forever and had a bad accident in 2011 that damaged my spinal cord. They have falsified the doctors records that have missing info, altered the police report." *

From Iama TI: Hello my friends. It looks like I have gone to the next level of torture. Mind control. My dreams have been controlled by the evil one. This house is under attack from the energy weapons. I can see that the others are also suffering, but they don't have a clue. Please pray for us. These people are so evil, they don't care about the people they are harming. This is the worst thing possible. Besides the energy attacks, they are gassing the room. I can see the film on the mirrors, and even on the windows of the cars in the garage. Lord please have mercy on us. I am so glad to have friends who understand and are there to listen to me, and know exactly what I am going through. God Bless us all who suffer everyday for this evil crime against Humanity.

Ted Gunderson, this guy, and me all stalked as my mother dies 2011 vomiting greenish horror and I believe she was slipped a radaictive element by a nurse and awfully I argued with her to trust the nurse but my mother thought the pils were wrong and she was right as was usually true and I am so sorry.

While I Edward Donegan worked at Wells Fargo and during a normal small meth drug by I was “introduced to” (the fbi term for a Confidential Informant coming into a person’s vicinity and contact) a strange creepy child porn type psycho who I kicked of my car. I was never blamed for anything, but a bad vibe surrounded me and I was fired from Wells Fargo and I always suspected he was a double of me and his drug addled child abuse characteristic was misdirected to me who was with in in my car at one time in a $25 dollar meth deal.

In Coprus Christ Texas I decided to watch The Kings Speech movie I checked out from the library. My mother and I saw that together and we talked a lot about War War II and this event afterward and during our lives. We would go to a movie at Shirlington, any other place, have dinner, and do a few things out.

The original police call seemed pretty clear a nut job crackhead from unit #45 had stolen it and was installing it in Unit 45 where sometimes they claim I am in. The subsequent police calls and police reports were simply re written that the theft in someway involved my sliding patio door to the other side of the living room, which it did not. I heard the thief come into the Kitchen hall doorway area and as I entered the living room I saw the thief in my living room and leaving through the hallway door.

That record, like the lease agreements, my rent payment records, the diagrams of the building and unit numbers are all altered and all the time setup those who are distinct from my identity but confused by various

Is a black man from skid row planting child porn on me interested in me shouting about how blacks are criminals in the studying racial belief systems, or is it so the child porn can me look bad and a black hero claim a moral high ground of defending against, me, or is it faking injury to fake claims against my trst fund?

This book asserts than in a complex slight of hand my genome will seem worhtless bcause I could not get a job in Austin high tech compapnies or mingle normally, on the other hand, while the genome under my life through it was fruitless, aggressors will claim it for themselves and live fruitfully under it by claiming I owe it to them.

That seems a logical contradiction if a consistant view of my genome is required in the system and one is available. I have a good genome, suppressing it in my and by slight of hand moving it to others completes the accounting for what wsa done illegally long ago, now the paper work follows.

A genome tax from rich to poor is how this is sold, the “Tax” being for unethically photographing the poor, or the non white, which I am not doing but a person near me but out of frame of the ominsicent camera is photographing the tot.

The assertion against me thought that I did is popular for the hoax allegation will benefit the poor and further social justice.

The entire cottage industry claim of minorities abused by whites a or a white male has always been lucrative and popular and I have always fought it saying it was just deep pockets claims against whites in hopes the claims result in property transfers.

Putting-out system from Cottages retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The putting-out system is a means of subcontracting work. Historically, it was also known as the workshop system and the domestic system. In putting-out, work is contracted by a central agent to subcontractors who complete the work in off-site facilities, either in their own homes or in workshops with multiple craftsmen. It was used in the English and American textile industries, in shoemaking, lock-making trades, and making parts for small firearms from the Industrial Revolution until the mid-19th century. After the invention of the sewing machine in 1846, the system lingered on for the making of ready-made men's clothing.[1]

The domestic system was suited to pre-urban times because workers did not have to travel from home to work, which was quite unfeasible due to the state of roads and footpaths, and members of the household spent many hours in farm or household tasks. Early factory owners sometimes had to build dormitories to house workers, especially girls and women. Putting-out workers had some flexibility to balance farm and household chores with the putting-out work, this being especially important in winter.

The development of this trend is often considered to be a form of proto-industrialization, and remained prominent until the Industrial Revolution of the 19th century.

PEONAGE

Notwithstanding its early acknowledgment in the Slaughter-House Cases that peonage was comprehended within the slavery and involuntary servitude proscribed by the Thirteenth Amendment,24 the Court has had frequent occasion to determine whether state legislation or the conduct of individuals has contributed to re-establishment of that prohibited status. Defined as a condition of enforced servitude by which the servitor is compelled to labor against his will in liquidation of some debt or obligation, either real or pretended, peonage was found to have been unconstitutionally sanctioned by an Alabama statute, directed at defaulting sharecroppers, which imposed a criminal liability and subjected to imprisonment farm workers or tenants who abandoned their employment, breached their contracts, and exercised their legal right to enter into employment of a similar nature with another person.

Black Budgets and Slush Funds out of FBI and other claims about White Supremacism illegal acts create cell funding for Cartel interests in quasi state causes, like, nominally, fighting white supremacism by pre-emption, but the cash flow out of assets seizures from an alt right person like myself Ed Donegan are fraudulent use of Espionage cells which pretexts their acts by the appearance of a person being a threat by subversion of the persons reputation before the public or courts.

The creation of mercenary cells looking to rob assets of potentially locratuve targets for exploitation arose fro a loose even self preserving use of espionage by the darkets parts of UW espionate history and as the elements of the cells of contractors and mercenaries has reached further out of regular actors the abuses under the guise of counter espionage has turned into the long feared Surveillance State of "Official Bikini Inspectors" patrolling beaches with cameras.

In espionage terms slush funds are created of "pad money" corrupt police shake down criminals (or even law abiding citizens) and use for personal asset gains of the Law Enforcement including funding their own Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit looking for the fake Official Bikini Inspectors which were not therefor authorized to do so.

Human radiation experiments retrieved from Main article: Human radiation experiments and copied or modified to here

Researchers in the United States have performed thousands of human radiation experiments to determine the effects of atomic radiation and radioactive contamination on the human body, generally on people who were poor, sick, or powerless.[61] Most of these tests were performed, funded, or supervised by the United States military, Atomic Energy Commission, or various other U.S. federal government agencies.

The experiments included a wide array of studies, involving things like feeding radioactive food to mentally disabled children or conscientious objectors, inserting radium rods into the noses of schoolchildren, deliberately releasing radioactive chemicals over U.S. and Canadian cities, measuring the health effects of radioactive fallout from nuclear bomb tests, injecting pregnant women and babies with radioactive chemicals, and irradiating the testicles of prison inmates, amongst other things.

Much information about these programs was classified and kept secret. In 1986 the United States House Committee on Energy and Commerce released a report entitled American Nuclear Guinea Pigs : Three Decades of Radiation Experiments on U.S. Citizens.[62] In the 1990s Eileen Welsome's reports on radiation testing for The Albuquerque Tribune prompted the creation of the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments by executive order of president Bill Clinton in order to monitor government tests; it published results in 1995. Welsome later wrote a book called The Plutonium Files.

Unethical human experimentation in the United States From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

The system of funding cells o mercenary based espionage units which can seize assets and use in political or politically motivated acts is one which can be compared to Southern slavery in which assets, labor production, even children of slaves were claimed as property by those who were wealthy enough to fund armies with the economic agrarian economic system to keep the system going.

For a cell to be able to operate it needs both funding and legitimacy and its fundamentals which target assets of value for exploitation rather than legitimatize penalty create the organizational capability including the failed intellectual or factual pretexts the systme of force utilizes to gain control of assets and use criminal methodology to hide troublesome factual matters or use criminal methods to eliminate operation opponents.

Thus the factual and theoretical basis of the operation can succeed if the elimination of cell motives and methods can be hidden which is the "dark" area cells without regulation or oversight can succeed in since improper asset transfers meet no effective opposition and obstacles are removed giving rinse to possible supporters replacing those who have been silenced.

It is not necessary the cell operate on a legitimate basis. It is necessary no true criticism or understanding of the facts underlying the program exist nor its truth ever be revealed, the true goal in my situation I think is a combined suppression of Life, Liberty, and Property so effective the shreds of my life left will not give any clues to my native intelligence, education level, or social capabilities because hostile roughians simply harass being out of the home by bully acts defective enough to cause fights but not directly defamatory enough to take legal action against.

Non uniformed police can pick a fight in any bar about who had the bar stool first, etc., and it is a bad idea to find out after you punched someone it was a cop and the stranger next to the cop is cop too but denies it and claims to be neutral.

The economics I assert of Mercenary cell operation is that a motive of profitablity within Blackwater contracting can be used to target anyone who has something of value and I need to talk of Elevator Repair people here.

The Superpower of an Elevator Engingeer is a Commpany ID that can get access to many diffeent building elevators, for good or evil while the EE is working on the elevator.

Espionage teams can use devices deisgned to covertly disrupt the guilty such as surveil or fake swith telephone calls to wrong parteis, etc., and use that super power against a law abiding person the espionage unit WANTS something fron, and will sieuze and the evidence they themselves plant.

Effectively Rouge acts of abusive entanglement by Espionage of an Asset Possessor can become a profitable NGO like war cause against the asset possessor if it is falsely politicized or falsely branded as part of a war on terror or terrorism.

And high ranking politician may laucn Espionage units on any such witch hunts against their Atheist opposition or nayone else IF they are powerful enough in government.

The theory I am positing: The “New World Order” is based in Vatican and OSS now CIA plans to first test in Obama mixing of genome from blacks and whites (Birther conspiracy theory, testing Sydney Gottlieb MKULTRA program use of Windsor DNA (Glorian Donegan of Navy rescued daughters of King Edward VIII) with the FOXP2 speech and written language impediment of stuttering, etc., and the Kings Daughters Hospital of Norfolk Virginia.

A kill list of my own genome while also getting int on the black market really ends a family line problematic for the CIA and big name political families who have something they need to hid, the truth of my genome, the genome itself on a kill list seizure list.

First using 1920s illegitimate children of King Edward VIII in the US to mix with Malcom X and create the Manchurian Candidate (web search for existing theory on that, also in my book) then testing world designer baby programs to bring up world IQ while also denying world IQ variance exists is the long term deep state goal.

Larry MacDonald had the information at Barrack Obama burst onto the scene in 1982 as the Presbyterian workers like Mama Lois" Anderson created test baby, and trying to out the plan in the Anchorage Alaska area where the alleged mother of Barrack Obama lived, Seattle and elsewhere, also Boeing Corp of Seattle, and Seattle World's Fair of JFK and the Windsor's (Also the murder of Thomas C Wales to cover all of this up.

In fact it was Cuba and others genomically connected to the Madrid to Capetown cline who wished world IQ increased with the MKULTRA Program of which Obama was the Feb 20 test subject of discussed later and the House Camelot House Windsor meeting at that very 21st Century Expo world's fair the Malcom X side was simultaneously following as the records now indicate, preserved from that time.

This has lead to organized crime deep state of covering up the DNA RFLP trail of family databases through Deep State black market racketeering designer babies on genes not disclosed to the general public, but made available to elite buyers to fund the Deep State, and this is the blackmail racket run by Jeffery Esptienn VI Brain Foundation, Mark Epstien, Psychiatrist, and Rikki Epstien, illegally reselling faked rights to my genome in a 2nd Prohibition Era bootlegging scheme, bootlegging DNA laundered through asset seizure and adult entertainers "in charge of DNA" and bribing impersonators of me 'to justice."

Even without RFLP the FOXP2 gene is visible in me and my mother. This is especially bad for the Illuminati/CIA. It runs in one family and one family only, the family used on Feb 20 1961 to fertilize Obama with Glorian Donegan Ovum (using Malcom X sperm) and Edward Paul Donegan, me, with James Paul Donegan my father.

Jen Moore would later reveal, as they threatened her with death, what I later found out, and I think what Holder, Machen, Rosenstein and his CIA wife keep secret on behalf of the the National Institute of Health/PHS which works in the prisons.

And why Tom Donegan and Mark Weirness fought all their lives against me and Glorian Donegan, our mother.

This turns out to the history, the politics, and the profitability of my mother's genome, likely his mother too, Glorian Donegan, only now found out by others.

The sexually, religiously, and international law human rights abusive scheme Jen Moore described as Pizzagate is a repugnant form of black markets human trafficking violating religion, reproductive, and other rights in abusive conduct.

Homeboy a migrant farm worker type from Nueces County Texas exploits Homegirl, female of the same demographic, or a white underage female from a Nueces County church group.

Homeboy has made Homegirl is first pornography.

His second porno is a white female dominatrix who thinks Home Girl Matters and will punish Homeboy as Ed Donegan, beause White Female thinks, is socially engineered to think Ed Donegan exploited Home Girl who was near Ed Donegan while Ed Donegan had a smart phone, shopping cart, gym bag in use.

Thus to leave Ed Donegan out of the fun of punishing the exploitation of Homegirl (by agreeing to the rights of Ed Donegan's DNA) Homeboy, husband of Homegirl, undergoes “the punishment” under command of the riding crop.

In fact I was the real pornography of all them, they cant get away from me and they want to “have my baby” getting all or parts of my genome by forgeries fo rights to my genome when it is used to settle debts to others never my real liability in the first place.

The CIA operation of Gottlieb and others using my genome in MKULTRA is long running, but fake papwers as to the rights of my genome to harmed communities” are being faked.

What we consider today the ‘traditional’ arrangement of an orchestra - with the violins to the left of the conductor, the violas at the center, and the cellos and double basses to the right - wasn’t always how orchestras were laid out.

In the 18th and 19th-century, the second violins were seated opposite the first violins. This seating arrangement supported the conversational music of composers like Mozart and Mahler.

Does this man I call the Left Globe Photographer have a scar on the right side of his head? As I do? He is probably off to see an adult adult-entertainer. When he does he will be caught with the teen or tot porn, and he will have to pay up or be arrested, and when he does pay to the victim, the rights to MY genome forged by his signature will be laundered into the black market for genomics.

Among those getting the genes rights are the religious groups who claim I need their help with my peeping at females problem, and who represent me and pay off my misconduct for my alleged Heathen or Atheist misconduct against female victims.

Jen Moore has described this as a stolen organ scenario. The Left Globe Photographer, perhaps blacked out from too many drugs and partying, and wakes up to that adult entertainer he hired legitimatly but gives up to blackmail on the creepy photos he is caught with.

Veronica Hoffman was used for this as later died after harassment from that same criminal network, perhaps her loyalty to the network came into doubt and she could have compromised the operation if she was believed.

For instance at KinkBnB I, repeat I, was framed as a shower peeker (like at 42nd Street) but an impersonators, in both cases, faking my voice print, will be blackmailed, not me.

But for the crisis my rights would be enforceable, but since a Crisis (manufactured by Crisis Actors) was present, my rights die under Law Enformcement Exception, and thus I can not enforce my most basic and protected rights.

This is the Conspiracy Against My Own Sexual and Association Rights.

Keeping me single the next available administrator of my DNA non-white administrators embezzling the genome value to non-whites

FALSE FLAGS, BUNKO, AND THE TRIANGLE OF MEANINGLESSNESS
There are two gangstalks. White women in my vicinity are approached away from me and incited on most likely the evidence manufactured in my vicinity and asked to participate in vigilantism or behave as dupes in my vicinity, leaving my vicinity.

They may also be photographed surreptitiously by those impersonating me, a false flag operation.

Or the impersonator of me will make terrorist or foreign intel comments to the erotic entertainer and then IQ related or other genes related to retarded children advocacy can be seized under the NDAA or FISA Court activities. I believe this tied to my family genome, disrupting my sexuality in the U.S. and planting me DNA into non-whites.

This scheme appears to have been created for non-whites to use impersonators of me to give my DNA to non-whites which I would not, to Christian groups which I would not, and for Non European groups which I would not, thus replacing me in the bedroom to force different racial, religious, national, and ethnic partners for use of my DNA.

Nothing could be more offensive to Human Rights law in the US or in International law.

The scheme uses covert operations in a scheme I have called ErosX. I meet someone or an near someone on the street and an impersonator of me will later in some way pursue contact, perhaps electronically, with that person.

Circumstantially it will appear I continued or started along a path of contact with that woman or teen. Something will be said to me which I begin to detect as a pattern and reject.

For instance for a while at normal points of sale where I am doing normal purchases an unwanted layer is added on, a claim code words spoken to me which have no meaning to me supposedly add an extra transaction onto.

For instance for a while people said “Happy Birthday” to me out of the blue, unexpected, and low and behold, an impersonator of me was later detected in San Francisco getting “pizza” for my birthday in San Francisco when I was in Texas.

Other times people asked me “how many CC is your motorcycle?” or said “we are out of ice” or used the world “hon” to me.

These circumstantial things when I am out and about doing normal transactions during the day are poisoned with meaning they do not have by impersonators agreeing to the meanings I reject, thus forging a a chain of events I am circumstantially tied to.

This is called “cutouts” in cover ops where my non-participation in the scheme is cut out and a person’s (an impersonator of me) willing participation, away from me, is cut into the case file supported by corrupt law enforcement our counter-intel people.

This scheme has been used on property as well including cars and housing and much of has links to Chris Lloyd of Orinda, California, not to be confused with Christ Lloyd the sci fi actor.

Chris Lloyd and Lenny Schaefer and a few others took me to a massage parlor on my 18th birthday in Berkley, CA, Chris Lloyd is tied to genetics research, and Chris Lloyd has a daughter working for Genetech, and Chris Lloyd has made circumstantial physical property comments to me such as house and car purchases as if I had “approved” them when he merely mentioned them without and substantive meaning.

In college Chris Lloyd, I, and others could purchase cocaine from the food cafeteria of University of Oregon by purchasing a candy bar and paying $26 or so and a quarter gram would be passed under the candy bar handed across the counter, if we said the code word at purchase.

Google Books Bombing

Planted Subjects

These planted subjects in the vicinity of Smartphone use will be zoom photographed by someone, and my DNA will pay off the allege affonse of mine to the black or gay who caought me.

The second use, if not the primary use, is to allege I am the peeper at female buttocks that these blacks and gays are really doing.

Mere innuendo towards me points the finger until I challenge them to accuse me of anything, often in shouting matches, and they say there is no accusation against me and nothing is going on.

Sexuallizing children disgusts me, and adult women have a reflexive rage against people who do this, and affinity towards though who investigate this.

Thousand and thousands of time, and no recourse against this. Oh those brave cops are too busy to investigate this.

Sure, I have been photo bombed, whenever I take a regular photo it is alleged I am a sex fiend because they bomb the photo with a sexualized tot, etc.,

I cal this “Guilt Added Photograph” where they add guilt allege to me of my normal ordinary act.

Thy also GPS Bomb me and Googel Books Bomb me. Whenever I used the smartphone for anything they added in a tot or teen in front of me. Even though there was no camera in use, just MapMyWalk, Google Maps Directions, Google Play Books, or anything else, taking a call, seing and SMS message, the screen to my face was met with a tot or something like that in front of me.

At first I though this was to disrupt my ability to read by breaking my concentration, thus making me look like an idiot, a retarded person.

Later I would discover the photo SOMEONELSE took of me with the screen pointing to my face would be a prop for them as they preteneded to be me, then, as confronted, confess to filming that tot, etc.,

In fact the prop of me with the screen to my face would match THEIR photo of the tot THEY took, also in evidence at asset seizure, so why look closely at my Google Books screen?

Social Sabotage

Also, for social sabotage of me, it makes sense that a photo of me with a smartphone in my hand near a tot or teen could be used to indicate to OTHERS with me not present, that the photo of me using my cellphone [for Google Books] was acatually me using my smartphone for photography.

Top US Federal Judge Assassinated After Threat To Obama Agenda http://www.eutimes.net/2011/01/top-us-federal-judge-assassinated-after-threat-to-obama-agenda/

According to this SVR report, Federal Judge John McCarthy Roll was the Chief Judge for the United States District Court for the District of Arizona who this past Friday issued what is called a "preliminary ruling" in a case titled "United States of America v. $333,520.00 in United States Currency et al" [Case Number: 4:2010cv00703 Filed: November 30, 2010] wherein he stated he was preparing to rule against Obama's power to seize American citizens money without clear and convincing evidence of a crime being committed.

The case being ruled on by Judge Roll, this report continues, was about bulk cash smuggling into or out of the United States that the Obama administration claimed was their right to seize under what are called Presidential Executive Orders, instead of using existing laws. The Obama administration used as support for their claim before Judge Roll, the SVR says, the seizing of all American citizens' gold, in 1933, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt's signing of Executive Order 6102, which was ruled at the time to be constitutional.

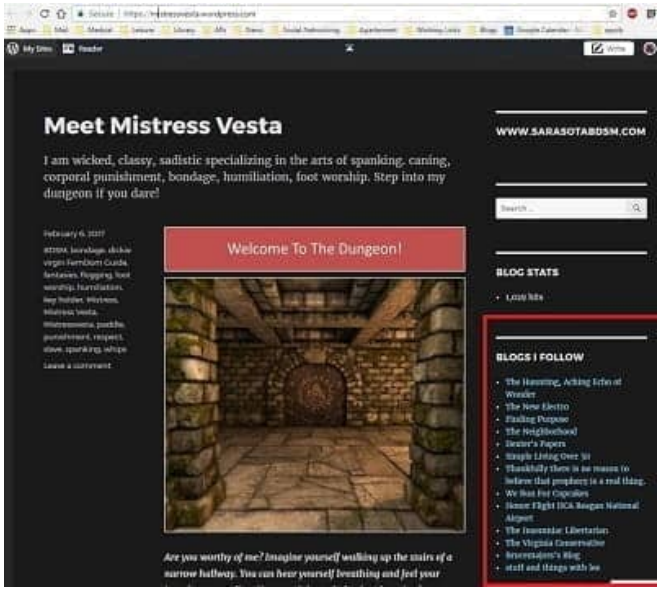
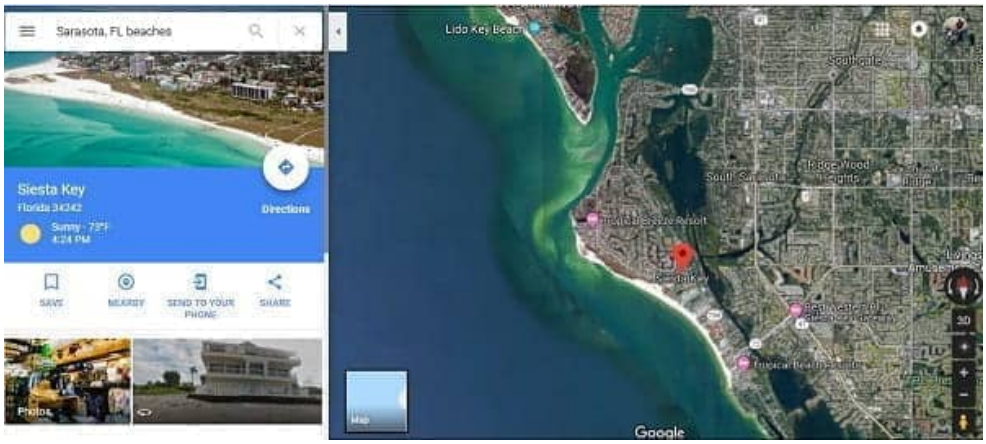
Doppelgänger, not Ed, parties at Saratoga FL near CENTCOM

By appearnces, the indica visible to the public by blogroll, I had been to this place, I have not, my Doppelgänger has and been blackmailed there.



20 minute drive from CENTCOM is the Bikini Beach White Women Bullwhip Center



In December 2011, Austin was nominated to become Vice Chief of Staff of the United States Army (VCSA).[20] He took office on January 31, 2012.[21] .. He also Austin supervised a review of the psychiatric treatment of personnel assessed for disability by the Army.[24]

United States Central Command Vice President Joe Biden, Austin, became the commander of CENTCOM on March 22, 2013, after being nominated by President Obama in late 2012 His approach as CENTCOM commander has been described as that of an “invisible general”, due to his reluctance to speak publicly about military matters.[27] From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

In one of the more bizzare aspects of this covert teams of people surround me at laundry facilities and make bizzare motions of having to mop the floor as if I were masturbating in public, police and FBI (black ghetto) allegdge FBI undercover make fake claims I am hiring pizza from the laundry mat, buying drugs from the laundry mat (with an alleged black neigbor I do not have of Casa Linda, at least my REAL apartment) and at these drugged out trysts, per the Corpus Chrisi black police officer, at the alleged trysts of an apartment I did not move to in Los Angles (but I did put in a Disbursement request for) a Doppple of me, with a fake Ed Donegan with hair was bound by a dominatrix similar to this, “forced to give up his milk” by the cast of characters who surrounded me at the laundry mat, but it was BERNIE not ME in LA.

But the fetlife pic and that cop were directly linked, and when I was kicked out of the laundromat for THEIR activities, my lost clothes were moved into a Sound Stage at the far end of the complex and facing 180s the other way, but with blinds and computer desk peeking at a high school which was BEHIND that apartment.

The internal set created in THAT apartment tied to a paint bucket for teens to get keys, was create to look like me looking at at a high school.

First of all I did not sexually kids, and that whole thing may have began when I moved to that intersection which had all the bus lines and laundrymats near the gym, stores, hall way in between the two city hubs of Corpus Christi and near parks

I am not interested in children nor exploitation of anyone but I am framed in public places or so in IMPERSONATOR of me will be blackmailed for my DNA rights, then law firm TJ Henry and ARC of Northern Virginia will claim them and provide them to Genentech for mothers who want the DNA only alleging my permission.

Chased from what I call Element “A” where it appears i took a teen or tot photo, the Doppelgänger of me is caught at Element “B” and blackmailed for DNA

I am not the person being blackmailed, did not take the teen or tot picture earlier, nor did I contract for the treehouse. I probably did contact the domina but she turned me down for a need person who will “sub” stittute for me while i am punished by being left out of the scene.

“Mistress Victoria” “dat Ass” model to the retarded, the adult entertainer called for the retarded child, finds teen or tot porn in the treehouse the retarded White Supremacist person lives in

Below, an ARC of Nothern Virginia owned vehicle in their parking lot (along with other Wrangly 4X4s) after I had shopped for one later request and was turned down for a Toyota 4Runner. An indication Triniaus turned down my request from the only fund I have access to and use a fake unreported “family grow fund” of embezzled semen IVF rights to buy themselves one.

The ARC of Northern Virginia know of some non whites who could use some White Supremacist White Seperatist DNA. and THEY ALSO own the treehouse and represent the victims victimized by the Treehouse

As well be revealed in the following chapters Marines hire white models and use dummy impersonators of to to host the white models. I call this Dummy figure “Bernie” and Bernie pays for the US Marines Parties with real Ed Donegan’s DNA.

An Instance in Operation

Returning from canada on Greyhound I am surrounded by people who at least, the guy next to me, provide some information on who they are.

The white hand near me in the photo belongs to a white guy who revealed himself to be National Institute of Health, though somewhat relulactanlty he revealed that, and is presence was supposed to be a coincidnce.

Two black also coincidently seem to be near me, like a Harvey Dent, black cop, and a Doppelganger of me in a similar coat to mine.

They, when awake, lear and drool at two white women seated in front of me.

A black retarded level male is the greyhound bus driver of a bus leaving at 12:01 on the schedule, my voice being recorded saying Georgia underage porn law.

This recorded sound of me will come out of Bernie’s adams apple at the party I am not going to.

One possibiliy of somethig earlir was switcing out my airline ticket TO Canada.

DONEGAN/EDWARD and DONEGAN/EDWARDPAUL have flights. MY name is not EDWARDPAUL it is Edward

In the usual switchout I bought an insured ticket to Canada but without passport DONEGAN/EDWARD was not allowed to board.

I was then sold the ticket shown instead DONEGAN/EDWARDPAUL traveling instead.

I reported this to flight crew.

The FAKE Ed Donegan may have arrived at the Canadian border first, and been kicked out.

When I arrived at Canda, I already had an arrest in Canada which was the impersonator of me who arrived on the earlier flight INTO Canada I was not allowed to board.

I had to take the bus from New York, crawling along slowely, with my Drivers License and Birth Certificate, while an impersonator of me, likely black, with fake california ID created at a CA DMV scam was arrested in Canada.

From: Edward Paul Donegan
To: To Whom It May Concern;

In what is a serious criminal and serious human rights matter my left wing Gay Rights brother, in a battle over family financial and other assets control, has utilized Flim Flam techniques in a crime of such scale few could believe its occurrence.

I have been harassed and embezzled by a shake down schem operating in my vicinity in which planted people pretend to be my victim and people around me also manufacture bizarre attempted dual constructions tying me to activities in my vicinity.

In a family split politically for years my brother Thomas Neil Donegan and his now legal spouse Mark Weirness continually in various forums alleged my allegations of his fraudulent activities were untrue and even sought and received some civil commitments of me hampering my life and generating the psychiatry history on ne he always wanted to exploitiveliy achieve.

And utilizing that record created for him and agents acting on is behalf an illegally run conservancy utilizing well known flim flam shakedown systems of a trust fund not reporting its activities and use of assets not properly disclosed to me.

In fact the schemes is a flim flam scheme known a Quackery of people allegedly my coaches, assistants, and conservators are merely inventing a perceived need for them and inventing claims against me which will enrich themselves.

This appears to be tied to gaining rights to genes wished for which occur in my family line and myself tied to high IQ (life long testing reveals high IQ in me and my family line) and possibly designer babies in the age of CAS9 and CRISPR, the type of bio experts and genomicists he has been co-operating with.

Because of lack of accounting and operation of hostile conservancy It has taken decades to gather the facts and the Terms Of Art used in grifting and false claims crimes to outline the activities; which again, are serious crimes including financial crimes and which have had very devastating affects on my life, with me having the legal status of an Elder (retarded or cognitively impaired adult.) Glossary and Terms of Art in Bunko

A confidence trick is also known as a con game, a con, a scam, a grift, a hustle, a bunko (or bunco), a swindle, a flimflam, a gaffle, or a bamboozle. The intended victims are known as marks, suckers, stooges, mugus, rubes, or gulls (from the word gullible). When accomplices are employed, they are known as shills.

As I am going somewhere legitimate a Shill (plant female) will be exploitively photographed, etc., by a Doppelgänger of me (called a gull or gullible, ,and also a Shill) in the area, who will then be shaken down by health care conservancy to sign genes of mine those behavioral social justice firms need for their own social justice work. The Doppelgänger of me who will be confronted for the alleged wrongdoing against the shill will sign my genes rights (high IQ) over to the retardation firm.

Thus I am being impersonated and a confession alleged from me forged.

I will later and continuously face social retaliation for the alleged acts and remain single and socially isolated from those who would act on my behalf rather than on the Conservancy’s behalf.

As I will state 3 Conclusions and the book series epilouge, every is corrupt, anyone at all. Just so long is it works out for them well and at anyone else expense.

This is why I will die devoted to the Iranians and their country putting morality first.

frequently drawn from prison populations and acting as paid “snitches” will conduct assaults upon someone at police request. The typical type of stooge assaults I have experienced are placement of imagery revolting to me, sexualized children or explositiveness of people I do not sexualize or non-whites sexualized or buttocks fetishism as women buttocks flash me, often with non-white males initiating the acts as though to please me, a white person.

The affect of this is harassment and sex assault upon me which will be interpreted as me being the predator and at allegedly at fault for the sexualization of environments I was using normally.

Noble Causes Police Corruption and Police Corruption

Especially non-white and even non-US national people have backed these stooge assaults upon me. The alleged victim, the Shill, is compensated as have been other In and Ins (co-operating scam artists) and non whites have had a hey dey of constantly approaching white women on scams allegedly tied to me but actually conducted the scam artists themselves.

In shaking down and blaming the white supremacist for his genetic makeup everyone seems to benefit and thus things have been shouted at me by dangerous felon cultured blacks “we are going to cut off your balls and fuck Jessica Simpson with them.”

This has been organized racial violence allowed and setup by SJW behavioral care workers treating autism, retardation, and other medical conditions, and these same medical workers undermine my stalking and RICO allegations as mental illness.

In THE TRIANGLE OF MEANINGLESSNESS plain clothes people, claiming to me nothing is out of the ordinary, treat me very publicly as though I were a sex offender, peeper, stalker, etc., The pretentious acts of those people surrounding me carry no meaning. Mere innuendo, less than name calling.

BUNKO to others, the acts of those surrounding me and physically blockading women from my proximity, is justified. It is never justified to me, can not be justified truthfully, ,and justification to me would not withstand scrutiny.. Thus, only innuendo is ever used near me and when I call it out the innuendo is denied.

The innuendo towards me is a cover for the false flag acts the perpetrators commit dressed or described as me.

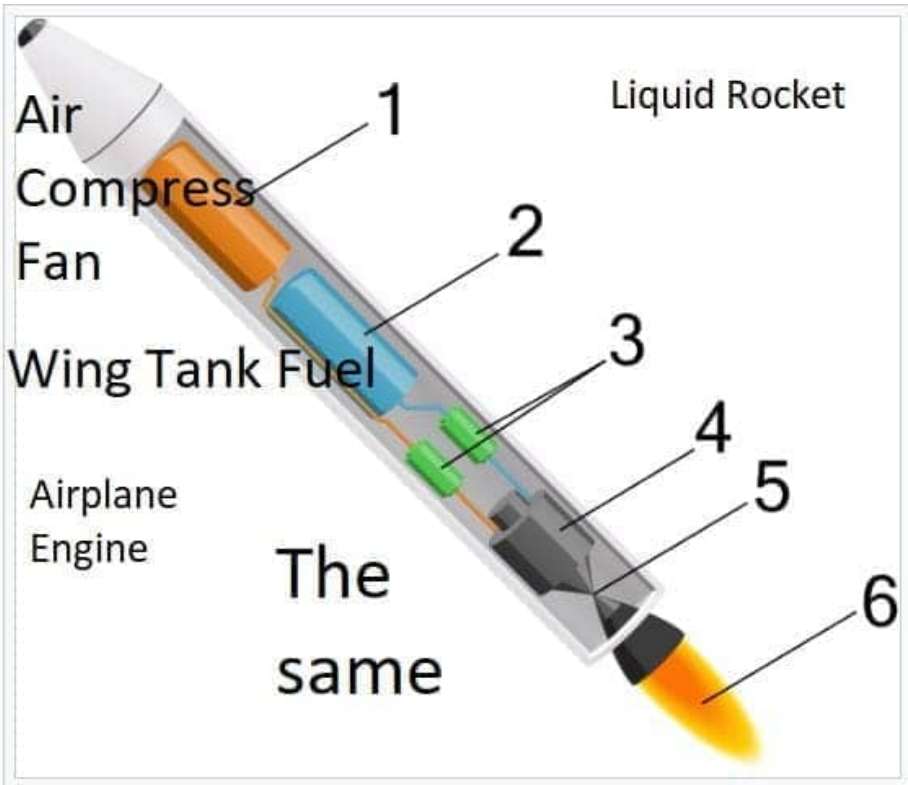
Liquid-propellant rocket retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

A liquid-propellant rocket or liquid rocket utilizes a rocket engine that uses liquid propellants. Liquids are desirable because they have a reasonably high density and high specific impulse (Isp). This allows the volume of the propellant tanks to be relatively low. It is also possible to use lightweight centrifugal turbopumps to pump the rocket propellant from the tanks into the combustion chamber, which means that the propellants can be kept under low pressure. This permits the use of low-mass propellant tanks that do not need to resist the high pressures needed to store significant amounts of gases, resulting in a low mass ratio for the rocket.[citation needed]



A simplified diagram of a liquid-propellant rocket or with an Air Compressor fan in postiion 1 and wing tank jet fuel at position 2 an airplane jet engine

If the Oxygen produces one unit of fire-blast and the liqued fuel produce on unit of blast two units of blast are emitted.

If .5 unit of blast is taken from the blast and added to the air compressor power its capacity moves to 1.5 bast component insertion. Liquid propellent input and be increased to 1.5 to match the available oxygen increasing blast level to 3.0

If the Pilot feels lucky the pilot can direct liquid propellent into the blast now entering the oxygen rich atmosphere.

1. Liquid rocket fuel.
2. Oxidizer
3. Pumps carry the fuel and oxidizer.
4. The combustion chamber mixes and burns the two liquids.
5. The hot exhaust is choked at the throat, which, among other things, dictates the amount of thrust produced.
6. Exhaust exits the rocket.

Airplane Jet Engine 1 Air Compressor (Oxidizer air flow) 2 Fuel injected from wing tank 3) Fuel and Air mix 4) Combustion Chamber 5) same 6) same

Robert H. Goddard, bundled against the cold New England weather of March 16, 1926, holds the launching frame of his most notable invention - the first liquid rocket.

An inert gas stored in a tank at a high pressure is sometimes used instead of pumps in simpler small engines to force the propellants into the combustion chamber. These engines may have a higher mass ratio, but are usually more reliable, and are therefore used widely in satellites for orbit maintenance. [1]

Liquid rockets can be monopropellant rockets using a single type of propellant, or bipropellant rockets using two types of propellant. Tripropellant rockets using three types of propellant are rare. Some designs are throttleable for variable thrust operation and some may be restarted after a previous in-space shutdown. Liquid propellants are also used in hybrid rockets, with some of the advantages of a solid rocket.

In a for profit Eugenics scheme rights to genes from my family line are on the black market as “stripper bucks,” an unusual racketeering scheme in which a forged permission to the Donegan genome can be created if an stripper catches an impersonator of Edward Donegan in sexual misconduct such as making females his [cell phone camera] porn.

The stripper will accept forged permissions for Ed Donegan’s DNA from an impersonator of Ed Donegan IF she believes that Ed Donegan was caught at the scene of a crime by the person forging Ed Donegan’s permissions.

So what happened at the Scene of the Crime? The forger made a female an exploitative photograph victim, and that same forger will allege Ed Donegan rather than the forger took the photo at issue.

The stripper (believing Ed should be left alone as punishment) will accept the Forger’s statement HE is the hero of the scene and HE should be the person “punished” by the Dominatrix Stripper, punishment of signing DNA rights over to the female victimized by the exploitative photo.

Paying for the stripper and paying restitution to the victim and paying for patrols against Ed Donegan (from ever doing it again) are money coming from the monetized trust fund of Glorian Donegan, created a shame justice system in which “paper” is generated for the rights to the genome which would not survive any scrutiny in any real and serious inquiry Due Process standard legal system.

Oliver Twist retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Oliver Twist; or, the Parish Boy's Progress is Charles Dickens's second novel, and was published as a serial from 1837 to 1839 and released as a three-volume book in 1838, before the serialisation ended.[1] The story centres on orphan Oliver Twist, born in a workhouse and sold into apprenticeship with an undertaker. After escaping, Oliver travels to London, where he meets the "Artful Dodger", a member of a gang of juvenile pickpockets led by the elderly criminal Fagin.

Oliver Twist contains an unromantic portrayal of criminals and their sordid lives, as well as for exposing the cruel treatment of the many orphans in London in the mid-19th century.[2] The alternative title, The Parish Boy's Progress, alludes to Bunyan's The Pilgrim's Progress, as well as the 18th-century caricature series by William Hogarth, A Rake's Progress and A Harlot's Progress.[3]

In this early example of the social novel, Dickens satirises the hypocrisies of his time, including child labour, domestic violence, the recruitment of children as criminals, and the presence of street children. The novel may have been inspired by the story of Robert Blincoe, an orphan whose account of working as a child labourer in a cotton mill was widely read in the 1830s. It is likely that Dickens's own experiences as a youth contributed as well.[4]

Oliver Twist has been the subject of numerous adaptations, including a highly successful musical play, Oliver!, and the multiple Academy Award-winning 1968 motion picture.

Jen Moore is dead not because she was wrong but because the Illuminati Espionage activities subverting the USA are beyond the point of no return and their actions must be completed and completed in stealth or the truth will be revealed.

The Right and Left Hands of a Long Term corruption of NSA CIA activities of Elites and Profiteering

George H.W. When Political Crimes Are Inside Jobs: Detecting State Crimes against Democracy
https://www.jstor.org/stable/25610803

Abstract

Public administration theory and practice tend to overlook the possibility of state political criminality in liberal democracies. This article proposes a policy science to detect state crimes against democracy (SCADs), using social and political theory to understand when, why, how, and by whom such crimes are likely to be committed. After defining SCADs and differentiating them from other types of political crimes, the article analyzes SCADs in terms of antidemocratic tendencies posited by theories of liberal democracy. SCADs are traced to specific institutional objectives by analyzing patterns in SCAD targets, timing, and modus operandi. The role played by career civil servants in exposing government crimes and deceptions suggests that professional public administrators are a critical line of defense against the criminalization of the state.

The deceptions in government include illegal husbandry of genome on black markets and sleeper agents, MKULTRA criminal world conduct, assassinations of officials, and secretive CIA illegal acts.

No Ordinary Stalking

Organized stalking is carried out by an enthusiastic and structured group that has cruel intentions:

stalk, harass, injure, financially ruin, and mentally crumple human prey until incapacitation occurs. What sets this crime apart is that innocents are picked off the street. There is no getting away from the stalkers and no getting away from the unusual technology that is used to take over someone's life.

"For the first couple of months," says June, "I thought it was a sick game. Now that I've been tormented for years, well, it's clear that organized stalking is a sophisticated crime that follows a step-by-step process to leave the victim as bare and isolated as the dead tree on the cover. He or she may still be standing, but that's about it.

"I'll sum it up this way. Veiled intimidation ensures that targeted individuals are viewed by the public as free people, which they are not. They are playthings to their controllers. Hostages in plain sight. Victims are quite literally owned yet have limited chance of rescue because their desperate circumstances are misunderstood.

Some die from the violence. Some die from suicide. And the rest merely exist."

Organized stalking is worldwide and is called gang stalking in some areas. The electronic harassment that accompanies organized stalking is also known as covert harassment.

The Step By Step Process is Manufacture Evidence (illegally such as law enforcement planting evidence to create sham investigations) and using the sham investigation as Abuse of Process (investigatory process) to Conspire Against Rights of the victim, gang surveillance warrants, in my case suing my trust fund for what the planted evidence suggests, and also using non recused plant public officials and the Press working for allowing for “favors” granted to the law enforcement agencies asking for them.

As far as those who cooperate with Sham investigations like the Press who I often offer evidence that a Prosecutorial Misconduct system is at least SOME of the misconduct and in my case ALL of the misconduct AND ALSO that I can show the REAL motive the Government (William Barr, Free Masons, others) are subverting THIS MKULTRA victim, the Press and others refuse that evidence. Negligence of the Press and others is solidified as Ice, not shifting intransigent, cold to the facts and thus are Criminal Intent holding the position solid, not shifting as the negligent would.

Did you know a Jet Engine is a form of a liquid rocket? This story goes in to Jack Parsons, JPL Labs, Cal Tech, and MKULTRA history of missile and jet bombers and breaking the sound barrier by Nea Armastrong in an airplane.

This is the goal of Gangsalking subverting people and their rights for arbitrary reason which could not pass constitutional muster, often the arbitrary reason is the person is a witness to or a victim of Government misconduct and is being discredited as a person.

Further, the misconduct alleged to the victim of the Gangstalk will close doors to the victim as “office mobbing” (rumors in office places, housing ,etc.,) spread about the misconduct wrongfully alleged to the Gangstalk victim.

Stalkers hid heir identity, their acts, from scrutiny of the victims thus the real motives of the stalkers is not subjected to scrutiny.

Those and many other books about Organized Stalking (police organized used of criminal acts though oberving rather than committing the crimes at this site. https://www.surveillancesurvivors.org/targeted-publications.html

The press protects the deceptions in government rather than expose the Illuminati 5th Column illegal acts thus participating in, enabling the State conduct’s continuation.

MKULTRA was never legal. Its long history of assassinations, cover up, CIA history and private contractors working for big family names in the Presidencies engaged in illegal and plausibly deniable acts is mostly hidden.

One chapter in this book use a movie metaphor for what Jen Moore was saying and is true, the the US Government MKULTRA tied power brokers are continuing assassinations and illegal acts to continue both cover ups and big pharmacy profits and this is tied to Jeffery Epstein, Donald Barr

William Barr, the Bush family, Bidens in Ukraine, the OSS CIA Vatican St Josephs connections and many more including my own November 16 1961 birth in Manhattan Beach under the Manhattan Project, atomic bomb development and radiation testing.

The elites in the media and politicians who called her a Conspiracy Theorist, a nut job, and the media ignored her allegation and her death, including her allegation Rod Rosenstein was organizing hits, which seem not to be true about his use of MS-13 as assets on Seth Rich. her death.

The media ignoring her death is central to the meaning of my life. I have spent all my life under aggression thrown at me and then me in custody suffering even more violently aggressions treatment all the while complaining this was out of the view o he media.

Upon my various releases I found it was in the fact the Media creating the movement of “study” of me, subversion, sabotage, and ghosting of me, Jen Moore, and others as the Robber Barron’s oil and the Bush family of Media and Politics create their Illuminati Families work including Jeffery Epstein, the CIA and others.

The media, private business owners and the retail clerks following their orders are the Deep State.

A change in plan for me is to end the futile alerting the press ot the error of this all, and help the military and others see the error of the Press and its role in supporting rather than outing crony power.

The CIA, NSA, and others put together MKULTRA and its business partners long ago and that is intact today more so than ever and the promotion and demotion of social heroes is part of the media plan of cover up of MKULTRA and the continuing attack on MKULTRRA victims.

Self-defense (self-defence in some varieties of English) is a countermeasure that involves defending the health and well-being of oneself from harm.[1] The use of the right of self-defense as a legal justification for the use of force in times of danger is available in many jurisdictions.[2]

First Amendment: Various forms of defense against criminal conspiracies and criminals themselves, like defense against any noxiousness, is the Light of Day and thus Jen Moore was a Lamplighter, Sunlight is the Best Disinfectant and this what her videos and other work were dedicated too.

Second Amendment: Physical defense may be necessary if the illegality if public attention is not sufficient to intimidate or bring investigation to those involved in the crime.

Corruption - Political ideology Google knowledge panel retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Corruption is a form of dishonesty or criminal offense undertaken by a person or organization entrusted with a position of authority, to acquire illicit benefit or abuse power for one's private gain. Wikipedia

Corruption is a form of dishonesty or criminal offense undertaken by a person or organization entrusted with a position of authority, to acquire illicit benefit or abuse power for one's private gain. Corruption may include many activities including bribery and embezzlement, though it may also involve practices that are legal in many countries.[1] Political corruption occurs when an office-holder or other governmental employee acts in an official capacity for personal gain. Corruption is most commonplace in kleptocracies, oligarchies, narco-states and mafia states.[2]

Vocabulary.com retrieved from link and copied or modified to here is a government whose corrupt leaders (kleptocrats) use political power to appropriate the wealth of their nation, typically by embezzling or misappropriating government funds at the expense of the wider population.[1][2] is a form of power structure in which power rests with a small number of people. These people may be distinguished by nobility, wealth, education, corporate, religious, political, or military control. Such states are often controlled by families who pass their influence from one generation to the next, but inheritance is not a necessary condition of oligarchy.

NARCO-STATE

Narco-state (also narco-capitalism or narco-economy[a]) is a political and economic term applied to countries where all legitimate institutions become penetrated by the power and wealth of the illegal drug trade.[2] The term was first used to describe Bolivia following the 1980 coup of Luis García Meza which was seen to be primarily financed with the help of narcotics traffickers.[3] Examples of some narco-states are described below. Other well-known examples are Mexico, Colombia, and Guinea-Bissau, where drug cartels produce, ship and sell drugs such as cocaine and marijuana.

MAFIA STATE

In politics, a mafia state is a state system where the government is tied with organized crime to the degree when government officials, the police, and/or military became a part of the criminal enterprise.[1][2] According to US diplomats, the phrase “mafia state” was coined by Alexander Litvinenko[3] Aleksandr Valterovich Litvinenko 30 August 1962 or 4 December 1962 Voronezh, Russian SFSR, Soviet Union Died 23 November 2006 (aged 43 or 44)

In 1991, Litvinenko was promoted to the Central Staff of the Federal Counterintelligence Service, specialising in counter-terrorist activities and infiltration of organised crime.

Possible Link with Peoples Temple Suicide:

Jonestown, the Guyana location of the Jim Jones cult and Peoples Temple mass suicide, was thought to be a test site for MKULTRA medical and mind control experiments after the official end of the program. Congressman Leo Ryan, a known critic of the CIA, was assassinated after he personally visited Jonestown to investigate various reported irregularities.

Guyana achieved independence from the United Kingdom on 26 May 1966 and became a republic on 23 February 1970, remaining a member of the Commonwealth. DEBUNKED: AOC Wasn’t Hiding In The Capitol On Jan 6, ‘Insurrectionists’ Who ‘Tried To Kill’ Her Never Entered Her Building

~~COPYRIGHT~~ NATIONALFILE.COM by GABRIEL KEANE February 3, 2021

Supporters of AOC have claimed that she was terrorized inside the Capitol by far-right “insurrectionists.” Those claims have been emphatically debunked.

Ocasio-Cortez, who frequently receives massive positive engagement on Twitter, was ultimately ratioed on her tweet trying to explain away her account of the Jan. 6 protests.

She was also roundly mocked for her attempts to stoke fear about pro-Trump protests after enthusiastically endorsing Black Lives Matter riots during the summer of 2020.

Earlier this week, Ocasio-Cortez took to Instagram live to recount lurid tales of the terrors she endured both in her office and the office of fellow Rep. Katie Porter in the nearby Longworth House Office Building, during which she was sure an “insurrectionist” would storm the halls with a firearm and she would die.

Unfortunately for Ocasio-Cortez, it was revealed Wednesday that she was not even inside the Capitol, but the Cannon building, where her office is located. Her attempts to explain away this key omission only made a further subject of mockery on social media.

US DOJ Summary:

Section 241 of Title 18 is the civil rights conspiracy statute. Section 241 makes it unlawful for two or more persons to agree together to injure, threaten, or intimidate a person in any state, territory or district in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him/her by the Constitution or the laws of the Unites States, (or because of his/her having exercised the same). Unlike most conspiracy statutes, Section 241 does not require that one of the conspirators commit an overt act prior to the conspiracy becoming a crime.

The offense is punishable by a range of imprisonment up to a life term or the death penalty, depending upon the circumstances of the crime, and the resulting injury, if any.

Our Mission

The mission of the George H. W. Bush Foundation for U.S.-China Relations is to advance U.S.-China relations in ways that reflect the ethos, spirit and values of President George H. W. Bush. While in the Oval Office and throughout his long post-presidency, President Bush regarded China as a vital partner of the United States and the U.S.-China relationship as the single most important bilateral relationship in the world. President Bush advocated an approach to China that was clear-eyed and focused on long-term U.S. interests rather than the political winds of the moment. He sought a relationship with China that was functional, substantive, results-oriented, mutually beneficial and politically sustainable. Though President Bush loved the Chinese people, he didn't shy away from calling out, sometimes in blunt terms, Chinese policies and actions that he felt were misguided or inimical to the interests of the United States.

Message From Our President

We believe that virtually no major global challenge today can be resolved in any enduring sense in the absence of effective communication and cooperation between the United States and China. We emphatically reject the notion that China is the enemy of the United States, even as we view China as the most formidable overall national competitor the United States will face in the lifetime of every American alive today. Like President Bush, Foundation staff members have for many years expressed disagreement with, and leveled direct public criticism of, Chinese policies and actions on issues ranging from China's approach to Taiwan and Hong Kong, to China's human rights record and its handling of the Tiananmen protests in 1989, to China's trade and investment practices and, most recently, China's early response to COVID-19, among others.

Over the years, numerous former U.S. secretaries of state and national security advisors from both sides of the partisan aisle, along with multiple former members of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff and other notable Cabinet-level observers, have lauded the thought leadership of individuals who are now members of the Bush China Foundation staff team.

David J. Firestein, President & CEO

Though the terms of the U.S. debate on China have shifted dramatically over the last several years, the Bush China Foundation remains committed to its positioning in the "sensible center" of U.S.-China discourse and faithful to the vision of its namesake.

In July 2007, Scott Horton, an American attorney known for his work in human rights law and the law of armed conflict, had an article published in Harper's Magazine claiming that Prescott Bush was involved in the 1934 Business Plot, a failed plan by some of America's wealthy to overthrow President Franklin D. Roosevelt.[23]

However, no evidence from the source material of the congressional report, or from news reports at the time, make any mention of Bush's involvement.

The Business Plot (also called The White House Putsch)[1] [2] was a political conspiracy in 1933 in the United States to overthrow the government of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and install a dictator.[1] Retired Marine Corps Major General Smedley Butler asserted that wealthy businessmen were plotting to create a fascist veterans' organization with Butler as its leader and use it in a coup d'état to overthrow Roosevelt. In 1934, Butler testified under oath before the United States House of Representatives Special Committee on Un-American Activities (the "McCormack-Dickstein Committee") on these revelations.[3] No one was prosecuted.

At the time of the incidents, most major news media dismissed the plot, with a New York Times editorial characterizing it as a "gigantic hoax".[4] While historians have questioned whether or not a coup was actually

FEBRUARY 27 1961 President John F. Kennedy Meets with National Commander of French Free Mason founded American Legion Colonel William Burke

One week after February 20 1961 a meetign with Burke

On July 1, 1933, Butler met with MacGuire and Doyle for the first time. Gerald C. MacGuire was a $100-a-week bond salesman for Grayson Murphy ... Company[21][22] and a member of the Connecticut American Legion.[23][24] Bill Doyle was commander of the Massachusetts American Legion.[25] Butler stated that he was asked to run for National Commander of the American Legion.

American Legion

First and foremost an association for United States ex-servicemen, the American Legion was founded in Paris in 1919. As of 1993, there were little over 3 million members.

The American Legion is not a secret society in the classic sense, but is has initiatory rituals and a strong political agenda. Moreover, in some localities, American Legion membership consists entirely of freemasons.

By the 1920s, the Legion began to assume semiofficial status in federal government, which gave it certain surplus military equipment and granted it tax exemption on its building in Washington D.C. The Legion has historically exerted influence on local, state and federal legislators and was instrumental in securing GI and veterans' benefits. At any times, however, its right-wing > orientation motivated agitation for such intolerant legislative measures as a ban on citizenship on foreign-born Japanese (1920) and a push for legislation requiring all foreign-language newspapers to file translations with the U.S. Postmasters general.

> The American Legion Auxiliary is the ladies' branch of the organization and works in support of veterans' rights and welfare, especially for the wounded and the elderly.

On July 3 or 4, Butler held a second meeting with MacGuire and Doyle. He stated that they offered to get hundreds of supporters at the American Legion convention to ask for a speech.[27] MacGuire left a typewritten speech with Butler that they proposed he read at the convention. "It urged the American Legion convention to adopt a resolution calling for the United States to return to the gold standard, so that when veterans were paid the bonus promised to them, the money they received would not be worthless paper."[12] The inclusion of this demand further increased Butler's suspicion.

Around August 1, MacGuire visited Butler alone. Butler stated that MacGuire told him Grayson Murphy underwrote the formation of the American Legion in New York and Butler told MacGuire that the American Legion was "nothing but a strikebreaking outfit."[28] Butler never saw Doyle again.

In a December 6, 1992 sworn declaration, Russbacher described to me part of the CIA operations in which he was involved:

GUNTHER ROSSBACHER was also a pilot who checked out in the SR 71 blackbird…and he piloted G.H.W. BUSH across the Atlantic after Bush did his negotiations in the October Surprise. Rossbacher HAD HIS VIDEO CAMERA ON, AND TAPED

BUSH'S RIDE. Rossbacher was later neutralized with mind control. His wife is RAYELIN at her site, RUMOR MILL NEWS.

During my time of service within the Proprietary Operations Division of the Central Intelligence Agency, I was approached while using the assigned name of Robert Andrew Walker to initiate contact with a nationally prominent brokerage house. Alexander Litvinenko From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Alexander Valterovich Litvinenko (Russian: Алекса́ндр Ва́льтерович Литвине́нко, IPA: [elʲɪˈksandr ˈvaltɨrəvʲɪtɕ lʲɪtvʲɪˈnʲɛnkə]; 30 August 1962[2][3] or 4 DECEMBER 1962 by father's account[4] - 23 November 2006) was a British-naturalised Russian defector and former officer of the Russian FSB secret service who specialised in tackling organized crime.[1][5] According to US diplomats, Litvinenko coined the phrase "mafia state".[6]

In November 1998, Litvinenko and several other FSB officers publicly accused their superiors of ordering the assassination of the Russian tycoon and oligarch Boris Berezovsky. Litvinenko was arrested the following March on charges of exceeding the authority of his position. He was acquitted in NOVEMBER 1999 but re-arrested before the charges were again dismissed in 2000. He fled with his family to London and was granted asylum in the United Kingdom, where he worked as a journalist, writer and consultant for the British intelligence services.

During his time in Boston, Lincolnshire, Litvinenko wrote two books, Blowing Up Russia: Terror from Within and Lubyanka Criminal Group, wherein he accused the Russian secret services of staging the Russian apartment bombings and other terrorism acts in an effort to bring Vladimir Putin to power. He also accused Putin of ordering the murder in October 2006 of the Russian journalist Anna Politkovskaya.

On 1 November 2006, Litvinenko suddenly fell ill and was hospitalised in what was established as a case of poisoning by radioactive polonium-210; he died from the poisoning on 23 NOVEMBER. He became the first known victim of lethal polonium 210-induced acute radiation syndrome.[7] The events leading up to this are a matter of controversy, spawning numerous theories relating to his poisoning and death. A British murder investigation pointed to Andrey Lugovoy, a former member of Russia's Federal Protective Service, as the prime suspect. The United Kingdom demanded that Lugovoy be extradited, which is against the Constitution of Russia, which prohibits[8] extradition of Russian citizens. Russia denied the extradition, which led to the straining of relations between Russia and the United Kingdom.

After Litvinenko's death, Marina Litvinenko, aided by biologist Alexander Goldfarb, pursued a vigorous campaign through the Litvinenko Justice Foundation. In October 2011, she won the right for an inquest into her husband's death to be conducted by a coroner in London; the inquest was repeatedly set back by issues relating to examinable evidence.[9] A public inquiry began on 27 January 2015,[10] and concluded in January 2016 that Litvinenko's murder was an FSB operation that was probably personally approved by both Vladimir Putin and Nikolai Patrushev who was then Director of FSB.[11][12]

In the chapter Gangtalk: CIA Predation on Citizens via CIA-Asset Criminals I use this description of the Gangstalk ,and all of this the CIA doing cleanup of genetic evidence tied to CIA misconduct under illegal science and Masonary genome lines of hidden identities.

GOAD

1. stab or urge on as if with a pointed stick
2. urge with or as if with a goad
3. goad or provoke, as by constant criticism
4. give heart or courage to

A goad is a pointy stick or other instrument used to prod something along. To goad is to poke something with that pointy stick. Either way, the pointiness is really essential for making things leap into action.

Originally spelled gad, meaning “spearhead,” goad first came into use as a verb in the 1570s. But say you left your pointy goading stick at home. Have no fear! You can goad people with words, too. Literally or figuratively, a goad prods and pokes and provokes people into doing something. A sheep herder might hustle his flock along with a goad, just as your mom’s constant nagging and goading might finally get you sit up straight at the dinner table.

“FIGHT PICKING” DEFINED BY ED DONEGAN AS HE HAS EXPEREINCED FROM OTHERS

Evidence planters, those I am already senstitive to (allergic to) such as criminals, pedophiles, gang members, race baiters, assault children in front of me, perhaps their own. At the scene and later in civil claims against me will Goad me as an alleged lover of children being seuxallized, and also goad me they robbed my trust fund of what I wanted as was for me but sucefully stolen from me, my mother, and the trust fund itself. The puplic the goading is the Judged victor over me but in fact it was larceny based false claims which deemed them to rightful parties to good standing and property claims.

The publicly visible goading of me as actually Propoganda claims to the public that they are in the right and I am in the wrong, but they assailantes dare not explicitly articlate that anywhere near me unless they are forging electronic communications with me.

I believe this is also have my elderly father was drawn into pscyh ward, a fight, and that then his death covered with bruises.

The true art of step four is the theory that a criminal prosecution can not occur for various reasons but SOCIAL revenge if kept secret is the best way to get revenge for what is in secret known about a person.

DISRUPT [ED DONEGAN'S POSITIVE AND HEALTH BRINGING HEALTHY ACTIVITIES]

Disrupt goes back to the Latin root disrumpere, "to break apart." When you disrupt, you break someone's concentration, break up a routine, or break apart a system or order, as when bad weather disrupts the travel plans of people in airports. Even if your headphones keep the music in your ears only, singing out loud can disrupt those around you. A larger interruption would be if a war were to erupt. That would disrupt the peace of an entire region and its people. [As in Edward Donegan's gym usage by minors planted near me claiming to be exploited thus coming between and me and normal gym atmosphere]

To disrupt is to interrupt or throw something into disorder. If you don't turn your phone off before a play, it might ring and disrupt the actors and the audience.

1. make a break in Synonyms: break up, cut off, interrupt break, break off, discontinue, stop
2. throw into disorder "This event disrupted the orderly process"
3. interfere in someone else's activity

THE DISRUPTION OF EDWARD DONEGAN'S ACTIVITIES

Photo bombs of minors around me, acting in outlandish and provocative ways, make my presence a risk to me as I will be blamed for the narrow view of the scene, me and the tot, and not the larger picture of the minor being planted in my vicinity by others

Forged electronic communications and others who represent the minors being exploited send claims to my trust fund representatives to settle the claims of the minors create a direct path to my trust fund which they wanted available for claims, and the trust fund likes them better than me.

I assert the Trust Fund was move into place to be available for false claims against a family line they wanted rights to.

I am not a psycho, not retarded, nor a pedophile, nor a racist but I am in these areas in provoked fights all my life which sets up that I need an conservator who will pay my imagined debts to minority victims who are also represented by my trust fund.

Te Killing Fields laboratory Ecosystem to Preempt of Racism While Both Generating it and Studying it

Mendel, pea plants were fundamental in allowing him to understand the means by which traits are inherited between parent and offspring. He chose pea plants because they were easy to grow, could be bred rapidly, and had several observable characteristics

For the human brain and later brain evolution only human brains could be studied and then over generations of testing.

MKULTRA long underway it used the rights to genome to both fund preemption of racism by assaulting people and while doing that get funded by alleging the victim of the assault harmed the racial groups assaulting the white guy, me, tbus the assailants in the goading attack on me are able to fund the study of racism by goading me with false claims of their victims.

This creates as army of now funded and incentivized struggling racial groups who can operate in a black opps black budget sphere with high level CIA support though the funding source is a based on racketeering in the killing fields ecosystem in which the mercenaries are paid off to be self style justice seekers in harassment of a white establishment person with deep pockets.

“I don’t have to worry about the federal budge deficit. It is big enough to take care of itself.” - Ronald Reagan

The DARPA Program can survive not because it is error free, but because it has the necessary Superpowers to overcome its errors, including continuing subversion of its victims.

THe long war on racism meant funding via assets siezures and keeping “racism” out of law much like tearing down Confederate statues.

I think john Browns 21st Century War is funded by US v $323K dollars, my trust fund, and is a wetworks war against the old Oceania establishment and its singular claim to beneficial genetics.

The premise of this book is White House Plumbers and Media Cronies are seizing genome rights which if moved into orphanage work will aid foreign economies and this ties to ongoing evidence plants and THEN seizures based on intelligence estimates of NDAA criminal activities detection and disruption, disruption by seizing the assets for victims use, not the criminal's usage and this is tied to the DARPA Brain program around the world.

The Subversion of me is meant to look like a racial matter since racial predators, Confidential Informants working for Espionage, have been thrown at me and it is supposed to look like a Pedophilia matter since teens and tots are thrown at me.

If State back assets 1) create fights, create incriminating racial or exploitation of minors fights with me and then 2) blame me for the fights the public will then back the State in that fight and likely any other fights or discrimination as well.

I call this Anti Heroes, those planting minors at the scene make a spectacle about shouting it out that I ma there and as I react in anger to them it only bolsters their claims to the public they are the heroes and I am the villain, bolstering their theatrics polarizing the public towards them and away from me.

Propaganda has the elements of being public, as public as possible while also being deceitful and able to be suggestively incorrect as needed by the propagandist to cover the wrong doing of the person offering the propaganda to the public.

Later in this book I will go into Braggadocio as a word and that the spectacle of seeming neighbor watch physical acts of bravado actually are just propaganda that they in the search for "the real exploiter" when in fact it was them all along.

Jen Moore told the truth. This is about the Free Masons covering up the truth of MKULTRA and the Manhattan Project and as she says in her YouTube videos and the masons themselves say this includes the Kennedy Assassination, of some importance to the USA as well as "Fountain of Youth" black market frontiers in genetics and biological science .

Thus foreign economies and White Supremacist genome is conceivably tied to Judge Roll and Justice Scalia.

This book is about my life as a USA Citizen under MKULTRA attack by the NWO plans of MKULTRA operating out of Middle East North Africa (MENA) Airport and Fee Masons support of assassination, murder, and illegal activities which continue the Illuminati Masons bungle of history so far and what the Masons, the families of MKULTRA are hiding from the public.

These Illuminati NWO families are the shot callers of Blackwater hits and illegal gangs and the Show Runners of the US Media world, both the gangs and the media running cover up for these operations, stenciling whistle bowers with the term “Conspiracy Theories” which promote “Dabd Tendencies” for those who believe the Conspiracy Theories about these Free Masons..

> “Gang Stalking” is, very likely, a disinformation term created by U.S. intelligence agencies. It refers to the intense, long-term, unconstitutional surveillance and harassment of a person who has been designated as a target by someone associated with America’s security industry.
>
> Such operations have nothing to do with criminal gangs. Official domestic counterintelligence operations of this type are - apparently - perpetrated by federal agents and contractors, sometimes with the support of state and local law enforcement personnel. The goal of such operations - in the parlance of counterintelligence agents - is to “subvert” or “neutralize” an individual deemed to be an enemy (or potential enemy) of clients or members of the security state. Arguably, the most accurate term for this form of harassment would be “counterintelligence stalking.”

Subversion of me involves reproductive and genetics issues still tied to MKULTRA and my rather in Atomic Blast Testing and the Manhattan Project of Manhattan Beach.

“False Heroes” Gangstalkers are usually drawn from outlaw biker gangs, street gangs, prison gangs, or other ghetto sources who are willing to both plant evidence and while in illegal access to premises steal property [such as book manuscripts] and become false heroes as the janitor, landlord company or building supervisor, who really found “something out” about someone while changing the sheets, doing a service repair call to the apartment, etc., usually while the tenant is not present.

Compelled Propelled Act
Compelled	Propelled	Property
	Steal the book because it is of worth (possible stand alone motive)	Real Ed Donegan’s book
Unless the above theft occurs the a plot to undermine Ed will fail

False Heroes needed an anti-hero for their struggle, their heroic acts to look real thus the vilification of me by their planting evidence and creating incriminating circumstances.

The character of the evidence plants was inconsistent though with Tom Dunham or myself

The evidence plants are consistent with the needs of harassers of Tom Dunbam who entangle with us on the basis of evidence plants (Abuse of Process) and during that entanglement utilize the copied assets of Tom Dunham and myself because as alleged heroes seem better choices to society than Ton Dhunam or myself.

Elsewhere in the book I use this list of legitimate and phony investigations.

Methods Employed for sex abuse of a person by predators

Most sexual predators are skilled sales people who know how to get you to trust them and hand over control of a situation to them. They know how to disarm you, influence your choices, and determine your decisions for you. If you feel that somebody is trying to sell you on a course of action, and is persistent in their attempts to do so, then you are most likely in the presence of a predatory individual, and should do what you can to disengage from the situation you are in. A person should be judged by their behaviors and actions regardless of whether they are a friend, an acquaintance, or even a family member - statistically you are more likely to be assaulted by someone belonging to one of these groups than by a stranger e.g. if a friend of your boyfriend/partner comes to your home at a time when they know he won't be around, be equally suspicious of them as you would be with a stranger who turned up on your doorstep.

Gavin De Becker, identifies seven behaviors, actions, or methods that predatory individuals use to disarm or groom you, these are:

- Charm & Niceness
- Too Much Information (being flashed)
- Discounting the word "No"
- Typecasting (in my case suggesting "Ed Donegan wanted it")

- Loan Sharking (alleging I “took the bait” and actually some else did impersonating me was the “bad risk” who did wrong)
- Forced Teaming (adding others to my environment)
- Unsolicited Promises

Any individual who wants to groom you first has to gain access to you. We can use the example of a friend of your partner/boyfriend coming to your house at an unexpected time, when they would know you will be alone - something which should be questioned in and of itself. If a person we know starts to behave and act in an unfamiliar way, we should automatically be suspicious of what these changes mean e.g. if that person used to be hostile but is now being friendly, we should question why this is, rather than simply be relieved that (present and) future awkward social situations have been avoided. Niceness is not a character trait, it is a way of behaving, and predatory individuals can learn how to appear as “nice” people. I taught my 6 year old son how to be polite, how to say “please” and “thank you”, he was not born with these words in his mouth, he learn’t them. People can learn how to be nice, and although we associate niceness, and to a lesser extent politeness, with good intentions, the two aren’t actually the same.

> In my case, Edward Paul Donegan, the sexual abuse [of me} Predator will make the unsolicited prpmise they were only talking about the groceries or pizza I ordered and there is nothing to worry about, nothing else is intoned or planned.

The unsolicited promise. When somebody makes a “promise” to you in order to address an obvious concern that you have, but haven’t yet voiced, they are using a sales technique/method known as “closing the doors behind you.”

A predator will know that there will be a request they make of you, which you will feel uneasy with and will want to deny them. By assuring you that no harm will come to you, they are attempting to close a door behind you, which you could have used to exit the situation.

Law Enforcement Versus Subversion (espionage Honey Pot Blackmails over Honey Trap)

Subversion of my marital life and trust fund from my mother's side but why?

Law Enforcement Paid Informant Wall-off of Suspect

The true art of step four is the theory that a criminal prosecution can not occur for various reasons but SOCIAL revenge if kept secret is the best way to get revenge for what is in secret known about a person.

Step 4 has often, usually, been going to a psychiatric examiner behind my back with forged evidence and deceitful information than not transporting me to hearings or allowing me the court proceeding materials of which I the stakeholder was left out of.

In this book I will utilize reliable data on Subversion that if a community can be financially or otherwise bought off it may go along with Subversives and gain from it.

THe blind conservator may be another place bogus information is presented to in my absence.

This is the Masonary system of Rough Music, having secret enemies and plausibly deniable rough treatment of a person in public that is Masonic Harassment, sometimes if the police have masonic ties the harassment is under Color of Law as it has been with me.

The subversion of the husband and marriage work upon the police picking fights, under cover with husband also using the frame of husband behind his back with his wife who now keeps company with the police, not husband, but keeps secret of what police said to her.

The protagonists here were the anti heroes disguising themselves as heroes in their defeat of what are actually false flag criminal activity they themselves, the protagonists, created using their own victims as gambits to be victims near Tom Dunham or myself or near the property of Tom Dunham or myself.

Non verbally these paid actors make it look like I am following a child by placing them near or around me and non verballly they air punch me as if I harmed the child by making child porn of it. This is a way of making false claims later elsewhere, my trust fund, which the public appearance of seeming events support.

Repeatedly I have been institutionalized for fighting against this and the press and State deny the operation where an impersonator of me forges my identity to offend and confess while in my identity.

It appears to be what Jen Moore and others called Pizza-gate where it seems “I [Edward Donegan] had a scum bag “provider” put a minor in my present to photograph, but the impersonator of me who did “take tbe [jail] bait, also an adult, will be caught with the pictures when an adult entertainer, called in my name, will catch that person with the child porn, and claim my DNA can then be re-assigned to victims and victims funds, a ‘money shot” paid to the exploited.

Use of sex offenders to surround me both create the appearance I am sex offender and blurs their acts with mine since we are both near the minor being exploited by photograph of provocative pose.

This very “found” evidence in one apartment prevents the deal from going through on other apartments, at least I have found that to be the case now stuck in the ghetto.

“Targeted Victims” as Jen Moore called them, us, me, law abiding citizens, are attacked by Blackwater CIA Mercenaries security-types in illegal operations using street criminals as assets, the CIA used to harass people, to plant defaming evidence on, etc., and under various *excuse*s hiding their real motives which this book exposes, covering up the errors of big names in politics and security errors they made.

I list some of the very big names with things to hide in the chapter and as Jen Moore said big names, the very most powerful of the elite are running the Gangstalk.

I say these elites are tied to the 1961 events of my birth and in the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit “Fusion Centers” of the NDAA Disposition Matrix asset seizures system including the one at 555 Tancahua Corpus Christi are tied to Hillary Clinton and MENA, Alma Powell Auditory Therapy Colin Powell Boston, 1961, Catholic Charities, the Obama family, all also tied to my birth and wrongful 1961 and beyond use of my DNA by people like Herman Edward Butt.

Some of these names are in section of the book Abuse of Witnesses (me and Jen Moore) to Politician Misconduct section of the book in quick description form but also are in the detailed history in the 2,000 or so pages of the chapters leading up to that.

The detractors or foes of political enemies of politicians seem to fall on hard times, like Adnan Khashoggi, Michael Hastings, his girlfriend his fiancée Andrea Parhamovich or others family with “biolgical weapons” (genomic medicines) in use in the Middle East to stabilize nations and that connection to the origins of Obama under that same program (#Truther).

The media will back the government operation and even help suppress information the operation is going on.

I classify these stalkers operated by the CIA as “lumpenproletariat” using Carl Marx’s term and his definition as a group willing to be bribed into misconduct.

> essentially parasitical group was largely the remains of older, obsolete stages of social development, and that it could not normally play a progressive role in history [on its own.] Indeed, because it acted only out of socially ignorant self-interest, the lumpenproletariat was easily bribed by reactionary forces and could be used to combat the true proletariat

I have been through violent assaults by these people, CIA backed, and with little recourse and frequently I am blamed for the confrontations or the illegal acts of the riff raff themselves, as dopples of me, collecting witness accounts I am a bad person who should be sunned (subversion of me in society.).

Jen Moore came to my defense and the defense of my deceased mother, also attacked, and I think the CIA killed her for outing the CIA operation and black budget and block opps the stalkers use, an underground riff raff network of black marketing the rights to my genome in a biological rights trafficking network among adult entertainers ala operation Midnight Climax of the CIA in massage parlors during the history of MKULTRA.

I had wondered why I was targeted and subject to Espionage operations and I traced it to my fathers and mothers military service and the DARPA DOD NASA need to coverup the Space Race and Nuclear Triad disaster of the Cuba and Pacific Missile Crisis, that two decades after the the atomic bombing of Japan my father was a part of, and that later crisis between Cuban and Chinese missiles during my birth under continuing Manhattan Project work at Manhattan Beech California in a Catholic/CIA operated DNA results testing hospital.

Finally, after much of my life through family information and public records and even a movie analogy I found what is the true story of my life and comparison in a well known movie.

Treat Williams as Colonel Fitzgerald has the “duty” of covering up radiation testing affects and operations disasters of the Manhattan Project area (Los Angeles police and across the border to Nevada) and the coverups involve murders of those whose existence could expose the truth of what really happened during the Atomic Proving Ground Dept of Energy operation and is disastrous medical fallout history.

My Sword broken, hers strong, for her to me, my Strength

> “In going where you have to go, and doing what you have to do, and seeing what you have to see, you’ll dull and blunt the instrument you write with. But I would rather have it bent and dull and know I had to put it to the grindstone again and hammer it into shape and put a whetstone to it, and know that I had something to write about, than to have it bright and shining and nothing to say, or smooth and well-oiled in the closet, but unused.” - Ernest Hemingway

It was from her to me I found the deeper answers, the deeper truths, the deeper understanding, and the meaning of courage, that in her.

I had a number of conversations about courage with my father and he was qualified to speak on the topic.

James Paul Donegan was raised in what he called “the wrong side of the tracks” Boston and dreamed while painting under age worker status to help out the household to one day fly *.

At the outbreak of WWII he signed up right away and become a member of the Army Air Corps. My best guess is he flew reconnaissance before, during, or after the nuclear bombings of Japan because he was in the Manhattan Project above ground (blast exposure) testing in Nevada and Simi Valley California and Johnson Atol of Hawaii and i was born under that Manhattan Bomb development Los Alamos atomic center, Manhattan Beach (which is 10 miles from Venice Beach) California in an Inglewood neighborhood Jesuit hospital under extensive testing.

During his military service he flew the recon version of the P-51 which he told me could only take pictures, and that the cameras were wired up to the normal gun firing controls thus replacing gun firing function in the controls as well as plane equipment.

This 209-acre section of the Field Lab was dedicated to nuclear research including the development and testing of experimental nuclear reactors. Over the course of four decades, Area IV would be home to 10 reactors, a plutonium fuel fabrication facility, a uranium fuel facility and a "hot lab" for remotely cutting up dangerous radioactive material.

The rest of the site, more than 2,000 acres was used for the testing and development of rocket engines for the U.S. space program and for advanced weapons research. During its operational history, more than 30,000 rocket engine tests were conducted at SSFL.

Starfish Prime was a July 9, 1962, high-altitude nuclear test conducted by the United States, a joint effort of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and the Defense Atomic Support Agency. It was launched from Johnston Atoll (near Hawaii atomic proving "ground") and was the largest nuclear test ...

THE F-6 AND RF-51 TACTICAL RECONNAISSANCE MUSTANGS

Photographic reconnaissance and mapping aircraft are critical assets to successful military combat operations. In the Second World War, there were fifteen aircraft specifically created for photographic reconnaissance and mapping duties. Some were armed, some were unarmed. But all were of the utmost importance to the war effort.

To meet this challenge, the US Army Air Forces procured a relatively large number of photographic reconnaissance aircraft that were designated with the prefix F for Photo (graphic).

These photo-recce aircraft (as they were called) were created from attack, bomber and pursuit airplanes. Since the Mustang was a fast, well-armed pursuit airplane, the USAAF opted to procure a total of 481 tactical reconnaissance Mustangs up until VJ Day. For the most part, these Mustangs were manufactured on the Inglewood (Los Angles County) and Dallas production lines with special fuselage openings, behind which were specially built bays to house the cameras they carried.

> Speaking as Edward Paul Donegan here "Centinela Freeman Regional Medical Center, Memorial Campus was > a hospital that was located at 333 N. Prairie Ave, Inglewood, is my place of birth and JFK seemed to have been there.”

They were then sent to various modification centres (mod centres) for their respective camera installation processes. Since the Mustang was the sixth in the series of photo-recce aircraft, the first variant was designated F-6A followed by the F-6B, F-6C, F-6D and F-6K. All of the photo-recce aircraft were also known as ‘Foto Joes’. These various photo-recce aircraft included the Fairchild F-1, Beech F-2, Douglas F-3, Lockheed F-4, Lockheed F-5, North American F-6, Consolidated F-7, De Havilland F-8, Boeing F-9, North American F-10, Hughes F-11, Republic F-12, Boeing F-13, Lockheed F-14 and Northrop F-15. Of these, however, it was only the F-4, F-5, F-6, F-7, F-9 and F-13 that were most widely used.

It was a tactical reconnaissance Mustang that became just the second USAAF Mustang variant to be used in a combat situation. On 9 April 1943, a lone P-51-2-NA (41-37328) flown by Lt. Alfred C. Schwab Jr. of the 154th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron flew an armed reconnaissance mission from its base in Tunisa, North Africa, whereby he successfully photographed the enemy-held Kairouan Aerodrome and returned without incident. This also marked the first time that a USAAF P-51 was used in combat. This P-51-2-NA and seventy-three others were re-designated F-6A-1-NA in late 1943. The first six P-51-2-NA Mustangs to arrive came to the 154TRS seven days earlier on 2 April 1943. On the next day during training maneuvers near the base, one of the 154TRS P-51s crashed killing its pilot Lt. Howard Kenner. These P-51s, said to closely resemble Bf 109s by some, had yellow stripes painted on their outer wings to help identify them as USAAF Mustangs. (Although the first USAAF P-51 Mustangs to see operational service were with the 154th TRS, after only a few weeks, the aircraft were transferred to the 68th Observation Group, 111th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron.)

Columbia University Private university in New York City, New York

Columbia University is a private Ivy League research university in New York City. Established in 1754 on the grounds of Trinity Church in Manhattan, Columbia is the oldest institution of higher education in New York and the fifth-oldest institution of higher learning in the United States. Wikipedia

Columbia was awarded the first federal contract to explore the use of atomic power for energy, or for bombs, and had the first atomic pile. Because the work was done for the government, most records relating to what is now known as the Manhattan Project are under the custody of the National Archives. For example, they hold the records of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Department of Energy releases declassified Manhattan Project-related reports and documents on its OpenNet website. This searchable database includes bibliographical references to all documents declassified and made publicly available after October 1, 1994. Some documents can be viewed as full text. This website also provides a comprehensive Manhattan District History.

To start your research into Columbia's role in the Manhattan Project, read Laurence Lippsett's article "The race to make the bomb. The Manhattan Project: Columbia's wartime secret." The article appeared in Columbia College Today, Spring/Summer 1995, 18-21, 45.

> Columbia College Today THE R ACE TO MAKE THE BOMB The Manhattan Project: wartime secret *

Unless you pay me for yet another book or are tied to a chair and can not get away I will not tell you some of the many stories I have heard from my father or his friends or my mother but I will select a few stories here, stories of courage, and a story of fear.

My father stood there as Atomic Blast from a tower in Nevada, looking into it. It was necessary so he did it. He fought WWII bravely to save many from mass murder, like sailors, like the Army, not fighting at home, fighting inside enemy territory, in Harm's Belly.

Fear. He would toss and turn sweating at night my mother used to tell, as I was young and he was a TWA pilot. It never left him when he flew over civilian space what if he had gotten target selection wrong, what if his work or his errors led to the bombing of civilians?

Today they call that thing Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.

What I find is a triangle between him, Albert Epstein, and Jen Moore.

I hope I use the word digressing properly here. My father used to tell me all glamor is fleeting.

Truth, doing the right thing, they were never disposable to him, they were not negotiable. Perhaps the cynic in him, perhaps the love and respect for others in him, be never tried to leave the earth or be above, nor tried to conquer it.

Just be himself in it, be true to himself and to others, and let that drive him.

To Jen Moore and to James P. Donegan they were deeply connected to others and service to them.

Life is always hard, the outcomes can be painful and ill-fated as well as joyous. Neither Jen Moore nor he could fully control the world, but they were in control of themselves and whatever world they would ever live in the were relaxed at home with themselves and the decisions they made in life.

In my life the struggle has been to try and get out the filthy toilet bowl of Homeless Shelter Corpus Christi including being attacked with feces, death threats and attacks when I use the library, write books, or join meet-up on high tech, etc.,

It is my belief that

- The US Government and DARPA and various officials realize my mother by Mitochondria and other means will be identified as Kutschera/ Windsor descendent
- The US Government and DARPA and various officials wish to create a Racism and Psycho legend of my mother and I who are loyal to the USA and embroiled in provocations we have no originating roles in.,

By personality appearances and by DNA tracking we are being cut away from many similar people in the USA who are compassionate and thoughtful leaders.

In about 2007, inexplicably, I was formally threatened by a hostile black person who should not even know who I was and the threat was “We are going to cut your balls off and fuck Jessica Simpson with them” as he had a picture of Jessica Simpson in a bikini.

The system employed was copying my cultural and intellectual standing and worth as Brain Study and at the same time those assailant researchers trying to beat me out with that standing and worth of my own to others.

This book is not about, alone, the consistent events surrounding Nueces County Texas, its District Attorney Mark Gonzales, its federal district court CIA tied magistrates, the fight against white supremacism by US Marshalls in the area, nor the events cited as occurring in Nueces Texas but rather the long life these same events and of death threats to me by unidentified black predators who have threatened to kill any white woman (of reproductive age) near me or me if I were to go near white females of reproductive age, and the bizarre ability of the Gangstalk to get public co-operation with any of this under several conflicting and untrue “Legends’ which falsely justify the motive for their racially hostile acts and falsify the foundations of those racially hostile and human rights offensive acts.

I have spent my life “inexplicably” surrounded by non whites engaging and bragging about racial hostility towards me, in the private sector and public sector. For much of my life I thought at least if this happened in front of the public there would be some recourse to the intensive egregiousness of it, but not at all, and the press and public are happy observers of the activity. Jen Moore found this baffling as well.

Mr. Bovard revisits the standoff involving white seperatist Randy Weaver at Ruby Ridge Excerpt of article here

20 Years Ago at Ruby Ridge: FBI Sniper Slays Mother Holding her Baby by Jim on August 22, 2012Quote retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Randy Weaver lived with his wife and four children in an isolated cabin on Ruby Ridge in the Idaho mountains, 40 miles south of the Canadian border. Mr. Weaver did not favor violence against any other race, but believed that the races should live separately. Because of his extreme beliefs, he was targeted for a sting operation.

In 1989, an undercover agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms approached Mr. Weaver and pressured the mountain man to sell him sawed-off shotguns. Mr. Weaver at first refused, but the agent was persistent and Mr. Weaver eventually sold him two shotguns - thereby violating federal firearms law. A court official sent Mr. Weaver a notice to appear in court on the wrong day; after Mr. Weaver did not show up on the correct date, a Justice Department attorney (who knew of the error) got a warrant for his arrest. Federal agents then launched an elaborate 18-month surveillance of Mr. Weaver's cabin and land.

David Nevin, a defense lawyer involved in the subsequent court case, noted later: "The U.S. marshals called in military aerial reconnaissance and had photos studied by the Defense Mapping Agency… . They had psychological profiles performed and installed $130,000 worth of solar-powered long-range spy cameras. They intercepted the Weavers' mail. They even knew the menstrual cycle of Weaver's teenage daughter, and planned an arrest scenario around it."

On Aug. 21, 1992, six heavily armed, camouflaged U.S. marshals sneaked onto Mr. Weaver's property. Three agents threw rocks to get the attention of Mr. Weaver's dogs. As Mr. Weaver's 14-year-old son, Sammy, and Kevin Harris, a 25- year-old family friend living in the cabin, ran to see what the dogs were barking at, U.S. marshals killed one of the dogs. Sammy Weaver fired his gun in the direction the shots had come from. Randy Weaver came out and hollered for his son to come back to the cabin. Sammy yelled, "I'm coming, Dad," and was running back to the cabin when a federal marshal shot him in the back and killed him.

Kevin Harris responded to Sammy's shooting by fatally shooting a U.S. marshal. Federal agents falsely testified in court that the U.S. marshal had been killed by the first shot of the exchange; evidence later showed that the marshal had fired seven shots before he was shot himself.

Many days, many years of my life have been spent assaulted by homeless people telling me there is a sniper with a gun to my head as they assault me, and this is US Marshalls tied.

At least 10 times that, maybe fifteen. I am told I will be killed / my throat cut if I use a library or an near white female, and by assailants known to provoke resentment in me, attempting to initiate a fight with me. I was radiological attacked and watched stealth operations against my parents and espionage and hits on those I know so I consider threats against me credible.

I have watched police an sheriffs negotiate with the homeless, deals in which the assailants will be granted degrees, jobs, other OJT credit for psychical assaults on me and those same homeless people have told me of snipers out for me and contract killing deals made with gang members by police.

I have written many letters, lawsuits, web sites, and books but so far the result has been intransigent Institutional co-operation with the active assaults on me..

My brother Tom Donegan and Mark Wierness his gay partner long faked that my mother and I were mentally incompetent and at her death hid pictures of her “performing group” (black faced) from her childhood, etc., Jen Moore talked about the evil of those with nice hair cuts I think a reference I made to interior designer Mark Weirness as a hair dresser at times. Jen Moore was a defender of my mother and me or perhaps the haircuts of religious groups who have preyed upon the rights to me genome by faking flaws in me which is the theory of how their own have been victimized.

Jen Moore is among the many who faced and then fell to the death threats, carried out, by these violent predators tied to MKULTRA and lethal Espionage operations and COINTELPRO.

Only with her Sword now mine can I fight. And fight who? The upper echeolons of power and CIA DARPA history.

echelon: noun Quote retrieved from Dictionary.com and copied or modified to here Power itself.

echelon: noun

- A level of command, authority, or rank: After years of service, she is now in the upper echelon of city officials.
- a level of worthiness, achievement, or reputation:
- studying hard to get into one of the top echelon colleges.
- Military. a formation of troops, ships, airplanes, etc., in which groups of soldiers or individual vehicles or craft are arranged in parallel lines, either with each line extending to the right of the one in front (right echelon) or with each line extending to the left of the one in front (left echelon), so that the whole presents the appearance of steps.

- Military. one of the groups of a formation so arranged.

Archaic. any structure or group of structures arranged in a steplike form.

And I need to. She was seeking some sort of Safe House for me to protect me from falsely premised espionage lethal assaults on me and those assaults also run in Truckee and Lincoln Nevada on my father and mother, both of which Jen Moore referenced as Gangstalking.

I have been the subject through my life of foundation-less, usually anonymous and non verbal assault and violent physical assault of my property and person, both racial and sexual assault, seeming as racial rage against me (as IF I peeped at or harmed non white children) but in these false claims and the assaults predicated on false claims assailants praise themselves publicly for assaulting me and hide the bizarre and confused racial envy of me, me the hoity toity white establishment Trump supporter type on Alt Right social media like StormFront.org who like Japanese stranded on an island are still fighting WWII.

They assaulted their own children using my identity to give those children DNA rights from me I would not agree to but their churches claim to represent my DNA and us it to transfer my DNA into their religious groups to compensate false claims.

This is religious in nature as these types from inner city religious workers, goodwill stores, Metro churches, etc., join in on framing me and claiming my DNA for alleged harm done to their community of people and children and claim superiority, as the true criminals, blaming the Atheist with higher standard in erotic ethics than they have.

There are few who are attacking me and forcing me into the system as my asset managers who in the course of my life I have not defended well including with technology and multimedia projects such as WWII soldiers, most leftist viewed as some Fox News right wing religious military big spending Tea Party Patriots cause, which I instead embraced (as an atheist not a military crusader) the WWII defender sof gays against Lavender Triangle Nazi abuse of gays, thus making WIII soldiers a wider fan demographic.

Because all my life I have done those things for those groups, groups I have defended they now assault me, victimize me as white establishment person, frame me for my motives, and use my work in defense of them as their activism product and of the merit of their standing and thus their right to assault to be treated as a repugnant alien.

The far deeper need to discredit me and move attention which would have, unsolicited come to me, toward others instead.

My DNA tied to the Windsor family, also the Vontrapps and Jen Moore and my documentation of that make up this book, the racketeering of genome, and religious and sexual abuse upon which the litigation will occur over, who initiated it, who settles the debts said to exist, and how.

Effectively I need to be bad husband material and discredited, others sucking up any oxygen which might reach me, a criminal harassment system of sabotaging me to others, literally being battle for the keyboard i am using, the bed I am in and how should be in it, etc., as i loose out to the competing espionage backed competitors gangstalking my activities.

In my isolated and disavowed discredited even homeless conditions other can claim my assets, genetic assets that are mine, and in this book, I trace back into history of genealogy.

I believe DARPA, the CIA, and others are trying to use mercenary, even race based assaults upon me and my mother in a Gagntalkt to coverup espionage mistakes history against my family

“Race, Sex Offender, or Atomic Veteran?” Ploy

Espionage Agencies Targeting of me		The mistakes NWO MKULTRA are covering up
Public Hatred of White Supremacy	Public Hatred of Pedophiles	Public Support of Atomic Veterans
Seizing Genes on the basis of White Supremacism for use with vulnerable populations who are threatend by the White	Planting that evidence as Black Nationalism to provoke retaliation legal and social claims, and as Character Assassination	Permissions were never given to my mother's Genome during Manahttan Project, Targeted now for use and fake permissions, secret projects dispersing them
Blacks have been punching me all my life, physically, air punch, attitude, or discriminatory treatment of me starting a fight I never understood	Tot and Teen Abuse Ring created around me I am not in	Sidney Gottlieb huh?
I might die in this fight or end up in a homeless shelter a victim of unprovoked attacks because others are incited against me on manufactured "Legend" (false back-stories about me) predicates for assaults.	I might die in this fight or end up in a homeless shelter	DARPA, The CIA, FBI, DOJ who misused DNA and Free Masons may die in this fight over their illegal and unethical conduct.
MKUTRA, Race Wars, and the Manhatan Project --- I am a Targeted Individual of Targeted Gangstalking of state backed criminal assailants attacking me with not only impunity but State backing and State pay for the criminal assailants of me		My father and mother had their DNA misused during the Cold War and espionage agencies are now targeting me illegal with violent assaults
Underneath all of this has been secret tapping of genome into Illuminati and SJW causes by excuse against me, or deceit of my father and mother. I believe the IVF of me made him the Manchurian Candidate whose lab fertilization of me also was used to create Barack Obama from Donegan DNA, and other Illuminati projects use of that DNA as well.

Mechanism for the seizure: An Uber driver, etc., will say “your adult entertainer is on the way.” That same person or another will later go meet that adult entertainer and as me, in ny identity, say “I am a pedophile and I owe my genome to exploited females and exploited religions.” They will then receive rights to my genome, and blame me to the public using the forged confession behind my own back.

The scheme creates a theory that my genes were signed away under extortion to places I would not (and did not) authorize, but people go along with the racket for several reasons, like socially good use of the genes and defaming a white supremacist as having a secret sexual fascination with non white victims, other victims like minors of any race. Many just say what is the harm, he doesn’t even know his genome was signed away to the poor.

This continues 60 year illegal usage of my genome, never stopping.

Other reason peole go along with is to be blackmailed, as me, by a sex worker, or being paid a bounty or deputized form catching a crime, the crime is them in my identity committing a crime. What Richard Jewel was accused of.

Special Needs versus Pooled Trust and my Genome genetics rights usage trafficked/laundered through Behavioral Health Care of DARPA and the CIA

The value of Special Needs trust bled by filing law suits intra-trust beneficiaries against each other, effectively making it a Master Trust paying out to all beneficiaries which my mothers trust was not setup to be.

My mother kept the principle from the sale of the Moraga house my brother and I were raised in and lived Spartanly off other income, splitting proceeds from the sale of the house in Moraga between my brother and I, my half administered by him in a Special Needs Trust Fund my brother refused to provide me documentation on despite my request for it.

Likely he claimed it was a Pooled trust he could allocate my assets AWAY from me through, rather than be a source of funds to me.

The Gang is a fake claims system againt the Genomic trust only the CIA DARPA knows the value or usage of: Agent Provocateur dressed as me or using leased space leased as mine out of my control though, a real or planted victim of the Agent Provocateur, and witness that the Agent Provocateur was me, someone claiming to represent me, a trut fund left by my mother, (Grandparent Scam) who will pay the alleged victim.

Grandparent Scam [or Trust Fund Scam defrauding a trust fund left by a deceased person]

> A grandparent gets a call or e-mail from someone claiming to be their grandchild, saying that they are in trouble. For example, the scammer may claim to have been arrested and require money wired, or gift cards purchased for bail, and asks the victim not to tell the grandchild's parents, as they would "only get upset." The call is fraudulent impersonation, the name of the grandchild typically obtained from social media postings as well as obituaries listed either in newspapers or from a funeral home's website. Any money wired out of the country is gone forever.

In my case the impersonator of me I often call Tx (transmitter of the panicked message using my identity calls the Trust Fund, or course, rather than me who he is impersonating upon his being confronted for the misconduct he engaged in, peeping tom.

Agent Provocateur (Dressed as me) incurring a liability against me (and my genome rights to settle the plaintiff claim for defendant assets of value)	Gangstalk Victim (me) who is the subject of retaliation for the act of the Agent Provocatuer dressed as me
Dis-possessor. Dispossess: deprive (someone) of land, property, or other possessions via assaults upon victim 1) Direct (State organized) Assault on Victim 2) Manufacture of Pretext for State attack on Victim	Possessor

The ARC of Northern Virginia (Advocacy for Retarded Children) also refused any documentation to me of the trust fund my brother turned over to the to administer. Though a cash trust they wished to use it as a CIA front company for biological family genome rights tied to CIA ongoing work with DARPA and FOXP2 gene among other work.

Oddly, this gene tied to Austria, is CLAIMED to be the Nazi gene of “psychos” and flash tempers, but in fact makes up passionate people with strong emotions such as LONDON KE FAMILY of King Edward VIII, likely on my mother’s side (paternal, out of wedlock) as well as Maria Kutschera later Maria VonTrapp, niece of an Austrian Nazi official showing the same gene, also in King George V of Germany Austria area.

This is not in a vacuum and would not have arisen itself but for the DARPA CIA work tied to those families, my family, and underground railroads by Joseph Kennedy for out of wedlock Windsors.

Deeper espionage agencies have long used my DNA without permission and this latest scheme created an umbrella excuse environment retroactively explaining a legal theory for illegal use of my DNA to fit the preexisting condition the CIA and DARPA need a way out of.

The Illuminati have a problem to explain if the problem is even detected and among the solutions is illegally manufacturing or selling rights to genes they know about and others do not on CIA backed repugnant markets like Donald Barr William Barr (Ag) Jeffery Epstien Columbia University MKKULTRA Manhattan Project and VIrigin Island Brain Foundation work of the CIA.

They have my DNA in their families, even their non white families. Appearances are that I agreed to that though others are agreeing to that “for me.”

This is ongoing fallout not of atomic ash but of Sidney Gottlieb involuntary human subjects in CIA experiments including stolen DNA.

This Espionage lethal assault on my on incorrectly pretexts acts under Color of Law or incited permitted crowd violence harms my law abiding ethical family in the Espionage hopes Espionage agencies can hide the wrongs of their own Sidney Gottlieb unethical conspirators and assassinations conducted by the CIA and others who didn’t like JFKs plans during the Cold War.

Genomicaly Trafficked in the Treehouse

Homeland Security Investigation Equity (of the People) in the Genome Trafficking and Illegal “ethics” of MKULTRA CIA DARPA Genetics and Brain Eugenics

- The child trafficking (me as if a child wrongly represented by Social Services who have a predatory (and disguised) interest in my brain and other genes they want for the benefit those current SJW beneficiaries like the autistic, retarded, or others who want genetic treatments rights from a source (me.)

- That experimental and other MKULTRA super secret programs regarding brain genes go into the JFK assassination, current figures with conflicts of interests (William Barr) tied to secret programs and destroying the files of Donald Barr and the MKULTRA program, and

- Sleeper agents created by the Illuminati holding office inside or outside the USA groomed bu the US Military, CIA, or NGO religions or secret groups.

- The real parents, birth circumstances, etc., in USA Presidents and illegal “muscle” from any group to assassinate to cover that history up

- The sovereignty of the USA from international groups working around the clock having fifth columns of actors inside the USA working perhaps on goals shared with the USA and its leaders but assassinating in the USA to keep the USA on track with the supranational foreign objectives.

- The protection of my rights as a person born under atomic testing with James and Glorian Donegan loyal to the USA and me loyal to the USA.

- To stop Abuse of Psychiatry for political, religious, or any other reason, and and stop Abuse of Process in any matter.

- To be and enforce transparency as to he genealogy and even gender of First Families if that issue intrudes into use of Espionage capabilities to cover up identities.

Jen Moore was going down the same road I have. A Deep State is staging and using sex abuse victims for moving genetics around under false prescription, a rights to eugenics genes scheme on appearances which are deceiving but weak basis are accepted rather than tested for legitimacy.

People do want that genome trafficking. But the illegality, repugnance, and exigency as a violator of justice and human rights is an HSI equity and I hope HSI will serve all ending this criminality and they he aware of Ethics, Eugenics, Trafficking evils, etc., as I think James Comey was qualified to be.

I fear for my life in the United States of America because she and James Comey are now missing, James Comey who would never accept the ethics of shaking down someone for fertilization rights in a blackmail scenario

Let's assess that Chemists and Legal experts know about issues such as Josef Mengele and Sidney Gottlieb who studied with involuntary subjects survivability of space flight conditions or other research projects.

C&EN talks chemistry with James B. Comey retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Chemical & Engineering News covers the world of chemistry, from research and education to business and policy. C&EN senior correspondent, Cheryl Hogue recently had a chance to sit down with Former US FBI director James B. Comey on majoring in chemistry and how it affected his career. Below are some "vitals" from the interview:

- Hometown: Allendale, New Jersey
- Education: BS, chemistry and religion, College of William and Mary, 1982; JD, University of Chicago Law School, 1985
- Career highlights: Chief federal prosecutor in New York City and surrounding counties, 2002-3; lead prosecutor of TV personality and businesswoman Martha Stewart on charges of securities fraud, 2003; second in command at US Department of Justice as deputy attorney general, 2003-5; appointed by President Barack Obama to a decade long term as FBI director, 2013
- Career-altering moment: Learning via television that President Donald J. Trump had fired him as FBI director.
- Current work: Book author and distinguished lecturer in public policy at the College of William and Mary
- Secret weapon for getting through 8:00 a.m. advanced biochemistry classes three days a week during his last semester in college: His roommate and fellow chemistry major, Todd Irick, now an industrial hygienist in Ottawa, Ontario. "Todd would swing his legs over the top bunk, hop down, and drag my sorry self out of the bed to go to the class. I've told him many times that I'm grateful because who knows what would have happened to me but for that intervention."

Much of this book is about why the USA is interested in my genome. The following sentences and tables are about how the USA claims control of my genome, with me forced into "the system" which will manage it all.

I am being abusively assaulted and treated abusively in public by Government or contractor groups in the hopes that I will "blow' and get into a fight with gang stalkers from the Targeted Individuals program. First, on the likelihood I would blow my top when taunted and the FOXP2 gene and Borderline Personality and intense volatile emotions.

By controlling my environment illegally (in the public or in institutions) the duplicitous are staging that I am incompetent, developmentally retarded, and denying reproductive partners opportunity. This covers up, intentionally and for the State benefit, my real cognitive normality except for a form of Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder, at times called ADD - Explosive Type which only is strong in me if strongly environmentally infused.

In totality, in the two tables, I am foundation-less attacked AS IF the perv in the Treehouse of child porn, and if I take the fight, I am back into the social services who actually operate the treehouse under my name and from that treehouse victimize other trust fund beneficiaries (those getting payouts from the trust fund from my mother's fund.)

Need for Genomic Asylum.

Getting me into the system by making environments hostile and provoking fights (expressive hostile acts belittling me) creates the System having me under arrest and my assets under control if I “correct” the behavior of cheap shot-ters of me via fight. Tied to secretive interest in my genome and its history and or its value to others.

female being peeped at (could be at the gym, store, place I am at, not at)
Corrupt Cop, paid off	Impersonator of Ed with Cop working with cop	Ed
Treehhouse Apartment (overlooks children at play) said to be under Ed Control, is under Trust Fund or SJW Contracting (who also represents peeping victim children), adult entertainer will visit fake Ed at the Treehouse, entertaining cop or SJ Worker, fake ed drunk and loaded, blows cover, peeping then discovered and drunk and found out fake ed pays bill for adult entertainer, and child victim and neighborhood watch, singing over DNA rights, caught in the Tree-house child porn location. HIGH PRICE MODEL SHOWS UP FOR FAKE AT TREEHOUSE AS MEDICINE SEX WORK FOR FAKE ED Eds DNA under blackmail in the Treehouse pays the high price model bills and the Victoria’s Secret sex worker. In Espionage language, the visiting adult sex entertainer of adults and retarded may be a “swallow” or “raven” (raven the male sex honey pot, the swallow the female) enticing police and others to engage in illegal activities including world black markets in genetics rights vial blackmail or bogus signatures for rights		Ed/s real home which may have cross wiring (e.g. ATT Mastec) with Tree-house

Trafficking my DNA by the Goat impersonator making me and my genome the Scapegoat for his acts victiming females exploitatively

Tails of the Talloid in Treehouse 46-46 aka 47

When I moved into the 1001 N. Water Street apartment Corpus Christi there all sorts of shenanigans going on including confusion generated by others of which unit number the 4th floor north one bedroom apartment was by painted numbering (46,) whether that matched computer floor plan, and whether door painted unit number 47 adjoined 46.

I was zerod out from 1001 N. Water Street 1/17/2021

The Mac Lamar Property Management interface said my name was on more than one lease and a black I called the Talloid moved into painted door painted unit 47 the same day I moved into 46.

Mac Lamar property insisted to me it was a double entry accounting like system where the owner side of receivable matched my renter side of payable but I disputed that because while the move in dates were the same the amounts did differ by a little and were clearly similar but not the same.

I over heard the “talloid” confess (after I had used the trail on the beach for exercise) to having filmed tots at the beach, being a despicable looser for having done so, and asserting he had now way to pay up, to pay the victims, because he was so poor, but was willing to pay with bone marrow rights, if that would be acceptable.

This then led to my research of this book into bone marrow, neural cells, immunology, and even genealogy, and that sill life long quest of why anyone would be interested in my genome at all.,

If I had my druthers, contracting for housing, myself, and able to be safe in my housing, and gain sole occupancy of it and protect it from intrusion

The “Legend” of the Talloid

Though I am not at the events where a group of lower social status militant blacks along with an imposter of me receive a visit from an adult sex worker I have heard the “role play.”

The males black may be a US Marshall fighting White Supremacism, as are active in Corpus Christi per its newspaper, by a dopple of me generating a negative record through purporting himself as me and then it be reported that he was me.

As of February 17 2022 enough “roleplays’ have been overheard by me more specific generalizations can be reported of the events at “Element B” of the RICO sceme.

In my case the person of me doppling me is contradictory to who I am, reverses my attributes into negative attributes in that same area, generates Information about me which is false and will defame me later behind my back.

One of the most instructive full dialogues was the one on the 17th of February 2022 when a Dopple of me near me I could hear saying “I was committed to Salvation Army because I was such a tweak. I didn’t know how to ask for thing like being bullwhipped.

It seems both racially and religiously antagonistic interested to me which on the one hand study and adopt much of my life while using a Doppler to assert (as me) I do NOT have the skills but could be taught the skills by an adult entertainer.

The Doppler of me has police escort and often a black “pimp’ providing child porn to the teak loser, and the pimp will be paid with Donegan family reproductive assets for some scenario the dopple is in, i don’t understand the full details, but according to what I repeatedly heard including on the 17h the dopple me is under blackmail becaus the dopple of me has sexualized and or photographed or been caught with or bought pictures of minority children, a Legend Texas religious use to defame my atheism and kite belongs managed by their religions.

The organizational identity of this grifter group I have not established but could be from a Black Nationalist religious extremist group of the type Southern Poverty Law Center say are active in Corpus Christi Texas or MKULTRA connected families or office holders.

The actual dopple of me is usually black or olive skinned and this has been visible while in institutions as well creating the “Legend” of the impersonator or me.

That Characterization of me, satirization of me, is a defamatory caricature with a buttocks fetish and is sexually developmentally arrested and photographing teen or tots who are in provocative poses, illegal as exploitation of a minor, and the dopple has such photos which will be discovered by the adult entertainer called for the developmentally arrested dopple of me with the buttocks fetish.

The Dopple leaves broken glass around where children and pets play, burns cats and children with cigarrattes as turn on, etc., contra to everything about me.

Cats love and trust me and the only time I have ever needed a cat carrier was when using a car. in Walnut Creak my roomate had a cat who would go to the apartment pool with me, walking with me, play around me and with other cats and kittens, and walk back to the apartment with me when I left. this is the norm with me and cats.

The adult entertainer who sees the dopple of me who has a smart phone alleged to me containing buttocks photos of tots will show her own buttocks (or as it has been said) her “white parts” to the dopple of me to get back at the white supremacist who exploited minors, and leaving me out of the role play, showing a black or other minority white buttocks of an adult woman and creating an online taunt of that meant to reach me that I was left out do to exploitation of minors alleged to me.

I believe the “bedroom” and economic gains value of blackmailing the dopple of a White Supremacist, an alleged harmer of minor and non white females, create the Body, Mind, and Spirit type of complete satisfaction SJWs want against white supremacism.

The erotic components of erotic play and deals for DNA in the blackmail role play.

The achievement of political character assassination of a competing social justice system.

Religious sympathy built for non white missionary work beneficiaries blaming Atheist immorality and sexual immaturity. Economic gains for the religion to as they pay themselves to contain the evil of the atheist buying themselves cars, etc., with Atheist assets while disrupting the Atheist.

The SJW activists, rooted Political activism, racial, or religious activism, or a combination of those overlaying elements, are seizing rather than protecting my assets by their misconduct in my identity, making me a scapegoat for their egregious and destructive criminal acts while they are in the highjacked identity and in the hijacked worth of my life aesthetics.

This scheme of a Dopple of me having genomic rights used in the role play is the money laundering and RICO fraud I allege as the system moves genome rights from me to others and uses my genome value to fund the operation as well which though surrounds me does not involve me, only it appears to.

Google knowledge panel People also ask Is druthers a real word? retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

When you have your druthers, you can do what you want. This word always appears in the plural form and usually in a phrase like “If I had my druthers…” It refers to a preference, wish, or desire. … This word evolved from a pronunciation of “I’d rather, which should help you remember the meaning.

I'd be living in a town like Capitola or in Monterrey California Stay and Play among 18+ white consenting female adult partners in R/L activities

But I have been roadblocked (and by death threat) trapped in a town of narcissistic poor minorities with an interest in false claims against me, and no right to (by death threat and other acts) keep me from normal life, and death threats done under color of laws if leave the area or if I was to use the county normally.

The constant death threats for outing this scheme Jen Moore and I have received are part of this book, as are at least 20 other espionage agency murders similar to hers and are tied to these same events surrounding my life and the Manhattan Project and the issue of my family genome and tied to permissions of its usage, and its highly secret history.

The neighborhood and neighborhood watch sue the Trust Fund of Glorian Donegan for the activities in neighborhood of Ed Donegan, but it was not Ed Donegan. It was trust fund or others trying to act under Ed Donegan's name buy signing for apartments as him or occupying his apartments jointly with him illegally.

Now a given I am not in a county with a white prosecutor (or a state with an Atheist governor) claims can proceed against fake ed and I will recount one such chain of events in which I discovered what the operation was that Jim Volcecka challenged me to prove even existed, and I found out via thin walls and an adjoining apartment unit.

I have called it "dabbing" that entanglement (unwanted from Behavioral Care) assault system entangle with me, and thus entangle with my achievement and even claim a right to my biology by conflict entanglement with me I am blamed for (their claiming to model for illicit photos others, not I, take.)

Strangers, stalkers public mock me as needing to know from their example the most basic living skill or I need their examples or suggestions the for intellectual achievements I have reached in my own life.

This is called Ganstalk which creates hostile environments with me on the defensive against State backed COINTELRPO often violent assailants and post-conflict State adjudicated detentions.

It sounds like and matches the Bob Creamer Scott Foval system of picking fights with Mercenaries from skid row thrown at a Trump supporter and preying on a hot temper that I have with FOXP2 extreme ADD impulsivity.

In the legal system :My defensive responding to assaults, I have been interviewed, tanked by Speech Spasmodia emphatically misdiagnosed as Bipolar Disorder and Delusions (my delusion being I think the Government is in the wrong) and my handwriting and dropped grammar problems of FOXP2 treated as severe retardation.

- In Table 1 my strong emotions are being attacked as I am baselessly assaulted as though victimized the young, thus I am the “mark” of organized crime, a victim.

- In Table 2 my mother’s assets left to me are the mark, the target, or organized crime, fake law suits as they fake my property line and identity, then victimized their other beneficiaries under my name they used for their criminals Doppling me.

I fear for my life in the United States of America because I carry an Austria Central Europe Halogroup gene expressed as AD/HD gene and its history exposes Espionage agencies to 120 years of assassinations, secret societies, and Illuminati wrongs in Eugenics.

I am a loyal former high tech worker who has no pedophilia interests at all and every day of my life photo-bombs occur of that kind of thing in public as well as evidence plants in my home the police seem to support rather than stand down from and I am driven from society and the Drivers License facilities or other Government agencies deny me identification, etc., also in State backed criminal harassment under Color of Law.

I will always be loyal to the United States of America but I need to be safe from the CIA and its coverups too.

Why would lethal Gangstalks and Targeted Killings be used against me by the Defense Intelligence Agency, DARPA, and other Targeting programs of Espionage agencies across my lifespan?

I was a loyal High Tech information Technology worker highly placed at Chevron WAN systems including satellites around the world and Hughes net.

I worked at Concord California Naval Weapons Station including Q Area nuclear war tips work area of the Missile Command.

I have worked at the highest placed US Secret Service monitored (1.7 Trillion dollar assets network) and protected computer financial network, Host Intrusion Detection internal network security Team Lead, technical and project, for all of Wells Fargo re-engineered main data centers I participated in building and designing.

After frame jobs behind the scenes I worked as a volunteer in WWII Veterans support groups. My father was in the Manhattan Project Nuclear Bomb “The Gadget” development project, in the 1920s and 40s are families, the Kennedys and Donegans, closely interlinked in Cape Cod though my Birther was still under the Manhattan Project Manhattan Beach 1961 California, where JFK was that day, and my fathers Nuclear Bombing Wing flight history in the Army Air Corps and US Air Force opened doors for me I never tried to exploit.

I am no enemy of the USA but I found the police stalking and harassment of me is DARPA tied and tied to CIA misuse of my DNA and now the Espionage agencies have a hit on me and my reproductivity by planting evidence offensive to females to leave me to die excluded to die in disgusting skid row Salvation Army homeless shelters with no opportunity for normal life.

This is the story of the CIA harassment of me, lethal, and to cover CIA mistakes in the loyal family history, James, Glorian, and Edward, myself.

Athena

Athena was a Goth scene artist in San Francisco who was one of the early club promoters and co-founder of one San Francisco California’s most famous goth dance gogo fetish party clubs.

She would later die of breast cancer.

I had met her some time ago and we discussed my Dr. Leaky fraternity shirt. I had been playing pickup mud football in it at times and was using it kind of around town. The nickname on the back was sort of multi=sourced in part because I had urinated in a room at a fraternity party however I thought that pledge nickname might have name came to the surface in ideas because one of the fraternity sisters, girlfriend of a full member, had seen in my home “EPD III” (Edward Paul Donegan III) something my mother once joked about, a bookend figurine of a monkey sitting on a stack of books, one from Darwin, contemplating evolution and holding a human skull pensively.

I had been told then I had King Edward grandfather of some type which we didn’t really sort of go into the history of too much and I was led to believe or at least thought it might have been an Irish fiefdom lost during changes of governing authority in Belfast, County Donegal.

More likely the deeper story is in Vienna, Austria, and the FOXP2 gene in Maria Von Trapp and the Windsor London KE Family line, this an extreme AD/HD that makes it hard to keep emotions in check, etc., because the Executive of the brain can let some things slip through when it isn’t looking a all the things for just a moment, forgetful in short term memory, not concentrating.

The story this book which is the story of Western History includes the major World Wars and Race and Genetics, and Espionage surrounding it in both war and peace efforts.

Among those Espionage Agencies is the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, more or less synonymous with MKULTRA and Nuclear War, and the most advanced global brain and economy, world economy, starvation, and Communism, and weapons and war preparation research.

Are we a smart society, smart enough, and what is intelligence and evolution, and is there a such thigns as evolutionary psychology or patterns of human conduct?

What underlies Nuclear Wars. What causes them?

Founded in 1961, involved in my Nuclear Triad Manhattan Atomic Bomb Project 1961 birth and the study of me, this book is the story of DARPA and the Illuminati in DARPA, companies, agencies, and people.

To Error is Human but to really fuck up on a global scale it takes NASA.

In a short time from now I will attribute the US and World Espionage Agencies of having a Sapient need to disrupt, interfere with, and claim to benevolently mismanage a genomic history of me which if not interfered with, if properly understood and expressed and utilized by me, exposes the Illuminati the NWO of genomic frauds, racketeering, and assassinations going back to the JFK murders, the Dulles Brothers, OSS, Vatican anti communists sponsored in Latin America, and more.

I have lived in fear most of my life from some incredible background power wherein assault and background legal and social sabotage have affected my basic human rights in truly non sequitur ways I could not piece together.

I was not and was not a “birther” who believed Obama was born in Kenya under a CIA planted birth certificate which is known to exist.

It IS known even by US Government sources Barack Obama was intended as a sleeper agent groomed for foreign leadership and he was born in the USA.

In this book I assert his birth is tied to MKULTRA and the CIA and when Obama reached two years old and was unaffected by speech defect the CIA Catholic Free Masonry anti communist mafia assassinated JFK to keep the program in place and not just in test birth status.

It is that 100 year long CIA DARPA MKULTRA history this book is about and not Barack Obama.

This book is also about my Cape Cod Massachusetts and Nuclear Energy Manhattan Project and Atomic Reactor family history and ties to JFK, liquor distribution, and how this got mixed into that CIA MKULTRA history.

Eugenics is the study of how to arrange reproduction within a human population to increase the occurrence of heritable characteristics regarded as desirable. Developed largely by Francis Galton as a method of improving the human race, it fell into disfavor only after the perversion of its doctrines by the Nazis.

Excerpting a JFK Speech

JFK Section 1

The very word “secrecy” is repugnant in a free and open society; and we are as a people inherently and historically opposed to secret societies, to secret oaths and to secret proceedings. We decided long ago that the dangers of excessive and unwarranted concealment of pertinent facts far outweighed the dangers which are cited to justify it. Even today, there is little value in opposing the threat of a closed society by imitating its arbitrary restrictions.

Even today, there is little value in insuring the survival of our nation if our traditions do not survive with it. And there is very grave danger that an announced need for increased security will be seized upon by those anxious to expand its meaning to the very limits of official censorship and concealment. That I do not intend to permit to the extent that it is in my control.

And no official of my Administration, whether his rank is high or low, civilian or military, should interpret my words here tonight as an excuse to censor the news, to stifle dissent, to cover up our mistakes or to withhold from the press and the public the facts they deserve to know.

JFK (section 1)

Every newspaper now asks itself, with respect to every story: “Is it news?” All I suggest is that you add the question: “Is it in the interest of the national security?” And I hope that every group in America — unions and businessmen and public officials at every level — will ask the same question of their endeavors, and subject their actions to the same exacting tests.

JFK: (section 2)

It is the unprecedented nature of this challenge that also gives rise to your second obligation — an obligation which I share. And that is our obligation to inform and alert the American people — to make certain that they possess all the facts that they need, and understand them as well — the perils, the prospects, the purposes of our program and the choices that we face.

No President should fear public scrutiny of his program. For from that scrutiny comes understanding; and from that understanding comes support or opposition. And both are necessary. I am not asking your newspapers to support the Administration, but I am asking your help in the tremendous task of informing and alerting the American people. For I have complete confidence in the response and dedication of our citizens whenever they are fully informed.

I not only could not stifle controversy among your readers — I welcome it. This Administration intends to be candid about its errors; for as a wise man once said: “An error does not become a mistake until you refuse to correct it.” We intend to accept full responsibility for our errors; and we expect you to point them out when we miss them.

Without debate, without criticism, no Administration and no country can succeed - and no republic can survive. That is why the Athenian lawmaker Solon decreed it a crime for any citizen to shrink from controversy. And that is why our press was protected by the First Amendment — the only business in America specifically protected by the Constitution - - not primarily to amuse and entertain, not to emphasize the trivial and the sentimental, not to simply “give the public what it wants” — but to inform, to arouse, to reflect, to state our dangers and our opportunities, to indicate our crises and our choices, to lead, mold, educate and sometimes even anger public opinion.

This means greater coverage and analysis of international news — for it is no longer far away and foreign but close at hand and local. It means greater attention to improved understanding of the news as well as improved transmission. And it means, finally, that government at all levels, must meet its obligation to provide you with the fullest possible information outside the narrowest limits of national security — and we intend to do it.

Great reporting and great questions

http://www.akdart.com/body-c.html

How Jen Moore became aware of the evil of MKULTRA and why she dedicated (and gave her life) to stop MKULTRA. Succeeding by leading me to the Von Trapp piece. Jen Moore was part of a PsyOps MKULTRA Behavioral Research Team running out of DARPA and the CIA. She knew the history of my mother and me, and how I was being targeted because I had the FOXP2 gene and she knew my family history of why I had it, and how the NWO, the CIA, and the Military are covering their errors by trying wipe out certain genetics lines, and certain people (me)

It was from her cold dead bloody hand her documents arrived to me, and will keep them and cherish them.

Someone perhaps neighborhodo watch near their own neigbors may say “How Dare You!” to me, I say “How dare I what?” and they say “I wasn’t talking to you” as I call them out.

I have created this chart and used it at various update levels and purposes in this book to show that an Identity Thier I call -2L will create a pretext for State actions towards me then as -2U will bully me as though I did it, as 2U being a State actor who acted as me instead when 2L.

The CIA technique of “road blocking” can involve the sabotage of pre requisites (putting a screw into one of my car tires going into Thanksgiving weekend as i was leaving the Bar Area California for a weekend with my father and step mother in Truckee california.

Road blocking (can arise from Step 2 or Step 3) can also be picking of the fight as the pre requisite item is attacked, such the victim getting into a fight with CIA asset vandalizing his car.

In my case compromising photos are staged by when I complain I am attacked violent over the complaint such as a suggestion I need to be on meds, I am mentally ill, the person planting the minor attacks me complaining that I am complaining about the photobomb of the minor 'How dare you complain, spit at, the site of my DAUGHTER!"

This fits with the Black Swan scheme of the Doppelgänger being a psychological taunt of the person Doppled, the Doppelgänger denying they are a stalking Information Dopllegangeror evidence planter, but they are a Doppelganger or evidence planter.

In Memory of Jen Moore and Micheal "Thomas Paine" Moore

Mike "Thomas Paine" (Lamplighter) Moore* dedication of his book to Jen Moore (Lamplighter)

> [Frank Serpico] provides support to "individuals who seek truth and justice even in the face of great personal risk", calling them "lamp lighters"; he prefers that term in place of the more conventional "whistleblower", which refers to alerting the public to danger, in the spirit of Paul Revere's midnight ride during the American Revolutionary War *.

Jen Moore and the passage of time bring answers to the questions I struggled with including State and religion sanctified active acts of ongoing child and elder abuse

1. Why is it people who were clearly faking IN PUBLIC that I was a pedophile also actually seem to believe it? For instance I call it Mop Pushing, acting AS IF I had some sexual release in some wildly inappropriate place when the mop pushers in public near me are mopping nothing? (The answer it turns out is that Covert Operatives are using deceptive acts towards me to claim my DNA is involved in acts not in any way associated with normal public acts, the ONLY acts, I was and am involved in) though the treatment of me as pedophile fulfills public expectations if I am to be blamed for what a Doppelgänger of me near me with a camera did to the female victim planted near me.

2. Why stigmatizing to me novel acts of child exploitation occurring in the areas i was in, and why was there a Doppelgänger in the areas filming the exploited females?

3. Why was my DNA both matter of envy (people have a bizarre interest in it) and also at the same time a fear of it and a fear of my own re productivity?

My being reproductively trafficked by the System, CIA backed, a created a DNA-paid-for black opps slush fund valuated by the stolen DNA rights used as ‘black money” in black opps money laundering of long running mufti-generational programs.

The CIA placed my family DNA into the Family Jewels program of Illuminati use in 1961 in a program dating back to 1926 Vienna under the CIA, Carl Jung, Freud, and others, and secret tracking, use, and abuse of my DNA is the subject of my book and between her and I our expose on the matter.

The answer lies in MKULTRA, Hidden Identities, and the unfolding information about PsyOps, the DIA, DARPA, Brain Research, and Eugenics.

Pairing away my sexual opportunities with 18 and over reproductive women through the vehicle of blaming me for novel acts against minority children or others creates a government allocation system of my DNA, and prevention, of my DNA under my control, instead it introduced into the jurisdictions of Behavioral Health Care who can and do want the jurisdiction over and trafficking my DNA.

“The [irregular] loans to Epstein were personal and commercial,” True Pundit founder Mike “Thomas Paine” Moore said. “The Citi loans I can confirm were for more than $25 million. Some were secured, some were not.” Moore previously ran an anti-money laundering for Citigroup.

SWAT-clad FBI agents stormed into Mike “Thomas Paine” Moore’s home and terrorized his wife and young children at gunpoint after rousting them out of bed. Not once, but twice, pointing automatic weapons at the family. Historic, costly blunders for the FBI.

[Jen Moore offered to make coffee for the FBI Agents according to Micheal Moore]

In response Paine assembled his journalism crew of former feds, launched True Pundit and literally dismantled the FBI in less than two years with pens and laptops while working from home, often in pajamas.

While the mainstream media ignored a corrupt FBI, DOJ, Paine and cohorts hammered away and knocked the FBI off its trusted public mantle. Revered FBI leaders were fired. Others quit. FBI officials, targeted by True Pundit’s hard-hitting reporting, are now targets of numerous federal investigations. A fitting irony after the FBI — whom Paine worked for — came into his home with M4 rifles drawn on his young kids and wife. Twice. Then, the FBI went on a rampage to ruin his Fortune 100 career at Citi and even prevented him from attending his mother’s funeral.

hat did Paine know that terrified the Deep State and prompted FBI agents to stoop so low as to literally terrorize an 8-year-old and 12-year-old? And Paine’s wife? Paine tells it all here — revealing he was investigating Intel that the FBI, CIA and White House were covering up evidence that Osama bin Laden was living and running al Qaeda from Iran after 9/11. Paine reveals his True Identity: Loeb Award-winning and Pulitzer nominated newspaper reporter and Intel expert Mike Moore.

I was likely the results of a fertilization February 20 1961 and at that time George Ball and Thorkill Kristensen were in a phone conference with JFK.

February 20 1961 Barack Obama Jr's parents, Madelyn Payne Dunham (CIA Hawaii) and Barack Obama Sr. were allegedly married. No wait, that was February 2 1961 not February 20. So if Barack Obama Jr (POTUS) was fertilized February 20, same bday as me, Nov18, birth certificate Nov 19 1961.

Let's use the Feb 2 marriage date of Obama Jr parents. Then the birthday of Barack Obama Jr might be November 2 1961. But it is said Madelyn Payne Dunham was three months pregnant at Feb 2 marriage. that creates an Aug 2 1961 birth, what is said now, Obama born Aug 4 Hawaii.

This book supposes that Glorian Donegan ovum was used February 20 1961 and Malcom X sperm.

This was part of the Missile Crisis of both Asian communism (China, Vietnam, Korea) and Latin American communism (Latin America, Cuba) and MKULTRA programs to erode the spread of communism.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE HONORABLE BARACK OBAMA

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair lays a communication before the Senate.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

U.S. SENATE,
Washington, DC, NOVEMBER 18, 2008.

Hon. RICHARD CHENEY,
Vice President of the United States of America,
President of the U.S. Senate, U.S. Capitol,
Washington, DC.
DEAR VICE PRESIDENT CHENEY, PRESIDENT
OF THE U.S. SENATE: This letter is to inform you that I resigned from the United States Senate, effective November 16, 2008, in order to prepare for my duties as President of the United States.

Sincerely,

BARACK OBAMA,
U.S. Senator.

Donald Barr. Wiliam Pelam Barr. Epstein, DARPA, and the Human Brain.

Trinity marks its beginning on DECEMBER 3, 1961 when TWELVE MIDDLE-CLASS BLACK FAMILIES, most of whom were descendants of migrants to Chicago during The Great Migration of African Americans, met for worship in a Chicago elementary school gymnasium.

It is difficult to report the existence, and more so the evil acts of, Nazis while in downtown WWII Berlin.

Profiles in courage. Those like Sophia Scholl still did it.

Jen Moore did the equivalent of that, speaking truth to power. She went to Washington D.C. to report a corrupt Washington DC backing Jeffery Epstein and DC based Pedo networks run by churches connected to this genome, perhaps Trinity Baptists and other baptist or non denominational leaning Salvation Army Goodwill Industries types.

She could not disclose too many State secrets she held.

That she held about Donald Barr and William Barr tied to Jeffery Epstein, the DARPA Brain Program, the Free Masons and Illuminati, and corrupt trafficking in genome conducted CIA connected elites.

That churches were planting child porn victims that their churches could sue through corrupt family courts OTHERS also being held in family courts bird dogged cases, fake cases, for fake claims to genome that would supply the rich and famous, and also genome claims spread around towns to which will win support for the program makign the elites rich.

But she knew the US People were the clients, like myself and the general public, the People vs Deceit and Criminality in Government, and she led that charge on behalf of ALL US peoples and in that also and directly on behalf of me, James Donegan, Glorian Donegan, and she was leading the charge and against Tom Donegan betraying the wishes and will of James and Glorian Donegan on behalf of State interests in a cover up of a massive scandal which could and would rock the elites.

But she was part of DARPA as an expert on sexuality and tracking by interview and history the FOXP2 Gene from the Von Trapps and Windsor family rescued from Nazis by the Illuminati and hidden in the USA including groomed for politics.

The Ultra Secret, call it the WWI and WWII MKULTRA Gene, the MKFOXP2 gene, the MK MONARCH gene, is the London Family KE King Edward VIII genes of speech spasmodia, and of Cap Code.

Cape Cod Massachusetts of the Kennedys, of Barack Obama Sr 1961 and Harvard, of the Donegans, the Donegans, the Pelletiers, and many others.

Elements in the US Gov want this to achieve international and inter-racial use of my DNA. Social Justice Firms allegedly representing me created these PizzaGate schemes because those they really serve need the cure of my family’s DNA.

This creates the CIA desired Legend, the public belief, the either the gene is worthless and not in major government (the Illuminati families) or that it was (the gene) authorized from a seemingly retarded person (me who is not retarded.)

Somehow who has these genetics and when and why are the biggest story in at least 500 years as the most powerful espionage agencies in the world scramble and kill to coverup the deepest darkest secrets of the 20th Century now during the 21st when all their plans were supposed to come into fruition, which they did, as expected.

It was not expected family databases would exist and expose the illuminate genome secret blood lines usages and testing.

The final result of Bernie being blackmailed is a case file delivered to Genentech in which my DNA is given away to others by Bernie (not me) but the procedure is OK'd. CIA/DOD Contractors from around the world including Andy Ellington, perhaps the Lloyds of Orinda, California, now have a supply of Donegan DNA for research, medical treatments, or other usages such as surrogacy.

For those who ever doubt police officers can be loyal and dedicated she will remain a shining beacon of faith in the profession, however much all humans are subject to failings.

My personal theory on the scope of PizzaGate, her murder, and my life in danger

She was driven off YouTube reporting that an impersonator of me, NOT ME, is being used a DIA CIA backed person who will pass out using drugs with Domina, be blackmailed for what drunk Ed Donegan said while drunk.

All this happens as REAL Ed Donegan is framed by circumstantial evidence.

At 7 minutes 45 secs a possible, likely reference to RUIZ ROCKET doc the day before. I am being impersonated and it is not to be believed Who is actually Who. But OTHERS (I think Fetlife Legal) is getting the picture that the Russia Investigation claims I am a loser being extorted by Dominas yet now Feltife Legal sees real info too!

At 42nd Street Capitola I was framed as a shower peeper. William Ruiz said he liked to shower after being unable to shower for weeks. That was his voice but I had just come from camping. His voice was later used as mine to confess to shower peeping in MY stolen motorcycle jacket. I documented this Aug 7 a day before she was driven of YouTube and killed.

At Salinas KinkBnb I was framed again for peeping, and again, Jim Volcelcka faked be me, staying to me in his voice he had taken the military IQ test but did not join the military, doing the same civilian work instead. That is what I DID.

Later Jim Volcelka in my alleged voice faked being me to Deja Vu with co-operating Mistress [Special Forces in] Extremis (a “Harvey Dent” “Casper” type)

It is the go-to play the the US DOD CIA NIH PHS to get my DNA. Extort it from peeped on 17 year olds and give out around the world.

The silencing of Jen Moore kept this plan still going at Hotel Irwin and beyond and before.

Kerberos and Colonel Kerboros and Fraus Stein, so many examples.

Invoking Veronica Hoffman Harvey Dent Kiva here.

Staff Sgt. Joseph Biggs told KTLA that he received an email from Hastings on Monday.

Biggs had known Hastings since 2008, when the journalist was embedded in his unit in Afghanistan.

“On Monday morning, I woke up and I got an email, and it’s very panicked,” Biggs said.

He was blind-copied on the email, which was sent to Hastings’ colleagues.

In part, it said that the feds were interviewing his close friends and associates, and that he was onto a big story and needed to get off the radar.

The FBI has denied that Hastings was ever under investigation.

“It alarmed me very much,” Biggs said. “I just said it doesn’t seem like him. I don’t know, I just had this gut feeling and it just really bothered me,” he said.

The email was sent just before 1 p.m. on Monday, 15 hours before the deadly crash.

This book ends with the acknowledgments of those who I appreciate as seekers of truth. Jen Moore like many others were threatened with death openly and she kept going. In one video she talked about her own unwillingness to be silenced even as the gang banger death threats from thugs in muscle cars had already nearly killed in one physical attack and she was staring through a peephole still reporting in a hotel room unable to get wifi.

As I write this book cars speed up, skid, do burnouts around me, knives waved or passed across the gang bangers throats as thought threatening to kill me, open death threats are made if I go to the library, etc.,

	VIDEO TITLES The 3rd Reich & “The Artist” Infiltration into US Politics, OSS to CIA, black budgets

 Officer Moore, previously beaten, forced out, clutching her badge still Job history of investigation sex abuse and sex assaults	(unauthorized slush funds included) (MK Ultra, Mind control, Pedophilia blackmail, secret societies, Jesuits), Operation Paperclip, & Hidden Identities, Albert Pike, Freemasonry, & the Justice System, and more. The core story is the CIA in genomic black markets selling and profiteering genetics among the Illuminati and killing to cover it up Psychology and Sexuality. And also the psychology of King Edward VIII and Borderline Personality Disorder, impulsivity - Vienna and 1920s Central Europe Eugenics

Place of migration:

Migrated to/Born in USA

The ancestral home of JFK is generally accepted to be Dunganstown, Co. Wexford as this is the homeplace of his paternal ancestors. He even visited there on his 1963 tour of Ireland. But what of JFK's maternal connections to Ireland?

Thomas Fitzgerald was born in Bruff, Co. Limerick in 1823. He married Rose Anna Cox (1836-1879), a Cavan woman with whom he emigrated to Boston MA. While in Boston the couple had 12 children, 9 of whom lived to adulthood.

The couple's fourth child, John Francis Fitzgerald (1863-1950) would go on to marry Mary Josephine Hannon, who would give birth to Rose Elizabeth Fitzgerald on the 22nd of July 1890. Rose Elizabeth would become JFK's mother.

Thomas Fitzgerald died on the 19th of May 1885 in Boston Massachusetts, USA.

” every time you meet her or with her or talk with her you’re very much conscious of the the you know so the joy of existence in life she hasn’t got time for for uh self-pity and i think during the most difficult times of tragedy in our family she’s been the one that’s kind of lifted us all up and i think this has been part of the reason why uh we’re we’re always not only in love with her but have such respect for her.”

Narrator

The kennedy story began in the port of boston where irish immigrants came in their hundreds of thousands during the potato famine of the 1840s among them were two men from the county of Wexford Patrick Kennedy and Thomas Fitzgerald the early years in Boston were not easy for the irish newcomers crowded into slums along the waterfront they were happy to accept any work live in any conditions thomas fitzgerald’s son john was born in a tenement house his playgrounds as he grew up were the dark side streets and alleys but he knew that beyond the waterfront was a world of opportunity and that the son of a penniless immigrant could still hope to reach the highest position in the city of Boston

[Music]

In december 1905 john fitzgerald achieved his ambition and was elected mayor of boston by his side throughout the campaign was his fifteen-year-old daughter Rose Fitzgerald reveling in the color and excitement of Boston politics and even mayor Fitzgerald’s opponents had to admit he was colorful never happier than singing Sweet Adeline to his supporters in his fine tenor voice.

well i think it probably started with my father because he was in politics and all his life and my sons were at home that they used to uh in Cambridge which is very near Boston uh and uh they used to lunch with him every week uh and he loved to talk about Boston he’d love to talk about the history of this country and Boston is of course replete with things of historical interest it’s very near conquered in Lexington so they grew up in that atmosphere where they were interested in history they were interested in government and then they went to Washington at an early age just as a little boy seeing uh the uh seeing congress and seeing the senate and of course my father had been in congress uh so it was sort of a natural interest.

It took 115 years to make this trip and 6000 miles and 3 generations but I'm proud to be here and I appreciate the warm welcome you've given to all of us.

When my great-grandfather left here to become a Cooper in East Boston he carried that nothing with him except two things - a strong religious faith and a strong enough desire for liberty.

> Gerry Adams on IRA and Sinn Fein
>
> Transcribed from PBS *
>
> "In more recent years, Sinn Fein has said, "We are not the IRA, they are a totally separate organization."

And I'm glad to say and I'm glad to say that all of his great grandchildren have valued that inheritance.

If he hadn't left I'd be working over at the Albatross company or perhaps for John D Kelly and in any case we're happy to be back together.

About fifty years ago an Irishman from New Ross traveled down to Washington with his family and in order to tell his neighbors how well he was doing he had his picture taken in front of the White House and said this is our summer home come and see it.

Well it's our home also in the winter and I hope you will come and see us.

[Applause] Thank you.

Mayor chairman of the council Mr. Minister my friends I want to what I want to express on my pleasure at being a back from whence I came there is an impression in Washington that there are no Kennedys left in Ireland that they're all in Washington and I wonder if there are any Kennedys in this audience.

Could you hold up your hand so I can see I'm there to see if you dozens who didn't catch the boat?

Okay seems to me that in these dangerous days when the struggle for freedom is worldwide against an armed doctrine that Ireland and its experience has one special significance and that is that the people's fight which ▶ John Boyle O'Reilly [an Irish poet, journalist, author and activist wbo as a youth in Ireland was a member of the Irish Republican Brotherhood (or Fenians) for which he was transported by the British to Western Australia. After escaping to the United States, he became a prominent spokesperson for the Irish community and culture] said I've lived a thousand years that it was possible for a people over hundreds of years of foreign domination and religious persecution it was possible for that people to maintain their national identity and their strong faith and therefore those who may feel that in these difficult times who may believe that freedom may be on the run or that some made nations may be permanently subjugated and eventually wiped out would do well to remember Ireland.

And I'm proud to come here for another reason because it makes me even prouder of my own country my country welcomed so many sons and daughters of so many countries Irish and Scandinavian and German is Italian and all the rest and gave them a fair chance and a fair opportunity.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives (Tip O'Neil) Irish descent leader of the Senate is a Irish descent and what is true of the Irish has been true of dozens of other people in Ireland I think you see something of what is so great about the United States and I must say that in the United States through millions of your sons and daughters and cousins twenty-five million in fact you see something of what is great about Ireland.

So I'm proud to be here I'm proud to have connected on that beautiful golden box coat of arms of Wexford the coat of arms of the kingly and beautiful Kennedy's and also and the coat of arms of the United States that's a very good combination.

Supreme Governor of the Church of England retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Supreme Governor of the Church of England is the titular head of the Church of England, a position which is vested in the British monarch.[1] Although the monarch's authority over the Church of England is largely ceremonial and is mostly observed in a symbolic capacity, the position is still very relevant to the church. As the supreme governor, the monarch formally appoints high-ranking members of the church on the advice of the prime minister of the United Kingdom, who is in turn advised by church leaders,[1] such as the Lords Spiritual.

The Lords Spiritual of the United Kingdom are the 26 bishops of the established Church of England who serve in the House of Lords (not counting retired archbishops who sit by right of a peerage). The Church of Scotland, which is Presbyterian, and the Anglican churches in Wales and Northern Ireland, which are no longer established churches, are not represented. The Lords Spiritual are distinct from the Lords Temporal, their secular counterparts who also sit in the House of Lords.

I believe this World Interest was operating as the Family Jewels Program and also in Kenya and created Barrack Obama JR. from Barrack Obama Sr. in a USA, Harvard, and CIA Saudi plan including Mossad that would solidify Great Britain.

This was co-oerdinated worldwide by the US Spy James Angleton.

Wherever you look James ANgletons name is on this and he was controversial in US inteligence.

- The official assassination program -

CIA NWO Shadow Gov assassinations, the war against Home waged from Great Britain *

The ambiguous rationale for the MK-Ultra program was the search for the Manchurian Candidate: to study, emulate, and counterbalance communist programs which brainwash people who could be dangerous to our national security. These programs were secret, and masses of MK-Ultra records were destroyed. But some > aspects of the program’s direct testing have been divulged. CIA executive Morse Allen worked at creating killers under hypnosis on and around Feb. 19, 1954. The CIA planned early in 1954 to hypnotize a man they considered disposable, to get him to make an assassination attempt, be arrested for attempted murder, and be “thereby disposed of.” A CIA hypnosis study was done by Alden Sears at the University of Minnesota and was moved by Sears to the University of Denver, Colorado. Sears worked to answer the question, “Could a hypnotist induce a totally separate personality? CIA counterintelligence chief {{James Jesus Angleton,}} a leader of the British intelligence faction in the American intelligence community, established three goals for the hypnosis program:

Sectarianism and Dirty Wars are often fought through Gym Roughians (Brown Shirts) or Athletic or other clubs, or neighborhood groups who commit Guerillas Warfare acts with tacit State approval or State assistance.

They are undercover and deny their actions.

> [CATHOLIC RIGHTS] NORTHERN IRELAND CIVIL RIGHTS ASSOCIATION (NICRA)
>
> > The Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association (NICRA) was an organisation that campaigned for civil rights in Northern Ireland during the late 1960s and early 1970s. Formed in Belfast on 9 April 1967,[1] the civil rights campaign attempted to achieve reform by publicising, documenting, and lobbying for an end to discrimination in areas such as elections (which were subject to gerrymandering and property requirements), discrimination in employment, in public housing and alleged abuses of the Special Powers Act.[2] The genesis of the organisation lay in a meeting in Maghera in August 1966 between the Wolfe Tone Societies which was attended by Cathal Goulding, then chief of staff of the Irish Republican Army (IRA)

ORANGE ORDER (PROTESTANT)

The Loyal Orange Institution, commonly known as the Orange Order, is an international Protestant fraternal order based in Northern Ireland and primarily associated with Ulster Protestants. It also has lodges in England, Scotland and the Republic of Ireland, as well as in parts of the Commonwealth of Nations, Togo and the United States.

The Orange Order was founded by Ulster Protestants in County Armagh in 1795, during a period of Protestant-Catholic sectarian conflict, as a fraternity sworn to maintain the Protestant Ascendancy in Ireland. It is headed by the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland, established in 1798. Its name is a tribute to the Dutch-born Protestant king William of Orange, who defeated Catholic king James II in the Williamite-Jacobite War (1688-1691). The order is best known for its yearly marches, the biggest of which are held on or around 12 July (The Twelfth), a public holiday in Northern Ireland.

The Orange Order is a conservative, British unionist[4][5] and Ulster loyalist[6][7] organisation. Thus it has traditionally opposed Irish nationalism/republicanism, and campaigned against Scottish independence.[8] The Order sees itself as defending Protestant civil and religious liberties, whilst critics accuse it of being sectarian, triumphalist and supremacist.

ULSTER PROTESTANT VOLUNTEERS (PROTESTANT)

The UVF’s declared goals were to combat Irish republicanism - particularly the Irish Republican Army (IRA) - and to maintain Northern Ireland’s status as part of the United Kingdom.

In the spring of 1969, the UPV took part in a bombing campaign across Belfast. The series of bombings took place on 30 March, 4 April, 20 April, 24 and 26 April. These attacks targeted electricity substations that would remove power from the east and south parts of Belfast. Other attacks targeted the water supply. A separate bombing was also planned to target a hydroelectric plant in Ballyshannon. As a result, Irish troops moved toward the border alongside ambulances, and British troops moved into the area as well. The UPV was also involved in the RTE Studio bombing on 5 AUGUST 1969.

This is a timeline of actions by the Ulster Volunteer Force (UVF), an Ulster loyalist paramilitary group since 1966. It includes actions carried out by the Red Hand Commando (RHC), a group integrated into the UVF shortly after their formation in 1972. It also includes attacks claimed by the Protestant Action Force (PAF), a covername used by the UVF. Most of these actions took place during the conflict known as "the Troubles" in Northern Ireland.

- 6 April 1966: UVF members petrol bombed a Catholic primary school-Holy Cross Girls' School-in Belfast. The attack happened two days before Terence O'Neill, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, was to address a Catholic-Protestant reconciliation meeting there.[6]

- 16 April: UVF members fired two shots through the front door of the home of a Unionist politician, Johnny McQuade, in the hope Republicans would be blamed.[7]

- 7 May: UVF members petrol bombed a Catholic-owned pub on Upper Charleville Street, in the Shankill district of Belfast. Fire also engulfed the house next door, badly burning the elderly Protestant widow who lived there. She died of her injuries on 27 June.[8]

- 27 May: Gusty Spence sent four UVF members to kill a man they believed to be an Irish Republican Army volunteer. When they arrived at his house on Baden Powell Street in Belfast, he was not at home. The men then drove around the Falls district in search of a Catholic. They shot John Scullion, a Catholic civilian, as he walked home. He died of his wounds on 11 June.[8] Spence later wrote: "At the time, the attitude was that if you couldn’t get an IRA man you should shoot a Taig, he’s your last resort”.[10]

- 25 June: the UVF tried to kill a well-known Republican in the Falls area of Belfast. He wasn’t home so they broke into his house and set fire to it.[7]
- 26 June: the UVF shot three Catholic civilians as they left a pub on Malvern Street, Belfast. One of them was killed.[8]
- 28 June: the UVF was declared illegal.
- 1 January: a bomb planted by UVF members destroyed a republican memorial at Toomebridge, County Antrim, on the route of the People’s Democracy march.
- March-April 1969, members of the UVF and Ulster Protestant Volunteers (UPV) bombed water and electricity installations in Northern Ireland. The loyalists hoped the attacks would be blamed on the dormant IRA and on elements of the civil rights movement, which was demanding an end to discrimination against Catholics. The loyalists intended to bring down Ulster Unionist Party Prime Minister Terence O’Neill, who had promised some concessions to the civil rights movement. At the time, the bombings were indeed blamed on the IRA, and British soldiers were deployed to guard installations.[11]
- Perhaps ten more bombings to numerous to transcribe into this book
- 5 AUGUST: RTE STUDIO BOMBING - a bomb damaged the front of the RTÉ Television Centre in Donnybrook, Dublin.[12] The UVF claimed responsibility.[13] This was its first attack in the Republic of Ireland.[14]
- Many more beyond that just from this group.

Powerful Texans Need a Delusion to be beld, fixed, forced and re-inforced in public perception a thing that is or is likely to be wrongly perceived or interpreted by the senses.

DELUSION

A belief or altered reality that is persistently held despite evidence or agreement to the contrary, generally in reference to a mental disorder.

FIXED DELUSION

Medical terminology for a Pscychotic state in which an irrational belief is held, a delusion, and the presence of the fixed delusion is a Personality Disorder in most cases.

This book maintains the condition can be instilled, created and adopted into people by making them WISH a lie was true in the heat ofa moment or temptation, thus act under the lie and espouse the lie.

OBSESSIVE-COMPULSIVE DISORDER (OCD)

Obsessive-compulsive disorder is characterized by unreasonable thoughts and fears (obsessions) that lead to compulsive behaviors. OCD often centers on themes such as a fear of germs or the need to arrange objects in a specific manner. Symptoms usually begin gradually and vary throughout life.

In fact the NWO CIA nutjobs who killed JFK to make available and make profitable Middle East Oil and puppet governments have the realistic fear vitcims of the NWO will out the murder of JFK and I am one of those who have evidence of who killed JFK.

The Irish who arrived during the famine years (like my Irish Catholic father's parents) were among the poorest and least welcome immigrants in Boston. In 1850, a group of African Americans living on Elm Street signed a petition to keep the Irish out of their neighborhood.[88] Advertisements for domestic servants sometimes stipulated "a Protestant woman", implying that an Irish Protestant would be acceptable; others specifically warned, "no Irish need apply".

I heard many stories about this from my father and though wealthier JFK would certainly have sympathies for Ireland as the Queen of England and the IRA fought.

The military though had the Special Relationship with the Queen Of England, MI5, MI6, and far fewer reservations about the Middle East North African and Indonesia and Far East plants to stop Cub, Russia, and China.

What started as sleeper agents became a liability for groomed families and genome family databases and the program turned into a free for all of faked mass printed rights to various families in genome black markets and worthless secretive genome exchanges in the Ukraine and elsewhere degenerating intelligence community activity to elite family secret participation in long term twinds and animal husbandry studies of DNA.

Temptations have created a Genome market of Donegan genome of enormous mass much like a huge but secret ice float which secretly creeps along, its mass large enough to keep it in motion.

This book will assert very high ranking political power can invite those with a profit motive to operate free from or with encouragement from espionage agencies and thus become hit people for espionage operation if the rewards from the requested conduct are of sufficient reward interest to the mercenary, and that use of those will little hope such as homeless communities as espionage assets can encourage blatantly illegal but permitted behaviors and this may apply to Bob Creamer Scott Foval tactics.

And in response to the comments of this second person, this man told him that he had come from the Mars base and that he was one of FIFTEEN COMMANDERS, who made their way among the moon bases, the Mars base and the base on Saturn, which is really on one of the moons of Saturn according to what our Father in Heaven told me. This man continued to tell the second person that the “pressure” in the underground base on Mars became very unstable, that the conditions on the Saturn base also became unstable, that they base actually “imploded”, and that they were forced to leave these Mars! He went on to say that at first they did not know what was bringing about these instabilities on the Mars base, but that at this time, they believe that Yahweh was behind these instabilities. He also said that the whole solar system is unstable at this time.

> The dark cabal set up the present US administration to complete a process begun in the closing days of WWII. But a growing body of patriotic and disgruntled government employees and assorted allies clearly understood what was covertly being done to hijack the > American Republic. The focus of this underground group was on legally remedying these abuses and returning the fiscal resources pilfered by the dark. They also saw that both political parties were becoming puppets for the empire-building programs of the dark. The opposing sides finally engaged in an all-out clash in the late 1990s, a highlight of which was the stolen election of 2000. With this contemptible act, it became clear that the needed reforms were not going to be enacted by the now-degenerated US political system. Equally clear was the need for creating an effective alternative to this system and putting it into power. The upshot is the present bunch of policies advocated by our Earth allies.

Recall like my father James Paul Donegan, Tom Donegan, Glorian Donegan, and me, most Irish Catholics are no fan of the Queen or England, and them siezing land. Trust me on that I spent much of my life listening to songs about Bobby Sands, the Troubles in Ireland, and reading his poems or going to bars covered with Irish history putting tips on the bucket to fund the IRA and Palestinians.

I loved the book Trinity by Leon Uris (a great Jew whose other magnificent work was Exodus.)

Rewald’s court affidavit stated that BBRDW was used by the CIA to “shelter monies of highly placed foreign diplomats and businessmen, who wished to ‘export’ cash to the United States, where it would be available to them in the event of emergency.” The CIA’s man in Cambodia, Marshal Lon Nol, availed himself of the accounts after he fled Cambodia to Hawaii after the takeover by the Khmer Rouge. Rewald bought a house form Lon Nol in Hawaii, an address that was later used for CIA cover companies.

The accounts held by BBRDW for foreign officials were held in “negotiable securities, wire transfers, or checks, many from the Chase Manhattan Bank.” Chase Manhattan was owned by David Rockefeller.

The Kelly article refers to letters between Kindschi and CIA agent Charles T. Connor that confirmed that BBRDW was providing such financial shelter for foreign officials, not just those in Asia but around the world. One letter from Connor to Kindschi stated that BBRDW provided a scheme for Greek elites to circumvent stringent Greek foreign exchange controls by investing in BBRDW. A CIA intermediary in Greece is named in the letter: Dino Goulos. Dino did not help the CIA because of his love for David Rockefeller of BBRDW was born in New York City, New York. He grew up in an eight-story house at 10 West 54th Street, the tallest private residence ever built in the city.[3] Rockefeller was the youngest of six children born to financier John Davison Rockefeller Jr. and socialite Abigail Greene “Abby” Aldrich. John Jr. was the only son of Standard Oil co-founder John Davison Rockefeller Sr. and schoolteacher Laura Celestia “Cettie” Spelman.

In 1946, Rockefeller joined the staff of the longtime family-associated Chase National Bank.[10] The chairman at that time was Rockefeller’s uncle Winthrop W. Aldrich.[11] The Chase Bank was primarily a wholesale bank,[12] dealing with other prominent financial institutions and major corporate clients such as General Electric (which had, through its RCA affiliate, leased prominent space and become a crucial first tenant of Rockefeller Center in 1930). The bank also is closely associated with and has financed the oil industry, having longstanding connections with its board of directors to the successor companies of Standard Oil, especially Exxon Mobil. Chase National became the Chase Manhattan Bank in 1955[10] and shifted significantly into consumer banking. It is now called JPMorgan Chase.[13]

Published in Dallas Morning News from DEC. 13 to DEC. 15, 2007

Jack Crichton proudly served his country during the Second World War in the U.S. Army as Special Agent OSS in Europe, where he was awarded the Bronze Star, Five Battle Stars and numerous other Citations of Merit. He was a retired Colonel in the US Army Reserves. Jack's career as an international petroleum consultant, engineer, geologist, oil and gas executive, explorer and writer and his love for travel led him to work in Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Libya, United Arab Emirates, Cuba, Honduras, Nicaragua, Venezuela, the Arctic, Alaska, Ceylon, Wales, Canada, Somalia, Egypt, Columbia, Vietnam and Brazil.

He served as President of several [international] companies, including Yemen Development Corporation, Dorchester Gas Corporation and Arabian American Development Company. He served as a Director to Florida Gas Company, Clark Oil and Refining, Whitehall Corporation. Transco Energy, Dorchester Gas Corp and Consolidated Development Corporation.

He was Co-Author of the "Dynamic Petroleum Industry", published by University of Oklahoma Press. In 1964 he served his Republican Party of Texas as Candidate for Governor. Jack was a Past President of the Dallas Petroleum Engineers Club. He served his Alma Mater as President of the Association of Former Students of Texas A&M, President of the Lettermen's Association and Chairman of the A&M Development Foundation.

He was a member of Preston Hollow Presbyterian Church, where he served as Deacon and Elder. He was also a long-term member of Northwood Club, Dallas Petroleum Club and Explorers Club. A memorial service celebrating Jack's life will be held Saturday, December 15 at 1pm in the main sanctuary of Preston Hollow Presbyterian Church, Preston Road at Walnut Hill, in Dallas.

On 11TH DECEMBER, 1959, Colonel J. C. King, chief of CIA's Western Hemisphere Division, sent a confidential memorandum to Allen W. Dulles, the director of the Central Intelligence Agency. King argued that in Cuba there existed a "far-left dictatorship, which if allowed to remain will encourage similar actions against U.S. holdings in other Latin American countries." (1)

As a result of this memorandum Dulles established Operation 40. It obtained this name because originally there were 40 agents involved in the operation. Later this was expanded to 70 agents. The group was presided over by Richard Nixon. Tracy Barnes became operating officer of what was also called the Cuban Task Force. The first meeting chaired by Barnes took place in his office on 18th January, 1960, and was attended by David Atlee Phillips, E. Howard Hunt, Jack Esterline, and Frank Bender.

According to Fabian Escalante, a senior officer of the Cuban Department of State Security (G-2), in 1960 Richard Nixon recruited an "important group of businessmen headed by George Bush (Snr.) and Jack Crichton, both Texas oilmen, to gather the necessary funds for the operation". (2) This suggests that Operation 40 agents were involved in freelance work.

It is known that at this time that George Bush and Jack Crichton were involved in covert right-wing activities. In 1990 The Common Cause magazine argued that: "The CIA put millionaire and agent George Bush in charge of recruiting exiled Cubans for the CIA's invading army; Bush was working with another Texan oil magnate, Jack Crichton, who helped him in terms of the invasion." (3) This story was linked to the release of "a memorandum in that context addressed to FBI chief J. Edward Hoover and signed NOVEMBER 1963, which reads: Mr. George Bush of the CIA" (4)

Reinaldo Taladrid and Lazaro Baredo claim that in 1959 George Bush was asked "to cooperate in funding the nascent anti-Castro groups that the CIA decided to create". The man "assigned to him for his new mission" was Féliz Rodríguez. (5)

Daniel Hopsicker also takes the view that Operation 40 involved private funding. In the book, Barry and the Boys: The CIA, the Mob and America's Secret History, he claims that Richard Nixon had established Operation 40 as a result of pressure from American corporations which had suffered at the hands of Fidel Castro. (6)

Webster Griffin Tarpley and Anton Chaitkin have argued that George Bush was very close to members of Operation 40 in the early 1960s. In September, 1963, Bush launched his Senate campaign. At that time, right-wing Republicans were calling on John F. Kennedy to take a more aggressive approach towards Castro. For example, in one speech Barry Goldwater said: "I advocate the recognition of a Cuban government in exile and would encourage this government every way to reclaim its country. This means financial and military assistance." Bush took a more extreme position than Goldwater and called for a "new government-in-exile invasion of Cuba". As Tarpley and Chaitkin point out, beneficiaries of this policy would have been "Theodore Shackley, who was by now the station chief of CIA Miami Station, Felix Rodriguez, Chi Chi Quintero, and the rest of the boys" from Operation 40. (7)

Peace Corps, Global social work, USAID, US Public Health Services Commissioned Corps, and DARPA CENTCOM backed, along with religious missionary support, Council on Foreign Relations, the program has US and international military plans and support as well including "red state" religious republicans and missionary outreach against failing communist leaning foreign economies.

HOUSTON, TX - The LBJ Foundation has awarded the LBJ Liberty and Justice for All Award to former President George H.W. Bush, in recognition of his leadership in public service and commitment to civil rights. In a ceremony on Tuesday, December 3, 2013, at the offices of our 41st President in Houston, Texas, Foundation Board members presented President Bush with the award. Joining President and Mrs. Bush at the presentation were his son, Neil, and his wife, Maria, and grandson Pierce Bush. Representing the Johnson family were Lynda Johnson Robb and Luci Baines Johnson.

The LBJ Liberty and Justice for All Award honors those, like President Bush, who personify Johnson's vision of a nation where every citizen can share in the benefits and full blessings of American life. Our nation's oldest living former president, President Bush is acknowledged for his strong character marked by decency and civility.

The Bush and Johnson families share a long history and friendship, beginning in the 1950s when Lyndon Johnson served in the U.S. Senate with Prescott Bush, George H.W. Bush's father. Although from different political parties, the two men enjoyed a productive working relationship steeped in mutual respect. In a letter to Prescott Bush, George H.W. Bush wrote about first meeting Johnson in Midland, Texas, in 1953. When Senator Johnson complimented his father, Bush replied that he was glad to hear such praise from a staunch Democrat. Johnson responded, "Your father and I don't like to be thought of as Republican or Democrat, rather as good Americans!"

In April 1990, President and Mrs. Bush welcomed Mrs. Johnson, members of the Johnson family, and former Johnson Administration Cabinet members to the White House for a 25th anniversary celebration of President Johnson's Inauguration.

The longstanding friendship between the Johnson and Bush families was carried on by President George W. Bush when he invited Lynda Johnson Robb, Luci Baines Johnson, and their families to the White House where he signed a 2007 law naming the Education Building in Washington, D.C., after President Johnson.

The ceremony in Houston is just the latest chapter in the relationship between the Bush and Johnson families. Joining in the presentation were Jean Becker, Chief of Staff to President Bush, along with members of the LBJ Foundation Board including former Texas Lt. Governor Ben Barnes; Texas Senator Rodney Ellis; Wayne Gibbens; former Texas Lt. Governor Bill Hobby; Robert Hutchings, Dean, LBJ School of Public Affairs; Tom Johnson, LBJ Foundation Chairman Emeritus; Cappy McGarr; Roy Spence; Larry Temple, LBJ Foundation Chairman; and Mark K. Updegrove, LBJ Library Director.

Motivated by Tower's victory, and hoping to prevent the far-right [Nationlist anti NWO] John Birch Society from coming to power, Bush ran for the chairmanship of the Harris County Republican Party, winning election in February 1963

In 1970, with President Nixon's support, Bush gave up his seat in the House to run for the Senate against Yarborough. Bush easily won the Republican primary, but Yarborough was defeated by the more conservative Lloyd Bentsen in the Democratic primary.[62] Ultimately, Bentsen defeated Bush, taking 53.5 percent of the vote.[63]

After the 1970 Senate election, Bush accepted a position as a senior adviser to the president, but he convinced Nixon to instead appoint him as the U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations.[64] The position represented Bush's first foray into foreign policy, as well as his first major experiences with the Soviet Union and China, the two major U.S. rivals in the Cold War.[65] During Bush's tenure, the Nixon administration pursued a policy of détente, seeking to ease tensions with both the Soviet Union and China

Family of Secrets is a book by Russ Baker. Published by Bloomsbury Press in 2008, the book describes alleged connections between the Bush family and the Central Intelligence Agency. The book asserts that President George H.W. Bush was linked to the Watergate scandal and the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Publication date 2008 Pages viii, 577 ISBN 978-1-5012-6397-2 Dewey Decimal 973.931092

In the book he levels various charges of corruption at the Bush family, whom he ties into the entry of the United States into World War II, the formation of the CIA, the assassination of John F. Kennedy and the Watergate scandal.

According to Baker, the first President Bush became an intelligence agent in his teenage years and was later at the center of a plot to assassinate Kennedy that included his father, Prescott Bush, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, CIA Director Allen Dulles, Cuban and Russian exiles and emigrants, and various Texas oilmen.[3] He also names Bob Woodward of The Washington Post as an intelligence agent who conspired with John Dean to remove President Richard Nixon from office for opposing the oil depletion allowance.

The book observes that when George H.W. Bush was at Phillips Academy his roommate was the nephew of George de Mohrenschildt, and that in later years, Bush and De Mohrenschildt fraternized in Dallas. In 1962, de Mohrenschildt befriended Lee Harvey Oswald. Baker also makes a connection between the Bushes and the Watergate scandal. He describes Watergate “not as a ham-handed act of political espionage but as a carefully orchestrated farce designed to take down President Richard Nixon

Search for some “Giant Octopus” of enough tentacles for this whole story to fit together

Investigative journalist Tim Weiner, winner of the Pulitzer Prize and author of CIA and FBI histories, said the book is “a carnival of conspiracy theory.” He told Boston magazine in 2015 that Baker is “driven by the search for truth that drives reporters everywhere, but conspiracy theory in which there’s a giant octopus that connects disparate events and provides a unified field theory explanation of otherwise disparate events is not either journalism or history.”

Being a Racist, like being a Geologist, or an Anthropologist (Ethnic, Ethnology, or biological) has come to be thought of as too dangerous a field of public debate and public policty as mostly blacks have been deemed inferior as a race through much of history.

From the 1920s on Eugenics was discussed worldwide and following the Allies victory in WWII only the most offensive and illegal spy agencies in covert programs ever considered the question again; or, more truthfully, still and in classified studies such as Twins Studies.

Covert work by covert agencies lead to mistakes which are kept covert and the need for Espionage Agencies and the sphere of influence they have to keep all these matters covert are the subject of this book, and why law abiding citizens who live in the lanscape of government mistakes are now in danger, those like myself.

The Chain of Command

Wilcher alleged the existence of a “top secret chain of command underlying all of the major covert and black operations which have been carried out by the CIA’s myriad wet teams over the past 30 years or so.” This “shadow government” would be led by “a top secret council of nine men whose names I do not know and would not recognize even if I stumbled across them,” who were capable of giving orders to the Director of Central Intelligence and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Wilcher claimed that this group was responsible for nearly every notable assassination and assassination attempt from JFK to John Lennon, for starting the Vietnam and Bosnian wars by destabilizing these societies, and for the deaths at Jonestown.

More from Paul Wilcher referenced later in this book an the ties to George H.W. Bush including the October Suprise

John Brown

John Brown was a leading figure in the abolitionist movement in the pre - Civil War United States. Unlike many anti-slavery activists, he was not a pacifist and believed in aggressive action against slaveholders and any government officials who enabled them.

Following the brutal murder of Presbyterian minister and anti-slavery activist Elijah P. Lovejoy in 1837. He said at the time, "Here, before God, in the presence of these witnesses, from this time, I consecrate my life to the destruction of slavery!"

Harpers Ferry

By early 1859, Brown was leading raids to free enslaved people in areas where forced labor was still in practice, primarily in the present-day Midwest. At this time, he also met Harriet Tubman and Frederick Douglass, activists and abolitionists both, and they became important people in Brown's life, reinforcing much of his ideology.

With Tubman, whom he called "General Tubman," Brown began planning an attack on slaveholders, as well as a United States military armory, at Harpers Ferry, Virginia (now West Virginia), using armed freed enslaved people. He hoped the attack would help lay the groundwork for a revolt, and historians have called the raid a dress rehearsal for the Civil War.

In the end, John Brown's raid on Harpers Ferry ended in failure.

Robert E. Lee and his men arrested Brown and transported him to the courthouse in nearby Charles Town, where he was imprisoned until he could be tried. In November, a jury found Brown guilty of treason against the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Brown was hanged on December 2, 1859, at the age of 59. Among the witnesses to his execution were Lee and the actor and pro-slavery activist John Wilkes Booth. (Booth would later assassinate President Abraham Lincoln over the latter's decision to issue the Emancipation Proclamation.)

I will use this Tradecraft set of definitions, the Art of leving red herring bread crumb trails

EDIFICE

Edifice means a building, but it doesn't mean just any building. To merit being called an edifice, a building must be important. A mini temple can be an edifice, or a towering sky scraper

The meaning of edifice has expanded to include a system of ideas - when it is complicated enough to be considered to have walls and a roof, then it is an edifice. You could say that basic facts of addition and subtraction are the foundation on which the edifice of higher math rests.

ARTIFICE

A deceptive maneuver (especially to avoid capture) If a politician pretends to be angry as a way of rousing the anger of the voters and getting more votes, he's guilty of artifice - a subtle and crafty trick.

Before taking on its current meaning, artifice meant a skilled piece of workmanship. A beautiful diamond bracelet might have been considered a piece of artifice, for example; now it would only be called artifice if the diamonds were fake.

DECEIT

Deceit is purposeful falsehood. If you want to keep your true love true to you, avoid any acts of deceit.

Deceit comes from the Latin for "cheat." When you deceive someone, you give them a false impression, mislead them so as to get away with something bad. If a person speaks in a way that gives a false impression, we call the way he speaks "deceptive." If someone pretends to be someone else, that's an act of deceit, like when a thief pretends to be a valet parking attendant and takes off with your car.

Twelve of these proposals come from a 2_ (really February 20) February 1962 memorandum entitled “Possible Actions to Provoke, Harass or Disrupt Cuba,” written by Brig. Gen. William H. Craig and submitted to Brig. Gen. Edward Lansdale, the commander of the Operation Mongoose project.[6][9]

He was dismissed by John F. Kennedy over the latter fiasco.

“Space Mines Ploy” Social Services backing and paying the assailants and effectily holding me still to ease the assaults aim

One of the main story lines of this book which I also compare to the circumstances of the death of Judge Roll is that there has been a bizarre and unprecedented obsessive desire of those around me to try and administer my assets, or my mothers, and seeming do so as a mission as important as an international declaration of war, seriously, as if history seemed to turn on others gaining and using those assets, and a mas hysteria surrounding my genome.

My belief I will outline is that sham cases against me like racially or sexually assaulting me and seeking claims against me, based on the fight, (as if claiming whiplash injury to the neck after a car collision) “gets my genome into lawfully seized assets” where in fact they have already unlawfully been in use including by religions Peace Corps, NASA MKULTRA experimentation, etc.,

This is “legitimization after the fact” in which “I really bough it, jail bait, with my misconduct” thus my genome is due as penalty to harmed people where my genome is already long in use for decades.

Those world peace like organizations, perhaps Salvation Army, Catholic Charities or others, or the US PHS Commissioned Core or Dept Of Justice victims' funds, are targeting me for claims which legitimize their exist claims to my genome and its administration.

Gettign me into racial fights and observing "my racism" is part of it. I consider three conditions of the State.

- State and Citizen are peaceful
- Law Enforcement: State is peaceful and observes secretly hostile citizen to study Citizen illegality without altering path or acts of citizen acting illegally, study illegal citizen as pretrial obsererd did not affect the observed evidence collection
- COINTELPRO: The State is illegally a provocative threat to the citizen. This is the case with me as unconstitutional fights and violations of my rights are provoked in State abuse of power and state wrongfull adjudication of conflict situations.

I assert fake claims against my legitimate life transfer assets illegally and constitute political and economic espionage and also are Human Rights Violations.

U.S. Senate: The Enforcement Acts of 1870 and 1871 Google knowledge panel retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

In response, Congress passed a series of Enforcement Acts in 1870 and 1871 (also known as the Force Acts) to end such violence and empower the president to use military force to protect African Americans. ... Even this legislation did not diminish harassment of black voters in some areas.

Then and today the US Marshalls are used for that task including seizures of assets of White Supremacists and also fund themselves out of seized assets.

In my case, Edward Paul Donegan, US Marhsall fighting white Supremacism take an impersonator of me, a retarded loser, to an adult entertainer and find child porn which they manufactured, on the impersonator of me. This scenario allows my genome to be seized and used for minorities since the impersonator of me took exploitative photos of the minority child or others

I call an early version of this book Genocracketeering in that behavioral health care I do not want or need, nor has the right to my mothers genome, is “paying” that genome to their own beneficiaries as they agree of false claims against me.

The scam is called the Grandparents scam when a someone (like a trust fund for the boy) is called to take care of the problem the boy is ALLEGED to have, though the trouble the boy is in is faked and false ID of the boy.

Sapience is closely related to the term “sophia” often defined as “transcendent wisdom”, “ultimate reality”, or the ultimate truth of things.[5][4][61] Sapiential perspective of wisdom is said to lie in the heart of every religion, where it is often acquired through intuitive knowing.[5][4] T

Culpable Agencies, Agency Heads, and Foreign Titled Masonic Ranks or Orders

Why do Masonic groups especially seem to assault me AS IF I assaulted them or their children, and assault me (and my genome rights) in retaliation, as if my genome was the property of Masonry groups under any form of law? Does this go to Free Masonry history? And Espionage entanglement with Masons history?

Wikipedia on Culpability retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Culpability, or being culpable, is a measure of the degree to which an agent, such as a person, can be held morally or legally responsible for action and inaction. It has been noted that the word, culpability, “ordinarily has normative force, for in nonlegal English, a person is culpable only if he is justly to blame for his conduct”.[1] Culpability therefore marks the dividing line between moral evil, like murder, for which someone may be held legally responsible and a randomly occurring event, like earthquakes, for which no human can be held responsible. One formulation of the concept is as follows:

A person is culpable if they cause a negative event and

- the act was intentional;
- the act and its consequences could have been controlled (i.e., the agent knew the likely consequences, the agent was not coerced, and the agent overcame hurdles to make the event happen); and

- the person provided no excuse or justification for the actions.

Culpability descends from the Latin concept of fault (culpa). The concept of culpability is intimately tied up with notions of agency, freedom, and free will. All are commonly held to be necessary, but not sufficient, conditions for culpability.

What was perceived to be necessary during the 1960s Missle Crisis? Or in the earlier rise of Nazism and the V2? What could Espionage accomplish with the Churches, aka “Catholics In Action?”

Does this go back to a long history of MKULTRA CIA stop at nothing to defeat Communism “hits” starting with JFK murder under MKULTRA?

Communism and Aerospace. Loosing the all the component races in the most existential threat Western civilization ever faced.

“Mind Control” (More simply leadership or political control) can begin with assassination of leadership to change or alter the course of beliefs, platitudes, or programs, changing the courser of history itself.

Some strange espionage backed espionage based US Department of Defense malfeasance has surrounded what my genome is, where it exists, and who has rights to it, most of this being faked by the US DOD all of the time including US Public Health Service, military medicine.

I think secret histories are revealed by what is really true about my genome and Espionage agencies are using “stealth and cunning” techniques of deceit to coverup the truth.

Minnesota Twin Family Study

The Minnesota Center for Twin and Family Research (or MCTFR) is a series of behavioral genetic longitudinal studies of families with twin or adoptive offspring

MTFS is a twin study established in June 1989 with 1300 same-gendered twin pairs age 11 or 17, with an additional cohort of 500 such pairs recruited around 2004. Twins were born between 1972 and 2000. [1] All twins born in MN at that time were eligible to participate using birth registry data. Both identical and fraternal twins share certain aspects of their environment. This allows researchers to estimate the relative impact of environmental and genetic influences on phenotypes.

The Minnesota Twin Registry was established in 1983.[2] Its original goal was to establish a registry of all twins born in Minnesota from 1936 to 1955 to be used for psychological research. Recently, it has added twins born between 1961 and 1964.

The Sibling Interaction and Behavior Study (SIBS) is a study of >600 adoptive and non-adoptive families.[1] The adoption study design allows one to disentangle the environmental and genetic influences on a phenotype, including psychological phenotypes.

A Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) report circulating in the Kremlin today states that the top US Federal Judge for the State of Arizona was assassinated barely 72-hours after he made a critical ruling against the Obama administrations plan to begin the confiscation of their citizen's private retirement and banking accounts in order to stave off their nations imminent economic collapse, and after having the US Marshals protecting him removed.

Google knowledge panel quoted here which was sourced from Wikipedia link

The Foreign Intelligence Service of the Russian Federation or SVR RF is Russia's external intelligence agency, focusing mainly on civilian affairs. The SVR RF succeeded the First Chief Directorate of the KGB in December 1991. The SVR has its headquarters in the Yasenevo District of Moscow.

According to this SVR report, Federal Judge John McCarthy Roll Cause of death: Assassination DIED: JANUARY 8, 2011 (aged 63); was the Chief Judge for the United States District Court for the District of Arizona who this past Friday issued what is called a "preliminary ruling" in a case titled "United

Did Judge Roll have the US Marshalls removed while under "Mind Control" (manipulation techniques) Roll sensing some form of harassment or vague problems with Marshalls behavior around him thus finding the presence for US Marshalls "unsettling?"

Were Mark and Scott Kelly and Ed Donegan and Tom Donegan and Barrack Obama twins or half twins under study and did this lead to the gunshots towards Gabrielle Gifford, Judge Roll, and others?

In the chapter The Jim Volcelcka Question Stay And Play operator framed me as retarded and a child porn maker.

Was Obama getting the Immunology and other assets seizures he wanted from the Judge Roll Case in the phony charges of child porn ring?

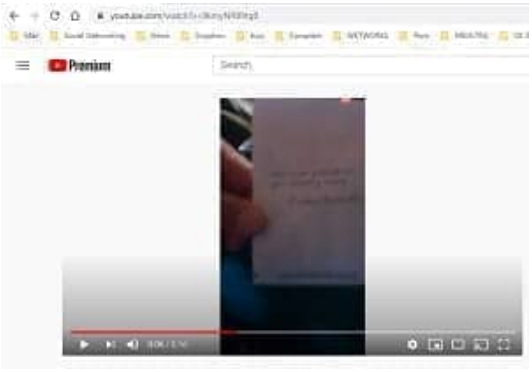
"Power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely."

An observation that a person's sense of morality lessens as his or her power increases. The statement was made by Lord Acton, a British historian of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Black Opps are the shadows shadowy people work in that can cover mistakes using bad policies under excuses to cover thier own mistakes. This shadow capability includes ability to recruit assets, paid assets, dupes, and allies in the espionage cause. - Donegan

I (like Tom Dunham) have obeyed the law all of my life minus a few recreational drug deals but by appearances we are in a ring together manufacturing Child Porn victimizing church going and other females.



If a massive operation represented my mother's genome could that trust fund (under bogus claims tied to Reproductivity) legitimize the illegitimate involuntary biological weapons history and experiments of Sidney Gottlieb during MKULTRA when a series of test family lines were built for the 21st Century, their own futures as leaders with leadership genes.

Jim Volcelcka challenged me why would we seize your tiny cash value trust fund of your mother from you?" and I have upcoming book section on the Why and How of it early in this book.

According to Jen Moore murdered August 12 2018 while I was at Stay and Play and I was creating the documentation, the real answer is when people like me, Justina Pelletier, and others are trapped in family courts, then those corrupt courts traffic our genome for the elite families, the Illuminati.

What if it were genomic assets of Glorian and the thank you card from Obama at the location was his support for the genomic immunology or other asset seizures by the US Marshalls.

The same US Marshalls seizing property under that case also will be funded by those asset seizures, US Marshalls disrupting racketeering organizations funding sources.

Repeatedly Marshalls or associated people have given me death threats, pushed me away from my keyboard, shouted or honked horns, or other activity as I have been writing my book and an expose writer Jen Moore talking about individual harassed by the Marshalls, she was posting about Defense Intelligence Agency DARPA Brain Program MKULTRA, CIA Black Budgets from blackmail pedonetworks funding CIA contractors, funding MKULTRA, and the FBI role in its ties to MK-ULTRA. She was killed at the same time I was writing my identity theft tied to asset seizures (car purchases) docs on the subject, Genomics and Genentech, and on the fake claims against me in the alleged child porn ring which appears to involve Tom Dunham and I but is something we could not even trace much less were involved in.

Perhaps they think they are studying a Kutschere to learn about racism, but the assault are real.

Her role in this is in the Dedication and through the book. As for California Department of Motor Vehicles black operatives and some white religious people were menacingly stalking me and surrounding the DMV counters and there was some unusual activity. I was told to come back the next day half way through the process, making it possible of a switch out in the paperwork and later also they said the repealed my Real ID because they doubted I proved my resplendence at Kink BnB Stay and Play in the first place.

RESPONSE NEEDED BY 08/03/2019

Dear EDWARD PAUL DONEGAN,

> This letter was sent to you because at the time you you were issued a REAL ID card during the period January 2018 April 2019, only one residency document was provided to the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV). A second residency document must be provided in order to retain your REAL ID card. DMV set up this easy and convenient way for you to respond by following a few simple steps.

On bus tickets, airplane bordering passes, etc., my name always seems to be wrong such as “Edwardpaul Donegan” RATHER THAN “Edward Paul Donegan,” a different unique passenger name.

This is all my life, always, DARPA CIA DOD as the secret ingredient of every secretly rigged moment and DARPA role in genome usage.

It was the same all of my mother’s life too, and it surround our lives.

In the course of my and my mother’s life stories a massive espionage interest in the triangle between our re productivity, brains, and Bone Marrow immunology are linked as are pictures of us.

Kleptomania around my, my fathers, mothers, and my belongings, military service beer steins mugs, family air-looms, hats, etc., causing the family records and even records of existence and background information to just disappear and be destroyed, this going back to 1982 or so during my father’s move from the Moraga Evidence Tampering to Abuse the Process. Faked evidence goes into the real process and out comes an outcome abusive to the process and abusive to the person the evidence was faked about, but it looks legitimate on its face.

The evidence underneath the real thing is fake, so the real thing is also fake but looks real, effectively a tampered with court order since it used sort of illegally guiding the hand if the judge.

Julian Assange and Wikileaks posited that offensively illegal operations would lose the Imperial Conditioning of people like Edward Snowden as their affinity the programs existence faltered on a loyalty level to the illegality.

Sure, CIA or US Marshall pretending to be me to a Dominatrix sex worker likes to be asked to give in to blackmail, my genes demanded, but it is more than that.

Since faked evidence involves ILLEGAL misconduct (which I am NOT involved in) the DARPA CIA US Marshall types now have rights to my DNA seized with law enforcement help and available in the seized asset locker for community charities, etc.,

The scheme depends on “permission slips” to represent me as though I am incompetent on fake diagnosis backed by the State while private neutral doctors are denied, moved away or acted upon in privilege.

It is prosecutorial bad faith to overtly fake that I am incompetent though such a manufactured finding enables the next prosecutorial bad acts, with the established misrepresentation acting in their interest to seize assets from me rather than defend me from the asset seizure scheme.

Why claims to my genome and mitochondria might be of concern to other branches of family origins and the JFK assassination? Truther link here. *

If you were born in the Andes Mountains you were selected to survive certain genes in those mountains and your Bone Marrow has that white blood cell information stored.

It is as if the shapes of your bone marrow genome are like a key shape matching the line of the top of those mountains and that is how peaks and shallows of lengths of immunology genes makeup your family history or origins, down to close relatives and out to no close connection at all.

The espionage fascination with and sabotage of the family line on my mother’s side is essential to this book and explaining the espionage agency interest in me.

DARPA and the Manhattan Project

James Paul Donegan nuclear bomber flights and Manhattan Nuclear Project (and his nuclear engineer brother both from Cape Cod and the Kennedys)

Glorian Donegan, likely daughter of Maria Von Trapp out of wedlock with Prince Edward of Wales FOXP2 gene.

Edward Paul Donegan, myself, named after a King Edward who was my grandfather, Paul Donegan my father’s middle name.

Usage of Identity Theft to Launder My DARPA Identified Genetics Rights into Asset Seizure goods in a Manhattan Project MKULTRA cover-up

My being without valid State Identification (Real ID) or the valid correct apartment number on the lease, cell unit, bedroom in the house, etc., has been the every moment battle of my life consuming all my life as I tried to move from States of the USA locations expecting somewhere my brothers influence or the money laundering influence of others falsifying my correct ID would not be present but the COINTELPRO backed scheme for Doppelgangers to be retarded pedophiles with schizophrenia in my identity has succeeded all my life.

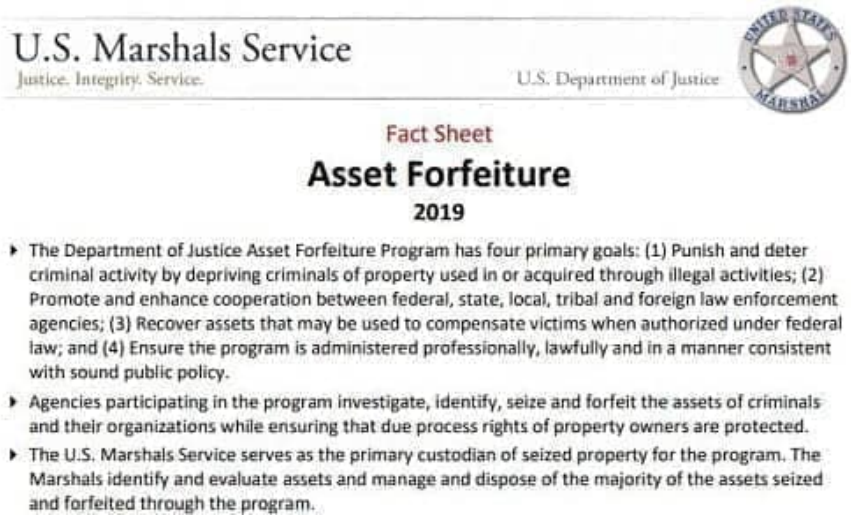
In fact a San Francisco friend of mine Tom Dunham had an online Doppelgänger of him matching my Doppelgänger that created the phony pedo ring of which my assets are signed away to Executive Asset Seizures which benefit retardation, autism, and other causes with my genes.

I have identified myself on Fetlife social networking forums as Story_CoverStroy, my presence in an area used as the cover story for an Espionage agency peeping tom ring using my identity by someone near me to misdirect blame towards me and away from the Doppelgänger, an Espionage actor who will be pursued from the scene by corrupt police.

Once a person who has stolen my identity has harmed a child, minority, etc., the asset seizure for that Trust Fund Social Services beneficiary is setep, and the asset seized mine, not the asset of the Doppelgänger of me.

A funding source for the illegal gangstalk force. ROI. It takes money to plant evidence to seize money over.

Asset seizures by Marshalls for THEMSEVLES, own use, and for victims use, and siezed from under cover operations in Strip Clubs both managing the clubs and “fining’ activities of White Supremacists in them.



U.S. Marshals Service

Justice. Integrity. Service.

U.S. Department of Justice

Fact Sheet

Asset Forfeiture

2019

- The Department of Justice Asset Forfeiture Program has four primary goals: (1) Punish and deter criminal activity by depriving criminals of property used in or acquired through illegal activities; (2) Promote and enhance cooperation between federal, state, local, tribal and foreign law enforcement agencies; (3) Recover assets that may be used to compensate victims when authorized under federal law; and (4) Ensure the program is administered professionally, lawfully and in a manner consistent with sound public policy.
- Agencies participating in the program investigate, identify, seize and forfeit the assets of criminals and their organizations while ensuring that due process rights of property owners are protected.
- The U.S. Marshals Service serves as the primary custodian of seized property for the program. The Marshals identify and evaluate assets and manage and dispose of the majority of the assets seized and forfeited through the program.

I think there has been an effort to tie my mother's trust fund of that value in the year of her death in 2011 to phony child porn networks manufactured for the purpose of seizing assets.

The Trust Fund wanting my genome seized for its use is assisting in the creation of my stolen identity and also disrupting my gaining my own property and ID cards.

- The Department of Justice Asset Forfeiture Program is a key component of the federal government's law enforcement efforts to combat major criminal activity by disrupting and dismantling illegal enterprises, DEPRIVING CRIMINALS OF THE PROCEEDS OF ILLEGAL ACTIVITY, DETERRING CRIME AND RESTORING PROPERTY TO VICTIMS.

- The U.S. Marshals Service plays a critical role in identifying and evaluating assets that represent the proceeds of crime as well as efficiently managing and selling assets seized and forfeited by DOJ.

- The Marshals Service manages a wide array of assets, including real estate, commercial businesses, cash, financial instruments, vehicles, jewelry, art, antiques, collectibles, vessels and aircraft.

- PROCEEDS GENERATED FROM ASSET SALES ARE USED TO OPERATE THE PROGRAM, COMPENSATE VICTIMS AND SUPPORT VARIOUS LAW ENFORCEMENT EFFORTS.

- The Marshals manage the distribution of proceeds and payments to victims of crime and other innocent third parties, all of which helps to mitigate the financial damage inflicted by criminal activity. The agency employs best practices from private industry to ensure that assets are managed and sold in an efficient and cost-effective manner.

- THE MARSHALS SERVICE SUPPORTS COMMUNITIES BY TRANSFERRING CERTAIN TYPES OF FORFEITED ASSETS TO STATE, LOCAL AND NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS. Through the Operation Goodwill program, forfeited real or personal property of marginal value can be transferred to state or local governments in support of drug abuse treatment, drug crime prevention and education, housing, job skills and other community-based public health and safety programs.

- The Asset Forfeiture Program was created in 1984 when Congress passed the Comprehensive Crime Control Act, which provided federal prosecutors and agents the legal and regulatory tools necessary to keep up with, and ahead of, those who commit crime for economic benefit.

- DOJ Asset Forfeiture Program participants include the Asset Forfeiture and Money Laundering Section of the Department of Justice Criminal Division; U.S. Marshals Service; Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives; Drug Enforcement Administration; FBI; and U.S. Attorneys' Offices. Other participants include the U.S. Postal Inspection Service; Food and Drug Administration; Department of Agriculture Office of the Inspector General; Department of State Bureau of Diplomatic Security; and Defense Criminal Investigative Service.

Later on in this book I will make extensive use of this pyramid describing the need for public debate on Race rather than leave it to Espionage agencies conducting The DARPA Brain Program but let me modify it here for a Mercenary model of events

What Jim Volcelcka was operating was a Social Good sperm bank fraud. Someone, not me, would “pay for” child porn with DNA, my DNA, which “settled the debt.”

Yet I had no interesting in peeping or child porn, the person who forged being me, who agreed to settle the debt, was an impersonator, a Doppelgänger, who shook down my mother’s trust fund, a trust fund never meant for that in the first place.

This fraud, that I am retarded, and retardation firms will settle claims against me in the scope of jurisdiction they have over all retarded people is the fraud of Behavioral Health Care and them as interested parties accepting the forgeries from my Doppelgänger which benefit their retarded beneficiaries for the social good.

Much like with Al Capone, what a favor he is doing for the town with availability of alcohol and charity donations.

His Mercenaries are for the good and donate to community charity Understanding Espionage, selected (Targeted Individuals) Mercenaries (Dupes, assets of Espionage,) and Gangstalk (evidence plants

- Targeted Individual, someone picked out or placed by the Espionage Agency who can be controlled by duping them with disinformation, perhaps information generated by an Information Doppelganger

- Espionage Agency, cover operatives seeking to gain control of a Government or Other OFficial

- Gangstalk Victim. A person who is having evidence planted on him by a Gangstalk including some in the Gang faking being him and identified by the Gang who pretend they are normal witnesses in public

The “good” being accomplished is the legitimization of black market DNA, which the Elite need because they have the DNA illegally and want that to appear as lawful use of DNA.

Individuals, Organizations, or Individuals within Organizations may be Targeted for recruitment by Espionage agents because the Targets are pro gay couples Genomics (Sandy Hume, Andrew Breitbart) or religious (Scalia, Roger Allies) or merely needed (Judge Roll.) If the recruitment goes south OR after opp, silence of grave prevents compromise of the Espionage mission Utilizing Targeted Individuals, recruited where they work in Front Organizations (BBRW Bank, etc.,) are how Espionage is conducted through assets.

Legends, cover stories such as employment in the Front Organization, is how covert operations are conducted even in view of the general public.

Targeted for recruitment as Double Agents. Working for Government while working for Espionage which misuses or re-purposes the job the recruited asset holds, and is generally contradictory to he mission of the organization the Targeted Individual is placed in.

Deceit (creating a Dupe,) Incitement/Incentive, or Expansion of the Assets own personal desires make up recruitment efforts.

The best recruitment of assets play on strong emotions the espionage recruit will be controlled by, thus the recruit will disregard normal cautions in acts.

The Targeted Individual is said to be in a state of Psychosis, that psychosis being under the control of a powerful fixed delusion non responsive to normal controls,

The Legend, the delusion the Dupe or the public holds, is the cover-story the Espionage Agency hides its acts through. In this book and other locations I call myself at times “Story_Coverstory” in that espionage agencies commit peeping tom acts but say it was me who did it, making me the cover story for the own acts.

Coutouts, also called Indica, misleading/ misdirecting but not despostive “indications” of things, like similar coats on two people, one the real perp. Because another person, the Gangstalk Victim, has the same coat on, the identity of one to another is cut and pasted with the clothing item the “clipboard” the identity is temporarily housed in as it is moved in between.

For those who can not be controlled or for assets who could compromise the Espionage mission Targeted Killings will be used.

The entire operation of fielding and concealing operatives, recruiting and using espionage front organizations, is the Gangstalk Ecosystem of Covert Operations

All of these elements provide cover and operational support including non neutral witnesses who are planted or recruited to lie for the Espionage operation, and up to and including #WETWORKS as needed to protect the mission and operatives from being compromised before the public.

These acts are described in the Long Con but also consider Spy Museum Language of Espionage.

Stopping Family Databases creating Skyfall dailyjournalonline.com quoted from here on the stopping of an Espionage Skyfall

When James Bond’s (Daniel Craig) latest assignment goes terribly wrong, it leads to a calamitous turn of events: Undercover [sleeper] agents around the world are exposed, and MI6 is attacked, forcing M (Judi Dench) to relocate the agency. With MI6 now compromised inside and out, M turns to the one man she can trust: Bond. Aided only by a field agent (Naomie Harris), Bond takes to the shadows and follows a trail to Silva (Javier Bardem), a man from M’s past who wants to settle an old score.

Anti Trump Interests are the Espionage Deep State

James Comey is the Targeted Individual believing his FISA warrants are based on sound evidence and help DEFEAT espionage

A British and or other Gangstalk plants evidence surrounding the Trump campaign subjecting it to investigation

Student, Senator, President, and Former President Obama, and Obama the husband and father.

This book nor any book or lawsuit or I have written is about Obama. For a while a picture of Barack Obama was on the cover and that Newsweek cover story magazine cover featured Obama in European aristocratic garb and a November 19 publish data of the magazine.

In 2006 I was using a web site to challenge the factual underpinnings of Department of Energy and National Institute of Health research in the joint Human Genome Project.

In 2006 I did not it consider it tied to my CIA manipulated family of origin history but rather sociology which blamed white Europeans for oppressing blacks when cultural problems and even likely genetic inequality to be sources of the problems which was within blacks.

Senator Obama and the Congressional Black Caucus I thought from online material were influencers of that sociology thinking (Ethics) which were displacing Science (Epistemic Biology.)

Arrested while seeking Freedom of Information Act documents tied to my web site I found THEY, the government were working on and co-opting those points from the other perspective leading to heated phone calls and finally my arrest on a misdemeanor for harassing the FOIA officers over my unfulfilled FOIA requests

During my DOJ Bureau of Prisons Public Health Service operated detention and psych evaluation I was tanked by a placed team of black psychiatrist, social workers, and others who viewed my entire theory of race as damaging to society and I was said to be unable to understand how racism harmed others and I was told I was delusional in requesting document I had no right to any interest in and was wrong about.

It was during that detention a prison snitch told me a Congressperson was going to step down from Congress to join the US Marshalls to fight against White Supremacism.

Later I would suspect the snitch was talking about Barack Obama and leaving Congress meant his run for president and the post racial plans coming from him, of a white mother and black father, and in that sociology to address race in America and I also think that meant me under study as a source of racism.

Deeper under that I think the CIA, DARPA the Brain Program, and other very covert agencies are interested in the FOXP2 Borderline Personality Disorder gene I carry and I have the Information Theory and Philosophical system to describe and the family history of observing it clinically for years.

This I later found out comes from that rare gene in my mother's side and how that collides with CIA MKULTRA work in my mother's side history and government interest in that including the secret CIA program which created Barack Obama Jr as a test birth of using that DNA and creating several family lines of twins and IQ studies, and other cognitive experimentation, attributes, and metrics.

I view the Obamas and Donegans mostly as victims who are the product of CIA activities effectively in Sins of the CIA history who now have the CIA history either to coverup or discover.

This will lead me into the theory the Trump administration and William Barr (Attorney General who as CIA officer destroyed CIA MKULTRA records) are trying to cover the era of Sidney Gottlieb and the CIA and Illuminati which included the assassination of Kennedy as Kennedy resisted the program going any further.

Today's Asset Seizures of a White Supremacist create the foundation to both continue genomic transfer among families and among countries such that with now Illuminati and Church backed usages what was quite rare DNA is now more common DNA, not of rare source, and found everywhere.

This activity though is coming from "Bird Dogging" fake claims against me which through a public perception I am psychotic white supremacist harming females by peeping minority children can be compensated and it is this growing mercenary network I believe tied to racketeering and crime.

Today public visible publicly planted indica (signs, not true evidence of) a peeping network I seem to be in are placed through society publicly and it is all fraud but creates the Legend the CIA and DARPA wants so that in that network genome IS authorized.

Mercenaries have been recruited and used to bird dog these phony claims against me.

The real hope is that as White Supremacism is taken down a rung, the genes transferred are of economic and cultural benefit to the disenfranchised and disadvantaged.

The Donegans and Kennedys in the Manhattan Project, Cape Cod, and secret family histories and identities.

“Yes” to always hating the CIA and “No” to ever had been a “Birther.”

What unlocked a lifetime of mystery for me, a lifetime of bizarre abusive treatment of my mother and by strangers who had no basis for hostility towards us led me thirty years of book writing and researcher ever corner of social knowledge, people, sociology, even cognition and cognitive research.

The final result unlocked in 2020 is that I have been the decades long victim of a Ganstalk, manufactured and planted evidence to be used in persecution, and this has been a form Deep State “doing a number” on a person COINTELPRO style, and spanning for 45 years, and this is because of what is on the maternal side of my family history, where the LONDON FOXP2 Runs in the “LONDON KE FAMILY” line

During this 45 years front organizations and people have been subjecting to sham hearings, assaults I am blamed for as the suspect rather than victim, and other dirty tricks conducted by people who say they are not doing it, and brag about doing to others as the planted evidence is accepted as true by others.

It is my theory now in this book (about Cape Cod and the Manhattan Project (in part) that the DARPA Human Brain Research including IQ, Economies, and Communism are tied to my birth, JFK and Sidney Gottlieb involuntary science projects and biology experiments, and that covert operations both need for my DNA and the need to hide its source explains the “number” being done on my by COINTELPRO.

That history goes to my fertilization with secret blood line DNA, a secret history of Feb 20 1961 DNA experiment (IVFs from Glorian Donegan DNA) and its use in modern families who wish to deny not only the racial experiments in family lines but the racial realities leading to those experiments.

This book is the speaking about what has and is so far unspoken, and why in my family history I have a the Rosetta Stone to make the decode of many public records whose presence is visible but the meaning is missing, such as JFK in Santa Monica California Manhattan Beach area November 19 1961, part of the Manhattan Project testing my father and mother, and Barack Obama Jr would also be connected to, and JFK would be assassinated over as he resisted DARPA and Illuminati CIA ongoing plans.

Because I have the family history, spoken, genetic, and in birth certificates, death certificates, school, medical, and other records mostly you can verify at once I can decode things the rest of the world have not had a good answer for.

During the Race and IQ University Admissions case of Fisher v. University of Texas at Austin I can explain why Justice Scalia died in Texas, with a pillow over his face, and, oddly, it happened in Red State anti communist TExas with the brain MKULTRA research Werhner Von Braun state and why a military intelligence, DARPA CIA #Wetworks Illuminati hashtag preceded his death, and no one realisticly denies that hash tag went out.

I will explain for instance in that matter gays and others who were in the addressing of that email have all sorts of new capabilities in personal eugenics, designer babies, and medical treatments for diseases and the possibility of gay same gender biological parents of children with IVF capabilities if DARPA and other new genetics and can produce up and coming answers rather than old thinking.

I can also explain why people like Justina Pelletier have been effectively kidnapped into unwanted government systems as I have who also likely possess the Cape Cod gene USA locus point.

And finally I can explain the unanswered questions the Camelot assasinations and Thomas C. Wales murder by a mercenary.

The Snowball Pelletier Snowball Rollovers

The Pelleiteirs talk of a snowball of rigged and wrong proceedings which the number of and effect of just build a bigger snowball which keeps rolling and same with me and the outlandish Gangtalk no one is defending me against in Surreal USA existence.

I have tried suing CIA Front Organizations (Targeted Businesses, Targeted Individuals, those who have asked to be assets of the CIA DARPA Deep State) unfortunately the South TExas FEderal DIstrict Court themselves and others work as favor providers to the Deep State and thus both the courts and the media have been useless or worse in seeking justice.

CIA Brain Research connected interests such as the Ellingtons of CIA DOD labs had a planted magistrate,e co-operating Marshalls created misfilings at the Clerk ‘s Window with down video survelliance blind spot, etc.,

Espionage Agencies, Targeted Individuals, Gangstalk Victims, Information Doppelgangers

- Espionage Agency: DARPA, CIA, Secret Service, FBI, etc., even DOD Public Health Service and Psychological Warfare support

- Targeted Individuals Public or Private Organizations or people asked to support Espionage Agencies complicity, and keep co-operation covert. Such co-operation is based on Disinformation. The Espionage Agencies is duping the entity. Targeting influencers or Commanders with Disinformation is part of PsyOps

- Gangstalk Victim The person whom the Espionage Agencies are using Front Organizations (Targeted Individuals) against; thus the Gangstalk Victim has wrongful outcomes orchestrated through Espionage Agency front groups

A Gangstalk “decomposes” a person’s life and rights by public appearances making the person seem like he is following the woman in front of him, who in fact is placed in front of him, or he is walking down the street with some stranger placed to walk next to him, and he has no control over, etc.,

Typically an Information Doppelganger (also called an Agent Provocateur) substituting for the Gangstalk Victim will create the Disinformation to be used duping Targeted Individuals into actions against the Gangstalk Victim.

Both the Information Doppelganger and the Targeted Individual may be Mercenaries who will benefit (or their causes will benefit) from actions against the Gangstalk Victim.

In practice, whether or not a person is a mercenary may be a matter of degree, as financial and political interests may overlap, as was often the case in all of history. - Wikipedia

What is Gangstalking?

The term “Gangstalking” or “Organized Stalking” refers to intense, long-term, harassment, intimidation, and surveillance of a Targeted (for Gangstalking) Individual. These covert operations are run by the Deep State Fusion Centers in each state, and many police departments are involved, worldwide.

It is funded by the CIA under the black budge, with the intention to silence or neutralize a person, who is often a political activist.

Such operations have little to do with criminal gangs, as they are operated by official government-funded agents.

Private organizations, such as Infragard, Citizen Corps, and Neighborhood Watch are often involved.

I quote this table form later and I will introduce it here to describe the assaults upon my mother and I, a group who will steal DNA from someone hated.

Roadblocking, Disruption of Continuous Event Paths achieved by Defamation created during the Gagnstalk

Recall that Street Theater, Rough Music, Gangstalk, is a technique to add deceptive context to public events making use of actors who are added to the context of normal events. That false total context, using the real person's activities out of its real unmodified context, is then in the falsified context part of a false narrative woven of false context surrounding normal person and thus blocking normal person on KOMPROMAT.

Masons target those in the USA who are law abiding people though these law abiding people are a threat to Illuminati agenda, Illuminati members such as those in Twins Studies

The [gang] stalk of paid mercenaries is in Zone “B” which generates KOMPROMAT which then is used in Zone “C” which person from Zone “A” is excluded from.

Sow what are the mulitple various races Illuminati international families really hiding and how does it relate

One of the many accusations this book makes is this picture of my half brother,depicted as a monkey in 1961 and I claim it is my half biological twin, mitochondrial detected, and one of many illegal twins I have black and white.

My father fertilized my mothers ovum on February 20 1961 and I was born at Manhattan Beach California under a radiation exosure testign progam my cape cod family my father the WWII bomber pilot were a part of.

The birth tracking though is through the mother giving births, not fertilization, something the Mossad points out in tracking Obama’s origins.

John Sidney “Slew” McCain (August 9, 1884 - September 6, 1945) was a U.S. Navy admiral and the patriarch of the McCain military family. He held several command assignments during the Pacific campaign of World War II. McCain was a pioneer of aircraft carrier operations.[1] Serving in the Pacific Ocean theater of World War II, in 1942 he commanded all land-based air operations in support of the Guadalcanal campaign, and in 1944-45 he aggressively led the Fast Carrier Task Force. His operations off the Philippines and Okinawa and air strikes against Formosa and the Japanese home islands caused tremendous destruction of Japanese naval and air forces in the closing period of the war.[2] He died four days after the formal Japanese surrender ceremony.

Several of McCain’s descendants were also graduated from the United States Naval Academy. He and his son, John S. McCain Jr., were the first father-son pair to achieve four-star admiral rank in the U.S. Navy during World War II. His grandson, John S. McCain III, served as a Navy captain in the Vietnam War, and later served in Congress until his death in 2018. His great-grandsons, John S. McCain IV and James McCain, currently serve in the U.S. Navy and U.S. Marine Corps, respectively.

From 1960 to 1962, John S. McCain Jr held commands in the Atlantic, including Amphibious Group 2 and Amphibious Training, and served on Taconic and Mount McKinley.

[38] He was Chief of Naval Information from 1962 to 1963,[38] initiating the post and garnering influence with the Washington press that would aid his career.[1] Following the April 1963 loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher, he explained to the public why the search for the wreckage would be lengthy and difficult, and defended the Navy against charges that it had been tardy in disclosing details of the disaster.[42][43][44] McCain was promoted to vice admiral in July 1963, and was made commander of the entire Amphibious Forces, Atlantic Fleet (COMPHIBLANT).[38][45][46]

He came up with the idea for Operation Sea Orbit, the voyage around the world without refuelling of three nuclear-powered Navy ships; it was reminiscent of the Great White Fleet circumnavigation that his father had been part of over half a century earlier.[47]

> York man, JFK’s godson, recalls the presidential legend …www.seacoastonline.com › article › NEWS NOV 17, 2013 Torbert Macdonald of York, Maine, talks about his father, Torbert Hart … in 1955, serving as congressman until his death in 1976 at age 58.

MELBOURNE, Fla. — Kennedy Space Center as we know it was just getting off the ground when President John F. Kennedy visited Cape Canaveral for the last time, 50 years ago Saturday.

Inside a blockhouse, scale models arranged on a table previewed what the massive Vehicle Assembly Building, launch pad 39A and Saturn V rockets would look like.

There, pointing to the models and charts on easels, NASA leaders briefed the president on progress in developing the facilities and rockets that would support moon shots by his end-of-the-decade goal.

Kennedy appears in a picture to be listening intently, one hand held to his chin.

The Apollo program’s enormous cost - NASA’s total budget had jumped from $500 million in 1960 to $3.7 billion in 1963 - increasingly was under attack as Kennedy prepared to campaign for re-election.

Kennedy himself had begun to express some doubts privately, had recently proposed cooperating on moon missions with the Soviet Union and was awaiting the results of a high-level review of the nation’s military and civil space programs.

“So this was Kennedy preparing to make a decision on whether to continue with the Apollo program or not,” said historian John Logsdon, author of “John F. Kennedy and the Race to the Moon.” “And I think this visit rekindled his enthusiasm for the program."

That enthusiasm was tragically short-lived: Six days later Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas.

Like the nation, NASA’s space center, which within a week of the assassination would be renamed in Kennedy’s honor, was consumed with shock and sorrow, remembers Jack King, then NASA’s local director of public information.

Four days after November 19th birth certificate 022-46-3234 was born, an Experimental Monkey has a Birthday Party at the JFK White House, and Donald Barr, OSS CIA Atomic Energy expert and Illuminati 33rd Degree Mason is holding the baby.

That birth certificate will be destroyed by 1970s CIA Officer William Barr (later attorney general) as purge of the records of MKULTRA

As the baby turns 2 years and passes tests, JFK is assassinated by the CIA and Secret Service loyal to the Illuminati, and 022-46-3234 disappears as the experimental monkey birth certificate.

February 20 1961 fertilization changes to the Feb 2 marriage of Barack Obama Sr and Madelyn Dunhan, and the birth shifts by three months, November back to August, as Dunham was alleged three months pregnant already of February 2 1961.

It will actually make the point that the Illuminati replaced James Watson, Scientist, from the Human Genome Program (thus defeating the Natural Law premise of the Age of Reason Atlamtic Revolutions Nation State) and placed Francis Collins as Director whose movement, whose Evangelical Pipe Dream, whose transcendental Ethics shunned the evil of racism, and acts resultant from racism, and created a new Prophecy of find all Gods children who have Gods [February 20] “Spiritual Code] all around the Earth.

One of the affects of placing that “Spiritual Code” around the Earth is it is now at the very root of the branches of evolution which match the Bible’s ethics and tale.

Thus while Francis Collins and various Religious causes are hard to dislike they may in fact be recruited Mercenaries under DARPA, the CIA, and others in illegal programs covering up Illuminati earlier errors and I think the illegal harassment of my family and others fall under that Espionage aim.

How could anyone justify assassination in the USA?

To the Espionage agencies tied to MKULTRA and the assassination of JFK and creating illegal family lines coverup is a motive.

Under the veneer of doing anything to defeat White Supremacism around the world, aka support MKULTRA and DARPA brain research, some “white supremacists” might be framed under COINTELPRO, White Supremacists judges removed, and child porn planted on white supremacists allowing Salvation and good works to minority children.

For the reader let me explain why in the book I will discuss this case and others including the likely murder of Justice Scalia during a race and IQ case.

A DARPA project on Race and IQ, and of economic development of foreign nations dates back to John F. Kennedy and is part of my story, and why Espionage is involved in something so secret by the Masons even a near Chief Justice would never talk.

A Defense Advanced Research Agency (DARPA) Obama favored project on Race and IQ, and of economic development of foreign nations dates back to John F. Kennedy and is part of my story, and why Espionage is involved in something so secret by the Masons even a near Chief Justice would never talk. #WETWORS.

Never talk about Thorkil Kirstenson and George Ball and Feburary 20 “Spiritual Code” DNA of the Manhattan Project. #WETWORS.

DARPA, the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency had been bungling the study of race and IQ through illegal experiments under Sidney Gottlieb and Prescott Bush MKULTRA in what some call “New World Order” building of a future peaceful world without the poverty leading to racism and new uses of genetics rights to fight diseases ranging for AIDS and Bubonic Plague, retardation and autism, cancer, and other ills which through Bone Marrow Stromal Cells in neurology, immunology (bone marrow) cells, and other stem cells or mitochondrial disease usages.

Increasingly this has been Illuminati blood lines manipulation of sleeper agents and test subjects of a variety of connected families, most tied to Cape Cod or Manhattan Beach Los Angles County.

According to murdered Jen Moore and according to my family history and extensive available public records this began with Sidney Gottlieb, CIA Weapons Scientist with speech therapy and biology background and work with Windsors and Von Trapps (Maria Kutschera Nazi tied Von Trap rescued by OSS and Vatican, likely with daughters from London 1926 Prince of Wales future Kings Speech King Edward VIII and my father and mother in the Manhattan Project and my Manhattan Beach Birth though otherwise from Cape Cod Massachusetts childhood.

In the Rumor Has It Analogy chapter I will explain that my father’s James Paul Donegan (Manhattan Project, atomic blast testing nuclear air wing) friend bitterly betrayed by the Catholic Church was John F. Kennedy, also a Cape Cod person, and at that led into his prior Illuminati like extensive deep knowledge and love of history into an Atheist study of history I was raised in.

It was in Cape Cod he met my mother, tied to Britain and the Prince of Wales and Von Trapps, Glorian Donegan.

how this ties to CIA test of twins children, twins known to some and with Nazi German relatives ties.

CIA launches mind control program, April 13, 1953 By ANDREW GLASS 04/13/2019 12:00 AM EDT retrieved from Politico and copied or modified to here

Some 80 institutions, including colleges and universities, hospitals, prisons, and pharmaceutical companies participated in the research program. In all, about 150 separate experimental investigations were carried out.

> These were around the world, NGOs, CIA Front Companies, and other private companies, media companies in particular like those of Maxwell Epstein ties, Hollywood and its actors and producers, and academic institutions
> NGOs and others around the world including the Mossad and French intelligence, the CIA efforts include Jim Morrison, Wwlt Disney, and other public figures :-EPD

The CIA's Office of Scientific Intelligence [and DARPA NASA] organized the project, code-named Project MKUltra, in coordination with the U.S. Army Biological Warfare Laboratories. In some cases, academic researchers were funded through grants funneled to them from CIA front organizations while remaining unaware that the CIA sought to use their work for its own purposes. In other instances, however, top officials at these institutions knew about the CIA's role.

As I state elsewhere nothing about the Gangstalk of me under MKULTRA is legal.

It is all bunko and all fraud but the NWO Media and NWO State and its NWO officials are too big to be accountable, not in the courts where Free Masonry and the CIA rule, nor are any of these Crony actors and Crony companies accountable to anyone including my lawsuits THEIR hack Ellington tanked, which of course the media did not out as having occurred.

Designer DNA like any other DARPA technology is increasingly on the black market for those in the know and also some powerful family lines now have detectable secrets to hide.

All of this violates the Roche Supplier Code of Conduct and also criminal law.

> The Roche Supplier Code of Conduct incorporates the 5 auditable key principles of the Pharmaceutical Supply Chain Initiative (PSCI):
>
> - Ethics: Suppliers shall conduct their business in an ethical manner and act with integrity.
> - Human Rights and Labour Rights: Suppliers shall be committed to uphold the human rights of workers and to treat them with dignity and respect.
> - Health and Safety: Suppliers shall provide a safe and healthy working environment, including for any company-provided living quarters.
> - Environment: Suppliers shall operate in an environmentally responsible and efficient manner, and they shall minimise adverse impacts on the environment.
> - Management Systems: Suppliers shall use management systems to facilitate continual improvement and compliance with the expectations of these principles.

What the DARPA backed Espionage system utilizes is the public appearance I should be shunned, and that because (a Doppelgänger of me) is being blackmailed as filthy perverted pedophile peeper who needs Sex Therapy to re-meliorate sexual conduct.

Thus Espionage Agents are able to in my identity hire sex workers and pay-up with my DNA and that is visible to the public by little telltale evidence crumbs left around in public.

Deep State Needs to claim my genome is and also WAS authorized

The Illuminati (At times joking or elusively gibberish “Galactic Alien Overloards of nations” don’t like to be caught especially with Kutchera Windsor DNA or murders of “Earthlings” (nationals) which expose the truth of history and FOXP2 gene carriers.

Elite MKUTLRA families are protected, ordinary (Edward Paul Donegan and others like Caitlyn Mahoney) are Targeted Individuals getting hit with distance of connectedness to others in either IQ or accomplishment, they are persecuted and attacked though share this genealogy.

As a backstop to the possibility my genealogy ties to the elite will be detected the Deep State is faking authorizations which appear real to the public

Religious organizations tied to the Illuminati and political families benefit from COINTELPRO intelligence activities, and may be part of the Mercenary objectives in coverup and phony permission for religious use of DNA or political family use of DNA also results from the genoracketeering in designer on the black market of elites.

In fact this happens in mostly public and was set up by Abuse of Process Psychiatry in which Doppelgänger of me, Edward Paul Donegan, in density theft, were given a “Legend” of being gullible, naive, and retarded, and under that diagnosis given by the State z(utilizing Doppelgangers) including by Department of Defense, the factual theory my DNA was authorized (through blackmail) will be consistent.

While the Mercenary is a”Gullible” who will give into blackmail this happens under identity theft merge the Gulls (Mercenary’s confession and obtuse field of view camera with my acute proximity to the planted female.

This I call Element “A” of the “ritual” abuse, and Element “B” is the Agent Provocateur will show the child porn to a Honey Pot who is against child porn (as any sane person is.)

The Agent Provocateur will blame me who was in the vicinity of the child or the child was placed on my property and along with State backed police demand my DNA assets be seized under the circumstantial evidence.

Tx is who I call the Espionage Agent Provocateur because he will Take the picture of the tot I am near at Element “A,” upon chase to a location not mine by Fugitive Task Force Transmit his confession (as me) that Edward Donegan took the picture generating child porn, Transact that Edward Donegan’s DNA is therefore forfeit to the victim as a due penalty and thus his places rights to my genome on the international black market “legally.”

While Tx is clearly not Rx (me, who was flashed by the tot) since I seem to be the photographer leaving me out of the blackmail by the Dominatrix is also fitting “punishment” so the Agent Provocateur is punished, a cop out for the good, as though me in order to complete the forgery of my permissions.

I assert and I show Jen Moore described this CIA and Masonry system carried out by contractors will funnel money, the rights to biological property, into the repugnant black market, CIA Slush Funds, human trafficking in DNA and fertilization rights in personal eugenics, and 3rd Party Parenting for the rich.

This is DARAP black marketing genes of mine through blackmail of adult models, most likely Victoria Secrets which I have seen near me and the genes going to Epstein’s DARPA Brain Research CIA DOD Programs which the US MEdia also protects.

I say Jen Moore was on the verge of revealing this public appearances and court records spectacle creates the appearance of legitimacy to long running illegal racketeering and use of Maria Kutchera and Prince Edward of Wales DNA which was ILLEGALLY used by CIA for twins studies and other purposes among the elite by the elite.

My existence is literally a material threat to Espionage agencies who have used my DNA among families of the Elite, or rather my mother’s DNA.

Jen Moore referred to “Targeted Victims,” Targeted Individuals in Disposition Matrix of CIA hits by mercenaries which I believe are now being used to coverup geneology secrets of highly placed family lines.

Disposition Matrix and other secret keeping system run through Rod Rosenstein and Eric Holder help keep and or justify these secret genomic programs by continuing activities of money laundered rights to genes in black market system tied to Epstein and Maxwell.

To sell that it was me who victimized the female who the Doppelgänger victimized I will be assaulted in vauge ways by the Doppelgänger, the real criminal who is taking a virtuous stand against me or a virtuous stand for the alleged victim, perhaps the victim will or will not think I was the culprit, but it is all vague bullying innuendo, not specific enough for me to argue down before the public.

In fact in the store or public place the retarded, gay or other person who is likely a social services beneficiary (Tx) (retarded client of SJW services) victimizes a female, child most likely.

It is in liability to the child who was photographed that Doppelgänger, a sex offender mercenary, that DNA will be Just Reward, since the DNA rights could benefit various genomic rights if granted in exchange for dropping any peeping case.

As bizarre as this is it makes a blackmail-able offense through which once genomic rights are seized to any of variety of genes (breast cancer, AIDS, Telomeres, IQ, other) that they then can be resold or utilized by the needy or rich.

Further CIA black marketing cancer genes autism genes neural cells etc. can put in Illuminati religions and medical works genes taken without permission and used in social work or for profit once the rights are claimed and DARPA knows which genes are up and coming and through the Illuminati.

The CIA or someone through front companies, perhaps it seems Christians, are blaming me and pleading me guilty, the Atheist, for their own crimes and in doing that, bilking the value of my mothers genome and harassing my life.

Although people fairly openly claim rights to my genome it never made sense to me. I am quite ordinary except what seemed off the scale ADD and Dyslexia plus bad handwriting.

I would later find out this part of the LONDON KE (King Edward) set of symptoms of FOXP2 which runs in my family history, my name after my grandfather, Edward some royal I was told about who was out of the thrown and in secret in some way, I thought on my fathers side, but my mother's side.

Jen Moore can be heard talking about that history here. She was told by thugs in muscle cars if she continue to talk she would be silence and the first time she was jumped she was left disabled and legitimately concerned for her life, more concerned for her country and the truth and the unfairly harmed than herself.

Espionage agencies challenged with defeating genocide and communism used its sword edges for genoforming and ultimately fascist techniques taken from the fascist leaders of the first third of the 20th Century that these US espionage agencies could wield the sword for the good.

In fact growing forensic technology now reveals blood line manipulation and assassinations of US officials which either stood against it or had knowledge of it.

Jen Moore had knowledge of it, coming out of WWI, Borderlines, and the rescue of the Kutcheras and the history of the rise of Nazis and how the Allies have an OSS Vatican history of that, destroyed MKULTRA records and now attempting to bury the truth, her with it.

Glorian Donegan and Edward Paul Donegan and finally James Paul Donegan have been the victims of an Illuminati originally good faith war time operation spanning multiple wars and now in which Espionage agency Saboteurs and Provocateurs are acting in bad faith espionage crimes under MKULTRA world plans coverups

Agent Provocateur	Targeted Individual
Diss-possessor. Dispossess: deprive (someone) of land, property, or other possessions	Possessor

I am Edward Paul Donegan and the following information, verifiable, is the real reason I am under State backed criminal assault by a classified program

I am the product of genetic testing in the Manhattan Project, Manhattan Beach California (where I was born to a military atomic testing family) and genetic research spanning back into the 1920s regarding the rare FOXP2 gene and the families of the world that gene now runs in.

My existence, in particular my genetic existence and mitochondria and immunology are a threat to the United States of America and its intelligence community, even to Western nations.

The my genealogy includes my DNA in many “unauthorized families” is not the problem.

That the CIA and others have killed and conducted terror attacks to CONCEAL the history of MKUTLRA is a major threat to the Illuminati.

I have spent my life experiencing what is called “Abuse of Process” human rights crimes.

Abuse of Process used rigged proceedings to put law abiding people in mental wards, pretrial detention awaiting trial and forced to pleat out to misdemeanors instead, experiencing witness tampering during proceedings, evidence plants, etc., which over time have destroyed my life.

What actually is State Violence, wrongful arrests and wrongful detention even wrongful psychiatry and wrongful diagnosis have been used by the State which rather than corrected merely snowballs (the term I take from Justina Pelletier ‘s case) into more “foundations” for more abuse of process.

The mistakes made in DNA manipulations as part of MKULTRA was made by espionage agencies like DARPA and the CIA and they have the capability to manipulate my life.

I will tell my verifiable e story. I am the son of Glorian Donegan, daughter of Prince Edward of Wales 1920s and Maria Kutschera, and the CIA needs to cover that up or EXPLAIN that it really did (when it did not) have permissions to my DNA.

The APPEARANCE I am being blackmailed and am giving into blackmail creates a blackmail [history of] backdating of permissions never given and DARPA research into my genealogy never disclosed.

Trespass Capabilities of Mercenaries

In short, US Marshalls plant or steal evidence from my home, defame me socially, then ask they impersonate me to adult entertainers. The entertainers hate peepers, thus will accept the forged confessions from the police who CLAIM they seized peeping evidence from me.

The Marshalls will claim child porn on them is actually mine, the Adult Entertainer “finds it” and together agree Edward Donegan’s DNA should be given to victims as Asset Seizures when the Police are called upon finding the evidence. All of this impersonation of me and finding that evidence is elsewhere from my home, a fake home, where I am impersonated by the forger. The adult entertainer is “punishing me” by punishing the cop RATHER than me, thus the cop “gets caught” as me in massage parlors, etc.,”

Tom Dunham noted one such incident in San Francisco when I was not even in San Francisco but during a “Birthday Massage” a cop was getting in my name.

In the chapter “Who is Number 2?” myself or Number 6 of Fighting Monarch seek answers and justice in COINTELPRO CIA NSA operations against our lives including in my case a break in stealing my DVD Player when I rented The Kings Speech from La Retma Central Library Corpus Christ Texas, a break in that was done in full view of observation by the police and police backed.

The below done at Stay and Play Salinas, planting evidence while I was there, evicting me, asking an adult enterrainer to punish a Doppelgänger of me for the planted evidence about me.

In the fog, deceit. But what motivates these mercenary crimes?

The purpose of my books and posts are to re-enable the CIA and DOD and FBI to fight for the USA after records destruction, assassinations, concealed the Illuminati plot

Jen Moore, myself, Veronica Hoffman, others, have been victims of a racket run by a Deep State.

With Thomas C. Wales, Bobby and John F. Kennedy dead, Leslie Anne Shed and other CIA dead, records burned and destroyed, an attempt on Sir Han Sir Han, and even an attack (possibly) on the JFK library during (possibly) a diversion, the Deep State of Illuminati DARPA world plans wrongdoing was hidden.

A Reporter at Large AUGUST 6, 2007 Issue

Seattle Washington Assistant US Attorney (siting)[who was also a JFK Jr. roomate at law school] Tom Wales was not supposed to be home on the night of October 11, 2001. Wales, an Assistant United States Attorney in Seattle, had planned to have dinner and spend the evening with his girlfriend, Marlis DeJongh, a court reporter who lived downtown. But that afternoon Wales called DeJongh and said that he had projects he needed to work on at home. In the evening, after leaving his office, near the federal courthouse, he returned to his Craftsman-style, wood-frame house in a quiet neighborhood known as Queen Anne

By 2000, the investigation of the helicopter-conversion industry [led by Wales] was winding down, with disappointing results for Wales and the U.S. Attorney's Office.

Only one case remained. In 1997, investigators had searched the premises of a helicopter company owned by two local men, James Anderson and Kim Powell.

On July 27, 2001, a month after the indictment was dismissed, Anderson filed a motion against the U.S. Attorney's Office, under an obscure law called the Hyde Amendment. The law, which was enacted in 1997, allows defendants who have been acquitted in federal court to sue the prosecutors in order to recoup their attorneys' fees and legal expenses, provided they can show that the case was "vexatious, frivolous or in bad faith." Anderson demanded a hundred and twenty-eight thousand dollars.

On AUGUST 3, 2001, Wales's office filed a response to Anderson's lawsuit in federal district court. "We are convinced that he brings this motion in large part to discover the identity of additional witnesses that he imagines may have contributed to his indictment," the brief stated. "During the course of the investigation, the Government received information from at least two persons indicative of defendant Anderson's violent and retributive nature." Other government documents pertaining to the case remain under seal, and the identities of the persons referred to in the brief have not been made public. In any event, Anderson's motion was dismissed, and that ruling was upheld on appeal.

A month later, the terrorist attacks on New York and Washington took place, and, soon afterward, Wales again took a public stand for gun control. "Right after 9/11, the idea started to circulate that airline pilots should be allowed to carry weapons," Trevor Neilson, the former vice-president of Washington CeaseFire, said. "Tom and I both thought it was a bad idea as a matter of public policy, but I thought it was wrong politically to come out against it at this time. The atmosphere was so strong in favor of doing anything to stop terrorism. But Tom disagreed. He thought arming pilots was a terrible idea, and he was going to say so publicly."

Wales's murder was in some ways a boon for Washington CeaseFire. A month after he was killed, the group held a benefit in his honor, which was attended by more than five hundred people, including many prominent Democratic politicians in the state, and raised five hundred thousand dollars. The featured speaker was the documentary filmmaker Rory Kennedy, who is the daughter of Robert F. Kennedy and the sister of Joseph P. Kennedy II, the former Massachusetts congressman, who had been Wales's roommate at Milton. Wales, who was the president of the student body and the captain of the football team at Milton, roomed with Kennedy the fall after his father was assassinated.

On September 25th, Wales participated in a half-hour debate-which was broadcast several times in the Seattle area, on NorthWest Cable News-about whether airline pilots should be allowed to carry guns in the cockpit.

> Is it possible DHS and Mossad and other security experts were in on expert talk on security matters? - Ed Donegan Pilots, he said, “are not trained as Green Berets, they are not trained as law enforcement.” He added, paraphrasing Duane Worth, the president of the Air Line Pilots Association, “It simply is not possible for an airline pilot to be Sky King and Wyatt Earp at the same time.” Sixteen days later, Wales was dead.

With the Donegan family knowledge I have had, but did not know was applicable, my goal is to re-enable the CIA and USA DOD and .MIL, the US Congress, FBI, and others, to fight against multinational espionage.

> Since the Obama administration largely shut down the CIA’s rendition programme, choosing instead to dispose of its enemies in drone attacks, those individuals who are being nominated for killing have been discussed at a weekly counter-terrorism meeting at the White House situation room that has become known as Terror Tuesday.

According to the Illuminati certain “clones” (unwanted genetic similarity to the Illuminati) will “drop like houseflies.”

I think that includes Caitlyan Mahoney, myself, and others.

We demand better and to be defended against Mercenary violence.

I offer this information to correct, redirect the CIA to its original information level and thus its original mission.

Defending me from foreign based violence from a 5th Column Illuminati plan inside the USA.

I will spend a considerable amount of time on Cartel Economics, Oil Cartels, Genome Cartels, and even Cartels operating in the financial arena now that asset seizures, siezed asset management, and siezed assets disposition through Law Enforcement Intelligence Units Disposition Matrix create cartel systems for NGO world espionage movements and international finance entities and financial transactions spanning the Ukraine, Virgin Islands, reseach centers, and victims funds.

It is simple of course to say the trigger finger on siezing assets from one person or one group or another might get a little trigger happy just as a Middle Eastern church group might draw a search warrant just for being normal tourists traveling their new country's capital and taking pictures of its buildings and monuments.

But rather than leave it at just that I will provide a near example of an sect within a side in a form of war within the side.

PREVENTATIVE MEDICINE (M*A*S*H TV SERIES EPISODE)

During OR, the doctors notice that many of the patients have multiple entry wounds from multiple directions. Potter explains that these wounded are part of Lieutenant Colonel Lacy's unit, the 603rd Battalion, which sustains more casualties than any other in Korea; while all the other units were retreating, Lacy ordered his men to stay and fight a little longer.

Hawkeye quietly explains to him that he has a plan is to slip Lacy a mickey to get him off the line. After a couple of drinks mixed by Hawkeye, Lacy doubles over in pain, and while B.J. quickly diagnoses it as gastritis, Hawkeye believes it to be appendicitis, requiring surgery. Hearing this, Lacy protests, saying he'll lose his command if he's off the line for too long, which only empowers Hawkeye to order Lacy to be prepped for surgery.

In the scrub room, Hawkeye and B.J. have it out - B.J. reminds Hawkeye that what he's doing is mutilation and unethical, but Hawkeye, citing doctors back home who do needless surgeries for money, believes it will save the lives of all the soldiers who, with Lacy reassigned, won't have to climb Hill 403. B.J. warns Hawkeye that he'll hate himself for the rest of his life, but Hawkeye replies, "I'll be able to hate myself with a clear conscience", and performs the appendectomy, but B.J. refuses to help.

Weary, Hawkeye later returns to the Swamp and quietly admits that he tossed Lacy's "pink and perfect" appendix into the scrap bucket. But then B.J. informs a disbelieving Hawkeye that more wounded are on the way, just a few seconds before the P.A. announces it. B.J. adds: "You treated a symptom the disease goes merrily on." He helps a tired and frustrated Hawkeye back to his feet, and the two return to the OR.

The Medical State Usage

Some have decided harvests must be made from me, me on the same side as them, BUT, unlike the doctors of M*A*S*H trying to get a dangerous colonel out of battle, in the case of me, the asset seizers like the goods they are seizing, pay themselves for seizing the evidence after they fake the basis for seizures

In addition the asset seizures are destructive to me and they themselves are the dangerous battle warriors with much to hide, and I have the information on them they would prefer goes to the grave with me.

The Second Jim Volcelka Question

He asked what harm does it do if we do something behind your back, as if something like photocopying a book, no harm done, huh?

That money laundering of value of my genome, undisclosed to me, but used for secret causes not legitimately funded, become the means and motive for criminal acts especially in black market activities in which the "black money" is reproduvity trafficking.

It also means as a target of organized crime I am forced into homeless shelter so they, not me, will "manage my life and assets" rather than I live a normal life.

In those shelters I am attacked by skid row people often making statements like “I will have your babies” (black women) “I am going to cut off your balls and fuck Jessica Simpson with them.”

Manufacturing what is likely a La Cosa Nostra or Enrique Prado Blackwater CIA contractor organization to claim fake rights to fertilization is a rightfully both crimes in process and substance as I have spent my life with people taking “in ” on a deal to force me into homeless and retarded living shelters, out of normal life.

Despite this being sold has helping the little guy it puts fertilization and genetic rights into the powerful Illuminati families and does away with the source of those genes through illegal harassment of people like me.

I have likened the entire plan to have landlords others drive me out because I am a peeper (when I am not but the Gangsalk manufactures this) and leaving me in skid row homeless shelters under black and white assault and loss of all belongings over and over again to the Law and Order Special Victims Unit episode Taken.

The “special victim” is a former underage girl rapist himself under age. At age 17 a con team (grifters) know his background and fake a civil complaint against him at a hotel. With the detectives on the case they find the female victim was a fake, the team creating the compliant a con artist team. Stabler and his partner plead the grifters to a minor or civil charge and the grifters agree. Then Stabler and his partner arrest the grifters on serious charges right in front of the judge for felony involvement in his wrongful death in custody, attacked as a sex offender.

It is exactly the acts of people like Jim Vocelka who take the deal to evict me, profit from it, or help others too, then leave me in homeless shelters where I am said to be there out of mental incompetence needing Social Services representation.

Another movie reference I cite is Mulholland Falls (1996) with Manhattan Project national security team covering its errors by killing those who know about the disastrous radiation effects at the testing site. It is that operation fighting me for 45 years and after my parents death I had no safe harbor from its attack.

Against my wishes this story will blame Mark Weirness and Tom Donegan in that order

I think they were manipulated and recruited, targeted for recruitment as people inside the Donegan Family of Origin that could setup getting control of the family genome on behalf of “Noble Causes” police corruption, a system where the ends will justify the means, and it is just others getting the genome, and behind my back because I did not know he blind trust administered it, he started out the idea none of this would be harmful enough to stop the plan.

His administration of the Glorian Donegan trust fund left for me would be delegated out to others over time, or he assisted Rod Rosenstein or others in getting initial control of it.

Mark Gonzales, Neuces County Texas family services and county prosecutor victims services I say is the new Enrique Prado, CIA backed organized crime

His is from an “outlaw” motorcycle gang proudly in border town Texas, covered in tattoos black Hispanic mix and calls himself an expert philosophically about the study of philosopher Hegel and the defeat of white supremacism mental diseases, and fights for non white victims in the county as the down trodden.

This book extensively blames him for being the bird doggers and #WETWORKS murder of opposition to the bird dogging run out the Neuces County Texas, their county violating my right to lease elsewhere such as Monterrey County California, Capitola, etc.,

Bobby Courtney, one of the bird doggers told me it was from this government the Hispanic crime family was operating and paying him for the bird dogs claim which I reported to Corpus Christi Police dept in Neuces county though like Jen Moore Bobby Courtney was also killed I suspect by a CIA asset calling himself “Casper.”

I also believe it likely the police chief Floyd Simpson died of murder in a seeming motorcycle ride accident with few witnesses and this outlaw biker group could also have been responsible.

He has drawn national notice for being “the most unlikely District Attorney in America” and tweeting things like #ftp said to be slang for Fuck The Police.”

I have constantly feared for my life in Nueces County Texas because of its openly acting organized crime rings and open death threats, assaults of me, and open felony racketeering fake claims to my genome by those giving me the death threats.

The core Racketeering (CIA backed) elements this books proves is Government backed Doppelgangers of me are child porn addicts (developmentally and sexually retarded) who need sex workers sent to them. Upon arrival of the sex worker the Doppelgänger of the White Supremacist admits what a loser he is and signs rights to his genome away to the adult sex worker sent to him, when that sex worker calls the police or Marshalls or social workers.

The affect is the white supremacist is on government record as a danger to others, ostracized, and defamed, meanwhile SJW beneficiaries faking be Edward Paul Donegan to sex workers are getting “freebies” paid for with real Edward Paul Donegan genome rights.

The rest of the world is told to ostracize Ed Donegan and leave him homeless shelters run by the Salvation Army and others where he is not threat to anyone. Those shelters use his genome for their preachers and missionary work as well.

Conflict Victim of Conflict Engagement

My mother and I spent our lives under unprovoked racial assaults from inexplicably placed and inexplicably duplicitous racial assailants and trying to understands the decades of assaults I have lived under is how these books and my life story have unfolded.

One theory that the assailants have used most likely later in the game is that by picking a race based or even a sexual assault fight with a victim (Glorian Donegan or myself) during the assault the perpetrator may get sought debate during the arguments during the assaults.

No question that has been used as theory to assault me repeatedly, frequently physically violently, but the assaults sparked my research into sociology and motives for black on white anonymous studied from the right wing perspective.

Means Motive Opportunity

Google knowledge panel quoted here which was sourced from link

In criminal law circles, the phrase “means, motive, and opportunity” is a popular for its summation of the three aspects of a crime that must be established before a verdict about one being guilty can be determined in a criminal proceeding. Mar 28, 2014

I have always known I was under constant and violent racial assaults particularly if I was near a white woman and I received death threats if I were near one I or her would be killed and I believed those threats.

In the opportunity for those crimes, un identified people, mercenaries of some type as seeming normal civilians, I wondered what the motives of the assailants were.

The means were clear, they would not show cause when I challenged to show cause or identify themselves thus the acted under the anonymity cloak of stalking and stalkers who would not identify their themselves or motives but often some conversation tied them to the National Institute of Health or Cancer Research.

In six years of non stop research I have tied this to an interest in my genome and in fact even a misleading interest in my genome.

Nominally, a motive of certain medial cures could be used from it if my mothers trust fund could be shaken down over false, bird dogged claims resulting from conflict situations, but more so, the deeper motive was that the conflicts would remove me from my own expected normal family life and the powerful interests of the Illuminati would pair away by bird dogged assaults on me my normal reproductivity and normal family outcome prospects.

In fact it seems a life of racial and sexual assaults do tie to my genome and why I have spent ally my life in an espionage agency backed assault tied to my Manhattan Project Manhattan Beach genome history and the governments desire to coverup that genome history by assaulting rather than defending my reproductive life and interests.

A Crime has Occurred and the Defendant is the Likely Suspect

This has been the challenge to me given by Jim Volcelcka, can you show a crime (money laundering, identity theft, sexual and physical assaults on me occurred at Stay and Play, and why that would have happened, or who was the person organizing the crime?

This book tastefully bundles Barack Ombama, Prescott Bush, George H.W. Bush, Governor Abbot, Herman Edward Butt, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Donald Barr, William Barr, Enrique Prado, Matt Gonzales, B Janice Ellington, Andy Ellington, Tom Donegan, the ARC of Northern Virginia, and others into an interest processing fake claims against me genome, holding me out of normal life, and finding the Deep State Truther financial and political motive for that.

The more recent story of a a Frank Olson

I consider myself that same person, under CIA attack and repeatedly forced into psych wards by assailants where I think consider my life and or liberty at risk by CIA hacks, something Jen Moore also discussed as the CIA in medical hospitals (and snitch usage) which I will quote on later in the book.

I have also been the victim of “hit job” misdiagnosis as intentionally or by Zebra Errors my speech spasmodia is found a Bipolar episode and my Dysgraphic grammar clipped writing to be retardation, which may have been at leas by some opportunistic misdiagnosis.

I believe this book is as important as Friday the 13th to the history of fighting the Illuminati including their hiding as the delusional rantings as though who have spotted them.

What if the spooks who are speaking are Aliens discussing Alien matters of fiction?

Fandom quoted here from link

Invisibility cloaks may be woven from the hair of a Demiguise, a magical creature whose coat allows it to become invisible.[2] Invisibility cloaks can also be produced by enchanting an ordinary travelling cloak with an exceptionally strong Disillusionment Charm[3] or Bedazzling Hex.[4]

Limitations

"It's never occurred to me before, but I've heard stuff about charms wearing off cloaks when they get old, or them being ripped apart by spells so they've got holes in. Harry's was owned by his dad, so it's not exactly new, is it, but it's just… perfect!" - Ron Weasley on the Cloak of Invisibility[src]

Such Cloaks of Bedazzlement have been attempted blinders upon on Tom Dunham, myself, and others (likely Veronica Hoffman, James Paul Donegan, DJ Rabbitron, others) to get them into psych wards or simple to undermine the police reports we have given on Doppelgangers of us in our vicinity engaging in wrongdoing.

As in the opening, closing with the murder of Judge Roll

I continue to assert the intense covert violence against me in full view of everyone, with that much clout assisting, has been a very high level CIA conspiracy tied to, I now believe, DARPA and Twins Studies by the CIA leading to the JFK assassination and other assassinations.

My genomic identity is made up of my State ID Card and Genome. Both are faked every day of my life as Department of Motor Vehicles are snapped shut as I go in, the ID is withdrawn of fake grounds, others have my REAL ID and are non white, a money manager denies me permission to pay the fees to get one leaving me with no ID, it is stolen exactly as I intend to use it leaving me in 5 day rage once (a black in the gym was stalking me, for an hour, then went right to it, Hayward California 1980s) all these things. Even the SSN seems to have switched out with my brother, I used to be 022-46-3235, for most of my life, in the 1990s I was told I was 022-46-3233 and the records now say that.

Judge roll was near Arizona U where family databases were under development and the two twins from NASA were there as well, as was the case regarding my mother's genome.

One goal of this book is to help law abiding Espionage retake the hill from MKULTRA Cover-up Espionage

My belief is DAPRA The Brain Program, Epstein, and Black Markets of Black Money (genes rights) grew a bad project out of control and is Maxwell/Epstein. Already failing, needs to fail faster.

My current strategy, from an whistle blower from the outside, is to help Espionage Agents formerly on the INSIDE to retake the hill from MKULTRA. Most won't contact Snowden. I suggest James Comey.

The Little Brown Princess the cognitively ill dopple of me authorized 1001 N. Water St., a brown painted building was named by others not me and schizo, criminal, and retarded dopples of me live in it dubbing children "knights" and "little princess" with real Ed Donegan's DNA, thus creating forged permissions for "little brown girls and boys" to have Edward Donegan's genetics.

I think this re-enacats to re-inforce an assertion I authorized the Obama children, one with a birthday of July 4, the date Jeffery Epstein of his brain genes cartel died, and the it was ruled a suicide by William Pellham Barr woo with Donald Barr Geroge H.W. Bush, George Bush, and the Dulles borthers first created Barrack OBama Jr., then Wollsey and Clinton created the Obama Children, and permissions of that seem to be being faked.

Here is the story of my being Roadblocked on developing value, economic worth in 1001 N, Water St Apt 46 but that being roadblocked by a Dopple in a next apartment and others trying assert they created the home improvements such that they are going to both claim and assert they created the home improvements value I had created though they did not have the basis I did to create that value.

Thus it is concealed I create and have value, but with that being denied, others can use the value generating assets of me on the racketeering cartel market as the value they claim they generated and belongs to them, though the claim is fraudulent, and thw racketeering of switch out of who created the value is achieved through behavioral health effectively surrounding me with their pick pockets they say are my helpers.

The normal racketeering road blocking scheme took place. I created a par course run from the building around town using stairs, spirals, great views, a Gazebo area, and everyone watched and said how beautiful a workout, but homeless people physically attacked me, through feces or rocks at me, aimed for my knees or toes when I was running or blocked the spiral with a homeless camp I could not breath around because of the stench, but I lit up my patio to cover the dinginess.

I was fought and assaulted that , building glass topped book shelves from scratch and 25 dollar starting points, but the value of all that will be realize by others in condo conversion now that management has changed, a new buyer owns the place, and will join the units 46 and 47, and likely bought the building with stolen rights to my book the Medical State which documented all that identity theft racketeering and suppression of the truth I am not developmentally retarded, I developed into a knowledgeable and economically productive person and a leader.

The Cartel usses Social Services for creating and operating the Protection Racket including using dopples to confuse accounts and switch identities.

This idea that my genes are not of worth, but I do create little brown princess, seem to be tied to Barrack Obama and his children, and the operation was by a cartel in government started by the CIA.

As I point out in the book the factual frauds that make up the accountancy steps are built around discontinuity.

- Time. ONe thing will happen one time, but later something else will happen. For instance, the service call to repair something in the apartment can not be completed in one call because lack of parts or it being 5 o’clock so a discontigous second part of the operation is used later.

- Person. During the second part of the discontinuity identity theft occurs. A different person is switched into events to complete the events chain being followed.

- Location. Usually the next chain of events will happen at a similar location to the first event but not the actual place, thus truth and lie do not intersect and the lie defeated.

Chasing in building owner, management company, provide the switch out opportunities and the cartel can gain profits.

“Wild Bill” Donovan and the Origins of the OSS retrieved from https://www.nps.gov/ and copied or modified to here

The handsome, blue-eyed, Irish Catholic with a quick wit and winning smile, who neither smoked nor drank, remained a bachelor until 1914 when, at the age of thirty-one, he married Ruth Rumsey, daughter of one of the leading and wealthiest families in Buffalo. She was a Protestant; he a Roman Catholic, but they both were Republicans.

The origins of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) lay in the dark early days of World War II in Europe. Employing a new, highly mobile form of warfare called Blitzkrieg (“lightning war”), Nazi Germany had quickly and brutally conquered Poland in 1939, then Denmark, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, and finally France by the middle of 1940. That summer German dictator Adolf Hitler launched a massive air offensive against Great Britain, and many believed that England would be the next to fall. Not until mid-September 1940 was it clear that the Luftwaffe had failed, and Britain would remain an island bastion against the Nazis’ expanding empire.

Concomitant with his connections with Republican political, legal and financial figures, Donovan ran his Wall Street law firm and also continued an active interest in the military and in world affairs. He obtained overseas clients, including some of the London banks and some British politicians, including Winston Churchill. He traveled overseas frequently and obtained contacts around the world. During fascist Italy’s invasion of Ethiopia, Donovan toured the battle lines there in 1935, and in 1936. Subsequently, in the Spanish Civil War, Faced with the German onslaught against the western democracies, President Franklin D. Roosevelt committed the United States to their aid, and then, when Britain was left standing alone against Germany, to all-out assistance-short of war-to the British under their new prime minister, Winston Churchill. Like many others at the time, both Roosevelt and Churchill believed that Hitler’s shockingly swift military victories were due not simply to prowess of the German Army and its Blitzkrieg tactics, but also by the effective use of demoralizing propaganda and internal subversion by Nazi sympathizers called “fifth columnists,” who engaged in espionage and sabotage for the German military intelligence services.2 In the summer of 1940, one of the special envoys President Roosevelt sent to London to encourage the beleaguered British, to assess their ability to withstand the German onslaught, and to find out what London had learned and was doing about new methods of warfare, especially unconventional warfare, was a prominent New York lawyer and former war hero, William J. (“Wild Bill”) Donovan.

[The MI5 office in Washington DC was the home of the OSS during its earlyh days - Jen Moore]

It was a fateful visit. Churchill understood the importance of Donovan’s mission and sought to use it to persuade American leaders that Britain would not fall and that they should increase their aid for the island bastion against Hitler. To reinforce his position, he provided Donovan with extraordinary access to British military and intelligence secrets. Following meetings with Churchill and King George VI, Donovan was introduced to leading figures in British intelligence and special operations agencies, including Sir Stuart Graham Menzies, head of the civilian Secret Intelligence Service (SIS),10 and Admiral John H. Godfrey, director of the Royal Navy's intelligence service. Godfrey was especially attentive to Donovan, a kindred spirit. The President's envoy was shown the latest Spitfire fighter planes, the new radar warning system, and Britain's secret coastal defense arrangements. In fact, the only major secret Donovan was not shown was "Ultra," the new and evolving, super-secret process that was beginning to decipher radio transmissions encoded by the German military's Enigma coding machine. Donovan also gathered information about the role of propaganda and subversion in countries that had been conquered by the Wehrmacht. 11

Gerry Adams and Sinn Fein

Sinn Fein

Sinn Fein had been formed at the beginning of the 20th century. The words are Gaelic and they literally mean, ‘ourselves alone.’ They mean that we can go and achieve our own freedom, we don’t need the help of anyone else do it, but that we have to be a free-standing nation among the nations of the world, and therefore the only answer is Irish unity.

Now, some of them believed in some sort of relationship with Britain, but Irish unity was the be-all and end-all of their policy. Sinn Fein was a constitutional party, and in fact, at the British general elections in 1918, Sinn Fein won the majority of seats throughout the island of Ireland, and it was that which gives them the animus to conduct a violent campaign against the British in the War of Liberation. And it was that war which persuaded the British to withdraw from Ireland, but to withdraw through a partition settlement.

And it was they who were engaged in the civil war against the majority of the community, it was they who argued that you do not lay down your weapons, it was they who refused to take any oath of allegiance to the monarchy in Britain.

By its use of this Gaelic name, Sinn Fein was demanding its own autonomy, and Irish unity was its ultimate end. In that respect, the slogan was very simplistic. It believed that the only way to get rid of the British was through the barrel of a gun, rather than through any rational argument.

The relationship between Sinn Fein and the IRA, historically, has been symbiotic. It is impossible to separate them. In more recent years, Sinn Fein has said, “We are not the IRA, they are a totally separate organization.” In the minds of the vast majority of people in Ireland, whether they are Unionist or Nationalist, Sinn Fein is the political wing of the IRA, and it has played that role quite hotly down the years.

Sinn Fein’s political role was never important until the beginning of The Troubles, because it had been the militants, the military types, who were in command inside the Republican movement. They believed that the only answer to the Irish question was what they called “one last heave.” One last long push to get the British out of Ireland, and the only thing [that] will get that done is the use of weapons.

And in that respect, Sinn Fein was very much an auxiliary of the Irish Republican Army. They were there for propaganda purposes, they were there to raise the funds, they were there to speak on behalf of the IRA, but they were very much second-cousins. They didn’t command. It was the IRA who commanded. But Sinn Fein had refused to organize politcally so it was never a serious political force within the Catholic community, as evident in its refusal to stand in Parliamentary elections, whether in Westminster, Stormont or Dublin.

So it wasn't in the business of electioneering, it was in the business of propagandizing. It's only in the 1980s that it begins to take itself seriously as a political organization.

Adams clearly was, and is, a highly intelligent politician. Adams, in some sense, is easier to read than Martin McGuinness, simply because Adams has published memoirs, his political manifesto, et cetera, and Adams shows some form of long-term political vision. He speaks in his memoirs of his time as a youth, growing up … of a sense of discrimination. He was clearly an intelligent school boy who could have gone far, but, in fact, he left school early and became a bar man, but joined the Republican movement as soon as it was formed, because he had the family background.

And became deeply involved in the armed struggle from the earliest days, and was interned early in the 1970s, and was sprung from internment in 1972, because the authorities realized that he was one of the key members of the new generation who had to be listened to.

So, again, here we have someone who is incredibly single-minded, incredibly ruthless, but also has a sense of vision, and sees violence in its communicative framework rather than simply by destruction.

Gerry Adams comes from a very strong Republican family, on both his mother and father's side. He can trace it back to at least his grandfather, if not his great-grandfather. One of the earliest radicals in the 20th century, a man called Jim Larkin, who was concerned with trade unionism and with the national struggle, had as one of his assistants one of Adams' ancestors. And you could find … in the Republican struggles in the '30s and '40s, either the Hannaway family, which was his mother's side, or the Adams family, were involved in all of those struggles.

One of the most important factors in explaining the resilience of the Republican movement is what I call generational continuity. It's handed down from father to son and mother to daughter, from generation to generation. For example, in the late '60s, when you had sort of youth protests, you had less of that in Northern Ireland, because the children were following the same values as the parents, whether they were Loyalist or Republican.

So, generational continuity, this strong sense of communal history and the sense of the Republican movement as a large family. Family involvement, not necessarily at the forefront of the struggle, but as backup troops, is very, very powerful in explaining the success of the Republican movement. That is, I think, probably the supreme reason why the IRA has had to endure as much as it has had. You know, we're talking about, for the most part, working-class youth, with no great sophistication, fighting against one of the supreme military operations in the Western world, against overwhelming odds, against huge… and yet they're able to endure. And endurance was its middle name.

[With regard to Sinn Fein] … the contemporary view inside the Republican movement is that there are two separate operations. There is an Irish Republican Army and there is a political, but discreet, wing called Sinn Fein. It wasn't always thus. At one stage, Sinn Fein had no difficulty in standing alongside the IRA and saying, "We are one and the same."

What is different now is that Sinn Fein is engaged very heavily in a political process. But, given their sense of history, it is a process in which they are afraid of being betrayed yet again. And the only weapon they believe they have is the IRA. So, if they are seen to be totally separate from the IRA, then people will say, “Why should we talk to you? Who do you represent? OK, you’ve got 16 percent of the vote in the last election, but there are three other parties with larger votes. We don’t have to take you seriously.”

So, it is in their interest to be separate from the IRA, but not to disown the IRA. And they would argue that in doing this they are taking the IRA away from the armed struggle and leading them into the political process.

There is a view, not only in the British political establishment, but certainly even in the administration of this country, probably more strong in the State Department than the NSC that what the Republican movement is engaged in is a very cynical exercise, that the peace process is simply the struggle by other means. …

But if they don’t get what they want, or to the political dialogue or the political negotiations, they will simply revert to violence. That’s the cynic’s viewpoint. There is another viewpoint which argues that the Republican movement has come a long way in educating itself, and realizing that the armed struggle did more damage to the community it was supposed to be protecting. In recognizing that the war has reached a stage of stalemate,they cannot defeat the British; but, equally, the British cannot defeat them.

So, the only to move forward is through a political strategy. And once they abandon the armalite, they realize that it may take another generation before they could begin the armed struggle again. So, they see it as taking a huge political risk in the hope that they can persuade, in particular, the Unionist community in Northern Ireland to throw in their lot with Ireland rather than with Britain.

It’s perfectly understandable why particularly people in the political establishment, and Unionists, would say that the IRA, because of the armed struggle, that Adams has bombed his way to the table and, therefore, they should have nothing to do with him. Adams would retort by saying, “Well, tell me about George Washington. Tell me about Kenyatta. Tell me about Nelson Mandela. Tell me about Yasser Arafat.” Adams would say that he belongs to a proud political tradition where the politically oppressed have no other means than the means of their own violence to get to that negotiating table, to make it a level playing field. And in that respect, he belongs to a long and honorable tradition.

[But] if and when Gerry Adams uses the analogies of historic figures such as George Washington or Nelson Mandela, the short answer is that he’s being premature. Time will tell whether he can become a person of that stature. What we do know is that he failed to demonstrate he was a Nelson Mandela when he got his visa to visit the United States for the first time. And the reason why we know he failed was because he had to satisfy two audiences simultaneously. He had to satisfy the external audience, personified by the President, who’d gone out on a limb to give him that visa, that he was a man of peace. But he had to satisfy the internal audience, Sinn Fein and the IRA, that the struggle would continue until there was ultimate victory. And he has not come to terms with how you satisfy both audiences simultaneously, which means that we cannot cast any judgement on whether he is truly an historic figure or not.

History will decide whether, in fact, the IRA and the Republican movement are engaged in a cynical exercise of using the political process as another wing of their armed struggle, or whether Adams can become a Nelson Mandela. It is too early to say. My own belief is that Adams is genuine in trying to move away from the violence. I think it's a strategy that he and Martin McGuinness have been developing for a very long time. I think it's partially a strategy based on the fact that they know that their own community doesn't want any more violence, that their own community has removed the sense of fatalism, that we cannot control our political destinies, that their own community has enough self-confidence to say, "We are prepared to use simply the force of argument as against the force of weaponry, and we do not want to see any more people killed."

I think that we sometimes forget that those who engage in armed struggle are also human beings. It's too easy to characterize them as psychopaths. It's too easy to demonize them. And so, therefore, we have to be careful in how we weigh the balance between their military actions or their support for military actions and their political agenda.

The evolution of Sein Fein's new strategy: electoralism

When internment was introduced in 1971, it was seen as being disastrous, because the wrong people were being picked up. But then they started to pick up the right people and they put them in. Long Kesh became known as the terrorist university. It was actually a very good education training ground for them, because they were grouped together in their own prison blocks, they were able to educate themselves together, they were highly disciplined, they were seen from the outside as a way that the British during the Second World War who were locked up in concentration camps. They were seen as national heroes.

So, to be someone behind the wire was to have graduated through the ranks of … Republicanism, and was to give you particular status and stature in your community. There is a whole tradition in every guerrilla movement of using the prisons, of the symbolism of the prisons, to show how people can be reflective, how people can rethink their strategy. Whether you think of Mao and his long march or whatever, it is part of the mythology.

Adams used it beautifully in his writings about Cage 11. But he also used it very seriously. He and others … because they were in the prisons for so long, and had the time to reflect—because, remember, men of action don't have time to reflect; they're engaged in activity—they had the time to reflect and he began to think of, "Where is this struggle taking us?" "How long is a long war?" "Is it going to succeed?" "The longer it goes on, does it, in fact, alienate even more of our people?"

And all of these things were beginning to address themselves to him, and he was beginning to put his thoughts together, which he brought together in a book, which he published in 1986.

I think that we have to be careful in mythologizing Gerry Adams. There is a Republican movement. He is the person who personifies that, if you like, gradualist and progressive wing of the Republican movement, but there are a number of others whose names I could give you, who wouldn't mean anything— not only to people in the United States, but to people in Ireland—who were doing the thinking, who were the strategists, who were the politicals as opposed to the revolutionaries.

Adams had around him a team of people of around the same time ago, had gone through the same struggle—people like Tom Hartley, Jim Gibney, Martin McGuinness, McLoughlin—a whole series of them, Richard McCauley. They all formed this sort of group which began to think their way politically out of the impasse.

It occurred, at some stage in the mid-to-late ’70s, to IRA and Sinn Fein, that they might actually win a military war, but lose the political piece; that they might set up the conditions for others to compromise. And they began to realize that they had to change things.

Now, it changed them by accident. It changed them as a result of the hunger strikes. And what happened there was, what the Republican movement realized, there was a huge untapped source out there in the community which didn’t approve of IRA violence, but emotionally were attached to what the IRA was trying to achieve, Irish freedom.

So … 1980 and ‘81 they seriously begin to put together a political strategy based on electoralism. And they were very anxious and concerned that electoralism could destroy them. They did not go into it lightly. They thought of it very, very carefully.

But they realized that they needed a dual strategy, what became known as the armalite and the ballot box. The armalite was one of their favorite weapons which could cause enormous damage. They were following, if you like, classic tactical issues by Lenin at the time of the Russian Revolution. In one of their newspapers, The Republican News, they put it this way, “Not everyone can plant a bomb, but everyone can plant a vote.”

So, how do you maximize the support you’ve got there? There are those who are there for the military, there are those who are there for the political.

As soon as the British took control with direct rule in 1972, they began to work with the Irish government, because they didn't want to hang on in Northern Ireland. And they accepted the opinion of the constitutionalists that you could have a reform in the Northern political system with power sharing—in other words, you could bring Catholics into government for the first time, and you would give them a share of power. You also could have much closer north-south relations within the island of Ireland.

The 1986 Decision by Sinn Fein to Take Their Seats in Parliament

The decision by the Sinn Fein conference in 1986, that they would take their seats if elected in the south of Ireland, in the Irish Republic, was one of the most historic decisions ever taken by the Republican movement.

It ran contrary to their history of the previous 60 years. And it was an indication of just how successful Adams and McGuinness had been in taking over the Republican leadership, because it was something that they'd been working for for at least three or four years. Remember, that the provisional IRA was created because of a split about electoralism in 1969. So, here people were very conscious that this was very dangerous, because it went to the heart of Republican mythology, yet they pulled it off.

And the reason they did it was because they believed that their electoral star was in the ascent. And that if they wanted to speak for the people of Ireland, they'd have to show that they'd had support in the Republic of Ireland, as well as the north of Ireland. And that's what it was about.

John Hume, the SDLP and Sinn Fein

One of the seminal documents which will come out of the Troubles is the dialogue between the SDLP and Sinn Fein which began in March of 1988, and went on until September of 1988. And it is fascinating to read, because what it demonstrates is Sinn Fein have ceased to be a sect. They've now become a political movement.

Because they're engaging with a group who say "We want the same end of you, Irish unity, but we disapprove fundamentally of your methods. Not only do we disapprove of it, but we're telling you that it's counterproductive." And by challenging Sinn Fein on his own ground, we're challenging the very heart of Republican mythology, and they're making these people think politically for the first time. Very, very significant.

The person who has to take all the credit for this is John Hume. He chose the right psychological moment in the aftermath of the Enniskillen bombing. He chose the right target in Gerry Adams, whom he recognized as someone who wanted to move into another phase. He knew that Republicanism was weak as a result of the outrage of Enniskillen. And, therefore, would have to engage.

He knew that the IRA could go nowhere else but to the SDLP and engage in this.

If I had to single [out] one person who's done more than anyone else to get to this stage it would have to be John Hume, the leader of the constitutionalist party, the SDLP. His policy from the day he entered politics has been one based on non-violence. And it's also one in which he says you cannot demonize singlehandedly by building up relations in this country, from about 1972 onwards.

Firstly, through striking up a very good relationship with Senator Kennedy and educating Senator Kennedy with the nuances of the Irish conflict, and then meeting with every successive president from President Carter onwards, he has done more than any single individual.

Because Irish Prime Ministers have come and gone. British Prime Ministers have come and gone. [Hume] has been the one constant factor. And he has always known what he's wanted, which was an end to the violence. And what he's always said is not about the uniting of territory, it is about the uniting of peoples.

And that very simple philosophy is something which he has pursued ruthlessly and single mindedly. And I think he has got us to this state. He, it was, who persuaded Adams into dialogue. He it is whose established now a good rapport with the former Loyalist paramilitaries. He it was who persuaded John Major to take risks when it wasn't in Major's interest. He has made all the important moves at the right time. And he's been through it all; no one else.

The Hunger Strikes 1980-81

It was something which is part of an Irish political tradition, which goes back to pre-Christian times, something which is not part of the Western tradition, but was there. Hunger strike and hunger strike to death, if necessary, because you are challenging your detractor either to withdraw his charge or to hunger strike with you or to see through the consequences of the hunger strike, whereby the striker would die.

In that situation, the authorities couldn't win. So, an incredible use of religious symbolism and mythology. It changed the whole nature of the campaign.

The fact that they were living in conditions like animals, that their own excrement was being smeared on the walls, actually goes back to the beginnings of Christianity. The symbols and slogans that they were using at the time—“No greater love hath a man than to lay down his life for his friend.” The iconography that they were using, of a dying Christ in the bosom of the blessed Virgin Mary. People going out in demonstrations wearing the prison shroud, putting on their heads the crown of thorns, which Christ had worn to Calvary. All of it was going to the very heart of Christian symbolism. So, you don’t need to have any elaborate text; you simply need the visual evidence. And so, therefore, they were claiming that they were part of something which was old as Christianity itself, and as self-sacrificial as the death of Christ himself.

They were extremely aware of the power of imagery and symbolism, because precisely the same images, precisely the same images, have been used after 1916, when the rebel leaders were rounded up and put into the jails and then shot in 1916. Sixty years later, the new generation comes along and uses exactly the same imagery, the same symbols.

When you look at the reaction of the greater Catholic community to what was happening inside the Maze with the blanket men and then the hunger strikes, you have to divide the Catholic community … those relatives who actually have people inside the prisons and most others, who were non-Republicans. And most others were not moved, for the most part, by what was going on.

For example, the first hunger striker who went to his death, Bobby Sands, on the day he went on hunger strike, 4,000 people watched in protest. We can take it that they all were hard-line Republicans. On the day he was buried, 70,000 marched in protest. So this, again, was a huge propaganda victory, where the Catholic community were used as sort of an emotional rollercoaster. And now it was rollercoasting towards the … Republican movement again. They believed that the British authorities had mishandled [the situation] very badly.

The British Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher … did herself tremendous damage in saying, “We will not talk to terrorists under any circumstances.” It has to be remembered that, at the time, she refused to speak to the ANC and to Nelson Mandela. This was part of a wider policy that she had.

I’m not certain we can use the word “strategy” when we look at the whole hunger strike. Some of it was accident, but then a strategy began to put itself together. It was actually insofar as it was the relatives who moved the Republicans to take seriously voices other than their own. That was the first point. Secondly, the momentum was coming from within the prison and not from outside. Adams and company were against the hunger strike to begin with. They thought it was counter-productive. They didn’t think it was going to work. And what it indicates is how central prisoners are to the whole campaign. If you look at the cease-fires, it’s only after the prisoners agreed to it that they were able to carry it through.

So, the prisoners played the role. But the strategy was something which, again, was embedded in the Republican psyche. It was simply reaching into the recesses of their communal memory, and remembering what happened after 1916. The symbolism, the imagery, was something which came to them as second nature. They would have given, had some thought, but it would’ve been the most natural thing in the world to do.

The IRA leadership] was opposed to the hunger strike because they were afraid it would fail simply because of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. They would have to call off the hunger strikes, and the result of that would be huge demoralization inside the organization. They didn't want it to happen. And, secondly, it was happening inside the prisons. They didn't have control. They were an organization which was used to control, liked to be firmly in control.

When Bobby Sands was elected to Parliament, only then did it strike Republicans what a gold load had struck. Because here they were saying "Bobby Sands MP", Member of the British Parliament, RIP, may he rest in peace; killed by the British establishment," was the way they were able to put it. And that's when the democratic mandate really begins to go into play. That's when they realize that they have to play the electoral role as well.

So, what you find is with the election of Bobby Sands, and following his death and the bi-election, the election of another Republican, is the sovereignty changes to electoral … to show that they had the democratic mandate. And they took off in spectacular fashion.

Remember, they started from a base of zero. But, within a few years they were taking 13.4% of the whole vote inside Northern Ireland. They were taking up to 40% of the Catholic vote. They were challenging for the first time seriously the SDLP. They were embarrassing the Irish government. They were upsetting the apple cart again.

When the second hunger strike was called, it actually had more support than the first hunger strike. Because the first hunger strike was called off after two Catholic bishops had gone into the prisons and believed that they'd won concessions from the government.

They then believed that the government went back on its word. So, it wasn't a question of simply believing what Republicans said, Catholic bishops had been lied to was the perception.

So, when a second hunger strike began, it began with that advantage. Its timing also was crucial. The first hunger strike had been timed so that if anyone was going to die, they were going to die around Christmas, the time of a huge Christian celebration, the birth of Christ. The second hunger strike was timed to end at Easter. And that had two potent symbols. One was the risen Christ of Easter, and second was the remembrance of Easter Rebellion of 1916. So, the thinking, the symbolism, the imagery that had gone into it was very powerful.

Margaret Thatcher compounded British difficulties by appearing to be too … (inaudible)—"a crime is a crime is a crime," in that horrible strident verse of hers. And while it may well have gone down well with her own supporters, it showed no understanding of the Irish political psyche. It did tremendous damage to the constitutional politicians in Ireland who are now being challenged by these revolutions. And all of that had to be undone.

The impact of Sands' death was overwhelming. Even the peace people, the people who had formed a peace movement in 1976 as a result of IRA atrocities, said that they could identify with people, they identified with Sands. That here was another Irish life taken needlessly.

Bobby Sands' death led to yet another huge emotional ground swell inside the Catholic community. A ground swell which didn't necessarily go towards Republicans, but certainly it went against the British. That had the impact that the Protestant community and the Catholic community were more polarized than they'd been for at least a decade. And, neither side understood how the others felt.

The culmination of the hunger strikes was one which brought Sinn Fein out of being a militant armed sect into a wider political and democratic process. Now, this is very, very important.

I don't think they would have embraced that had it not been for the emotional ground swell of the hunger strikes, the realization that there are votes out there to be taken. So, it was very important for that reason. It also raised the profile of people like Adams, who in any case had been thinking and moving in the direction of a democratic process rather than the military process.

The IRA Campaign of Violence

There is a perception that the IRA and other paramilitaries have used mindless violence. That is very far from the truth. The violence has always been used for a purpose.

And, simply put, violence is used as a communicative dimension. It is saying to the state or to government, "We are here. You have to talk to us. If we have to bomb our way to a negotiating table, we will." So, very rarely do you get examples of mindless violence in the Northern Ireland context.

And when you look at the type of violence, over time it has changed. Because the violence was a classic example of armed propaganda. Sometimes car bombs would be used, which would be simply about causing as much economic destruction as possible, as making Northern Ireland so expensive for the British exchequer that there would be a demand for the British to withdraw. Or they would target British soldiers. There always was the belief that the death of one British soldier was worth at least, in propaganda terms, ten policemen from Northern Ireland, because in Britain itself, the British mainland, the demand to get out would grow.

So, targets were very carefully specified. What the IRA tried to do for the most part and what they believed they were doing was that they were not trying to harm the local community. Now, that was part of their mythology. If they killed a Protestant, they would argue that it wasn't a Protestant they were killing, but it was a member of the security forces who happened to be a Protestant.

And in their role as purported defenders of the Catholic community, they've actually succeeded in killing more Catholics than have their opponents. And so, when they carry out campaigns of violence against property or against people, in many, many instances what they were doing was they were damaging their own people more than they were furthering their cause. Now, that is very important, because the IRA, unlike other terrorist groups around the world, realized, to use the Maoist dictum, that "it needed water for the fish to swim in." The water it needed was the support of the local community. I f it lost that support, its campaign is going to run into the sands. So, it was always very, very conscious that it had to be careful how it used its violence.

It is worth pointing out that Belfast, for example, never became Beirut. There was a control to most of the violence. Before the violence occurred, there were usually plenty of warnings. Very rarely could you put your finger and say that innocent people were targeted deliberately.

They were very conscious in their propaganda of how they sold their violence. They were always conscious they had to bring their people with them.

When we speak of soft targets we're talking about people or property which are very easy to target, very easy to pick off. And, obviously, the easier they are, the more successful you're going to be. So, they could pick, for example, an isolated Protestant farmer on the border of Northern Ireland, who was a member of the local security force on a part-time basis. Or, in one instance, the IRA killed a woman who was taking a census collection. She was simply finding out, for the government, how people felt in Northern Ireland. She was shot dead because she worked for the government.

There were literally hundreds of examples of soft targets. But they all added grist to the mill. They all were to demonstrate that Northern Ireland was ungovernable.

Bloody Friday (July 21 1972)

Bloody Friday was important in demonizing the IRA. Bloody Friday happens within four months of the imposition of direct rule, when Unionists had lost out, when there were people saying, "Let's call it a day. We've had enough violence." The IRA response to Bloody Friday was that it wasn't they who got it wrong, that they gave the warnings. It was the authorities who got it wrong, that they did not mean to kill those innocent civilians. Whatever way you look at it, it was a very important event, because what it did was that it distanced those in the Unionist community who might have been prepared to give some thought to doing deals with people in the Catholic community … they said, "All bets are off."

It reinforced the position of the Protestant paramilitaries, and made them a real force in the political game in Northern Ireland. It reinforced the fanatical voice of Protestant militism, some of those who claim that they were not, or didn't approve of violence, but used violent language. What it did was that it polarized the situation very, very badly.

It persuaded the British government that you cannot do business with the Republican movement. So, for all of those reasons, Bloody Friday had very serious consequences.

The Murder of Lord Mountbatten August, 1979

In August of 1979 the IRA pulled off two of their huge spectaculars with the murder of Mountbatten, part of the British royal family. But they also killed two young boys in the same boat that he was in. So, there were mixed feelings about it. There was great glee in the Republican movement. The British authorities were able to make much propaganda out of the death of the two young boys. On the same day, the IRA pulled off probably their most spectacular military operation when they blew to pieces 18 British soldiers—[at Warrenpoint] and they happened to be British paratroopers, the people who were responsible for Bloody Sunday. So, among their followers, this was a huge, huge victory.

But the downside of that was that the soldiers had been killed on the Irish border. So, the British were able to mount a propaganda campaign, arguing very strongly that the border between Northern Ireland and the Republican of Ireland needed to be sealed, that the Irish government wasn't doing enough, that the American administration was too soft on the Irish government, and it needed to take a much [non active] … (inaudible) role, that you can't go around killing young boys simply because you wanted to kill an old man of 79.

It was both a win and a loss, but it became a win later on … at that time, immediately after the tenth hunger striker had gone to his death, the Sunday Times did a poll of the world’s newspapers, and what they discovered was a huge switch in opinion from sympathy with the British government, which had lost Lord Mountbatten, which had seen an attempt to blow up its whole Cabinet at Brighton, and what they saw was an insensitive, unthinking government.

So, the death of Mountbatten and all the rest of it actually turned out to be a propaganda coup for the IRA rather than a loss for them.

The 1987 Enniskillen Bombing

When the IRA exploded the bomb in Enniskillen in November of 1987, they did their cause irreparable harm from the military perspective. Because they blew up 11 innocent Protestant civilians in probably the most sacred day of their year commemorating their war dead. So, what it demonstrated to begin with was a total insensitivity of Protestant peoples.

Secondly, they tried to claim that this was something which actually had been created by the British. That backfired very badly and they lost out very badly in that respect. Thirdly, they lost out electorally insofar as four of their eight elected representatives were not selected again the next election in that area. Fourthly, it led them in the direction of going into dialogue with the SDLP. And that was one of the big turning points.

The Brighton Bombings

The Brighton bombings were very simple and very complex. Simple, they wanted to destroy Margaret Thatcher. They hated her with a passion. And, if they could destroy the British government with her, even more so. Nowhere else could it happen that a complete government was being wiped out with one bomb. It demonstrated the vulnerability of the British security system. It was a huge propaganda victory for the Republican movement, which they played up very strongly.

The London Bombing Campaign

The London bombing campaign was simply to bring the war to the British mainland. It was surprising because previous campaigns in Britain had failed because they didn't have the logistics, they didn't have the local support. And in going to London, they were saying to the British political establishment, "We are moving into the heart of your country." But it wasn't successful, it wasn't effective. It's only much later on in the campaign, when they return to Britain, that it does become effective, with some spectacular failures.

In particular, there was a bomb in a British town called Warrenpoint in March of 1992, when two young boys were blown to pieces. That was one which went very badly wrong. The images of those two boys shows how an organization which operates through symbolic capital can have that turned on its head, so that the propaganda that came out of Warrenpoint was, "This is an organization that takes the lives of innocent young children." And that impacted very strongly among their own supporters. I think that was one of the telling points in actually going for a cease-fire.

The second attempt to blow up the British Cabinet occurred in 1991 when the Cabinet was meeting, dealing with the affair in Kuwait. It was a war cabinet. The IRA launched a bomb, a mortar bomb, in the heart of London on Downing Street. One security expert said it was five to ten degrees off. If they got it right, it would have been their greatest spectacular.

What they demonstrated was just how vulnerable London was. And brought home to politicians in London that at some stage you're going to have to deal with us. That's all we're telling you; deal with us.

The bombing in London and in Britain throughout the '90s, I think demonstrates that the IRA were showing that they had the skill to continue. But, in some ways, it was the last throw of the dice, they had to go for the spectaculars.

But, they also realized that if they were going into negotiation, they went into negotiation from a position of military strength. And these bombs were occurring … when there were secret negotiations going on between Martin McGuinness and the British … and this was a classic example of the IRA saying look, if you think you're going to hoodwink us, just you realize how military powerful we are.

British Actions

Internment

We use the term "internment" to mean imprisoning people without trial. So, it's a short cut. It goes by the judicial process. And the government decided in August of 1971 that the IRA campaign was getting out of control, the best way to deal with it was simply to intern the key people—over 350 people were lifted in one swoop, on one morning in August. But it was a disaster.

And the word "disaster" is not mine. That is the word used by the chief of police in Northern Ireland about a policy which his men had to carry out. It was a disaster because they lifted only Republicans when Loyalist violence was going on at the same time. So, it was seen as being against the Catholic community solely. Their intelligence was so out of date that very few of those they lifted had actually been engaged in the present campaign of violence. It was therefore seen as an assault, yet again, on the whole Catholic community. It was followed by allegations of torture, many of which allegations were upheld. And, again, it undermined British rule in Northern Ireland. So, as a result of it, the IRA were able to recruit young men in scores, if not in hundreds.

A number of studies have been done on IRA prisoners and IRA people who have gone to their deaths—whether it's been done by psychologists or others—and one of the things that comes out very clearly is that these people do not, as a class, belong to the criminal class. Their self-perception is that they joined for idealistic motives. It is the only way to defend their community.

If you look at the rate of recidivism among former IRA inmates, you find that very few of them are involved in criminal activity. If you look at their level of education, you find that, for the most part, they have a reasonable level of education. Very few have third level, but most of them have a reasonable level of secondary education.

So, they did not represent an underclass of ill-educated, disenchanted youth. They represented some people, men and women, boys and girls, who believed they had to be part of the struggle because they had to act on behalf of their community.

I would believe that most of the people who joined the Republican movement were idealists. I have had a little experience of going into the prisons and teaching. And when you go into the prisons, you have to teach the separate para-military block, so, therefore, you would teach one group of Loyalists and then another group of Loyalists, and then the two official and provisional Republicans. And I came away overwhelmingly with the sense that if there were psychopaths in there, they were very, very difficult to discover; that they were people who really believed that they, in fact, belonged to a higher moral plane than the rest of us, because they were prepared to lay down their lives and prepare to give up their years of freedom for a cause they thought could not be challenged. That is on both the Catholic and Protestant side.

The Introduction of the Policy of Criminalization

British authorities, I think, realized by the mid-’70s that they were in for a long campaign, and they realized the cost to them on the British mainland. So, they wanted to change the nature of the campaign. And they introduced two concepts. One was Ulsterization, whereby the battle would be fought by people from Northern Ireland; the security forces and the front line would be the police of Northern Ireland rather than the British army. And criminalization was an attempt to try and withdraw the IRA and the Republican movement from the greater Catholic community by saying, “These people are not engaged in political struggle. They are simply criminals.”

The result of those two policies were disastrous for the British. In the short term, things seemed to be going their way. The IRA campaign had slowed down considerably. The British believed that they were defeating them. The Protestant community, particularly militant Protestants, were becoming more self-confident, and they believed that it was only a question of time before they went back to the status quo.

But in the longer term, the decision to use criminalization meant that a whole community were being branded. And the IRA turned said, “They are saying that your sons and daughters, who are prepared to lay down their lives, are being treated like ordinary criminals. We cannot have that.”

Another aspect of the whole criminalization policy was the authorities’ attempt to try and [get many Rupublican leaders into] the judicial system very quickly, either by forcing confessions out of people or by using what were called “super grasses,” defectors from the movement who would identify sometimes between 30 and 40 people and say that they were part of the movement. And both of those backfired. There is no doubt that the authorities got very valuable information, with which they were able to lock dangerous men up.

But the means whereby they had got it run against the Western tradition of the rule of law, and, therefore, damaged that particular cause. And, again, in criminalizing people, the British authorities were doing damage to their own system. One of the most serious defects in the whole last 25 years is what the IRA campaign has done to the British sense of justice. So, what they have done, the IRA have done by forcing the British to use these excessive means, is that they have highlighted the extent to which a so-called modern democracy is, itself, flawed.

The whole movement revolted against the notion of criminalization. And the way they did so was through the powerful symbol of just how powerless they were. They refused to wear the prison clothes, and so, therefore, they wrapped themselves in a blanket. Their imagery was the imagery of Christ at Calvary. And it was a very powerful, very emotive, inside the Catholic community.

Ironically, [criminalization] elevates the IRA, but it does so paradoxically, because the people who take up the Republican struggle are the families of IRA prisoners, who are not necessarily part of the Republican movement. And they form an organization, relatives trying to free their sons and daughters. And the IRA realized that they were losing that section of the community. And the IRA also began to realize that the struggle they were involved in was political and military. So, it was the relatives that got them to think politics.

The Failed 1974-75 Cease Fire

During 1974-75, after the failure of power-sharing in 1974, the IRA went into another cease-fire in which they believed that some sort of understanding with the British government that there was going to be disengagement. In retrospect, they believed that what happened was that the British government was trying to divide them, was trying to demoralize them, because the longer there was an absence of violence, the more difficult it was to resurrect a campaign.

As a result of that cease-fire, the old Republican leadership stood aside. And it is then, late 1975, that Gerry Adams, Martin McGuiness, come into their own, and they come into their own as people who have been against the cease-fire.

I think the real significance of that ‘74-‘75 cease-fire was not that it had failed, but that a generation … realized that Republicanism failed, and that new generation was represented by Martin McGuiness and Gerry Adams. And after ‘75, they were the people who took over, and they were the people who took over with a very strong belief that you can never trust the Brits.

That new leadership, I think, took at least two lessons … from the failure of that ‘74-‘75 cease-fire. One was they must always be militarily prepared. They must demonstrate that if they go into negotiations again, they do so from a position of strength and not from weakness. And, secondly, they had to decide on a political strategy whereby they could not be shortchanged by the British. They had to demonstrate that if they went into negotiations, they could bring the whole Republican movement along with them, that Republicanism could not be split.

Unfortunately, I think that the British authorities learned nothing from the failure of that cease-fire. They believed that they had the IRA on the ropes. The politician in charge at the time said the he was squeezing the IRA like he would squeeze a tube of toothpaste, that they were on their last legs. And the more he said it, the more dangerous it became, because the IRA were not prepared to give in to that. And the British government believed it was now simply a question of time before the campaign would come to an end. And they began to treat virtually all Irish-Catholics with great disdain. So, they learned no lessons whatsoever.

The Anglo-Irish Agreement (Nov 15, 1985)

The Anglo-Irish agreement is one of the most significant agreements between the two governments in this century, because it was a recognition by the British government that the Northern Ireland problem was something which it couldn’t handle in its own right. It was also recognition that it was paying some attention to international opinion, which had argued for quite awhile, particularly the U.S. administration, that there had to be Irish involvement in it.

But, thirdly, from a British perspective it was about closer security, cooperation. And interestingly, the IRA in its Christmas message in 1985 described the agreement as the most sophisticated, counter-revolutionary strategy ever devised for the British. They saw it as an attempt to destroy them.

The Protestant reaction to the Agreement was one of overwhelming detestation, from all strata in Protestant society. They believed that they'd been sold out in a way that had never happened before partition. They went back to 1912 to find something somewhere.

And, so they united to a man and woman against it, but they couldn't prevent the implementation of the agreement. It was an attempt to say to the Protestant population, "You in fact, are a minority inside the United Kingdom. Northern Ireland makes up less than three percent of the population of the United Kingdom; you make up about two percent of that population. It is what the majority of people in the United Kingdom want, which will be the deciding factor, not what you want."

The 1988 Gibraltar Killings of Three IRA

The killing of three IRA volunteers at Gibraltar in 1988 was something which appeared to be a wonderful coup for the British security services. They had got them as they were about to plant a bomb, or so they said, and they had executed them. Classic example of why the military can operate.

But, again, it was something which went badly awry as far as the authorities were concerned, because evidence started to build up that these people could quite easily have been arrested. And what, in fact, the authorities had done was they made martyrs out of three people.

One of them was a young female graduate who represented the romantic side of Republicanism. And as the British authorities tried to destroy the evidence of some of the witnesses, mutual witnesses from Gibraltar, they compounded their own problem. And then as they tried to destroy attempts made by some of the British media to get to the bottom of it, again they compounded the sense in which democracy was not at work here. So, it became a Republican coup. And they were very good at the propaganda level. They were very good when the authorities had done something wrong.

Gibraltar was a classic example. Mariad Farrell who was quite a striking beauty, they used that very, very successfully. They used it on other occasions. Even during the hunger strikes, the hunger strikers appeared to look like Christ with the long black hair and the dark beards ... all of it was part of war by other means, war by propaganda.

The Birmingham Six

The Birmingham Six is one of the classic cases as to why Britain might want to get out of Ireland, because it showed British justice at its worst. The authorities picked up six innocent men returning to Ireland to a funeral. But they were soft targets, they were obvious people to pick up. They were, for the most part, inarticulate, unemployed, working-class Catholics.

They were nailed for Birmingham. None of them had anything to do with it. For two decades, the British political establishment could not accept that they could have made a mistake. The Lord Chief Justice said it was inconceivable that a mistake could have been made. And the longer they went on denying it, the longer the British political establishment did serious damage to their old case. And at the end, it was Irish Republicanism which was exonerated, even though Irish Republicans had planted the bomb.

The U.S. Role

I think the most important point of what the Irish-American diaspora in this century has been that it's suffered from a huge myth. It's suffered from the myth that America was a second front. It suffered from the myth that it had huge influence with the administration, whatever that administration was.

But if you look at the record, in fact, it had little or no influence. And that became painfully clear when the troubles broke out in 1969. It became particularly clear in the first couple of years of the troubles, when they find that the administration, the Nixon administration, relied totally on what they were told by the British authorities.

Secondly, in the United States there was a split between, if you like, the treetops and the grass roots—the treetops who believed that there may be a constitutional way forward, believed that they could bring moral pressure on the administration to bring pressure on the British to do something about it. One commentator had described it thus: "The Micks telling the Yanks to tell the Brits to tell the Prots that the only answer is a united Ireland."

But it was organized at two levels. There was the treetops, the Four Horsemen, as they were known—Speaker Tip O'Neill, Senators Edward Kennedy and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, and Governor Hugh Carey. They were heavily influenced by John Hume, who was the leader of the Nationalists in the north, and by the Irish government, that there had to be a constitutional way forward, and that Irish-Americans should not be giving their money to the IRA for weapons.

So, you have the treetops, which were trying to work through the administration, and you have the grass roots, the guys who were giving their dollars - from the Bronx, South Boston, or whatever, to help the struggle in Northern Ireland. And you have for example, 1973, an FBI report which says that it is embarrassed by the Irish conflict, because the Irish conflict has been paid for by U.S. dollars. There is a realization that something had to be done.

So, Irish America had to come to terms with the fact that insofar as the administration was concerned about the Irish question, it was only concerned because it was part of a larger network of international terrorism, and something had to be done to break that link. It is there that the Horsemen begin to play a very strong role. The Horsemen come out with statements very opposed to the IRA campaign, as it becomes much more vicious during the 1970s. It is the Horsemen who argue very strongly that you should not be helping these people.

Irish America generally, until very recent years, was seen as being a hindrance rather than a help. So, there was a feeling, still remains a feeling, among the British political establishment that this has nothing to do with the United States, and there is a huge irritation among the more establishment newspapers, for example, about the role that the United States has played. That indicates the United States' influence is growing, and is important.

Part of the problem with the Irish-American community is one of ignorance. They have a romantic view of what Ireland was, they have a very simplistic view of the struggle. Now, as the troubles have gone on, that has become more sophisticated. But they did idealize.

Secondly, Irish-American propagandists were very clever in using the language of liberty, which rings with the American community, which goes all the way back to the revolution and which Northern Ireland Protestants could never understand. But it was that use of propaganda, which kept it on the burner all the time.

Clinton's Granting a Visa to Gerry Adams in 1994

One thing I think we should remember about President Clinton—he's the first post-Cold War president. His predecessors, Bush, Reagan, all the way back to Kennedy, etc., were part of that Cold War which believed very strongly in the special Anglo-American relationship.

President Clinton owes nothing to that heritage. He owes nothing to those who were proud of the Second World War. He was the person taking over in the post-Cold War. You had a new world order where everything became possible. Also, he owed no favors to John Major, because the conservative party had acted on behalf of George Bush in the presidential campaign. He was his own man. The Irish American vote was very important. All of these were factors in persuading the President to get involved.

What President Clinton had to gain, I think, was one, domestic. He could solidify his hold into the Democratic party through Irish America, which had begun to drift towards the Republican party in the previous decade. But, secondly, for the man who says "the economy, stupid," he actually was concerned with foreign policy issues.

And the Irish conflict was one which was winnable. It wasn't too complex; it wasn't too regional. It was coming to some sort of successful completion. So, he could paint himself as an international man of peace. And he'd do a great degree of good. The United States generally could be a prestigious third party.

When the president invited Gerry Adams to United States, or at least give him a visa to come, he was moving away … Gerry Adams, over the past 20 years, had been refused seven visas to come to the United States. He was now being recognized at the very center of democracy. He realized that. So, Adams gained that. But, you know, it was a two-way ticket. What he lost was that he couldn't deliver, that he couldn't demonstrate that he was a Nelson Mandela.

The granting of the visa to Gerry Adams had an important impact with the IRA. It gave the IRA a certain degree of self confidence. That if Sinn Fein did go into negotiation, it was going into negotiation with the goodwill of the most powerful state in the world. Not necessarily the acquiescence, but at least with the United States wanting to play the role …. wanting to push the process forward. And, you know for a people who believed themselves to be demonized, marginalized, isolated completely, psychologically this was very powerful indeed.

There would not have been an IRA cease fire in August of 1994 if the Republican movement had not been convinced that the Clinton administration was wholly on board, wholly committed to trying to move the process forward. Leaning at least on the British authorities, because they knew that the Irish authorities wanted to move in that direction in any case.

And, equally, the IRA cease fire would not have been restored where the IRA again [was] not convinced that the administration was important. What I'm saying is the role that the Clinton administration has played has been central to the peace process. It has not been marginal; it has been central. It has pursuaded Irish Republicans that their views are being taken seriously on a wider stage.

Equally, it persuaded their political leadership that they may have to go for something less than what they actually want to implement in one go. That they might have to accept something less than Irish unity. It has persuaded them that politics is about process and compromise and concession.

And, all of that has come about because the President and staff inside the NSC listen to people like John Hume and went for it. They ignored the advice coming from the State Department and from the Justice Department, and they said we're going for this. They have kept in weekly, if not daily contact with the actors to make sure that the peace process would stay in place.

They have, in the present Blair government, the Labor government, a very close ally indeed. So, the parts are there for the peace process to actually take off, and the American administration has been central to all of that.

The role of the Clinton administration has been central to the whole peace process. They took the risk in standing alongside Gerry Adams, in giving Adams the moral fiber and the political fiber to convince his own people that they'd never reach the stage where politics is a game on time. "It's the right process, it's the right compromise, it's the right concession and conciliation. You may not get all you want, but you won't get anything better by any other means. Go for it."

What is essentially different is that the last peace talks failed. People got into the present peace talks in a much less euphoric frame of mind. But, they've also gone into it with a much lesser degree of fatalism. The advantage of the 17 months was that the greater community in Northern Ireland said we can make this one.

So, the pieces are there for everything to come together. And as long as the administration stays with it, and as long as the Blair government with its huge majority stays with it, then it is possible to realize peace, if not in a matter of months, certainly a matter of years.

The Future

In the coming months the worst case scenario is that all the historic mistrust will get on top of the talks. That those parties outside the talks in Northern Ireland, and there are two, will be able to whip up fears in the larger community so that the Ulster Unionist party won't have the confidence to continue. So, either it's going to be as a result of historic mistrust or short-term political gain. That's the worst case scenario.

The best case scenario is that the Irish peace process will follow what happened in South Africa. It will use the vocabulary of South Africa where they seek a sufficient consensus to make sure you can build up a strong center. And, those who are outside the process realize the futility of being outside the process, and they will come in over time. And, with the support of civil society in norther Ireland, the business community, the churches, you will have for the first time ever in the history of Northern Ireland a proper, inclusive political dialogue.

Again, another facet which is helping the peace process with the last British elections, which occurred in May of 1997, when Gerry Adams and Martin McGuinness were elected. These are the two people at the heart of the Republican peace process. The symbolism, the propaganda value of all of this is huge. The self esteem which their community has got is huge. The fact that these are the two people who are leading the peace faction, have been elected, cannot be underestimated.

The fact that they've gone into a parliament symbolically - because they haven't gone in in person - the fact that they've gone in there, which is led by Labor government, who chose no favors to any Ulster Unionists or any Irish nationalist ... (inaudible) But, a Labor government which is a huge majority, and has got a very close working relationship with the Clinton administration. All of that plays in favor of a peace process.

The Blair team, long before they come into office, were watching very closely what John Major did. The one thing that they had hoped was that Major would push things along so far that they could pick it up and go further with it. They didn't foresee that they were going to get such a magnificent, spectacular victory. So, they don't have to look over their shoulders at the conservatives who are so disorganized and so demoralized. They also have, at a person level, a very good relationship between the president and the prime minister. They have people in the Labor administration who have studied very closely how the democratic presidential campaigns worked, and how the American political system works. So that there is a meeting of minds and a meeting of attitudes which was never there before.

I think we have to suspend judgement on the long war. As they sit at the talks at the moment, the best that can be given is an interim judgement. And interim judgement is that the IRA and the Republican movement have led through their own mistakes, also through their own heroism, and also through their own ruthlessness. That if they had gone for this earlier, it is conceivable that we could have avoided some of the deaths.

Equally, it is conceivable that others had to go through the same learning curve. And so you cannot look at the Republican movement in isolation. You have to look at the wider picture. And in the wider picture, you arrive at an interim judgement that most of the parties, including the Republican movement, are now prepared to accept less than …. when they set out. And that I see as huge progress. And that I see as learning from other peace processes.

People like Gerry Adams and Martin McGuinness have gone through their own very painful form of political odyssey. They have gone down a very long road where they believe in simplistically that you could win this militarily. They have suffered with their people, they have suffered themselves. They have realized the damage which violence has done.

They have had the moral courage to admit that there is another way forward. They have shown the political leadership to bring their people along … and if they can continue in that vein, then perhaps they will be judged to be Mandelas … Washingtons … whomever.

Sinn Fein have to convince the Irish people as a whole that this is not part of a cynical ploy, that they’re not going to return to violence. So, they have a very tall order in speaking to constituencies.

It’s not the governments in Dublin or London, it’s not the administration here; it is the people of Ireland. And that is a monumental task.

In the end, there is never any end in politics; politics is a process. What they will see in the medium term is less than Irish unity. Not simply because of their campaign of violence, but simply because the way that politics is evolving globally.

So, in the end, what they might see is the notion of strong regionalism in the island of Ireland, which will be part of a regional European union. And, in that sense, people will be able to claim multiple identities. They can be British, they can be Irish, they can be European. And in that sort of fudge you have an answer to the Irish conflict.

Americans, and particularly Irish Americans, have also gone through their own learning curve over this past 25 to 27 years. There was a cross-simplicity to begin with. There was identification with the underdog, while turning a blind eye to many of the things that that underdog was doing. To simplifying some horrible violence on the part of the IRA and others.

But, now that they have gone through that, I think that Americans have a much stronger realization of the complexity of the problem, and also of a much stronger sense of the ownership to the outcome of the problem. And it’s holding onto that ownership which I think is very important in the medium term.

We could say that, in fact, peace process is the hard bit; killing is easy. Killing can give certain people in the community their sense of self esteem. It’s the only thing they know.

Knowing that that has to stop, they simply become ordinary members of their community. And so as part of the peace process, it is essential that what has built into it is an attempt to civilianize these people. It has been tried in other peace processes with very limited success, it should be said. El Salvador is a classic example.

But, I think, it is more likely to be achievable in the Irish conflict for very simple reasons. And that is the continuing part of the family, the continuing traditional Catholic beliefs. The fact that it is the communities which sanctions violence, and the community can turn it off.

The surgery on Rosemary Kennedy has failed, the daughter of Rose Mary Kennedy, daughter of Joseph Kennedy Sr.

She seems ok intellectually and loving but does not progress with her school work. What is that? It is not she is a "bad" kid, just doesn't do homework and may have other problems like grammar or speaking.

Her father, WASP and England friendly, had this to say.

Joseph P Kennedy Sr. on siding with QEII over Socialism, Communism, or Nazim (socialism with a nationalist characteristic)

Ted Kennedy Born Edward Moore Kennedy FEBRUARY 22, 1932 Boston, Massachusetts, U.S. Died August 25, 2009 (aged 77) Hyannis Port, Massachusetts, U.S.

In an interview with two newspaper journalists, Louis M. Lyons of The Boston Globe, and Ralph Coghlan of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Kennedy said: *

It's all a question of what we do with the next six months. The whole reason for aiding England is to give us time … As long as she is in there, we have time to prepare. It isn't that [Britain is] fighting for democracy. That's the bunk. She's fighting for self-preservation, just as we will if it comes to us. … I know more about the European situation than anybody else, and it's up to me to see that the country gets it.

Joseph Kennedy Sr was enormously powerful in Iron and Steel, Ambassadorship, and many other facets of Western business, politics, and media including owning RKO Pictures.

JPK Sr does know more than anything else and he surely loved Rosemary Kennedy as she loved him.

Like Prescott Bush and Geroge H.W. Bush, long time Eugenics and Vienna Pscyhology participants they follow the rise of Hitler carefully and want Nazi Germany wiped out as does Arnold Schwarzenegger and others.

Try and keep up. Its you, not us. A few trade-offs. That’s all. Here we come.

Rosemary read few books but could read Winnie-the-Pooh.[10] Diaries written by her in the late 1930s, and published in the 1980s, reveal a young woman whose life was filled with outings to the opera, tea dances, dress fittings, and other social interests.[11] Kennedy accompanied her family to the coronation of Pope Pius XII in Rome in 1939. She also visited the White House.[6] Kennedy’s parents told Woman's Day that she was "studying to be a kindergarten teacher," and Parents was told that while she had "an interest in social welfare work, she is said to harbor a secret longing to go on the stage." When The Boston Globe requested an interview with Rosemary, her father's assistant prepared a response which Rosemary copied out laboriously:

> I have always had serious tastes and understand life is not given us just for enjoyment. For some time past, I have been studying the well known psychological method of Dr. Maria Montessori and I got my degree in teaching last year.

In 1938, Kennedy was presented to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace during her father's service as the United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom.[13] Kennedy practiced the complicated royal curtsy for hours. At the event, she tripped and nearly fell. Rose Kennedy never discussed the incident and treated the debut as a triumph. The crowd made no sign, and the King and the Queen smiled as if nothing had happened.

"Darling Daddy," 22-year-old Rosemary Kennedy wrote in a 1940 letter to her father Joseph P. Kennedy, then serving as U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain. "I am so fond of you. And I love you so very much."

Just over a year later, that same young woman affectionate, dutiful and always eager to please her father was unable to form a sentence. In what would become a decades-long secret and a source of deep shame for the most famous dynasty in American history, Joe and Rose Kennedy's intellectually disabled eldest daughter lost everything at age 23, when her father scheduled a catastrophic lobotomy that left her with the mental capacity of a toddler.

After the secret surgery, it would be another two decades after Joe became incapacitated by a severe stroke in 1961 before any of Rosemary's eight siblings would learn the truth about their sister's disappearance: she was living at a Catholic facilty for the mentally disabled in Jefferson, Wisconsin, hidden from public view.

Now, for the first time, two new books offer a devastating portrait of the lovely, troubled woman whose life was cruelly derailed by her father.

In Rosemary: The Hidden Kennedy Daughter, excerpted in this week's PEOPLE, author Kate Larson depicts a vivacious daughter with a "perfect smile" who struggled to find her place in a family that prized achievement and success above all else. For the first time, Larson details the chilling events that deprived Rosemary's brain of ox

How do you solve a problem like Marylin Monroe, Rosemarie Kennedy, or Maria?
retrieved from STLyrics Show Tune Lyrics and copied or modified to here

She climbs a tree and scr*pes her knee
Her dress has got a tear
She waltzes on her way to Mass
And whistles on the stair
And underneath her wimple
She has curlers in her hair
I even heard her singing in the abbey

She's always late for chapel
But her penitence is real
She's always late for everything
Except for every meal
I hate to have to say it
But I very firmly feel
Maria's not an asset to the abbey

I'd like to say a word in her behalf
Maria makes me laugh

How do you solve a problem like Maria?
How do you catch a cloud and pin it down?
How do you find a word that means Maria?
A flibbertijibbet! A will-o'-the wisp! A clown!

Many a thing you know you'd like to tell her
Many a thing she ought to understand
But how do you make her stay
And listen to all you say
How do you keep a wave upon the sand

Oh, how do you solve a problem like Maria?
How do you hold a moonbeam in your hand?

When I'm with her I'm confused
Out of focus and bemused
And I never know exactly where I am
Unpredictable as weather
She's as flighty as a feather
She's a darling! She's a demon! She's a lamb!

She'd outpester any pest
Drive a hornet from its nest
She could throw a whirling dervish out of whirl
She is gentle! She is wild!
She's a riddle! She's a child!
She's a headache! She's an angel!
She's a girl!

How do you solve a problem like Maria?
How do you catch a cloud and pin it down?
How do you find a word that means Maria?

A flibbertijibbet! A will-o’-the wisp! A clown!
Many a thing you know you’d like to tell her
Many a thing she ought to understand
But how do you make her stay
And listen to all you say
How do you keep a wave upon the sand

Oh, how do you solve a problem like Maria?
How do you hold a moonbeam in your hand?

Rome’s Very Best

On DECEMBER 19, 1961, at the age of 73, Josepsh Kennedy Sr. suffered a stroke. He survived but was left paralyzed on his right side. Thereafter, he suffered from aphasia, which severely affected his ability to speak. He remained mentally alert, regained certain functions with therapy, and began walking with a cane. His speech also showed some improvement. Kennedy began to experience excessive muscular weakness, which eventually required him to use a wheelchair. In 1964, Kennedy was taken to The Institutes for the Achievement of Human Potential in Philadelphia, a medical and rehabilitative center for those who have experienced brain injury.

Kennedy’s son Robert was assassinated on JUNE 5, 1968.[97] In the aftermath of his son’s death, Kennedy made his last public appearance when he, his wife, and son Ted made a filmed message to the country. He died at home in Hyannis Port the following year on NOVEMBER 18, 1969.

Maria Montessori retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Maria Tecla Artemisia Montessori (/ˌmɒntɪˈsɔːri/ MON-tiss-OR-ee, Italian: [maˈriːa montesˈsɔːri]; August 31, 1870 May 6, 1952) was an Italian physician and educator best known for the philosophy of education that bears her name, and her writing on scientific pedagogy. At an early age, Montessori enrolled in classes at an all-boys technical school, with hopes of becoming an engineer. She soon had a change of heart and began medical school at the Sapienza University of Rome, where she graduated with honors in 1896. Her educational method is in use today in many public and private schools globally.

Life and career Birth and family

Montessori was born on August 31, 1870 in Chiaravalle, Italy. Her father, Alessandro Montessori, age 33, was an official of the Ministry of Finance working in the local state-run tobacco factory. Her mother, Renilde Stoppani, 25 years old, was well-educated for the times and was the great-niece of Italian geologist and paleontologist Antonio Stoppani.[1][2] While she did not have any particular mentor, she was very close to her mother who readily encouraged her. She also had a loving relationship with her father, although he disagreed with her choice to continue her education.

18831896: Education

The Montessori family moved to Florence in 1873, then to Rome in 1875 because of her father's work. Montessori entered a public elementary school at the age of 6 in 1876. Her early school record was "not particularly noteworthy",[4] although she was awarded certificates for good behavior in the 1st grade and for "lavori donneschi", or "women's work", the next year.

Secondary school

In 1883[6] or 1884,[7] at the age of 13, Montessori entered a secondary, technical school, Regia Scuola Tecnica Michelangelo Buonarroti, where she studied Italian, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, accounting, history, geography, and sciences. She graduated in 1886 with good grades and examination results. That year, at the age of 16, she continued at the technical institute Regio Istituto Tecnico Leonardo da Vinci, studying Italian, mathematics, history, geography, geometric and ornate drawing, physics, chemistry, botany, zoology, and two foreign languages. She did well in the sciences and especially in mathematics.

She initially intended to pursue the study of engineering upon graduation, then an unusual aspiration for a woman. By the time she graduated in 1890 at the age of 20, with a certificate in physicsmathematics, she had decided to study medicine, a more unlikely pursuit given cultural norms at the time.

University of RomeMedical school

Montessori moved forward with her intention to study medicine. She appealed to Guido Baccelli, the professor of clinical medicine at the University of Rome, but was strongly discouraged. In 1890, she enrolled in the University of Rome in a degree course in natural sciences, passing examinations in botany, zoology, experimental physics, histology, anatomy, and general and organic chemistry, and earning her diploma di licenza in 1892. This degree, along with additional studies in Italian and Latin, qualified her for entrance into the medical program at the University in 1893.

What is Montessori?

Dr. Montessori worked in the Psychiatric Clinic at the University of Rome, and began working with "special needs" children from the insane asylums. These children succeeded so well that Dr. Montessori was hailed around the world

She was met with hostility and harassment from some medical students and professors because of her gender. Because her attendance of classes with men in the presence of a naked body was deemed inappropriate, she was required to perform her dissections of cadavers alone, after hours. She resorted to smoking tobacco to mask the offensive odor of formaldehyde.[10] Montessori won an academic prize in her first year, and in 1895 secured a position as a hospital assistant, gaining early clinical experience. In as a “miracle-worker.” Already a lecturer at the University of Rome, she continued her own education by studying philosophy, anthropology and psychology.

With her discoveries being scientifically proven, in 1906 Dr. Maria Montessori created a new classroom she called the “prepared environment.” Based on ideas from Edouard Seguin, she created hands-on manipulatives, such as the sandpaper letters, cylinder blocks and the number rods, all made of beautiful natural materials. She designed child-sized furniture, incorporated Montessori activities such as slicing vegetables, washing dishes and cloths, polishing shoes, flower arranging, serving meals, etc. using child- sized implements. In every material, Dr. Montessori incorporated the elements of grace, beauty, purpose, care, exploration, discovery, and independence. In every material, there is a beginning and an end can you imagine each child placing the material back on the shelf where it belongs?

her last two years, she studied pediatrics and psychiatry, and worked in the pediatric consulting room and emergency service, becoming an expert in pediatric medicine. Montessori graduated from the University of Rome in 1896 as a doctor of medicine. Her thesis was published in 1897 in the journal Policlinico. She found employment as an assistant at the University hospital and started a private practice.[11] [12]

18961901: Early career and family

From 1896 to 1901, Montessori worked with and researched so-called “phrenasthenic” childrenin modern terms, children experiencing some form of cognitive delay, illness, or disability. She also began to travel, study, speak, and publish nationally and internationally, coming to prominence as an advocate for women’s rights and education for mentally disabled children.

On March 31, 1898, her only child a son named Mario Montessori (March 31, 1898 1982) was born.[14] Mario Montessori was born out of her love affair with Giuseppe Montesano, a fellow doctor who was co-director with her of the Orthophrenic School of Rome. If Montessori married, she would be expected to cease working professionally. Instead of marriage, Montessori decided to continue her work and studies. Montessori wanted to keep the relationship with her child’s father secret under the condition that neither of them would marry anyone else. When the father of her child was pressured by family to make a more advantageous social connection and subsequently married, Montessori was left feeling betrayed and decided to leave the university hospital. She was forced to place her son in the care of a wet nurse living in the countryside, distraught to miss the first few years of his life. She would later be reunited with her son in his teenage years, where he proved to be a great assistant in her research.

Work with mentally disabled children

After graduating from the University of Rome in 1896, Montessori continued with her research at the University’s psychiatric clinic. In 1897 she was accepted as a voluntary assistant there. As part of her work, she visited asylums in Rome where she observed children with mental disabilities, observations that were fundamental to her future educational work. She also read and studied the works of 19th-century physicians and educators Jean Marc Gaspard Itard and Édouard Séguin, who greatly influenced her work. Montessori was intrigued by Itard's ideas and created a far more specific and organized system for applying them to the everyday education of children with disabilities. When she discovered the works of Jean Itard and Édouard Séguin they gave her a new direction in thinking and influenced her to focus on children with learning difficulties. Also in 1897, Montessori audited the University courses in pedagogy and read "all the major works on educational theory of the past two hundred years".

Public advocacy

In 1897 Montessori spoke on societal responsibility for juvenile delinquency at the National Congress of Medicine in Turin. In 1898, she wrote several articles and spoke again at the First Pedagogical Conference of Turin, urging the creation of special classes and institutions for mentally disabled children, as well as teacher training for their instructors.[18] In 1899 Montessori was appointed a councilor to the newly formed National League for the Protection of Retarded Children, and was invited to lecture on special methods of education for children with intellectual disabilities at the teacher training school of the College of Rome. That year Montessori undertook a two-week national lecture tour to capacity audiences before prominent public figures.[19] She joined the board of the National League and was appointed as a lecturer in hygiene and anthropology at one of the two teacher-training colleges for women in Italy.

Orthophrenic School

In 1900 the National League opened the Scuola Magistrale Ortofrenica, or Orthophrenic School, a "medico-pedagogical institute" for training teachers in educating mentally disabled children with an attached laboratory classroom. Montessori was appointed co-director.[21] 64 teachers enrolled in the first class, studying psychology, anatomy, and physiology of the nervous system, anthropological measurements, causes and characteristics of mental disability, and special methods of instruction. During her two years at the school, Montessori developed methods and materials which she later adapted to use with mainstream children.[22]

The school was an immediate success, attracting the attention of government officials from the departments of education and health, civic leaders, and prominent figures in the fields of education, psychiatry, and anthropology from the University of Rome.[23] The children in the model classroom were drawn from the asylum and ordinary schools but considered "uneducable" due to their deficiencies. Some of these children later passed public examinations given to so-called "normal" children.[24]

19011906: Further studies

In 1901, Montessori left the Orthophrenic School and her private practice, and in 1902 she enrolled in the philosophy degree course at the University of Rome.

(Philosophy at the time included much of what is now considered psychology.) She studied theoretical and moral philosophy, history of philosophy, and psychology as such, but she did not graduate. She also pursued independent study in anthropology and educational philosophy, conducted observations and experimental research in elementary schools, and revisited the work of Itard and Séguin, translating their books into handwritten Italian. During this time she began to consider adapting her methods of educating mentally disabled children to mainstream education.[25]

Montessori's work developing what she would later call "scientific pedagogy" continued over the next few years. In 1902, Montessori presented a report at a second national pedagogical congress in Naples. She published two articles on pedagogy in 1903, and two more the following year. In 1903 and 1904, she conducted anthropological research with Italian schoolchildren, and in 1904 she was qualified as a free lecturer in anthropology for the University of Rome. She was appointed to lecture in the Pedagogic School at the University and continued in the position until 1908. Her lectures were printed as a book titled Pedagogical Anthropology in 1910.[26]

19061911: Casa dei Bambini and the spread of Montessori's ideas The first Casa

In 1906 Montessori was invited to oversee the care and education of a group of children of working parents in a new apartment building for low-income families in the San Lorenzo district in Rome. Montessori was interested in applying her work and methods to children without mental disabilities, and she accepted.[27] The name Casa dei Bambini, or Children's House, was suggested to Montessori, and the first Casa opened on January 6, 1907, enrolling 50 or 60 children between the ages of two or three and six or seven.[28]

At first, the classroom was equipped with a teacher's table and blackboard, a stove, small chairs, armchairs, and group tables for the children, and a locked cabinet for the materials that Montessori had developed at the Orthophrenic School. Activities for the children included personal care such as dressing and undressing, care of the environment such as dusting and sweeping, and caring for the garden. The children were also shown the use of the materials Montessori had developed.[29] Montessori, occupied with teaching, research, and other professional activities, oversaw and observed the classroom work, but did not teach the children directly. Day-to-day teaching and care were provided, under Montessori's guidance, by the building porter's daughter.[30]

In this first classroom, Montessori observed behaviors in these young children which formed the foundation of her educational method. She noted episodes of deep attention and concentration, multiple repetitions of activity, and a sensitivity to order in the environment. Given a free choice of activity, the children showed more interest in practical activities and Montessori's materials than in toys provided for them and were surprisingly unmotivated by sweets and other rewards. Over time, she saw a spontaneous self-discipline emerge.[31]

Repeating this from the Preface

Book 12 Chapter 33 FROM THE MOUNTAIN PROPHECIES

So, as I have stated, yesterday this same man was again watching the DNA as it was working and also commenting on the new DNA when someone beside him questioned him as to where he had come from, commenting that he had not seen him at all in this kind of work. And in response to the comments of this second person, this man told him that he had come from the Mars base and that he was one of FIFTEEN COMMANDERS, who made their way among the moon bases, the Mars base and the base on Saturn, which is really on one of the moons of Saturn according to what our Father in Heaven told me. This man continued to tell the second person that the “pressure” in the underground base on Mars became very unstable, that the conditions on the Saturn base also became unstable, that they base actually “imploded”, and that they were forced to leave these Mars! He went on to say that at first they did not know what was bringing about these instabilities on the Mars base, but that at this time, they believe that Yahweh was behind these instabilities. He also said that the whole solar system is unstable at this time.

There are about 17 known FOXP2 LONDON KE Family members with the language writting and speaking issues which affects about half of that family. I think it involves Borderline Personality Disorder too.

Londo KE family retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The KE family is a medical name designated for a British family, about half of whom exhibit a severe speech disorder called developmental verbal dyspraxia.[1] It is the first family with speech disorder to be investigated using genetic analyses, by which the speech impairment is discovered to be due to genetic mutation, and from which the gene FOXP2, often dubbed the “language gene”, was discovered. Their condition is also the first human speech and language disorder known to exhibit strict Mendelian inheritance.[2]

Their first report in 1990 shows that 16 family members were affected by severe abnormality, though their hearing was normal and some had normal intelligence, and that the condition was genetically inherited (autosomal dominant).

I (Edward Paul Donegan) was once told by a speech therapist I had a few dates with that “my speech articulators could not keep up” not that I was bipolar she thought I was rational but had a lot I was simply tying to cram into sentences more than my bodily mechanics could do well. —

“Developmental verbal dyspraxia (DVD), also known as childhood apraxia of speech (CAS) and developmental apraxia of speech (DAS),[1] is a condition in which children have problems saying sounds, syllables and words. This is not because of muscle weakness or paralysis. The brain has problems planning to move the body parts (e.g., lips, jaw, tongue) needed for speech. The child knows what they want to say, but their brain has difficulty coordinating the muscle movements necessary to say those words.”

“Childhood apraxia of speech (CAS) is a neurological childhood (pediatric) speech sound disorder in which the precision and consistency of movements underlying speech are impaired in the absence of neuromuscular deficits (e.g., abnormal reflexes, abnormal tone). CAS may occur as a result of known neurological impairment, in association with complex neurobehavioral disorders of known or unknown origin, or as an idiopathic neurogenic speech sound disorder. The core impairment in planning and/or programming spatiotemporal parameters of movement sequences results in errors in speech sound production and prosody."

It is he who made the Kings Speech in 1925 at Wembely Stadium promoting British Imperialism in a speech which nearly ended it!

British Empire Exhibition (similar to Worlds Fair) retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

A British Empire Exhibition [similar to a Worlds Fair] had first been proposed in 1902, by the British Empire League, and again in 1913.[4] The Russo-Japanese War had prevented the first plan from being developed and World War I put an end to the second, though there had been a Festival of Empire in 1911, held in part at Crystal Palace. In 1920 the British Government decided to site the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park, on the site of the pleasure gardens created by Sir Edward Watkin in the 1890s.

One of the reasons for the suggestion was a sense that other powers, ie America and Japan, were challenging Britain on the world stage. Despite victory in World War I, this was in some ways even truer in 1919. The country had economic problems and its naval supremacy was being challenged by two of its former allies, the USA and Japan. In 1917 Britain had committed itself eventually to leave India, which effectively signalled the end of the British Empire to anyone who thought about the consequences, while the Dominions had shown little interest in following British foreign policy since the war. It was hoped that the Exhibition would strengthen the bonds within the Empire, stimulate trade and demonstrate British greatness both abroad and at home, where the public was believed to be increasingly uninterested in Empire, preferring other distractions, such as the cinema.

Yet it was in `1901 the FOXP2 gene was first seen as far as history records show and that was in King Edward VII and the British Royals wanted a cure and began looking for one.

King George VI, Price Albert of York, would make the speech in 1925 and later become king of England and Great Brittian after his older Brother Edward Prince of Wales and for one year King Edward VIII was crowned King only to step down for close ties to Nazi Germany. I am told I had a grandfather I thought or Ireland a former king who stepped down and I was nameed after and I believe that was King Edward the VIII and in a gene that shows in half of family members Edward VIII did not show it, his younger brother did. Tom Donegan did not show it, Ed Donegan (me) and his mother did including the swallowing trouble which is from dry throat.

But this is not the complete comments I have about the Kings Speech. Let me introduce here other elements are a symptoms cluser of Mininal Braid Dysfucntion, Borderline Personality Disorder, FOXP2.

On the last day of October, 1925 HRH Prince Albert, Duke of York, twenty-nine years old and second son of King George V, made his first broadcast speech. The occasion was the closing ceremony of the Empire Exhibition at Wembley Stadium. The Duke spoke into a microphone before a crowd of 100,000, but what often happened in private now happened in public: his words came haltingly, and he was acutely embarrassed. One man listening to the crowd that day, a speech therapist recently arrived from Australia, remarked, “He’s too old for me to manage a complete cure, but I could very nearly do it.”

One year later Lionel Logue had his chance. With the Duke and Duchess of York scheduled to make a Royal Tour of Australia, the need to improve the Duke’s speaking became pressing. Help had been sought before, never with success, but the Duke agreed to see Logue, a man with no medical training but strongly recommended.

One year later Lionel Logue had his chance. With the Duke and Duchess of York scheduled to make a Royal Tour of Australia, the need to improve the Duke’s speaking became pressing. Help had been sought before, never with success, but the Duke agreed to see Logue, a man with no medical training but strongly recommended.

The Duke and Logue hit it off from the start, and HRH left their very first meeting brimming with confidence. After two months of treatment, significant improvement in the Duke’s speech became evident and the Australian tour was a fine success.

For his part King George V was delighted. Although the King had verbally abused his children when they were young, he admired the adult “Bertie,” who rapidly became his favored son and preferred successor. But primogeniture was not to be questioned in those days, and so arose the 1936 Abdication Crisis.

Borderline Personality Disorder NAMI

GENETICS

While no specific gene or gene profile has been shown to directly cause BPD, research suggests that people who have a close family member with BPD may be at a higher risk of developing the disorder.

ENVIRONMENTAL FACTORS

People who experience traumatic life eventssuch as physical or sexual abuse during childhood or neglect and separation from parentsare at increased risk of developing BPD.

BRAIN FUNCTION

The emotional regulation system may be different in people with BPD, suggesting that there is a neurological basis for some of the symptoms. Specifically, the portions of the brain that control emotions and decision-making/judgment may not communicate optimally with one another.

Borderline Personality Disorder

Borderline Personality Disorder (BPD) is a condition characterized by difficulties regulating emotion. This means that people who experience BPD feel emotions intensely and for extended periods of time, and it is harder for them to return to a stable baseline after an emotionally triggering event.

This difficulty can lead to impulsivity, poor self-image, stormy relationships and intense emotional responses to stressors. Struggling with self-regulation can also result in dangerous behaviors such as self-harm (e.g. cutting).

It's estimated that 1.4% of the adult U.S. population experiences BPD. Nearly 75% of people diagnosed with BPD are women. Recent research suggests that men may be equally affected by BPD, but are commonly misdiagnosed with PTSD or depression.

Symptoms

People with BPD experience wide mood swings and can feel a great sense of instability and insecurity. People with BPD experience wide mood swings and can feel a great sense of instability and insecurity. According to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual diagnostic framework, some key signs and symptoms may include:

1. Frantic efforts to avoid real or imagined abandonment by friends and family.
2. Unstable personal relationships that alternate between idealization ("I'm so in love!") and devaluation ("I hate her"). This is also sometimes known as "splitting."
3. Distorted and unstable self-image, which affects moods, values, opinions, goals and relationships.
4. Impulsive behaviors that can have dangerous outcomes, such as excessive spending, unsafe sex, reckless driving, or misuse or overuse of substances.
5. Self-harming behavior including suicidal threats or attempts.
6. Periods of intense depressed mood, irritability or anxiety lasting a few hours to a few days.
7. Chronic feelings of boredom or emptiness.
8. Inappropriate, intense or uncontrollable angeroften followed by shame and guilt.
9. Dissociative feelingsdisconnecting from your thoughts or sense of identity or "out of body" type of feelingsand stress-related paranoid thoughts. Severe cases of stress can also lead to brief psychotic episodes.

I have my own internal experiences (always rational though it is made to appear by mocking me I am not, I am treated as though bipolar or shchizophrenic delusional not because I am either but rather in a sapient effort of others to misdiagnose me and work to not corretly recognize my true cognitive conditionm, to hide FOXP2 isn't that abnormal.

In addition to my own self analysis and intropsection, the observation of my mother, my skill in the language and proccess of therapy and having been in it, my knowledge of semantics and of the disorder I am a qualified subject matter exert in it and have such rare expertise uniquely available to me lines of experts try to copy into their opinions my own.

I wish to focus just for a moment on Dissassiative Feeling, the symptom described as watching yourself, in a rational way, but in some way as an observer perspective. I am going to call this ADD Spin Off Proccess (ASP).

King Prince Albert of York, later King George VI showed ASP during his speech. Likely in an event of great importance he was feeling a lot of strong emotions and with ADD he began to wander a bit internallly. While part of him was speeking, some cognitive proccess was also wandering away, not contained by the Executive Function of the forebrain. Perhaps he was wondering how the dinner after the speech would go, or some practice sessions he had done, or some other thought proccess shared time with the speech and it became jerkey and several times he had to look at his notes about where he was.

Mark Zuckerbert who I think is in the Twins Program of MKULTRA and I have both shown that often it is possible to "juggle" several things at once as a secrondary prococess is instantiated and operates in parrallell with the primvary one which the secondary process spins out of.

I am sure speech coaching did help him him, theater has been recomended to me, singing seems to be a way to flow with language, but this is a matter of holdign continous focus and I think during at least in some circumatances experiences a secondary thread in cognition.

George III retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

George III (George William Frederick; 4 JUNE 1738[c] - 29 January 1820) was King of Great Britain and Ireland from 25 October 1760 until the union of the two kingdoms on 1 January 1801, after which he was King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland until his death in 1820. He was concurrently Duke and Prince-elector of Brunswick-Lüneburg ("Hanover") in the Holy Roman Empire before becoming King of Hanover on 12 October 1814. He was a monarch of the House of Hanover but, unlike his two predecessors, he was born in Great Britain, spoke English as his first language[1] and never visited Hanover.[2]

Doctors Poisoned Crazy King George, Study Finds

Some now believe the bouts of vomiting and Bipolar activity were the result of poison based on a recent study of hair samples.

George's life and reign, which were longer than those of any of his predecessors, were marked by a series of military conflicts involving his kingdoms, much of the rest of Europe, and places farther afield in Africa, the Americas and Asia. Early in his reign, Great Britain defeated France in the Seven Years' War, becoming the dominant European power in North America and India. However, many of Britain's American colonies were soon lost in the American War of Independence. Further wars against revolutionary and Napoleonic France from 1793 concluded in the defeat of Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo in 1815. In 1807, the transatlantic slave trade was banned from the British Empire.

In the later part of his life, George had recurrent, and eventually permanent, mental illness. Although it has since been suggested that he had bipolar disorder or the blood disease porphyria, the cause of his illness remains unknown. George suffered a final relapse in 1810, and his eldest son, the Prince of Wales, became Prince Regent the following year. When George III died in 1820, the Regent succeeded him as King George IV. Historical analysis of George III's life has gone through a "kaleidoscope of changing views" that have depended heavily on the prejudices of his biographers and the sources available to them.

FOXP2 and signs of Trouble in the Realm is first seen in King George V's older brother and also in King George V

Prince of Wales Albert Victor retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale (Albert Victor Christian Edward; 8 January 1864 - 14 January 1892) was the eldest child of the Prince and Princess of Wales (later King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra) and grandson of the reigning British monarch, Queen Victoria. From the time of his birth, he was second in the line of succession to the British throne, but did not become king as he died before his father and grandmother.

Albert Victor's intellect, sexuality, and mental health have been the subject of speculation. Rumours in his time linked him with the Cleveland Street scandal, which involved a homosexual brothel; however, there is no conclusive evidence that he ever went there, or was indeed homosexual.[1] Some authors have argued that he was the serial killer known as Jack the Ripper, but contemporaneous documents show that Albert Victor could not have been in London at the time of the murders, and the claim is widely dismissed.

Albert Victor was known to his family, and many later biographers, as "Eddy". When young, he traveled the world extensively as a naval cadet, and as an adult he joined the British Army, but did not undertake any active military duties. After two unsuccessful courtships, he became engaged to be married to Princess Victoria Mary of Teck in late 1891. A few weeks later, he died during an influenza pandemic. Mary later married his younger brother, who became King George V in 1910

London of WWII and the Germans and later I will say this fits the British attitudes in Manchurian Candidate 1962 and their dislike for the Genocide acts of the Germans as Germany shifted from 1936 through 1939 including propaganda of the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

I will later assert the Prescott Geroge H.W. Bush along with SidneyGottlieb and others were working on the Speech Defect gene and created themselvs and their family lines and other family lines out of some use of Glorian, James, and other DNA as had been going on for centuries and continues today in Illuminati families like the Rockefellers and Bush family lines, the Obama, Schwarzeneggers the Kennedy's, the Kelllys, and others. LIke the Donegans.

I also assert this expertise of parents-siblings-descendents in pre-genetic sequencing era was used in plant as well as animal genetic studies and included people like the parents of Valerie Jarret in Iran.

The Remarkable Life Of The Queen Mother | A Century In 100 Minutes retrieved from Real Royalty and copied or modified to here

a tour the Duke and Duchess of Windsor made to Germany was headline news in Britain and America this upset the royal family and the British government who were concerned that Germany was rearming its war machine on a lighter note for the royal family the United States were captivated by the royal couple when in 1939 the king and queen embarked on a six-week royal tour of the continent the first reigning monarchs to set foot in North America on the 8th of June 1939 they were greeted in Washington by President Roosevelt huge crowds turned out to welcome them

the king reveled at this chance to meet the world leader Queen Elizabeth and the president's wife Eleanor Roosevelt struck up an instant friendship as did their husbands on this trip they won a crucial ally for Britain their visit was a triumph which was to have far-reaching effects for Britain in the darkest days of World War 2 this relationship would prove invaluable here as in France a year before the American people were captivated by Elizabeth's dignity and grace and particularly charmed by Norman Hartnell elegant creations their tour included a visit to Canada despite initial apprehensions they received a warm welcome even among the french-speaking population in performing his public duties the king was regularly called upon to make speeches but his speech impediment which he had had since his childhood made this a grueling experience for a man with a stammer a speech in French to the people of Quebec was a particularly terrifying experience [Music] [Music] then they told our parents and I growing debt by the king and queen were thrown into a ceaseless round of work Elizabeth did all she could to lighten her husband's burden and make his official duties and public appearances easier for him in 1939 with the war clouds looming over Europe the royal family were filmed by the newsreels attending a Scout camp shortly before the war Queen Elizabeth launched the ship named after her the Queen Elizabeth was the largest ocean-going liner ever built for the Cunard Line the event was recorded by the film cameras the occasion offers a rare opportunity to hear her speaking for which they had hoped I have however a message for you from the king he bids the people of this country to be of good cheer as war was declared with Germany everyone looked to the royal family for morale and leadership in 1940 Buckingham Palace suffered a direct hit Queen Mary had been sent to badminton a safe house Elizabeth wrote to her my darling mama I hardly know how to begin to tell you of the horrible attack on Buckingham Palace this morning

Bertie and I arrived there at a quarter to eleven and he and I went up to our poor windowless rooms when the royal couple inspected the damage the Queen said “I’m glad we’ve been bombed now we can look the East End in the face”.

There were lighter moments when an explosion hit the drainage systems the garden was flooded with rats which everyone had great fun chasing.

by the end of the war the Queen recalled there were no windows left at all poor old house while the King believed victory would eventually come the strain of the war took its toll on him he was a heavy smoker I don’t think she tried to stop him smoking very much and I don’t think she realized probably how bad it was for him when it came to the drinking the drinking didn’t affect his daily life didn’t affect his work he used to like a good hearty Sui got of the whiskey decanter and evening.

> In the 1960s minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) used to be a definition describing a group of children who had combinations of perception, language, attention, impulse control and motor control impairments. The term ‘disorders of attention, motor and perception’ or DAMP was used, particularly in Scandinavia.

I (Edward Paul Donegan) red that in my childhood medical records (MBD) though an IQ of 127. I did not know if that was corrected for age, a number next to it was about the same.

When Albert Victor was just short of seventeen months old, his brother, Prince George of Wales, was born on 3 JUNE 1865. Given the closeness in age of the two royal brothers, they were educated together. In 1871, the Queen appointed John Neale Dalton as their tutor. The two princes were given a strict programme of study, which included games and military drills as well as academic subjects. Dalton complained that Albert Victor’s mind was “abnormally dormant”. Though he learned to speak Danish, progress in other languages and subjects was slow. Sir Henry Ponsonby thought that Albert Victor might have inherited his mother's deafness.[8] Albert Victor never excelled intellectually. Possible physical explanations for Albert Victor's inattention or indolence in class include absence seizures or his premature birth, which can be associated with learning difficulties, but Lady Geraldine Somerset blamed Albert Victor's poor education on Dalton, whom she considered uninspiring

Minimal Brain Damage retrieved from Science Direct and copied or modified to here

Minimal brain damage Also called minimal brain dysfunction, minimal brain damage does not 'look' like major brain damage. A person with minimal brain dysfunction will not have 'obvious' brain damage; however, minimal dysfunction may affect behavior, emotions, learning, or memory - that is, the more subtle (or 'higher') functions of the brain. For example, although major brain damage might result in severe mental retardation, minor brain dysfunction might result in a learning disability that would not necessarily affect intelligence in any way (e.g., dyslexia). Because we know that minimal brain dysfunction appears to be related to problems such as learning disorders and hyperactivity, it is logical for scientists to be interested in the possibility that minimal brain dysfunction is related to behavioral problems like violence.

The premise of this book is the FBI, CIA, DARPA, and others have been using population groups of out of wedlock descendents of Windsor Kutscheras to study a speech gene and during these studies the CIA has been simultaneously grooming some subjects to be future leaders of a secretive elites ruling family.

Now family databases can find "the clones" and the race is on to silence and eliminate those whose existence is a risk to the corridors of power, but the attack must be convert and complete before anyone knows who was attacked or why.

The Ebb and Flow of Great Britain

Great Britain, the country made up of the Three Crowns of the England, Northern Ireland, and Scotland plus other kingdoms reached its peak in the 1920s, once having held Pakistan, the (now) Republic of Ireland, and additional territories.

In the British Imperialism rally at Wembly Stadium Prince Albert of York, younger brother to Nazi connected King Edwward VII Prince of Wales gave a bungled speech. The British empire began a search spanning generations of twins to study language and spoken and written language in the brain.

This overlapped with the expertise of Crytograhpy and the use of anomalies and grammatical semantics in messaging and the DARPA Brain Program in cognition and the Language of Thinking Hypothesis about how minds speak was part of Bletchley Park and information theory. Consider the information of a sentence, a thought. Put it into some script form like letters from a Scrabble game, then send the letters into a machine like a Ecoder Decoder Ring, and the machinery moves thinking around in a machine, not only a mind passing a thought, but encrypting and decrypting the thought in its journey.

The Kennedy Administration including Catholic French JFK wife Jackie Kennedy and John F. Kennedy were a threat to Great Britain long term plan for the well founded (Rothschilds) return of Houses of Royals flowing back under Great Britain rule.

> Ebb and Flow (also called ebb flood and flood drain) are two phases of the tide or any similar movement of water. The ebb is the outgoing phase, when the tide drains away from the shore; and the flow is the incoming phase when water rises again. The terms are also common in figurative use.

Following WWII and the Atomic Bombing and Los Alamos project the British made a point I have made, that the Manhattan Project was conducted in the USA but not a USA project, using world physicists and planners.

England, the Queen of England, likely felt the same way and saw the Irish president of the USA a threat to the glory of Britain, and British goals for Ireland, Pakistan, and other locations, and British plans for taking on Eastern Europe as well.

Rose Elizabeth Fitzgerald Kennedy (July 22, 1890 - January 22, 1995) was an American philanthropist, socialite, and a member of the Kennedy family. She was deeply embedded in the “lace curtain” Irish Catholic community in Boston, where her father John F. Fitzgerald was mayor. Kennedy was the wife of businessman and investor Joseph P. Kennedy Sr., who was United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom, formally known as Ambassador to the Court of St. James’s in the UK. Their nine children included President John F. Kennedy, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, and longtime Senator Ted Kennedy. In 1951 she was ennobled by Pope Pius XII, becoming the sixth American woman to be granted the rank of Papal countess.

Were they in a secretive mission still not disclosed and were the two Kennedy brothers wounded, one fatally?

Within months of arriving in the Pacific, Kennedy's boat was rammed by a Japanese destroyer, killing 2 crew members and stranding Kennedy and his surviving shipmates, marking the beginning of the famous PT-109 episode in which Kennedy towed a badly wounded crewman with the strap of his life jacket clenched between his teeth for a punishing 5-hour swim to a nearby island. The survivors were eventually rescued and Kennedy would serve another 6 weeks before ending his Pacific tour of duty on NOVEMBER 18

June 23, 1944: The First FJK Back Surgery. Surviving the collision with the Japanese destroyer and enduring the grueling nature of the subsequent rescue worsened JFK's back problems. Therefore, once he returned stateside, he was evaluated by a team of physicians at the Mayo Clinic, including noted orthopedist Dr. Ralph Gormley, who summarized Lt. Kennedy's condition at that time as "confined … to the region of the left sacroiliac with pain in the posterior part of the left hip down as far as the knee."

Given that Kennedy's presentation was not an obvious one for a herniated disc, he underwent an air myelogram and the Mayo team stated that "a diagnosis of a protruded disk was not definite … at this time you are not in need of surgery." *

Jan. 13, 1942: Ejection Seat Works, Pilot Elated

Source: Various Photo: The Heinkel-He 280 was an early German jet. A test pilot was flying one when he needed the ejection seat for real.

1942: At the height of World War II, German test pilot Helmut Schenck becomes the first person known to use an ejection seat to successfully exit his aircraft in an emergency situation.

Schenck, testing a Heinkel He-280 jet fighter, was in tow behind a conventionally powered aircraft when his plane iced up, making it impossible to start his engines. He jettisoned his canopy and activated the seat. Powered by compressed gas, the seat catapulted him clear of the aircraft.

Schenck was the first to use this method of exiting his aircraft in an emergency. Another Heinkel pilot had previously ejected successfully under test conditions.

Germany, which produced the Messerschmitt Me-262, the world's first operational jet fighter, also led the way in developing the ejection seat (.pdf). This was logical enough, considering that the speed and g-forces generated by these high-speed planes made escape problematical for a pilot equipped with only a parachute. Exiting the aircraft by "bailing out," as was common in propeller-driven planes, was exceedingly dangerous in a jet aircraft.

The British also studied aircraft ejection during the interwar years but set the project aside in favor of other pursuits. They would not seriously revisit the subject until after the war.

Ejection seats were eventually installed in several jet-aircraft models flown by the Luftwaffe, including the Heinkel He-162 Volksjäger, the Arado Ar-234B Nachtigal and the Messerschmitt Me-163 Komet. Strangely, the ejection seat was only rarely installed in the Me-262, which was the most widely used German jet fighter of the war.

From the time of Schenck's successful escape to the end of World War II, approximately 60 Luftwaffe airmen ejected from their planes in combat situations.

My (Edwward Paul Donegan) father (James Paul Donegan) flew in the first, second and would have been potentially third atomic bombing runs against. He was a P-51 pilot in the Manhattan Project and those planes flew with the B-17s and and b-29s for bombing/counter bombing London, Dresden, and other combat areas and this was led by Gen Doolitle. Folowing this my father was in above ground testing in the Santa Sousana Field Labrotory SSFL fields working including Hawaii and Las Vega nuclear above ground testing programs. I was born near the P-51 plant in Inglewood neighborhood Manhattan Beach city of Joseph P. Kennedy Jr.'s father Jospeh Fitzpatrick (and his wife Rose) had aspirations for him to become US president.[1] He was a delegate to the 1940 Democratic National Convention and planned to run for a seat in the US House of Representatives after his military service as the first stepping stone on the path to the White House.[1] His death while participating in a top-secret mission in 1944 caused his father to transfer his aspirations to his next-oldest son, John F. Kennedy,[1] who followed the path first planned for his brother by advancing from the House to the US Senate and then to the presidency.

John F. Kennedy John Fitzgerald Kennedy (May 29, 1917 - November 22, 1963), often referred to by his initials JFK, was an American politician who served as the 35th president of the United States from 1961 until his assassination near the end of his third year in office. Kennedy served at the height of the Cold War, and the majority of his work as president concerned relations with the Soviet Union and Cuba. A Democrat, Kennedy represented Massachusetts in both houses of the U.S. Congress prior to his presidency.

Rosemary Kennedy Rose Marie "Rosemary" Kennedy (September 13, 1918 - January 7, 2005) was the eldest daughter born to Joseph P. Kennedy Sr. and Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy. She was a sister of President John F. Kennedy and Senators Robert F. and Ted Kennedy. In her early young adult years, Rosemary Kennedy experienced seizures and violent mood swings. In response to these issues, her father arranged a prefrontal lobotomy for her in 1941 when she was 23 years of age; the procedure left her permanently incapacitated and rendered her unable to speak intelligibly. Rosemary Kennedy spent most of the rest of her life being cared for at St. Coletta, an institution in Jefferson, Wisconsin. The truth about her situation and whereabouts was kept secret for decades. While she was initially isolated from her siblings and extended family following her lobotomy, Rosemary did go on to visit them during her later life.

Kathleen Cavendish, Marchioness of Hartington Kathleen Agnes Cavendish, Marchioness of Hartington (née Kennedy; FEBRUARY 20, 1920 - May 13, 1948), also known as "Kick" Kennedy,[1][2] was an American socialite. She was the second daughter of Joseph P. Kennedy, Sr. and Rose Kennedy as well as a sister of former U.S. President John F. Kennedy and Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Edward M. "Ted" Kennedy and the wife of the Marquess of Hartington, heir apparent to the 10th Duke of Devonshire. Eunice Kennedy Shriver Eunice Mary Kennedy Shriver DSG (July 10, 1921 - August 11, 2009) was an American philanthropist[1] and a member of the Kennedy family. She was the founder of the Special Olympics, a sports organization for persons with physical and intellectual disabilities. For her efforts on behalf of the disabled, Shriver was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1984. She was a sister of U.S. President John F. Kennedy, U.S. Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Edward Kennedy, Rosemary Kennedy, and U.S. Ambassador to Ireland Jean Kennedy Smith, as well as the sister-in-law of Jacqueline Kennedy. She was married to Sargent Shriver, who was the United States Ambassador to France and was the Democratic nominee for Vice President of the United States in 1972

General Spaatz received a temporary promotion to general March 11, 1945, and was assigned to Air Force Headquarters in Washington, D.C., in June 1945. The following month he assumed command of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific, with headquarters on Guam. There he supervised the final strategic bombing of Japan by the B-29, including the two atomic bomb missions. He was present at all three signings of unconditional surrender by the enemy, at Rheims, Berlin and Tokyo.

Johnson had his particular brand of persuasion, known as "The Johnson Treatment".[298] A contemporary writes, "It was an incredible blend of badgering, cajolery, reminders of past favors, promises of future favors, predictions of gloom if something doesn't happen. When that man started to work on you, all of a sudden, you just felt that you were standing under a waterfall and the stuff was pouring on you." Johnson's cowboy hat and boots reflected his Texas roots and genuine love of the rural Hill Country. From 250 acres (100 ha) of land that he was given by an aunt in 1951, he created a 2,700-acre (1,100 ha) working ranch with 400 head of registered Hereford cattle. The National Park Service keeps a herd of Hereford cattle descended from Johnson's registered herd and maintains the ranch property.

Biographer Randall Woods argues that Social Gospel themes Johnson learned from childhood allowed him to transform social problems into moral problems. This helps explain his longtime commitment to social justice, as exemplified by the Great Society and his commitment to racial equality. The Social Gospel Southern Methodist?] explicitly inspired his foreign-policy approach to a sort of Christian internationalism [along with the Anglican Church in Kenya] and nation-building. For example, in a 1966 speech he quoted at length from the Social Creed of the Methodist Church issued in 1940, adding "It would be very hard for me to write a more perfect description of the American ideal."

JOHN F. KENNEDY WAS JUST DAYS from securing the 1960 Democratic nomination for president when Dr. W.A. Criswell strode, bible in hand, to the carved wooden altar of the mighty First Baptist Church in Dallas.

Chopping the July air with disdain, he prophesied that the election of the Catholic Kennedy would “spell the death of a free church in a free state.”

The following week, when Kennedy was nominated on the first ballot, it came with an added sting for Criswell and other conservative Texans: Senate Majority

- John F. Kennedy, on the role Catholicism would play in his presidency

"I'm getting tired of these people who think I want to replace the gold at Fort Knox with a supply of holy water," JFK snapped privately.

In Texas, members of the Greater Houston Ministerial Association joined the offensive by pressing Kennedy to address their group.

"They're mostly Republicans, and they're out to get you," warned Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, a Hard Shell Baptist from Bonham, northeast of Dallas.

He knew that the evangelicals who dominated Texas were vigilant against what they saw as the two great conspiracies for world domination - communism and Catholicism. Kennedy's brass-knuckle aide Kenny O'Donnell agreed: "If you have to meet the religious issue, Houston is not the place to do it."

But the candidate smelled an opportunity. "Tell them I'm going to do it," JFK responded.

Michael Saul Dell (born FEBRUARY 23, 1965) is an American billionaire businessman and philanthropist. He is the founder, chairman and CEO of Dell Technologies, one of the world’s largest technology infrastructure companies.[1] He is ranked 25th richest in the world by Bloomberg Billionaires Index, with a net worth of US$51.7 billion as of April 17, 2021.

In 2011, his 243.35 million shares of Dell stock were worth $3.5 billion, giving him 12% ownership of the company.[3] His remaining wealth of roughly $10 billion is invested in other companies and is managed by MSD Capital, which incorporates his initials.[4] In January 2013 it was announced that he had bid to take Dell Inc. private for $24.4 billion in the biggest management buyout since the Great Recession. Dell Inc. officially went private in October 2013.[5] The company once again went public in December 2018.[6]

Dell serves on the Foundation Board of the World Economic Forum, the executive committee of the International Business Council, the U.S. Business Council. He previously served as a member of the U.S. President’s Council of Advisors on Science and Technology.[35] In April 2020, Governor Greg Abbott named Dell to the Strike Force to Open Texas - a group “tasked with finding safe and effective ways to slowly reopen the state” during the COVID-19 pandemic.[36]

Philanthropy In 1999, Michael and Susan Dell established the Michael and Susan Dell Foundation, which focuses on, among other causes, grants, urban education, childhood health and family economic stability. In 2006, the foundation provided $50 million in grants to three health-related organizations associated with the University of Texas: the Michael & Susan Dell Center for Advancement of Healthy Living, the Dell Pediatric Research Institute to complement the Dell Children’s Medical Center, as well as funding for a new computer science building at the University of Texas at Austin campus.[43] - Wikipedia

POLITICAL NOTES: Straws in the Wind Monday, NOV. 16, 1959 retrieved from Time Magazine and copied or modified to here

In Detroit, Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa announced ferociously that his huge, racket-riddled union would organize nationally to defeat every one of the 324 Senators and Representatives who voted for the hated Landrum-Griffin labor-reform bill. Singled out on Hoffa’s purge list: Massachusetts’ Senator John F. Kennedy, top banana of the Democratic presidential hopefuls (“I won’t support any spoiled millionaires,” huffed Hoffa), and-surprisingly-Michigan’s Senator Patrick V. McNamara, longtime (1937-55) president of the Detroit Pipefitters (A.F.L.) and shameless apologist for the Teamsters Union during the Senate investigation of Hoffa and his henchmen. Still a political toddler, Hoffa may regret his hasty ukase against Pat McNamara: he may have unwittingly painted himself into the corner of Congressman Robert P. Griffin, 36, one of the likeliest of Republican candidates for McNamara’s Senate seat next year, and one of the sponsors of the labor-reform bill.

The Baptist General Convention of Texas, meeting in Corpus Christi, struck a glancing blow at Roman Catholic candidates for high political office, e.g., Jack Kennedy, California’s Governor Pat Brown. The convention advised its 1,600,000 fellow Baptists that, since “the Roman Church is both a religion and an ambitious political system aspiring to be a state, we recommend that our people bear these facts in mind when they are asked to vote for a Catholic official.”

Passing through Denver, the Democrats’ presidential anchor man, Hubert Humphrey, paused in a backroom to give some local politicos his current rundown on the situation. Items: Lyndon Johnson and Jack Kennedy are “as good as out of it now”; of his other rivals, only Stuart Symington and Adlai Stevenson are “still possibilities”; Humphrey will take on Kennedy in the Wisconsin and Oregon primaries, will “clobber him in both.” And, “if I see I cannot make it, I will sit down and talk with Stevenson.”

The morning mail brought a noteworthy item to city rooms all over Texas. It was a reprint of an editorial from a Texas paper: “Lyndon Baines Johnson, the senior Senator from Texas, and the Senate majority leader, has become one of our greatest statesmen. And the Paris News wishes to say in plain words that it feels Lyndon Johnson should be the next President of the United States.” At the bottom of the release was an arresting editor’s note: “This editorial is being mailed to all weekly and daily newspapers in Texas at the request of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson.”

Member of the U.S. House of Representatives

Thomas Phillip “Tip” O’Neill Jr. (DECEMBER 9, 1912 - January 5, 1994) was an American politician who served as the 47th Speaker of the United States House of Representatives from 1977 to 1987, representing northern Boston, Massachusetts, as a Democrat from 1953 to 1987. The only Speaker to serve for five complete consecutive Congresses, he is the third longest-serving Speaker in American history after Sam Rayburn and Henry Clay in terms of total tenure and longest-serving in terms of continuous tenure (Rayburn and Clay served multiple terms in the Speakership).

Born in North Cambridge, Massachusetts, O’Neill began campaigning at a young age, volunteering for Al Smith’s campaign in the 1928 presidential election. After graduating from Boston College, O’Neill won election to the Massachusetts House of Representatives, where he became a strong advocate of Franklin D. Roosevelt’s New Deal policies. He became Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1949 and won election to the United States House of Representatives in 1952 to the seat vacated by John F. Kennedy.

Tip O’Neill was the third of three children born to Thomas Phillip O’Neill and Rose Ann (née Tolan) O’Neill in the Irish middle-class area of North Cambridge, Massachusetts, known at the time as “Old Dublin.” His mother died when he was nine months old, and he was raised largely by a French-Canadian housekeeper until his father remarried when he was eight. O’Neill Sr. started out as a bricklayer, but later won a seat on the Cambridge City Council and was appointed Superintendent of Sewers. During his childhood, O’Neill received the nickname “Tip” after the Canadian baseball player James “Tip” O’Neill.[1] He was educated in Roman Catholic schools, graduating in 1931 from the now defunct St. John High School in Cambridge, where he was captain of the basketball team; he was a lifelong parishioner at the school’s affiliated parish church St. John the Evangelist [Roman Catholic] Church. From there he went to Boston College, from which he graduated in 1936.

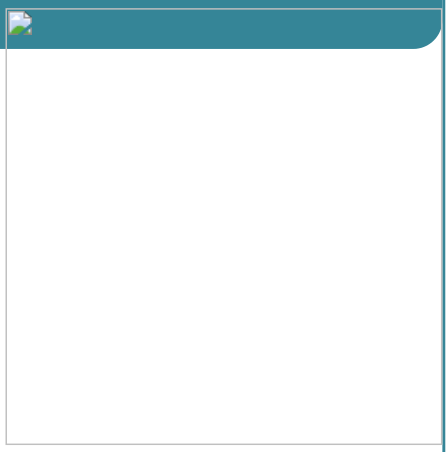
Lyndon B. Johnson retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Johnson as U.S. senator from Texas



Lyndon B. Johnson in 1960, 1961, and perhaps earlier seemed to have been involved with Herman Edward Butts, a Baptist plan in Texas tied to agriculture and USAID in Australia, Indonesia, and other locations in which some Sleeper Agents would be planted via the Peace Corps, and this appears tied to Baptist San Antonia family of Herman Edward Butts and William Cook of Chicago Baptists, forming the Tinity Baptist Church in Chicago, and I believe this LBJ backed plan was Windsor Ulster Irish backed and also created Barrack Obama.

Lyndon Baines Johnson (August 27, 1908 - January 22, 1973), often referred to by his initials LBJ, was the 36th president of the United States, serving from 1963 to 1969. He had previously served as the 37th vice president from 1961 to 1963 under President John F. Kennedy. A Democrat from Texas, Johnson also served as a U.S. representative, U.S. senator and the Senate's majority leader. He holds the distinction of being one of the few presidents who served in all elected offices at the federal level.

Johnson had one brother, Sam Houston Johnson, and three sisters, Rebekah, Josefa, and Lucia. The nearby small town of Johnson City, Texas, was named after LBJ's father's cousin, James Polk Johnson, whose forebears had moved west from Georgia.[

Johnson had English-Irish, German, and Ulster Scots ancestry. Through his mother, he was a great-grandson of pioneer Baptist clergyman George Washington Baines, who pastored eight churches in Texas, as well as others in Arkansas and Louisiana.

Johnson married Claudia Alta Taylor, also known as "Lady Bird", of Karnack, Texas, on NOVEMBER 17, 1934. He met her after he had attended Georgetown University Law Center for several months. Johnson later quit his Georgetown studies after the first semester in 1934.[36] During their first date he asked her to marry him; many dates later, she finally agreed.[37] The wedding was officiated by Rev. Arthur R. McKinstry at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in San Antonio.[38] They had two daughters, Lynda Bird, born in 1944, and Luci Baines, born in 1947. Johnson gave his children names with the LBJ initials; his dog was Little Beagle Johnson.

Born in a farmhouse in Stonewall, Texas to a local political family, Johnson worked as a high school teacher and a congressional aide before winning election to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1937. He won election to the United States Senate from Texas in 1948 after narrowly winning the Democratic Party’s nomination.[2] He was appointed to the position of Senate Majority Whip in 1951.

In the 1952 general election, Republicans won a majority in both the House and Senate. Among defeated Democrats that year was McFarland, who lost to upstart Barry Goldwater. In January 1953, Johnson was chosen by his fellow Democrats to be Minority Leader; he became the most junior senator ever elected to this position. One of his first actions was to eliminate the seniority system in making appointments to committees while retaining it for chairmanships.

In the 1954 election, Johnson was re-elected to the Senate and, since the Democrats won the majority in the Senate, then became majority leader. Former Majority Leader William Knowland of California, became the Minority Leader. Johnson’s duties were to schedule legislation and help pass measures favored by the Democrats. Johnson, Rayburn and President Dwight D. Eisenhower worked well together in passing Eisenhower’s domestic and foreign agenda.

A 60-cigarette-per-day smoker, Johnson suffered a near-fatal heart attack on JULY 2, 1955, at age 46. He abruptly gave up smoking as a result and, with only a couple of exceptions, did not resume the habit until after he left the White House on January 20, 1969. Johnson announced he would remain as his party’s leader in the Senate on New Year’s Eve 1955, his doctors reporting he had made “a most satisfactory recovery” since his heart attack five months prior

He became the Senate Democratic leader in 1953 and majority leader in 1954. In 1960 Johnson ran for the Democratic nomination for president. During the convention he came into conflict with the Democratic front-runner, fellow senator John F. Kennedy. The two men compromised and the Kennedy-Johnson ticket won in the 1960 presidential election. Vice President Johnson would assume the presidency on NOVEMBER 22, 1963 after President Kennedy was assassinated. The following year Johnson was elected to the presidency when he won in a landslide against Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater. Johnson received 61.1% of the popular vote in the 1964 presidential election; this makes his victory the largest share of the popular vote of any candidate since James Monroe’s victory in 1820.

Candidacy for president - Johnson made a late entry into the campaign in July 1960 which, coupled with a reluctance to leave Washington, allowed the rival Kennedy campaign to secure a substantial early advantage among Democratic state party officials. Johnson underestimated Kennedy’s endearing qualities of charm and intelligence, as compared to his reputation as the more crude and wheeling-dealing “Landslide Lyndon”.[69] Caro suggests that Johnson’s hesitancy was the result of an overwhelming fear of failure.

Johnson attempted in vain to capitalize on Kennedy’s youth, poor health, and failure to take a position regarding Joseph McCarthy.[71] He had formed a “Stop Kennedy” coalition with Adlai Stevenson, Stuart Symington, and Hubert Humphrey, but it proved a failure. Johnson received 409 votes on the only ballot at the Democratic convention to Kennedy’s 806, and so the convention nominated Kennedy. Tip O’Neill was a representative from Kennedy’s home state of Massachusetts at that time, and he recalled that Johnson approached him at the convention and said, “Tip, I know you have to support Kennedy at the start, but I’d like to have you with me on the second ballot.” O’Neill replied, “Senator, there’s not going to be any second ballot.”

> One of the strongest bases of anti-Communist sentiment in the United States was the Catholic community, which constituted over 20% of the national vote. McCarthy identified himself as Catholic, and although the great majority of Catholics were Democrats, as his fame as a leading anti-Communist grew, he became popular in Catholic communities across the country, with strong support from many leading Catholics, diocesan newspapers, and Catholic journals.[86] At the same time, some Catholics opposed McCarthy, notably the anti-Communist author Father John Francis Cronin and the influential journal Commonweal.[87]
> McCarthy established a bond with the powerful Kennedy family, which had high visibility among Catholics. McCarthy became a close friend of Joseph P. Kennedy Sr., himself a fervent anti-Communist, and he was also a frequent guest at the Kennedy compound in Hyannis Port, Massachusetts. He dated two of Kennedy’s daughters, Patricia and Eunice.[88][89] It has been stated that McCarthy was godfather to Robert F. Kennedy’s first child, Kathleen Kennedy. This claim has been acknowledged by Robert’s wife and Kathleen’s mother Ethel,[90] though Kathleen later claimed that she looked at her christening certificate and that her actual godfather was Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart professor Daniel Walsh.[90]

Seymour Hersh stated that Robert F. Kennedy (known as Bobby) hated Johnson for his attacks on the Kennedy family, and later maintained that his brother offered the position to Johnson merely as a courtesy, expecting him to decline. Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. concurred with Robert Kennedy’s version of events, and put forth that John Kennedy would have preferred Stuart Symington as his running-mate, alleging that Johnson teamed with House Speaker Sam Rayburn and pressured Kennedy to favor Johnson. Robert Kennedy wanted his brother to choose labor leader Walter Reuther.

Biographer Robert Caro offered a different perspective; he wrote that the Kennedy campaign was desperate to win what was forecast to be a very close election against Richard Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.. Johnson was needed on the ticket to help carry Texas and the Southern states. [A “Balanced Ticket of Northeastern Liberal Catholic Democrat and Protestant Sourthern Consservative Deomocrat]

It was Nov. 22, 1963; President John F. Kennedy had just been assassinated in Dallas. Lyndon Johnson, soon to become our next president, rushed to the emergency room of Parkland Memorial Hospital.

But then the emergency-room physician saw something that alarmed him.

“His face was ashen,” the doctor would later say of Johnson, “and he was holding his chest.”

The vice president (having had a previoius herat attack) was examined and had an electrocardiogram and heart enzyme tests. All were negative for a heart attack.

Johnson’s domestic policy was aimed to create programs that would expand civil rights, public broadcasting, Medicare, Medicaid, aid to education and the arts, urban and rural development, and public services. Johnson coined the term the “Great Society” in 1964 to describe these efforts. In addition, he sought to create better living conditions for low income Americans by spearheading a campaign unofficially called the “War on Poverty”; assisted by a strong economy, the effort helped millions of Americans rise above the poverty line during his administration.

Johnson followed his predecessor’s actions in bolstering the space program, and it was under his presidency that NASA’s efforts became a top national priority and the Apollo Program was expanded. He enacted the Higher Education Act of 1965 which established federally insured student loans. Johnson signed the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965 which laid the groundwork for U.S. immigration policy today. Johnson’s opinion on the issue of civil rights put him at odds with other white, southern Democrats. His civil rights legacy was shaped by signing the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Voting Rights Act of 1965, and the Civil Rights Act of 1968. During his presidency the American political landscape transformed significantly,[4] as white southerners who were Democratic stalwarts gradually moved to the Republican Party and African-Americans began moving towards the Democratic Party.

Because of his domestic agenda, Johnson’s presidency marked the peak of modern liberalism in the United States.

Johnson’s presidency took place in Cold War America and thus he prioritized halting the expansion of Marxist-Leninist governments. Prior to 1964, the U.S. already had a noticeable presence in Vietnam by providing weapons, training, and aid to South Vietnam in order to stem the communist movement in the region. In 1964, following a naval skirmish, Congress passed the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, which granted Johnson the power to launch a full military campaign in Southeast Asia, marking the escalation of American involvement in the Vietnam War. The number of American military personnel in Vietnam increased dramatically, and as the war progressed, American casualties soared along with deaths of Vietnamese civilians. In 1968, the Tet Offensive inflamed the anti-war movement and public opinion dramatically turned against the war. Many called an end to U.S. involvement, and opposition to the war surged among draft-age students on university campuses.

DEC. 12, 1972, the designer of the Great Society stood on the stage of his newly dedicated presidential library on the University of Texas campus. He was there for the Civil Rights Symposium, marking the opening of his White House files on civil rights.

Suddenly, he was gripped with an agonizing attack of chest pain. Recognizing it as angina, Johnson quietly reached for the nitroglycerin pills he carried and popped one under his tongue.

Johnson then proceeded to deliver his speech: “Whites stand on history’s mountain, and blacks stand in history’s hollow.” The challenge, he said, was to “get down to the business of trying to stand black and white on level ground.”

It appears to me that the Southern Protestants were aligned with English protestants and this was with the British WASPS, MKULTRA and the CIA in Texas Agriculture and wildcating. THe WASPS, likely tied to the Special Relationship with England and Ireland, Ulsters, saw the Vatican and Republic of Ireland a threat of NON USA foreign authority.

George Herbert Walker Bush was born in Milton, Massachusetts[2] on June 12, 1924. He was the second son of Prescott Bush and Dorothy (Walker) Bush.[3] His paternal grandfather, Samuel P. Bush, worked as an executive for a railroad parts company in Columbus, Ohio.

Bush spent most of his childhood in Greenwich, at the family vacation home in Kennebunkport, Maine,[b] or at his maternal grandparents' plantation in South Carolina.[9] Because of the family's wealth, Bush was largely unaffected by the Great Depression.[10] He attended Greenwich Country Day School from 1929 to 1937 and Phillips Academy, an elite private academy in Massachusetts, from 1937 to 1942.[11] While at Phillips Academy, he served as president of the senior class, secretary of the student council, president of the community fund-raising group, a member of the editorial board of the school newspaper, and captain of the varsity baseball and soccer teams.[12]

On his 18th birthday, immediately after graduating from Phillips Academy, he enlisted in the United States Navy as a naval aviator.[13] After a period of training, he was commissioned as an ensign in the Naval Reserve at Naval Air Station Corpus Christi on June 9, 1943, becoming one of the youngest aviators in the Navy.[14][c] Beginning in 1944, Bush served in the Pacific theater, where he flew a Grumman TBF Avenger, a torpedo bomber capable of taking off from aircraft carriers.[19] His squadron was assigned to the USS San Jacinto as a member of Air Group 51, where his lanky physique earned him the nickname "Skin".[20]

After graduating from Yale, Bush moved his young family to West Texas. Biographer Jon Meacham writes that Bush's relocation to Texas allowed him to move out of the "daily shadow of his Wall Street father and Grandfather Walker, two dominant figures in the financial world", but would still allow Bush to "call on their connections if he needed to raise capital."[39] His first position in Texas was an oil field equipment salesman[40] for Dresser Industries, which was led by family friend Neil Mallon.[41] While working for Dresser, Bush lived in various places with his family: Odessa, Texas; Ventura, Bakersfield and Compton, California; and Midland, Texas.[42] In 1952, he volunteered for the successful presidential campaign of Republican candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower. That same year, his father won election to represent Connecticut in the United States Senate as a member of the Republican Party.[43]

With support from Mallon and Bush's uncle, George Herbert Walker Jr., Bush and John Overbey launched the Bush-Overbey Oil Development Company in 1951

With support from Mallon and Bush's uncle, George Herbert Walker Jr., Bush and John Overbey launched the Bush-Overbey Oil Development Company in 1951.[44] In 1953 he co-founded the Zapata Petroleum Corporation, an oil company that drilled in the Permian Basin in Texas.[45] In 1954, he was named president of the Zapata Offshore Company, a subsidiary which specialized in offshore drilling.[46] Shortly after the subsidiary became independent in 1959, Bush moved the company and his family from Midland to Houston.[47] There, he befriended James Baker, a prominent attorney who later became an important political ally.[48] Bush remained involved with Zapata until the mid-1960s, when he sold his stock in the company for approximately $1 million.

In 1988, The Nation published an article alleging that Bush worked as an operative of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) during the 1960s; Bush denied this claim.[50]

The Democratic Party had historically dominated Texas, but Republicans scored their first major victory in the state with John G. Tower's victory in a 1961 special election to the United States Senate. Motivated by Tower's victory, and hoping to prevent the far-right John Birch Society from coming to power, Bush ran for the chairmanship of the Harris County Republican Party, winning election in February 1963.[51] Like most other Texas Republicans, Bush supported conservative Senator Barry Goldwater over the more centrist Nelson Rockefeller in the 1964 Republican Party presidential primaries.[52]

Elan School

Élan School retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Élan School was a private, coeducational, and controversial residential behavior modification program and therapeutic boarding school in Poland, Androscoggin County, Maine. It was a full member of the National Association of Therapeutic Schools and Programs (NATSAP). The facility was closed down in 2011 due to reports of abuse, many from former students,[1] dating back to its opening in 1970.

Ian was located on a 33-acre (13 ha) campus[2] that was formerly a hunting lodge.[3] There were also other campuses, such as the one on 424 Maplecrest Road in Parsonsfield, Maine, which was formerly a hotel and hospital before it was bought by Élan in 1975. This campus was known to have some of the worst abuse in the school's history, and has been said to have been put out of use sometime in the 1980s.[4]

The school acquired some notoriety during the 1990s and early 2000s when former classmates of Michael Skakel, who had attended Élan in the 1970s, testified against him in his trial for an unsolved murder that had occurred about two years before he enrolled at Élan.[5] The school was also the subject of persistent allegations of abuse in their behavioral modification program.

On March 23, 2011, Élan School announced it would close on APRIL 1, 2011.[7]

Élan was featured in Children of Darkness, a critically acclaimed documentary filmed in 1983 that explored the grueling realities of emotionally troubled youth and the various residences and institutions that housed them.

MICHAEL SKAKEL

Michael Christopher Skakel (born September 19, 1960) is the fifth of seven children, born to Rushton Walter Skakel and Anne Reynolds. Rushton's sister Ethel is the widow of U.S. Senator Robert F. Kennedy.[24] Skakel's grandfather George was the founder of Great Lakes Carbon Corporation, a coal company that was one of the largest and wealthiest privately held corporations in the United States.[25][26]

The Skakel family lived in the affluent neighborhood of Belle Haven in Greenwich, Connecticut. After his mother's death from brain cancer in 1973, Skakel began abusing alcohol

He was a poor student and reportedly flunked out of a dozen schools.[28]Skakel also struggled for years with Dyslexia, which went undiagnosed until he was aged 26. Skakel's cousin, Robert F. Kennedy, Jr., later wrote that he was a "small sensitive child - the runt of the litter with a harsh and occasionally violent alcoholic father who both ignored and abused him."

The McMartin Preschool (Manhattan Beach California, CIA research center)

In 1956, at age 49, Virginia McMartin opened her preschool in downtown Manhattan Beach, and it quickly became popular within the local community. Following reports of sexual abuse at the school, McMartin was arrested in March 1984 on child molestation charges - Google Knowledge Panel

McMartin preschool trial retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The McMartin preschool trial was a day care sexual abuse case in the 1980s, prosecuted by the Los Angeles District Attorney Ira Reiner. Members of the McMartin family, who operated a preschool in Manhattan Beach, California, were charged with hundreds of acts of sexual abuse of children in their care. Accusations were made in 1983, arrests and the pretrial investigation took place from 1984 to 1987, and trials ran from 1987 to 1990. The case lasted seven years but resulted in no convictions, and all charges were dropped in 1990. By the case's end, it had become the longest and most expensive in American history.[2][3] The case was part of day-care sex-abuse hysteria, a moral panic over alleged Satanic ritual abuse in the 1980s and early 1990s.

Monarch Programming is a method of mind control used by numerous organizations for covert purposes. It is a continuation of project MK-ULTRA, a mind-control program developed by the CIA, and tested on the military and civilians. The methods are astonishingly sadistic (its entire purpose is to traumatize the victim) and the expected results are horrifying: The creation of a mind-controlled slave who can be triggered at anytime to perform any action required by the handler. While mass media ignores this issue, over 2 million Americans have gone through the horrors of this program. This article looks at the origins of Monarch programming and some of its methods and symbolism.

- Hunger and thirst
- Sleep deprivation - sexual releif frustration
- Compression with weights and devices

- Sensory deprivation
- Drugs to create illusion, confusion, and amnesia, often given by injection or intravenously
- Ingestion or intravenous toxic chemicals to create pain or illness, including chemotherapy agents
- Limbs pulled or dislocated
- Application of snakes, spiders, maggots, rats, and other animals to induce fear and disgust
- Near-death experiences, commonly asphyxiation by choking or drowning, with immediate resuscitation
- Forced to perform or witness abuse, torture and sacrifice of people and animals, usually with knives
- Forced participation in slavery
- Abuse to become pregnant; the fetus is then aborted for ritual use, or the baby is taken for sacrifice or enslavement
- Spiritual abuse to cause victim to feel possessed, harassed, and controlled internally by spirits or demons
- Desecration of Judeo-Christian beliefs and forms of worship; dedication to Satan or other deities
- Abuse and illusion to convince victims that God is evil, such as convincing a child that God has abused her
- Surgery to torture, experiment, or cause the perception of physical or spiritual bombs or implants
- Harm or threats of harm to family, friends, loved ones, pets, and other victims, to force compliance
- Use of illusion and virtual reality to confuse and create non-credible disclosure

It is my beleif the Native Americans of Kamloops like the the Lakota Indians of Wounded Knee and the world dark skinned poplution of Black Hebrew Isrealites have all been invited to created a cultural record of being long lost King lines of DNA from what had been perceived in their culture as Great Gods.

This has happens in parallel with genomic plants of European DNA, twins studies, and the study of the desperately concealed FOXP2 gene tied to speech and language and I also believe Collete MacDonald, child of Green Berett Jeffery Macdonal had shown, was being expressed, as is the case in half of the children who cary the London FOXP2 KE family gene, really the Prince of York gene, King Edward's younger brother.

Triune brain

From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia *

The triune brain is a model of the evolution of the vertebrate forebrain and behavior, proposed by the American physician and neuroscientist Paul D. MacLean. MacLean originally formulated his model in the 1960s and propounded it at length in his 1990 book The Triune Brain in Evolution.

The triune brain consists of the reptilian complex, the paleomammalian complex (limbic system), and the neomammalian complex (neocortex), viewed each as independently conscious, and as structures sequentially added to the forebrain in the course of evolution. However, this hypothesis has been subject to criticism,[2] and is no longer espoused by the majority of comparative neuroscientists in the post-2000 era.

Black Hebrew Israelites

From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia *

Ben Ammi Ben-Israel established the African Hebrew Israelites of Jerusalem in Chicago, Illinois, in 1966, a time when black nationalism was on the rise as a response to the Civil Rights Movement. In 1969, after a sojourn in Liberia, Ben Ammi and about 30 Hebrew Israelites moved to Israel.[27] Over the next 20 years, nearly 600 more members left the United States for Israel. As of 2006, about 2,500 Hebrew Israelites live in Dimona and two other towns in the Negev region of Israel, where they are widely referred to as Black Hebrews.[57] In addition, there are African Hebrew Israelite communities in several major American cities, including Chicago, St. Louis, and Washington, D.C.

The Black Hebrews believe they are descended from members of the Tribe of Judah who were exiled from the Land of Israel after the Romans destroyed the Second Temple in 70 CE.[57][59] The group incorporates elements of African-American culture into their interpretation of the Bible.[58] They do not recognize rabbinical Jewish interpretations such as the Talmud.[57] The Black Hebrews observe Shabbat and biblically ordained Jewish holidays such as Yom Kippur and Passover.

Extremist Sects Within the Black Hebrew Israelite Movement retrieved from The Anti Defamation League and copied or modified to here

Followers, who are also referred to as “Black Hebrews” or “Hebrew Israelites,” believe that Blacks, Hispanics, and Native Americans are the descendants of the Twelve Tribes of Israel. It should be noted that not all BHI adherents include Native American populations in the Twelve Tribes, but they all agree that white people or conventionally accepted Jews are not members of the tribes. This is a departure from the mainstream understanding of the Twelve Tribes as a reference to Jacob’s twelve sons, who each represent a different genealogical thread of the Jewish population. Similarly, adherents of the white supremacist Christian Identity Movement also claim to be members of the “lost tribes” of Israel.

2018-2019. Ancient & Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Orient of Missouri

In the early 1950s in Colorado, the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry of the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States initiated a program to help children with speech and language disorders. The results obtained from this program led to the establishment of RiteCare Scottish Rite Childhood Language Program (SRCLP) clinics to provide diagnostic evaluation and treatment of speech and language disorders, as well as learning disabilities.

Today, there are SRCLP clinics, centers, and special programs operating or planned for children and therapists located throughout the United States. Each facility is staffed by speech-language pathologists or other trained personnel. Through the support of Scottish Rite members, these clinics, centers, and programs continue to increase. The value of this philanthropy has long been apparent. Tens of thousands of youngsters across the United States have been helped significantly. With the good work of dedicated clinicians and parents, the Scottish Rite has achieved successes that could only be imagined a few years back. Children who might have remained educationally behind for a lifetime can now talk, read, and lead productive lives.

The former Kamloops Indian Residential School..Credit... Andrew Snucins/The Canadian Press, via Associated Press

‘Horrible History’: Mass Grave of Indigenous Children Reported in Canada An Indigenous community says it has found evidence that 215 children were buried on the grounds of a British Columbia school, one of the many in Canada set up to forcibly assimilate them.

OTTAWA - For decades, most Indigenous children in Canada were taken from their families and forced into boarding schools. A large number never returned home, their families given only vague explanations, or none at all.

Now an Indigenous community in British Columbia says it has found evidence of what happened to some of its missing children: a mass grave containing the remains of 215 children on the grounds of a former residential school.

Chief Rosanne Casimir of the Tk’emlups te Secwepemc First Nation said on Friday that ground-penetrating radar had discovered the remains near the site of the Kamloops Indian Residential School, which operated from 1890 until the late 1970s.

“It’s a harsh reality and it’s our truth, it’s our history,” Chief Casimir said at a news conference. “And it’s something that we’ve always had to fight to prove. To me, it’s always been a horrible, horrible history.”

The remains, which Chief Casimir described as “many, many years old - decades,” included those of children as young as 3.

Starting in the 19th century, Canada was home to a system of residential schools, mostly operated by churches, that Indigenous children were forced to attend. The system went into decline during the 1970s, with the last school closing in 1996.

10 times the royal family visited the Okanagan and Kamloops https://infotel.ca/ Kelowna News Kathy Michaels NOVEMBER 17, 2019 - 12:00 PM

1919

There were two royal visits this year. The first was Sept. 30 and was from Edward, Prince of Wales (the future Edward VIII).

He stopped in Kelowna and gave a short address before continuing a tour of B.C.

Then on Oct. 9 the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, as part of a Canadian tour, arrived in Penticton on the Kettle Valley Railway and then travelled by boat on Okanagan Lake to Peachland, Kelowna, and then Vernon. Then they returned to Penticton to board the train home.

1958

This is the year Princess Margaret arrived for the opening of the first Okanagan Lake Floating Bridge in July. The bridge was a big change for the valley, which made it all the more worth a royal visit.

1959

Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh toured all provinces in Canada that year and while in B.C., stopped in Kamloops.

1971

This year offered a boom of royal visits when on May 6, Queen Elizabeth II, Prince Charles and Princess Anne landed in the valley. They first were in Penticton, then they drove up to Kelowna and stopped at City Park. Finally they moved on to Vernon for lunch.

1983

In March, Queen Elizabeth II landed at Kelowna Airport and headed off to Vernon for lunch. It was a very brief stopover and part of her American West Coast tour. Part of their tour took them to Kamloops, as well.

1986

Prince Charles and Princess Diana visited Kelowna May 3, 1986 on their way to Burnaby for Expo 86, There were 25,000 people at City Park for their appearance. The Prince and Princess of Wales also toured Vernon and Kamloops on their way to the coast.

1994

Prince Edward, the Earl of Wessex, made a stop at a private reception at Harvest golf course in South East Kelowna for supporters and sponsors of Duke of Edinburgh citizenship program.

2014

Prince Edward was back 20 years later, with Princess Sophie, Earl and Countess of Wessex, Sept. 16, 2014. Edward visited Cedarcreek Estate Winery, Sophie visited Mission Hill Winery, Edward met with firefighters, Sophie handed out “Duke of Edinburgh” awards.

2016

William and Kate, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge, arrived in Kelowna and were met with great fanfare Tuesday, Sept. 27. They visited UBCO for the unveiling of an Aboriginal art installation by Les Louis, then they watched a Volleyball demonstration. An estimated 5,000 people greeted them at the university. They then went on to visit Whitehorse and Carcross in the Yukon in following days
